PROLOGUE.

APTNESS for Mirth to all, this instant Night
Thalia hath prepar'd, for your Delight,
Her choice and curious Vnands, in each part
Season'd with rarities of Wit and Art ;
Nor fear I to be tax'd for a vain boast,
My Promise will find Credit with the most,
When they know ingenious Fletcher made it, he Being in himself a perfect Comedy :
And some sit here, I doubt not, dare aver
Living he made that House a Theatre
Which he pleas'd to frequent ; and thus much we Could not but pay to his loud Memory.
For our selves, we do entreat that you would not Expect strange turns and windings, in the Plot,
Objects of State, and now and then a Rhime,
To gall particular Persons with the time ;
Or that his towering Muse hath made her flight
Nearer your Apprehension than your Sight ;
But if that sweet Expressions, quick Conceit,
Familiar Language, fashion'd to the weight
Of such as speak it, have the power to raise
Your Grace to us, with Trophies to his Praise ;
We may profess, presuming on his Skill,
If's Chances please not you, our Fortune's ill.

THE CHANCES.

ACT I. SCENE I.

Enter Peter and Anthony.

PETER.

WOULD w'were remov'd from this Town,
Anthony, [own part,
That we might taste some quiet; for mine
I'm almost melted with continual trotting
After Enquiries, Dreams, and Revelations,

Of who knows whom, or where: serve Wenching Soldiers,
That know no other Paradise but Plackets?
I'll serve a Priest in Lent first, and eat Bell-ropes.

Ant. Thou art the froward'st Fool ———

Pet. Why, good tame Anthony?

Tell me but this; to what end came we hither?

Ant. To wait upon our Masters.

Pet. But how, Anthony?

Answer me that; resolve me there, good Anthony?

Ant. To serve their uses.

Pet. Shew your uses, Anthony:

Ant. To be employ'd in any thing.

Pet. No, Anthony,

Not any thing I take it; nor that thing

We travel to discover, like new Islands ;
 A salt itch serve such uses ; in things of moment
 Concerning things, I grant ye, not things errant,
 Sweet Ladies things, and things to thank the Surgeon ;
 In no such things, sweet Anthony, put case —

Ant. Come, come, all will be mended ; this invisible
 Of infinite report for Shape and Virtue, [Woman
 That bred us all this trouble to no purpose,
 They are determin'd now no more to think on,
 But fall close to their Studies.

Pet. Was there ever
 Men known to run mad with Report before ?
 Or wander after that they know not where
 To find ? or if found, how to enjoy ? are Mens Brains
 Made now-a-days of Malt, that their Affections
 Are never sober ? But like drunken People
 Founder at every new Fame ? I do believe too
 That Men in Love are ever drunk, as drunken Men
 Are ever loving.

Ant. Prithee be thou sober,
 And know, that they are none of those, not guilty
 Of the least vanity of Love, only a doubt
 Fame might too far report, or rather flatter
 The Graces of this Woman, made them curious
 To find the truth, which since they find so block'd
 And lock'd up from their searches, they're now settled
 To give the wonder over.

Pet. Would they were settled
 To give me some new Shoes too : For I'll be sworn
 These are e'en worn out to th' reasonable Soles
 In their good Worships business ; and some sleep
 Would not do much amiss, unless they mean
 To make a Bell-man on me ; and what now
 Mean they to study, Anthony, moral Philosophy
 After their mar-all Women ?

Ant. Mar a Fool's Head.

Pet. It will mar two Fools Heads and they take not heed,
 Besides the Giblets to 'em.

Ant. Will you walk, Sir,
 And talk more out of hearing ? Your Fool's Head

May

The Chances

May chance to find a wooden Night-cap else.

Pet. I never lay in any.

Enter Don John, and Frederick.

Ant. Then leave your lying,
And your blind prophesying : Here they come,
You'd best tell them as much.

Pet. I am no Tell-tale.

[Exeunt.

John. I would we could have seen her though ; for sure
She must be some rare Creature; or Report lies :
All Mens Reports too.

Fred. I could well wish I'd seen her ;
But since she's so conceal'd, so beyond venture
Kept and preserv'd from view, so like a Paradise,
Plac'd where no Knowledge can come near her ; so guarded,
As 'twere impossible, though known, to reach her,
I've made up my belief.

John. Hang me from this hour
If I more think upon her, or believe her,
But as she came a strong Report unto me,
So the next Fame shall lose her.

Fred. 'Tis the next way ;
But whither are you walking ?

John. My old Round
After my Meat, and then to Bed.

Fred. 'Tis healthful.

John. Will not you stir ?

Fred. I have a little business.

John. Upon my Life this Lady still —

Fred. Then you will lose it.

John. 'Pray let's walk together.

Fred. Now I cannot.

John. I have something to impart.

Fred. An hour hence
I will not miss to meet you.

John. Where ?

Fred. I'th' high Street ;
For not to lie, I have a few Devotions
To do first, then I'm yours.

John. Remember.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter Petruchio, Antonio, and two Gentlemen.

Ant. Cut his Wind-pipe, I say.

1 Gent. Fye, Antonio.

Ant. Or knock his Brains out first, and then forgive him :
If you do thrust, be sure it be to th' hilts,
A Surgeon may see through him.

1 Gent. You are too violent.

2 Gent. Too open indiscreet.

Petr. Am I not ruin'd?

The honour of my House crack'd? my Blood poison'd?
My Credit and my Name?

2 Gent. Be sure it be so,

Before ye use this violence: Let not doubt,
And a suspecting anger so much sway ye,
Your Wisdom may be question'd.

Ant. I say kill him,

And then dispute the cause; cut off what may be,
And what is shall be safe.

2 Gent. Hang up a true Man,
Because 'tis possible he may be thievish!
Alas, is this good Justice?

Petr. I know as certain

As day must come again, as clear as truth,
And open as belief can lay it to me,
That I am basely wrong'd, wrong'd above Recompence;
Maliciously abus'd, blasted for ever
In Name and Honour, lost to all remembrance,
But what is smear'd, and shameful; I must kill him;
Necessity compels me.

1 Gent. But think better.

Petr. There is no other cure left; yet witness with me,
All that is fair in Man, all that is noble,
I am not greedy of this Life I seek for,
Nor thirst to shed Man's Blood, and would 'twere possible,
I wish it with my Soul, so much I tremble
T' offend the Sacred Image of my Maker,
My Sword could only kill his Crimes; no, 'tis Honour,
Honour, my noble Friends, that Idol, Honour,

That

The Chances.

That all the World now worships, not Petruchio, Must do this Justice.

Ant. Let it once be done,
And 'tis no matter; whether you, or Honour,
Or both, be accessary.

2 Gent. Do you weigh, Petruchio,
The Value of the Person, Power and Greatness,
And what this Spark may kindle?

Petr. To perform it,
So much I'm ty'd to Reputation,
And Credit of my House, let it raise Wild-fires,
That all this Dukedom smoak, and Storms that toss me
Into the Waves of everlasting Ruin,
Yet I must through — If ye dare side me —

Ant. Dare?

Petr. Y'are Friends indeed, if not.

2 Gent. Here's none flies from you,
Do it in what design ye please, we'll back ye.

(1) Petr. But then be sure ye kill him.

1 Gent. Is the Cause
So mortal, nothing but his Life?

Petr. Believe me,
A less Offence has been the Desolation
Of a whole Name.!

2 Gent. No other way to purge it?

Petr. There is, but never to be hop'd for.

2 Gent. Think an Hour more:
If then ye find no safer Road to guide ye,
We'll set up our Rests too.

Ant. Mine's up already,
And hang him for my part goes less than Life.

2 Gent. If we see noble Cause, 'tis like our Swords
May be as free and forward as your Words. [Exeunt:

(1) 1 Gent. But then be sure ye kill him.] As both the Gentlemen seem to endeavour to moderate Petruchio's Passion in every thing they say beside, it seems evident that nothing but mistake has put this Speech of Violence into one of their Mouths. It surely belongs to Petruchio, and the next Speech which was given to the Second Gentleman, may be more properly given to the First.

S C E N E III.

Enter Don John.

John. The civil Order of this Town Bologna,
 Makes it belov'd and honour'd of all Travellers,
 As a most safe Retirement in all Troubles ;
 Beside the wholesome Seat, and noble Temper
 Of those Minds that inhabit it, safely wise,
 And to all Strangers virtuous : But I see
 My Admiration has drawn Night upon me,
 And longer to expect my Friend may pull me
 Into Suspicion of too late a Stirrer,
 Which all good Governments are jealous of.
 I'll home, and think at liberty ; yet certain,
 'Tis not so far Night as I thought ; for see,
 A fair House yet stands open, yet all about it
 Are close, and no Lights stirring, there may be foul Play ;
 I'll venture to look in ; if there be Knaves,
 I may do a good Office. [Woman within.]

Within. Signieur ?John. What ? How is this ?Within. Signieur Fabritio ?John. I'll go nearer.Within. Fabritio ?John. This is a Woman's Tongue, here may be good done.Within. Who's there ?Fabritio ?John. Ay.Within. Where are ye ?John. Here.Within. O come, for Heav'n's sake !John. I must see what this means.Enter Woman with a Child.

Woman. I have staid this long Hour for you, make no noise,
 For things are in strange Trouble : Here, be secret,
 'Tis worth your Care ; begone now ; more Eyes watch us,
 Than

The Chances.

[11]

Than may be for our Safeties.

John. Hark ye?

Woman. Peace : Good night.

John. She's gone, and I am loaden ; Fortune for me ;
It weighs well, and it feels well ; it may chance
To be some Pack of Worth : by th' Mafs 'tis heavy ;
If it be Coin or Jewels, 'tis worth welcome :
I'll ne'er refuse a Fortune : I am confident
'Tis of no common Price : Now to my Lodging :
If it hit right, I'll bless this Night.

[Exit.

S C E N E IV.

Enter Frederick.

Fred. 'Tis strange,
I cannot meet him ; sure he has encountred
Some Light-o'-love or other, and there means
To play at in and in for this Night. Well, Don John,
If you do spring a Leak, or get an Itch,
Till ye claw off your curl'd Pate, thank your Night-walks ;
You must be still a boot-halling : One round more,
Though it be late, I'll venture, to discover ye, }
I do not like your Out-leaps.

[Exit.

S C E N E V.

Enter Duke, and three Gentlemen.

Duke. Welcome to Town, are ye all fit ?

1 Gent. To point, Sir.

Duke. Where are the Horses ?

2 Gent. Where they were appointed.

Duke. Be private all, and whatsoever Fortune
Offer itself, let's stand sure.

3 Gent. Fear not us,
Ere ye shall be endanger'd, or deluded,
We'll make a black Night on't.

Duke. No more ; I know it ;
You know your Quarters ?

1 Gent.

1 Gent. Will you go alone, Sir?

Duke. Ye shall not be far from me, the least Noise
Shall bring ye to my rescue.

2 Gent. We are counsell'd.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E VI.

Enter Don John.

John. Was ever Man so paid for being curious?
Ever so bobb'd for searching out Adventures,
As I am? did the Devil lead me? must I needs be peeping
Into Mens Houses where I had no Business,
And make myself a Mischief? 'Tis well carried;
I must take other Mens Occasions on me,
And be I know not whom: Most finely handled:
What have I got by this now! What's the Purchase
A Piece of Evening Arras-work, a Child,
Indeed an Infidel: This comes of peeping:
A Lump got out of laziness; good white Bread,
Let's have no bawling with ye; 'sdeath, have I
Known Wenches thus long, all the ways of Wenches,
Their Snares and Subtilties? Have I read over
All their School Learning, div'd into their Quiddits,
And am I now bum-fidled with a Bastard?
Fetch'd over with a Card of five, and in mine old Days,
After the dire Massacre of a Million
Of Maiden-heads? Caught the common way, i'th'
Night too
Under another's Name, to make the matter
Carry more weight about it? Well, Don John;
You will be wiser one Day, when ye've purchas'd
A beavy of these Butter-prints together,
With searching out conceal'd Iniquities,
Without Commission: Why, it would ne'er grieve me,
If I had got this Ginger-bread; ne'er stirr'd me,
So I had had a stroak for't; 't had been Justice
Then to have kept it; but to raise a Dairy

For

For other Mens Adulteries, (2) consume myself in Caudles,
And scowring Works, in Nurses, Bells, and Babies,
Only for Charity, for meer I thank you,
A little troubles me: The least touch for it,
Had but my Breeches got it, had contented me.
Whose e'er it is, sure 't had a wealthy Mother,
For 'tis well cloath'd, and if I be not cozen'd,
Well lin'd within: To leave it here were barbarous,
And ten to one would kill it; a more Sin
Than his that got it: Well, I will dispose on't,
And keep it, as they keep Death's Heads in Rings,
To cry memento to me; no more peeping.
Now all the Danger is to qualifie
The good old Gentlewoman, at whose House we live,
For she will fall upon me with a Catechism
Of four Hours long: I must endure all;
For I will know this Mother: Come, good Wonder,
Let you and I be jogging; your starv'd Trebble
Will waken the rude Watch else: All that be Curious Night-walkers, may they find my Fee. [Exit.

Enter Frederick.

Fred. Sure he's gone home:
I've beaten all the Purlaws,
But cannot bolt him: If he be a bobbing,
'Tis not my Care can cure him: To Morrow Morning
I shall have further knowledge from a Surgeon's
Where he lies moor'd, to mend his Leaks.

(2) ——— consume myself in Candles,
And scowring Works, in Nurses, Bells, and Babies,] Mr. Symphon for Candles would read Caudles, and for Babies, Baubles. The first seems probable, as John had before declar'd the Child an Infidel, and he must of course have a Christening; the latter I don't admit. Bells and Babies express the Childrens Toys better than Baubles; for Bells are equally Baubles, as well as Babies or Dolls, and consequently that Reading would give a Tautology.

Enter

The Chances.Enter Constantia.

Con. I'm ready,
 And through a World of Dangers am flown to ye.
 Be full of haste and care, we are undone else :
 Where are your People? Which way must we travel?
 For Heav'n sake stay not here, Sir.

Fred. What may this prove?

Con. Alas I am mistaken, lost, undone,
 For ever perish'd. Sir, for Heav'n sake tell me,
 Are ye a Gentleman?

Fred. I am.

Con. Of this Place?

Fred. No, born in Spain.

Con. As ever you lov'd Honour,
 As ever your Desires may gain their ends,
 Do a poor wretched Woman but this Benefit,
 For I am forc'd to trust ye.

Fred. You've charm'd me,
 Humanity and Honour bids me help ye ;
 And if I fail your Trust——

Con. The Time's too dangerous
 To stay your Protestations : I believe ye,
 Alas, I must believe ye : From this Place,
 Good noble Sir, remove me instantly,
 And for a time, where nothing but yourself,
 And honest Conversation may come near me,
 In some secure Place settle me : What I am,
 And why thus boldly I commit my Credit
 Into a Stranger's Hand, the Fears and Dangers,
 That force me to this wild Course, at more leisure
 I shall reveal unto you.

Fred. Come, be hearty,
 He must strike through my Life that takes ye from me.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Petruchio, Antonio, and two Gentlemen.

Petr. He will sure come. Are ye well arm'd ?

Ant. Ne'er fear us :

Here's that will make 'em dance without a Fiddle.

Petr. We are to look for no weak Foes, my Friends,
Nor unadvised ones.

Ant. Best Gamesters make the best Game,
We shall fight close and handfom then.

1 Gent. Antonio,

You are a thought too bloody.

Ant. Why ? All Physicians
And penny Almanacks allow the opening
Of Veins this Month : Why do ye talk of bloody ?
What come we for, to fall to Cuffs for Apples ?
What, would ye make the Cause a Cudgel-quarrel ?
On what Terms stands this Man ? Is not his Honour
Open'd t' his Hand, and pick'd out like an Oyster ?
His Credit like a Quart Pot knockt together,
Able to hold no Liquor ? Clear but this Point.

Petr. Speak softly, gentle Cousin.

Ant. I'll speak truly ;

What should Men do ally'd to these Disgraces,
Lick o'er his Enemy, sit down, and dance him ?

2 Gent. You are as far o'th' bow Hand now.

Ant. And cry :

That's my fine Boy, thou wilt do so no more, Child.

Petr. Here are no such cold Pities.

Ant. By Saint Jaques,

They shall not find me one : Here's old tough Andrew,
A special Friend of mine, and he but hold,
I'll strike 'em such a Hornpipe : Knocks I come for,
And the best Blood I light on ; I profess it,
Not to scare Coster-mongers ; if I lose mine own,
Mine Audit's cast, and farewell five and fifty.

Petr. Let's talk no longer, place yourselves with silence,
As I directed ye, and when time calls us,

As

As ye are Friends, so shew yourselves.

Ant. So be it.

[Exeunt,

S C E N E IX.

Enter Don John, and his Landlady.

Land. Nay, Son, if this be your regard.

John. Good Mother.

Land. Good me no goods; your Cousin, and yourself
Are welcome to me, whilst you bear yourselves
Like honest and true Gentlemen: Bring hither
To my House, that have ever been reputed
A Gentlewoman of a decent, and fair carriage,
And so behav'd myself—

John. I know ye have.

Land. Bring hither, as I say, to make my Name
Stink in my Neighbour's Nostrils? Your Devices,
Your Brats, got out of Allicant, and broken Oaths?
Your Linsy Woolfy Work, your hasty Puddings?
I foster up your filch'd Iniquities?
You are deceiv'd in me, Sir, I am none
Of those Receivers.

John. Have I not sworn unto you,
'Tis none of mine, and shew'd you how I found it?

Land. Ye found an easie Fool that let you get it,
She'd better have worn Pasterns.

John. Will ye hear me?

Land. Oaths? What do you care for Oaths to gain your ends,
When ye are high and pamper'd? What Saint know ye?
Or what Religion, but your purpos'd Lewdness,
Is to be look'd for of ye? Nay, I will tell ye,
You will then swear like accus'd Cut-purses,
As far off Truth too; and lye beyond all Faulconers:
I'm sick to see this dealing.

John. Heav'n forbid, Mother.

Land. Nay, I am very sick.

John. Who waits there?

Ant. Sir.

[Within.

John.

John. Bring down the Bottle of Canary Wine.

Land. Exceeding sick, Heav'n help me.

John. Haste ye, Sirrah,
I must ev'n make her drunk ; nay, gentle Mother.

Land. Now fie upon ye, was it for this Purpose
You fetch'd your Evening-walks for your Digestions,
For this pretended Holiness ? No Weather,
Not before Day could hold ye from the Matins.
Were these your bo-peep Prayers ? you've pray'd well,
And with a learned Zeal : Watch'd well too ; your Saint
It seems was pleas'd as well : Still sicker, sicker.

Enter Anthony with a Bottle of Wine.

John. There is no talking to her 'till I have drencht her.
Give me ; here, Mother, take a good round Draught,
'Twill purge Spleen from your Spirits : Deeper, Mother.

Land. Ay, ay, Son, you imagine this will mend all.

John. All, i' faith, Mother.

Land. I confes the Wine
Will do his Part.

John. I'll pledge ye.

Land. But Son John.

John. I know your meaning, Mother ; touch it once more,

Alas you look not well ; take a round Draught,
It warms the Blood well, and restores the Colour,
And then we'll talk at large.

Land. A civil Gentleman ?
A Stranger ? One the Town holds a good regard of ?

John. Nay, I will silence thee.

Land. One that should weigh his fair Name ? Oh, a Stitch !

John. There's nothing better for a Stitch, good Mother,
Make no spare of it, as you love your Health,
Mince not the matter.

Land. As I said, a Gentleman,
Lodge in my House ? Now Heav'n's my Comfort, Signior !

John. I look'd for this.

Land. I did not think you would have us'd me thus ;
A Woman of my Credit ; one, Heav'n knows,
That lov'd you but too tenderly.

John. Dear Mother,
I ever found your Kindness, and acknowledge it.

Land. No, no, I am a Fool to counsel ye.
Where is the Infant ? Come, let's see your Workmanship.

John. None of mine, Mother, but there 'tis, and a lusty one.

Land. Heav'n blefs thee,
Thou hadst a hasty making ; but the best is,
'Tis many a good Man's Fortune : As I live
Your own Eyes, Signior, and the nether Lip
As like ye, as y' had spit it.

John. I am glad on't.

Land. Blefs me, what things are these ?

John. I thought my labour
Was not all lost, 'tis Gold, and these are Jewels,
Both rich, and right I hope.

Land. Well, well, Son John,
I see ye are a Wood-man, and can chuse
Your Deer, though it be i'th' dark, all your Discretion
Is not yet lost ; this was well clapt aboard :
Here I am with you now ; when as they fay
Your pleasure comes with profit ; when ye must needs do,
Do where ye may be done to, 'tis a Wisdom
Becomes a young Man well : Be sure of one thing,
Lose not your labour and your time together,
Is Seasons of a Fool, Son, Time is precious,
Work wary whilst ye have it ; since ye must traffick
Sometimes this slippery way, take sure hold, Signior,
Trade with no broken Merchants, make your Lading,
As you would make your Rest, adventurously,
But with Advantage ever.

John. All this time, Mother,
The Child wants looking to, wants Meat and Nurfes,

Land. Now blessing o' thy care ; it shall have all,
And instantly ; I'll seek a Nurse myself, Son ;
'Tis a sweet Child : Ah my young Spaniard,
Take you no further care, Sir.

John. Yes, of these Jewels,

I must by your leave, Mother : These are yours,
To make your care the stronger ; for the rest
I'll find a Master ; the Gold for bringing up on't,
I freely render to your Charge.

Land. No more Words,
Nor no more Children, (good Son) as you love me,
This may do well.

John. I shall observe your Morals.
But where's Don Frederick, Mother?

Land. Ten to one
About the like Adventure ; he told me,
He was to find you out. [Exit.

John. Why should he stay thus ?
There may be some ill chance in't : Sleep I will not,
Before I've found him : Now this Woman's pleas'd,
I'll seek my Friend out, and my Care is eas'd. [Exit.

Enter Duke, and Gentlemen.

1 Gent. Believe, Sir, 'tis as possible to do it,
As to remove the City ; the main Faction [gers
Swarm through the Streets like Hornets, arm'd with An-
Able to ruin States : No safety left us,
Nor means to die like Men, if instantly
You draw not back again.

Duke. May he be drawn
And quarter'd too, that turns now ; were I surer
Of Death than thou art of thy Fears, and with Death
More than those Fears are too.

1 Gent. Sir, I fear not.

Duke. I would not crack my Vow, start from my Honour,
Because I may find Danger ; wound my Soul,
To keep my Body safe. 1 Gent. I speak not, Sir,
Out of a baseness to you. Duke. No, nor do not
Out of a baseness leave me : What is Danger,
More than the Weakness of our Apprehensions ?
A poor cold Part o'th' Blood ? Who takes it hold of?

Cowards, and wicked Livers : Valiant Minds
 Were made the Masters of it ; and as hearty Sea-men
 In desperate Storms, stem with a little Rudder
 The tumbling Ruins of the Ocean ;
 So with their Cause and Swords do they do Dangers.
 Say we were sure to die all in this Venture,
 As I am confident against it ; is there any Amongst us of so fat a Sense, so pamper'd,
 Would chuse luxuriously to lie a-Bed,
 And purge away his Spirit, send his Soul out
 In Sugar-sops, and Syrups? Give me dying
 As dying ought to be, upon mine Enemy,
 Parting with Mankind, by a Man that's manly :
 Let 'em be all the World, and bring along Cain's Envy with 'em, I will on.

2 Gent. You may, Sir,
 But with what safety?

1 Gent. Since 'tis come to dying,
 You shall perceive, Sir, here be those amongst us
 Can die as decently as other Men,
 And with as little Ceremony : On, brave Sir.

Duke. That's spoken heartily.

1 Gent. And he that flinches,
 May he die lousy in a Ditch,

Duke. No more dying,
 There's no such Danger in it : What's a Clock ?

3 Gent. Somewhat above your Hour.

Duke. Away then quickly,
 Make no noise, and no trouble will attend us. [Exeunt..

S C E N E XI.

Enter Frederick, and Peter (with a Candle.)

Fred. Give me the Candle ; so, go you out that way.

Pet. What have we now to do ?

Fred. And o' your Life, Sirrah,
 Let none come near the Door without my Knowledge,
 No not my Landlady, nor my Friend. Pet. 'Tis done, Sir.

Fred. Nor any serious Business that concerns me.

Pet.

Pet. Is the Wind there again?

Fred. Be gone. Pet. I am, Sir.

[Exit.

Enter Constantia.

Fred. Now enter without Fear.— And, noble Lady,
That Safety and Civility ye wish'd for Shall truly here attend you: No rude Tongue
Nor rough Behaviour knows this Place, no Wishes
Beyond the Moderation of a Man,
Dare enter here; your own Desires and Innocence,
Join'd to my vow'd Obedience, shall protect you,
Were Dangers more than Doubts.

Con. Ye're truly noble,
And worth a Woman's trust: Let it become me,
(I do beseech you, Sir) for all your kindness,
To render with my Thanks, this worthless Trifle;
I may be longer troublesome. Fred. Fair Offices
Are still their own Rewards: Heav'n bless me, Lady,
From selling civil Courtesies: May it please ye,
If ye will force a Favour to oblige me,
Draw but that Cloud aside, to satisfy me
For what good Angel I'm engag'd.

Con. It shall be,
For I am truly confident ye're honest:
The Piece is scarce worth looking on.

Fred. Trust me
The Abstract of all Beauty, Soul of Sweetness!
Defend me honest Thoughts, I shall grow wild else:
What Eyes are there, rather what little Heav'ns,
To stir Mens Contemplations? What a Paradise [rate:
Runs through each Part she has? Good Blood be temper-
I must look off; too excellent an Object
Confounds the Sense that sees it. Noble Lady,
If there be any further Service to cast on me,
Let it be worth my Life, so much I honour ye,
Or the Engagement of whole Families.

Con. Your Service is too liberal, worthy Sir,
Thus far I shall entreat—

Fred. Command me, Lady,
You make your Power too poor.

Con. 'That presently
With all convenient haste, you would retire
Unto the Street you found me in.

Fred. 'Tis done.

Con. There, if you find a Gentleman oppress'd
With Force and Violence, do a Man's Office,
And draw your Sword to rescue him.

Fred. He's safe,
Be what he will, and let his Foes be Devils,
Arm'd with your Pity, I shall conjure 'em.
Retire, this Key will guide ye: All things necessary
Are there before ye,

Con. All my Prayers go with ye. [Exit.

Fred. Ye clap on Proof upon me: Men say Gold
Does all, engages all, works through all Dangers:
Now I say Beauty can do more: The King's Exchequer,
Nor all his wealthy Indies, could not draw me
Through half those Miseries this Piece of Pleasure
Might make me leap into: We're all like Sea-Cards,
All our Endeavours and our Motions,
(As they do to the North) still point at Beauty,
Still at the fairest: For a handsom Woman,
(Setting my Soul aside) it should go hard,
But I would strain my Body: Yet to her,
Unless it be her own free Gratitude,
Hopes, ye shall die, and thou Tongue rot within me,
E'er I infringe my Faith: Now to my Rescue. [Exit.

A C T II. S C E N E I.

Enter Duke, pursued by Petruchio, Antonio, and that Faction.

Duke. YOU will not all oppress me?

Ant. Kill him i'th' wanton Eye: Let me come to him.

Duke. Then ye shall buy me dearly.

Petr. Say you so, Sir?

Ant.

Ant. I say cut his Wezand, spoil his Piping :
Have at your Love-sick Heart, Sir.

Enter Don John.

John. Sure 'tis fighting:
My Friend may be engag'd : fie Gentlemen,
This is unmanly Odds.

Ant. I'll stop your Mouth, Sir.

[Duke falls down, Don John bestrides him.]

John. Nay, then have at thee freely :
There's a Plumb, Sir, to satisfy your Longing.

Petr. Away : I hope I've sped him : Here] comes Rescue,

We shall b' endanger'd : Where's Antonio ?

Ant. I must have one Thrust more, Sir.

John. Come up to me.

Ant. A Mischief confound your Fingers.

Petr. How is't ?

Ant. Well :

Ha's given me my quietus est. I felt him
In my small Guts, I'm sure h'as feez'd me :
This comes of fiding with ye.

2 Gent. Can you go, Sir !

Ant. I should go Man, and my Head were off.
Ne'er talk of going.

Petr. Come, all shall be well then,
I hear more Rescue coming.

Enter the Duke's Faction.

Ant. Let's turn back then,
My Skull's uncloven yet, let me but kill.

Petr. Away for Heav'n sake with him.

John. How is't ?

Duke. Well Sir,

Only a little stagger'd.

Faction Duke. Let's pursue 'em.

Duke. No not a Man, I charge ye : Thanks good Coat,
Thou'ft fav'd me a shrewd Welcome : 'Twas put home too,
With a good Mind I'm sure on't.

John. Are ye safe then ?

Duke. My Thanks to you brave Sir, whose timely Valour,
And manly Courtesy came to my Rescue.

John. Y'ad foul Play offer'd ye, and Shame befall him
That can pass by Oppression,

Duke. May I crave, Sir,
But thus much Honour more, to know your Name?
And him I am bound to?

John. For the Bond, Sir,
'Tis every good Man's Tie: To know me further
Will little profit ye; I am a Stranger,
My Country Spain; my Name Don John, a Gentleman
That lie here for my Study.

Duke. I have heard, Sir,
Much worthy mention of ye; yet I find
Fame short of what ye are.

John. You are pleas'd, Sir,
To express your Courtesy: May I demand
As freely what you are, and what Mischance
Cast you into this Danger?

Duke. For this present
I must desire your Pardon: You shall know me
E'er it be long, Sir, and a nobler Thanks
Than now my Will can render.

John. Your Will's your own, Sir.

Duke. What is't you look for, Sir? have you lost any thing?

John. Only my Hat i'th' Scuffle; sure these Fellows
Were Night-snaps.

Duke. No, believe Sir: Pray ye use mine,
For 'twill be hard to find your own now.

John. No, Sir.

Duke. Indeed ye shall, I can command another:
I do beseech ye honour me.

John. I will, Sir,
And so I'll take my Leave.

Duke. Within these few Days
I hope I shall be happy in your Knowledge,
Till when I love your Memory. [Exit Duke, &c.]

John. I yours.
This is some noble Fellow,

Enter

Enter Frederick.

Fred. 'Tis his Tongue sure.

Don John?

John. Don Frederick?

Fred. Y'are fairly met, Sir :

I thought ye had been a Bat-fowling ; Prithee tell me,
What Revelations hast thou had to Night,
That Home was never thought of ?

John. Revelations ?

I'll tell thee Frederick, but before I tell thee, Settle thy Understanding.

Fred. 'Tis prepar'd, Sir.

John. Why then mark what shall follow. This Night,
Frederick,

This bawdy Night —

Fred. I thought no less.

John. This blind Night,
What dost think I've got ?

Fred. The Pox, it may be.

John. Would 'twere no worse : Ye talk of Revelations,
I have got a Revelation will reveal me
An arrant Coxcomb while I live.

Fred. What is't ?

Thou hast lost nothing ?

John. No, I have got, I tell thee.

Fred. What hast thou got ?

John. One of the Infantry, a Child.

Fred. How ?

John. A chopping Child, Man.

Fred. 'Give ye Joy, Sir.

John. A Lump of Lewdness Frederick, that's the Truth on't :

This Town's abominable.

Fred. I still told ye, John,

Your whoring must come home ; I counsell'd ye :
But where no Grace is —

John. 'Tis none o' mine, Man.

Fred. Answer the Parish so.

John. Cheated in troth :

Peeping

Peeping into a House, by whom I know not,
Nor where to find the Place again: no, Frederick,
Had I but kist the Ring for't; 'tis no poor one,
That's my best Comfort, for't has brought about it
Enough to make it -Man.

Fred. Where is't?

John. At home.

Fred. A saving Voyage: But what will you say Signior,
To him that searching out your serious Worship,
Has met a stranger Fortune?

John. How, good Frederick?
A militant Girl now to this Boy would hit it?

Fred. No, mine's a nobler Venture: What do you think, Sir,

Of a distressed Lady, one whose Beauty
Would over-sell all Italy?

John. Where is she——

Fred. A Woman of that rare Behaviour,
So qualified, as Admiration
Dwells round about her: Of that perfect Spirit——

John. Ay marry, Sir.

Fred. That admirable Carriage,
That Sweetness in Discourse; young as the Morning,
Her Blushes staining his.

John. But where's this Creature?
Shew me but that.

Fred. That's all one, she's forth-coming,
I have her sure, Boy.

John. Hark ye Frederick,
What truck betwixt my Infant?

Fred. 'Tis too light, Sir,

(3) Stick to your Charge, good Don John, I am well.

John. But is there such a Wench?

Fred. First tell me this,
Did ye not lately as ye walk'd along,

(3) Stick to your Chages——] The Mistake of the last Edition.
Mr. Sympson and I both read Charge, but I find Charges in the old Folio. It may be a Doubt whether we should read as we do, or thus;

Stick to our Charges, good Don John, I'm well.

Discover People that were arm'd, and likely To do Offence?

John. Yes marry, and they urg'd it
As far as they had Spirit.

Fred. Pray go forward.

John. A Gentleman I found ingag'd amongst 'em,
It seems of noble-Breeding, I'm sure brave Metal,
As I return'd to look you, I fet in to him,
And without hurt (I thank Heav'n) rescued him,
And came myself off safe too.

Fred. My Work's done then:
And now to satisfy you, there is a Woman,
Oh John, there is a Woman——

John. Oh, where is she?

Fred. And one of no less Worth than I assure ye;
And which is more, fallen under my Protection.

John. I am glad of that: forward, sweet Frederick.

Fred. And which is more than that, by this Night's Wandering,
And which is most of all, she is at home too, Sir.

John. Come, let's be gone then.

Fred. Yes, but 'tis most certain,
You cannot see her, John.

John. Why?

Fred. She has sworn me
That none else shall come near her: Not my Mother,
'Till some few doubts are clear'd.

John. Not look upon her? What Chamber is she in?

Fred. In ours.

John. Let's go, I say:
A Woman's Oaths are Wafers, break with making,
They must for Modesty a little: We all know it.

Fred. No, I'll assure you, Sir.

John. Not see her?

I smell an old dog trick of yours; well, Frederick,
Ye talk'd to me of whoring, let's have fair play,
Square dealing, I would wish ye.

Fred. When 'tis come
(Which I know never will be) to that Issue,
Your Spoon shall be as deep as mine, Sir.

John.

John. Tell me,
And tell me true, is the Cause honourable,
Or for your ease?

Fred. By all our Friendship, John,
'Tis honest, and of great end.

John. I am answer'd:
But let me see her though; leave the Door open
As ye go in.

Fred. I dare not:

John. Not wide open,
But just so, as a jealous Husband
Would level at his wanton Wife through.

Fred. That Courtesie,
If ye desire no more, and keep it strictly,
I dare afford ye: Come, 'tis now near Morning. [Exit.

S C E N E II.

Enter Peter, and Anthony.

Pet. Nay the old Woman's gone too.

Ant. She's a Catterwauling
Among the Gutters: But conceive me, Peter,
Where our good Masters should be?

Pet. Where they should be
I do conceive, but where they are, good Anthony——

Ant. Ay, there it goes: My Masters bo-peeps with me,
With his sly popping in and out again,
Argued a Cause, a frippery Cause.

Pet. Believe me,
They bear up with some carvel.

Ant. I do believe thee,
For thou hast such a Master for that Chase,
That 'till he spend his Main Mast——

Pet. Pray remember
Your Courtesie, good Anthony, and withal,
How long 'tis since your Master sprung a leak,
He had a sound one since he came.

Ant. Hark. Pet. What? [Lute sounds within.

Ant. Dost not hear a Lute?
Again! Pet. Where is't?

Ant.

Ant. Above in my Master's Chamber.

Pet. There's no Creature; he hath the Key himself, Man.

(4) Ant. This is his Lute, let him have it.

Pet. I grant you; but who strikes it?

Ant. An admirable Voice too, hark ye.

SONG, [within.]

*Merciless Love, whom Nature hath deny'd
The use of Eyes, lest thou shouldst take a pride
And glory in thy Murthers: Why am I,
That never yet transgress'd thy Deity,
(5) Never broke Vow, from whose Eyes never flew Disdainful Dart, whose hard Heart none e'er flew,
Thus ill rewarded? Thou art young and fair,
Thy Mother soft and gentle as the Air,
Thy holy Fire still burning, blown with Prayer.
Then everlasting Love restrain thy Will,
'Tis God-like to have Power, but not to kill.*

(4) Ant. This is his Lute. Let him have it.] The Song was inserted before this Line in the two former Editions. The Reason of the Change of its Place is very plain.

(5) *Newer broke Vow, from whose Eyes newer
Flew disdainful Dart,
Whose hard Heart newer Slew those Rewarders?*

Thou art young and fair,] The second Folio boasts of having at no small Cost obtain'd a Copy of these Plays corrected by an intimate and ingenious Friend of both the Authors, with several Prologues, Epilogues and Songs, not inserted in the former Folio, or in any of the old Quartos. I never was able yet to trace the least Footsteps of any such ingenious Corrector of the second Folio, except in one single Play, viz. The False One, in which there are several just Emendations. But I verily believe that they were not made from the Copy thus boasted of; for this is one of the Songs inserted from it, and the Reader will see how exceedingly incorrect it is printed. The Measure of all, except the last Line quoted above, only wants to be replac'd; but that last is deficient in Sense as well as Measure. I suppose the Word ill to have been the Monosyllable lost, and Rewarders to have been put for rewarded, and then it would run — Thus Rewarders: This being too glaringly absurd might be thought to be amended by making it — Those Rewarders.

Pet.

Pet. Anthony,

Art sure we are at home?

Ant. Without all doubt, Peter.

Pet. Then this must be the Devil.

Ant. Let it be,

[Sing again.

Good Devil sing again : O dainty Devil !

Peter believe it, a most delicate Devil,

The sweetest Devil——

Enter Frederick, and Don John.

Fred. If ye could leave peeping.

John. I cannot by no means.

Fred. Then come in softly,

And as ye love your Faith, presume no further Than ye have promised.

John. Basta.

Fred. What make you up so early, Sir?

John. You, Sir, in your Contemplations.

Pet. O pray ye Peace, Sir.

Fred. Why Peace, Sir?

Pet. Do you hear!

John. 'Tis your Lute.

Fred. Pray ye speak softly,

She's playing on't.

Ant. The House is haunted, Sir,

For this we have heard this half Year.

Fred. Ye saw nothing?

Ant. Not I.

Pet. Nor I, Sir.

*Fred. Get us our Breakfast then, and make no Words on't ;
We'll undertake this Spirit, if it be one.*

Ant. This is no Devil, Peter. [Sing.] Mum, there be Bats abroad.

[Exeunt Servants.

Fred. Stay, now she sings.

John. An Angel's Voice I'll swear.

Fred. Why did'st thou shrug so?

Either allay this Heat ; or as I live
I will not trust ye.

John. Pafs: I warrant ye.

[Exeunt.

Enter

Enter Constantia.

Con. To curse those Stars, that Men say govern us,
To rail at Fortune, fall out with my Fate,
And tax the general World, will help me nothing :
Alas, I am the same still, neither are they Subject to helps, or hurts : Our own Desires
Are our own Fates, our own Stars, all our Fortunes,
Which as we sway 'em, so abuse, or blefs us.

Enter Frederick, and Don John peeping.

Fred. Peace to your Meditations.

John. Pox upon ye,
Stand out o'th' Light.

Con. I crave your Mercy, Sir,
My Mind o'er-charg'd with care made me unmannerly.

Fred. Pray ye set that Mind at rest, all shall be perfect.

John. I like the Body rare, a handsome Body,
A wondrous handsome Body : Would she would turn :
See, and that spiteful Puppy be not got
Between me and my Light again.

Fred. 'Tis done,
As all that you command shall be : The Gentleman
Is safely off all Danger.

John. O de Dios.

Con. How shall I thank ye, Sir ? how satisfie ?

Fred. Speak softly, gentle Lady, all's rewarded.
Now does he melt like Marmalad. [Aside.

John. Nay, 'tis certain,
Thou art the sweetest Woman I e'er look'd on :
I hope thou art not honest.

Fred. None disturb'd ye ?

Con. Not any, Sir, nor any Sound came near me,
I thank your care.

Fred. 'Tis well.

John. I would fain pray now,

But

(6) But th' Devil and that Flesh there, (O the World!)
What are we made to suffer?

Fred. He'll enter;

Pull in your Head and be hang'd.

John. Hark ye, Frederick.

I have brought ye home your Pack-saddle.

Fred. Pox upon ye.

Con. Nay let him enter: Fie my Lord the Duke,
Stand peeping at your Friends.

Fred. Ye are cozen'd, Lady,
Here is no Duke.

Con. I know him full well, Signior.

John. Hold thee there, Wench.

Fred. This mad-brain'd Fool will spoil all.

Con. I do beseech your Grace come in.

John. My Grace,
There was a Word of Comfort.

Fred. Shall he enter,
Who e'er he be?

John. Well follow'd, Frederick.

Con. With all my Heart.

Fred. Come in then.

Enter Don John.

John. 'Bless ye, Lady.

Fred. Nay start not, though he be a Stranger to ye,
He's of a noble Strain, my Kinsman, Lady,
My Country-man, and Fellow Traveller,
One Bed contains us ever, one Purse feeds us,
And one Faith's free between us; do not fear him,
He's truly honest.

John. That's a Lye.

Fred. And trusty,
Beyond your Wishes: Valiant to defend,

(6) But th' Devil and that Flesh there, o' the World,
What are we made to suffer?] There are two ways of correcting this, either by making it, (O the World!) an exclamatory Parenthesis, or by reading, and the World— the Sense would then be, That he would pray, if that Flesh there, the World and the Devil did not prevent him. I prefer the former, as nearer the Trace of the Letters.

And

And modest to converse with, as your Blushes.

John. Now may I hang myself; this Commendation
Has broke the Neck of all my Hopes: For now Must I cry, "no forsooth, and I forsooth, and surely,
" And truly as I live, and as I am honest.
H'as done these things for 'nonce too; for he knows,
Like a most envious Rascal as he is,
I am not honest, nor desire to be,
Especially this way: H'as watch'd his time,
But I shall quit him.

Con. Sir, I credit ye.

Fred. Go kiss her, John.

John. Plague o' your Commendations.

Con. Sir, I shall now desire to be a trouble.

John. Never to me, sweet Lady: Thus I seal
My Faith, and all my Service.

Con. One Word, Seignior.

John. Now 'tis impossible I should be honest,
She kisses with a Conjuratation
Would make the Devil dance: What points she at?
My Leg I warrant, or my well knit Body,
Sit fast, Don Frederick.

Fred. 'Twas given him by that Gentleman
You took such care of; his own being lost i'th' scuffle.

Con. With much joy may he wear it: 'tis a right one,
I can assure ye, Gentleman, and right happy
May you be in all Fights for that fair Service.

Fred. Why do ye blush?

Con. 'T had almost cozen'd me,
For not to lye, when I saw that, I look'd for Another Master of it; but 'tis well. [Knock within.

Fred. Who's there?

Enter Anthony.

Stand ye a little close: Come in, Sir, [Exit Con.
Now what's the News with you?

Ant. There is a Gentleman without Would speak with Don John.

John. Who, Sir?

Ant. I do not know, Sir, but he shews a Man

Of no mean reckoning.

Fred. Let him shew his Name,
And then return a little wiser.

Ant. Well, Sir.

[Exit Anthony.

Fred. How do you like her, John?

John. As well as you, Frederick,
For all I'm honest; you shall find it so too.

Fred. Art thou not honest?

John. Art thou an Ass?

And modest as her Blushes? Why, what Blockhead

Would e'er have popt out such a dry Apology,

For his dear Friend? And to a Gentlewoman,

A Woman of her Youth, and Delicacy.

They're Arguments to draw them to abhor us.

An honest moral Man? 'Tis for a Constable:

A handsome Man, a wholesome Man, a tough Man,

A liberal Man, a likely Man, a Man

Made up like Hercules, unflak'd with Service:

The same to Night, to morrow Night, the next Night,

And so to perpetuity of Pleasures,

These had been things to hearken to, things catching:

But you have such a spic'd consideration,

Such qualms upon your Worship's Conscience,

Such Chil-blains in your Blood, that all things pinch ye,

Which Nature, and the liberal World makes Custom,

And nothing but fair Honour, O sweet Honour!

Hang up your Eunuch Honour: That I was trusty,

And valiant, were things well put in; but modest!

A modest Gentleman! O Wit where wast thou?

Fred. I'm sorry, John.

John. My Lady's Gentlewoman

Would laugh me to a School-boy, make me blush

With playing with my Codpiece point: Fie on thee,

A Man of thy Discretion?

Fred. It shall be mended:

And henceforth ye shall have your due.

Enter Anthony.

John. I look for't: How now, who is't?

Ant. A Gentleman of this Town,

And

And calls himself Petrucchio.

Enter Constantia.

John. I'll attend him.

Con. How did he call himself? Fred. Petrucchio,
Does it concern you ought?

Con. O Gentlemen,
The Hour of my Destruction is come on me,
I am discover'd, lost, left to my Ruin:
As ever ye had pity——

John. Do not fear,
Let the great Devil come, he shall go through me:
Lost here, and we about ye?

Fred. Fall before us?

Con. O my unfortunate Estate, all Angers
Compar'd to his, to his——

Fred. Let his, and all Mens,
Whilst we have Power and Life— stand up for Heav'n fake.

Con. I have offended Heav'n too; yet Heav'n knows---

John. We are all evil:

Yet Heav'n forbid we should have our deserts.

What is he? Con. Too too near to my Offence, Sir;
O he will cut me piece-meal.

Fred. 'Tis no Treason?

John. Let it be what it will, if he cut here,
I'll find him cut-work.

Fred. He must buy you dear,
With more than common Lives.

John. Fear not, nor weep not:
By Heav'n I'll fire the Town before ye perish,
And then, the more the merrier, we'll jog with ye.

Fred. Come in, and dry your Eyes.

John. Pray no more weeping:
Spoil a sweet Face for nothing? My return
Shall end all this I warrant you.

Con. Heav'n grant it.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E III.

Enter Petruchio, with a Letter.

Petr. This Man should be of special Rank :
For these commends carry no common way,
No slight worth with 'em ;
He shall be he.

Enter Don John.

John. 'Save ye, Sir: I'm sorry
My Business was so unmannerly, to make ye
Wait thus long here.

Petr. Occasions must be serv'd, Sir :
But is your Name Don John ?

John. It is, Sir. Petr. Then,
First, for your own brave sake I must embrace ye :
Next, from the Credit of your noble Friend
Hernando de Alvara, make ye mine :
Who lays his Charge upon me in this Letter
To look ye out, and for the Goodness in ye,
Whilst your Occasions make ye Resident
In this place, to supply ye, love and honour ye :
Which had I but known sooner——

John. Noble Sir,
You'll make my thanks too poor: I wear a Sword, Sir,
And have a Service to be still dispos'd of,
As you shall please command it.

Petr. Gentle Sir,
That manly Courtesie is half my Business :
And to be short, to make ye know I honour ye,
And in all points believe your worth like Oracle,
And how above my Friends, which are not few,
And those not slack, I estimate your Virtues,
Make yourself understand, this Day Petruchio,
A Man that may command the strength of this Place,
Hazard the boldest Spirits, hath made choice
Only of you, and in a noble Office.

John. Forward, I'm free to entertain it.

Petr.

Petr. Thus then :
I do beseech ye mark me.

John. I shall do it.

Petr. Ferrara's Duke, would I might call him worthy,
But that h' has raz'd out from his Family,
As he has mine with infamy, this Man,
Rather this powerful Monster, we being left
But two of all our House, to stock our Memories,
My Sister, and myself ; with Arts, and Witchcrafts, Vows, and such Oaths Heav'n has no Mercy for,
Drew to dishonour this weak Maid, by stealths,
And secret Passages I knew not of,
Oft he obtain'd his Wishes, oft abus'd her :
I am ashamed to say the rest : This purchas'd,
And his hot Blood allay'd, as Friends forsake us
At a Miles end upon our way, he left her,
And all our Name to ruin.

John. This was foul Play,
And ought to be rewarded so.

Petr. I hope so ;
He 'scap'd me Yester-night : Which if he dare
Again adventure for, Heav'n pardon him,
I shall with all my Heart.

John. For me, brave Seignior,
What do ye intend ?

Petr. Only, fair Sir, this Trust,
Which from the Commendations of this Letter,
I dare presume well plac'd, nobly to bear him
By word of Mouth a single Challenge from me,
That Man to Man, if he have Honour in him,
We may decide all Difference.

John. Fair, and noble,
And I will do it home : When shall I visit ye ?

Petr. Please you this afternoon, I will ride with you :
For at a Castle six Miles hence, we're sure
To find him.

John. I'll be ready.

Petr. To attend ye,
My Man shall wait ; with all my Love.

[Exit Petr.

John. My Service shall not fail ye.

Enter Frederick.

Fred. How now ?

John. All's well: Who dost thou think this Wench is ?
Guess, and thou canst ?

Fred. I cannot.

John. Be it known then,
To all Men by these Presents, this is she,
She, she, and only she, our curious Coxcombs
Were errant two Months after.

Fred. Who, Constantia ?
Thou talk'st of Cocks and Bulls.

John. I talk of Wenches,
Of Cocks and Hens, Don Frederick ; this is the Pullet
We two went proud after.

Fred. It cannot be.

John. It shall be ;
Sister to Don Petruchio : I know all, Man.

Fred. Now I believe.

John. Go to, there has been stirring,
Fumbling with Linnen, Frederick.

Fred. 'Tis impossible,
You know her Fame was pure as Fire.

John. That pure Fire
Has melted out her Maiden-head : She's crack'd :
We've all that hope of our side, Boy.

Fred. Thou tell'st me,
To my Imagination, things incredible :
I see no loose Thought in her.

John. That's all one,
She is loose i'th' hilts by Heav'n : But the World must know

A fair way, upon Vow of Marriage.

Fred. There may be such a slip.

John. And will be, Frederick,
Whilst the old Game's a-foot : I fear the Boy
Will prove hers too I took up.

Fred. Good Circumstance
May cure all this yet.

John.

John. There thou hit'st it, Frederick :
Come, let's walk in and comfort her : Her being here
Is nothing yet suspected : Anon i'll tell thee
Wherefore her Brother came, who by this light
Is a brave noble Fellow, and what Honour
H'as done to me a Stranger : There be Irons
Heating for some, will hiss into their Heart bloods,
E'er all be ended ; so much for this time.

Fred. Well, Sir.

[Exeunt.

A C T III. S C E N E I.

Enter Landlady, and Peter.

Land. COME, ye do know.

Pet. I do not by this Hand, Mistress.
But I suspect.

Land. What ?

Pet. That if Eggs continue
At this Price, Women will ne'er be fav'd
By their good Works.

Land. I will know.

Pet. Ye shall, any thing
Lies in my Power : The Duke of Lorain now
Is seven Thousand strong : I heard it of a Fish-wife,
A Woman of fine Knowledge.

Land. Sirrah, Sirrah.

Pet. The Pope's Bulls are broke loose too, and 'tis suspected
They shall be baited in England.

Land. Very well, Sir.

Pet. No, 'tis not so well neither.

Land. But I say to ye.

Who is it keeps your Master Company ?

Pet. I say to you, Don John.

Land. I say what Woman ?

Pet. I say so too.

C 4

Land.

Land. I say again, I will know.

Pet. I say 'tis fit ye should.

Land. And I tell thee
He has a Woman here.

Pet. And I tell thee
'Tis then the better for him.

Land. You are no Bawd now ?

Pet. Would I were able to be call'd unto it:
A worshipful Vocation for my Elders ;
For as I understand, it is a Place
Fitting my Betters far.

Land. Was ever Gentlewoman
So frumpt off with a Fool? Well, sawcy Sirrah,
I will know who it is, and for what Purpose ;
I pay the Rent, and I'll know how my House
Comes by these Inflammations : If this geer hold,
Best hang a Sign-post up, to tell the Signiors,
Here ye may have Lewdness at Livery.

Enter Frederick.

Pet. 'Twould be a great Ease to your Age.

Fred. How now ?

Why what's the matter, Landlady ?

Land. What's the matter ?

Ye use me decently among ye, Gentlemen.

Fred. Who has abus'd her, you, Sir ?

Land. 'Ods my Witness

I will not be thus treated, that I will not.

Pet. I gave her no ill Language.

Land. Thou lyeft lewdly,
Thou took'st me up at every Word I spoke,
As I had been a Maukin, a flurt Gillian ;
And thou think'st, because thou can'st write and read,
Our Nofes must be under thee.

Fred. Dare you, Sirrah ?

Pet. Let but the Truth be known, Sir, I beseech ye,
She raves of Wenches, and I know not what, Sir.

Land. Go to, thou know'st too well, thou wicked
Varlet,

Thou

Thou Instrument of Evil.

Pet. As I live, Sir,
She is ever thus till Dinner.

Fred. Get ye in,
I'll answer you anon, Sir.

Pet. By this Hand
I'll break your Posset-Pan.

[Exit.

Land. Then by this Hood
I'll lock the Meat up.

Fred. Now your Grief, what is't?
For I can guess ———

Land. Ye may with Shame enough,
If there were Shame amongst ye; nothing thought on,
But how ye may abuse my House? not satisfy'd
With bringing home your Bastards to undo me,
But you must drill your Whores here too? My Patience (Because I bear, and bear, and carry all,
And as they say am willing to groan under)
Must be your Make-sport now.

Fred. No more of these Words,
Nor no more Murmurings, Lady: For you know
That I know something. I did suspect your Anger,
But turn it presently and handsomely,
And bear yourself discreetly to this Woman,
For such an one there is indeed.

Land. 'Tis well, Son.

Fred. Leaving your Devils Matins, and your Melan-cholics,
Or we shall leave our Lodgings.

Land. You have much need
To use these vagrant Ways, and to much Profit:
Ye had that might content
(At home within yourselves too) right good Gentlemen,
Wholesome, and ye said handsome: But you Gallants,
Beast that I was to believe ye ———

Fred. Leave your Suspicion:
For as I live there's no such thing.

Land. Mine Honour;
And 'twere not for mine Honour.

Fred. Come, your Honour,

Your

Your House, and you too, if you dare believe me,
 Are well enough: Sleek up yourself, leave crying,
 For I must have ye entertain this Lady
 With all Civility, she well deserves it,
 Together with all Secrecy: I dare trust ye,
 For I have found ye faithful: When you know her,
 You'll find your own Fault: No more Words, but do it.

Land. You know you may command me.

Enter Don John.

John. Worshipful Lady,
 How does thy Velvet Scabbard? By this Hand
 Thou look'st most amiably, now could I willingly,
 And 'twere not for abusing thy Geneva Print there,
 Venture my Body with thee.

Land. You'll leave this Roguery
 When you come to my Years.

John. By this Light
 Thou art not above fifteen yet, a meer Girl,
 Thou hast not half thy Teeth: Come——

Fred. Prithee, John,
 Let her alone, she has been vex'd already;
 She'll grow stark mad, Man.

John. I would see her mad,
 An old mad Woman——

Fred. Prithee be patient.

John. Is like a Miller's Mare, troubled with Tooth-ach.
 She'll make the rarest Faces.

Fred. Go, and do it,
 And do not mind this Fellow.

Land. Well, Don John,
 There will be Times again; when, O good Mother,
 What's good for a Carnosity in the Bladder?
 O the green Water, Mother.

John. Doting take ye;
 Do ye remember that?

Fred. She has paid ye now, Sir.

Land. Clary, sweet Mother, Clary.

Fred. Are ye satisfied?

Land. I'll never whore again, never give Petticoats

And

And Wastecoats at five Pound apiece: Good Mother, Quickly Mother; now mock on, Son.

John. A Devil grind your old Chaps. [Exit Landlady.]

Fred. By this Hand, Wench,
I'll give thee a new Hood for this.
Has she met with your Lordship?

John. Touchwood take her.

Enter Anthony.

She's a rare Ghostly Mother.

Ant. Below attends ye

The Gentleman's Man, Sir, that was with you.

John. Well, Sir;

My time is come then; yet if my Project hold,
You shall not stay behind; I'll rather trust

Enter Constantia.

A Cat with sweet Milk, Frederick; by her Face,
I feel her Fears are working.

Con. Is there no way,
I do beseech ye think yet, to divert
This certain Danger?

Fred. 'Tis impossible;
Their Honours are engag'd.

Con. Then there must be murther,
Which, Gentlemen, I shall no sooner hear of,
Than make one in't: You may if you please, Sir,
Make all go less yet.

John. Lady, were't mine own Cause,
I could dispense; but loaden with my Friend's trust,
I must go on; though general Massacres
As much I fear——

Con. Do ye hear, Sir; for Heav'n's pity
Let me request one love of you.

Fred. Yes, any thing.

Con. This Gentleman I find too resolute,
Too hot and fiery for the Cause; as ever
You did a virtuous Deed, for Honour's sake
Go with him, and allay him; your fair Temper
And noble Disposition, like wish'd Show'rs,

May

May quench those eating Fires, that would spoil all else.
I see in him Destruction.

Fred. I will do it ;
And 'tis a wise Consideration,
To me a bounteous Favour. Hark ye, John ;
I will go with ye.

John. No.

Fred. Indeed I will.
Ye go upon a hazard ; no denial,
For as I live, I'll go.

John. Then make ye ready,
For I am straight o' Horse-back.

Fred. My Sword on,
I am as ready as you ; what my best Labour,
With all the Art I have can work upon 'em,
Be sure of, and expect fair end ; the old Gentlewoman
Shall wait upon you ; she's both grave and private,
And ye may trust her in all points.

(7) Con. You're noble:

Fred. And so I kiss your Hand.

John. That Seal for me too,
And I hope happy Issue, Lady.

Con. All Heav'n's Care upon ye, and my Prayers.

John. So,
Now my Mind's at rest.

Fred. Away, 'tis late, John.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E II.

Enter Antonio, a Surgeon, and two Gentlemen.

1 Gent. Come, Sir, be hearty, all the worst is past.

Ant. Give me some Wine.

Sur. 'Tis Death, Sir,

Ant. 'Tis a Horse, Sir.

(7) Con. You are noble ;

And so I kiss your Hand.] The latter part of this certainly belongs to Frederick. 'Tis the usual Compliment from a Gentleman to a Lady, but not from a Lady to a Gentleman ; and John confirms it by desiring the same Favour.

To

To be drest to the Tunè of Ale only !
Nothing but Sawces to my Sores !

2 Gent. Fie, Antonio,
You must be govern'd.

Ant. H'as giv'n me a damn'd Clyster,
Only of Sand and Snow-Water, Gentlemen,
Has almost scowr'd my Guts out.

Sur. I have giv'n you that, Sir,
Is fittest for your State.

Ant. And here he feeds me
With rotten ends of Rooks, and drown'd Chickens,
Stew'd Pericraniums, and Pia-maters ;
And when I go to Bed (by Heav'n 'tis true, Gentlemen)
He rolls me up in Lints, with Labels at 'em,
That I am just the Man i'th' Almanack,
(8) My Head and Face is Aries Place.

Sur. Will't please ye
To let your Friends see you open'd ?

Ant. Will't please you, Sir,
To let me have a Wench ? I feel my Body
Open enough for that yet.

Sur. How, a Wench ?

Ant. Why look ye, Gentlemen, thus I am us'd still,
I can get nothing that I want.

1 Gent. Leave these things,
And let him open ye.

Ant. D' ye hear, Surgeon ?
Send for the Musick, let me have some Pleasure
To entertain my Friends, besides your Sallads,
(9) Your green Salves, and your Searchcloths, and some Wine too,

That I may only smell to it ; or by this Light
I'll die upon thy Hand, and spoil thy Custom.

1 Gent. Let him have Musick.

(8) In Head and Face—] Former Editions.

(9) Your green Salves, and your Searches,—] Neither Mr. Symphon or I reject Searches as Nonsense, but both think that Searchcloths is probably the true Word.

Enter

Enter Rowland with Wine.

Sur. 'Tis in the House, and ready,
(10) If he will ask no more. But Wine—— [Musick.

2 Gent. He shall not drink it.

Sur. Will these things please ye?

Ant. Yes, and let 'em sing

John Dorrie.

2 Gent. 'Tis too long.

Ant. I'll have John Dorrie,

For to that warlike Tune I will be open'd: [geon,
Give me some Drink, have ye stopt the Leaks well, Sur.
All will run out else?

Sur. Fear not.

Ant. Sit down, Gentlemen:

And now advance your Plaisters. [Song of John Dorrie.
Give 'em ten Shillings, Friends; how do ye find me?
What Symptoms do you see now?

Sur. None, Sir, dangerous;

But if you will be rul'd——

Ant. What Time?

Sur. I can cure you

In forty Days, if you will not transgress me.

Ant. I have a Dog shall lick me whole in twenty;
In how long canst thou kill me?

Sur. Presently.

Ant. Do it, there's more Delight in't.

1 Gent. You must have Patience.

Ant. Man, I must have Business; this foolish Fellow
Hinders himself; I have a dozen Rascals
To hurt within these five Days; good Man-mender,
Stop me with some Parsly, like stuf Beef,
And let me walk abroad.

Sur. Ye shall walk shortly.

Ant. For I must find Petruchio.

2 Gent. Time enough.

1 Gent. Come, lead him in, and let him sleep: within these three Days

(10) If he will ask no more but Wine——] Former Editions.

We'll

We'll beg ye leave to play.

2 Gent. And then how things fall,
We'll certainly inform ye.

Ant. But Surgeon, promise me
I shall drink Wine then too.

Sur. A little temper'd.

Ant. Nay, I'll no tempering, Surgeon.

Sur. Well, as't please ye,
So ye exceed not.

Ant. Farewel : And if ye find
The mad Slave that thus slash'd me, commend me to him,
And bid him keep his Skin close.

1 Gent. Take your Rest, Sir. [Exeunt.]

S C E N E III,

Enter Constantia, and Landlady.

Con. I have told ye all I can, and more than yet
Those Gentlemen know of me ; ever trusting
Your Counsel and Concealment ; for to me
You seem a worthy Woman ; one of those
Are seldom found in our Sex, wise and virtuous,
Direct me I beseech ye.

Land. Ye say well, Lady ;
And hold ye to that Point, for in these Businesses
A Woman's Counsel that conceives the matter,
(Do you mark me ? that conceives the matter, Lady)
Is worth ten Mens Engagements : She knows something,
And out of that can work like Wax ; when Men
Are giddy-headed, either out of Wine,
Or a more Drunkenness, vain Ostentation,
Discovering all ; there is no more keep in 'em
Than hold upon an Eel's Tail ; nay, 'tis held fashion
T' defame now all they can.

Con. Ay, but these Gentlemen——

Land. Do not you trust to that ; these Gentlemen
Are as all Gentlemen of the same Barrel ;
Ay, and the self-same Pickle too. Be't granted,
They've us'd ye with Respect and fair Behaviour,

E'er

E'er since ye came, do you know what must follow?
 They're Spaniards, Lady, Gennets of high Mettle,
 Things that will thrash the Devil or his Dam,
 Let 'em appear but cloven.

Con. Now Heav'n blefs me.

Land. Mad Colts will court the Wind; I know 'em,
 Lady,
 To the least Hair they have; and I tell you,
 Old as I am, let but the Pint Pot blefs 'em,
 They'll offer to my Years——

Con. How?

Land. Such rude Gambols——

Con. To you?

Land. Ay, and so handle me, that oft I'm forc'd
 To fight of all four for my Safety; there's the younger,
Don John, the arrant'st Jack in all this City;
 The other, Time has blasted, yet he'll stoop,
 If not o'erflown, and freely on the quarry;
 H'as been a Dragon in his days. (11) But Tarmont,
Don Jenkin is the Devil himself, the Dog-days,
 The most incomprehensible Whore-master,
 Twenty a Night is nothing; Beggars, Broom-women,
 And those so miserable, they look like Famine,
 Are all sweet Ladies in his drink.

Con. He's a handsome Gentleman;
 Pity he should be master of such Follies.

Land. He's ne'er without a noise of Syringes
 In's Pocket, those proclaim him; (12) Purgings-Pills,
 Waters to cool his Conscience, in small Viols:
 With thousand such sufficient Emblems; the Truth is,
 Whose Chastity he chops upon he cares not,

(11) But Tarmont,] i. e. Termagant.

(12) ——— birding Pills,] When a Word occurs that we can affix no Idea to, suitable to the Context, and no Dictionary or Glossary will give us any Assistance, we are forc'd to treat it as a Corruption; tho' after all, I believe there were hundreds of Words common in our Authors Age, that have no Existence now in any Dictionary. Sometimes the Context explains their Meaning, or they are found in different Passages, and their Meaning more easily ascertain'd. Nothing of this happens here, and as the natural Word purgings is near the Trace of the Letters I have inserted it in the Text.

He flies at all ; Bastards upon my Conscience,
He's as now in making, multitudes ; the last Night
He brought home one ; I pity her that bore it,
But we are all weak Vessels, some rich Woman
(For wise I dare not call her) was the Mother,
For it was hung with Jewels ; the bearing Cloth
No less than Crimson Velvet.

Con. How ?

Land. 'Tis true, Lady.

Con. Was it a Boy too ?

Land. A brave Boy ; deliberation

And judgment shew'd in's getting, as I'll say for him,
He's as well pac'd for that sport——

Con. May I see it ?

For there's a Neighbour of mine, a Gentlewoman,
Has had a late Mischance, which willingly
I would know further of ; now if you please
To be so courteous to me.

Land. Ye shall see it :

But what do ye think of these Men now ye know 'em,
And of the Cause I told ye of ? Be wise,
Ye may repent too late else ; I but tell you
For your own good, and as you'll find it, Lady.

Con. I am advis'd.

Land. No more Words then ; do that,
And instantly, I told ye of, be ready ;
Don John, I'll fit you for your frumps.

Con. I shall be :

But shall I see this Child ?

Land. Within this half Hour ;

Let's in, and there think better ; (13) she that's wise,
Leaps at Occasion first ; the rest pay for it. [Exeunt.

(13) ————— she that's wise,
Leaps at Occasion first ; the rest pay for it.] Mr. Symphon would read,

————— the rest pray for it,
i. e. The Wise seize Occasion when it's first offer'd, others only stand praying for it. I cannot agree to this Emendation, the old Reading being capable of a Sense full as clear as this. The Wise seize the first Occasion, the rest who do not do so pay or suffer for it.

S C E N E IV.

Enter Petruchio, Don John, and Frederick.

John. Sir, he is worth your Knowledge, and a Gentleman,
If I that so much love him, may commend him,
Of free and virtuous Parts ; and one, if foul play
Should fall upon us, for which fear I brought him,
Will not fly back for fillips.

Petr. Ye much honour me,
And once more I pronounce ye both mine. Fred. Stay,
What Troop is that below i'th' Valley there?

John. Hawking, I take it.

Petr. They are so ; 'tis the Duke, 'tis ev'n he, Gentlemen,
Sirrah, draw back the Horses 'till we call ye,
I know him by his Company.

Fred. I think too
He bends up this way.

Petr. So he does.

John. Stand you still Within that Covert 'till I call : You, Frederick,
By no means be not seen, unless they offer
To bring on odds upon us ; he comes forward,
Here will I wait him fairly : To your Cabins.

Petr. I need no more instruct ye?

John. Fear me not,
I'll give it him, and boldly. [Exeunt Petr. and Fred.

Enter Duke and his Faction.

Duke. Feed the Hawks up,
We'll fly no more to day ; O my blest Fortune!
Have I so fairly met the Man ?

John. Ye have, Sir,
And him you know by this.

Duke. Sir, all the Honour
And Love——

John. I do beseech your Grace stay there,
(For I know ye too now) that Love and Honour

I come not to receive ; nor can you give it,
'Till ye appear fair to the World ; I must beseech ye Dismiss your Train a little.

Duke. Walk aside,
And out of hearing, I command ye : Now, Sir,

John. Last time we met, I was a Friend.

Duke. And nobly
You did me a Friend's Office : Let your Business
Be what it may, you must be still——

John. Your pardon,
Never a Friend to him, cannot be Friend
To his own Honour.

Duke. In what have I transgress'd it ?
Ye make a bold Breach at the first, Sir.

John. Bolder,
You made that Breach that let in Infamy,
And Ruin, to surprisè a noble Stock.

Duke. Be plain, Sir.

John. I will, and short ; ye've wrong'd a Gentleman,
Little behind yourself, beyond all Justice,
Beyond the Mediation of all Friends.

Duke. The Man, and manner of Wrong ?

John. Petruchio,
The Wrong, ye've whor'd his Sister.

Duke. What's his Will in't ?

John. His Will is to oppose you like a Gentleman,
And single, to decide all.

Duke. Now stay you, Sir,
And hear me with the like Belief : This Gentleman,
His Sister that you nam'd, true, I've long lov'd,
Nor was that Love lascivious, as he makes it ;
As true, I have enjoy'd her : No less Truth,
I have a Child by her : But that she, or he,
Or any of that Family are tainted,
Suffer disgrace, or ruin, by my Pleasures,
I wear a Sword to satisfie the World no,
And him in this Cause when he please ; for know, Sir,
She is my Wife, contracted before Heav'n,
(Witness I owe more tye to, than her Brother)
Nor will I fly from that Name, which long since

Had had the Churches Approbation,
(14) But for his jealous Anger.

John. Sir, your Pardon,
And all that was my Anger, now my Service.

Duke. Fair Sir, I knew I should convert ye; had we
But that rough Man here now too——

John. And ye shall, Sir:
Whoa, ho, hoo.

Duke. I hope ye've laid no Ambush?

Enter Petruchio.

John. Only Friends.

Duke. My noble Brother, welcome:
Come put your Anger off, we will no fighting,
Unless you will maintain I am unworthy
To bear that Name.

Petr. D' you speak this heartily?

Duke. Upon my Soul, and truly; the first Priest
Shall put you out of these doubts.

Petr. Now I love ye;
And I beseech you pardon my Suspicions.
You are now more than a Brother, a brave Friend too.

John. The good Man's over-joy'd.

Enter Frederick.

Fred. How, how, how goes it?

John. Why, the Man has his Mare again, and all's well,
Frederick,

The Duke professes freely he's her Husband.

Fred. 'Tis a good hearing.

John. Yes, for modest Gentlemen.
I must present ye: May it please your Grace,
To number this brave Gentleman, my Friend,
And noble Kinsman, amongst those your Servants.

Duke. O my brave Friend! you show'r your Bounties on me

(14) But for 'his jealous Danger.] i. e. For the Danger arising from his Jealousy: But from what the Duke says to Petruchio below, Anger seems, both to Mr. Sympton and me, to be most probably the true Word.

Amongst

Amongst my best Thoughts, Seignior, in which Number
You being worthily dispos'd already,
May place your Friend to honour me.

Fred. My Love, Sir,

And where your Grace dares trust me, all my Service.

Petr. Why, this is wondrous happy : But now, Brother,
Now comes the bitter to our sweet : Constantia.

Duke. Why, what of her ?

Petr. Nor what, nor where, do I know :
Wing'd with her fears last Night, beyond my knowledge,
She quit my House, but whither ? ———

Fred. Let not that ———

Duke. No more, good Sir, I've heard too much.

Petr. Nay, sink not,

She cannot be so lost.

John. Nor shall not, Gentlemen ;

Be free again, the Lady's found ; that Smile, Sir,
Shews ye distrust your Servant.

Duke. I do beseech ye ———

John. Ye shall believe me : By my Soul she's safe.

Duke. Heav'n knows, I would believe, Sir.

Fred. Ye may safely.

John. And under noble usage : This fair Gentleman
Met her in all her doubts last Night, and to his Guard :
(Her fears being strong upon her) she gave her Person,
Who waited on her to our Lodging ; where all respect,
Civil and honest service now attend her.

Petr. Ye may believe now.

Duke. Yes, I do, and strongly :

Well, my good Friends, or rather my good Angels,
For ye have both preserv'd me ; when these Virtues
Die in your Friend's Remembrance ———

John. Good your Grace,

Lose no more time in Compliment, 'tis too precious,
I know it by myself there can be no Hell
To his that hangs upon his Hopes ; especially In way of lusty Pleasures.

Petr. He has hit it.

Fred. To horse again then, for this Night I'll crown ye
With all the Joys ye wish for.

Petr. Happy Gentlemen.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Francisco.

Fran. This is the maddest Mischief: never Fool
Was so fobb'd off, as I am; made ridiculous,
And to myself mine own As: Trust a Woman?
I'll trust the Devil first; for he dare be Better than's Word sometime: What Faith have I broke?
In what Observance fail'd? Let me consider,

Enter Don John, and Frederick.

For this is monstrous Usage.

Fred. Let them talk,

We'll ride on fair and softly.

Fran. Well, Constantia.

Fred. Constantia! what's this Fellow? Stay by all means.

Fran. Ye've spun yourself a fair Thread now.

Fred. Stand still, John.

Fran. What Cause had you to fly? What Fear possessed ye?

Were ye not safely lodg'd from all Suspicion?

Us'd with all gentle means? Did any know

How ye came thither, or what your Sin was,

Fred. John,

I smell some Juggling, John.

John. Yes, Frederick,

I fear it will be found so.

Fran. So strangely,

Without the Counsel of your Friends; so desperately

To put all Dangers on ye?

Fred. 'Tis she.

Fran. So deceitfully,

After a Stranger's Lure!

John. Did ye mark that, Frederick?

Fran. To make ye appear more Monster; and the Law
More cruel to reward ye? to leave all,

All that should be your Safeguard, to seek Evils?

Was this your Wisdom? this your Promise? well,

He that incited ye——

Fred.

Fred. Mark that too.

John. Yes, Sir.

[Lady,

Fran. 'Had better have plough'd farther off; now,
What will your last Friend, he that should preserve ye,
And hold your Credit up, the brave Antonio,
Think of this Slip? He'll to Petruchio,
And call for open Justice.

John. 'Tis she, Frederick.

Fred. But what that he is, John.

Fran. I do not doubt yet
To bolt ye out, for I know certainly
Ye are about the Town still: Ha, no more Words. [Exit.

Fred. Well.

John. Very well.

Fred. Discreetly.

John. Finely carried.

Fred. You have no more of these Tricks?

John. Ten to One, Sir.

I shall meet with 'em if ye have.

Fred. Is this honest?

John. Was it in you a Friend's part to deal doub'e?

I am no Afs, Don Frederick.

Fred. And, Don John,

It shall appear I am no Fool: Disgrace me

To make yourself a Letcher?

'Tis boyish, base.

John. 'Tis false, and most unmanly to upbraid me,
Nor will I be your Bolster, Sir. [Eunuch,

Fred. Thou wanton Boy, thou'dst better have been Thou common-Woman's Courtesy, than thus Lascivious; basely to have bent mine Honour.
A Friend? I'll make a Horse my Friend first.

John. Holla, holla,

Ye kick too fast, Sir; What strange Brains have you got,
That dare crow out thus bravely? I better been an Eunuch?
I privy to this Dog-trick? clear yourself,
For I know where the Wind sits, and most nobly,
Or as I have a Life——

Fred. No more: Their Horses.

[A Noise within like Horses.

Nor shew no discontent : To Morrow comes ;
 Let's quietly away : If she be at home,
 Our Jealousies are put off.

John. The Fellow,

Enter Duke, and Petruchio.

We've lost him in our Spleens, like Fools.

Duke. Come, Gentlemen,

Now set on roundly : Suppose ye have all Mistresses,
 And mend your pace according.

Petr. Then have at ye.

[Exeunt.

A C T IV. S C E N E I.

Enter Duke, Petruchio, Frederick, and John.

Petr. NOW to Bologna, my most honour'd Brother,
 I dare pronounce y' a hearty and safe welcome,
 Our Loves shall now way-lay ye ; welcome, Gentlemen.

John. The same to you, brave Sir ; Don Frederick,
 Will ye step in, and give the Lady notice
 Who comes to honour her ?

Petr. Bid her be sudden,

We come to see no curious Wench : A Night-gown
 Will serve the turn : Here's one that knows her nearer.

Fred. I'll tell her what ye say, Sir. [Exit Fred.

Duke. My dear Brother,

Ye are a merry Gentleman.

Petr. Now will the Sport be,
 T'observe her Alterations ; how like a Wild-fire
 She'll leap into your Bosom ; then seeing me,
 Her Conscience, and her Fears creeping upon her,
 Dead as a Fowl at Soufe, she'll sink.

Duke. Fair Brother,

I must entreat you——

Petr. I conceive your Mind, Sir,
 I will not chide her : Yet ten Duckets, Duke,
 She falls upon her Knees, ten more she dare not——

Duke.

The Chances.

57

Duke. I must not have her frighted,

Petr. Well, you shall not:

Enter Frederick, and Peter.

But like a Summer's Evening against Heat,
Mark how I'll gild her Cheeks?

John. How now?

(15) Duke. Ye may, Sir.

Fred. Not to abuse your Patience, noble Friends,
Nor hold'ye off with tedious Circumstance,
For you must know——

Petr. What?

Duke. Where is she?

Fred. Gone, Sir.

Duke. How?

Petr. What did you say, Sir?

Fred. Gone, by Heav'n; removed,
The Woman of the House too.

John. Well, Don Frederick.

Fred. Don John, it is not well, but——

Petr. Gone?

Fred. This Fellow
Can testify I lye not.

Pet. Some four Hours after
My Master was departed, with this Gentleman,
My Fellow and myself being sent of Business,
(As we must think) of purpose——

Petr. Hang these Circumstances,
They appear like Owls, to ill Ends.

John. Now could I eat
The Devil in his own Broth, I'm so tortur'd.
Gone?

Petr. Gone?

(15) Fred. Ye may, Sir:

Not to abuse your Patience,——] I have ventur'd to give the three first Words of Frederick's Speech to the Duke: they are a proper Answer to Petruchio, but are not intelligible in Frederick's Mouth, without considering them as a broken Sentence relating to the mutual Suspicion between John and him, and then perhaps too much would be left wanting.

Fred.

Fred. Directly gone, fled, shifted: What would you have me say?

Duke. Well, Gentlemen,
Wrong not my good Opinion.

Fred. For your Dukedom
I will not be a Knave, Sir.

John. He that is,
A Rot. run in his Blood.

Petr. But hark ye, Gentlemen,
Are ye sure ye had her here, did ye not dream this?

John. Have you your Nose, Sir?

Petr. Yes, Sir.

John. Then we had her.

Petr. Since you're so short, believe your having her Shall suffer more Construction.

John. Let it suffer.

But if I be not clear of all Dishonour,
Or Practice that may taint my Reputation,
And ignorant of where this Woman is,
Make me your City's Monster.

Duke. I believe ye.

John. I could lie with a Witch now, to be reveng'd
Upon that Rascal did this.

Fred. Only thus much

I would desire your Grace, for my Mind gives me
Before Night yet she's yours: Stop all Opinion,
And let no Anger out, 'till full Cause call it,
Then every Man's own Works to justify him;
And this Day let us give to search: My Man here
Tells me, by chance he saw out of a Window
(Which Place he's taken notice of) such a Face
As our old Landlady's, he believes the same too,
And by her Hood assures it: Let's first thither,
For she being found, all's ended.

Duke. Come, for Heav'n's sake,
And Fortune, an thou be'st not ever turning,
If there be one firm Step in all thy Reelings,
Now settle it, and save my Hopes: Away, Friends.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE

S C E N E II.

Enter Antonio and his Servant.

Ant. With all my Jewels?

Ser. All, Sir.

Ant. And that Mony

I left i'th' Trunk?

Ser. The Trunk broke, and that gone too.

Ant. Francisco of the Plot?

Ser. Gone with the Wench too.

Ant. The mighty Pox go with 'em: Belike they thought

I was no Man of this World, and those Trifles
Would but disturb my Conscience.

Ser. Sure they thought, Sir,
You would not live to persecute 'em.

Ant. Whore and Fidler,
Why, what a Consort have they made; Hen and Bacon?
Well, my sweet Mistress, well, good Madam Mar-tail?
You that have hung about my Neck, and lick'd me,
I'll try how handsomly your Ladyship
Can hang upon a Gallows, there's your Master-piece;
But hark ye, Sirrah, no Imagination
Of where they should be?

Ser. None, Sir, yet we've search'd
All Places we suspected; I believe, Sir,
They've taken tow'rds the Ports.

Ant. Get me a Conjurer,
One that can raise a Water-Devil, I'll port 'em;
Play at Duck and Drake with my Mony; take heed, Fidler;
I'll dance ye by this Hand, your Fiddle-stick
I'll grease of a new Fashion, for presuming
To meddle with my De-gambos: Get me a Conjurer,
Enquire me out a Man that lets out Devils;
None but my C. Cliffe serve your turn?

Ser. I know not ———

Ant. In every Street, Tom Fool, any blear-ey'd People
With red Heads, and flat Noses, can perform it;

Thou

Thou shalt know 'em by their half Gowns and no
Breeches :

Mount my Mare, Fidler ? Ha Boy ! up at first dash ?
Sit sure, I'll clap a Nettle, and a smart one,
Shall make your Filly firk I will : fine, Fidler,
I'll put you to your Plunge, Boy : Sirrah, meet me
Some two Hours hence at home ; in the mean time
Find out a Conjurer, and know his Price,
How he will let his Devils by the Day out,
I'll have 'em, an they be above Ground. [Exit Ant.

Ser. Now blefs me,
What a mad Man is this ? I must do something
To please his Humour : Such a Man I'll ask for,
And tell him where he is ; but to come near him,
Or have any thing to do with his Don Devils,
I thank my Fear, I dare not, nor I will not. [Exit.

S C E N E III.

Enter Duke, Petruchio, Frederick, John, Peter, and Servant with Bottles.

Fred. Whither wilt thou lead us ?

Pet. 'Tis hard by, Sir.

And ten to one this Wine goes thither.

Duke. Forward.

Petr. Are they grown so merry ?

Duke. 'Tis most likely,
She's heard of this good Fortune, and determines
To wash her Sorrows off.

Pet. 'Tis so ; that House, Sir,
Is it : Out of that Window certainly
I saw my old Mistresses Face.

Petr. They're merry indeed, [Musick.
Hark, I hear Musick too.

Duke. Excellent Musick.

John. Would I were ev'n among 'em, and alone now ;
A Pallate for the purpose in a Corner,
And good rich Wine within me ; what gay Sport
Could I make in an Hour now ?

SONG.

S O N G.

*Welcome sweet Liberty, and Care farewell,
I am mine own ;
She is twice damn'd, that lives in Hell,
When Heav'n is shown.
Budding Beauty, blooming Years
Were made for Pleasure, farewell Fears,
For now I am myself, mine own Command,
My Fortune always in my Hand.*

Fred. Hark a Voice too ;
Let's not stir yet by any means.
John. Was this her own Voice ?
Duke. Yes sure.
Fred. 'Tis a rare one.

Enter Bawd (above.)

Duke. The Song confirms her here too : For if ye mark it,
It spake of Liberty, and free enjoying
The happy end of Pleasure.

Pet. Look ye there, Sir.
Do ye know that Head ?

Fred. 'Tis my good Landlady,
I find Fear has done all this.

John. She I swear,
And now do I know by the hanging of her Hood,
(16) She's parcel drunk : shall we go in ?

Duke. Not yet, Sir.

Petr. No, let 'em take their Pleasure.

Duke. When it is highest, [Musick.

(16) She's parcel drunk :] In the same manner our Authors use.
—A parcel Bawd. Skinner says in his Dictionary of obsolete Words, that Parcel signifies portly ; but he treats it as the same with the common word Parcel from the French, Parcell, a Contraction of the Italian, Particella, in Latin, Particula. How from thence it should come to signify portly, may be difficult to guess. Perhaps through much the same channel as portly is deriv'd. From Goods being divided into Parcels a Parcel came to signify a Bundle ; and from thence us'd adjectively or adverbially may signify bulky, corpulent, portly, one that looks as if he carry'd a Bundle before him.

We'll

We'll step in, and amaze 'em : Peace, more Musick.

John. This Musick murders me : What Blood have I now?

Fred. I should know that Face. [Enter Fran. and Exit.]

John. By this Light 'tis he, Frederick,

That bred our first Suspitions, the same Fellow.

Fred. He that we overtook, and overheard too,
Discourfing of Constantia.

John. Still the same ;
Now he slips in.

Duke. What's that ?

Fred. She must be here, Sir :

This is the very Fellow, I told your Grace:

Enter Francisco.

We found upon the way ; and what his Talk was.

Petr. Why, sure I know this Fellow ; yes, 'tis he,
Francisco, Antonio's Boy, a rare Musician,
He taught my Sister on the Lute, and is ever
(She loves his Voice so well) about her : Certain,
Without all doubt she is here : It must be so.

John. Here ? That's no Question : What should our Hen o'th' game else
Do here without her ? If she be not here
(I am so confident) let your Grace believe
We two are arrant Rascals, and have abus'd ye.

Fred. I say so too.

John. Why there's the Hood again now.

(17) The Card that guides us ; I know the Fabrick of it,
And know the old Tree of that Saddle yet, 'twas made of A hunting Hood, observe it.

Duke. Who shall enter ?

Petr. I'll make one.

John. I, another.

Duke. But so carry it,

(17) The Guard that guides us :] In either Sense of the Word Guard as a Watch or Sentinel, or as a Fringe, or Hem of a Garment, the Word is intelligible in this Place ; but sure 'tis not a very natural Expression, and I have therefore ventur'd to discard it, to make room for what I think a very happy Conjecture of Mr. Sympton's Card, i. e. the Chart or Mariners Compass.

That

That all her Joys flow not together.

John. If we told her,
Your Grace would none of her?

Duke. By no means, Signior,
'Twould turn her wild, stark frantick.

John. Or assur'd her——

Duke. Nothing of that stern Nature: This ye may,
Sir,

That the Conditions of our Fear yet stand
On nice and dangerous Knittings: Or that a little
I seem to doubt the Child.

John. Would I could draw her
To hate your Grace with these things.

Petr. Come, let's enter.

And now he sees me not, I'll search her soundly.

Duke. Now Luck of all sides. [Exeunt Petr. and John.]

Fred. Doubt it not: More Musick:

Sure she has heard some Comfort.

Duke. Yes, stand still, Sir.

Fred. This is the maddest Song.

Duke. Applyed for certain
To some strange Melancholy she is loaden with.

Fred. Now all the Sport begins—— hark?

Duke. They are amongst 'em,
The Fears now, and the Shakings? [Trampling above.]

Fred. Our old Lady
(Hark how they run) is even now at this Instant
Ready to lose her Head-piece by Don John,
Or creeping through a Cat-hole. [Petr. and John within.]

Petr. Bring 'em down,
And you, Sir, follow me.

Duke. He's angry with 'em,
I must not suffer this.

John. [within.] Bowl down the Bawd there,
Old Erra mater: You, Lady Leachery,
For the good-will I bear to th' Game, most tenderly
Shall be led out, and lash'd.

Enter

Enter Petruchio, John, Whore, and Bawd, with Francisco.

Duke. Is this Constantia ?

Why Gentlemen ? What do you mean ? Is this she ?

Whore. I am Constantia, Sir.

Duke. A Whore ye are, Sir.

Whore. 'Tis very true : I am a Whore indeed, Sir.

Petr. She will not lye yet, though she steal.

Whore. A plain Whore,

If you please to imploy me.

Duke. And an impudent——

Whore. Plain-dealing now is Impudence.

One, if you will, Sir, can shew ye as much Sport

In one half Hour, and with as much Variety,

As a far wiser Woman can in half a Year :

For there my way lies.

Duke. Is she not drunk too ?

Whore. A little gilded o'er, Sir.

Old Sack, old Sack, Boys.

Petr. This is saliant.

John. A brave bold Quean.

Duke. Is this your Certainty ?

Do ye know the Man ye wrong thus, Gentlemen ?

Is this the Woman meant ? Fred. No.

Duke. That your Landlady ?

John. I know not what to say.

Duke. Am I a Person

To be your Sport, Gentlemen ?

John. I do believe now certain

I am a Knave ; but how, or when——

Duke. What are you ?

Petr. Bawd to this Piece of Pye-Meat.

Bawd. A poor Gentlewoman

That lies in Town, about Law Business,

And't like your Worships.

Petr. You shall have Law, believe it.

Bawd. I'll shew your Mastership my Case.

Petr. By no means,

I'd rather see a Custard,

Bawd.

Bawd. My dead Husband
Left it even thus, Sir.

John. Bless mine Eyes from Blasting,
I was never so frightened with a case.

Bawd. And so, Sir ———

Petr. Enough, put up good Velvet Head.

Duke. What are you two now,
By your own free Confessions?

Fred. What you shall think us,
Though to myself I am certain, and my Life
Shall make that good and perfect, or fall with it.

John. We are sure of nothing, Frederick, that's the Truth on't:

I do not think my Name's Don John, nor dare not Believe any thing that concerns me, but my Debts,
Nor those in way of Payment: Things are so carried,
What to entreat your Grace, or how to tell ye
We are, or we are not, is past my Cunning,
But I would fain imagine we are honest,
And o' my Conscience, I would fight in't ———

Duke. Thus then,
For we may be all abus'd.

Petr. 'Tis possible.
For how should this concern them?

Duke. Here let's part ———
Until to Morrow this time: We to our Way,
To make this Doubt out, and you to your Way;
Pawning our Honours then to meet again,
When if she be not found ———

Fred. We stand engaged
To answer, any worthy way we're call'd to.

Duke. We ask no more.

Whore. Y'have done with us then?

Petr. No, Dame.

Duke. But is her Name Constantia?

Petr. Yes, a Moveable
Belonging to a Friend of mine: Come out, Fidler,
What say you to this Lady? Be not fearful.

Fran. Saving the Reverence of my Master's Pleasure,
I say she is a Whore, and that she's robb'd him,

Hoping his Hurts would kill him.

Whore. Who provok'd me?

Nay, Sirrah, squeak, I'll see your treble Strings
Ty'd up too : if I hang, I'll spoil your Piping,
Your sweet Face shall not save ye.

Petr. Thou damn'd Impudence,
And thou dry'd Devil ; where's the Officer ?

Pet. He's here, Sir.

Enter Officer.

Petr. Lodge these safe, till I send for 'em ;
Let none come to 'em, nor no Noise be heard
Of where they are, or why : Away.

John. By this Hand,
A handsome Whore. Now will I be arrested,
And brought home to this Officer's : A stout Whore,
I love such stirring Ware : Pox o' this Business,
A Man must hunt out Morfels for another,
And starve himself : A quick-ey'd Whore, that's Wild-fire,
And makes the Blood dance through the Veins like Billows.

I will reprove this Whore.

Duke. Well, good Luck with ye.

Fred. As much attend your Grace.

Petr. To morrow certain —

John. If we out-live this Night, Sir.

Fred. Come, Don John,

We've something now to do.

John. I'm sure I would have.

Fred. If she ben't found, we must fight.

John. I'm glad on't,

I have not fought a great while.

Fred. If we die —

John. There's so much Mony fav'd in Letchery:

[Exeunt.

A C T

ACT V. SCENE I.

Enter Duke, Petruchio, below; and Vecchio above.

Duke. I T should be hereabouts.

Petr. Your Grace is right,
This is the House, I know it.

Vec. Grace? Duke. 'Tis further
By the Description we receiv'd.

Petr. Good my Lord the Duke,
Believe me, for I know it certainly,
This is the very House.

Vec. My Lord the Duke?

Duke. Pray Heav'n this Man prove right now.

Petr. Believe it, he's a most sufficient Scholar,
And can do rare Tricks this way; for a Figure,
Or raising an Appearance, whole Christendom
Has not a better; I've heard strange Wonders of him.

Duke. But can he shew us where she is?

Petr. Most certain.

And for what cause too she departed.

Duke. Knock then.

For I am great with Expectation,
Till this Man satisfie me: I fear the Spaniards,
Yet they appear brave Fellows: Can he tell us?

Petr. With a wet Finger, whether they be false.

Duke. Away then. Petr. Who's within here?

Enter Vecchio.

Vec. Your Grace may enter.

Duke. How can ye know me?

Petr. He knows all.

Vec. And you, Sir.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.

Enter Don John and Frederick.

John. What do you call his Name?

Fred. Why, Peter Vecchio.

John. They say he can raise Devils, can he make 'em
Tell Truth too, when he 'as rais'd 'em? for believe it,
These Devils are the lying'st Rascals.

Fred. He can compel 'em.

John. With what? Can he
Tye Squibs i'their Tails, and fire the Truth out?
Or make 'em eat a bawling Puritan,
Whose sanctified Zeal shall rumble like an Earthquake?

Fred. With Spells, Man.

John. I with Spoons as soon, dost think
The Devil such an Ass as the People make him?
Such a poor Coxcomb? such a penny Foot-post!
Compell'd with Crows and Pile to run of Errands?
With Aferoth, and Bebemoth, and Belfagor?
Why should he shake at Sounds, that lives in a Smith's
Or, if he do — [Forge?

Fred. Without all doubt he does, John.

John. Why should not Bilbo raise him, or (18) a Pair of Bullyons,
They go as big as any? or an unshod Car,
When he goes, tumble, tumble o'er the Stones,
Like Anacreon's drunken Verses,
These make as fell a Noise; methinks the Cholick
Well handled, and fed with Small-Beer —

Fred. 'Tis the Virtue —

John. The Virtue? nay, an Goodness fetch him up once,
H'as lost a Friend of me; the wise old Gentleman
Knows when, and how; I'll lay this Hand to two Pence,
Let all the Conjurers in Christendom,
With all their Spells and Virtues, call upon him,
And I but think upon a Wench, and follow it,
He shall be sooner mine than theirs; where's Virtue?

Fred. (19) Thou art the most sufficient, (I'll say for thee)
Not

(18) — A Pair of Bullyons,] Neither Mr. Sympson or I can find by any Dictionary what these are. It should seem most probable that they are Instruments us'd in coining Money, and us'd here chiefly from the Sound of the Word, as Bilbo is a grand affected Word for a Sword.

(19) Thou art the most sufficient,] Mr. Sympson thinks that we should read diffident here; but as that would break the Measure; so it would,

Not to believe a Thing ———

John. O Sir, slow Credit
Is the best Child of Knowledge; I'll go with ye,
And if he can do any thing, I'll think
As you would have me.

Fred. Let's enquire along,
For certain we are not far off.

John. Nor much nearer. [Exeunt.

S C E N E III.

Enter Duke, Petruchio, and Vecchio.

Vec. You lost her Yester-night.

Petr. How think you, Sir?

Duke. Is your Name Vecchio?

Vec. Yes, Sir. Duke. And you can shew me,
These things you promise.

Vec. Your Grace's Word bound to me,
No Hand of Law shall seize me.

Duke. As I live, Sir ———

Petr. And, as I live, that can do something too, Sir.

Vec. I take your Promises: Stay here a little,
Till I prepare some Ceremonies, and I'll satisfie ye.
The Lady's Name's Constantia? Petr. Yes.

Vec. I come straight. [Exit Vecchio.

Duke. Sure he's a learned Man.

Petr. The most now living; [stances,
Did your Grace mark when we told all these Circum-
How ever and anon he bolted from us
To use his Study's Help?

Duke. Now I think rather
To talk with some Familiar.

would, I think, weaken the Sense; for sufficient is us'd in the same Sense as self-sufficient, one that sets up his own Reason against the common Opinion of Mankind. The ridiculous Absurdity of believing in Conjurers and Witches is finely expos'd both here and in The Bloody Brother; yet it is but a few Years since our whole Legislature have freed themselves from the Imputation of this absurd Belief, and it is to this Day far from being worn out of the Minds of the Vulgar.

Petr. Not unlikely,
For sure he has 'em subject.

Duke. How could he else
Tell when she went, and who went with her?

Petr. True.

Duke. Or hit upon mine Honour; or assure me
The Lady lov'd me dearly?

Enter Vecchio, in his Habillments.

Petr. 'Twas fo.

Vec. Now,

I do beseech your Grace, sit down, and you, Sir;
Nay, pray sit close like Brothers.

Petr. A rare Fellow.

Vec. And what ye see, stir not at, nor use a Word,
Until I ask ye; for what shall appear
Is but weak Apparition, and thin Air,
Not to be held, nor spoken to.

[Knocking within.

[John, Frederick, and a Servant within.

Duke. We are counsell'd —

Vec. What Noise is that without there?

Fred. [within.] We must speak with him.

Serv. [within.] He's busie, Gentlemen.

John. [within.] That's all one, Friend
We must and will speak with him.

Duke. Let 'em in, Sir,

We know their Tongues and Business, 'tis our own,
And in this very Cause that we now come for,
They also come to be instructed,

Vec. Let 'em in then:

Sit down, I know your Meaning.

Enter Frederick, John, and Servant.

Fred. The Duke before us?

Now we shall sure know something.

Vec. Not a Question,

But make your Eyes your Tongues —

John. This's a strange Jugler,
Neither indent before-hand for his Payment,
Nor know the Breadth o'th' Business; sure his Devil

Comes

Comes out of Lapland, where they sell Men Winds
For dead Drink and old Doublets.

Fred. Peace, he conjures.

John. Let him, he cannot raise my Devil.

Fred. Prithee, Peace.

Vec. Appear, appear,

And you soft Winds so clear,

That dance upon the Leaves, and make them sing

Gentle Love-lays to the Spring,

Gilding all the Vales below

With your Verdure, as ye blow,

Raise these Forms from under Ground,

With a soft and bappy Sound. [Soft Musick.

John. This is an honest Conjurer, and a pretty Poet;
I like his Words well, there's no Bombast in 'em.
But do you think now he can cudgel up the Devil
With this short Staff of Verses?

Fred. Peace, the Spirits _____

[Two Shapes of Women passing by.

John. Nay, and they be no worse _____

Vec. Do you know these Faces?

Duke. No.

Vec. Sit still upon your Lives then, and mark what follows;

Away, away.

John. These Devils do not paint sure?
Have they no sweeter Shapes in Hell?

Fred. Hark now, John. [Constantia passes by.

John. Ay, marry, this moves something like, this Devil
Carries some Metal in her Gate.

Vec. I find ye,
You'd see her Face unvail'd?

Duke. Yes.

Vec. Be uncover'd.

Duke. O Heav'n!

Vec. Peace.

Petr. See how she blushes.

John. Frederick,
This Devil for my Mony; this is she, Boy.

Why dost thou shake? I burn.

Vec. Sit still, and silent.

Duke. She looks back at me, now she smiles, Sir.

Vec. Silence.

Duke. I must rise, or I burst. [Exit Constantia.

Vec. Ye see what follows —

Duke. O gentle Sir, this Shape again.

Vec. I cannot.

'Tis all dissolv'd again; this was the Figure?

Duke. The very same, Sir.

No Hope once more to see it?

Vec. You might have kept it longer, had ye spar'd it,
Now 'tis impossible.

Duke. No means to find it?

Vec. Yes, that there is, sit still a while, there's Wine
To thaw the Wonder from your Hearts; drink well, Sir.
[Exit Vecchio.

John. This Conjurer is a right good Fellow too,
A Lad of Mettle; two such Devils more
Would make me a Conjurer; what Wine is it?

Fred. (20) Hock.

John. The Devil's in it then; look how it dances.
Well, if I be —

Petr. We are all before ye,
That's your best Comfort, Sir.

John. By the Mass brave Wine;
Nay, and the Devils live in this Hell, I dare venture
Within these two Months yet to be delivered
Of a large Legion of 'em.

Enter Vecchio.

Duke. Here he comes;
Silence of all sides, Gentlemen.

(20) Hollock.] The difficulty of pronouncing German Names often makes great Confusion in the spelling. Bacharach and Hochst two neighbouring Towns, one upon the Rhine, and the other a little higher upon the Main, give Names to the two Wines Bachrack and Hock; the former ofteneft occurs in our Authors and the Writers of their Age, tho' now all the Wines that come from the Neighbourhood of Hochst receive their Name from thence.

Vec.

Vec. Good your Grace,
Observe a stricter Temper, and you too, Gallants,
You'll be deluded all else. This merry Devil
That next appears, for such a one you'll find it,
Must be call'd up by a strange Incantation,
A Song, and I must sing it: 'pray bear with me,
And pardon my rude Pipe; for yet, e'er parting
Twenty to one I please ye.

Duke. We are arm'd, Sir.

Petr. Nor shall you see us more transgress.

Fred. What think'st thou
Now, John?

John. Why, now do I think, Frederick,
(And if I think amiss Heav'n pardon me)
This honest Conjuror, with some four or five
Of his good Fellow-Devils, and myself,
Shall be yet drunk e'er Midnight,

S O N G.

Come away, thou Lady gay,
Hoist; how she stumbles?
Hark how she mumbles.

Dame Gillian. Answer. I come, I come.

By old Claret I enlarge thee,

By Canary thus I charge thee,

(21) By Britain-Metbeglin, and Peeter,

Appear, and answer me in Meeter.

Why when?

Why Gill?

Why when?

Answer. You'll tarry till I am ready.

(21) By Britain-Metbeglin, and Peeter,] Peeter is the Name of a Liquor that neither Mr. Sympson or I can find in any Dictionary. It may, perhaps, be a Wine from some Part of the Pope's Dominions, or Peter's Patrimony; but this is a meer Conjecture. Another has since occur'd that seems more probable. We find the Rhenish Wines Backrack and Hock to be in much repute in our Authors Age: Now Hock stands near the Confluence of the River Weter with the Main, might not Weeter therefore be the true Reading?

The Chances.

Once again I conjure thee,
 (22) By the Pose in thy Nose,
 And the Gout in thy Toes ;
 By thine old dried Skin,
 And the Mummy within ;
 By thy little, little Ruff,
 And thy Hood that's made of Stuff ;
 By thy Bottle at thy Breech,
 And thine old salt Itch ;
 By the Stakes, and the Stones,
 That have worn out thy Bones,

Appear.

Appear.

Appear.

Answer. Ob I am here.

Fred. Peace, he conjures.

[now,

John. Why, this is the Song, Frederick ; twenty pound
 To see but our Don Gillian.

Enter Landlady and the Child.Fred. Peace, it appears.

John. I cannot peace ; Devils in French Hoods, Frederick ?
derick ?

Satan's old Syringes ? Duke. What's this ?

Vec. Peace. John. She, Boy.

Fred. What dost thou mean ?

John. She, Boy, I say. Fred. Ha ?

(22) By the Pose—] The Pose is an old English Word used by Chaucer for a Catarrh or Defluxion of Rheum. Mr. Sympson says that Hollingsbed tells us, that the Pose is a Distemper which was rarely, if ever, known among the English till Chimneys were introduc'd, which was not long before his Time ; that before then Fires were made against Rere-Dosses, and the Smoke got out how it could. This may be true : Rich People burnt chiefly Coke or Charcoal in the middle of their Halls, as many of the Colleges of Cambridge and Oxford do still ; but why either this or smoky Houses should so entirely prevent Colds and Rheums in the Head seems somewhat strange. Hollingsbed, perhaps, meant no more than that Catarrhs were much more rife than formerly. I verily believe Chimneys to be pernicious to Health in general, and could wish to see Stoves as customary here as they are both in warmer and colder Climates abroad.

John.

John. She, Boy,
The very Child too, Frederick.

Fred. She laughs on us
Aloud, John, has the Devil these Affections?
I do believe 'tis she, indeed.

Vec. Stand still.

John. I will not ;

(23) Who calls Jeronimo from his naked Bed ?
Sweet Lady, was it you ? if thou beest the Devil,
First, having crost myself, to keep out wildfire,
Then said some special Prayers to defend me
Against thy most unhallowed Hood, have at thee.

Land. Hold, Sir, I am no Devil.

John. That's all one.

Land. I am your very Landlady.

John. I defie thee ;

Thus as St. Dunstan blew the Devil's Nose with A pair of Tongs, even so, Right Worshipful——

Land. Sweet Son, I am old Gillian.

Duke. This is no Spirit.

John. Art thou old Gillian, Flesh and Bone ?

Land. I am, Son.

Vec. Sit still, Sir, now I'll shew you all. [Exit Vec.

John. Where's thy Bottle ?

Land. Here, I beseech ye, Son——

John. For I know the Devil
Cannot assume that Shape.

Fred. 'Tis she, John, certain—— [you

John. A Hog's pox o' your mouldy Chaps, what makes Tumbling and juggling here ?

Land. I am quit now, Seignior,
For all the pranks you play'd, and railings at me,
For to tell true, out of a Trick I put Upon your high Behaviours, which was a Lye,
But then it serv'd my turn, I drew the Lady

(23) Who calls Jeronimo——] This Play, which had a great

Unto

Unto my Kinsman's here, only to torture
Your Don-ships for a Day or two ; and secure her
Out of all thoughts of Danger ; here she comes now.

Enter Vecchio, and Constantia.

Duke. May I yet speak ?

Vec. Yes, and embrace her too,
For one that loves you dearer——

Duke. O my sweetest.

Petr. Blush not, I will not chide ye.

Con. To add more

Unto the Joy I know, I bring ye, see, Sir,
The happy Fruit of all our Vows!

Duke. Heav'n's Blessing
Be round about thee ever.

John. Pray blefs me too,
For if your Grace be well instructed this way,
You'll find the keeping half the getting.

Duke. How, Sir?

John. I'll tell you that anon.

Con. 'Tis true, this Gentleman
Has done a Charity worthy your Favour,
And let him have it, dear Sir.

Duke. My best Lady
He has, and ever shall have : So must you, Sir,
To whom I'm equal bound as to my Being.

Fred. Your Grace's humble Servant——

Duke. Why kneel you, Sir ?

Vec. For pardon for my boldness ; yet 'twas harmless,
And all the Art I have, Sir ; those your Grace saw,
Which you thought Spirits, were my Neighbours Children
Whom I instruct in Grammar here, and Musick ;
Their Shapes (the Peoples fond Opinions,
Believing I can conjure, and oft repairing
To know of Things stoln from 'em) I keep about me,
And always have in readiness. By conjecture
Out of their own Confessions, I oft tell 'em
Things that by chance have fall'n out so ; which way (Having the Persons here, I knew you sought for)
I wrought upon your Grace ; my end is mirth,

And

And pleasing, if I can, all Parties.

Duke. I believe it,
For you have pleas'd me truly : So well pleas'd me,
That when I shall forget it——

Petr. Here's old Antonio,
I spy'd him at a Window, coming mainly
I know about his Whore; the Man you light on,
As you discover'd to me; good your Grace,
Let's stand by all, 'twill be a Mirth above all,
'T' observe his pelting Fury.

Vec. About a Wench, Sir?

Petr. A young Whore that has rob'd him.

Vec. But do you know, Sir,
Where she is?

Petr. Yes, and will make that perfect——

Vec. I am instructed well then.

John. If he come

To have a Devil shew'd him, by all means
Let me be he, I can roar rarely.

Petr. Be so,

But take heed to his Anger.

Vec. Slip in quickly,

There you shall find Suits of all sorts : When I call

Be ready, and come forward. [Exeunt all but Vecchio.

Who's there comes in?

Enter Antonio.

Ant. Are you the Conjurer?

Vec. Sir, I can do a little

That way, if you please to employ me.

Ant. Presently, shew me a Devil that can tell——

Vec. Where your Wench is.

Ant. You are i'th' right; as also where the Fidler

That was consenting to her.

Vec. Sit ye there, Sir,

Ye shall know presently : Can ye pray heartily?

Ant. Why is your Devil so furious?

Vec. I must shew ye

A Form may chance affright ye.

Ant.

Ant. He must fart Fire then:
Take you no care for me.

Vec. Ascend, Ash'rotb,

Enter Don John like a Spirit.

Why, when, appear I say——Now question him.

Ant. Where is my Whore, Don Devil?

John. Gone to China,
To be the great Cham's Mistress.

Ant. That's a lye, Devil.

Where are my Jewels?

John. Pawn'd for Petticoats.

Ant. That may be: Where's the Fidler?

John. Condemn'd to th' Gallows
For robbing of a Mill.

Ant. The lying'st Devil

That e'er I dealt withal, and the unlikeliest!

What was that Rascal hurt me?

John. I.

Ant. How?

John. I.

Ant. Who was he?

John. I.

Ant. Do you hear, Conjurer?

Dare you venture your Devil?

Vec. Yes.

Ant. Then I'll venture my Dagger;
Have at your Devil's Pate; do you mew?

Enter All.

Vec. Hold.

Petr. Hold there,
I do command you hold.

Ant. Is this the Devil?

Why, Conjurer——

Petr. He has been a Devil to you, Sir;
But now you shall forget all; your Whore's safe,
And all your Jewels, your Boy too.

John. Now the Devil indeed
Lay his ten Claws upon thee, for my Pate

Finds

Finds what it is to be a Fiend.

Ant. All safe?

Petr. 'Pray ye know this Person; all's right now.

Ant. Your Grace

May now command me then: But where's my Whore?

Petr. Ready to go to whipping.

Ant. My Whore whipt?

Petr. Yes, your Whore without doubt, Sir.

Ant. Whipt! 'pray, Gentlemen.

Duke. Why, would you have her once more rob ye?
the young Boy

You may forgive, he was entic'd.

John. The Whore, Sir,

Would rather carry pity: A handsome Whore.

Ant. A Gentleman I warrant thee.

Petr. Let's in all,

And if we see contrition in your Whore, Sir,

Much may be done.

Duke. Now my dear Fair to you,
And the full Consummation of my Vow.

[Exeunt.

EPILOGUE

Could we be confident that all rise pleas'd;
But such Ambition soars too high: If We Have satisfy'd the best, and they agree
In a fair Censure, We have our Reward,
And in them arm'd desire no surer Guard.*

(1) Baldwin. The Brothers then are met ?

Gisb. They are, Sir.

Bald. 'Tis thought they may be reconcil'd.

Gisb. 'Tis rather wisht, for such, whose Reason
Doth direct their Thoughts without Self flattery,
Dare not hope it.

Bald. The Fires of Love, &c.] The old Quarto of 1640, the first Edition of this Play, gives this Passage thus.

Bald. The Brothers then are met ?

Gisb. They are.

Bald. 'Tis thought they may be reconcil'd.

Ambition hath divided: And there are Too many on both Parts, that know they cannot
 Or rise to Wealth or Honour, their main Ends,
 (2) Unless the Tempest of the Prince's Fury
 Make troubled Seas, and those Seas yield fit Billows
 To heave them up; and these are too well practis'd
 In their bad Arts to give way to a Calm,
 Which yielding rest to good Men proves their Ruin.

Bald. And in the Shipwrack of their Hopes and Fortunes,

The Dukedom might be sav'd, had it but ten
 That stood affected to the general good,
 With that confirm'd Zeal which brave Aubrey does.

Gisb. He is indeed the perfect Character
 Of a good Man, and so his Actions speak him.

Bald. And did you observe the many Doubts and Cautions

The Brothers stood upon before they met?

Gisb. I did; and yet, that ever Brothers should

Gisb. 'Tis rather wish'd,

*For such, whose Reason do direct their Thoughts
 Without Self-flattery, dare not hope it, Baldwin.
 The Fires of Love, which the dead Duke believ'd
 His equal Care &c.*

The Reader will perceive a very small Mistake here in the Measure, but the second Folio and Octavo instead of correcting it were led by it into a total neglect of the Measure, and a Confusion of the Speakers; and indeed they have both printed this Play so shockingly incorrect, that without the old Quarto all the critical Sagacity upon Earth (as infallible as it is too apt to imagine itself) could never have restor'd it, as will evidently appear in the next Note. Mr. Theobald and Mr. Symson have both very accurately collated the three Editions of this Play, and I had endeavour'd to do the same before I saw theirs, so that I hope nothing material will be overlook'd; but it would be tedious to the Reader to insert any but the grosser Errors of the late Editions.

(2) *Unless the Tempest of the Prince's Fury
 Make troubled Seas, and those Seas yield fit Billows
 In their bad Arts to give way to a Calm,
 Which yielding rest and good, prove their Ruin,
 And in the Shipwrack of their Hopes and Fortunes,
 The Dukedom might be sav'd, —*

Thus the two last Editions had confounded Sense, Measure, and Speakers, which are all restor'd from the old Quarto.

Stand

Stand on more nice Terms, than sworn Enemies
After a War proclaim'd, would with a Stranger
Wrong the Reporter's Credit; they saluted
At distance, and so strong was the Suspicion
Each had of other, that before they durst
Embrace, they were by several Servants search'd,
As doubting conceal'd Weapons, Antidotes
Ta'en openly by both, fearing the Room
Appointed for the Interview was poison'd,
The Chairs and Cushions, with like care, survey'd;
And, in a word, in every Circumstance,
So jealous on both Parts, that it is more
Than to be fear'd, Concord can never join
Minds so divided.

Bald. Yet our best Endeavours
Should not be wanting, Gisbert,

Gisb. Neither shall they.

Enter Grandpree and Verdon.

But what are these?

Bald. They are without my Knowledge;
But by their Manners and Behaviours,
They should express themselves.

Grand. Since we serve Rollo,
The elder Brother, we'll be Rollians,
Who will maintain us, Lads, as brave as Romans;
You stand for him?

Verd. I do.

Grand. Why, then observe
How much the Business, the so long'd-for Business,
By Men that are nam'd from their Swords, concerns you.
Lechery, our common Friend, so long kept under,
With Whips, and beating fatal Hemp, shall rise,
(3) And Bawdry, in a French Hood, plead before her,
Where it shall be concluded, after Twelve
Virginity shall be carted.

(3) And Bawdry, in a French Hood plead, before her Virginity shall be carted.] The late Editions had dropt a Line between these, not indeed with such havock of the Sense as in the former Instance, but they had a little injur'd it by false Points as well as this Omission.

Verd. Excellent!

Grand. And Hell but grant, the Quarrel that's between
The Princes may continue, and the Business
That's of the Sword, t'out-last three Suits in Law;
And we will make Attornies Lans-prizadoes,
And our brave Gown-men Practifers of Back-fword;
The Pewter of all Serjeants Maces shall
Be melted, and turn'd into common Flaggons,
In which it shall be lawful to caroufe
To their most lowlie Fortunes.

Bald. Here's a Statesman!

Grand. A Creditor shall not dare, but by Petition,
To make Demand of any Debt; and that Only once every Leap-year, in which, if
The Debtor may be won for a French Crown,
To pay a Soulz, he shall be registred
His Benefactor.

Verd. The Chancellor hears you.

Grand. Fear not, I now dare speak as loud as he,
And will be heard, and have all I speak Law;
Have you no Eyes? There is a Reverence due
From Children of the Gown, to Men of Action.

Gisb. How's this?

Grand. Even so; the Times, the Times are chang'd,
All Business is not now preferr'd in Parchment,
Nor shall a Grant pass that wants this Broad-Seal;
This Seal, d'ye see? Your Gravity once laid
My Head and Heels together in the Dungeon,
For cracking a scald Officer's Crown, for which
A Time is come for Vengeance, and expect it;
For know, you have not full three Hours to live.

Gisb. Yes, somewhat longer. Grand. To what end?

Gisb. To hang you;

Think on that, Ruffian. Grand. For you, School-master,
You have a pretty Daughter; let me see,
Near Three a-clock, (by which time, I much fear,
I shall be tir'd (4) with killing some five hundred)

(4), ——— with killing some five hundred] The Corruption of the two last Editions.

Provide a Bath, and her to entertain me,
And that shall be your Ransom.

Bald. Impudent Rascal!

Enter to them Trevile and Duprete.

Gisb. More of the Crew?

Grand. What are you? Rollians?

Trev. No; this for Rollo, and all such as serve him;
We stand for Otto.

Grand. You seem Men of Fashion,
And therefore I'll deal fairly, you shall have
The Honour this Day to be chronicled
The first Men kill'd by Grandpre; you see this Sword,
A pretty foolish Toy, my Valour's Servant,
And I may boldly say a Gentleman,
It having made, when it was Charlemaign's,
Three thousand Knights; this, Sir, shall cut your Throat,
And do you all fair Service else.

Trev. I kiss your Hands for the good Offer; here's another too, the Servant of your Servant shall be proud to be scour'd in your sweet Guts; 'till when pray you command me.

(5) Grand. Your Idolater, Sir.

[Exeunt. Manent Gisb. and Bald.

Gisb. That ever such should hold the Names of Men,
Or Justice be held Cruelty, when it labours
To pluck such Weeds up!

Bald. Yet they are protected.
And by the Great ones. Gisb. Not the good ones, Baldwin.

Enter to them Aubrey.

Aubr. Is this a time to be spent thus, by such As are the principal Ministers of the State?
When they that are the Heads, have fill'd the Court
With Factions, a weak Woman only left
To stay their bloody Hands? Can her weak Arm

(5) Grand. Your Idolater, Sir.] The Politeness of the French
Duellists is inimitably burlesqu'd, both here and in the first Act of the Little French Lawyer, on which see Note the Seventh of that Play.

Alone divert the Dangers ready now
 To fall upon the Common-wealth, and bury
 The Honours of it, leaving not the Name
 Of what it was. Oh, Gisbert, the fair Trials
 And frequent Proofs which our late Master made,
 Both of your Love and Faith, gave him Assurance,
 To chuse you at his Death to be a Guardian ;
 Nay, Father to his Sons ; and that great Trust,
 How ill do you discharge ? I must be plain,
 That, at the best, y'are a sad Looker-on
 Of those bad Practices you should prevent.
 And where's the Use of your Philosophy
 In this so needful time ? Be not secure ;
 For, Baldwin, be assur'd, since that the Princes,
 When they were young, and apt for any Form,
 Were giv'n to your Instruction, and grave Ordering ;
 'Twill be expected that they should be good,
 Or their bad Manners will b' imputed yours.

Bald. 'Twas not in me, my Lord, to alter Nature.

Gisb. Nor can my Counsels work on them, that will not Vouchsafe me hearing.

Aubr. Do these Answers sort,
 Or with your Place, or Persons, or your Years ?
 Can Gisbert, being the Pillar of the Laws,
 See them trod under Foot, or forc'd to serve
 The Princes unjust Ends ; and, with a Frown,
 Be silenc'd from exclaiming on th' Abuse ?
 Or Baldwin only weep the desp'rate Madness
 Of his seduced Pupils ? See their Minds,
 Which with good Arts he labour'd to build up,
 Examples of succeeding Times, o'erturn'd
 By undermining Parasites ; no one Precept
 (6) Leading to any Act, or great, or good,

But

(6) Leading to any Art,—] No two Words are oftener put each for the other than Act and Art. Here, indeed, either will make Sense, but the old Quarto's is certainly the true Reading and the more natural. At the Beginning of the third Act of Monsieur Thomas, Celide says,

*What living Name can dead Age leave behind him,
 What Art of Memory but fruitless Detage ?*

Mr. Tho-

But is forc'd from their Memory, in whose room
Black Counsels are receiv'd, and their Retirements
And secret Conference producing only
Dev'lish Designs, a Man would shame to father ;
(7) But I talk when I should do, and chide others
For that I now offend in.

Enter Rollo, Latorch, Trevile, Grandpree, Otto, Verdon, and Duprete.

Rol. See't confirm'd ?

Gisb. Now do, or never speak more : We are yours.

Mr. Theobald has rightly corrected this in his Margin, What Act of Memory ; but when I printed that Play I happened not to be able to have recourse to Mr. Theobald's Corrections, and, fortunately, this is the only one of the least Consequence made by him which I happened to overlook.

(7) *But I talk when I should do, and chide others
For that I now offend in : See't confirm'd,
Now do, or never speak more.*

Gisb. We are yours.

Enter Rollo, Latorch, &c.

*Rol. You shall know &c.] Thus the two last Editions, without any Regard to the Quarto, which prints it thus :
But I talk when I should do, and chide others
For what I now offend in.*

S C E N E V.

Rollo, Latorch, Trevile, Grandpree, Otto, Verdon, Duprete, Gisbert, Baldwin, Aubrey.

Gisb. See't confirm'd ?

Now do, or never speak more.

We are yours.

Rol. You shall know &c.

This is certainly much preferable to the former, but yet I believe there is a small Mistake in it. See it confirm'd, is a meer Pleonasm either in Gisbert's or Aubrey's Mouth ; but in Rollo's it is a fine Continuation of a suppos'd previous Dispute between the Brothers, Otto having insisted upon the Confirmation of his Father's Will, which appointed him Co-heir of the Dukedom, Rollo with Indignation replies, See't confirm'd ?

The abrupt opening of a Play or Scene in this manner is a very great Beauty. Terence almost always introduces his Characters in the Continuance of some Passion, and it has the same Effect which the like Conduct has in the Epic Poem,

in medias res

Non secus ac notas auditorem rapit.

Rol.

Rol. You shall know who I am.

Otto. I do, my Equal.

Rol. Thy Prince; give way—— were we alone, I'd force thee,

In thy best Blood, to write thyself my Subject,
And glad I would receive it.

Aubr. Sir. Gisb. Dear Lord.

Otto. Thy Subject?

Rol. Yes, nor shall tame Patience hold me
A Minute longer, only half My-self;
My Birth gave me this Dukedom, and my Sword
Shall change it to the common Grave of all
That tread upon her Bosom, e'er I part with A Piece of Earth, or Title that is mine.

Otto. I need it not, and would scorn to receive,
Though offer'd, what I want not: Therefore know
From me, tho' not deliver'd in great Words,
Eyes red with Rage, poor Pride, and threatening Action;
Our Father at his Death, then, when no Accent,
Wer't thou a Son, could fall from him in vain,
Made us Co-heirs, our part of Land and Honours
Of equal Weight; and to see this confirm'd,
The Oaths of these are yet upon Record,
Who, though they should forsake me, and call down
The Plagues of Perjury on their sinful Heads,
I would not leave myself.

Trev. Nor will we see
The Will of the dead Duke infring'd. Lat. Nor I
The Elder robb'd of what's his Right.

Grand. Nor you?
Let me take place, I say, I will not see't;
My Sword is sharpest.

Aubr. Peace, you Tinder-boxes,
That only carry Matter to make a Flame,
Which will consume you.

Rol. You are troublesome. [To Baldwin.
This is no time for Arguments, my Title
Needs not your School-Defences, but my Sword,
With which the Gordian of your Sophistry
Being cut, shall shew th' Imposture. For your Laws

It

It is in me to change them as I please, [To Gisbert.
I being above them ; Gisbert, would you have me
Protect them ?

Let them now stretch their extreamest Rigour,
And feize upon that Traitor ; and your Tongue
Make him appear first dang'rous, and then odious ;
And after under the Pretence of Safety
For the sick State, the Land's and Peoples Quiet,
Cut off his Head : And I'll give up my Sword,
And fight with them at a more certain Weapon
To kill, and with Author'ty.

Gisb. Sir, I grant
The Laws are useful Weapons, but found out
To assure Innocence, not to oppress.

Rol. Then you conclude him Innocent ? Gisb. The Power

Your Father gave him must not prove a Crime.]

Aubr. Nor should you so receive it.

Bald. To which purpose,
All that dare challenge any part in Goodness
Will become Suppliants to you.

Rol. Such have none
That dare move me in this : Hence I defie you,
Be of his Party, bring it to your Laws,
And thou thy double Heart, thou popular Fool,
Your moral Rules of Justice, and her Balance ;
I stand on mine own Guard.

Otto. Which thy Unjustice
Will make thy Enemies. By the Memory
Of him, (whose better Part now suffers for thee,
Whose reverend Ashes, with an impious Hand,
Thou throw'st out to Contempt, in thy repining
At his so just Decree) thou art unworthy
Of what his last Will, not thy Merits, gave thee,
That art so swoln within, with all those Mischiefs
That e'er made up a Tyrant, that thy Breast,
The Prison of thy Purposes, cannot hold them,
But that they break forth, and, in thy own Words,
Discover what a Monster they must serve
That shall acknowledge thee.

Rol.

Rob. Thou shalt not live
To be so happy. Aubr. Nor your Miseries
Begin in Murther.

[He offers his Sword at Otto, the Faction joining.
[Aubrey between severs the Brothers.

Duty, Allegiance,
And all respects of what you are, forsake me :
Do you stare on's? Is this a Theatre?
Or shall these kill themselves, like to mad Fencers,
To make you Sport? Keep them asunder, or,
By Heav'n, I'll charge on all.

Grand. Keep the Peace,
I am for you, my Lord, and if you'll have me,
I'll act the Constable's part.

Aubr. Live I to see this?
Will you do that your Enemies dare not wish,
And cherish in yourselves those Furies, which Hell would cast out? Do, I am ready; kill me,
And these, that would fall willing Sacrifices
To any Power that would restore your Reason,
And make you Men again, which now you are not.

Rob. These are your Bucklers, Boy.

Otto. My Hindrances;
And were I not confirm'd, my Justice in
The taking of thy Life, could not weigh down
The Wrong, in shedding the least Drop of Blood
Of these whose Goodness only now protects thee,
Thou should'st feel I in Act would prove myself
What thou in Words dost labour to appear.

Rob. Hear this, and talk again? I'll break through all,
But I will reach thy Heart.

Otto. 'Tis better guarded.

Enter Sophia.

Soph. Make way, or I will force it, who are these?
My Sons? my Shames; turn all your Swords on me,
And make this wretched Body but one Wound,
So this unnatural Quarrel find a Grave
In the unhappy Womb that brought you forth:
Dare you remember that you had a Mother,

Or

Or look on these grey Hairs, made so with Tears,
For both your Goods, and not with Age; and yet
Stand doubtful to obey her? from me you had Life, Nerves, and Faculties, to use these Weapons;
And dare you raise them against her, to whom
You owe the means of being what you are?

Otto. All Peace is meant to you.

Soph. Why is this War then?

As if your Arms could be advanc'd, and I
Not set upon the Rack? Your Blood is mine,
Your Danger's mine, your Goodness I should share in;
And must be branded with those impious Marks
You stamp on your own Foreheads and on mine,
If you go on thus: For my good Name therefore,
Though all Respects of Honour in yourselves
Be in your fury choakt, throw down your Swords;
Your Duty should be swifter than my Tongue;
And join your Hands while they are innocent;
You've Heat of Blood, and Youth apt to Ambition,
To plead an easie Pardon for what's past:
But all the Ills beyond this Hour committed,
From God or Men must hope for no Excuse.

Gisb. Can you hear this unmov'd?

Aub. No Syllable

Of this so pious Charm, but should have Power
To frustrate all the juggling Deceits,
With which the Devil blinds you.

Otto. I begin

To melt, I know not how.

Rol. Mother, I'll leave you;

And, Sir, be thankful for the Time you live,
Till we meet next, (which shall be soon and sudden)
To her Perswasion for you.

Soph. O yet, stay,

And rather than part thus, vouchsafe me hearing,
As Enemies; how is my Soul divided?
My Love to both is equal, as my Wishes;
But is return'd by neither; my griev'd Heart,
Hold yet a little longer, and then break.
I kneel to both, and will speak so, but this Takes.

(8) Takes from me the Authority of a Mother,
 And therefore, like myself, Otto, to thee,
 (And yet observe, Son, how thy Mother's Tears Outstrip her forward Words, to make way for 'em)
 Thou art the younger, Otto, yet be now
 The first Example of Obedience to me,
 And grow the elder in my Love.

Otto. The means

To be so happy? Soph. This; yield up thy Sword,
 And let thy Piety give thy Mother Strength
 To take that from thee, which no Enemies Force
 Could e'er despoil thee of: Why dost thou tremble,
 And with a fearful Eye fixt on thy Brother,
 Observ'ft his ready Sword, as bent against thee?
 I am thy Armour, and will be pierc'd through
 Ten thousand times, before I will give way
 To any Peril may arrive at thee;
 And therefore fear not.

Otto. 'Tis not for myself,

But for you, Mother; you are now engag'd
 In more than lies in your unquestion'd Virtue;
 For, since you have disarm'd me of Defence,
 Should I fall now, though by his Hand, the World
 May say it was your Practice.

Soph. All Worlds perish,

Before my Piety turn Treason's Parent,
 Take it again, and stand upon your Guard,
 And while your Brother is, continue arm'd;
 And yet this fear is needless, for I know,
 My Rollo, though he dares as much as Man,
 So tender of his yet untainted Valour,
 So noble, that he dares do nothing basely.

(8) Takes from me th' Authority of a Mother's Power;] The Quarto reads,

Takes the Authority of a Mother's Power;

If this latter be not more corrupt, it is evident that of should be off, as I first intended to read, and find that Mr. Theobald read so too: But there is a Pleonasm and Improprity in taking Authority from Power, which I scarce think genuine, and I therefore insert in the Text what seems the natural Expression.

You

(9) You doubt him; he fears you; I doubt and fear
Both; for each others Safety, not mine own.
Know yet, my Sons, when of Necessity
You must deceive, or be deceiv'd; 'tis better
To suffer Treason, than to act the Traitor;
And in a War like this, in which the Glory
Is his that's overcome; consider then
What 'tis for which you strive: Is it the Dukedom?
Or the Command of these so ready Subjects?
Desire of Wealth? or whatsoever else
Fires your Ambition? 'Tis still desp'rate Madness,
To kill the People which you would be Lords of;
With Fire and Sword to lay that Country waste
Whose Rule you seek for: To consume the Treasures,
Which are the Sinews of your Government,
In cherishing the Factions that destroy it:
Far, far be this from you: Make it not question'd
Whether you can have Interest in that Dukedom,
Whose Ruin both contend for. Otto. I desire
But to enjoy my own, which I will keep.

Rol. And rather than Posterity shall have cause
To say I ruin'd all, divide the Dukedom,
I will accept the Moiety.

Otto. I embrace it.

Soph. Divide me first, or tear me Limb by Limb,
And let them find as many several Graves
As there are Villages in Normandy:
And 'tis less Sin, than thus to weaken it.

(9) You doubt him; he fears you; I doubt and fear

Both; for others Safety, and not mine own.] The old Quarto reads the second Line,

Both; for others Safety, not my own.

This wanting a Syllable, the late Editions, to fill up the Measure, added one, but in a Place where it does more harm than good.
Mr. Theobald, Mr. Sympson, and I, have each different Readings, which the Reader will please to take his choice of; tho' Partiality, perhaps, makes me insert my own in the Text. Mr. Theobald reads,

————— I doubt and fear
You both, for others Safety, not my own.

Mr. Sympson reads,

For both, for others Safety, not my own.

To hear it mention'd doth already make me
 Envy my dead Lord, and almost blaspheme
 Those Powers that heard my Prayer for Fruitfulness,
 And did not with my first Birth close my Womb ;
 (10) To me alone my second Blessing proves
 My first, my first of Misery, for if Heav'n
 Which gave me Rollo, there had staid his Bounty,
 And Otto, my dear Otto, ne'er had been,
 Or being, had not been so worth my Love,
 The stream of my Affection had run constant
 In one fair Current, all my Hopes had been Laid up in one ; and fruitful Normandy
 In this Division had not lost her Glories :
 For as 'tis now, 'tis a fair Diamond,
 Which being preserv'd entire, exceeds all Value,
 But cut in Pieces (though these Pieces are Set in fine Gold by the best Workman's cunning)
 Parts with all Estimation : So this Dukedom,
 As 'tis yet whole, the neighbouring Kings may covet,
 But cannot compass ; which divided, will Become the Spoil of every barbarous Foe
 That will invade it.

Gisb. How this works in both !

Bal. Prince Rollo's Eyes have lost their Fire.

Gisb. And Anger,

That but ev'n now wholly possess'd good Otto,
 Hath given Place to Pity. Aubr. End not thus,
 Madam, but perfect what's so well begun.

Soph. I see in both, fair Signs of Reconcilement,
 Make them sure Proofs they are so : The Fates offer

(10) *To me alone my second Blessing proves
 My first of Misery, for if that Heav'n]* The Quarto reads,
*To me alone my second Blessing proves my first,
 My first of Misery, for if Heav'n*

The late Editions not understanding this, thought it a meer accidental Repetition, not considering that when properly rang'd it was absolutely necessary to the Measure. Besides this, it would be cruel to call Otto the dutiful Son, her First of Misery ? No, she says, that her second Blessing made her first become a Curse to her, which was certainly the Case as Rollo was the Incendiary. The old Quarto therefore was wrong pointed, as well as rang'd wrong.

To

To your free choice, either to live Examples
Of Piety, or Wickedness: If the latter
Blinds so your Understanding, that you cannot Pierce through her painted Out-side, and discover
That she is all Deformity within,
Boldly transcend all Precedents of Mischiefe,
(11) And let the last, and the worst Act of Tyrants,
The Murther of a Mother, but begin
The Scene of Blood you after are to heighten :
But if that Virtue, and her sure Rewards,
Can win you to accept her for your Guide,
To lead you up to Heav'n, and there fix you
The fairest Stars in the bright Sphere of Honour ;
Make me the Parent of an hundred Sons,
All brought into the World with Joy, not Sorrow,
And every one a Father to his Country,
In being now made Mother of your Concord.

Rol. Such, and so good, loud Fame for ever speak you.

Bald. I, now they meet like Brothers.

[The Brothers cast away their Swords, and embrace.

Gisb. My Heart's Joy

Flows thro' my Eyes. Aubr. May never Woman's Tongue
Hereafter be accus'd, for this one's Goodness.

Otto. If we contend, from this Hour, it shall be
How to o'ercome in brotherly Affection.

Rol. Otto is Rollo now, and Rollo, Otto,

Or as they have one Mind, rather one Name :

From this Attonement let our Lives begin,

Be all the rest forgotten.

Aubr. Spoke like Rollo.

Soph. And, to the Honour of this Reconcilement,

(11) And let the last, and the worst End of Tyrannies,

The Murther of a Mother, but begin

The Stain of Blood you after are to heighten :] End, in the first Line, and Stain in the third, are only the corrupt Readings of the late Editions. I have restor'd the true. But Mr. Theobald and Mr. Symson, both concur with me in preferring Tyrants to Tyrannies, as the Allusion to Nero's murdering his Mother becomes more evident.
I should, indeed, have thought the Change scarce deserving of a Note, but that Mr. Theobald thought one necessary, by putting L. T. his usual Mark for one.

We all this Night will, at a publick Feast,
With choice Wines, drown our late Fears, and with Musick

Welcome our Comforts.

Bald. Sure and certain ones.

(12) Soph. Supported thus I am secure; O Sons,
This is your Mother's Triumph.

Rol. You deserve it. [Exeunt.

[Manent Grandpree, Verdon, Trevile and Duprete.

Grand. Did ever such a hop'd-for Business end thus?

Verd. 'Tis fatal to us all, and yet you, Grandpree,
Have the least cause to fear.

Grand. Why, what's my Hope?

Verd. The Certainty that you have to be hang'd;
You know the Chancellor's Promise.

Grand. Plague upon you.

Verd. What think you of a Bath, and a Lord's Daughter
To entertain you?

Grand. Those Desires are off.

Frail Thoughts, all Friends, no Rollians now, nor Otto's.

The several Court'ies of our Swords and Servants

(13) Defer to apter Consequence; let's make use
Of this Night's Freedom, a short Parliament to us,
In which it will be lawful to walk freely;

Nay, to our Drink we shall have Meat too, that's
No usual Business to the Men o'th' Sword.

(12) Soph. Supported thus I am secure; O Sons,
This is your Mother's Triumph.

Rol. You deserve it.] This, which would give a pleasing, a noble, and majestic Exit to Sophia the Heroine of this Scene, is entirely left out by the late Editions.

(13) Defer to After-Consequence; let's make use
Of this Night's Freedom, a short Parliament to us,
In which it will be lawful to walk freely;]

After-Consequence is a poor Tautology, but chargeable only on the late Editions; apter is the old and true Reading. Mr. Sympson thinks that to carry on the Metaphor from the Parliament we should read, talk freely, and indeed I at first alter'd it so myself; but considering the Privilege of Parliament exempting the Members from imprisonment, and the Fear Grandpree was in of having only one Night's Exemption from it, the present Reading seems unexceptionable.

Drink

Drink deep with me to Night, we shall to Morrow,
Or whip, or hang the merrier.

Trev. Lead the Way then.

[Exeunt:

A C T II. S C E N E I.

Enter Latorch and Rollo.

Lat. WH Y should this trouble you?

Rol. It does, and must do

'Till I find Ease. Lat. Consider then, and quickly;
And, like a wise Man, take the Current with you,
Which once turn'd Head, will sink you; blest Occasion
Offers herself in thousand Safeties to you;
Time standing still to point you out your Purpose,
And Resolution (the true Child of Virtue)
Ready to execute: What dull cold Weakness
Has crept into your Bosom, whose meer Thoughts,
Like tempests, ploughing up the sailing Forests,
Ev'n with their Swing were wont to shake down Hazards,
What is't, your Mother's Tears?

Rol. Prithee be patient.

Lat. Her Hands held up? her Prayers, or her Curfes?
(14) Oh Power of Pray'r, drop'd through by a Woman!
Take heed the Soldiers see it not; 'tis miserable,
In Rollo below miserable; take heed your Friends,
The Sinews of your Cause, the Strength you stir by,
Take heed, I say, they find it not: Take heed
Your own Repentance (like a Passing-bell)
Too late, and too loud, tell the World y'are perish'd:

(14) Oh Power of Paper, drop'd through by a Woman!] Paper for Prayer is the gross Mistake of the late Editions only; but I suspect the old Quarto had made one too in the latter part of the Line, for what is the Antecedent to drop'd through by a Woman? We must go back to Thoughts or Resolution, and then indeed it is intelligible: But I rather think the true Reading to be,

O Pow'r of Pray'r and Tears drop'd by a Woman!

(15) What noble Spirit, eager of Advancement,
Whose Interest is his Plough; what Sword whose Sharpness

Waits but the Arm to wield it; or what Hope,
After the World has blown abroad this Weakness,
Will move again, or make a Wish for Rollo?

Rol. Are we not Friends again by each Oath ratified,
Our Tongues the Heralds to our Hearts?

Lat. Poor Hearts then.

Rol. Our worthier Friends.

Lat. No Friends, Sir, to your Honour;
Friends to your Fall: Where is your Understanding,
The noble Vessel that your full Soul sail'd in,
Rib'd round with Honours; where is that? 'tis ruin'd,
The Tempest of a Woman's Sighs has sunk it.
Friendship, take heed, Sir, is a smiling Harlot,
That when she kisses, kills; a soder'd Friendship,
Piec'd out with Promises; O painted Ruin?

Rol. Latorch, he is my Brother.

Lat. The more doubted;
For hatred hatch'd at home is a tame Tiger,
May fawn and sport, but never leave his Nature;
The Jars of Brothers, two such mighty ones,
Is like a small Stone thrown into a River,
The Breach scarce heard, but view the beaten Current,
And you shall see a thousand angry Rings
Rise in his Face, still swelling and still growing;
(16) So Jars Distrusts encircle; Distrusts Dangers,

And

(15) *What noble Spirit, eager of Advancement,
Whose Employment is his Plough;* } When an Expression is obscure, only borders upon a poetical Sentiment, and will not stand in the Verse, there is great Reason to doubt its Genuineness. The most proper Expression with regard to the Plough is when a Soldier's Sworn is call'd his Plough, by which he is to cultivate his Fortunes. Our Authors also very justly, in some Place, call a Man's Wit his Plough and here the true Word seems to have been Interest, the Plough which most Men follow; Employment indeed may be understood, but as it quite spoils the Measure I have ventur'd to discard it.

(16) *So Jars circling Distrusts, Distrusts breed Dangers,
And Dangers Death, the greatest extreme Shadow,
'Till nothing bound 'em but the Shoar, their Graves;* } The old
Quarto reads,

And Dangers Death the greatest extreme follows,
 'Till nothing bound 'em but the shoar, their Graves.
 There is no manly Wisdom, nor no Safety
 In leaning to this League, this piece-patcht Friendship;
 This rear'd-up Reconcilement on a Billow,
 Which as it tumbles, totters down your Fortune;
 Is't not your own you reach at, Law and Nature
 Ushering the way before you? Is not he Born and bequeath'd your Subject? Rol. Ha. Lat. What Fool

Would give a Storm leave to disturb his Peace,
 When he may shut the Casement? Can that Man
 Has won so much upon you by your Pity,
 (17) And's drawn so high, that like an ominous Comet,
 He darkens all your Light; can this couch'd Lion
 (Though now he licks and locks up his fell Paws, Craftily humming, like a Cat to cozen you)
 But (when Ambition whets him, and Time fits him)
 Leap to his Prey, and seiz'd once, suck your Heart out?
 D' you make it Conscience?

Rol. Conscience, Latorch, what's that?

Lat. A Fear they tye up Fools in, Nature's Coward,

*So Fars circling in Distrusts, Distrusts pull down Dangers,
 And Dangers Death, the greatest extreme Shadow,
 'Till nothing bound them but the Shower*

The late Editions have corrected Showe to muck stirr'd, Sir,

 the Measure and makes the whole

With Apprehension of meer Clouds and Shadows.

Rol. I know no Conscience, nor I fear no Shadows.

Lat. Or if you did, if there were Conscience,

(19) If the free Soul could suffer such a Curb ;
The fiery Mind such puddle t' put it out ;
Must it needs, like a rank Vine, run up rudely,
And twine about the top of all our Happiness,
Honour and Rule, and there sit shaking of us ?

Rol. It shall not, nor it must not ; I am satisfied,
And once more am myself again :

(18) Palling the Blood,—] The old Quarto reads, Tasting the Blood,— which the late Editions have turn'd into good Sense ; but as they have greatly departed from the Trace of the Letters, and from their numberless Mistakes deserve no sort of Regard, I doubt not but the true Word was either tainting or taking ; the latter is often used by all our old English Authors in the same Sense with the former. Thus Septimius, in The False One, Act IV. Scene III.

For I am yet too taking for your Company.

i. e. too infectious.

(19) If the free Soul could suffer such a Curb ;

To the fiery Mind, such Puddles to put it out ;] The old Quarto reads this Passage thus ;

If the free Soul could suffer

The fiery Mind, such puddle to put it out ?

Mr. S... thinks that we should strike out the Additions of the The Breach scarce the old Reading is right. To me it does not And you shall see a thow confounded and have but one Verb, Rise in his Face, still swell it not so well to the former ; or if it

Quarto reads,

My

My Mother's Tears and Womanish cold Prayers,
Farewel, I have forgot you; if there be Conscience,
Let it not come betwixt a Crown and me,
Which is my hope of Blifs, and I believe it :
Otto, our Friendship thus I blow to Air,
A Bubble for a Boy to play withal ;
And all the Vows my Weakness made, like this,
Like this poor heartless Rush, I rend in pieces.

Lat. Now you go right, Sir, now your Eyes are open.

Rol. My Father's last Petition's dead as he is,
And all the Promises I clos'd his Eyes with,
In the same Grave I bury.

Lat. Now you're a Man, Sir.

Rol. Otto, thou shew'st my Winding-sheet before me,
Which e'er I put it on, like Heav'n's blest Fire,
In my Descent I'll make it blush in Blood ;
(A Crown, a Crown, Oh sacred Rule, now fire me!)
Nor shall the Pity of thy Youth, false Brother,
Although a thousand Virgins kneel before me,
(20) And every dropping Eye a Court of Mercy,
The same Blood with me, nor the Reverence
Due to my Mother's blessed Womb that bred us,
Redeem thee from my Doubts : Thou art a Wolf here,
Fed with my Fears, and I must cut thee from me ;
(A Crown, a Crown ; Oh sacred Rule, now fire me!)
No Safety else. Lat. But be not too muck stirr'd, Sir,
(21) Nor too high-threatning in your Execution,
Ever remember, Sir, that swallowing Waters

Run

(20) And every dropping Eye a Court of Mercy,] This is a very strong Expression, tho' it may perhaps be objected to, as Courts of Mercy do not ordinarily petition for Mercy, but grant it to Petitioners. The Expression would certainly be more intelligible if we read,

And ev'ry dropping Eye shall court for Mercy.

But I will not venture to change the Text, lest I should be liable to the common Objection to Critics, of rejecting the most sublime Expressions of their Authors, meerly becaute their Conceptions were too low to reach them.

(21) Nor too high in your Execution : Swallowing Waters] As the Sense here is very stiff, and the Measure quite lost, I believe we have only the Fragments of two Lines made up into one ; high seems only half of some Compound Word, as high-threatning—high-raging—high-passion'd—high-worded— I prefer the former. As to what is

Run deep and silent, till they're satisfied,
 And smile in thousand Curles, to gild their Craft;
 Let your Sword sleep, and let my two-edg'd Wit work;
 This happy Feast, the full Joy of your Friendships,
 Shall be his last.

Rol. How, my Latorch?

Lat. Why thus, Sir;

I'll presently go dive into the Officers
 That minister at Table: (22) Gold and Goodness,
 With Promise upon Promise, and Time necessary,
 I'll pour into them.

Rol. Canst thou do it neatly?

Lat. Let me alone, and such a Bait it shall be,
 Shall take off all Suspicion.

Rol. Go and prosper.

Lat. Walk in then, and your smoothest Face put on, Sir.
 [Exit.]

S C E N E II.

Enter the Master Cook, Butler, Pantler, Yeoman of the Cellar, with a Jack of Beer and a Dish.

Cook. A hot Day, a hot Day, Vengeance hot Day, Boys, Give me some Drink, this Fire's a plaguy Fretter:

added to compleat the Measure and introduce the fine Metaphor which follows, I took the Hint from a Passage of Shakespeare not unlike this, Henry the VIIIth, Act I. Scene II. Norfolk says to Buckingham,

————— *We may out-run
 By violent swiftnes that which we run at
 And lose by over-running: know you not
 The fire that mounts the liquor, 'till't run o'er,
 In seeming to augment it wastes it?*

I quote this to shew, that tho' the Words added in the second Line are not necessary to the Sense, yet they are in Shakespeare's and Fletcher's manner. Whether they were the latter's or not, must remain a meer Uncertainty.

(22) ——— Gold and Goodness,] As Goodness seems an odd Motive to persuade People to Murder, I at first thought we should read, — Gold and Greatness, or Goods; but I now believe the old Reading right. As Vice always assumes some Pretence of Good, so Latorch, in persuading the Servants to the Murder, urges the Good of the State, and the general Blessing.

Body

Body of me, I am dry still ; give me the Jack, Boy ;
This wooden Skiff holds nothing.

Pant. And 'faith Master,

What brave new Meats ? for here will be old Eating.

Cook. Old and young, Boy, let 'em all eat, I have it ;
I've Ballast for their Bellies, a God's Name,
Let 'em 've ten Tire of Teeth a piece, I care not.

But. But what new rare Munition ?

Cook. Pish, a thousand ;

(23) I'll make you Piggs speak French, and a fat Swan

(24) Come sculling out of England with a Challenge ;

I'll make you a Dish of Calves-feet dance the Canaries,

And a Consort of cram'd Capons fiddle to 'em ;

A Calves Head speak an Oracle, and a dozen of Larks

Rise from the Dish, and sing all Supper time ;

'Tis nothing, Boys : I've fram'd a Fortification

Out of Rye-paste, which is impregnable,

And against that, for two long Hours together,

Two dozen of Marrow-bones shall play continually :

For Fish, I'll make you a standing Lake of white Broth,

And Pikes come plowing up the Plums before them ;

(25) Arion on a Dolphin, playing Lachrymæ,

And brave King Herring with his Oil and Onion

Crown'd

(23) I'll make you Piggs speak French at Table, and a fat Swan
Mr. Theobald very justly strikes out the Words at Table, as unnecessary to the Sense and injurious to the Measure.

(24) ———— and a fat Swan

Come sailing out of England with a Challenge ;] Sailing is only a conjectural Reading of the late very corrupt Editions ; the old Quarto reads, Come sculling out of England. Mr. Symphon therefore proposes what I have inserted in the Text, sculling. Thus Milton, Book 7. Line 439.

————— the Swan ————

————— rows

Her State with oary feet.

This Reading therefore, tho' propos'd with diffidence by its Author, and in company with another — scudding — appears quite self-evident ; it has all the Properties that the justest Emendation can possibly have ; it is the nearest the Trace of the Letters ; it gives the truest Idea of the Swan's Motion, and exactly suits the Humour and Stile of the Context.

(25) Arion, like a Dolphin, ———] It is strange how very frequently the late Editions have run into Corruptions so utterly from the Trace of the Letters, that Criticism must have transgress'd its

Bounds

Crown'd with a Lemon Pill, his way prepar'd
With his strong Guard of Pilchers.

Pant. Ay marry, Master.

Cook. All these are nothing: I'll make you a stubble
Goose

Turn o'th' Toe thrice, do a cross Point presently,
And sit down again, and cry Come eat me:
These are for Mirth. Now, Sir, for matter of Mourning,
I'll bring you in the Lady Loin of Veal,
With the long Love she bore the Prince of Orange.

All. Thou Boy, thou?

Cook. I have a Trick for thee too,
And a rare Trick, and I have done it for thee.

Yeo. What's that, good Master?

Cook. 'Tis a Sacrifice.

A full Vine bending, like an Arch, and under
The blown God Bacchus, sitting on a Hoghead,
(26) His Altar here: before that, a plump Vintner
Kneeling, and offering Incense to his Deity,
Which shall be only this, red Sprats and Pilchers.

But. This when the Table's drawn, to draw the Wine on.

Cook. Thou hast it right, and then comes thy Song, Butler.

Pant. This will be admirable.

Yeo. Oh Sir, most admirable.

Cook. If you'll have the Pasty speak, 'tis in my power,
I've Fire enough to work it; come, stand close,
And now rehearse the Song, it may be perfect,
The drinking Song, and say I were the Brothers.

Bounds to have restor'd the Original. What Similitude is there between the Particles like and on? And yet the Printers of those Editions had put the former for the latter, as they have done forty other Words of as little Resemblance in this Play.

(26) His Altar Beer: —] The Quarto reads, His Altar here — i. e. a Hoghead is here, or at this time the Altar of Bacchus. But the late Editions chang'd it to what seem'd to have an Affinity to the Hoghead, without observing that it would not make a Sense with the rest of the Sentence.

The drinking S O N G.

Drink to day and drown all Sorrow,
You shall perhaps not do it to morrow.
Best while you have it use your Breath,
There's no drinking after Death.

*Wine works the Heart up, wakes the Wit,
There's no Cure 'gainst Age but it.
It helps the Head-ach, Cough and Ptisick,
And is for all Diseases Physick.*

*Then let us swill, Boys, for our Health,
Who drinks well, loves the Commonwealth.
And he that will to Bed go sober,
Falls with the Leaf, Boys, still in October.*

Well have you born yourselves; a red Deer Pye, Boys,
And that no lean one, I bequeath your Virtues;
What Friends hast thou to day? no Citizens?

But. Yes, Father, the old Crew.

Cook. By the Mass true Wenches:

Sirrah, set up a Chine of Beef, and a hot Pasty,
And let the Joll of Sturgeon be corrected:
And do you mark, Sir, stalk me to a Pheasant,
And see if you can shoot her in the Cellar.

(28) But. Gra-mercy, Dad, send me thy roaring Bottles,
And with such Nectar I will see 'em fill'd,
That all thou speak'st shall be pure Helicon.

(27) In the former Leaf, at Note 24, Mr. Sympson is depriv'd of an ingenious Emendation by a Mistake at Prefs. In the third Line of the Note, instead of — the old Quarto reads sculling — read — the old Quarto reads sculing.

(28) Pant. God a mercy, Lad, send me thy roaring Bottles,] Lad, for Dad, is only the Reading of the late Editions; but the Quarto seems to have led them into a greater Mistake, by putting this ranting Speech into the Mouth of the sober grave honest Pantler, to whom it belongs neither by Character nor Office.

Enter Latorch.

Monfieur Latorch? What News within?

Lat. Save you,

Save you, good Mafter; fave you, Gentlemen,
You're cafting for this Preparation;
This joyful Supper for the royal Brothers:
I'm glad I have met you fitly, for t' your Charge,
My bountiful brave Butler, I muft deliver
A Bevie of young Laffes, that muft look on
This Night's Solemnity, and fee the two Dukes,
Or I fhall lofe my Credit; you have Stowage?

But. For fuch Freight I'll find room, and be your Servant.

Cook. Bring them, they fhall not ftarve here, I'll fend 'em Victuals

Shall work you a good turn, though't be ten days hence,
Sir.

Lat. Gra-mercy, noble Mafter.

Cook. Nay, I'll do't.

Yeo. And Wine they fhall not want, let 'em drink like Ducks.

Lat. What Mifery it is that Minds fo royal,
And fuch moft honeft Bounties, as yours are,
Should be confin'd thus to Uncertainties?

But. Ay, were the State once fettled, then we had Places.

Yeo. Then we could fhew ourfelves, and help our Friends,
Sir.

Cook. I, then there were fome Savour in't, where now
We live between two Stools, every Hour ready
To tumble on our Nofes; and for ought we know yet,
For all this Supper, ready to faft the next Day.

Lat. I would fain fpeak unto you out of Pity,
Out of the Love I bear you, out of Honesty,
For your own Goods; nay, for the general Bleffing.

Cook. And we would as fain hear you, pray go forward.

Lat. Dare you but think to make yourfelves up Certainties,

Your Places and your Credits ten times doubled,
The Prince's Favour, Rollo's?

But. A fweet Gentleman.

Yeo.

Yeo. Ay, and as bounteous, if he had his Right too.

Cook. By the Mafs a Royal Gentleman indeed, Boys,
He'd make the Chimnies smoak.

Lat. He wou'd do't, Friends,
And you too, if he had his Right, true Court iers ;
What could you want then ? dare you?

Cook. Pray be fhort, Sir.

Lat. And this my Soul upon't, I dare assure you,
If you but dare your Parts.

Cook. Dare not me, Monsieur,
For I that fear not Fire nor Water, Sir,
Dare do enough, a Man would think.

Yeo. Believe't, Sir ?
But make this good upon us you have promis'd,
You shall not find us Flinchers.

Lat. Then I'll be sudden.

Pant. What may this mean ? And whither would he drive us ?

Lat. And first, for what you must do, 'cause all Danger
Shall be apparently ty'd up and muzzl'd,
The Matter seeming mighty : There's your Pardons.

Pant. Pardons ? Is't come that ? Good Gods defend us.

Lat. And here's five hundred Crowns in bounteous
Earnest,

And now behold the matter:

[Latorch gives each a Paper.]

But. What are these, Sir ?

Yeo. And of what Nature ? To what Use ?

Lat. Imagine.

Cook. Will they kill Rats ? they eat my Pyes abominably,
Or work upon a Woman cold as Christmas ?
I have an old Jade sticks upon my Fingers,
May I taste them ?

Lat. Is your Will made ?

And have you said your Prayers ? for they'll pay you :
And now to come up to you, for your Knowledge,
And for the good you never shall repent you,
If you be wise Men now.

Cook. Wise as you will, Sir.

Lat. These must be put then into the sev'ral Meats

Young

Young Otto loves, by you into his Wine, Sir,
 Into his Bread by you, by you into
 His Linnen. (29) Now if you desire, you've found
 The means to make you, and if you dare not, you
 Have found your Ruin; resolve me e'er I go.

But. You'll keep your Faith with us?

Lat. May I no more see Light else.

Cook. Why 'tis done then.

But. 'Tis done.

Pant. 'Tis done which shall be undone.

Lat. About it then, farewell, y'are all of one Mind?

Cook. All.

All. All, all.

Lat. Why then, all happy.

[Exit.

But. What did we promise him?

Yeo. Do you ask that now?

But. I would be glad to know what 'tis.

Pan. I'll tell you,

It is to be all Villains, Knaves and Traitors.

Cook. Fine wholesome Titles.

Pant. But if we dare go forward——

Cook. We may b' hang'd, drawn, and quarter'd.

Pant. Very true, Sir.

[lows?

Cook. Oh, what a goodly Swing shall I give the Gal-
 Yet I think too

This may be done, and we too may be rewarded,

Not with a Rope, but with a royal Master:

And yet we may be hang'd too. Yeo. Say it were done;

Who is it done for? is it not for Rollo?

And for his Right?

Cook. And yet we may be hang'd too.

(29) Now if you desire, you have found the means

To make you, and if you dare not, you have Found your Ruin;—] Mr. Sympson says, that desire in the first Line should self-evidently be dare, as well as in the second; I cannot agree to this, the old Text is perfectly good Sense, and the Change propos'd would injure the Measure, which having indeed been all Confusion in the former Editions, was not attended to by Mr. Sympson. The Sense is plainly this. Now if you have an Inclination to make yourselves, you have means to do it; but if Cowardice deters you, I'll ruin you all that you may not discover me.

But.

The Bloody Brother.

III

But. Or say he take it, say we be discovered?

Yeo. Is not the same Man bound still to protect us
Are we not his?

But. Sure he will never fail us.

Cook. If he do, Friends, we shall find that will hold us.
And yet methinks, this Prologue to our Purpose,
These Crowns should promise more: 'tis easily done,
As easie as a Man would roast an Egg,
If that be all; for look you, Gentlemen,
Here stand my Broths, my Finger slips a little,
Down drops a Dose, I stir him with my Ladle,
And there's a Dish for a Duke: Olla Podrida.
Here stands a bak'd Meat, he wants a little seasoning,
A foolish Mistake; my Spice-Box, Gentlemen,
And put in some of this, the Matter's ended;
Dredge you a Dish of Plovers, there's the Art on't,
(30) Or in a Galingale, a little does it.

Yeo. Or as I fill my Wine.

Cook. 'Tis very true, Sir,
Blessing it with your Hand, thus quick and neatly first,
'Tis past.

Yeo. And done once, 'tis as easie
For him to thank us for it, and reward us.

Pant. But 'tis a damned Sin.

Cook. I never fear that.

The Fire's my Play-fellow. Now I'm resolv'd, Boys.

But. Why then, have with you.

Yeo. The same for me.

Pant. For me too.

Cook. And now no more our Worships, but our Lordships.

Pant. Not this Year, on my Knowledge, I'll unlord
you. [Exeunt.

(30) Or in a Galingale, a little does it.] This Line is restored from the old Quarto. Galingale, the Dictionaries tell us, is an Indian Herb very savoury. It was probably eat either as a Salad, or Pickle, or used in some Sauce, otherwise it is scarcely intelligible in this Place.

S C E N E III.

Enter Servant and Sewer.

Ser. Perfume the Room round, and prepare the Table,
Gentlemen Officers, wait in your Places.

Sew. Make room there,
Room for the Duke's Meat. Gentlemen, be bare there,
Clear all the Entrance: Guard, put by those Gapers,
And Gentlemen-Uffers, see the Gallery clear,
The Dukes are coming on.

Hoboys, a Banquet.

*Enter Sophia, between Rollo and Otto, Aubrey, Latorch, Gisbert, Baldwin, Attendants,
Hamond, Matilda, and Edith.*

Ser. 'Tis certainly inform'd. Otto. Reward the Fellow,
And look you mainly to it. Ser. My Life for yours, Sir.

Soph. Now am I straight, my Lords, and young again,
My long since blasted Hopes shoot out in Blossoms,
The Fruits of everlasting Love appearing;
Oh! my blest Boys, the Honour of my Years,
Of all my Cares, the bounteous fair Rewarders.

Oh! let me thus embrace you, thus for ever
Within a Mother's Love lock up your Friendships:
And my sweet Sons, once more with mutual Twinings,
As one chaste Bed begot you, make one Body:
Blessings from Heav'n in thousand Show'rs fall on you.

Aub. Oh! Woman's Goodness never to be equal'd,
May the most sinful Creatures of thy Sex
But kneeling at thy Monument, rise Saints.

Soph. Sit down my worthy Sons; my Lords, your places.

Ay, now methinks the Table's nobly furnisht;
Now the Meat nourishes; the Wine gives Spirit;
And all the Room stuck with a general Pleasure,
Shews like the peaceful (31) Bower of Happiness.

(31) — Boughs of Happiness.] The Corruption of the two late Editions.

Aubr.

Aubr. Long may it last, and from a Heart fill'd with it,
Full as my Cup; I give it round, my Lords.

Bald. And may that stubborn Heart be drunk with Sorrow

Refuses it; Men dying now should take it,
And by the Virtue of this Ceremony
Shake off their Miseries, and sleep in Peace.

Rol. You're sad, my noble Brother.

Otto. No, indeed, Sir.

Soph. No sadness, my sweet Son, this Day.

Rol. Pray you eat,
Something is here you've lov'd; taste of this Dish,
It will prepare your Stomach.

Otto. Thank you, Brother:
I am not now dispos'd to eat. Rol. Or that,
You put us out of heart, Man, come, these bak'd Meats
Were ever your best Diet.

Otto. None, I thank you.

Soph. Are you well, noble Child?

Otto. Yes, gracious Mother.

Rol. Give him a Cup of Wine, then, pledge the Health,
Drink it to me, I'll give it to my Mother.

Soph. Do, my best Child.

Otto. I must not, my best Mother,
Indeed I dare not; for of late, my Body
Has been much weakned by excess of Diet;
The promise of a Fever hanging on me,
And e'en now ready, if not by Abstinence——

(32) Rol. And will you keep it in this general freedom;
A little Health preferr'd before our Friendship?

(32) Rol. *And will you keep it in this general freedom;
A little Health preferr'd before our Friendship?*

Otto. I pray you excuse me, Sir.] These Lines are not found in the old Quarto, yet no one can well doubt of their being genuine. It may be ask'd then, how came the Folio of 1679, which abounds with such numberless Errors in this Play, more almost than any other, now a second time to have restored something totally lost by the old Quarto?
(See the former Instance in the first Scene of this Play) Undoubtedly the same Hand which restored several Songs, Prologues, and Epilogues, in that Edition; of whom an Account will be given in the Preface.

Otto. I pray you excuse me, Sir.

Rol. Excuse yourself, Sir,

(33) Come 'tis your Fear, and not your Fever, Brother,
And you have done me a most worthy Kindness,
My Royal Mother, and you Noble Lords;
Hear, for it now concerns me to speak boldly;
What Faith can be expected from his Vows,
From his dissembling Smiles, what fruit of Friendship
From all his full Embraces, what blest Issue,
When he shall brand me here for base Suspicion?
He takes me for a Poisoner.

Soph. Gods defend it, Son.

Otto. I could say something too.

Soph. You must not so, Sir,

Without your great forgetfulness of Virtue;
This is your Brother, and your honour'd Brother,
Indeed your loving Brother.

Rol. If he please so.

Soph. One noble Father, with as noble Thoughts,
Begot your Minds and Bodies; one care rockt you,
And one Truth to you both was ever sacred;
Now fye my Otto, whither flies your Goodness?
Because the right Hand has the power of cutting,
Shall the left presently cry out 'tis maim'd?
They're one, my Child, one Power, and one Performance,
And join'd together thus, one Love, one Body.

Aubr. I do beseech your Grace, take to your Thoughts
More certain Counsellors than Doubts or Fears,
They strangle Nature, and disperse themselves
(If once believ'd) into such Fogs and Errors
That the bright Truth herself can never sever:
Your Brother is a royal Gentleman
Full of himself, Honour, and Honesty,
(34) And take heed, Sir, how Nature bent to Goodness,

So

[(33) Come 'tis your Fear, and not your Favour, Brother,] A gross Corruption of the late Editions.

(34) And take heed, Sir, how Nature bent to Goodness,
(So streight a Cedar to himself) Uprightness

Be wrestled from his true use, prove not dangerous. This Passage, which as it has been hitherto printed, seem'd to Mr. Sympton quite

So streight a Cedar in itself, Uprightness
Being wrested from its true Base, prove not dangerous.

Rol. Nay, my good Brother knows I am too patient.

Lat. Why should your Grace think him a Poisoner?
Has he no more respect to Piety?
And but he has by Oath ty'd up his Fury,
Who durst but think that Thought?

Aubr. Away, thou Firebrand.

Lat. If Men of his Sort, of his Power, and Place,
The eldest Son in Honour to this Dukedom.

Bald. For shame contain thy Tongue, thy poisonous
Tongue,
That with her burning Venom will infect all,
And once more blow a Wild-fire through the Dukedom.

Gisb. Latorch, if thou be'st honest, or a Man,
Contain thyself.

Aubr. Go to, no more, by Heav'n
You'll find you've plaid the Fool else, not a Word more.

Soph. Prithee sweet Son.

Rol. Let him alone sweet Mother, and my Lords
To make you understand how much I honour
This sacred Peace, and next my Innocence,
And to avoid all further difference
Discourse may draw on to a way of Danger,
I quit my Place, and take my leave for this Night,
Wishing a general Joy may dwell among you.

Aubr. Shall we wait on your Grace?

Rol. I dare not break you. Latorch. [Ex. Rol. and Lat.

(35) Soph. Do you not now perceive your Brother's Sweetness?

quite unintelligible, like a crystal Stream disturb'd in a bright Day, contains the glittering Fragments of a most poetick Sentiment. I strike out the Parenthesis, and read itself for himself, it being evident that Uprightness is the streight Cedar. Being for be restores the Grammar, and Line, Growth, or Course, instead of use, will either of them carry on the Metaphor; so will Base, and as that is nearest the Trace of the Letters, tho' it but this Instant occur'd, I shall venture it into the Text.

(35) Soph. Do you not now perceive your Brother's Sweetness?] This Line, restor'd from the old Quarto, the Negative rather strengthening the Sense and perfecting the Measure, is added by Mr. Symphon.

Otto. Oh Mother, that your Tenderness had Eyes,
Discerning Eyes, what would this Man appear then?
The Tale of Sinon when he took upon him
To ruin Troy; with what a Cloud of Cunning
He hid his Heart, nothing appearing outwards,
But came like Innocence, and dropping Pity,
Sighs that would sink a Navy, and had Tales
Able to take the Ears of Saints, belief too;
And what did all these? Blew the Fire to Ilium.
(36) His crafty Art (but more refin'd by Study)
My Brother has put on: Oh I could tell you,
But for the Reverence I bear to Nature,
Things that would make your honest Blood run backward.

Soph. You dare tell me?

Otto. Yes, in your private Closet,
Where I will presently attend you; rise,
I am a little troubled, but 'twill off.

Soph. Is this the Joy I look'd for?

Otto. All will mend,
Be not disturb'd, dear Mother, I'll not fail you.

[Exeunt Soph. and Otto.]

Bald. I do not like this.

Aubr. That's still in our Powers,
But how to make it so that we may like it—

Bald. (37) Beyond us ever Latorch methought was busie,
That Fellow, if not lookt to narrowly,
Will do a sudden Mischief. Aub. Hell look to him.
For if there may be a Devil above all, yet
That Rogue will make him; keep you up this Night,
And so will I, for much I fear a Danger.

Bald. I will, and in my Watches use my Prayers.

[Exeunt.]

(36) His crafty Art (but more refin'd by Study)] This Line, so necessary to the Sense and undoubtedly genuine, is not in the Quarto, but was restored from the Copy mention'd in the last Note but one.

(37) Beyond us ever; Latorch methought was busie,] By this Pointing Baldwin should continue Aubrey's Speech, and declare that it was not in their Powers to redress their Misfortunes. But as Baldwin proposes a Means to prevent Latorch's Designs by diligently watching them, I think I have put a more natural Pointing into the Text.

A C T

ACT III. SCENE I.

Enter Sophia, Otto, Matilda, and Edith.

Otto. YOU wonder, Madam, that for all the Shews
My Brother Rollo makes of hearty Love,
And free Possession of the Dukedom 'twixt us,
I notwithstanding should stand still suspicious,
As if, beneath those Veils, he did convey Intentions and Practices of Hate and Treason?

(38) Soph. It breeds indeed my Wonder.

Otto. Which makes mine,
Since 'tis so safe and broad a beaten Way,
Beneath the Name of Friendship to betray.

Soph. Though in remote and further-off Affections,
These Falshoods are so common, yet in him
They cannot so force Nature.

Otto. The more near
The Bands of Truth bind, the more oft they sever,
Being better Cloaks to cover Falshood ever.

Soph. (39) It cannot be, that Fruits the Tree so blasting,
Can grow in Nature: Take heed, gentle Son,
Left some suborn'd Suggester of these Treasons,

(38) Soph. It breeds indeed my Wonder.

Otto. Which makes mine,] Mr. Sympson says, that the Sameness between breeds and makes is mean, and would therefore read — flakes, i. e. quenches. But he happened to overlook the Meaning of Otto's Reply. Sophia wonders that he should conceive such an Opinion of his Brother, and he answers, that he wonders that she should wonder at it, and then gives his Reason. Since 'tis &c.

(39) It cannot be, that Fruits, the Tree so blasting,] Mr. Theobald, from the old Quarto, puts — (the Tree so blasting) in a Parenthesis, and Mr. Sympson would read blasted; both join in the same Sense, the Tree being so blasted, or of such a blasting Nature. But if the Tree is so blasted, or blasting, where is the Wonder that it should produce bad Fruit? I strike out even the Comma, and understand it in this Sense. It cannot be that Fruits so blasting the Tree from whence they sprung should grow in Nature. Here Rollo is the Fruit, she herself the Tree, one of whose natural Branches Rollo would blast, and by Consequence the Tree itself.

Believ'd in him by you, (40) provoke the rather
 His tender Envies to such foul Attempts;
 Or that your too much Love to rule alone
 (41) Bred not of him this jealous Passion;
 There is not any Ill we might not bear,
 Were not our Good held at a Price too dear.

Otto. So apt is Treachery to be excus'd,
 That Innocence is still aloud abus'd;
 The Fate of Virtue ev'n her Friends perverts,
 To plead for Vice oft-times against their Hearts,
 (42) Heav'n's Blessing is her Curse, which she must bear,
 That she may never love herself too dear.

Soph.

(40) ————— provok'd the rather

His tender Envies, to such foul Attempts;] If we understand Envies in the English Sense, it must mean, his Envy that is as yet but tender and little, by Provocation may be drove to the foulest Attempts. But by its being put in the Plural Number, I believe the Poet intended a French Sense of the Word, Envie, Inclination or Desire, and I think I have before met with it in our Authors in that Sense, but am not certain. This, en passant. The chief thing to be observed is a Corruption in the Word provok'd, which implies Sophia's Belief of Rollo's Attempt, which it is evident she did not give Credit to. I read therefore provoke. This Corruption in the old Quarto led the late Editions into the Change of a Particle which I shall mention in the next Note.

(41) Breed not in him this jealous Passion;] The old Quarto reads,
 Bred not of him this jealous Passion.

The jealous Passion therefore is Otto's, not Rollo's, and evidently proves the Correction in the above Note, the Observation of which led to a more narrow Examination of the Quarto in this Line, before which the Change of the Particle of to in had escap'd me, as it did both Mr. Theobald and Mr. Sympson, which shews how exceedingly liable to Oversight most of us are in the Collation of Editions. There is no Play of our Authors that we have either of us taken more pains in the Collation of. We have each made several hundred Corrections from the Quarto too numerous to be noted, but without the others Assistance each of us had mis'd a very considerable Number; and I doubt not but many will still remain unobserved by us all. The Consequence I would frequently inculcate to every Critic and every Reader, that the former should never pretend to, nor the latter exact Infallibility; both which have been frequently, and almost constantly done in a Science in its own Nature the most fallible in the World.

(42) Heav'n's Blessing is her Curse, which she must bear,
 That she may never love.

Soph. Alas, my Son. &c.] The second Line is left thus imperfect in Sense and Measure in all the Editions. By observing the Tendency

Soph. Alas, my Son, nor Fate, nor Heav'n itself,
Can or would wrest my whole Care of your Good
To any least Secureness in your Ill:
What I urge issues from my curious Fear;
Lest you should make your means to 'scape your Snare.
Doubt of Sincereness is the only Mean
Not to incense it, but corrupt it clean.

Otto. I rest as far from wrong of all Sincereness,
As he flies from the Practice; trust me, Madam,
I know by their Confessions, he suborn'd,
What I should eat, drink, touch, or only 've scented,
This Evening-Feast was poison'd, (43) but I fear
His open Violence more, that treacherous Odds,
Which he, in his insatiate Thirst of Rule,
Is like to execute.

Soph. Believe it, Son,
If still his Stomach be so foul to feed
On such gross Objects, and that Thirst to rule
The State alone, be yet unquench'd in him, dency of the Sense one may ask, What is the moral Reason why Virtue in this Life should be permitted by Heav'n to fall under Obloquy and Disgrace? Lest Self-approbation and Self-love should puff up the Heart of the virtuous Man to Pride and Vanity. The following Words give this Sense, and compleat the Rhime.

————— which she must bear,
That she may never love herself too dear.

After this had occur'd, by looking back I found this made a direct Parody to the Conclusion of Sophia's last Speech.

There is not any Ill we might not bear,
Were not our Good held at a Price too dear.

This therefore adds greatly to the Probability of the Conjecture.

(43) ————— but I fear

This open Violence more, that treacherous Odds,
Which he, &c.] This, for His, is only the Corruption of the late Editions; but Mr. Symphon thinks there is another Mistake, and that we should read, — more than treacherous Odds. I can't assent to this. A Man may use treacherous Odds, tho' he assaults another in the open Market-place. Otto is not made to fear his open Violence, if he had a fair Opportunity of Self-defence, and so himself expresses it, when he is basely assaulted before his Mother and Sister.

————— but yield a Sword,
And let thy arming thee be Odds enough
Against my naked Bosom.

Poisons and such close Treasons ask more time,
 Than can suffice his fiery Spirit's Haste :
 And, were there in him such Desire to hide
 So false a Practice, there would likewise rest
 Conscience and Fear in him of open Force,
 And therefore close nor open you need fear.

Mat. Good Madam, stand not so inclin'd to trust
 What proves his tenderest Thoughts to doubt it just,
 Who knows not the unbounded Flood and Sea,
 In which my Brother Rollo's Appetites
 Alter and rage with every Puff and Breath?
 His swelling Blood exhales, and therefore hear,
 What gives my temperate Brother Cause to use
 His readiest Circumspection, and consult
 For Remedy against all his wicked Purposes ;
 If he arm, arm ; if he strew Mines of Treason,
 Meet him with Countermines ; it is Justice still (For Goodness sake) t' encounter Ill with Ill.

Soph. Avert from us such Justice, equal Heav'n,
 And all such Cause of Justice.

Otto. Past all Doubt
 (For all the sacred Privilege of Night)
 This is no time for us to sleep or rest in ;
 (44) Who knows not all things holy are perverted
 To th' Ends of all Impiety ? thus Darknes
Lulls all things in Security, all but
 Lust, Gain, Ambition.

(44) *Who knows not all things holy are prevented,
 With Ends of all Impiety, all but Lust, Gain, Ambition.*] When a Passage is utterly darken'd, as this before us, and almost evidently by the Loss of a whole Sentence,
 'tis impossible to restore it with certainty ; but a due Observance of the Tendency of the Context, the Character that utters it, and the Genius and Spirit of the Author, may lead us with high Probability to the Sentiment, tho' not to the exact Words of the Original. I suppose a small Corruption both in the first and second Line. The good Otto is in all his Speeches full of moral and political Reflexions, and therefore the following one seems to suit both what precedes and follows it.

*Who knows not all things holy are perverted
 To th' Ends of all Impiety ? thus Darknes*
Lulls all things in Security, all but Lust, Gain, Ambition,

Enter

Enter Rollo armed, and Latorch.

Rol. Perish all the World
E'er I but lose one Foot of possible Empire,
By Sleights and Colours us'd by Slaves and Wretches,
I am exempt by Birth from both these Curbs,
And sit above them in all Justice, since
I sit above in Power, where Power is giv'n,
Is all the Right suppos'd of Earth and Heav'n:

Lat. Prove both, Sir, see the Traitor. Otto. He comes arm'd,

See Mother, now your Confidence. Soph. What Rage
Affects this Monster? Rol. Give me way, or perish.

Soph. Make thy way, Viper, if thou thus affect it.

Otto. This is a Treason like thee.

Rol. Let her go.

Soph. Embrace me, wear me as thy Shield, my Son ;
And through my Breast let his rude Weapon run,
To thy Life's Innocence.

Otto. Play not two Parts,
Traicher and Coward both ; but yield a Sword,
And let thy arming thee be odds enough
Against my naked Bosom.

Rol. Loose his hold.

Mat. Forbear, base Murtherer.

Rol. Forsake our Mother. Soph. Mother, dost thou name me,
And put't off Nature thus ?

Rol. Forsake her, Traitor,
(45) Or by the spoil of Nature thorough hers
This leads unto thy Heart.

Otto. Hold.

Soph. Hold me still.

Otto. For twenty Hearts and Lives I will not hazard
One drop of Blood in yours.

Soph. Oh thou art lost then.

Otto. Protect my Innocence, Heav'n.

(45) Or by the Spouse of Nature, through hers] Late Editions.
The Quarto reads Spoil, but joins in the Neglect of the Measure, by making through one Syllable.

Soph.

The Bloody Brother.

Soph. Call out Murther.

Mat. Be murther'd all, but save him.

Ed. Murther, Murther.

Rol. Cannot I reach you yet?

Otto. No, Fiend.

Rol. Latorcb,

Rescue, I'm down. Lat. Up then, your Sword cools, Sir.
Ply it i'th' Flame, and work your ends out.

Rol. Ha,

Have at you, there, Sir.

Enter Aubrey.

Aubr. Author of Prodigies,
What Sights are these?

Otto. Oh give m' a Weapon, Aubrey.

Soph. Oh part 'em, part 'em.

Aubr. For Heav'n's sake no more.

Otto. No more resist his Fury, no Rage can Add to his Mischief done. [Dies.

Soph. Take Spirit my Otto,
Heav'n will not see thee die thus.

Mat. He is dead,
And nothing lives but Death of every Goodness.

Soph. Oh he hath slain his Brother, curse him Heav'n.

Rol. Curse and be curs'd, it is the fruit of cursing.

Latorcb, take off here, bring too of that Blood
To colour o'er my Shirt; then raise the Court
And give it out how he attempted us
In our Bed naked: Shall the Name of Brother
Forbid us to enlarge our State and Powers?
Or place affects of Blood above our Reason?
That tells us all Things good against another,
Are good in the same Line against a Brother. [Exit.

Enter Gisbert, and Baldwin.

(46) Gisb. What Fears inform these Out-cries?

Aubr. See, and grieve.

Gisb.

(46) Gisb. What affairs inform these Outcries? I have before observ'd, that Corruptions which leave good Sense in the Context, are more dangerous than gross Mistakes. Mr. Theobald has made a very

Gisb. Prince Otto slain !

Bald. Oh execrable Slaughter !

What Hand hath author'd it ?

Aubr. Your Scholar's, Baldwin.

Bald. Unjustly urg'd, Lord Aubrey, as if I,
For being his Schoolmaster, (47) must teach this Doctrine :
You are his Counsellors, did you advise him
To this foul Parricide ?

Gisb. If Rule affect this Licence, who would live
To worse than die, in force of his Obedience ?

Bald. Heav'n's cold and lingring Spirit to punish Sin,
And human Blood so fiery to commit it,
One so outgoes the other, it will never
Be turn'd to fit Obedience.

Aubr. Burst it then

With his full Swing given, where it brooks no Bound,
Complaints of it are vain ; and all that rests
To be our Refuge (since our Powers are strengthless)
(48) Is to conform our Wills to suffer freely,
What with our Murmurs we can never master ;
Ladies, be pleas'd with what Heav'n's Pleasure suffers,
Erect your Princely Countenances and Spirits,
And to redress the Mischiefs now resistless,
Sooth it in shew, rather than curse or cross it ;

very happy Emendation here, where very few Readers would, I believe, have suspected an Error. Affairs, tho' Sense, spoils the Measure ; and Fears, a more natural and more poetical Word, exactly suits it.

(47) ——— must own this Doctrine :] The Quarto reads teach, which is one of many Changes in this Play made without the least Resemblance in the Letters ; and I note this only for an Opportunity of referring to it when I want an Authority for such great Changes as we may sometimes find necessary.

(48) Is to conform our Wills to suffer freely,] Passive Obedience and Non-resistance to Princes, being the absurd but almost universal Doctrine of our Authors Age, Aubrey is upon that Principle a very compleat Character. And every Reader, who wants to form a true Taste of any Poem, should always use an occasional Conformity to the Doctrines and Tenets of the Age the Poet wrote in. Without this, the Characters of Amintor in the Maid's Tragedy, of Arcius in Valentinian, and Aubrey here, together with many inferior Characters, will not be near so interesting as they really deserve to be.

With

With all amends, and vow to it your best,
But 'till you may perform it, let it rest.

Gisb. Those Temporizings are too dull and servile,
To breathe the free Air of a manly Soul,
Which shall in me expire in Execrations,
Before for any Life I sooth a Murtherer.

Bald. Pour Lives before him, 'till his own be dry
Of all Life's Services and human Comforts ;
(49) 'Till none that looks at Heav'n's left half so base
'To do those black and hellish Actions Grace.

Enter Rollo, Latorch, Hamond and Guard.

Rol. Hasten, Latorch,
And raise the City as the Court is rais'd,
Proclaiming the abhorr'd Conspiracy
In Plot against my Life.

Lat. I haste, my Lord.

[Exit.

Rol. You there that mourn upon the justly Slain,
Arise and leave it, if you love your Lives,
And hear from me what (kept by you) may save you.

Mat. What will the Butcher do? I will not stir.

Rol. Stir, and unforc'd stir, or stir never more :
Command her, you grave Beldam, that know better
My deadly Resolutions, since I drew them
From the infective Fountain of your own,
Or, if you have forgot, this fiery Prompter
Shall fix the fresh Impression in your Heart.

Soph. Rise Daughter, serve his Will in what we may,
Lest what we may not be enforce the rather.
Is this all you command us? Rol. This Addition
Only admitted, that when I endeavour

(49) *None less that looks at Heav'n is half so base
To do those black and hellish Actions Grace.*] There is a Stiffness in the first Line which gives suspicion of a Mistake. The old Quarto reads,

None less that looks at Heav'n's left half so base.

This was evidently wrong, and the Folio and Octavos are only the conjectural Emendation of the former. Mr. Sympson has, I believe, restored the Original, as he gives it a stronger Connexion with the foregoing Lines, and renders the Sentence natural and easy.

'Till none that looks at Heav'n's left half so base.

To

To quit me of this Slaughter, you presume not
To cross me with a Syllable, for your Souls ;
Murmur, nor think against it, but weigh well,
It will not help your Ill, but help to more,
And that my Hand wrought thus far to my Will,
Will check at nothing till his Circle fill.

Mat. Fill it, so I consent not, but who fooths it
Consents, and who consents to Tyranny, does it.

Rol. False Traiteurs, die then with him.

Aubr. Are you mad,
To offer at more Blood, and make yourself
More horrid to your People ? I'll proclaim,
It is not as your Instrument will publish.

Rol. Do, and take that along with you—— so nimble!
[He disarms him.

Resign my Sword, and dare not for thy Soul
To offer what thou insolently threatnest ;
One Word, proclaiming cross to what Latorch
Hath in Commission, and intends to publish.

Aubr. Well, Sir, not for your Threats, but for your Good,

Since more Hurt t' you would more hurt your Country,
And that you must make Virtue of the Need
That now compels you, I'll consent as far
As Silence argues, to your Will proclaim'd ;
And since no more Sons of your Princely Father
Survive to rule but you, and that I wish
You should rule like your Father, with the Love
And Zeal of all your Subjects ; this foul Slaughter
That now you have committed, made ashamed
With that fair Blessing, that, in place of Plagues, Heav'n tries our mending Disposition with :
Take here your Sword, which now use like a Prince.
And no more like a Tyrant.

Rol. This sounds well,
Live and be gracious with us. Gisb. and Bald. Oh, Lord

Aubrey.

Mat. He flatter thus ?

Soph. He temporizes fitly.

Wonder

(50) Wonder invades me.

Rol. Do you two think much,
That he thus wisely, and with Need consents
To what I author for your Country's Good?
You being my Tutor, you my Chancellor.

Gisb. Your Chancellor is not your Flatterer, Sir.

Bald. Nor is it your Tutor's Part to shield such Doctrine.

Rol. Sir, first know you,
In Praise of your pure Oratory that rais'd you,
That when the People, who I know by this
Are rais'd out of their Rests, and hast'ning hither
To witness what is done here, are arrived
With our Latorch, that you, ex tempore,
Shall fashion an Oration to acquit
And justify this forced Fact of mine;
Or for the proud Refusal lose your Head.

Gisb. I fashion an Oration to acquit you?
Sir, know you then, that 'tis a thing less easie
T' excuse a Paricide than to commit it.

Rol. I do not wish you, Sir, to excuse me,
But to accuse my Brother, as the Cause
Of his own Slaughter, by attempting mine:

Gisb. Not for the World, I should pour Blood on Blood;
It were another Murther to accuse
Him that fell innocent.

Rol. Away with him,
Hence, hale him straight to Execution.

Aubr. Far fly such Rigour, your amendful Hand.

Rol. He perishes with him that speaks for him;
Guard, do your Office on him, on your Lives Pain.

Gisb. Tyrant, 'twill haste thy own Death.

Rol. Let it wing it,

(50) Rol. Wonder invades me; do you two think much, &c.] The Words Wonder invades me, which express a Person wrapt up in wonder and horror, seem'd at first Sight, both to Mr. Sympson and me, to be out of Character in Rollo's Mouth, and by joint consent we give it to Sophia, tho' it would be equally proper to Matilda, Baldwin, or Gisbert. As the Verses are often divided between the Speakers, this alone has produced several hundred Mistakes in Speakers in our Authors Plays.

He

He threatens me ; Villains, tear him Piece-meal hence.

Guard. Avant, Sir.

Ham. Force him hence.

Rol. Dispatch him, Captain.

And bring me instant Word he is dispatch'd,
And how his Rhetorick takes it.

Ham. I'll not fail, Sir.

Rol. Captain, besides remember this in chief ;
That being executed, you deny
To all his Friends the Rites of Funeral,
And cast his Carkass out to Dogs and Fowls.

Ham. 'Tis done, my Lord.

Rol. Upon your Life not fail.

Bald. What impious daring is there here of Heav'n !

Rol. Sir, now prepare yourself, against the People
Make here their Entry, to discharge the Oration
He hath denied my Will.

Bald. For Fear of Death ? ha, ha, ha.

Rol. Is Death ridiculous with you ?

Works Misery of Age this, or thy Judgment ?

Bald. Judgment, false Tyrant.

Rol. You'll make no Oration then ?

Bald. Not to excuse,

But aggravate thy Murther if thou wilt,
Which I will so enforce, I'll make thee wreak it
(With hate of what thou win'st by't) on thyself,
With such another justly merited Murther.

Rol. I'll answer you anon.

Enter Latorch.

Lat. The Citizens

Are hasting, Sir, in heaps, all full resolv'd,
By my Perswasion, of your Brother's Treasons.

Rol. Honest Latorch.

Enter Hamond.

Ham. See, Sir, here's Gisbert's Head.

Rol. Good speed ; was't with a Sword ?

Ham. An Axe, Sir.

Rol. An Axe ? 'twas vilely done, I would have had

My

My own fine Headsman done it with a Sword ;
Go, take this Dotard here, and take his Head
Off with a Sword.

Ham. Your Schoolmaster ?

Rol. Ev'n he.

Bald. For teaching thee no better ; 'tis the best
Of all thy damned Justices ; away,
Captain, I'll follow.

Ed. Oh stay them, Duke,
'And in the midst of all thy Blood and Fury,
Hear a poor Maid's Petitions, hear a Daughter,
The only Daughter of a wretched Father ;
Oh stay your haste, as you shall need this Mercy.

Rol. Away with this fond Woman.

Ed. You must hear me,
If there be any Spark of Pity in you,
If sweet Humanity and Mercy rule you ;
I do confess you are a Prince, your Anger
As great as you, your Execution greater.

Rol. Away with him.

Ed. Oh Captain, by thy Manhood,
By her soft Soul that bare thee : ——— I do confess, Sir,
Your Doom of Justice on your Foes most righteous ;
Good noble Prince look on me.

Rol. Take her from me.

Ed. A Curse upon his Life that hinders me ;
May Father's Blessing never fall upon him,
May Heav'n ne'er hear his Prayers : I beseech you,
Oh Sir, these Tears beseech you ; these chaste Hands
woo you,

That never yet were heav'd, but to Things holy,
Things like yourself, you are a God above us ;
Be as a God then, full of saving Mercy,
Mercy, Oh Mercy, Sir, for his sake Mercy ;
That when your stout Heart weeps, shall give you Pity ;
Here I must grow.

Rol. By Heav'n, I'll strike thee, Woman.

Ed. Most willingly, let all thy Anger seek me,
All the most studied Torments, so this good Man,
This old Man, and this Innocent escape thee.

Rol.

Rol. Carry him away, I say.

Ed. Now Blessing on thee, Oh sweet Pity,
I see it in thy Eyes, I charge you Soldiers,
Ev'n by the Prince's Power, release my Father,
The Prince is merciful, why do you hold him?
The Prince forgets his Fury, why do you tug him?
He is old, why do you hurt him? speak, Oh speak, Sir;
Speak as you are a Man; a Man's Life hangs, Sir,
A Friend's Life, (51) and a foster Life upon you:
'Tis but a Word, but Mercy quickly spoke, Sir;
Oh speak, Prince, speak.

Rol. Will no Man here obey me?
Have I no Rule yet? as I live he dies
That does not execute my Will, and suddenly.

Bald. All thou canst do takes but one short Hour from me.

Rol. Hew off her Hands.

Ham. Lady, hold off.

Ed. Nay, hew 'em.

Hew off my innocent Hands, as he commands you.

[Exeunt Guard, and Count Baldwin.

They'll hang the faster on for Death's Convulsion.
Thou Seed of Rocks, will nothing move thee then?
Are all my Tears lost? all my righteous Prayers
Drown'd in thy drunken Wrath? (52) I stand up thus then;
Thus boldly, bloody Tyrant, I defie thee;
And to thy Face; in Heav'n's high Name defie thee;
And may sweet Mercy, when thy Soul sighs for it,
When under thy black Mischiefs thy Flesh trembles,
When neither Strength, nor Youth, nor Friends, nor Gold
Can stay one Hour, when thy most wretched Conscience

(51) ——— and a foster Life—] The Mistake of the late Editions.

(52) ——— I stand thus then;

Thus boldly, bloody Tyrant,

And to thy Face in Heav'n's high Name defie thee;] I am far from thinking it necessary to fill up Hemistichs where the Sense does not require it: Here it does not, and yet I verily think there has been an Omission. This is one of the noblest and most correct Scenes in the whole Play, and a Repetition of her Defiance filling up the Measure, and giving a fine Climax to the workings of her Passion, I have ventur'd to insert it, and to divide the Sentence into separate Parts.

Wak'd from her Dream of Death, like Fire shall melt thee,
 When all thy Mother's Tears, thy Brother's Wounds,
 Thy Peoples Fears and Curses, and my Loss,
 My aged Father's Loss shall stand before thee——

Rol. Save him I say, run, save him, save her Father,
 Fly, and redeem his Head. [Exit Latorch.]

Ed. May then that Pity,
 That Comfort thou expect'st from Heav'n, that Mercy
 Be lockt up from thee, fly thee; Howlings find thee,
 Despair, (Oh my sweet Father!) Storms of Terrors,
 Blood till thou burst again.

Rol. Oh fair sweet Anger.

Enter Latorch and Hamond with a Head.

Lat. I am too late, Sir, 'twas dispatch'd before,
 And his Head's here.

Rol. And my Heart there; go bury him,
 Give him fair Rites of Funeral, decent Honours.

Ed. Wilt thou not take me, Monster? highest Heav'n
 Give him a Punishment fit for his Mischief.

Lat. I fear thy Prayer is heard, and he rewarded:
 Lady, have Patience, 'twas unhappy Speed;
 Blame not the Duke, 'twas not his Fault, but Fate's;
 He sent, you know, to stay it, and commanded,
 In care of you, the heavy Object hence
 Soon as it came: Have better Thoughts of him.

Enter Citizens.

1 Cit. Where's this young Traitor?

Lat. Noble Citizens, here,
 And here the Wounds he gave your Sovereign Lord.

1 Cit. This Prince of Force must be Belov'd of Heav'n, whom Heav'n hath thus preserv'd.

2 Cit. And if he be belov'd of Heav'n, you know,
 He must be just, and all his Actions so.

Rol. Concluded like an Oracle; Oh how great
 A Grace of Heav'n is a wise Citizen!
 For Heav'n 'tis makes 'em wise, as't makes me just,
 As it preserves me, as I now survive
 By his strong Hand to keep you all alive:

You

Your Wives, your Children, Goods and Lands kept yours,
 That had been else Preys to his Tyrannous Power,
 That would have prey'd on me, in Bed assaulted me
 In sacred Time of Peace; my Mother here,
 My Sister, this just Lord, (53) and all had fill'd
 The Curtian Gulf of this Conspiracy,
 Of which my Tutor and my Chancellor,
 (Two of the gravest, and most counted honest
 In all my Dukedom) were the monstrous Heads;
 Oh trust no honest Men for their sakes ever,
 My politick Citizens, but those that breathe
 The Names of Cut-throats, Usurers and Tyrants,
 Oh those believe in, for the foul-mouth'd World
 Can give no better Terms to simple Goodness:
 Ev'n me it dares blaspheme, and thinks me tyrannous
 For saving my own Life sought by my Brother;
 Yet those that fought his Life before by Poison
 (Though mine own Servants hoping to please me)
 I'll lead to Death for't, which your Eyes shall see.

1 Cit. Why, what a Prince is here!

2 Cit. How just!

3 Cit. How gentle!

(53) ——— and all had felt

The certain Gulf of this Conspiracy,] Certain, for Curtian, is only the Corruption of the late Editors, from their not knowing the History of Curtius a young Nobleman of Rome, who when an Earthquake had open'd a large Gulf in the Forum which threatened Destruction to the City, and the Oracle declared that it would never close 'till some Patrician was put into it, he voluntarily devoted himself and leap'd in on Horse-back. But this Passage has been corrupted in the Quarto itself in another very material Point, and I have receiv'd from Mr. Symphon a very just and happy Emendation, and which must give every Reader great Pleasure. To feel a Gulf is certainly a poor if not an absurd Expression; but to fill the Gulf, as Mr. Symphon reads, is the exact poetical Idea which the Metaphor demands. Shakespear, in Antony and Cleopatra, has a noble Metaphor which refers to this History of Curtius, and which will shew the Propriety of this Emendation. Octavia says to Antony, upon his being displeas'd with her Brother Octavius,

——— Wars 'twixt you twain should be

As if the World should cleave, and that slain Men

Should folder up the Rift.

ACT III. Scene IV.

See Mr. Warburton's fine Comment upon the Place.

Rol. Well, now my dearest Subjects, or much rather
My Nerves, my Spirits, or my vital Blood ;
Turn to your needful Rests, and settled Peace,
Fix'd in this Root of Steel, from whence it sprung
(54) By Heav'n's great Help and Blessing : But e'er Sleep
Bind in his sweet Oblivion your dull Senses,
The Name and Virtue of Heav'n's King advance
For yours, in chief, for my Deliverance.

Cit. Heav'n and his King save our most pious Sovereign.
[Exeunt Citizens.]

Rol. Thanks my good People, Mother, and kind Sister,
And you my noble Kinsman, things born thus Shall make ye all command whatever I
Enjoy in this my absolute Empery.
Take in the Body of my Princely Brother,
For whose Death, since his Fate no other way
Would give my eldest Birth his supream Right,
We'll mourn the cruel Influence it bears,
And wash his Sepulchre with kindly Tears.

Aubr. If this Game end thus, Heav'n's Will rule the set.
What we have yielded to, we could not let.

[Exeunt omnes præter Latorch and Edith.]

Lat. Good Lady rise, and raise your Spirits withal,
More high than they are humbled ; you have Cause,
As much as ever honour'd happiest Lady ;
And when your Ears are freer to take in
Your most amendful and unmatched Fortunes,
I'll make you drown a hundred helpless Deaths
In Sea of one Life pour'd into your Bosom ;
With which shall flow into your Arms, the Riches,
The Pleasures, Honours, and the Rules of Princes ; [em,
Which though Death stop your Ears, methinks should ope
Assay to forget Death.

Ed. Oh slaughter'd Father !

(55) Lat. Cast off what cannot be redrefs'd, and blefs

(54) In Heav'n's great Help—] The Particle In, which renders this Passage stiff and obscure, seems only to have slipt from the former Line, and excluded the true one.

(55) Lat. Taste of what cannot be redrefs'd,—] The gross Corruption of the two last Editions.

The

The Fate that yet you curse so ; since for that
 You spake so movingly, and your sweet Eyes
 With so much Grace fill'd, that you set on fire
 The Duke's Affection, whom you now may rule
 As he rules all his Dukedom ; is't not sweet ?
 Does it not shine away your Sorrows Clouds ?
 Sweet Lady, take wise Heart, and hear and tell me.

Ed. I hear no Word you speak.

Lat. Prepare to hear then,
 And be not barr'd up from yourself, nor add
 To your ill Fortune with your far worse Judgment ; |
 (56) Make me your Servant, make the Courtiers all
Your Servants, studious to amend with Joys
 Your sad Estate, till you are blest ; — and speak it,
 See how they'll bow to you, make me wait, command me
 To watch out every Minute ; (57) for the Fall

(56) Make me your Servant to attend with all Joys
Your sad Estate, till they both blest and speak it :

See how they'll bow to you, make me wait, &c.] This strange
 Chaos has just light enough left to shew the general Tendency of the Passage, viz. That both he and all the Courtiers by their humblest
 Obeisance (if she would accept it) would endeavour to turn her Sorrow into Joy. From the Word amendful, in Latorch's first Speech to her above, it's highly probable that attend should be amend ; that the Word Courtiers, or some one of the same import, is left out, seems almost evident, and a whole Sentence must have accompany'd it. We may hope to come very near the Sense, however wide we are in guessing at the Words of the Original. But what is ——— till they both blest and speak it ? It seems probable that a Mistake in the Points having join'd the two Verbs together, the former Part was chang'd, and both falsly inserted to make out something that look'd like Grammar. I read the whole thus, marking in Italicks what I suppose only to contain something like the Sense of the Original.

Make me your Servant, make the Courtiers all
Your Servants, studious to amend with Joys
Your sad Estate, till you are blest ; — and speak it,
See how they'll bow to you, &c.

(57) ——— for the Stay

Your modest Sorrow fancies, raise your Graces,
And do my Hopes the Honour of your Motion,
To all the offer'd Heights &c.] Stay, i. e. Stop, or hindrance, is barely Sense in this Place, the Sense of which is, For the Loss or Disaster which your Grief and Modesty make you now fancy, raise your Graces to the highest Pitch of Power and Dignity. The Word which gives this Sense, and best preserves the Antithesis, is Fall.

Your modest Sorrow fancies, raise your Graces,
 And do my Hopes the Honour of your Motion,
 To all the offer'd Heights that now attend you :
 Oh how your Touches ravish ! (58) how the Duke
 Is slain already with your Flames ! embrace it,
 I will both serve and visit you, and often.

Ed. I am not fit, Sir.

Lat. Time will make you, Lady. [Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter the Guard, three or four Boys, then the Sheriff, Cook, Yeoman of the Cellar, Butler, Pantler, to Execution.

1 Guard. Come, bring these Fellows on, away with 'em.

2 Guard. Make room before there, room for the Prisoners.

1 Boy. Let's run before, Boys, we shall have no Places else.

2 Boy. Are these the Youths ?

Cook. These are the Youths you look for,
 And pray, my honest Friends, be not so hasty,
 There'll be nought done till we come, I assure you.

3 Boy. Here's a wise Hanging ; are there no more ?

But. D' you hear, Sir ?

You may come in for your share if you please. Cook. My Friend,

If you be unprovided of a Hanging,
 You look like a Good-Fellow, I can afford you
 A reasonable Pennyworth.

(58) ————— how the Duke

Is slain already with your Flames embrac'd !] Here again, a very slight Corruption of the old Quarto lead the two late Editions into a greater, and as it happens to retain a tolerable Sense was the more dangerous. — with your Flames embrac'd ! may give an Idea of a Person burnt at the Stake, and so may be thought to add something to the Metaphor of being slain by her Flames. But the Quarto
 reads,

Is slain already with your Flames embrac't !

From whence the true Reading is easily restor'd.

*Is slain already with your Flames ! embrace it,
 I will both serve and visit you.*

2 Boy.

2 Boy. Afore, afore, Boys,
Here is enow to make us Sport. Yeo. Pox take you,
D' you call this Sport? are these your Recreations?
Must we be hang'd to make you Mirth?

Cook. Do you hear, Sir?
You Custard-Pate, we go to't for High Treason,
An honourable Fault: Thy foolish Father
Was hang'd for stealing Sheep.

Boys. Away, away, Boys.

Cook. Do you see how that sneaking Rogue looks now?
Chip, Pantler, you, you peaching Rogue, that provided us
These Necklaces; you poor costive Rogue, you.

Pant. Pray, pray, Fellows.

Cook. Pray for thy crusty Soul? where's your Reward
now,

Good Goodman Manchet, for your fine Discovery?
I do beseech you, Sir, where are your Dollars?
Draw with your Fellows, and be hang'd.

Yeo. He must now;

For now he shall be hang'd first, that's his Comfort,
A Place too good for thee, thou meal-mouth'd Rascal.

Cook. Hang handsomly for shame, come, leave your praying,

You peaching Knave, and die like a good Courtier,
Die honestly, and like a Man; no Preaching,
With I beseech you take Example by me,
I liv'd a lewd Man, good People. Pox on't,
Die me as if thou'dst din'd, say Grace, and God be with you.

Guard. Come, will you forward?

Cook. Good Mr. Sheriff, your Leave too, this hasty Work
Was ne'er done well; give 's so much time as but to Sing our own Ballads, for we'll trust no Man,
Nor no Tune but our own; 'twas done in Ale too,
And therefore cannot be refus'd in Justice.

Your penny-pot Poets are such pelting Thieves,
They ever hang Men twice; we have it here, Sir,
And so must every Merchant of our Voyage.
He'll make a sweet Return esse of his Credit.

Yeo. One Fit o' our own Mirth, and then we're for you.

Guard. Make haste then and dispatch.

Yeo. There's Day enough, Sir.

Cook. Come, Boys, sing chearfully, w' shall ne'er sing younger.

We've chose a loud Tune too, because it should like well.

The S O N G.

*Come, Fortune's a Whore, I care not who tell her,
Would offer to strangle a Page of the Cellar,
That should by his Oath, to any Man's thinking,
And Place, have had a Defence for his Drinking;
But thus she does still when she pleases to palter,
Instead of his Wages, she gives him a Halter.*

(59) *Three merry Boys, and three merry Boys,
And three merry Boys are we,
As ever did sing three Parts in a String
All under the triple Tree.*

II.

*But I that was so lusty,
And ever kept my Bottles,
That neither they were musty,
And seldom less than Pottles;
For me to be thus stopt now,
With Hemp instead of Cork, Sir,
And from the Gallows lopt now,
Shews that there is a Fork, Sir,
In Death, and this the Token,
Man may be two ways killed,
Or like the Bottle, broken,
Or like the Wine, be spilled.*

Three merry Boys, &c.

(59) Three merry Boys, and three merry Boys, and three merry Boys are we,

As ever did sing in a hempen String under the Gallows-tree.]

Thus the late Editions, and one would almost think that they had some other Copy than the Quarto of 1640 to print from. I have restored the Reading of that Quarto into the present Text.

*Ob yet but look
On the Master Cook,
The glory of the Kitchen,
In sowing whose Fate,
At so lofty a rate,
No Taylor e'er had stitching,
For though he makes the Man,
The Cook yet makes the Dishes,
The which no Taylor can,
Wherein I have my Wishes,
That I who at so many a Feast,
Have pleas'd so many Tasters,
Should now my self come to be drest,
A Dish for you my Masters.
Three merry Boys, &c.*

*Pant. Ob Man or Beast,
Or you at least,
That wear or Brow or Antler,
Prick up your Ears,
Unto the Tears
Of me poor Paul the Pantler,
That thus am clipt,
Because I chipt
The cursed Crust of Treason
With Loyal Knife;
Ob doleful Strife,
To hang thus without Reason.
Three merry Boys, &c.*

Cook. There's a few Copies for you ; now farewell Friends :
And good Mr. Sheriff let me not be Printed
With a Brass Pot on my Head.

But. March fair, march fair, afore, good Captain Pantler.

A C T

A C T IV. S C E N E I.

Enter Aubrey, and Latorch.

Aubr. L Latorch, I have waited here to speak with you,
 And you must hearken ; set not forth your Leg
 Of hatte, nor put your Face of Business on ;
 An honest Affair than this I urge too,
 You will not easily think on ; and 'twill be Reward to entertain it ; 'tis your Fortune
 To have our Master's Ear above the rest
 Of us that follow him, (60) but that no Man envies ;
 And I have well consider'd, Truth sometimes
 May be convey'd in by the same Conduits
 That Falshood is: These Courses that he takes Cannot but end in Ruin ; Empire got
 By Blood and Violence, must so be held ;
 And how unsafe it is, he first will prove,
 That toiling still to remove Enemies
 Makes himself more ; it is not now a Brother,
 A faithful Counsellor of State or two,
 That are his Danger, they are fair dispatch'd ;
 It is a Multitude that 'gin to fear,
 And think what began there must end in them ;
 For all the fine Oration that was made 'em,
 And they are not an easie Monster quell'd.
 Princes may pick their suffering Nobles out ;
 (61) And one by one employ 'em to the Block ;

(60) ——— but that no Man envies ;

For I have well consider'd, &c.] By this Reading, Aubrey's Design of employing Latorch to convey a Truth to Rollo was the Reason why no Man envied Latorch the Favour of his Master ; whereas the real Reason was the Knowledge of the vile Means he had used to obtain it, and this will be imply'd by changing the Particle For into And.

(61) And one by one employ 'em to the Block ;] Convoy'em seems a more natural Expression ; but as the other is Sense, I don't change the Text.

But

But when they (62) once grow formidable to Their Clowns, and Coblers, ware then Guards themselves ;
 If thou durst tell him this, Latorck, the Service
 Would not discredit the good Name you hold
 With Men, besides the Profit to your Master,
 And to the Publick. Lat. I conceive not, Sir :
 They're airy Fears ; and why should I object them
 Unto his Fancy ? Wound what is yet found ?
 Your Counsels colour not wi' reason of State,
 Where all that's necessary still is just.
 The Actions of the Prince, while they succeed,
 Should be made good, and glorified ; not question'd.
 Men do but shew their ill Affections,
 That—— Aubr. What ? Speak out. Lat. Do murmur against their Masters.

Aubr. Is this to me ? Lat. It is to whomsoever
 Mislikes of the Duke's Courses. Aub. Ay ! is't so ?
 At your Stateward, Sir ? Lat. I'm sworn to hear
 Nothing may prejudice the Prince. Aub. Why, do you ?
 Or have you, ha ? Lat. I cannot tell, Mens Hearts
 Shew in their Words sometimes. Aubr. I ever thought thee
 Knave of the Chamber, art thou the Spy too ?

Lat. A Watchman for the State, and one that's known,
 Sir, to be rightly affected.

Aubr. Bawd of the State ;
 No less than of thy Master's Lufts. I now
 See nothing can redeem thee ; dar'st thou mention
 Affection, or a Heart, that ne'er hadst any ?

(62) — grow formidable to their Clowns, and Coblers, ware then, guard themselves ;] The Confusion of the Measure here is a Trifle, but the Omission of a Letter in the Quarto made the subsequent Editions turn a noble Sentiment into a very poor one. The Quarto has no Comma between then and guard ; undoubtedly, therefore, instead of closing Aubrey's fine Speech with “ Then is their Danger, ware “ then, let them then guard themselves ; ” We should read — ware then Guards themselves ; i. e. When a Prince is hated by all his Subjects, his very Guards will become his Enemies, and be the first to destroy him. The Histories of almost all Tyrants in the World confirm this Observation. And it is a sort of Prophecy of Rollo's Fate, a Hint of which Aubrey in the next Scene gives Rollo himself, when he tells him,

You make your Guards your Terrors by these Acts.

Know'st

Know'st not (63) to love or hate, but by the Scale,
 As thy Prince does't before thee? That dost never Wear thy own Face, but put'st on his, and gather'st
 Baits for his Ears; liv'st wholly at his beck,
 And e'er thou dar'st utter a Thought thine own,
 Must expect his; creep'st forth and wad'st into him
 As if thou wert to pass a Ford, there proving Yet if thy Tongue may step on safely or no;
 (64) Then sing'st his Virtue asleep, and stay'st the Wheel
 Both of his Reason and Judgment, that they move not:
 White'st over all his Vices; and at last
 Dost draw a Cloud of Words before his Eyes,
 Till he can neither see thee nor himself?
 Wretch, I dare give him honest Counsels, I,
 And love him while I tell him Truth; old Aubrey
 Dares go the straightest way, which still's the shortest,
 Walk on the Thorns thou scatter'st, Parasite,
 And tread 'em into nothing; and if thou
 Then let'st a Look fall, of the least dislike,
 (65) I'll rip thy Crown up with my Sword at height,
 And pluck thy Skin over thy Face, in sight
 Of him thou flatter'st; unto thee I speak it,
 Slave, against whom all Laws should now conspire,
 And every Creature that hath Sense, be arm'd,
 As 'gainst the common Enemy of Mankind;
 That sleep'st within thy Master's Ear, and whisper'st

(63) — to love or hate, but by the State,] A very corrupt Reading of the late Editions.

(64) Then bring'st his Virtue asleep, —] That bring'st is a Corruption seems evident, but I was doubtful whether I should read ring'st or sing'st; the former is nearer the Trace of the Letters, the latter the more obvious Metaphor. Mr. Symson sending me the latter as his Conjecture too, determin'd me to give it the preference.

(65) I'll rip thy Crown up with my Sword at height,
And pluck thy Skin over thy Face, —] I much suspect the first Line, to which I can affix no clear Idea. What would Aubrey do to him? It should seem, that he would with his Sword strip open the Crown of his Head, and pluck his Skin over his Face. The following Conjecture will give this Reading more clearly than the former, but not so clearly as I could wish, and therefore I don't put it into the Text.

I'll strip thy Crown open with my Sword at height.

'Tis

'Tis better for him to be fear'd than lov'd ;
 Bid'st him trust no Man's Friendship, spare no Blood
 That may secure him ; " 'tis no Cruelty
 " That hath a specious End ; for Sovereignty
 " Break all the Laws of kind ; if it succeed,
 " An honest, noble, and praise-worthy Deed.
 While he that takes thy Poisons in, shall feel
 Their virulent workings in a point of Time,
 When no Repentance can bring Aid, (66) but all
 His Spirits shall melt, with what his Conscience burn'd,
 And dying in a Flatterers Arms, shall fall unmourn'd.
 There's Matter for you now.

Lat. (67) My Lord, this makes not
 For loving of my Master. Aubr. Loving? No;
 They hate ill Princes most that make them so.

Enter Rollo, Hamond, Allan, and Guard.

Rol. I'll hear no more.

Ham. Alas, 'tis for my Brother :
 I do beseech your Highness. Rol. How, a Brother ?
 Had not I one myself? Did Title move me
 When it was fit that he should die? away.

(66) ————— but all

*His Spirits shall melt, with what his Conscience burn'd,
 And dying in a Flatterer's Arms, shall fall unmourn'd.]* The Sentiment in the first Lines is stiffly express'd. His Spirits shall melt at the Fire with which his Conscience shall burn, seems the Sense.
 Might the Rhime be dispensed with, it might perhaps be better to read,
*His Spirits shall melt, his Conscience burn, and dying
 Within a Flatterer's Arms shall fall unmourn'd.*

(67) My Lord, this makes not for loving of my Master.] The Measure is here (as in a hundred Places too trifling for Notes) easily adjusted. But how do Latorch's Words express his Sentiments?
 — This makes not for loving of my Master, should seem to imply, that Aubrey's Speech shew'd no Love to Rollo; but Aubrey's Answer plainly shews that Latorch spoke something of his own Love to his Master, and not of Aubrey's. Perhaps the Reader may think the old Reading may be construed to this Sense, and therefore without disturbing the Text, I shall only offer a Conjecture of which I am myself very dubious.

Lat. My Lord, this Rating's
 For loving of my Master.

i. e. The real Cause of your Anger to me is my Love to my Master.

All.

All. Brother, lose no word more, leave my good Cause
T'upbraid the Tyrant, I am glad I'm fain
Now in those Times, that will'd some great Example
T' assure Men we can die for Honesty.

Rol. Sir, you are brave, 'pray that you hold your Neck
As bravely forth anon unto your Headsman.

All. Would he would strike as bravely, and thou by,
Rollo, 'twould make thee quake to see me die.

Aubr. What's his Offence?

Ham. For giving Gisbert burial,
Who was sometimes his Master.

All. Yes, Lord Aubrey,
My Gratitude and Humanity are my Crimes.

Rol. Why bear you him not hence?

Aub. My Lord, (stay Soldiers)
I do beseech your Highness, do not lose
Such Men for such slight Causes. This is one
Has still been faithful to you, a try'd Soul
In all your Father's Battels; I have seen him
Beside a Friend against a score of Foes,
And look, he looks as he would kill his hundred
For you, Sir, were y' in danger.

All. 'Till he kill'd
His Brother, his Chancellor, and then his Master,
To which he can add nought to equal Nero,
But killing of his Mother.

Aubr. Peace, brave Fool,
Thou valiant Afs: Here is his Brother too, Sir,
A Captain of your Guard, hath serv'd you long,
With the most noble witness of his Truth
Mark'd in his Face, and every Part about him;
That turns not from an Enemy. But view him,
Oh do not grieve him, Sir, if you do mean
That he shall hold his Place: It is not safe
To tempt such Spirits, and let them wear their Swords,
You'll make your Guards your Terrors by these Acts,
And throw more Hearts off from you than you hold;
And I must tell you, Sir, (with my old freedom,
And my old Faith to boot) you have not liv'd so
But that your State will need such Men, such Hands

Of which here's one, shall in an Hour of Trial,
Do you more certain Service with a Stroke,
Than the whole Bundle of your Flatterers,
(68) With all th' unfavory Unction of their Tongues.

Rol. Peace, Talker.

Aubr. One that loves you yet, my Lord,
And would not see you pull on your own Ruins.
Mercy becomes a Prince, and guards him best ;
Awe and Affrights, they are no tyes of Love ;
When Men begin to fear the Prince, they hate him.

Rol. Am I the Prince, or you?

Aubr. My Lord, I hope I have not utter'd ought should urge that Question.

Rol. Then practise your Obedience, see him dead.

Aubr. My Lord?

Rol. I'll hear no more.

Aubr. I'm sorry then ;

There's no small despair, Sir, of their Safety,
Whose Ears are blocked up against the Truth ;
Come, Captain. Ham. I thank you, Sir. Aubr. For what?
For seeing thy Brother die a Man, and honest?
Live thou so, Captain, I will, I assure thee,
Although I die for't too ; come——

[Exeunt all but Rol. and Lat.

Rol. Now, Latorch,

What do you think? Lat. That Aubrey's Speech and Manners

Sound somewhat of the boldest. Rol. 'Tis his Custom.

Lat. It may be so, and yet be worth a Fear.

Rol. If we thought so, it should be worth his Life,
And quickly too. Lat. I dare not, Sir, be Author
Of what I would be, he is so dangerous :

But with your Highness' Favour and your Licence.

Rol. He talks, 'tis true ; and he is licens'd : Leave him,
We now are Duke alone, Latorch, secur'd ;
Nothing left standing to obscure our Prospect,
We look right forth, beside, and round about us,

(68) With all th' unfavory Unction of their Tongues.] Unfavory Uktion, i. e. The Unction which at such a time will have lost all its favour. But the more natural Reading is favoury.

And

And see it ours with pleasure : Only one
 Wish'd Joy there wants to make us to possess it,
 And that is Edith, Edith, she that got me
 In Blood and Tears, in such an opposite Minute,
 As had I not at once felt all the Flames
 And Shafts of Love shot in me, his whole Armory,
 I should have thought him as far off as Death.

Lat. My Lord, expect a while, your Happiness
 Is nearer than you think it ; yet her Griefs
 Are green and fresh, your vigilant Latorch
 Hath not been idle ; I have leave already
 To visit her, and send to her.

Rol. My Life.

Lat. And if I find not out as speedy ways,
 And proper Instruments to work and bring her
 To your Fruition ; that she be not watch'd
 Tame to your Highness, say you have no Servant
 Is capable of such a Trust about you,
 (69) Or worthy to be Groom of your Delight.

Rol. Oh my Latorch, what shall I render thee
 For all thy travels, care, and love?

Lat. Sir, one Suit,
 Which I will ev'r importune, 'till you grant me.

Rol. About your Mathematicians ?

Lat. Yes, to have
 The Scheme of your Nativity judg'd by them,
 I have't already erected ; O my Lord,
 You do not know the labour of my Fears,
 My Doubts for you are such as cannot hope
 Any Security but from the Stars ;
 Who, being rightly ask'd, can tell Man more
 Than all Power else, there being no Power beyond them.

(69) Or worthy to be Secretary of your Pleasure.] This indeed is good Sense, but 'tis only the conjectural Reading of the late Editions, and departs too much from the Trace of the Letters to be allow'd to stand. The old Quarto reads,

Or worthy to be———— of your Delight.

Here a Word was lost, Bawd, or Pimp, which are his true Character, are too coarse Names for a Man to call himself ; Secretary, Steward, and all Words but Monosyllables are excluded by the Measure. Groom
 therefore seems to bid fairest for being the Original.

Rol.

Rol. All thy Petitions still are care of us,
Ask for thyself.

Lat. What more can concern me,
Than this? Rol. Well, rise true honest Man, and go then,
We'll stud' ourselves a Means how to reward thee.

Lat. Your Grace is now inspir'd; now, now your Highness
Begins to live, from this Hour count your Joys:
But, Sir, I must have Warrants, with blank Figures
To put in Names, such as I like.

Rol. You shall.

Lat. They dare not else, Sir, offer at your Figure?
Oh I shall bring you wonders; there's a Friar
Rufee, an admirable Man, another
A Gentleman, and then la Fiske,
The Mirror of his Time; 'twas he that set it.
But there's one Norbret (him I never saw)
Has made a Mirror, a meer Looking-glass,
In shew you'd think't no other; the form Oval,
As I am given to understand by Letter,
Which renders you such Shapes, and those so differing,
And some that will be question'd and give answers;
Then has he set it in a Frame, that wrought
Unto the Revolutions of the Stars,
And so compact by due Proportions
Unto their Harmony, doth move alone
A true Automaton; thus Dædalus Statues,
Or Vulcan's Stools— Rol. Dost thou believe this? Lat. Sir?
Why, what should stay my Faith, or turn my Sense?
He's been about it above twenty Years,
Three Sevens, the powerful, and the perfect Numbers;
And Art and Time, Sir, can produce such things.
What do I read there of Hiarbas Banquet?
The great Gymnosophist, that had his Butlers
And Carvers of pure Gold waiting at Table?
The Images of Mercury, too, that spoke?
(70) The Wooden Dove that flew? A Snake of Brass

(70) The Wooden Door that flew? —] The Corruption of the late Editions.

That his'd? and Birds of Silver that did sing?
 All these were done by the Mathematicks,
 Without which there's no Science, nor no Truth.

Rol. You are in your own Sphear, Latorck: and rather Than I'll contend w'ye for it, I'll believe it,
 You've won upon me that I wish to see
 My Fate before me now, whate'er it be.

Lat. And I'll endeavour, you shall know with speed,
 For which I should have one of trust go with me,
 If you please, Hamond, that I may by him
 Send you my first Dispatches; after I
 (71) Shall bring you more, and as they come forth from 'em,

More and more accurate.

Rol. Take your own way,
 Chuse your own means, and be it prosperous to us.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E II.

Enter Rusee, de Bube, la Fiske, Norbret, and Pippeau.

Ruf. Come, bear up, Sirs, we shall have better Days,
 My Almanack tells me.

Bub. What is that? your Rump?

Ruf. It never itch'd in vain yet, 'lid la Fiske,
 Throw off thy sluggish Face, I can't abide
 To see thee look like a poor Jade i'th' Pound,
 That saw no Meat these three Days.

Fiske. 'Slight, to me
 'T seems thirteen Days since I saw any.

Ruf. How?

Fiske. I can't remember that I ever saw

(71) Shall bring you more, and as they come still more.] The old
 Quarto reads,

*Shall bring you more, and as they come more
 And accurate forth from 'em.*

This being evidently corrupt, the late Editions struck out what they could not make Sense of, which may be done by little more than putting the Words into the natural Order, and they will then compleat the Measure with the next Hemistich.

Or

Or Meat, or Mony, you may talk of both
To open a Man's Stomach or his Purse,
But feed 'em still with Air.

Bube. Friar, I fear
You do not say your Office well a-days,
I cannot hear your Beads knack.

Nor. Pox, he feeds
With Leachery, and lives upon th' exchange
Of his two Eggs and Pudding with the Market-women.

Ruf. And what do you, Sir, with the Advocate's Wife,
Whom you perswade, upon your Doctoral Bed,
To take the Mathematical Trance so often?

Fiske. Come, we are stark naught all, bad's the best of us,
Four of the seven deadly Spots we are ;
Besides our Leachery, we are envious,
And most, most gluttonous when we have it thus,
Most covetous now we want it ; then our Boy
He is a fifth Spot, Sloth, and he undoes us.

Bube. 'Tis true, the Child was wont to be industrious,
And now and then sent in a Merchant's Wife
Sick of the Husband, or a swearing Butler
That miss'd one of his Bowls, a crying Maid
Had lost a Silver Spoon ; the Curry Comb
Sometimes was wanting ; there was something gotten ;
But now——

Pip. What now ? Did not I Yester-morning
Bring you in a Cardecu there from the Peasant,
Whose Afs I'd driven aside, and hid, that you
Might conjure for him ? and again last Night,
Six Soulz from the Cook's Wife, you shar'd among you,
To set a figure for th' Pestle I stole.

It is not at home yet ; these things, my Masters,
In a hard time, they would be thought on : You
Talk of your Lands and Castles in the Air,
Of your twelve Houses there : But it is I
That bring you in your Rents for 'em, 'tis Pippeau
That is your Bird-call.

Nor. Faith he does well,
And cuts through th' Elements for us, I must needs say
In a fine dextrous Line.

Fiske. But not as he did
At first, then he would fail with any Wind
Int' every Creek and Corner.

Pip. I was light then,
New built and rigg'd when I came to you, Gentlemen,
But now with often and far venturing for you
Here be Leaks sprung, and whole Planks wanting, see you;
If you'll new sheath me again, (72) yet I am for you
To any Gulf or Streights, where-e'er you'll send me,
For as I am, where can this ragged Bark
Put in for any Service, 'less it be O'th' Isle of Rogues, and there turn Pirate for you?

Nor. Faith he says Reason, Fryer, you must leave
Your neat crisp Claret, and fall to your Cyder
A while; and you la Fiske, your larded Capons
And Turkiés for a time, and take a good
Clean Tripe in your way; de Bube too must content him
(73) With wholsom two-souls'd Petitoes, no more

Crown

(72) ——— yet I am for you

To any Bog or Sleights, ———] We all discard Sleights as a Corruption, Mr. Theobald proposes Sloughs, but as the Metaphor is taken all along from a Ship, I should rather discard the Word Bog as spurious than add a second of the same Import. But supposing that Bog may signify the Shallows and Sands, (when as Virgil expresses it, furit aestas arenis) I let it stand, tho' I think it probable that Port, or Gulf, might one of them have been the Original; for there can, I believe, be no room to doubt that Streights (a Conjecture which Mr. Symp- son and I concurr'd in) is the true Reading, instead of Sleights. Had it wanted a Confirmation, Mr. Sympson has furnish'd me with one from a parallel Passage in Johnson's Underwoods to Lord Sackville, p. 159.

————— their very Trade

Is borrowing; that but stopt, they do invadeAll as their Prize, turn Pirates here at Land,Have their Bermudas and their Streights in the Strand,Man out their Boats to th' Temple, and not shiftNow but Command—————

A Friend happening to come in just as I had wrote this Note, insisted upon my discarding Bog from the Text, which I retain'd only because my Conjectures were scarce near enough the Trace of the Letters; but they are, either, nearer than several Changes that have been made by the latter Editions of this Play, in which own was put for teach in one Place, and close for blefs in another.

(73) With wholsom two souz'd Petitoes, ———] Mr. Theobald reads, from the old Quarto, two souz'd; the Idea which he would affix is,

I

Crown Ordinaries, till we've cloath'd our Infant.

Bube. So you'll keep
Your own good Motions, Doctor, your dear self.

Fiske. Yes, for we all do know the Latitude
Of your Concupiscence.

Ruf. Here about your Belly.

Bube. You'll pick a Bottle open or a Whimsy,
As soon as the best of us.

Fiske. And dip your Wrist-bands, [The Bell rings.
(For Cuffs you've none) as comely in the Sauce
As any Courtier—— hark, the Bell, who's there?

Ruf. Good luck I do conjure thee; Boy look out.

Pip. They're Gallants, Courtiers, one of 'em is Of the Duke's Bed-chamber. [Exit and enter again.

Ruf. Latorch. —down, Doctor, [To Norbret.
On with your Gown, there's a new Suite arriv'd.
Did I not tell you, Sons of Hunger? Crowns, Crowns, Crowns are coming tow'rd you, Wine and Wenches

You shall have once again, and Fidelers:
Into your Studies close; each lay his Ear
T' his Door, and as you hear me to prepare you
So come, and put me on that Vizard only.

Enter Latorch, and Hamond.

Lat. You'll not be far hence Captain, when the Business
Is done you shall receive present Dispatch.

Ham. I'll walk, Sir, in the Cloyster. [Exit.

Ruf. Monsieur Latorch; my Son,
The Stars are happy still that guide you hither.

Lat. I'm glad to hear their Secretary say so,
My learned Father Ruffè, where's la Fiske,
Monsieur de Bube, how do they?

Ruf. At their Studies,
They are the Secretaries of the Stars, Sir,
Still at their Books, they will not be pull'd off,
They stick like cupping Glassses; if ever Men

I suppose, twice pickled, or twice salted: But Solz, Soulz, or Sous, the French Coin, making a more natural Expression, and a stronger
Antithesis to the Crown Ordinaries, I think that the true one.

Spoke with the Tongue of Destiny, 'tis they.

Lat. For love's sake let's salute 'em.

Ruf. Boy, go see,

Tell them who's here, say, that their Friends do challenge
Some portion of their Time, this is our Minute,
Pray 'em they'll spare it : they are the Sun and Moon
Of Knowledge ; pity two such noble Lights
Should live obscur'd here in an University,
Whose Beams were fit t'illumine any Court
Of Christendom.

Enter la Fiske, de Bube, and Pippeau.

Lat. The Duke will shortly know 'em.

Fiske. Well, look upon the Astrolabe ; you'll find it
Four Almucanturies at least.

Bube. It is so.

Ruf. Still of their learned stuff, they care for nothing,
But how to know, as negligent of their Bodies
In Diet, or else, especially in their Cloaths,
As if they had no change.

Pip. They have so little

As well may free them from the Name of Shifters.

Fiske. Monsieur Latorch—

Lat. How is it, learned Gentlemen,
With both your Virtues ? Bube. A most happy Hour,
When we see you, Sir. Lat. When you hear me then
It will be happier ; the Duke greets you both
Thus, and though you may touch no Mony, Father,
Yet you may take it.

Ruf. 'Tis his Highness Bounty,
But yet to me, and these that have put off
The World, superfluous,

Fiske. We've heard of late
His Highness good success,

Bube. And gratulate it.

Lat. Indeed h' hath 'scap'd a strange Conspiracy,
Thanks to his Stars ; which Stars he prays by me,
You would again consult, and make a Judgment
On what you lately erected for my Love.

Ruf.

Ruf. Oh, Sir, we dare not. Fiske. For our Lives. Bube.

It is

The Prince's Scheme. Lat. T' encounter with that Fear,
Here's to assure you; his Signet,— write your Names,
And be secur'd all three. Bube. We must intreat
Some Time, Sir. Lat. I must then intreat, it be
As present as you can.

Fiske. Have you the Scheme here?

Lat. Yes.

Ruf. I would you had, Sir,
Another Warrant. Lat. What would that do. Ruf. Marry
We have a Doctor, Sir, that in this Business
Would not perform the second Part.

Lat. Not him

That you writ to me of?

Ruf. The very same.

Lat. I should have made it, Sir, my suit to see him;
Here is a Warrant, Father, I conceiv'd
That he had solely applied himself to Magick.

Ruf. And to these Studies too, Sir, in this Field
He was initiated, but we shall hardly Draw him from his Chair.

Lat. Tell him he shall have Gold.

Fiske. Oh, such a Syllable would make 'im forswear Ever to breath i' your sight. Lat. How then? Fiske. Sir, he,
If you do please to give him any thing,
Must have't convey'd under a Paper.

Ruf. Or left

Behind some Book i's Study. Bube. Or in some old Wall.

Fiske. Where his Familiars may tell him of it,
That pleases him, Sir.

(74) Bube. I'll go and assay him.

(74) Bube. Or else I'll go and assay him.] I have met with no one Play in our Authors where the Measure when restored seem'd so correct as in this; even in the comick Parts, where the Dialogue consists mostly in half Lines, the Measure is generally true. The Words or else were struck out by Mr. Symphon as injurious to the Sense, and I had observ'd them injurious both to Sense and Measure. They are not indeed intelligible, but by supposing them a broken Sentence design'd to continue La Fiske's Speech. As Bube. Or else— I'll go and assay him.

But it is much more probable that they are an accidental Interpolation.

Lat. Take Gold with you.

Ruf. That will not be amiss ;

Give it the Boy, Sir, for he knows his Holes,
And how to bait his Spirits. Pip. We must lay,
In several Places, Sir. Ruf. That's true ; that if
One come not, th' other may hit. Lat. Well, go then,
Is he so learned, Gentlemen ? Fiske. The very top
Of our Profession, Mouth of the Fates ; pray Heav'n
His Spirits be in a good humour to take,
They'll fling the Gold about the House else. Bube. Ay,
And beat the Fryer if he go not well
Furnish'd with Holy-water,

Fiske. You must observe him.

Bube. Not cross him in a Word, for then he's gone.

Fiske. If he do come, which is a Hazard, yet—
Mafs he is here, this is speed.

Enter Norbret, Rufee, and Pippeau.

Nor. Where's your Scheme ?

Let's see, dispatch, nay fumbling now ; who's this ?

Ruf. Chief Gentleman of the Duke's Chamber, Doctor.

Nor. Oh, let him be, good ev'n to him, he's a Courtier,
I'll spare his Compliment, tell him : what is here ?

The geniture Nocturnal, Longitude

At forty Nine and ten Minutes ? How are the Cardines ?

Fiske. Libra in twenty four, forty four Minutes,
And Capricorn.

Nor. I see it, see the Planets,

Where, how are they dispos'd ; the Sun and Mercury,

Mars with the Dragon's Tail in the third House,

And pars Fortunæ in the Imo Cæli,

Then Jupiter in the Twelfth, the Cacodemon.

Bube. And Venus in the second Inferna Porta.

Nor. I see it, peace ; then Saturn in the Fifth,

Luna i'th' Seventh, and much of Scorpio,

Then Mars his Gaudium, rising in th' Ascendent,

And join'd with Libra too, the House of Venus,

And Imum Cæli, Mars his Exaltation

In the seventh House, Aries being his Natural House

And where he is now seated, and all these shew him

To

To be the Almuter.

Ruf. Yes, he's Lord of the Geniture,
Whether you examine it by Ptolomy's way,
(75) Or Messabalab's, Lael, or Alkindus.

Fiske. No other Planet hath so many Dignities
Either by himself, or in regard of the Cuspes.

Nor. Why hold your Tongue then if you know it; Venus
The Lady of the Horoscope, being Libra,
The other part, Mars rules: So that the Geniture,
Being Nocturnal, Luna is the highest,
None else being in sufficient Dignity,
She being in Aries in the Seventh House,
Where Sol exalted, is the Alchorodon.

Bube. Yes, for you see he hath his Termine
In the Degrees where she is, and enjoys
By that, six Dignities.

Fiske. Which are clearly more
Than any else that view her in the Scheme.

Nor. Why I saw this, and could have told you too,
That he beholds her with a Trine Aspect
Here out of Sagittary, (76) almost Quartile,
And how that Mars out of the self-same House,
(But another Sign) here by a Platique Aspect
Looks at the Hyleg, with a Quartile ruling
The House where the Sun is; all this could I
Have told you, but that you'll out-run me; and more,
That this same Quartile Aspect to the Lady of Life,
Here in the Seventh, promises some Danger,
Cauda Draconis being so near Mars,

(75) Or Messethales;—] The Quarto reads Nassabales. The right Name is Messabalab, he was a Jew famous for judicial Astrology, and lived in the Times of the Chalifs Almansor and Almamon. Vide Salmasium de annis Climactericis, Page 309. Mr. Symphon.

(76) — almost partile.] The old Quarto reads, —almost partly. Quartile is undoubtedly the true Word. It is difficult to us at present to relish the Jargon of a Science so long exploded, but it is certainly a very just Banter upon the ridiculous Credulity of our Authors Age. The Words Almuter and Alchoroden are two Words which Bailey, the only Dictionary I found them in, makes pretty near the same Thing. viz. The Star that reigns at our Nativity. There is some little Distinction which I have forgot, and I have not his Dictionary now by me.

And

And Caput Algol in the House of Death.

Lat. How, Sir? I pray you clear that.

Nor. What is the Question first?

Ruf. Of the Duke's Life, what Dangers threaten him?

Nor. Apparent, and those sudden, when the Hyleg
Or Alchorodon by direction come
To a Quartile opposition of the place
Where Mars is in the Geniture, (which is now
At Hand) or else oppose to Mars himself; expect it.

Lat. But they may be prevented.

Nor. Wisdom only

That rules the Stars, may do it; for Mars being Lord of the Geniture in Capricorn,
Is, if you mark it, now a Sextile here,
With Venus Lady of the Horoscope.
So she being in her Exilium, which is Scorpio,
And Mars his Gaudium, is o'er-rul'd by him,
And clear debilitated five Degrees
Beneath her ordinary Power, so
That, at the most, she can but mitigate.

Lat. You cannot name the Persons bring this danger?

Nor. No, that the Stars tell us not, they name no Man,
That is a Work, Sir, of another Place.

Ruf. Tell him whom you suspect, and he'll guess shrewdly.

Lat. Sir, we do fear one Aubrey; if 'twere he
I should be glad; for we should soon prevent him.

Fiske. I know him, the Duke's Kinsman, a tall Man?
Lay hold of't Norbret.

Nor. Let me pause a little,
Is he not near (77) of Blood unto the Duke?

Lat. Yes, reverend Sir. Nor. ('Fart for your Reverence, Keep it till then)

—And somewhat high of Stature? Lat. He is so.

(Nor. How old is he?)

Fiske. About seven and fifty.)

Nor. —His Head and Beard inclining to be grey.

(77) —of kin—] The old Quarto reads Blood. Here the Printer's
Idea carried him right, tho' he mist the true and the better Word.

Lat. Right, Sir.

(Friske. And Lat.)

Nor. —He is somewhat corpulent, is he not?

Lat. You speak the Man, Sir.

Nor. Well, look to him, farewell. [Exit Norb.]

Lat. Oh, it is Aubrey; Gentlemen, I pray you,
Let me receive this under all your Hands.

Ruf. Why, he will shew you him in his Magick Glass
If you intreat him, and but gratifie
A Spirit or two more.

Lat. He shall eat Gold
If he will have it, so shall you all; there's that Amongst you first, let me have this to send
The Duke in the mean time; and then what Sights
You please to shew; I'll have you so rewarded
As never Artists were, you shall to Court
Along with me, and there not wait your Fortunes.

Bub. We have a pretty part of't in our Pockets;
Boy, we will all be new, you shall along too. [Exeunt.]

S C E N E III.

Enter Sophia, Matilda, and Edith.

Mat. Good Madam, hear the Suit that Edith urges,
With such submissive Beseeches; nor remain
So strictly bound to Sorrow for your Son,
That nothing else, though never so befitting,
Obtains your Ears, or Observation.

Soph. What would she say? I hear.

Ed. My Suit is, Madam,
That you would please to think as well of Justice
Due to your Son's Revenge, as of more wrong added
To both yourselves for it, in only grieving.
Th' undaunted Power of Princes should not be Confin'd in deedless cold Calamity;
(78) Anger, the Twin of Sorrow in your Wrongs,
Should

(78) *Anger, the Twin of Sorrow, in your Wrongs
Should not be smother'd, when his Right of Birth Claims th' Air as well, and Force of coming forth.*] These Lines contain a fine Metaphor seemingly obscured by the Mistakes of
the

Should not be smother'd, when his Force of Birth
Claims th' Air as well, and Right of coming forth.

Soph. (79) Sorrow has's due already, Anger never Should be conceived, but where it may be born
In some Fact fit t'employ his active Flame,
That else consumes who bears it, and abides
Like a false Star that quenches as it glides.

Ed. I have such means t'employ it as your Wish
Can think no better, easier, or securer ;
And such as but for th' Honours I intend
To your Partakings, I alone could end,
But your Parts in all dues to crying Blood
For Vengeance in the Shedder, are much greater :
And therefore should work your Hands to his Slaughter,
For your Consent to which, 'twere infinite wrong
To your severe and most impartial Justice,
To move you to forget so false a Son
As with a Mother's Duty made you curse him.

Mat. Edith, he is forgot, for any Son the Pref. For, first, How did Saphia stifle her Anger in her Wrongs ?

No, Anger was the Twin of Sorrow, both the Children of her Wrongs. I therefore transpose the Comma to the End of the first Line.
In the next Place, how dark is the Expression ——— claims the force of coming forth? I believe the Words Right and Force, that stand just over each other, have chang'd Places ; by replacing them the Sense becomes clear. Anger being a more active and violent Passion than Sorrow, the Word Force, when rightly plac'd, is extremely beautiful.

————— when his Force of Birth

Claims th' Air as well, and Right of coming forth.

The Poet had undoubtedly the Scripture Expression in his Eye ; The Children are come to the Birth, and there is not Strength to bring forth.

(79) Sorrow is due already, ———] Here the Metaphor is drop'd, most probably by Mistake. There are two ways of curing it ; either by reading, Sorrow is bred already ——— or by departing less from the Trace of the Letters, tho' it a little roughens the Measure, Sorrow has his due already — i. e. due of Birth. I prefer this, as it is common with all our old Poets, either to cut off a final Vowel when the next Word begins with one, as Milton,

To set himself in Glory' above his Peers.

In perfect Beauty' adorn'd, ———

And so in fifty Places. Or it is equally customary to contract has his into one Syllable has's.

Born

Born of my Mother, or to me a Brother.
For should we still perform our Rights to him
We should partake his Wrongs, and as foul be
In Blood and damned Parricide as he.
And therefore tell the happy means that Heav'n
Puts in thy Hand, for all our long'd-for Freedom
From so abhorr'd and impious a Monster.

Soph. Tell what she will, I'll lend nor Hand nor Ear
To whatsoever Heav'n puts in her Power. [Exit.

Mat. How strange she is to what she chiefly wishes?
Sweet Edith, be not any Thought the more
Discourag'd in thy Purpose, but assur'd
Her Heart and Prayers are thine; and that we two Shall be enough to all we wish to do.

Ed. Madam, myself alone, I make no doubt
Shall be afforded Power enough from Heav'n
To end the Murtherer: All I wish of you,
Is but some richer Ornaments and Jewels
Than I am able to provide myself,
To help out the Defects of my poor Beauty,
That yet hath been enough, as now it is,
To make his Fancy mad with my Desire?
But you know, Madam, Women never can
Be too fair to torment an amorous Man;
And this Man's Torments I would heighten still,
Till at their highest he be fit to kill.

Mat. Thou shalt have all my Jewels and my Mother's,
And thou shalt paint too, that his Blood's Desire
May make him perish in a painted Fire;
Hast thou been with him yet?

Ed. Been with him? no;
I set that Hour back to haste more his longing;
But I have promis'd to his Instruments,
The Admittance of a Visit at our House,
Where yet I would receive him with all Lustre
My Sorrow would give leave to, to remove Suspicion of my Purpose.

Mat. Thou shalt have
All I can add, sweet Wench, in Jewels, Tires,
I'll be myself thy Dresser; nor may I

Serve my own Love with a contracted Husband
 More sweetly, nor more amply, than may'st thou
 Thy forward Will with his bewitch'd Affections:
 Affect'st thou any personal Aid of mine,
 My noblest Edith?

Ed. Nought but your kind Prayers,
 For full Effect and Speed of my Affair.

Mat. They're thine, my Edith, as for me, my own;
 For thou well know'st, if Blood shed of the best
 Should cool and be forgotten, who would fear
 To shed Blood still? or where, alas, were then
 The endless Love we owe to worthy Men?

Ed. Love of the worthiest ever bless your Highness.

[Exeunt.]

A C T V. S C E N E I.

Enter Rollo with a Glass, Aubrey, and Servants:

Rol. I Never studied my Glass till now,
 It is exceeding well; now leave me—— Cousin,
 How takes your Eye the Object?

Aubr. I have learn'd
 So much, Sir, of the Courtier, as to say
 Your Person does become your Habit; but Being call'd unto it by a noble War,
 Would grace an Armour better.

Rol. You are still
 For that great Art of which you are the Master;
 Yet I must tell you, that to the Encounters
 We oft attempt, arm'd only thus, we bring
 As troubled Blood, Fears mix'd with flatt'ring Hopes,
 The Danger in the Service too as great,
 As when we are to charge quite through and through
 The Body of an Army.

Aubr. I'll not argue
 How you may rank the Dangers, but will die in't,
 The Ends which they arrive at, are as distant

In

In every Circumstance, as far as Honour
Is from Shame and Repentance.

Rol. You are sower?

Aubr. I would speak my free Thoughts, yet not appear so?

Nor am I so ambitious of the Title
Of one that (80) dares talk any thing that runs
Against the Torrent of Opinion,
That I affect to speak ought may offend you;
And therefore, gracious Sir, be pleas'd to think
My Manners or Discretion have inform'd me
That I was born, in all good Ends, to serve you:
And not to check at what concerns me not:
I look not with sore Eyes on your rich Out-side,
Nor rack my Thoughts to find out to what purpose
'Tis now employ'd; I wish it may be good,
And that, I hope, offends not. For a Subject
Towards his Prince in Things indifferent
To use the Austereness of a censuring Cato
Is Arrogance, not Freedom.

Rol. I commend
This Temper in you, and will cherish it.

Enter Hamond with Letters.

They come from Roan, Latorch employ'd you?

Ham. True, Sir.

Rol. I must not now be troubled with a Thought
Of any new Design; good Aubrey read 'em,
And as they shall direct you, use my Power,
Or to reply or execute.

Aubr. I will, Sir.

Rol. And Captain, bring a Squadron of our Guard

(80) ——— dares talk any thing that was

Against the Torrent of his own Opinion,] The old Quarto for was reads runs, a Word much preferable to the other. But what daring is there to talk only against his own Opinion? To talk against such a Man as Rollo's was daring indeed in an Inferior. The Words his own are probably a meer Interpolation. Opinion, according to the constant Usage of all the old Poets, is four Syllables, or two, at will;
and to call it Opinion in general, rather than Rollo's in particular, is more elegant.

'To

To th' House that late was Baldwin's, and there wait me.

Ham. I shall.

Rol. Some two Hours hence.

Ham. With my best Care.

Rol. Inspire me Love, and be thy Deity,
Or scorn'd or fear'd, as now thou favour'st me. [Exit.

Ham. My stay to do my Duty, may be wrongs
Your Lordship's Privacy.

Aubr. Captain, your Love
Is ever welcome; I intreat your Patience
While I peruse these.

Ham. I attend your Pleasure.

Aubr. How's this, a Plot on me?

Ham. What is contain'd

In th' Letters that I brought, that thus transports him?

Aubr. To be wrought on by Rogues, and have my Head
Brought to the Axe by Knaves that cheat for Bread?
The Creatures of a Parasite, a Slave;
I find you here Latorch, not wonder at it;
But that this honest Captain should be made
His Instrument, afflicts me; I'll make Trial
Whether his Will or Weakness made him do it.
Captain, you saw the Duke, when he commanded
I should do what these Letters did direct me,
And I presume you think I'll not neglect,
For Fear or Favour, to remove all Dangers,
How near soever that Man can be to me
From whom they should have Birth.

Ham. It is confirm'd.

Aubr. Nor would you, Captain, I believe, refuse,
Or for respect of Thankfulness, or Hopes,
To use your Sword with fullest Confidence
Where he shall bid you strike.

Ham. I never have done,

Aubr. Nor will, I think ——

Ham. I hope it is not question'd.

Aubr. The means to have it so, is now propos'd you.
Draw; so, 'tis well, and next cut off my Head.

Ham. What means your Lordship?

Aubr.

Aubr. 'Tis, Sir, the Duke's Pleasure :
My Innocence hath made me dangerous,
And I must be remov'd, and you the Man
Must act his Will. Ham. I'll be a Traitor first,
Before I serve it thus. Aubr. It must be done,
And that you may not doubt it, there's your Warrant,
But as you read, remember, Hamond, that
I never wrong'd one of your brave Profession ;
And, though it be not manly, I must grieve
That Man of whose Love I was most ambitious
Could find no Object of his Hate but me.

Ham. It is no Time to talk now, honour'd Sir,
Be pleas'd to hear thy Servant, I am wrong'd,
And cannot, being now to serve the Duke,
Stay to express the manner how ; but if
I do not suddenly give you strong Proofs,
Your Life is dearer to me than my own,
May I live base, and die so: Sir, your pardon.

[Exit Hamond.

Aubr. I'm both ways ruin'd, both ways mark'd for slaughter ;
On every side, about, behind, before me,
My certain Fate is fix'd : Were I a Knave now,
I could avoid this : Had my Actions
But meer relations to their own Ends, I could 'scape now :
Oh Honesty! thou elder Child of Virtue,
Thou Seed of Heav'n, why to acquire thy Goodness
Should Malice and Distrust stick Thorns before us,
And make us swim unto thee, hung with Hazards?
But Heav'n is got by suffering, not disputing ;
Say he knew this before-hand, where am I then ?
(81) Or say he do not know it, where's my Loyalty ?
I know his Nature, troubled as the Sea,

And

(81) Or say he does know it, where's my Loyalty?] I have restored the Negative from the old Quarto, the want of which must be evident to every Reader at first Sight. Aubrey's Character here, and the Punishment of Hamond and Edith are, as was observed, perfect Heroism in the former, and poetic Justice on the latter, upon the Principle of

And as the Sea devouring when he's vex'd,
 And I know Princes are their own Expounders.
 Am I afraid of Death? of dying nobly?
 Of dying in mine Innocence uprightly?
 Have I met Death in all his forms, and fears,
 Now on the points of Swords, now pitch'd on Lances,
 In Fires, in Storms of Arrows, Battels, Breaches,
 And shall I now shrink from him, when he courts me
 Smiling and full of Sanctity? I'll meet him;
 My Loyal Hand and Heart shall give this to him,
 And though it bear beyond what Poets feign
 A Punishment, Duty shall meet that Pain;
 And my most constant Heart to do him good,
 Shall check at neither pale Affright nor Blood.

Enter Messenger.

Mess. The Dutcheſs preſently would crave your preſence.

Aubr. I come; and Aubrey now reſolve to keep Thy Honour living, though thy Body ſleep. [Exit.]

S C E N E II.

Enter Edith, a Boy, and a Banquet ſet out.

Ed. Now for a Father's Murther, and the ruin,
 All Chafſtity ſhall ſuffer if he reign;
 Thou bleſſed Soul, look down, and ſteel thy Daughter,
 Look on the Sacrifice ſhe comes to ſend thee,
 And through that bloody Cloud behold my Piety,
 Take from my cold Heart fear, from my Sex pity,
 And as I wipe theſe Tears off, ſhed for thee,

Paſſive Obedience and Non-reſiſtance. This ſuited the Age it was wrote in, and that is ſufficient to juſtify the Poet, however aburd the Principle itſelf may be. We may as well condemn the French or Italian Poets for being Papiſts, as Fletcher and Shakeſpear for State Principles, which a more enlightened Age has held in a proper contempt.

So

So all remembrance may I lose of Mercy ;
Give me a Woman's Anger bent to Blood,
The wildness of the Winds to drown his Prayers,
Storm-like may my Destruction fall upon him,
My Rage like roving Billows as they rise,
Pour'd on his Soul to sink it, give me Flattery,
(For yet my constant Soul ne'er knew dissembling)
Flattery the Food of Fools, that I may rock him
And lull him in the Down of his Desires ;
That in the Height of all his Hopes and Wishes,
His Heav'n forgot, and all his Lusts upon him,
My Hand, like Thunder from a Cloud, may seize him.
(82) I hear him come, go Boy, and entertain him.

S O N G.

*Take, oh take those Lips away
That so sweetly were forsworn,
And those Eyes, like break of day,
Lights that do mis-lead the Morn ;
But my Kisses bring again,
Seals of Love, tho' seal'd in vain.*

*Hide, oh hide those hills of Snow,
Which thy frozen Bosom bears,
On whose tops the Pinks that grow
Are yet of those that April wears,
But first set my poor Heart free,
Bound in those icy Chains by thee.*

(82) I hear him come.] The following Scene is evidently writ in Emulation of the famous Courtship of Richard the Third to Lady Ann, and tho' it may fall somewhat short, every Reader of Taste will be charm'd with so noble a Resemblance of that consummate Master of Dramatic Poetry. Rollo is certainly an inferior Character to Richard, but Edith much excels Lady Ann, and indeed almost any female Character that Shakspear has drawn. So does Juliana in the Double Marriage, and Lucina in Valentinian. I forgot to mention in the former Scenes of this Play what were taken from Seneca's Thebais ; but it is chiefly Sophia's Speeches in the first Act, which are almost literal Translations.

Enter Rollo.

Rol. What bright Star, taking Beauty's Form upon her,
 In all the happy Lustre of Heav'n's Glory,
 Has drop'd down from the Sky to comfort me?
 Wonder of Nature, let it not prophane thee
 My rude Hand touch thy Beauty, nor this Kiss,
 The gentle Sacrifice of Love and Service,
 Be offer'd to the Honour of thy Sweetness.

Ed. My gracious Lord, no Deity dwells here,
 Nor nothing of that Virtue, but Obedience,
 The Servant to your Will affects no flattery.

Rol. Can it be flattery to swear those Eyes
 Are Love's eternal Lamps he fires all Hearts with?
 That Tongue the smart string to his Bow? those Sighs
 The deadly Shafts he sends into our Souls?
 Oh, look upon me with thy Spring of Beauty.

Ed. Your Grace is full of game.

Rol. By Heav'n, my Editb,
 Thy Mother fed on Roses when she bred thee.

Ed. And thine on Brambles, that have prick'd her Heart out.

Rol. The sweetness of the Arabian Wind still blowing
 Upon the Treasures of Perfumes and Spices,
 In all their Pride and Pleasures, call thee Mistress.

Ed. Will't please you fit, Sir?

Rol. So you please fit by me.

Fair gentle Maid, there is no speaking to thee,
 The Excellency that appears upon thee
 Ties up my Tongue: Pray speak to me.

Ed. Of what, Sir?

(84) Rol. Of any thing, and any thing is excellent.
 Will you take my directions? speak of Love then;
 Speak of thy fair self, Editb; and while thou speak'st,
 Let me, thus languishing, give up myself, Wench.

(84) Rol. Of any thing, any thing is excellent.] Here a beautiful Compliment, That whatever she spoke of would become excellent by her Voice alone, was by the Omission of the Conjunction and turn'd by the late Editions into a poor Tautology.

Ed.

Ed. H'as a strange cunning Tongue, why do you sigh,
Sir?

How masterly he turns himself to catch me?

Rol. The way to Paradise, my gentle Maid,
Is hard and crooked, scarce Repentance finding,
With all her holy Helps, the Door to enter:
Give me thy Hand, what dost thou feel?

Ed. Your Tears, Sir,
You weep extreamly; strengthen me now Justice.
Why are these Sorrows, Sir?

Rol. Thou'lt never love me
If I should tell thee, yet there's no way left
Ever to purchase this blest Paradise,
But swimming thither in these Tears. Ed. I stagger.

Rol. Are they not drops of Blood? Ed. No. Rol. They're for Blood then,
For guiltless Blood, and they must drop, my Edith,
They must thus drop, 'till I have drown'd my Mischiefs.

Ed. If this be true, I have no strength to touch him.

Rol. I prithee look upon me, turn not from me;
Alas I do confess I'm made of Mischiefs,
Begot with all Man's Miseries upon me;
But see my Sorrows, Maid, and do not thou,
Whose only sweetest Sacrifice is Softness,
Whose true Condition, Tenderness of Nature——

Ed. My Anger melts, Oh, I shall lose my Justice.

Rol. Do not thou learn to kill with cruelty,
As I have done, to murder with thy Eyes,
Those blessed Eyes, as I have done with Malice,
When thou hast wounded me to death with Scorn,
(As I deserve it, Lady) for my true Love,
When thou hast loaden me with Earth for ever,
Take heed my Sorrows, and the Stings I suffer,
Take heed my nightly Dreams of Death and Horror
Pursue thee not; no Time shall tell thy Grievs then,
Nor shall an Hour of Joy add to thy Beauties.
Look not upon me as I kill'd thy Father,
As I was smear'd in Blood, do not thou hate me,
But thus in whiteness of my wash'd Repentance,

In my Heart's Tears and Truth of Love to Editb,
In my fair Life hereafter.

Ed. He will fool me.

Rol. (85) Oh with thine Angel-Eyes behold and bless
me,

Of Heav'n we call for Mercy, and obtain it ;
To Justice for our Right on Earth, and have it ;
Of thee I beg for Love, save me, and give it.

Ed. Now Heav'n thy help, or I am gone for ever,
His Tongue has turn'd me into melting Pity.

Enter Hamond and Guard.

Ham. Keep the Doors safe, and upon pain of Death
Let no Man enter 'till I give the word.

Guard. We shall, Sir.

[Exeunt.

Ham. Here he is in all his pleasure ;
I have my Wish. Rol. How now ? Why dost thou stare so ?

Ed. A Help, I hope.

Rol. What dost thou here ? who sent thee ?

Ham. My Brother, and the base malicious Office
Thou mad'st me do to Aubrey ; pray. Rol. Pray ?

Ham. Pray ; pray if thou canst pray, I shall kill thy Soul else,

Pray suddenly. Rol. Thou can'st not be so traiterous.

Ham. It is a Justice—— stay, Lady ;

For I perceive your End ; a Woman's Hand
Must not rob me of Vengeance. Ed. 'Tis my Glory.

Ham. 'Tis mine, stay, and share with me ; by the Gods, Rollo,

There is no way to save thy Life. Rol. No ?

Ham. No, 'tis so monstrous, no Repentance cures it.

(85) Oh with thine Angel-Eyes behold and bless me,] This gross
Mistake so totally departed from the Trace of the Letters in the old
Quarto, which reads —bless me, and that too without substituting a Word that gave the least Sense to its Neighbours, that it may be pro-duc'd as a Proof of very great Liberties being sometimes necessary to be taken in curing Errors of the Press.

Rol.

Rol. Why then thou shalt kill her first, and what this Blood

Will cast upon thy cursed Head. Ham. Poor Guard, Sir.

Ed. Spare not, brave Captain.

Rol. Fear, or the Devil have thee.

Ham. Such fear, Sir, as you gave your honour'd Mother,
When your most virtuous Brother shield-like held her,
Such I'll give you; put her away.

Rol. I will not,

I will not die so tamely. Ham. Murtherous Villain,
Wilt thou draw Seas of Blood upon thee? Ed. Fear not,
Kill him good Captain, any way dispatch him,
My Body's honour'd with that Sword that through me
Sends his black Soul to Hell: Oh, but for one Hand.

Ham. Shake him off bravely.

Ed. He's too strong, strike him.

Ham. Oh, am I with you, Sir? Now keep you from him,
What, has he got a Knife? Ed. Look to him, Captain,
For now he will be mischievous. Ham. Do you smile, Sir?
Does it so tickle you? Have at you once more.

Ed. Oh bravely thrust; take heed he come not in, Sir;
To him again, you give him too much respite.

Rol. Yet will you save my Life, and I'll forgive thee,
And give thee all, all Honours, all Advancements,
Call thee my Friend. Ed. Strike, strike, and hear him not,
His Tongue will tempt a Saint. Rol. Oh for my Soul sake.

Ed. Save nothing of him.

Ham. Now for your farewell,
Are you so wary? take you that. Rol. Thou that too;
Oh thou hast kill'd me basely, basely, basely. [Dies.]

Ed. The just Reward of Murther falls upon thee.
How do you, Sir? Has he not hurt you? Ham. No,
I feel not any thing.

Aubr. I charge you let us pass. [Within.]

Guard. You cannot yet, Sir. Aubr. I'll make way then.

Guard. We

Are sworn to our Captain, and 'till he give the Word.

Enter Sophia, Matilda, Aubrey, Lords and Attendants.

Ham. Now let them in there.

Soph. Oh, there he lies! Sorrow on Sorrow seeks me,
Oh, in his Blood he lies! Aubr. Had you spoke sooner
This might have been prevented; take the Dutcheffs,
And lead her off, this is no Sight for her Eyes.

Mat. Oh, bravely done, Wench.

Ed. There stands the noble Doer.

Mat. May Honour ever seek thee for thy Justice,
Oh 'twas a Deed of high and brave Adventure,
A Justice even for Heav'n to envy at.
Farewel my Sorrows, and my Tears take truce,
My Wishes are come round: Oh bloody Brother,
'Till this Hour never beauteous; 'till thy Life,
Like a full Sacrifice for all thy Mischiefs,
Flow'd from thee in these Rivers, never righteous:
Oh how my Eyes are quarry'd with their Joys now?
My longing Heart even leaping out for lightness?
But die thy black Sins with thee, I forgive thee.

Aubr. Who did this Deed?

Ham. I, and I'll answer it.

[Dies.

Ed. He faints, oh that same cursed Knife has kill'd him.

Aubr. How?

Ed. He snatch'd it from my Hand, for whom I bore it,
And as they grappl'd——

Aubr. Justice is ever equal,
Had it not been on him, th'adst dy'd too honest.
Did you know of his Death?

Ed. Yes, and rejoice in't.

[ness

Aubr. I'm sorry for your Youth then; though the Strict-
Of Law shall not fall on you, that of Life
Must presently; go to a Cloyster, carry her,
And there for ever lead your life in Penitence.

Ed. Best Father to my Soul, I give you Thanks, Sir,
And now my fair Revenges have their ends,
My Vows shall be my Kin, my Prayers my Friends.

[Exit.

Enter

Enter Latorch, and Juglers.

Lat. Stay there, I'll step in and prepare the Duke.

Nor. We shall have brave Rewards ?

Fisk. That's without question.

Lat. By this Time where's my huffing Friend, Lord
Aubrey ?

Where's that good Gentleman ? Oh, I could laugh now,
And burst myself with meer Imagination :
A wise Man, and a valiant Man, a just Man ;
To suffer himself be juggl'd out of the World,
(86) By a Number of poor Gipsies ? farewell Swash-buckler,
For I know thy Mouth is cold enough by this Time ;
A hundred of ye I can shave as neatly,
And ne'er draw Blood in shew : Now shall my Honour,
My Power and Virtue walk alone : My Pleasure
Observ'd by all, all Knees bend to my Worship,
All Suits to me as Saint of all their Fortunes,
Prefer'd and crowded to, (87) what full Place of Credit,
And what Stile now ? your Lordship ? no, 'tis common,
But that I'll think to morrow on ; now for my Business.

Aubr. Who's there ?

Lat. Dead, my Master dead ? Aubr. alive too ?

Guard. Latorch, Sir. Aubr. Seize his Body.

Lat. My Master dead ?

Aubr. And you within this half Hour,
Prepare yourself, good Devil, you must to it,

(86) By a Number of poor Gipsies ?—] Latorch seem'd hitherto to have been a real Devotée of his Astrologers, how comes he now to treat them with contempt ? This is Nature ; his Belief in them was built greatly upon the Use he was in hopes of making of them, by serving him in the removal of his Enemies. As he now thinks he has made this use of them he applauds his own Cunning, and takes the whole Honour of it to himself by speaking lightly of his Coadjutors. I added this Note because a very sensible Friend charg'd this Speech of Latorch's with being out of Character.

(87) ——— what full Place of Credit,

And what Place now ?—] The second Place seems to have been accidentally repeated, instead of some Word that implies Title, Honour, or Dignity. Stile seems to bid fairest of any Monosyllable that occurs.

Millions

Millions of Gold shall not redeem thy Mischief.
Behold the Justice of thy Practice, Villain ;
The Mass of Murthers thou hast drawn upon us ;
Behold thy Doctrine ; you look now for Reward, Sir,
To be advanc'd, I'm sure, for all your Labours ?
And you shall have it, make his Gallows higher
By ten Foot at the least, and then advance him.

Lat. Mercy, Mercy. Aubr. 'Tis too late, Fool,
Such as you meant for me, away with him. [He is led out.
What gaping Knaves are these ? bring 'em in, Fellows.
Now, what are you ?

Nor. Mathematicians, if it please your Lordship.

Aubr. And you drew a Figure ?

Fisk. We have drawn many. [are.

Aubr. For the Duke, I mean ; Sir Latorcb's Knaves you

Nor. We know the Gentleman.

Aubr. What did he promise you ?

Nor. We are paid already.

Aubr. But I will see you better paid, go whip them.

Nor. We do beseech your Lordship, we were hir'd.

Aubr. I know you were, and you shall have your Hire ;
Whip 'em extremely, whip that Doctor there,
Till he record himself a Rogue.

Nor. I am one, Sir.

Aubr. Whip him for being one, and when th'are whipt,
Lead 'em to the Gallows to see their Patron hang'd :

Away with them. [They are led out.

Nor. Ah, good my Lord.

Aubr. Now to mine own Right, Gentlemen.

1 Lord. You have the next indeed, we all confes it,
And here stand ready to invest you with it.

2 Lord. Which to make stronger to you, and the surer
Than Blood or Mischiefs dare infringe again,
Behold this Lady, Sir, this noble Lady,
Full of the Blood as you are, of that Nearness,
How blessed would it be ?

Aubr. I apprehend you, and so the fair Matilda dare accept

Me, her ever constant Servant,

Mat.

Mat. In all Pureness,
In all Humility of Heart and Services,
To the most noble Aubrey, I submit me.

Aubr. Then this is our first Tie, now to our Business.

Lord. We are ready all to put the Honour on you, Sir.

Aubr. These sad Rites must be done first: Take up the Bodies;

This, as he was a Prince, so Princely Funeral
Shall wait upon him: On this honest Captain,
The Decency of Arms; a Tear for him too.

*So sadly on, and as we view his Blood,
May his Example in our Rule raise Good.*

In Act II. Scene I. an ingenious Conjecture of Mr. Sympson's has been accidentally omitted. Speaking of Conscience,

Must it needs, like a rank Vine, run up rudely,

And twine about the Top of all our Happiness,

Honour and Rule, and there sit shaking of us.

The Vine growing round a Tree weakens its Root, and therefore causes it to shake more than it otherwise would do; but this is not so clear and intelligible as what Mr. Sympson proposes;

————— sit shading of us.

THE WILD-GOOSE CHASE. *

A C T I. S C E N E I.

Enter Monsieur De Gard, and a Footboy.

D E G A R D.

IRR AH, you know I have rid hard, stir
my Horse well,

And let him want no Litter.

Boy. I am sure, I have run hard;

Would Somebody would walk me, and see me Litter'd!

For I think my Fellow-Horse cannot in Reason
Desire more Rest, nor take up his Chamber before me;
But we are the Beasts now, and the Beasts are our Masters.

De Ga. When you have done, step to the Ten-Crown Ordinary.

Boy. With all my Heart, Sir.

For I have a Twenty-Crown Stomach,

* Poor Mr. Theobald, to whom the Direction of this Edition of our Poets was first committed, unexpectedly dying, before the fifth Part of it was well compleated, Mr. Seward and myself, who had till then been only Auxiliaries, found ourselves unavoidably oblig'd to become Principals in the Work. However, I assure my Readers, that I shall omit no Opportunity of doing Mr. Theobald justice, so far as the part which fell to my Lot extends; the Commencement of which, is from this very Play.
J. Symphon.

De Ga.

176 The Wild-Goose Chase.

De Ga. And there bespeak a Dinner.

Boy. Yes, Sir, presently.

De Ga. For whom, I beseech you, Sir?

Boy. For myself, I take it, Sir.

De Ga. In truth ye shall not take it, 'tis not meant for
you ;

There's for your Provender : Bespeak a Dinner
For Monsieur Mirabell, and his Companions,
They'll be in Town within this Hour.

When you have done, Sirrah,
Make ready all Things at my Lodging, for me,
And wait me there.

Boy. The Ten-Crown Ordinary?

De Ga. Yes, Sir, if you have not forgot it.

Boy. I'll forget my Feet first ;

'Tis the best Part of a Footman's Faith. [Exit Boy.]

De Ga. These Youths,

For all they have been in Italy, to learn Thrift,
And seem to wonder at Mens lavish Ways,
Yet they can't rub off old Friends, their French itches ;
They must meet sometimes to disport their Bodies
With good Wine, and good Women ; and good store too.
Let 'em be what they will, they are arm'd at all Points,
And then hang saving. Let the Sea grow high,
This Ordinary can fit 'em of all Sizes.

Enter La Castre and Oriana.

They must salute their Country with old Customs.

Oria. Brother,——

De Ga. My dearest Sister.

Oria. Welcome, welcome:

Indeed ye are welcome home, most welcome.

De Ga. Thank ye,

You're grown a handsome Woman, Oriana ;
(Blush at your Faults) I am wondrous glad to see ye.

Monsieur La Castre, let not my Affection

To my fair Sister, make me be held unmannerly :

I am glad to see ye well, to see ye lusty,

Good Health about ye, and in fair Company,

Believe me, I am proud ——

La Ca.

La Ca. Fair Sir, I thank ye:
Monsieur de Gard, you are welcome from your Journey,
 Good Men have still good welcome: give me your Hand, Sir.

Once more, you are welcome Home: you look still younger.

De Ga. Time has no Leisure to look after us;
 We wander every where: Age cannot find us.

La Ca. And how does all?

De Ga. All well, Sir; and all lusty.

La Ca. I hope my Son be so; I doubt not, Sir,
 But you have often seen him in your Journeys,
 And bring me some fair News.

De Ga. Your Son is well, Sir,
 And grown a proper Gentleman; he is well, and lusty;
 Within this eight Hours I took leave of him,
 (1) And over-ey'd him, having some slight Business
 That forc'd me out o' th' way: I can assure you,
 He will be here to Night.

La Ca. Ye make me glad, Sir.
 For o' my Faith, I almost long to see him;
 Methinks, he has been away——

De Ga. 'Tis but your Tenderness;
 What are three Years? (2) a Love-sick Wench will allow it:
 His

(1) And over-ey'd him, having some slight Business
That forc'd me out o' th' way:——] Over ey'd is plainly a Corruption, and out o' th' way unsatisfactory. Mr. Seward reads with me,
And over-rid him ——

—— on the way: ——

But yet I have some doubt whether over-rid is the true Lesson, there being a Reading which has occur'd to me, much nearer the Traces of the Letters than that advanced above, viz.

And over-yed him, ——

i. e. over-went him, tho' I am afraid the Reader will think this too obsolete a Word to stand in the Text, as fitter for Chaucer or Spenser than Mr. Fletcher, and therefore I have chose to leave the Passage just as I found it.

(2) —— a Love-sick Wench will allow it:] As plausible as this Passage may seem at first Sight, yet I am afraid 'tis unsound; for whatever Reasons the poor Wench might have to induce her to allow her Lover's Absence, yet notwithstanding them, she might bear it still with the utmost Impatience. Why may not we read therefore,

—— Love-sick Wench will swallow it:

His Friends, that went out with him, are come back too;
Belleur, and young Pinac: He bid me say little,
 Because he means to be his own glad Messenger.

La Ca. I thank ye for this News, Sir; he shall be welcome,

And his Friends too: indeed, I thank you heartily:
 And how (for I dare say, you will not flatter him)
 Has Italy wrought on him? Has he mew'd yet
 His wild fantastick Toys? They say, that Climate
 Is a great purger of those humorous Fluxes.

How is he improved, I pray ye?

De Ga. No doubt, Sir, well.

H'as born himself a full and noble Gentleman;
 To speak him farther is beyond my Charter.

La Ca. I am glad to hear so much good: Come, I see
 You long to enjoy your Sister; yet I must intreat ye,
 Before I go, to sup with me to Night,
 And must not be deny'd.

De Ga. I am your Servant.

La Ca. Where you shall meet fair, merry, and noble Company,
 My Neighbour Nantolet, and his two fair Daughters.

De Ga. Your Supper's season'd well, Sir. I shall wait upon ye.

La Ca. Till then I'll leave ye: and you're once more welcome.

De Ga. I thank ye, noble Sir.—Now, Oriana. [Exit.
 How have ye done since I went? Have ye had your Health
 well?

And your Mind free?

Oria. You see, I am not bated;
 Merry, and eat my Meat.

De Ga. A good Preservative.
 And how have you been us'd? You know, Oriana,
 Upon my going out, at your Request,

A three Years Absence (De Gard says) is nothing; It will go easily down, even with a Love-sick Girl. So, in the concluding Scene of this Play, Mirabell says,

————— *I am pleas'd ye have deceiv'd me;
 And willingly I swallow it, and joy in't.*

I left your Portion in La Caſtre's Hands,
The main Means you muſt ſtick to; for that Reason,
And 'tis no little one, I aſk ye, Siſter,
With what Humanity he entertains ye,
And how ye find his Courteſy?

Oria. Moſt ready.

I can aſſure you, Sir, I am uſ'd moſt nobly.

De Ga. I am glad to hear it: But, I prithee, tell me,
And tell me true, what end had you, Oriana,
In truſting your Money here? He is no Kinsman,
Nor any Tie upon him of a Guardian;
Nor dare, I think, ye doubt my Prodigality.

Oria. No, certain, Sir, none of all this provoked me;
Another private Reason.

De Ga. 'Tis not private,
Nor carry'd ſo: 'tis common, my fair Siſter,
Your Love to Mirabell; your Bluſhes tell it:
'Tis too much known, and ſpoken of too largely;
And with no little Shame I wonder at it.

Oria. Is it a Shame to love?

De Ga. To love undiſcreetly:
A Virgin ſhould be tender of her Honour,
Cloſe, and ſecure.

Oria. I am as cloſe as can be,
And ſtand upon as ſtrong and honeſt Guards too;
Unleſs this warlike Age need a Portcullis:
Yet, I confeſs, I love him.

De Ga. Hear the People.

Oria. Now I ſay, hang the People: He that dares Believe what they ſay, dares be mad, and give His Mother, nay, his own Wife, up to Rumour;
All grounds of Truth, they build on, is a Tavern;
And their beſt Censure's Sack, Sack in abundance:
For as they drink, they think: They ne'er ſpeak modeſtly
Unleſs the Wine be poor, or they want Money.
Believe them? Believe Amadis de Gaul,
The Knight o'th' Sun, or Palmerin of England;
For theſe, to them, are modeſt, and true Stories.
Pray, underſtand me; if their Tongues be Truth,
And if in Vino veritas be an Oracle,

What Woman is, or has been ever honest?
 Give 'em but ten round Cups, they'll swear Lucretia
 Dy'd not for want of Power to resist Tarquin,
 But want of Pleasure, that he stay'd no longer:
 And Portia, that was famous for her Piety
 To her lov'd Lord, they'll face ye out, dy'd o'th' Pox.

De Ga. Well, there is something, Sister.

Oria. If there be, Brother,
 'Tis none of their things, 'tis not yet so monstrous:
 My thing is Marriage: And at his Return
 I hope to put their squint Eyes right again.

De Ga. Marriage? 'tis true, his Father is a rich Man;
 Rich both in Land and Money: He his Heir,
 A young and handfom Man, I must confes too;
 But of such Qualities, and such wild Flings,
 Such admirable Imperfections, Sister,
 (For (3) all his Travel, and his bought Experience)
 I should be loth to own him for my Brother:
 Methinks a rich Mind in a State indifferent
 Would prove the better Fortune.

Oria. If he be wild,
 The reclaiming him to good, and honest, Brother,
 Will make much for my Honour; which, if I prosper,
 Shall be the Study of my Love, and Life too.

De Ga. Ye say well; would he thought as well, and loved too.

He Marry? he'll be hang'd first: He knows no more
 What the Conditions and the Ties of Love are,
 The honest Purposes and Grounds of Marriage,
 Nor will know, nor be ever brought t'endeavour,
 Than I do how to build a Church; he was ever
 A loose and strong Defier of all Order,
 His Loves are Wanderers, they knock at each Door,

(3) —all his Travel and bought Experience] Mr. Theobald fills up the Measure thus,

—— and his bought Experience

Mr. Seward thus,

—— and dear-bought Experience

Which he thinks is not only a Completion of the Measure, but an Improvement of the Sense.

And

And taste each Dish, but are no Residents:
Or say, he may be brought to think of Marriage,
(As 'twill be no small Labour) thy Hopes are Strangers.
I know, there is a labour'd Match now follow'd,
Now at this Time, for which he was sent for home too;
Be not abus'd, Nantolet has two fair Daughters,
And he must take his Choice.

Oria. Let him take freely;
For all this I despair not; my Mind tells me
That I, and only I, must make him perfect;
And in that Hope I rest.

De Ga. Since y'are so confident,
Prosper your Hope! I'll be no Adversary;
Keep yourself fair and right, he shall not wrong ye.

Oria. When I forget my Virtue, no Man know me.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter Mirabell, Pinac, Belleur, and Servants.

Mir. Welcome to Paris once more, Gentlemen;
We have had a merry and a lusty Ordinary,
And Wine, and good Meat, and a bounsing Reckoning;
And let it go for once; 'Tis a good Physick,
Only the Wenches are not for my Diet;
They are too lean and thin, their Embraces brawn-faln.
Give me the plump Venetian, fat, and lusty,
That meets me soft and supple; smiles upon me,
As if a Cup of full Wine leapt to kiss me,
These slight Things I affect not.

Pin. They are ill built;
Pin-buttockt, like your dainty Barbaries,
And weak i'th' Pasterns; they'll endure no Hardness.

Mir. There's nothing good or handsom bred amongst us:
Till we are travell'd, and live abroad, we are Coxcombs:
Ye talk of France, a slight unseason'd Country,
Abundance of gross Food which makes us Blockheads:
We're fair set out indeed, and so are Fore-Horses:
Men say, we are great Courtiers; Men abuse us:
We are wise, and valiant too; non Credo, Seignior:
Our Women the best Linguists; they are Parrots;

O' this side the Alps they are nothing but meer Drolleries:
 Ha! Roma la Santa, Italy for my Money,
 Their Policies, their Customs, their Frugalities,
 Their Courtesies so open, yet so reserved too,
 As when ye think y^e are known best, ye are a Stranger;
 The very Pick-teeth speak more Man than we do,
 And season of more Salt.

Pin. 'Tis a brave Country:
 Not pester'd with your stubborn precise Puppies,
 That turn all useful and allow'd Contentments
 To Scabs and Scruples; hang 'em, Capon-Worshippers.—

Bel. I like that Freedom well, and like their Women too,
 And would fain do as others do; but I am so bashful,
 So naturally an As: Look ye, I can look upon 'em,
 And very willingly I go to see 'em,
 (There's no Man willinger,) and I can kifs 'em,
 And make a shift——

Mir. But if they chance to flout ye,
 Or say, ye are too bold; fie, Sir, remember;
 I pray, sit farther off——

Bel. 'Tis true, I am humbled,
 I am gone; I confess ingenuously, I am silenced;
 The Spirit of Amber cannot force me answer.

Pin. Then would I sing and dance.

Bel. You have wherewithal, Sir.

Pin. And charge her up again.

Bel. I can be hang'd first;
 Yet where I fasten well, I am a Tyrant.

Mir. Why, thou dar'st fight?

Bel. Yes, certainly, I dare fight;
 And fight with any Man at any Weapon,
 'Would, the other were no more! but, a Pox on't,
 (4) When I am sometimes in my height of Hope,

And

(4) When I was sometimes—] The Change of the Tense seem'd necessary here, before I saw the Copy of 1652.

The Copy of 1652, which I shall have occasion to mention more than once in the course of my Notes upon the Wild-Goose Chase, is but that of this single Play of Mr. Fletcher's, recover'd from a desperate State (all the World giving it over for lost) by two Players, Lowin and Taylor, who, by putting it to the Press, took the only Means of

And reasonable valiant that way, my Heart harden'd,
Some scornful Jest or other chops between me
And my Desire :

What would ye have me do then, Gentlemen ?

Mir. (5) Belleur, you must be bolder : Travel three Years,

And bring home such a Baby to betray ye
As Bashfulness? a great Fellow, and a Soldier ?

Bel. You have the Gift of Impudence, be thankful ;
Every Man has not the like Talent : I will study,
And if it may be reveal'd to me,——

Mir. Learn of me,
And of Pinac : No doubt, you'll find Employment ;
Ladies will look for Courtship.

Pin. 'Tis but fleshing,
But standing one good Brunt or two : Hast thou any mind to Marriage ? [too.

We'll provide thee some soft-natur'd Wench, that's dumb

Mir. Or an old Woman that cannot refuse thee in Charity.

Bel. A dumb Woman, or an old Woman, that were eager,
And car'd not for Discourse, I were excellent at.

Mir. You must now put on Boldness, there's no avoiding it ;
And stand all Hazards, fly at all Games bravely ;
They'll say, you went out like an Ox, and return'd like an Ass else.

Bel. I shall make Danger sure,

Mir. I am sent for home now ;
I know, it is to marry, but my Father shall pardon me ;

of preserving this celebrated Piece of our Author, and consulted their own then present Emolument, as well as provided for the future, Delight of all Lovers of true Wit.

The Editor of the Folio of 1679, has been tolerably careful in collating this Copy, and I wish I may find the same Diligence go through the whole, 'twill not only save me much Trouble, but give me great Pleasure; the former of which, all Editors, I fancy, find increase with their Work, while the latter scarce appears to sweeten or alleviate their Labours.

(5) Belvere, you must——] So all the Copies.

Although it be (6) a weighty Ceremony,
 And may concern me hereafter in my Gravity ;
 I will not lose the Freedom of a Traveller,
 A new strong lusty Bark cannot ride at one Anchor ;
 Shall I make divers Suits to shew to the same Eyes ?
 'Tis dull and home-spun ; study several Pleasures,
 And want Employments for 'em ? I'll be hang'd first ;
 Tie me to one Smock ? make my Travels fruitless ?
 I'll none of that ; for every fresh Behaviour,
 By your Leave, Father, I must have a fresh Mistress,
 And a fresh Favour too.

Bel. I like that passingly ;
 As many as you will, so they be willing,
 Willing, and gentle, gentle.

Pin. There's no reason
 A Gentleman, and a Traveller, should be clapt up,
 For 'tis (7) a kind of Bilboes to be married,
 Before he manifest to the World his good Parts :
 Tug ever, like a Rascal, at one Oar ?
 Give me the Italian Liberty.

Mir. That I study,
 And that I will enjoy ; Come, go in, Gentlemen,
 There mark how I behave myself, and follow.

[Exeunt.]

(6) — a witty Ceremony,] Where the Wit of the Matrimonial Ceremony lies, will, I believe, puzzle, at this time of the Day, any of our Wits to discover. Mr. Seward saw with me that the true Reading ought to be,

— a weighty Ceremony.

(7) — a kind of Bæboes to be married,] As this is a Word I don't remember any where to be found, I have alter'd it, with Mr. Seward and Mr. Theobald, into one, which, as 'tis congruous to the Sense of the Place, might very probably have been the Original.

———— Bilboes to be married.

S C E N E III.

Enter La Castre, Nantolet, Lugier, Rofalura, and Lillia-Bianca.

La Ca. You and your beauteous Daughters are most welcome ;

Beshrew my Blood, they are fair ones ; welcome, Beauties,
Welcome, sweet Birds.

Nant. They are bound much to your Courtesies.

La Ca. I hope, we shall be nearer acquainted.

Nant. That's my Hope too.

For certain, Sir, I much desire your Alliance :
You see 'em, they are no Gypsies ; for their Breeding,
It has not been so coarse, but they are able

(8) To rank themselves with Women of fair Fashion.

La Ca. Indeed, they have been trained well.

Lug. Thank me.

Nant. Fit for the Heirs of that State I shall leave 'em ;
To say more, is to sell 'em. They say, your Son,
Now he has travell'd, must be wondrous curious,
And choice in what he takes ; These are no coarse ones ;
Sir, here's a merry Wench, let him look to himself ;
(All Heart, i'faith) may chance to startle him ;
For all his Care, and travell'd Caution,
May creep into his Eye ; if he love Gravity,
Affect a solemn Face, there's one will fit him.

La Ca. So young and so demure ?

Nant. She is my Daughter,

Else I would tell you, Sir, she is a Mistress
Both of those Manners, and that Modesty,
You would wonder at : She is no often Speaker,
But, when she does, she speaks well ; nor no Reveller,
Yet she can dance, and has studied the Court Elements,
And sings, as some say, handsomely ; if a Woman,

(8) To rank themselves with Women of fair Fashion ;

Indeed, they have been trained well.] Nantolet had expressed himself modestly and genteelly of his Daughters Education, in the former Part of his Speech, and the last Line will be equally proper and genteel when given to La Castre, to whom it seems therefore evidently to belong.

Mr. Seward.

With

With the Decency of her Sex, may be a Scholar,
I can assure ye, Sir, she understands too.

La Ca. These are fit Garments, Sir.

Lug. Thank them, that cut 'em ;

Yes, they are handsome Women ; they have handsome Parts too :

Pretty becoming Parts.

La Ca. 'Tis like they have, Sir.

Lug. Yes, yes, and handsome Education they have had too,

Had it abundantly : they need not blush at it ;
I taught it, I'll avouch it.

La Ca. You say well, Sir.

Lug. I know what I say, Sir, and I say but right, Sir ;
I am no Trumpet of their Commendations
Before their Father ; else I should say farther.

La Ca. 'Pray ye, what's this Gentleman ?

Nant. One that lives with me, Sir ;

A Man well bred and learn'd, but blunt and bitter,
Yet it offends no wise Man, I take pleasure in't :
Many fair Gifts he has, in some of which,
That lie most easy to their Understandings,
H'as handsomely bred up my Girls, I thank him.

Lug. (9) I have put it to 'em, that's my part, I have urg'd it,

It seems, they are of Years now to take hold on't.

La Ca. He's wondrous blunt, by my Faith, I was afraid of him :

Does he not fall out with the Gentlewomen sometimes ?

Nant.

(9) I have put it to 'em, that's my part, I have urg'd it,

It seems, they are of Years now to take hold on't.

He's wondrous blunt.] A small Degree of Attention will shew us, that the two first Lines can properly belong to no one but Lugier.

For Nantolet's Speech is exceeding perfect, with — bred up my Girls, I thank him.

To which he (Lugier) replies,

I've put it to 'em, that's my part, I've urg'd it,

It seems, they are of Years now to lay hold on't.

Upon which, as I would place the Speakers, La Castré ought to say
aside to Nantolet,

He's wondrous blunt, by my Faith, &c.

Otherwise

The Wild-Goose Chase. 187

Nant. No, no, he's that way moderate, and discreet, Sir.

Rof. If he did, we should be too hard for him.

Lug. Well said, Sulphur :

Too hard for thy Husband's Head, if he wear not Armour.

Enter Mirabell, Pinac, De Gard, and Oriana.

Nant. Many of these bickrings, Sir.

La Ca. I am glad, they are no Oracles ;
Sure, as I live, he beats them, he's so puissant.

Oria. Well, if ye do forget——

Mir. Prithee, hold thy peace ;

I know, thou art a pretty Wench ; I know, thou lov'st me,
Preserve it 'till we have a fit time to discourse on't,
And a fit place : I'll ease thy Heart, I warrant thee :
Thou see'st, I have much to do now.

Oria. I am answer'd, Sir :

With me ye shall have nothing on these Conditions.

De Ga. Your Father and your Friends.

La Ca. You are welcome home, Sir ;

'Bless ye, ye are very welcome ;

'Pray know this Gentleman,

And these fair Ladies.

Nant. Monsieur Mirabell,

I am much affected with your fair return, Sir ;
You bring a general joy.

Mir. I bring you service,

And these bright Beauties, Sir.

Nant. Welcome home, Gentlemen,

Welcome, with all my Heart.

Bel. Pin. We thank ye, Sir.

La Ca. Your Friends will have their share too.

Bel. Sir, we hope

They'll look upon us, though we shew like Strangers.

Nant. Monsieur De Gard, I must salute you also,
And this fair Gentlewoman : you are welcome from your Travel too.

All welcome, all.

Otherwise we shall have Nantolet guilty of a Tautology, and begin and end with the same Words. For thus he says at the Beginning of this Speech.

A Man well bred and learn'd, but blunt and bitter.

De Ga.

De Ga. We render ye our loves, Sir :

(10) One of these two : You know my meaning——

Oria. Well, Sir :

They are fair and handsome, I must needs confess it ;
And let it prove the worst, I shall live after it,
Whilst I have Meat and Drink, Love cannot starve me ;
For if I die o'th' first Fit I am unhappy,
And worthy to buried with my Heels upward.

Mir. To marry, Sir ?

La Ca. You know, I am an old Man,
And every Hour declining to my Grave,
One Foot already in, more Sons I have not,
Nor more I dare not seek whilst you are worthy ;
In you lies all my hope, and all my Name,
The making good or wretched of my Memory,
The safety of my State.

Mir. And you have provided,
Out of this tenderness, these handsome Gentlewomen,
Daughters to this Rich Man, to take my choice of ?

La Ca. I have, dear Son.

Mir. 'Tis true, ye are old, and feebled ;
Would ye were young again, and in full vigour !
I love a bounteous Father's Life, a long one ;
I am none of those, that, when they shoot to ripeness,
Do what they can to break the Boughs they grew on ;

* (10) One of these two : You know my meaning——] This De Gard speaks aside to his Sister, as the Text stands at present, and seemingly her Answer that follows fixes it here ; but what is there left then to introduce and make way for Mirabell's

To marry, Sir ?

To remove all Difficulties, it would perhaps be the best to make the whole run thus ;

—— by your Favours, Beauties,

La Ca. One of these two : You know my meaning. [Aside to Mir.

Oria. Well—— [Aside to herself,

*They are fair and handsome, I must needs confess it ;
And let it prove the worst, I shall live after it,
Whilst I have Meat and Drink, Love cannot starve me ;
For if I die o'th' first Fit I am unhappy,
And worthy to be buried with my Heels upward.*

Mir. To marry, Sir ?

I wish ye many Years and many Riches,
And Pleasures to enjoy 'em : But for Marriage,
I neither yet believe in't, nor affect it,
Nor think it fit.

La Ca. You will render me your Reasons ?

Mir. Yes, Sir, both short and pithy, and these they are :
You would have me marry a Maid ?

La Ca. A Maid ? What else ?

Mir. Yes, there be things called Widows, dead Mens
Wills,

I never lov'd to prove those ; nor never long'd yet
To be buried alive in another Man's cold Monument.
And there be Maids appearing, and Maids being :
Th' appearing are fantastick things, meer Shadows ;
And if you mark 'em well, they want their Heads too ;
Only the World, to cozen misty Eyes,
Has clapt 'em on new Faces. The Maids being,
A Man may venture on, if he be so mad to marry,
If he have neither fear before his Eyes, nor Fortune ;
And let him take heed how he gathers these too,
For look ye, Father, they are just like Melons,
Musk-melons are the Emblems of these Maids ;
Now they are ripe, now cut 'em, they taste pleasantly,
And are a dainty Fruit, digested easily :
Neglect this present time, and come to morrow,
They are so ripe (11) they are rotten gone, their sweetness
Run into humour, and their taste to surfeit.

La Ca. Why, these are now ripe, Son.

Mir. I'll try them presently,
And if I like their taste——

La Ca. 'Pray ye please yourself, Sir.

Mir. That Liberty is my due, and I'll maintain it :
Lady, what think you of a handsome Man now ?

Rof. A wholesome too, Sir.

Mir. That's as you make your Bargain.
A handsome, wholesome Man then, and a kind Man,
To cheer your Heart up, to rejoice you, Lady ?

Rof. Yes, Sir, I love rejoicing.

(11) — they are rotten gone,——] Probably, — rotten grown.

Mir. To lie close to you?

Close as a Cockle? keep the cold Nights from you?

Rof. That will be look'd for too, our Bodies ask it.

Mir. And get two Boys at every Birth?

Rof. That's nothing;

I have known a Cobler do it; a poor thin Cobler,
A Cobler out of mouldy Cheese perform it,
Cabbage, and coarse black Bread; methinks, a Gentleman
Should take foul scorn to have an Awl out-name him.
Two at a Birth? Why, every House-Dove has it:
That Man that feeds well, promises as well too,
I should expect indeed something of worth from.
Ye talk of two?

Mir. She would have me get two Dozen,
Like Buttons, at a Birth.

Rof. You love to brag, Sir,
If you proclaim these offers at your Marriage.
You are a pretty-timber'd Man, take heed.
They may be taken hold of, and expected,
Yes, if not hoped for at a higher rate too.

Mir. I will take heed, and thank ye for your Counsel:
Father, what think you?

La Ca. 'Tis a merry Gentlewoman;
Will make, no doubt, a good Wife.

Mir. Not for me:
I marry her, and, happily, get nothing;
In what a state am I then? Father, I shall suffer,
For any thing I hear to the contrary, more majorum,
I were as sure to be a Cuckold, Father,
A Gentleman of Antler——

La Ca. Away, away, Fool.

Mir. As I am sure to fail her Expectation,
I had rather get the Pox than get her Babies.

La Ca. Ye are much to blame; if this do not affect ye,
'Pray, try the other; she's of a more demure way.

Bel. That I had but the Audacity to talk thus!
I love that plain-spoken Gentlewoman admirably,
And, certain, I could go as near to please her,
If down-right doing—— she has a per'lous Countenance,
If I could meet one that would but believe me,

And

And take my honest meaning without Circumstance.—

Mir. You shall have your will, Sir, I will try the other,
But 'twill be to small use. I hope, fair Lady,
(For, methinks, in your Eyes I see more Mercy)
You will enjoin your Lover a less Penance;
And though I'll promise much, as Men are liberal,
And vow an ample Sacrifice of Service;
Yet your Discretion, and your Tenderness,
And Thriftiness in Love, good Huswives carefulness
To keep the Stock entire——

Lil. Good Sir, speak louder,
That these may witness too, ye talk of nothing;
I should be loth alone to bear the burthen
Of so much Indiscretion.

Mir. Hark ye, hark ye;
Ods bobs, you are angry, Lady.

Lil. Angry? no, Sir;
I never own'd an Anger to lose poorly.

Mir. But you can love for all this, and delight too,
For all your set-austerity, to hear
Of a good Husband, Lady?

Lil. You say true, Sir:
For by my troth, I have heard of none these ten Years,
They are so rare, and there are so many, Sir,
So many longing-Women on their Knees too,
That pray the dropping down of these good Husbands,
The dropping down from Heav'n; (12) for they're not bred here,

That you may guess at all my hope, but hearing—

Mir. Why may not I be one?

Lil. You were near 'em once, Sir,
When ye came over the Alps; those are near Heav'n;
But since ye miss'd that Happiness, there is no hope of ye.

(12) ———for they are not bred there,] But this is a Contradiction to the very Words above, which supposes them to be bred there,
i. e. in Heaven: Such sad work does only the Addition or Diminution of a Letter frequently make; the first is the Fault in this Place, and the Reading ought to be —— not bred here.

This Conjecture Mr. Theobald, and Mr. Seward too, advanced with me, and the Copy of 1652 most luckily confirms it.

Mir. Can ye love a Man?

Lil. Yes, if the Man be lovely ;
That is, be honest, modest ; I would have him valiant,
His Anger slow, but certain for his Honour ;
Travel'd he should be, but through himself exactly ;
For 'tis fairer to know Manners well, than Countries ;
He must be no vain Talker, nor no Lover
To hear himself talk, they are brags of a Wanderer,
Of one finds no Retreat for fair Behaviour ;
Would ye learn more ?

Mir. Yes.

Lil. Learn to hold your Peace then ;
Fond Girls are got with Tongues, Women with Tempers.

Mir. Women, with I know what ; but let this vanish :
Go thy way, good Wife Bias ; sure, thy Husband
Must have a strong Philosopher's Stone, he will ne'er please thee else.

Here's a starcht piece of Austerity ; do you hear, Father ?
Do you hear this moral Lecture ?

La Ca. Yes, and like it.

Mir. Why, there's your Judgment now ; there's an old
Bolt shot :

This thing must have the strangest Observation,
(Do you mark me, Father ?) when she is married once,
The strangest Custom too of Admiration
On all she does and speaks, 'twill be past Sufferance ;
I must not lie with her in common Language,
Nor cry, Have at thee Kate, I shall be hiss'd then :
Nor eat my Meat without the Sawce of Sentences,
Your powder'd Beef and Problems, a rare Diet ;
My first Son, Monsieur Aristotle, I know it,
Great Master of the Metaphysicks, or so ;
The second, Solon ; and the best Law-setter ;
And I must look Egyptian God-fathers,
Which will be no small Trouble : My eldest Daughter
Sappho, or such a fidling kind of Poetess,
And brought up, invita Minerva, at her Needle ;
My Dogs must look their Names too, and all Spartan,
Lelaps, Melampus ; no more Fox and Baudiface.
I married to a fullen Set of Sentences ?

To

To one that weighs her Words and her Behaviours
In the gold Weights of Discretion? I'll be hang'd first.

La Ca. Prithee, reclaim thyself.

Mir. 'Pray ye, give me time then:
If they can set me any thing to play at,
That seems fit for a Gamester, have at the fairest
Till I see more, and try more.

La Ca. Take your time then:
I'll bar ye no fair Liberty: Come, Gentlemen,
And, Ladies, come; to all once more a welcome;
And now let's in to Supper. [Exit.

Mir. How dost like 'em?

Pin. They are fair enough, but of so strange Behaviours,——

Mir. Too strange for me; I must have those have Mettle,
And Mettle to my Mind: Come, let's be merry.

Bel. 'Bless me from this Woman: I would stand the Cannon,
Before ten Words of hers.

De Ga. Do you find him now?
Do you think, he will be ever firm?

Oria. I fear not. [Exeunt.

A C T II. S C E N E I.

Enter Mirabell, Pinac, and Belleur.

Mir. NE'er tell me of this Happiness, 'tis nothing;
The State they bring with being fought to,
scurvey;

I had rather make mine own Play, and I will do.
My Happiness is in mine own Content,
And the despising of such glorious Trifles,
As I have done a thousand more. For my Humour,
Give me a good free Fellow, that sticks to me,
A jovial fair Companion; there's a Beauty:
For Women, I can have too many of them:

Good Women too, as the Age reckons 'em,
More than I have Employment for.

Pin. You are happy.

Mir. My only Fear is, that I must be forced,
Against my Nature, (13) to conceal myself.
Health and an able Body are two Jewels.

Pin. If either of these two Women were offer'd to me
now,
I would think otherwise, and do accordingly :
(14) Yes, and recant my Heresies, I would, Sir,
And be more tender of Opinion,
And put a little of my travell'd Liberty
Out of the way, and look upon 'em seriously.
Methinks, this grave-carried Wench——

Bel. Methinks, the other,
The home-spoken Gentlewoman, that desires to be fruitful,
That treats of the full Manage of the Matter ;
For there lies all my Aim ; that Wench, methinks,
If I were but well set on : (15) For she is a Fable,
If I were but hounded right, and one to teach me :
She speaks to th' Matter, and comes home to th' Point :
Now do I know, I have such a Body to please her,
As all the Kingdom cannot fit her with, I am sure on't,
If I could but talk myself into her Favour.

Mir. That's easily done.

Bel. That's easily said ; 'would, 'twere done !

(13) —To my conceal myself.] So the Copy of 1711, that of 1679 gives the Text,

(14) Yes, and recant my Heresies, I would fain, Sir,] Fain, being neither Sense nor Measure, embarrass'd me much, but the former was the thing that stuck the most with me. In order therefore to render this Place entire, I conjectur'd we should read,

—— I wou'd, fair Sir,

or, which I lik'd better,

—— I wou'd 'faith, Sir,

But upon consulting the Copy of 1672 three Years after my first Reading of this Play, I found that I had been fighting a Shadow, and the Passage ought to run as I have given it in the Text.

(15) —For she is a Fable,] The glaring Nonsense of this Passage strikes at first Sight. I shall give the Reader what I imagine was the original Lesson, and leave it to him whether it must stand or fall :

—— For she is affable.

You

You should see then how I would lay about me.
If I were virtuous, it would never grieve me,
Or any thing that might justify my Modesty,
But when my Nature is prone to do a Charity,
(16) Then my Calf's-Tongue will not help me.

Mir. Will ye go to 'em?

They cannot but take it courteously.

Pin. I'll do my Part,

Though, I am sure, 'twill be the hardest I e'er play'd yet,
A Way I never try'd too, which will stagger me;
And, if it do not shame me, I am happy.

Mir. Win 'em, and wear 'em, I give up my Interest.

Pin. What say ye, Monsieur Belleur?

Bel. 'Would, I could say,

Or sing, or any thing that were but handsom,
I would be with her presently!

Pin. Yours is no venture;

A merry ready Wench.

Bel. (17) A Vengeance Squibber;
She'll fleer me out of Faith too.

Mir. I'll be near thee;

Pluck up thy Heart, I'll second thee at all Brunts;
Be angry, if she abuse thee, and beat her a little,
Some Women are won that way.

Bel. Pray, be quiet,

And let me think: I am resolv'd to go on;
But how I shall get off again——

Mir. I am persuaded

Thou wilt so please her, she'll go near to ravish thee.

Bel. I would, 'twere come to that once: Let me pray a little.

Mir. Now for thine Honour, Pinac; board me this Modesty;

Warm but this frozen Snow-ball, 'twill be a Conquest
(Although I know thou art a fortunate Wencher,

(16) And my Calf's-Tongue—] And, ought evidently to be changed into Then.

(17) A Vengeance squib her;] The change of the Verb into the Substantive, is from the Copy of 1652.

And hast done rarely in thy Days) above all thy Ventures.

Bel. You will be ever near?

Mir. At all Necessities,

And take thee off, and set thee on again, Boy;
And cherish thee, and stroak thee.

Bel. Help me out too?

For, I know, I shall stick i'th' Mire: If ye see us close once,

Be gone, and leave me to my Fortune, suddenly,
For I am then determin'd to do Wonders.

Farewel, and sling an old Shoe: How my Heart throbs!
'Would, I were drunk! Farewel, Pinac; Heav'n send us
A joyful and a merry Meeting, Man. Pin. Farewel,
And chear thy Heart up; and remember, Belleur,
They are but Women.

Bel. I had rather they were Lions.

Mir. About it; I'll be with you instantly. [Exeunt.]

Enter Oriana.

Shall I ne'er be at rest? no Peace of Conscience?
No Quiet for these Creatures? am I ordain'd
(18) To be devour'd quick by these She-Canibals?
Here's another they call handſom, I care not for her,
I ne'er look after her: When I am half tipled,
It may be I should turn her, and peruse her;
Or in my Want of Women, I might call for her;
But to be haunted when I have no Fancy,
No Maw to th' Matter— Now, why do you follow me?

Oria. I hope, Sir, 'tis no Blemish to my Virtue,
Nor need you, out of Scruple, ask that Question;
If you remember ye, before your Travel,
The Contract you ty'd to me: 'Tis my Love, Sir,
That makes me seek ye, to confirm your Memory,
And that being fair and good, I cannot suffer:
I come to give ye Thanks too.

(18) To be devour'd quickly by these—] Both the Measure and the Sense reclaim against quickly, as Mr. Theobald and Mr. Seward likewise observed; and, indeed, no Copy reads so, but that of the Year 1711.

Mir. For what, pr'ythee?

Oria. For that fair Piece of Honesty ye shew'd, Sir,
That constant Noblenefs.

Mir. How? for I am short-headed.

Oria. I'll tell ye then; for refusing that free Offer
Of Monsieur Nantolet's; those handfom Beauties,
Those two prime Ladies, that might well have prest ye,
(19) If not to have broken, yet to have bow'd your Promise;

I know, it was for my sake, for your Faith sake,
You slipt 'em off, your Honesty compell'd ye.
And let me tell ye, Sir, it shew'd most handfomly.

Mir. And let me tell thee, there was no such Matter:
Nothing intended that way, of that nature;
I have more to do with my Honesty than to fool it,
Or venture it in such leak Barks as Women;
I put 'em off, because I lov'd 'em not,
Because they are too queasy for my Temper;
And not for thy sake, nor the Contract sake,
Nor Vows nor Oaths; I have made a thousand of 'em,
They are things indifferent, whether kept or broken;
Meer venial Slips, that grow not near the Conscience:
Nothing concerns those tender Parts; they are Trifles:
For, as I think, there was never Man yet hop'd for Either Constancy or Secrecy, from a Woman,
Unless it were an Afs ordain'd for Sufferance;
Nor to contract with such (20) can be a Tie;
So let them know again; for 'tis a Justice,
And a main Point of civil Policy,
Whate'er we say or swear, they being Reprobates,
Out of the State of Faith, we are clear of all sides,
And 'tis a curious Blindness to believe us.

Oria. You do not mean this, sure?

(19) If not to have broken, yet to have bow'd your Promise;] Butler probably had this Place in his Head when he wrote these Lines,

*Marriage, at best, is but a Vow,
Which all Men either break or bow.*

(20) ——— can be a Tial;] Mr. Theobald makes a Query about Tial in his Margin; as it is a Word I don't know any where to be found, I have, with Mr. Seward, taken the Freedom to alter it.

Mir. Yes, sure, and certain ;
And hold it positively, as a Principle,
As ye are strange things, and made of strange Fires and Fluxes,

So we are allow'd as strange ways to obtain ye,
But not to hold ; we are all created Errant.

Oria. You told me other Tales.

Mir. I not deny it ;
I have Tales of all sorts for all sorts of Women,
And Protestations likewise of all sizes,
As they have Vanities to make us Coxcombs ;
If I obtain a good Turn, so it is,
I am thankful for it : if I be made an Ass,
The Mends are in mine own Hands, or the Surgeon's,
And there's an end on't.

Oria. Do not you love me then ?

Mir. As I love others, heartily I love thee,
When I am high and lusty, I love thee cruelly :
After I have made a plenteous Meal, and satisfy'd
My Senses with all Delicates, come to me,
And thou shalt see how I love thee.

Oria. Will not you marry me ?

Mir. No, certain, no, for any thing I know yet ;
I must not lose my Liberty, dear Lady,
And, like a wanton Slave, cry for more Shackles.
What should I marry for ? Do I want any thing ?
Am I an Inch the farther from my Pleasure ?
Why should I be at Charge to keep a Wife of mine own,
When other honest married Mens will ease me,
And thank me too, and be beholding to me ?
Thou think'st, I am mad for a Maidenhead ; thou art
cozen'd ;

Or if I were addicted to that Diet, [now,
Can you tell me where I should have one ? thou art eighteen
And if thou hast thy Maidenhead yet extant,
Sure, 'tis as big as Cods-head ; and those grave Dishes
I never love to deal withal : Dost thou see this Book here ?
Look over all these Ranks ; all these are Women,
Maids, and Pretenders to Maidenheads ; these are my Conquests ;

All

All these I swore to marry, as I swore to thee,
With the same Reservation, and most righteously ;
Which I need not have done neither ; for, alas, they made no Scruple,
And I enjoy'd 'em at my Will, and left 'em :
Some of 'em are married since, and were as pure Maids again,
Nay o' my Conscience better than they were bred for ;
The rest, fine sober Women.

Oria. Are ye not aham'd, Sir ?

Mir. No, by my Troth, Sir ; there's no Shame belongs to it ;

I hold it as commendable to be wealthy in Pleasure,
As others do in rotten Sheep, and Pasture.

Enter De Gard.

Oria. Are all my Hopes come to this ? Is there no Faith ?

No Troth ? nor Modesty in Men ?

De Ga. How now, Sister,

Why weeping thus ? Did I not Prophecy ?
Come tell me why —

Oria. I am not well ; 'pray ye, pardon me. [Exit.]

De Ga. Now, Monsieur Mirabell, what ails my Sister ?
You have been playing the wag with her.

Mir. As I take it,

She is crying for a Cod-piece ; is she gone ?

Lord, what an Age is this ! I was calling for ye,
For, as I live, I thought she would have ravish'd me.

De Ga. Ye are merry, Sir.

Mir. Thou know'st this Book, De Gard, this Inventory ?

De Ga. The Debt-book of your Mistresses, I remember it.

Mir. Why, this was it that anger'd her ; she was stark
mad,

She found not her Name here ; and cry'd down-right,
Because I would not pity her immediately,
And put her in my List.

De Ga. Sure she had more Modesty.

Mir. Their Modesty is Anger to be over-done ;
They'll quarrel sooner for Precedence here,

And take it in more dudgeon to be slighted,
 Than they will in publick Meetings; 'tis their Natures:
 And, alas, I have so many to dispatch yet,
 And to provide myself for my Affairs too,
 That, in good Faith——

De Ga. Be not too glorious-foolish;
 Sum not your Travels up with Vanities,
 It ill becomes (21) your Expectation:
 Temper your Speech, Sir; whether your loose Story
 Be true or false, (for you are so free, I fear it)
 Name not my Sister in't, I must not hear it;
 Upon your Danger name her not: I hold her
 A Gentlewoman of those happy Parts and Carriage,
 A good Man's Tongue may be right proud to speak her.

Mir. Your Sister, Sir? d'ye blench at that? d'ye cavil?
 Do you hold her such a Piece, she may not be play'd withal?
 I have had an hundred handsomer and nobler,
 Have su'd to me for such a Courtesy:
 Your Sister comes i'th' Rear: Since ye are so angry,
 And hold your Sister such a strong Recusant,
 I tell ye, I may do it; and, it may be, will too;
 It may be, have too; there's my free Confession;
 Work upon that now.

De Ga. If I thought ye had, I would work,
 And work such stubborn Work, should make your Heart
 ake;

But I believe ye, as I ever knew ye,
 A glorious Talker, and a Legend-maker
 Of idle Tales, and Trifles; a Depraver
 Of your own Truth; (22) their Honours fly about ye;
 And so I take my leave, but with this Caution,
 Your Sword be surer than your Tongue, you'll smart else.

Mir. I laugh at thee, so little I respect thee;
 And I'll talk louder, and despise thy Sister;

(21) —— your Expectation:] i. e. The Expectation the World has of you.

(22) —— their Honours fly about ye;] But for what? We have here a manifest Corruption, and the true Reading is,

—— Honours fly above you;
i. e. are out of the Reach of your Tongue, &c.

Set up a Chamber-maid, that shall out-shine her,
And carry her in my Coach too, and that will kill her.
Go get thy Rents up, go.

De Ga. Ye are a fine Gentleman. [Exit.]

Mir. Now have at my two Youths; I'll see, how they do;
How they behave themselves; and then I'll study,
What Wench shall love me next, and when I'll lose her.

[Exit.]

S C E N E II.

Enter Pinac, and a Servant.

Pin. Art thou her Servant, say'st thou?

Ser. Her poor Creature,
But Servant to her Horse, Sir.

Pin. Canst thou shew me
The way to her Chamber, or where I may conveniently
See her, or come to talk to her?

Ser. That I can, Sir;
But the Question is whether I will or no.

Pin. Why, I'll content thee.

Ser. Why, I'll content thee then; now ye come to me.

Pin. There's for your Diligence.

Ser. There's her Chamber, Sir;
And this way she comes out; stand ye but here, Sir,
You have her at your Prospect, or your Pleasure.

Pin. Is she not very angry?

Ser. You'll find that quickly:
'May be, she'll call ye saucy scurvy Fellow,
Or some such familiar Name: 'may be, she knows ye,
And will fling a Pifs-pot at ye, or a Pantofle,
According as ye are in Acquaintance: If she like ye,
'May be, she'll look upon ye; 'may be, no;
And two Months hence call for ye.

Pin. This is fine.

She is monstrous proud then?

Ser. She is a little haughty;
Of a small Body, she has a Mind well mounted.
Can ye speak Greek?

Pin. No, certain.

Ser.

Ser. Get ye gone then ;
 And talk of Stars, and Firmaments, and Fire-drakes ?
 Do you remember who was Adam's School-master,
 And who taught Eve to spin ? She knows all these,
 And will run ye over the beginning o'th' World
 As familiar (23) as a Fidler.—
 Can ye sit seven Hours together, and say nothing ?
 Which she will do, and when she speaks, speak Oracles ;
 Speak things that no Man understands, nor herself neither.

Pin. Thou mak'st me wonder.

Ser. Can ye smile ?

Pin. Yes, willingly :

For naturally I bear a Mirth about me.

Ser. She'll ne'er endure ye then, she is never merry ;
 If she see one laugh, she'll swoond past Aqua vitæ :
 Never come near her, Sir ; if ye chance to venture,
 And talk not like a Doctor, you are damn'd too ;
 I've told enough for your Crown, and so good speed t'ye.

[Exit.

Pin. I have a pretty Task, if she be thus curious,
 As, sure, it seems she is ; if I fall off now,
 I shall be laugh'd at fearfully ; if I go forward,
 I can but be abus'd, and that I look for ;
 And yet I may hit right, but 'tis unlikely.
 Stay, in what Mood and Figure shall I attempt her ?
 A careless way ? No, no, that will not waken her ;
 Besides, her Gravity will give me Line still,
 And let me lose myself ; yet this way often
 Has hit, and handsomely. A wanton Method ?
 I, if she give it leave to sink into her Consideration ;
 But there's the doubt : If it but stir her Blood once,
 And creep into the Crannies of her Fancy,
 Set her a-gog—But if she chance to slight it,
 And by the Pow'r of her Modesty fling it back,

(23) — as a Fidler.] The Deficiency of the Sense and Measure,
 Mr. Theobald and Mr. Seward supply in this manner :

— as a Fidler does his Gamut.

It is true nought is wanting by this Supplement, but then you take away the Humour of the impertinent, interrogative Servant, and a Dash after Fidler, will do, in my Opinion, full as well as the Words at length.

I shall appear the arrantest Rascal to her,
 The most licentious Knave, for I shall talk lewdly.
 To bear myself austerely? rate my Words?
 And fling a general gravity about me,
 As if I meant to give Laws? But this I cannot do,
 This is a way above my Understanding;
 Or, if I could, 'tis odds she'll think I mock her;
 For serious and sad Things (24) are still suspicious.
 (25) Well, I'll say something.
 But Learning I have none, and less good Manners,
 Especially for Ladies; well, I'll set my best Face;

(24) — are ever still suspicious.] Tho' there is no Authority for expunging this super-abundant ever, yet good Sense and good Measure manifestly require it, and as Mr. Seward concurred with me, 'tis at both our Perils.

(25) Well, I'll say something.

But Learning I have none, and less good Manners.] Here a deficiency in Sense and Measure denote the Loss of some Words that wou'd complete both. He is considering how to accost her; Carelessly, Wantonly, and Austerely, had been thought of and rejected; he should now propose two other Methods, Learnedly, or Complaisantly, but in the main'd Text above, he rejects both without proposing either. The following Conjecture seems to bid fair for being the true Reading.

*Well, I'll say something learnedly or civilly,
 But Learning I have none, and less good Manners.*

Mr. Seward.

The completing the Sense of this Passage is what I have chiefly in my Eye, tho' the way I go about to do it is different from Mr. Seward's, but that is no wonder, since we take for our Foundation two different Passages of this same Soliloquy; ———— for I shall talk lewdly.

Most certainly, if he determin'd to address the Lady wantonly. The Words are silly and impertinent where they are, and call aloud to be reinstated in their original Place, which happily yet is vacant to receive them. The whole, I conjecture should thus be read;

*The most licentious Knave. ————
 Shall I bear myself austerely? rate my Words?
 And fling a general gravity about me,
 As if I meant to give Laws? But this I cannot do,
 This is a way above my Understanding;
 Or, if I could, 'tis odds she'll think I mock her;
 For serious and sad Things are still suspicious.
 Well, I'll say something——But I shall talk lewdly;
 For Learning I have none, and less good Manners, Especially for Ladies; ————*

Nothing can be more à propos than the Word lewdly here, which contains all the Ideas of Ignorance, Rudeness, and Obscenity.

Enter

Enter Lilia, Petella, and Musicians.

I hear some coming ; this is the first Woman
I ever fear'd yet, the first Face that shakes me.

Lil. Give me my Hat, Petella, take this Veil off,
This fullen Cloud, it darkens my Delights ;
Come, Wench, be free, and let the Musick warble,
Play me some lusty Measure.

Pin. This is she, sure,
The very same I saw, the very Woman,
The Gravity I wonder'd at : Stay, stay,
Let me be sure ; ne'er trust me, but she danceth,
Summer is in her Face now, and she skippeth :
I'll go a little nearer.

Lil. Quicker time, Fellows,

Enter Mirabell.

I cannot find my Legs yet ; now, Petella.

Pin. I am amaz'd, I am founder'd in my fancy,

Mir. Hah, say ye so ; is this your Gravity ?
This the Austerity ye put upon ye ?
I'll see more o' this Sport.

Lil. A Song now ;
Call in for a merry, and a light Song,
And sing it with a liberal Spirit.

Enter a Man.

Man. Yes, Madam.

Lil. And be not amaz'd, Sirrah, but take us for your own Company.
Let's walk ourselves : Come, Wench ; 'would, we had a Man or two !

Pin. Sure, she has spy'd me, and will abuse me dreadfully,
She has put on this for the purpose ; yet I will try her.
Madam, I would be loth my rude Intrusion,
Which I must crave a Pardon for —

Lil. O ye are welcome,
Ye are very welcome, Sir, we want such a one ;
Strike up again : I dare presume, ye dance well :

Quick,

Quick, quick, Sir, quick, the Time steals on.

Pin. I would talk with ye.

Lil. Talk as ye dance.

Mir. She'll beat him off his Legs, first ;
This is the finest Mask.

Lil. Now how do ye, Sir ?

Pin. You have given me a shrewd Heat.

Lil. I'll give ye a Hundred.

Come sing now, sing ; for, I know, ye sing well,
I see, ye have a singing Face.

Pin. A fine Modesty !

If I could, she'd never give me Breath :
Madam, would I might fit and recover.

Lil. Sit here, and sing now,
Let's do things quickly, Sir, and handsomly,
Sit close, Wench, close ; begin, begin.

[Song.

Pin. I am lesson'd.

Lil. 'Tis very pretty, i'faith, give me some Wine now.

Pin. I would fain speak to ye.

Lil. You shall drink first, believe me :
Here's to ye a lusty Health.

Pin. I thank ye, Lady.

Would I were off again, I smell my Misery ;
I was never put to this rack ; I shall be drunk too.

Mir. If thou be'st not a right one, I have lost mine
Aim much :

I thank Heav'n, that I have scap'd thee : To her, Pinac ;
For thou art as sure to have her, and to groan for her—
I'll see how my other Youth does ; this speeds trimly :
A fine grave Gentlewoman, and worth much Honour.

Lil. Now ? How do ye like me, Sir ? [Exit Mir.

Pin. I like ye rarely.

Lil. Ye see, Sir, though sometimes we are grave and silent,

And put on sadder Dispositions,
Yet we are compounded of free Parts, and sometimes too
Our lighter, airy, and our fiery Mettles Break out, and shew themselves ; and what think you of that, Sir ?

Pin. Good Lady, fit, for I am very weary ;

And

And then I'll tell ye.

Lil. Fie, a young Man idle?

Up, up, and walk; be still in Action,
The Motions of the Body are fair Beauties:
Besides, 'tis cold; ods-me, Sir, let's walk faster:
What think ye now of the Lady Felicia?
And Bella-fronte th' Duke's fair Daughter? ha?
Are they not handfom things? there is Duarta,
And brown Olivia.

Pin. I know none of 'em.

Lil. But brown must not be cast away, Sir; if young
Lelia

Had kept herself till this Day from a Husband,
Why, what a Beauty, Sir? you know Ismena,
The fair jem of Saint Germans?

Pin. By my Troth, I do not.

Lil. And then, I know, you must hear of Brisac,
How unlike a Gentleman — —

Pin. As I live, I have heard nothing.

Lil. Strike me another Galliard.

Pin. By this Light, I cannot;
In troth, I have sprain'd my Leg, Madam.

Lil. Now sit ye down, Sir,
And tell me why ye came hither, why ye chose me out?
What is your Business? your Errand? dispatch, dispatch;
May be, ye are some Gentleman's Man, and I mistook ye,
That have brought me a Letter, or a Hanch of Venison,
Sent me from some Friend of mine.

Pin. Do I look like a Carrier?

You might allow me, what I am, a Gentleman.

Lil. Cry 'ye Mercy, Sir, I saw ye Yesterday,
You are new come out of Travel, I mistook ye;
And how do all our impudent Friends in Italy?

Pin. Madam, I came with Duty, and fair Courtesy,
Service, and Honour to ye.

Lil. Ye came to jeer me:

Ye see, I am merry, Sir, I have chang'd my Copy:
None of the Sages now, and, 'pray ye, proclaim it;
Fling on me what Aspersion you shall please, Sir,
Of Wantonness, or Wildness, I look for it;

And

And tell the World, I am an Hypocrite,
Mask in a forc'd and borrow'd Shape, I expect it;
But not to have you believ'd: For mark ye, Sir,
I have won a nobler Estimation,
A stronger Tie by my Discretion
Upon Opinion (howe'er you think, I forced it)
Than either (26) Tongue or Act of yours can flubber,
And, when I please, I will be what I please, Sir,
So I exceed not Mean; and none shall brand it
Either with Scorn or Shame, but shall be slighted,

Pin. Lady, I come to love ye.

Lil. Love yourself, Sir,

And when I want Observers, I'll send for ye:
Heigh, ho; my Fit's almost off, for we do all by fits, Sir:
If ye be weary, fit till I come again to ye. [Exit.

Pin. This is a Wench of a dainty Spirit; but Hang me if I know yet (27) either what to think,
Or make of her; she had her Will of me,
And baited me abundantly, I thank her;
And, I confess, (28) I never was so blurred,
Nor ever so abus'd; I must bear mine own Sins;
Ye talk of Travels, here's a curious Country.
Yet I will find her out, or forswear my Faculty. [Exit.

(26) — Tongue or Art of yours —] The Sense is, then either what you can say or do can fully. But haply this cannot be made out of the Words as they stand, and therefore I would read,

— Tongue or Act of yours —

So Mr. Theobald had wrote in his Margin. Act and Art, through our Authors Plays, are frequently confounded.

(27) — either what to think, Or make her; she had, &c.] The Copies of 1652 and 1679, give the Text.

(28) — I never was so blurred, Nor ever so abus'd;—] I fancy the Reader may consider this Passage a long while, before he will be able to make blurred bear the Signification requisite here. The Copy of 1652 varies a Letter, and exhibits blurtd, which still does not tally with the Sense of the Place. Our Author points out to us the true Lession, when, tho' not speaking of the same Person, yet on the same Subject, he makes Belleur say, what Pinac should do here:

I'm sham'd, I'm scorn'd, I'm flurtd.

SCENE

S C E N E III.

Enter Rofalura, and Oriana.Rof. Ne'er vex yourself, nor grieve; ye are a Fool then.Oria. I'm sure, I'm made so: yet before I suffer
Thus like a Girl, and give him leave to triumph——Rof. You say right; for as long as he perceives ye
Sink under his proud Scornings, he'll laugh at ye:
For me, secure yourself; and for my Sister,
I partly know her Mind too: Howsoever
To obey my Father we have made a tender
Of our poor Beauties to the travell'd Monseur,
Yet two Words to a Bargain; he slights us
As skittish Things, and we shun him as curious.
May be, my free Behaviour turns his Stomach,
And makes him seem to doubt a loose Opinion.
I must be so sometimes, though all the World saw it.Oria. Why should not ye? Are our Minds only measur'd?

As long as here ye stand secure,——

Rof. Ye say true,As long as mine own Conscience makes no Question,
What care I for Report; that Woman's miserable,
That's good or bad for their Tongues sake: Come, let's retire,And get my Veil, Wench: By my Troth, your Sorrow,
And the Consideration of Mens humorous maddings,
Have put me into a serious Contemplation.Enter Mirabell and Belleur.Oria. Come, 'Faith, let's sit, and think.Rof. That's all my Business.Mir. Why stand'st thou peeping here? Thou great Slug, forward.Bel. She is there; Peace.Mir. Why stand'st thou here then,
Sneaking, and peaking, as thou would'st steal Linen?
Hast thou not Place and Time?Bel. I had a rare Speech

Studied,

Studied, and almost ready; and your Violence
Has beat it out of my Brains.

Mir. Hang your rare Speeches,
Go me on like a Man.

Bel. Let me fet my Beard up.
How has Pinac performed?

Mir. He has won already :
He stands not thrumming of Caps thus.

Bel. Lord, what should I ail?
What a cold I have over my Stomach ; (29) 'would, I had some Hum.

Certain I have a great mind to be at her,
A mighty mind.

Mir. On, Fool.

Bel. Good Words, I beseech ye ;
For I will not be abused by both.

Mir. Adieu, then,
I will not trouble you, I see you are valiant,
And work your own way.

Bel. Hift, hift, I will be rul'd ;
I will, i'faith, I will go presently :
Will ye forsake me now, and leave me i'th' Suds ?
You know; I am false-hearted this way ; I beseech ye,
Good sweet Mirabell I'll cut your Throat if ye leave me,
Indeed, I will ; Sweet-heart !

Mir. I will be ready,
Still at thine Elbow ; take a Man's Heart to thee,
And speak thy Mind ; the plainer still the better.
She is a Woman of that free Behaviour,
Indeed, that common Courtesy, she cannot deny thee ;
Go bravely on.

(29) — 'would, I had some Hum.] Mr. Theobald, doubtful of this Term, queries whether Rum ought not to supply its Place. I once thought Mum was the more likely to be the true Reading, but am convinced (so precarious, however likely, are all conjectural Emendations) that the Text is right upon the Credit of Ben Johnson in his Devil's an Ass, Vol. 4. p. 256.

*Chimney-Sweepers and Carmen, are got,
To their Tobacco, Strong-waters, Hum,
Meath, and Obarni.*

Bel. Madam——keep close about me,
Still at my back. Madam, sweet Madam——

Rof. Ha!

What Noise is that, what faucy sound to trouble me?

Mir. What said she?

Bel. I am faucy.

Mir. 'Tis the better.

Bel. She comes; must I be faucy still?

Mir. More faucy.

Rof. Still troubled with these Vanities? Heav'n blefs us!
What are we born to? Would ye speak with any of my People?

Go in, Sir, I am bufy.

Bel. This is not she, fure:

Is this two Children at a Birth? I'll be hang'd then:
Mine was a merry Gentlewoman, talk'd daintily,
Talkt of thofe Matters that befitted Women;
This is a Parcel-Prayer-book; I'm ferv'd sweetly;
And now I am to look too; I was prepar'd for th' other way.

Rof. Do you know that Man?

Oria. Sure, I have feen him, Lady.

Rof. Methinks, 'tis pity fuch a lufly Fellow
Should wander up and down, and want Employment.

Bel. She takes me for a Rogue: You may do well,
Madam,

To ftay this Wanderer, and fet him at work, forfooth;
He can do fomething, that may pleafe your Ladyfhip,
I have heard of Women that defire good Breedings.
Two at a Birth, or fo.

Rof. The Fellow's impudent.

Oria. Sure, he is crazed.

Rof. I have heard of Men too that have had good
Manners;

Sure, this is want of Grace; indeed, 'tis great Pity
The young Man has been bred fo ill; but this lewd Age
Is full of fuch Examples.

Bel. I am founder'd,

And fome fhall rue the fetting of me on.

Mir. Ha? So Bookifh, Lady, is it poffible?

Turn'd

Turn'd Holy at the Heart too? I'll be hang'd then.
Why, this is such a Feat, such an Activity,
Such fast and loose—A Veil too for your Knavery?

O Dio, Dio!

Rof. What do you take me for, Sir?

Mir. An Hypocrite, a Wanton, a Dissembler,
How'er ye seem, and thus y'are to be handled.
Mark me, Belleur; and this you love, I know it.

Rof. Stand off, bold Sir.

Mir. You wear good Clothes to this end,
Jewels; love Feasts, and Masks.

Rof. Ye are monstrous saucy,

Mir. All this to draw on Fools? and thus, thus, Lady,
Ye are to be lull'd.

Bel. Let her alone, I'll swinge ye else,
I will 'faith; for though I cannot skill o'this matter
Myself, I will not see another do it before me,
And do it worse.

Rof. Away, ye are a vain Thing;
You have travell'd far, Sir, to return again
A windy and poor Bladder: you talk of Women,
That are not worth the Favour of a common one,
The Grace of her grew in an Hospital:
Against a Thousand such blown Fooleries,
I am able to maintain good Womens Honours,
Their Freedoms, and their Fames, and I will do it.

Mir. She has almost struck me dumb too.

Rof. And declaim
Against your base malicious Tongues, your Noises,
For they are nothing else: You teach Behaviours?
Or touch us for our Freedoms? Teach yourselves Manners,
Truth and Sobriety, and live so clearly
That our Lives may shine in ye; and then task us:
It seems, ye are hot; the Suburbs will supply ye.
Good Women scorn such Gamesters, so I'll leave ye;
I am sorry to see this: 'Faith, Sir, live fairly. [Exit.

Mir. This Woman, if she hold on, may be virtuous,
'Tis almost possible: We'll have a new Day.

Bel. Ye brought me on, ye forc'd me to this Foolery;
I'm sham'd, I'm scorn'd, I'm flurted; yes, I am so:

Though I cannot talk to a Woman like your Worship,
And use my Phrases, and my learned Figures,
Yet I can fight with any Man.

Mir. Fie.

Bel. I can, Sir,
And I will fight.

Mir. With whom?

Bel. With you, with any Man;
For all Men now will laugh at me.

Mir. Pr'ythee, be moderate.

Bel. And I'll beat all Men. Come.

Mir. I love thee dearly.

Bel. I will beat all that love, Love has undone me;
Never tell me, I will not be a History.

Mir. Thou art not.

Bel. 'Sfoot, I will not; give me room,
And let me see the proudest of ye jeer me,
And I'll begin with you first.

Mir. 'Prithee, Belleur;
If I do not satisfy thee ———

Bel. Well, look ye do:
But now I think on't better, 'tis impossible;
I must beat some Body, I am maul'd myself,
And I ought in Justice ———

Mir. No, no, no, ye are cozen'd;
But walk, and let me talk to thee.

Bel. Talk wisely,
And see that no Man laugh upon no Occasion;
For I shall think then 'tis at me.

Mir. I warrant thee.

Bel. Nor no more Talk of this.

Mir. Dost think, I am maddish?

Bel. I must needs fight yet; for, I find, it concerns me;
A Pox on't! I must fight.

Mir. I' faith, thou shalt not.

[Exeunt.

A C T III. S C E N E I.

Enter De Gard, and Lugier.

De Ga. I Know ye are a Scholar, and can do Wonders.

Lug. There's no great Scholarship belongs to this, Sir;

What I am, I am; I pity your poor Sister,
And heartily I hate these Travellers,
These Gim-cracks, made of Mops and Motions:
There's nothing in their Houses here but Hummings;
A Bee has more Brains. (30) I grieve and vex too
The insolent licentious Carriage
Of this out-facing Fellow, Mirabell,
And I am mad to see him prick his Plumes up.

De Ga. His Wrongs you partly know.

Lug. Do not you stir, Sir,
Since he has begun with Wit, let Wit revenge it;
Keep your Sword close, we'll cut his Throat a new way.
I am asham'd, the Gentlewoman should suffer
Such base lewd Wrongs.

De Ga. I will be rul'd, he shall live,
And left to your Revenge.

Lug. I, I, I'll fit him:
He makes a common Scorn of handfom Women;
Modesty and good Manners are his May-games:
He takes up Maidenheads with a new Commission;
The Church Warrant's out of Date: follow my Counsel,
For I am zealous in the Cause.

(30) ——— I grieve and vex too.

The insolent licentious Carriage] Vex here is a neutral Verb, and is used so a little lower:

Mir. ——— now vex, Ladies,

Envy, and vex, and rail.

The Text here I have not alter'd either as to Pointing or Reading, tho'
I once thought the whole should thus have run,

——— I grieve and vex too.

The insolent licentious Carriage

Of this out-facing Fellow, Mirabell,

I'm mad to see; to see him prick his Plumes up.

The Wild-Goose Chase.

De Ga. I will, Sir,
And will be still directed; for the Truth is,
My Sword will make my Sister seem more monstrous:
Besides, there is no Honour won on Reprobates.

Lug. You are i'th' right: The Slight he has shew'd my Pupils,
Sets me a-fire too: Go, I'll prepare your Sister,
And, as I told ye,——

De Ga. Yes, all shall be fit, Sir.

Lug. And seriously, and handsomly.

De Ga. I warrant ye.

Lug. A little Counsel more.

De Ga. 'Tis well.

Lug. Most stately: ——
See that observ'd; and then.

De Ga. I have ye every way.

Lug. Away then, and be ready.

De Ga. With all Speed, Sir.

[Exit.

Enter Lillia, Rosalure, and Oriana.

Lug. We'll learn to Travel too, may be, beyond him.
Good Day, fair Beauties.

Lil. You have beautified us.
We thank ye, Sir, ye have set us off most gallantly
With your grave Precepts.

Ros. We expected Husbands
Out of your Documents, and taught Behaviours,
Excellent Husbands; thought, Men would run stark mad
on us,

Men of all Ages, and all States: We expected
An Inundation of Desires and Offers,
A Torrent of trim Suitors; all we did,
Or said, or purpos'd, to be Spells about us,
Spells to provoke ——

Lil. Ye have provok'd us finely;
We follow'd your Directions, we did rarely,
We were Stately, Coy, Demure, Careless, Light, Giddy,
And play'd at all Points: This, you swore, would carry.

Ros. We made Love, and contemn'd Love. Now seem'd holy,

With

With such a reverent put-on Reservation
Which could not miss, according to your Principles;
Now gave more Hope again. Now close, now publick,
Still up and down, we beat it like a Billow;
And ever those Behaviours you read to us,
Subtil, and new. But all this will not help us.

Lil. They help to hinder us of all Acquaintance,
They have frighted off all Friends: What am I better
For all my Learning, if I love a Dunce,
A handsom Dunce? To what use serves my Reading?
You should have taught me what belongs to Horses,
Dogs, Dice, Hawks, Banquets, Masks, free and fair
Meetings,
To have studied Gowns and Dressings.

Lug. Ye are not mad, sure.

Rof. We shall be, if we follow your Encouragements;
I'll take mine own way now.

Lil. And I my Fortune:
We may live Maids else till the Moon drop Mill-stones;
I see, your modest Women are taken for Monsters,
A Dowry of good Breeding is worth nothing.

Lug. Since ye take it so to th^e Heart, pray ye give me leave yet,
And ye shall see how I'll convert this Heretick;
Mark how this Mirabell——

Lil. Name him no more:
For though I long for a Husband, I hate him,
And would be married sooner to a Monkey,
Or to a Jack of Straw, than such a Juggler.

Rof. I am of that mind too; he is too nimble,
And plays at fast and loose too learnedly
For a plain-meaning Woman; that's the Truth on't.
Here's one too, that we love well, would be angry;

[Pointing to Oriana.

And reason why: No, no, we will not trouble ye,
Nor him at this time; may he make you happy!
We'll turn ourselves loose now, to our fair Fortunes,
And the down-right way.

Lil. The winning way we'll follow,
We'll bait, that Men may bite fair, and not be frighted;

Yet we'll not be carried so cheap neither, we'll have some Sport,

Some Mad-morris or other for our Money, Tutor.

Lug. 'Tis like enough; prosper your own Devices;
Ye are old enough to chuse: But for this Gentlewoman,
So please her give me leave,——

Oria. I shall be glad, Sir,
To find a Friend, whose Pity may direct me.

Lug. I'll do my best, and faithfully deal for ye;
But then ye must be ruled.

Oria. In all, I vow to ye.

Rof. Do, do: He has a lucky Hand sometimes, I'll assure ye:

And hunts the Recovery of a lost Lover deadly.

Lug. You must away straight.

Oria. Yes.

Lug. And I'll instruct ye:
Here ye can know no more.

Oria. By your leave, sweet Ladies;
And all our Fortunes arrive at our own Wishes!

Lil. Amen, Amen.

Lug. I must borrow your Man.

Lil. 'Pray take him;
He is within: To do her good, take any thing,
Take us and all.

Lug. No doubt, ye may find Takers;
And so we'll leave ye to your own Disposes.

[Exeunt Lug. and Oria.

Lil. Now which way, Wench.

Rof. We'll go a brave way, fear not;
A safe and sure way too; and yet a by-way.
I must confess, I have a great mind to be married.

Lil. So have I too a grudging of Good-will that way;
And would as fain be dispatch'd. But this Monsieur

Quicksilver,——

Rof. No, no; we'll bar him, by, and Main: Let him trample;

There is no Safety in his Surquedrie:
An Army-Royal of Women are too few for him,
He keeps a Journal of his Gentleness,

And

And will go near to print his fair Dispatches,
And call it his Triumph over Time and Women :
Let him pass out of Memory : What think ye
Of his two Companions ?

Lil. Pinac, methinks, is reasonable ;
A little Modesty he has brought home with him,
And might be taught in time some handsom Duty.

Rof. They say, he is a Wencher too.

Lil. I like him better :
A free light Touch or two becomes a Gentleman,
And sets him seemly off : So he exceed not,
But keep his Compass clear, he may be look'd at ;
I would not marry a Man that must be taught,
And conjur'd up with Kisses ; the best Game
Is play'd still by the best Gamesters.

Rof. Fie upon thee !
What talk hast thou ?

Lil. Are not we alone, and merry ?
Why should we be ashamed to speak what we think ? Thy Gentleman,
The tall fat Fellow ; he that came to see thee——

Rof. Is't not a goodly Man ?

Lil. A wondrous goodly !
H'as Weight enough, I warrant thee : Mercy upon me ;
What a Serpent wilt thou seem under such a St. George.

Rof. Thou art a Fool ; give me a Man brings Mettle,
Brings Substance with him ; needs no Broths to Lare him :
These little Fellows shew like Fleas in Boxes,
Hop up and down, and keep a stir to vex us ;
Give me the puissant Pike, take you the small Shot.

Lil. Of a great Thing I have not seen a duller,
Therefore, methinks, sweet Sister——

Rof. Peace, he's modest :
Has Bashfulness, which is a Point of Grace, Wench :
But when these Fellows come to Moulding, Sister,
To Heat, and Handling——As I live, I like him ;

Enter Mirabell.

And, methinks, I could form him.

Lil. Peace : the Fire-drake,

Mir.

Mir. 'Bless ye, sweet Beauties, sweet incomparable Ladies,
Sweet Wits, sweet Humours : 'Bless you, learned Lady,
And you, most holy Nun ; 'Bless your Devotions.

Lil. And 'bless your Brains, Sir, your most pregnant
Brains, Sir ;

They are in Travel, may they be delivered
Of a most hopeful Wild-goose!

Rof. Bless your Manhood :

They say, ye are a Gentleman of Action,
A fair-accomplish'd Man, and a rare Engineer ;
You have a Trick to blow up Maidenheads,
A subtle Trick, they say abroad.

Mir. I have, Lady.

Rof. And often glory in their Ruins.

Mir. Yes forsooth ;

I have a speedy Trick, please you to try it :
My Engine will dispatch ye instantly.

Rof. I would I were a Woman, Sir, fit for ye,
As there be such, no doubt, may Engine you too ;
May with a Counter-mine blow up your Valour :
But in good faith, Sir, we are both too honest :
And, the plague is, we cannot be persuaded :
For, look ye, if we thought it were a Glory
To be the last of all your lovely Ladies,— [Market ;

Mir. Come, come ; leave prating : This has spoil'd your
This Pride, and puffed-up Heart, will make ye fast, Ladies,
Fast, when ye are hungry too.

Rof. The more our Pain, Sir.

Lil. The more our Health, I hope too.

Mir. Your Behaviours

Have made Men stand amaz'd ; those Men, that lov'd ye ;
Men of fair States and Parts ; your (31) strange Conversions
Into I know not what, nor how, nor wherefore ;
Your Scorns of those that came to visit ye ;
Your studied Whim-whams, and your fine set Faces :

(31) ——— strange Conventions

Into I know not what, &c.] Mr. Theobald too here has affix'd his Query in the Margin. I make no doubt but our Authors have suffered only at the Press, and that the original Reading was,

————— strange Conversions.

What

What have these got ye? proud, and harsh Opinions :
A travell'd Monfieur was the strangest Creature,
The wildest Monster to be wonder'd at :
His Person made a publick Scoff, his Knowledge
(As if he had been bred 'mongst Bears or Bandogs)
Shunn'd and avoided : His Conversation snuft at.
What Harvest brings all this ?

Rof. I pray ye, proceed, Sir.

Mir. Now ye shall see in what Esteem a Traveller,
An understanding Gentleman, and a Monfieur
Is to be held, and to your Griefs confess it,
Both to your Griefs, and Galls.

Lil. In what, I pray ye, Sir ?
We would be glad to understand your Excellence.

Mir. Go on, sweet Ladies, it becomes ye rarely.
For me, I have blest me from ye, scoff on seriously,
And note the Man ye mock'd : you, Lady Learning,
Note the poor Traveller, that came to visit ye,
That flat unfurnish'd Fellow : Note him throughly,
You may chance to see him anon.

Lil. 'Tis very likely.

Mir. And see him Courted by a Travell'd Lady,
Held dear, and honour'd, by a virtuous Virgin,
May be, a Beauty not far short of yours neither ;
It may be clearer.

Lil. Not unlikely. Mir. Younger :
As killing Eyes as yours, a Wit as Poinant ;
May be, a State too that may top your Fortune ;
Enquire how she thinks of him, how she holds him ;
His good Parts ; in what precious Price already ;
Being a Stranger to him, how she courts him ;
A Stranger to his Nation too, how she dotes on him ;
Enquire of this ; be sick to know : Curse, Lady,
And keep your Chamber : Cry, and Curse : A sweet one,
A thousand in yearly Land, well bred, well friended,
Travell'd, and highly followed for her Fashions.

Lil. 'Bless his good Fortune, Sir.

Mir. This scurvy Fellow,
I think, they call his Name Pinac ; this Serving-man,
That brought ye Venison, as I take it, Madam ;

Note but this Scab ; 'tis strange, that this course Creature,
That has no more set off, but his Jugglings,
His travell'd Tricks.

Lil. Good Sir, I grieve not at him,
Nor envy not his Fortune: Yet I wonder;
He's handfom, yet I see no fuch Perfection.

Mir. 'Would I had his Fortune, for 'tis a Woman
Of that sweet-temper'd Nature, and that Judgment,
Besides her State, that Care, clear Understanding,
And fuch a Wife to blefs him.

Rof. Pray ye, whence is she?

Mir. Of England, and a most accomplish'd Lady,
So modest that Mens Eyes are frighted at her,
And fuch a noble Carriage,——How now, Sirrah?

Enter a Boy.

Boy. Sir, the great English Lady,——

Mir. What of her, Sir?

Boy. Has newly left her Coach, and's coming this way,
Where you may see her plain: Monsieur Pinac,
The only Man that leads her.

Enter Pinac, Mariana, and Attendants.

Mir. He is much honoured;
'Would, I had fuch a Favour! Now vex, Ladies,
Envy, and vex, and rail.

Rof. Ye are fhort of us, Sir.

Mir. 'Blefs your fair Fortune, Sir.

Pin. I nobly thank ye.

Mir. Is she married, Friend?

Pin. No, no.

Mir. A goodly Lady;
A sweet and delicate Aspect: Mark, mark, and wonder!
Hast thou any Hope of her?

Pin. A little.

Mir. Follow close then:
Lose not that Hope.

Pin. To you, Sir.

Mir. Gentle Lady.

Rof. She is fair, indeed.

[Mariana courtesies to him.]

Lil.

Lil. I have seen a fairer, yet
She is well.

Ros. Her Clothes fit handsom too.

Lil. She dresses prettily.

Ros. And by my Faith she is rich, she looks still sweeter.
A well-bred Woman, I warrant her.

Lil. Do you hear, Sir,
May I crave this Gentlewoman's Name?

Pin. Mariana, Lady.

Lil. I will not say, I owe ye a quarrel, Monsieur,
For making me your Stale: A noble Gentleman
Would have had more Courtesy, at least, more Faith,
Than to turn off his Mistress at first Trial:
You know not what Respect I might have shew'd ye;
I find, ye have Worth.

Pin. I cannot stay to answer ye;
Ye see my Charge: I am beholding to ye
For all your merry Tricks ye put upon me,
Your Bobs, and base Accounts: I came to love ye,
To wooe ye, and to serve ye; I am much indebted to ye,
For dancing me off my Legs; and then for walking me;
For telling me strange Tales I never heard of,
More to abuse me; for mistaking me,
When ye both knew I was a Gentleman,
And one deserv'd as rich a Match as you are.

Lil. Be not so bitter, Sir.

Pin. You see this Lady:
She is young enough, and fair enough to please me,
A Woman of a loving Mind, a quiet,
And one, that weighs the Worth of him that loves her;
I am content with this, and blest my Fortune;
Your curious Wits, and Beauties,——

Lil. Faith, see me once more.

Pin. I dare not trouble ye.

Lil. May I speak to your Lady?

Pin. I pray ye, content yourself: I know, ye are bitter,
And, in your Bitterness, ye may abuse her;
Which if she comes to know, (for she understands ye not)
It may breed such a Quarrel to your Kindred,
And such an Indiscretion sling on you too;

For

222 The Wild-Goose Chase.

For she is nobly Friended. Lil. I could eat her.

Pin. Rest as ye are, a modest noble Gentlewoman,
And afford your honest Neighbours some of your Prayers.

[Exit Mariana, and Attendants.]

Mir. What think you now?

Lil. Faith, she's a pretty Whiting;
She has got a pretty Catch too.

Mir. You are angry,
Monstrous angry now, grievously angry;
And the pretty Heart does swell now.

Lil. No, in troth, Sir.

Mir. And (32) it will cry anon, a pox upon it!
And it will curse itself, and eat no Meat, Lady;
And it will fight.

Lil. Indeed, you are mistaken;
It will be very merry.

Rof. Why, Sir, do you think
There are no more Men living, nor no handsomer,
Than he, or you? By this Light, there be ten Thousand,
Ten Thousand Thousand: Comfort yourself, dear Monsieur,
Faces, and Bodies, Wits, and all Abiliments
There are so many we regard 'em not.

Enter Belleur, and two Gentlemen.

Mir. That such a noble Lady I could burst now,
So far above such Trifles,——

Bel. You did laugh at me,

(32) — it will cry anon, a pox upon it!

And it will curse itself, and eat no Meat,——] This Place as it stands, I am far from thinking genuine; because, upon a nearer View, we shall find Mirabell's flaming Assertions, and Lillia's cool Answers, by no means agreeing. He says, She will cry, pox upon it, will curse and eat no Meat; to which she replies in these Respects, He is greatly mistaken, so far all is easy. But when he adds, And it will Fight. To which she answers, It will be very merry, we see then the Assertion and the Answer are toto cælo inconsistent. My Conjecture, which is very near the Trace of the Letters, will set all right:

—— it will curse itself, and eat no Meat,
And it will sigh.

Lil. Indeed you are mistaken,
It will be very merry.

Here the Sentence is set found by restoring of the Antithesis.

And

And I know, why ye laughed.

1 Gent. I pray ye, be satisfied ;
If we did laugh, we had some private Reason,
And not at you.

2 Gent. Alas, we know you not, Sir.

Bel. I'll make you know me ; set your Faces soberly ;
Stand this way, and look sad ; I'll be no May-game ;
Sadder, demurer yet.

Ros. What's the matter ?
What ails this Gentleman ?

Bel. Go off now backward, that I may behold ye ;
And not a Simper on your Lives.

Lil. He's mad, sure.

Bel. Do you observe me too ?

Mir. I may look on ye.

Bel. Why do you grin ? I know your Mind.

Mir. You do not,
You are strangely humorous : Is there no Mirth, nor Pleasure,

But you must be the Object ?

Bel. Mark, and observe me ;
Where-ever I am nam'd,
The very Word shall raise a general Sadness,
For the Disgrace this scurvy Woman did me ;
This proud pert Thing ; take heed, ye laugh not at me ;
Provoke me not, take heed.

Ros. I would fain please ye ;
Do any thing to keep ye quiet.

Bel. Hear me,
Till I receive a Satisfaction
Equal to the Disgrace, and Scorn, ye gave me,
Ye are a wretched Woman ; till thou woo'ft me,
And I scorn thee as much, as seriously
Jeer, and abuse thee ; ask, what Gill thou art ;
Or any baser Name ; I will proclaim thee,
I will so sing thy Virtue, so be-paint thee.

Ros. Nay, good Sir, be more modest.

Bel. Do you laugh again ?
Because ye are a Woman, ye are lawless,
And out of Compass of an honest Anger.

Ros.

Rof. Good Sir, have a better Belief of me.

Lil. Away, dear Sister.

[Exit.

Mir. Is not this better now, this seeming Madness,
Than falling out with your Friends?

Bel. Have I not frighted her?

Mir. Into her right Wits, I warrant thee: Follow this Humour,
And thou shalt see how prosperously 'twill guide thee.

Bel. I am glad I have found a way to woo yet, I was afraid once

(33) I never should have made a civil Suiter.

Well, I'll about it still.

[Exit.

Mir. Do, do, and prosper.

What Sport do I make with these Fools? What Pleasure
Feeds me,

And fates my Sides at their poor Innocence?

Enter Lugier.

Wooing and Wiving, hang it; give me Mirth,
Witty and dainty Mirth: I shall grow in Love, sure,
With mine own happy Head. Who's this? To me, Sir?
What Youth is this?

Lug. Yes, Sir, I would speak with you,
If your Name be Monsieur Mirabell.

Mir. Ye have hit it;
Your Business, I beseech ye?

Lug. This it is, Sir,
There is a Gentlewoman hath long time affected ye,
And lov'd ye dearly.

Mir. Turn over, and end that Story,
'Tis long enough: I have no Faith in Women, Sir.

Lug. It seems so, Sir: I do not come to woo for her,
Or sing her Praises, though she well deserve 'em,
I come to tell ye, ye have been cruel to her,
Unkind and cruel, false of Faith, and careless,
Taking more Pleasure in abusing her,
Wresting her Honour to your wild Disposes,

(33) I never should have made a civil Suiter.] Will not the whole
Context induce us to read,

———— an uncivil Suiter,

Than

Than noble in requiting her Affection :
Which, as ye are a Man, I must desire ye
(A Gentleman of Rank) not to persist in,
No more to load her fair Name with your Injuries.

Mir. Why, I beseech ye, Sir?

Lug. Good Sir, I'll tell ye,
And I'll be short: I'll tell ye, 'cause I love ye;
Because I'd have you shun the Shame may follow:
There is a noble Man, new come to Town, Sir,
A noble and a great Man that affects her,
A Countryman of mine, a brave Savoyan,
Nephew to th' Duke, and so much honours her,
That 'twill be dangerous to pursue your old way,
To touch at any thing concerns her Honour,
Believe, most dangerous: Her Name is Oriana,
And this great Man will marry her: Take heed, Sir,
For howsoe'er her Brother, a staid Gentleman,
Lets things pass upon better hopes, this Lord, Sir,
Is of that fiery, and that poinant Metal,
(Especially provok'd on by Affection)
That 'twill be hard: But you are wise.

Mir. A Lord, Sir?

Lug. Yes, and a noble Lord.

Mir. 'Send her good Fortune! —

This will not stir her Lord; a Baroness,
Say ye so, say ye so? by'r Lady, a brave Title;
Top, and top-gallant now; 'save her great Ladyship!
I was a poor Servant of hers, I must confess, Sir,
And in those Days I thought I might be jovy,
And make a little bold to call into her:
But Basta! now, I know my Rules and Distance;
Yet, if she want an Usher, such an Implement,
One that is throughly pac'd, a clean-made Gentleman,
(34) Can hold a hanging up, with Approbation
Plant his Hat formally, and wait with Patience,
I do beseech you, Sir —

(34) Can hold a hanging up, —] This Expression we meet again with in the next Play toward the End of the first Act,

Thou poor base hanging Holder.

Lug. Sir, leave your Scoffing,
And as ye are a Gentleman, deal fairly:
I have given ye a Friend's Counsel, so I'll leave ye.

Mir. But hark ye, hark ye, Sir; is't possible
I may believe what you say?

Lug. You may choose, Sir.

Mir. No Baits? No Fish-hooks, Sir? No Gins? No
Nooses?

No Pitfalls to catch Puppies?

Lug. I tell ye certain;

You may believe; if not, stand to the Danger. [Exit.

Mir. A Lord of Savoy, says he? The Duke's Nephew;
A Man so mighty? By'r Lady a fair Marriage;
By my Faith, a handsome Fortune: I must leave prating;
For to confess the Truth, I have abused her,
For which I should be sorry, but that will seem scurvy;
I must confess, she was, ever since I knew her,
As modest as she was fair; I am sure she lov'd me,
Her Means good, and her Breeding excellent;
And for my sake she has refus'd fair Matches:
I may play the Fool finely. Stay, who are these?

Enter De Gard, Oriana, and Attendants.

'Tis she, I am sure; and that the Lord it should seem,
He carries a fair Port, is a handsome Man too:
I do begin to feel I am a Coxcomb.

Oria. Good my Lord, chuse a nobler; for I know
I am so far below your Rank and Honour,
That what ye can say this way, I must credit
But spoken to beget yourself sport: Alas, Sir,
I am so far off from deserving you,
My Beauty so unfit for your Affection,
That I am grown the Scorn of common Railers,
Of such injurious Things, that when they cannot Reach at my Person, lie with my Reputation:
I am poor besides.

De Ga. Ye are all Wealth and Goodness;
And none but such as are the Scum of Men,
The Ulcers of an honest State, Spight-weavers,
That live on Poison only, like swoln Spiders,

Dare once profane such Excellence, such Sweetness.

Mir. This Man speaks loud indeed.

De Ga. Name but the Men, Lady :

Let me but know these poor and base Depravers,

Lay but to my Revenge their Persons open,

And you shall see how suddenly, how fully,

For your most beauteous sake, how direfully

I'll handle their Despights. Is this thing one?

Be what he will.

Mir. Sir !

De Ga. Dare your malicious Tongue, Sir ?

Mir. I know you not, nor what you mean.

Oria. Good my Lord.

De Ga. If he, or any he.

Oria. I beseech your Honour.

This Gentleman's a Stranger to my knowledge,

And no doubt, Sir, a worthy Man.

De Ga. Your mercy ;

But had he been a Tainter of your Honour,

A Blaster of those Beauties reign within ye —

But we shall find a fitter time : Dear Lady,

As soon as I have freed ye from your Guardian,

And done some honour'd Offices unto ye,

I'll take ye with those Faults the World flings on ye ;

And dearer than the whole World I'll esteem ye.

[Exeunt.

Mir. This is a thundring Lord ; I'm glad I 'scap'd him :

How lovingly the Wench disclaim'd my Villany !

I am vex'd now heartily that he shall have her ;

Not that I care to marry, or to lose her ;

But that this Bilbo-Lord shall reap that Maidenhead

That was my due ; that he shall rig and top her —

I'd give a thousand Crowns now, he might miss her.

Enter a Servant.

Ser. Nay, if I bear your Blows, and keep your Counsel,

You have good Luck, Sir ; I'll teach ye to strike lighter.

Mir. Come hither, honest Fellow ; can'st thou tell me

Where this great Lord lies ? This Savoy Lord ? Thou met'st him ;

He now went by thee certain.

Ser. Yes, he did, Sir;
I know him, and I know you are fool'd.

Mir. Come hither,
Here's all this, give me Truth.

Ser. Not for your Money:
(And yet that may do much) but I have been beaten:
And by the worshipful Contrivers beaten, and I'll tell ye;
This is no Lord, no Savoy Lord.

Mir. Go forward.

Ser. This is a Trick, and put upon ye grossly
By one Lugier; the Lord's Monfieur De Gard, Sir,
An honest Gentleman, and a Neighbour here?
Their ends you understand better than I, sure.

Mir. Now I know him:
Know him now plain.

Ser. (35) I have discharg'd my Choler; so God b'y ye, Sir, [Exit.

Mir.

(35) I have discharg'd my Colours; —] For a Person to be discharg'd from his Colours is common, tho' for one to discharge his own Colours, is, I am afraid, a Phrase altogether unusual: But then what has the discharging of Colours, supposing it right, to do with the Discovery of De Gard's and Lugier's Plot, which the Servant has just made to Mirabell? why, just nothing at all. If therefore this Phrase be not English, or, if so, has no Business to stand here, we must either strike it out or correct it; the first is not allowable, the second not difficult. The Words of the Servant, at his Entrance just above, lead us to a Reading that will make all clear.

Enter Servant.

Ser. Nay, if I bear your Blows, and keep your Counsel,
You have good Luck, Sir; ———

Here we see he has been beaten, but by whom or for what 'tis no mighty matter. His Insolence, as he was intrusted with a Secret of Importance, rose to such an height that the Person before whom he show'd it, could not forbear correcting of it, by giving him a sound Drubbing; thinking upon this his Secrecy but ill repaid, he was resolv'd to blab, and luckily in that respect, he met with the only Man in the World to whom he could have unfolded his Mind; his Passion therefore he indulges, and out-goes the Secret; upon which 'tis natural enough to suppose him to say,

I have discharg'd my Choler; ———

i. e. Passion, &c. For as to quitting his Service, supposing that is meant

Mir. What a purblind Puppy was I ; now I remember him,
All the whole cast on's Face, though it were umber'd,
And mask'd with Patches : What a dunder-whelp
To let him domineer thus ? How he strutted,
And what a Load of Lord he clapt upon him !
Would I'd him here again, I would so bounce him,
I would so thank his Lordship for his lewd Plot——
Do they think to carry it away, with a great Band made of Bird-pots,
And a Pair of Pin-buttockt Breeches ? Ha ! 'Tis he Again, he comes, he comes, he comes ; have at him.

Enter De Gard, Oriana, &c.

Mir. [sings.] My Savoy Lord, why dost thou frown
on me ?
And will that Favour never sweeter be ?
Wilt thou, I say, for ever play the Fool ?
De Gard, be wise, and, Savoy, go to School.
My Lord De Gard, I thank ye for your Antick ;
My Lady bright, that will be sometimes frantick ;
You worthy Train that wait upon this Pair,
'Send you more Wit, and they a bouncing Baire,
And so I take my humble leave of your Honours. [Exit.
De G. We are discover'd, there's no Remedy.
Lillia Bianca's Man, upon my Life,
In stubbornness, because Lugier corrected him——
(36) (A shameless Slave ! plague on him for a Rascal.)
Oria. I was in a perfect hope ; the bane on't is now, meant by discharging his Colours, that he did not do, as is plain from the first Speech of the next Act,

—— thank your sweet Squire, here ;

And from Act 5. Scene 4. where Lillia says,

Get ye gone, Sirrah ;

And what ye have seen, be secret in : You are paid else,

No more of your long Tongue.

(36) A shameless Slave's plague on him for a Rascal.] What a shameless Slave's plague means, is possibly as much unknown to the Reader as myself. I dispute not but the Poet gave the Line thus,

A shameless Slave ! plague on him for a Rascal.

He will make Mirth on Mirth, to persecute us.

De Ga. We must be patient; I am vex'd to the Proof too,
I'll try once more; then if I fail, here's one speaks.

Oria. Let me be lost, and scorn'd first.

De Ga. Well, we'll consider,
Away, and let me shift; I shall be hooted else. [Exeunt.]

A C T IV. S C E N E I.

Enter Lugier, Lillia, and Servants.

Lug. FAINT not; but do as I direct ye, trust me;
Believe me too, for what I have told ye, Lady,
As true as you are Lillia, is Authentick;
I know it, I have found it; 'tis a poor Courage
Flies off for one Repulse; these Travellers
Shall find, before we have done, a home-spun Wit,
A plain French Understanding, may cope with 'em;
They have had the better yet, thank your sweet Squire, here;
And let 'em brag: You would be reveng'd.

Lil. Yes surely.

Lug. And married too? Lil. I think so.

Lug. Then be counsell'd,
You know how to proceed: I have other Irons
Heating as well as yours, and I will strike
Three Blows with one Stone home; be rul'd, and happy,
And so I leave ye. Now is the time. [Exit Lugier.]

Lil. I am ready,
If he (37) do come to Dor me.

Ser. Will ye stand here,
And let the People think, ye are God knows what, Mistress?

(37) —do come to do me.] This unmeaning Place I would reform thus,
If he do come to Dor me.

The Dor and to Dor are common in our Authors, and Ben Johnson's Writings. Thus in the Lower's Progress, the second Play after this, Act 1. Scene 1. Malfort says to Leon,

————— I wou'd not Receive the Dor. —————

Let

Let Boys and Prentices presume upon ye?

Lil. Prithee hold thy Peace.

Ser. Stand at his Door that hates ye?

Lil. Prithee leave prating.

Ser. 'Pray ye go to th' Tavern. I'll give ye a Pint of Wine there.

○ If any of the Mad-cap Gentlemen should come by,
That take up Women upon special Warrant,
You were in a wise Case now.

Enter Mirabell, Pinac, Mariana, Priest and Attendants.

Lil. Give me the Garland,
And wait you here.

Mir. She is here to seek thee, Sirrah:
I told thee what would follow; she is mad for thee;
Shew, and advance. So early stirring, Lady?
It shews a busy Mind, a Fancy troubled.
A willow Garland too? Is't possible?
'Tis pity so much Beauty should lie musty,
But 'tis not to be help'd now.

Lil. The more's my Misery!
Good Fortune to ye, Lady, you deserve it:
To me, too late Repentance; I have sought it:
I do not envy, though I grieve a little,
You are Mistress of that Happiness, those Joys
That might have been, had I been wise: But Fortune—

Pin. She understands ye not, 'pray ye do not trouble her';
And do not cross me like a Hare thus, 'tis as ominous.

Lil. I come not to upbraid your Levity,
(Though ye made shew of Love, and though I lik'd ye)
To claim an Interest; (we are yet both Strangers,
But what we might have been, had you persever'd, Sir,)
To be an Eye-fore to your loving Lady;
This Garland shews, I give myself forsaken;
(Yet she must pardon me, 'tis most unwillingly :)
And all the Power and Interest I had in ye,
(As I persuade myself, somewhat ye lov'd me;))
Thus patiently I render up, I offer
To her that must enjoy ye, and so bless ye;

Only, I heartily desire this Courtesy,
And would not be deny'd, to wait upon ye
This Day, to see ye ty'd, then no more trouble ye.

Pin. It needs not, Lady.

Lil. Good Sir, grant me so much.

Pin. 'Tis private, and we make no Invitation.

Lil. My Prefence, Sir, shall not proclaim it publick.

Pin. May be 'tis not in Town.

Lil. I have a Coach, Sir,

And a most ready Will to do you service.

Mir. Strike now or never ; make it sure : I tell thee,
She will hang herself, if she have thee not.

Pin. 'Pray ye, Sir,

Entertain my noble Mistrefs : Only a Word or two
With this importunate Woman, and I'll relieve ye,
Now ye see what your Flings are, and your Fancies,
Your States, and your wild Stubbornness ; now ye find
What 'tis to gird and kick at Mens fair Services,
To raise your Pride to such a Pitch and Glory,
That Goodness shews like Gnats, scorn'd under ye,
'Tis ugly, naught ; a Self-will in a Woman,
Chain'd to an over-weening Thought, is pestilent,
Murders fair Fortune first, then fair Opinion :
There stands a Pattern, a true patient Pattern,
Humble, and sweet.

Lil. I can but grieve my Ignorance.

Repentance, some say too, is the best Sacrifice ;
For sure, Sir, if my Chance had been so happy,
(As I confes I was mine own Destroyer)
As to have arriv'd at you ; (I will not Prophecy,)
But certain, as I think, I should have pleas'd ye ;
Have made ye as much wonder at my Courtesy,
My Love, and Duty, as I have dishearten'd ye ;
Some Hours we have of Youth, and some of Folly ;
And being free-born Maids, we take a Liberty,
And to maintain that, sometimes we strain highly.

Pin. Now ye talk Reason.

Lil. But being yoak'd, and govern'd,
Married, and those light Vanities purg'd from us ;

How

How fair we grow, how gentle, and how tender,
We twine about those Loves that shoot up with us!
A fullen Woman fear, that talks not to ye;
She has a sad and darken'd Soul, loves dully:
A merry and a free Wench, give her Liberty,
Believe her in the lightest Form she appears to ye,
Believe her excellent, though she despise ye;
Let but these Fits and Flashes pass, she will shew to ye
As Jewels rubb'd from Dust, or Gold new burnish'd:
Such had I been, had you believ'd.

Pin. Is't possible?

Lil. And to your Happiness, I dare assure ye
If true Love be accounted so: your Pleasure,
Your Will, and your Command had tied my Motions:
But that Hope's gone; I know you are young and giddy,
And till you have a Wife can govern with ye,
(38) You sail upon this World's-Sea, light and empty;
Your Bark in danger daily; 'tis not the Name neither
Of Wife can steer ye, but the noble Nature,
The Diligence, the Care, the Love, the Patience,
She makes the Pilot, and preserves the Husband,
That knows, and reckons every Rib he's built on;
But this I tell ye, to my Shame.

Pin. I admire ye,
And now am sorry, that I aim beyond ye.

Mir. So, so, so, fair and softly. She is thine own, Boy,
She comes now, without Lure.

Pin. But that it must needs
Be reckon'd to me as a Wantonness,
Or worse, a Madness, to forsake a Blessing,
A Blessing of that Hope ———

Lil. I dare not urge ye:
And yet, dear Sir ———

Pin. 'Tis most certain, I had rather, [woman,
If 'twere in my own Choice ——— for you're my Country-

(38) You sail upon this World-Sea, —] The Reader, I dare say, will be pleased to see this dark Place so well cleared up. The Text, with only the trifling Addition of a Letter, is from the Copy of 1652, which represents the Line thus,

You sail upon this World-Sea, light and empty.

A Neighbour, here born by me, she a Stranger :
And who knows how her Friends?—

Lil. Do as you please, Sir ;
If ye be fast, not all the World ; I love ye,
It is most true, and clear, I would persuade ye ;
And I shall love you still.

Pin. Go, get before me ;
So much you have won upon me ; do it presently ;
Here's a Priest ready ; I'll have you.

Lil. Not now, Sir,
No, you shall pardon me ; advance your Lady,
I dare not hinder your most high Preferment,
'Tis Honour enough for me I have unmask'd ye.

Pin. How's that ?

Lil. I've caught ye, Sir ; alas ! I am no States-Woman,
Nor no great Traveller, yet I have found ye,
I've found your Lady too, your beauteous Lady ;
I've found her Birth and Breeding too, her Discipline ;
Who brought her over, and who kept your Lady ;
And when he laid her by, what virtuous Nunnery
Receiv'd her in ; I have found all these : Are ye blank now ?
Methinks such travell'd Wisdoms should not fool thus ;
Such excellent Indiscretions —

Mir. How could she know this ? [Aside.

Lil. 'Tis true, she's English born, but most part French
now,

And so I hope you'll find her, to your Comfort.
Alas, I am ignorant of what she cost ye ;
The Price of these hired Clothes I do not know, Gentlemen ;
Those Jewels are the Brokers, how ye stand bound for 'em.

Pin. Will you make this good ?

Lil. Yes, yes, and to her Face, Sir,
That she's an English Whore, a kind of fling Dust,
One of your London Light o' Loves, a right one,
Came over in thin Pumps, and half a Petticoat,
One Faith, and one Smock, with a broken Haberdasher ;
I know all this without a Conjurer :
Her Name is Jumping-Joan, an antient Sin-Weaver ;
She was first a Lady's Chamber-maid, there slipp'd
And broke her Leg above the Knee ; departed,

And

And fet up Shop herself. Stood the fierce Conflicts
Of many a furious Term ; there lost her Colours,
And last ship'd over hither.

Mir. We are betray'd. [Aside.]

Lil. Do you come to fright me with this Mystery ?
To stir me with a Stink none can endure, Sir ?
I pray proceed, the Wedding will become ye ;
Who gives the Lady ? You ? An excellent Father :
A careful Man, and one that knows a Beauty.
Send ye fair Shipping, Sir, and so I'll leave ye,
Be wise and manly, then I may chance to love ye. [Exit.]

Mir. As I live, I am asham'd this Wench has reach'd me,
Monstrous asham'd, but there's no remedy,
This skew'd ey'd carrion.

Pin. This I suspected ever.
Come, come, uncase, we have no more use of ye ;
Your Clothes must back again.

Mar. Sir, ye shall pardon me ;
'Tis not our English use to be degraded :
If you will visit me, and take your Venture,
You shall have Pleasure for your Properties ;
(39) And so Sweet-heart—— [Exit Mariana.]

Mir. Let her go, and the Devil go with her ;
We have never better Luck with these Preludiums ;
Come, be not daunted ; think she is but a Woman,
And let her have the Devil's Wit, we'll reach her.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E II.

Enter Rosalure, and Lugier.

Ros. Ye have now redeem'd my good Opinion, Tutor,
And ye stand fair again.

Lug. I can but labour,
And sweat in your Affairs ; I am sure Belleur
Will be here instantly, and use his Anger,
His wonted Harshness.

(39) And so Sweet-heart] The Completion of the Sense is as well understood as if expressed, but if the Reader will have it out at length he may make it run thus,

And so Sweet-heart, God be with you.

Ros.

Rof. I hope he will not beat me.

Lug. No sure, he has more Manners; be you ready.

Rof. Yes, yes, I am, and am resolv'd to fit him,
With Patience to outdo all he can offer;
But how does Oriana?

Lug. Worse, and worse still;
There is a sad House for her: she is now,
Poor Lady, utterly distracted.

Rof. Pity!
Infinite Pity! 'Tis a handsom Lady,
That Mirabell's a Beast, worse than a Monster,
If this Affliction work not.

Enter Lillia-Bianca.

Lil. Are ye ready?
Belleur is coming on, here, hard behind me,
I have no Leisure to relate my Fortune.
Only I wish you may come off as handsomly,
Upon the Sign you know what.

[Exit.

Rof. Well, well, leave me,

Enter Belleur.

Bel. How now?

Rof. Ye are welcome, Sir.

Bel. 'Tis well ye have Manners:
That Court'fy again, and hold your Countenance staidly;
That Look's too light; take heed: so, sit ye down now,
And to confirm me that your Gall is gone,
Your Bitterness dispers'd, for so I'll have it:
Look on me stedfastly, and whatsoe'er I say to ye,
Move not, nor alter in your Face, ye are gone then;
For if you do express the least Distaste,
Or shew an angry Wrinkle, mark me, Woman,
We are now alone, I will so conjure thee;
The third Part of my Execution
Cannot be spoke.

Rof. I am at your Dispose, Sir.

Bel. Now rise, and woo me a little, let me hear that Faculty;

But

But touch me not, nor do not lye, I charge ye.
Begin now.

Ros. If so mean and poor a Beauty
May ever hope the Grace.

Bel. Ye cog, ye flatter,
Like a lewd Thing ye lie: May hope that Grace?
Why, what Grace canst thou hope for? Answer not,
For if thou dost, and liest again, I'll swinge thee:
Do not I know thee for a pestilent Woman?
And proud at both Ends? Be not angry,
Nor stir not o' your Life.

Ros. I am counsell'd, Sir.

Bel. Art thou not now (confess, for I'll have the Truth out)

As much unworthy of a Man of Merit,
Or any of ye all? nay, of meer Man,
Though he were crooked, cold, all Wants upon him?
Nay, of any dishonest thing that bears that Figure,
As Devils are of Mercy?

Ros. We are unworthy.

Bel. Stick to that Truth, and it may chance to save thee.
And is it not our Bounty that we take ye?
That we are troubled, vex'd, or tortur'd with ye
Our meer and special Bounty?

Ros. Yes.

Bel. Our Pity,
That for your Wickedness we swinge ye soundly;
Your Stubbornness, and your stout Hearts, we belabour ye,
Answer to that?

Ros. I do confess your Pity.

Bel. And dost thou not deserve in thine own Person?
Thou impudent, thou pert— Do not change Countenance.

Ros. I dare not, Sir.

Bel. For if ye do.

Ros. I am fettle'd.

Bel. Thou Wagtail, Peacock, Puppy, look on me,
I am a Gentleman.

Ros. It seems no less, Sir.

Bel. And darest thou in thy Surquedry?

Ros.

Rof. I beseech ye,
It was my Weakness, Sir, I did not view ye,
I took no notice of your noble Parts,
(40) Nor call'd your Person, nor your proper Fashion.

Bel. This is some amends yet.

Rof. I shall mend, Sir, daily,
And study to deserve.

Bel. Come a little nearer ;
Canst thou repent thy Villany ?

Rof. Most seriously.

Bel. And be ashamed ?

Rof. I am ashamed.

Bel. Cry.

Rof. It will be hard to do, Sir.

Bel. Cry now instantly ;
Cry monstrously, that all the Town may hear thee ;
Cry seriously, as if thou hadst lost thy Monkey ;
And as I like thy Tears——

Enter Lillia, and four Women laughing.

Rof. Now.

Bel. How ? how ? do you jeer me ?
Have ye broke your Bounds again, Dame ?

Rof. Yes, and laugh at ye,
And laugh most heartily.

Bel. What are these, Whirl-winds ?
Is Hell broke loose, and all the Furies flutter'd ?
Am I greas'd once again ?

Rof. Yes indeed are ye ;
And once again ye shall be, if ye quarrel ;
Do you come to vent your Fury on a Virgin ?
Is this your Manhood, Sir ?

Wom. Let him do his best,
Let's see the utmost of his Indignation ;
I long to see him angry ; Come, proceed, Sir.

(40) Nor called your Person, nor your proper Fashion.] If the Passage was designed to be imperfect by the Poet, 'tis to no Purpose to undertake the Correction of it ; if not, probably we should alter called into something like skill'd, i. e. had no Knowledge of, or did not know your Person, &c. was so proper.

Hang him, he dares not stir, a Man of Timber.

2 Wom. Come hither to fright Maids with thy Bull-faces ?

To threaten Gentlewomen ? Thou a Man ? A May-Pole,
A great dry Pudding.

3 Wom. Come, come, do your worst, Sir ;
Be angry if thou dar'st.

Bel. The Lord deliver me !

4 Wom. Do but look scurvily upon this Lady,
Or give us one foul Word—We are all mistaken,
This is some mighty Dairy-maid in Man's Clothes.

Lil. I am of that mind too.

Bel. What will they do to me ? [Afide.

Lil. And hired to come and abuse us ; a Man has Manners ;

A Gentleman, Civility and Breeding :
Some Tinker's Trull, with a Beard glew'd on.

1 Wom. Let's search him,
And as we find him.

Bel. Let me but depart from ye,
Sweet Christian-Women.

Lil. Hear the Thing speak, Neighbours.

Bel. 'Tis but a small Request ; if e'er I trouble ye,
If e'er I talk again of beating Women,
Or beating any thing that can but turn to me ;
Of ever thinking of a handsom Lady
But virtuously and well, of ever speaking
But to her Honour ; this I'll promise ye,
I will take Rhubarb, and purge Choler mainly,
Abundantly I'll purge,

Lil. I'll send ye Broths, Sir.

Bel. I will be laugh'd at, and endure it patiently,
I will do any thing.

Rof. I'll be your Bail then ;
When ye come next to woo, 'pray come not boisterously,
And furnish'd like a Bear-ward,

Bel. No in truth, Forsooth.

Rof. I scented ye long since.

Bel. I was to blame fure,
I will appear a Gentleman.

Rof.

Rof. 'Tis the best for ye,
For a true noble Gentleman's a brave thing;
Upon that hope we quit ye. You fear seriously?

Bel. Yes truly do I; I confess I fear ye,
And honour ye, and any thing.

Rof. Farewel then.

Wom. And when ye come to woo next bring more Mercy.
[Exeunt.]

Enter two Gentlemen.

Bel. A Dairy-maid! a Tinker's Trull! Heav'n blefs me!
Sure if I had provok'd 'em, they had quarter'd me.
I am a most ridiculous Afs, now I perceive it;
A Coward, and a Knave too.

1 Gent. 'Tis the mad Gentleman,
Let's fet our Faces right.

Bel. No, no, laugh at me,
And laugh aloud.

2 Gent. We are better manner'd, Sir.

Bel. I do deserve it; call me Patch, and Puppy,
And beat me if you please.

1 Gent. No indeed, we know ye.

Bel. Death, do as I would have ye.

2 Gent. You are an Afs then,
A Coxcomb, and a Calf.

Bel. I am a great Calf,
Kick me a little now: Why, when? Sufficient:
Now laugh aloud, and scorn me; so God b'ye;
And ever when ye meet me laugh.

1 Gent. We will, Sir.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E III.

Enter Nantolet, La Castre, De Gard, Lugier, and Mirabell.

Mir. Your Patience, Gentlemen: Why do ye bait me?

Nan. Is't not a shame you are so stubborn-hearted,
So stony and so dull to such a Lady,
Of her Perfections, and her Misery?

Lug.

Lug. Does she not love ye? Does not her Distraction
For your sake only, her most pitied Lunacy
(41) Of all but you, shew ye? Does it not compel ye?

Mir. Soft and fair, Gentlemen, pray ye proceed temperately.

Lug. If ye have any Feeling, any Sense in ye,
The least Touch of a noble Heart——

La Ca. Let him alone,
It is his Glory that he can kill Beauty.
Ye bear my Stamp, but not my Tenderneſs;
Your wild unfavoury Courses ſet that in ye!
For ſhame, be ſorry, though ye cannot cure her,
Shew ſomething of a Man, of a fair Nature.

Mir. Ye make me mad.

De Ga. Let me pronounce this to ye,
You take a ſtrange Felicity in ſlighting
And wronging Women, which my poor Siſter feels now,
Heav'n's Hand be gentle on her: Mark me, Sir,
That very Hour ſhe dies, there's ſmall hope otherwiſe,
That Minute, you and I muſt grapple for it;
Either your Life or mine.

Mir. Be not ſo hot, Sir,
I am not to be wrought on by theſe Policies,
In truth I am not; nor do I fear the Tricks,
Or the high-founding Threats of a Savoyan;
I glory not in Cruelty, ye wrong me;
Nor grow up water'd with the Tears of Women;
This let me tell ye, howſoe'er I ſhew to ye,
Wild, as ye pleaſe to call it, or ſelf-will'd;
When I ſee cauſe I can both do and ſuffer,
Freely, and feelingly, as a true Gentleman.

Enter Roſalure, and Lillia.

Rof. O Pity, Pity, thouſand, thouſand Pities!

Lil. Alas poor Soul! ſhe will die; ſhe is grown ſenſeleſs;

(41) Of all but you, ſhew ye? Does it not compel ye?] The true Reading. I make no doubt, is ſue ye; i. e. Does not the Diſtraction of this unhappy Lady, for your ſake, court you, and even compel you to gratify her? This Correction does not only make the Place more expreſſive, but handſomly introduces the half Line that follows it.

She will not know, nor speak now.

Rof. Die for Love?

And Love of such a Youth? I'd die for a Dog first.
He that kills me, I'll give him leave to eat me;
I'll know Men better, e'er I fight for any of 'em.

Lil. Ye have done a worthy act, Sir, a most famous;
Ye have kill'd a Maid the wrong way, ye are a Conqueror,

Rof. A Conqueror? A Cobler; hang him Sowter;
Go hide thyself for shame, go lose thy Memory,
Live not 'mongst Men, thou art a Beast, a Monster,
A blatant Beast.

Lil. If ye have yet any Honesty,
Or ever heard of any, take my Counsel;
Off with your Garters, and seek out a Bough,
A handsom Bough; for I would have ye hang like a
Gentleman;

And write some doleful Matter to the World,
A Warning to hard-hearted Men.

Mir. Out Kitlings:

What Catterwauling's here? What Gibing?
Do you think my Heart is softened with a black Santis?
Shew me some Reason.

Enter Oriana on a Bed.

Rof. Here then, here is a Reason.

Nant. Now, if ye be a Man, let this Sight shake ye.

La Ca. Alas poor Gentlewoman! do you know me,
Lady?

Lug. How she looks up, and stares!

Oria. I know ye very well;

You are my Godfather, and that's the Monsieur.

De Ga. And who am I?

Oria. You are Amadis de Gaul, Sir.

Oh, oh, my Heart! were ye never in Love, sweet Lady?

And do you never dream of Flowers and Gardens?

I dream of walking Fires; take heed, it comes now.

Who's that? Pray stand away, I have seen that Face sure;

How light my Head is!

Rof. Take some Rest.

Oria. I cannot,

For I must be up to-morrow to go to Church,
And I must dress me, put my new Gown on,
And be as fine to meet my Love: Heigh ho!
Will not you tell me where my Love lies buried?

Mir. He is not dead: Beshrew my Heart, she stirs me.
[Aside.]

Oria. He is dead to me.

Mir. Is't possible my Nature
Should be so damnable, to let her suffer? [Aside.]
Give me your Hand.

Oria. How soft you feel, how gentle!
I'll tell your your Fortune, Friend.

Mir. How she stares on me! [Aside.]

Oria. You have a flattering Face, but 'tis a fine one;
I warrant you have a hundred Sweet-hearts;
Will ye pray for me? I shall die to-morrow,
And will ye ring the Bells?

Mir. I am most unworthy,
I do confess, unhappy; [Aside.] Do you know me?

Oria. I would I did.

Mir. Oh fair Tears, how ye take me! [Aside.]

Oria. Do you weep too? You have not lost your Lover;
You mock me; I'll go home and pray.

Mir. Pray ye pardon me:
Or if it please ye to consider justly,
Scorn me, for I deserve it: Scorn and shame me,
Sweet Oriana.

Lil. Let her alone, she trembles;
Her Fits will grow more strong, if ye provoke her.

La Ca. Certain she knows ye not, yet loves to see ye:
How she smiles now!

Enter Belleur.

Bel. (42) Where are ye? Oh, why do not you laugh?
Come laugh at me;

What

(42) Where are ye? Oh, why do you laugh? Come laugh at me;
What a Contradiction is here in these few Words?

— Why do you laugh at me? Come laugh at me;
And yet, as plain as it is, I read this Passage several times over, without observing it; and 'tis owing to the Copy of 1652; that the Writers
Q 2 have

What a Devil, art thou sad, and such a Subject,
Such a ridiculous Subject as I am
Before thy Face?

Mir. Prithee put off this Lightness,
This is no time for Mirth, nor Place; I have us'd too much on't:

I have undone myself, and a sweet Lady,
By being too indulgent to my Foolery,
Which truly I repent; look here.

Bel. What ails she?

Mir. Alas, she's mad.

Bel. Mad?

Mir. Yes too sure, for me too.

Bel. Dost thou wonder at that? (43) by this good Light they're all so,
They're coz'ning mad, they're brawling mad, they're proud mad;
They're all, all mad; I came from a World of mad
Women,
Mad as March-Hares: Get 'em in Chains, then deal
with 'em.
There's one that's mad; she seems well, but she is dog-
mad.

Is she dead dost think?

Mir. Dead! Heav'n forbid!

Bel. Heav'n further it;

For till they be Key-cold dead, there's no trusting of 'em.
Whate'er they seem, or howsoe'er they carry it,
Till they be Chap-faln, and their Tongues at Peace,
Nail'd in their Coffins sure, I'll ne'er believe 'em.
Shall I talk with her?

Mir. No, dear Friend, be quiet,
And be at Peace a while.

Bel. I'll walk aside,
And come again anon: But take heed to her.

have their own. The Abruptness of Belleur's coming upon the Stage
I have prevented the Reader's Surprise at, by inserting,
Enter Belleur, before he speaks.

(43) By this Light they are all so,] Thus read the Copies of every Date, but that of 1652.

You

You say she is a Woman?

Mir. Yes.

Bel. Take great heed:

For if she do not cozen thee, then hang me.

Let her be mad, or what she will, she'll cheat thee——

[Exit.

Mir. Away, wild Fool: How vild this shews in him
now!

Now take my Faith, before ye all I speak it,
And with it, my repentant Love.

La Ca. This seems well.

Mir. Were but this Lady clear again, whose Sorrows
My very Heart melts for, were she but perfect,
(For thus to marry her would be two Miseries)
Before the richest and the noblest Beauty,
France, or the World could shew me, I would take her;
As she now is, my Tears and Prayers shall wed her.

De Ga. This makes some small Amends.

Ros. She beckons to ye.

To us too, to go off.

Nant. Let's draw aside all.

Oria. Oh my best Friend; I would fain.

Mir. What? she speaks well,
And with another Voice.

Oria. But I am fearful,
And Shame a little stops my Tongue.

Mir. Speak boldly.

Oria. Tell ye, I'm well, I'm perfect well: Pray ye mock not;

And that I did this to provoke your Nature;
Out of my infinite and restless Love,
To win your Pity; pardon me.

Mir. Go forward:

Who set ye on?

Oria. None, as I live, no Creature;
Not any knew, or ever dream'd what I meant:
Will ye be mine?

Mir. 'Tis true, I pity ye;
But when I marry ye, ye must be wiser.
Nothing but Tricks? Devices?

Oria. Will ye shame me?

Mir. Yes marry will I: Come near, come near, a Miracle;
The Woman's well; she was only mad for Marriage,
Stark mad to be ston'd to Death; give her good Counsel,
Will this World never mend? Are ye caught, Damsel?

Enter Belleur, La Castre, Lugier, Nantolet, De Gard, Rosalure, and Bianca.

Bel. How goes it now?

Mir. Thou art a kind of Prophet,
The Woman's well again, and would have gull'd me;
Well, excellent well; and not a Taint upon her.

Bel. Did not I tell ye? Let 'em be what can be,
Saints, Devils, any thing, they will abuse us;
Thou wert an Ass to believe her so long, a Coxcomb;
Give 'em a Minute they'll abuse whole Millions.

Mir. And am not I a rare Physician, Gentlemen,
That can cure desperate mad Minds?

De Ga. Be not insolent.

Mir. Well, go thy ways: From this Hour I disclaim
thee,
Unless thou hast a Trick above this: Then I'll love thee.
Ye owe me for your Cure; pray have a Care of her,
For fear she fall into Relapse. Come Belleur,
We'll set up Bills to cure diseased Virgins.

Bel. Shall we be merry?

Mir. Yes.

Bel. But I'll no more Projects:
If we could make 'em mad, it were some Mastery. [Exit

Lil. I am glad she is well again.

Rof. So am I, certain:

Be not ashamed.

Oria. I shall never see a Man more.

De Ga. Come, ye are a Fool; had ye but told me this Trick,

He should not have gloried thus.

Lug. He shall not long neither.

La Ca. Be rul'd, and be at Peace: ye have my Consent
And what Power I can work with.

Nant. Come, leave blushing;
We are your Friends; an honest way compell'd ye;
Heav'n will not see so true a Love unrecompenc'd;
Come in, and slight him too.

Lug. The next shall hit him. [Exeunt.]

A C T V. S C E N E I.

Enter De Gard, and Lugier.

De Ga. 'T W I L L be discover'd.

Lug. That's the worst can happen:
If there be any way to reach, and work upon him;
Upon his Nature suddenly, and catch him—That he loves,
Though he dissemble it, and would shew contrary,
And will at length relent, I'll lay my Fortune,
Nay, more, my Life.

De Ga. Is she won?

Lug. Yes, and ready,
And my Designments set.

De Ga. They are now for Travel;
All for that Game again; they have forgot wooing.

Lug. Let 'em, we'll travel with 'em.

De Ga. Where's his Father?

Lug. Within; he knows my Mind too, and allows it,
Pities your Sister's Fortune most sincerely;
And has appointed, for our more Assistance,
Some of his secret Friends.

De Ga. 'Speed the Plough.

Lug. Well said;
And be you serious too.

De Ga. I shall be diligent.

Lug. Let's break the Ice for one, the rest will drink too (Believe me, Sir) of the same Cup; my young Gentle-
women

Wait but who sets the Game a-foot; tho' they seem stubborn,

Reserv'd, and proud now, yet I know their Hearts,
 Their Pulses how they beat, and for what Cause, Sir,
 And how they long to venture their Abilities
 In a true Quarrel: Husbands they must and will have,
 Or Nunneries, and thin Collations
 To cool their Bloods: Let's all about our Business,
 And if this fail, let Nature work.

De Ga. Ye have arm'd me.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter Mirabell, Nantolet and La Castre.

La Ca. Will ye be wilful then?

Mir. 'Pray, Sir, your Pardon,
 For I must travel; lye lazy here,
 Bound to a Wife? Chain'd to her Subtleties,
 Her Humours, and her Wills, which are meer Fetters;
 To have her to-day pleas'd, to-morrow peevish,
 The third Day mad, the fourth rebellious?
 You see, before they are marry'd, what Moriscoes,
 What Masks and Mummeries they put upon us,
 To be ty'd here, and suffer their Lavalto's?

Nant. 'Tis your own seeking.

Mir. Yes, to get my Freedom;
 Were they as I could wish 'em——

La Ca. Fools, and Meacocks,
 To endure what you think fit to put upon 'em;
 Come, change your Mind.

Mir. Not before I have chang'd Air, Father.
 When I know Women worthy of my Company,
 I will return again and wait upon 'em;
 'Till then, dear Sir, I'll amble all the World over,
 And run all Hazards, Misery, and Poverty,

Enter Pinac and Belleur.

So I escape the dangerous Bay of Matrimony.

Pin. Are ye resolv'd?

Mir. Yes certain; I will out again.

Pin.

Pin. We are for ye, Sir ; we are your Servants once more ;

Once more we'll seek our Fortune in strange Countries ;
Ours is too scornful for us.

Bel. Is there ne'er a Land
That ye have read, or heard of, (for I care not how far it be,

Nor under what pestiferous Star it lies)
A happy Kingdom where there are no Women ?
Nor have been ever ? Nor no mention
Of any such lewd things, with lewder Qualities ?
For thither would I travel ; where 'tis Felony
To confess ye had a Mother ; a Mistres, Treason.

La Ca. Are you for Travel too ?

Bel. For any thing ;
For living in the Moon, and stopping Hedges,
Ere I stay here to be abus'd, and baff'd.

Nant. Why did ye not break your Minds to me ; they are my Daughters ;
And sure I think I should have that Command over 'em,
To see 'em well bestow'd : I know ye are Gentlemen,
Men of fair Parts and States ; I know your Parents ;
And had ye told me of your fair Affections——
Make but one Trial more, and let me second ye.

Bel. No, I'll make Hob-nails first, and mend old Kettles :
Can ye lend me an Armour of high Proof, to appear in,
And two or three Field-pieces to defend me ?
The King's Guard are meer Pygmies.

Nant. They will not eat ye.

Bel. Yes, and you too, and twenty fatter Monsieurs,
If their high Stomachs hold : They came with Chopping-
Knives,

To cut me into Rands, and Sirloins, and so powder me.
Come, shall we go ?

Nant. You cannot be so discourteous,
If ye intend to go, as not to visit 'em,
And take your leaves.

Mir. That we dare do, and civilly,
And thank 'em too.

Pin.

Pin. Yes, Sir, we know that (44) Honesty.

Bel. I'll come i'th' Rear, forty Foot off, I'll assure ye,
With a good Gun in my Hand; I'll no more Amazons,
I mean no more of their Frights; I'll make my three Legs,

Kiss my Hand twice, and if I smell no Danger,
If the Interview be clear, may be I'll speak to her;
I'll wear a privy Coat too, and behind me,
To make those Parts secure, a Bandog.

La Ca. You are a merry Gentleman.

Bel. A wary Gentleman, I do assure ye,
I have been warn'd, and must be arm'd.

La Ca. Well, Son,
These are your hasty Thoughts, when I see you are bent
to it,

Then I'll believe, and join with ye, so we'll leave ye.
There's a Trick will make ye stay.

Nant. I hope so.

[Exeunt.

Mir. We have won immortal Fame now, if we leave
'em.

Pin. You have, but we have lost.

Mir. Pinac, thou art cozen'd;
I know they love ye; and to gain ye handsomly,
Not to be thought to yield, they would give Millions;
Their Father's willingness, that must needs shew ye—

Pin. If I thought so.

Mir. Ye shall be hang'd, ye Recreant,
Would ye turn Renegado now?

Bel. No, let's away, Boys,
Out of the Air and Tumult of their Villanies;
Though I were married to that Grasshopper,
And had her fast by th' Legs, I should think she would cozen me.

Enter a young Factor.

Fac. Monsieur Mirabell, I take it?

Mir. Y'are i'th' right, Sir.

(44) —Honesty.] i. e. Good-breeding, Good-manners.

Fac.

Fac. I am come to seek ye, Sir; I have been at your Father's,
And understanding you were here.

Mir. Ye are welcome:
May I crave your Name?

Fac. Fofs, Sir, and your Servant;
That you may know me better, I am Factor
To your old Merchant, Le Verdure.

Mir. How does he?

Fac. Well, Sir, I hope, he is now at Orleante,
About some Bufiness.

Mir. You are once more welcome;
Your Master's a right honest Man, and one
I am much beholding to, and must very shortly
Trouble his Love again.

Fac. You may be bold, Sir.

Mir. Your Bufiness if you please now?

Fac. This it is, Sir.

I know ye well remember in your Travel
A Genoa Merchant.

Mir. I remember many.

Fac. But this Man, Sir, particularly; your own Benefit
Must needs imprint him in ye: One Alberto,
A Gentleman you fav'd from being murder'd
A little from Bollonia.

I was then myself in Italy, and supply'd ye,
Though haply, you have forgot me now.

Mir. No, I remember ye,

And that Alberto too; a noble Gentleman!
More to remember were to thank myself, Sir.
What of that Gentleman?

Fac. He is dead.

Mir. I am sorry.

Fac. But on his Death-bed, leaving to his Sister
All that he had, beside some certain Jewels,
Which, with a Ceremony, he bequeath'd to you,
In grateful Memory; he commanded strictly
His Sister, as she lov'd him and his Peace,
To see those Jewels safe, and true deliver'd;
And with them, his last Love. She, as tender to Observe

Observe his Will, not trusting Friend nor Servant
With such a Weight, is come herself to Paris,
And's at my Master's House.

Mir. You tell me a Wonder.

Fac. I tell ye a Truth, Sir: She is young and handsome,

And well attended; of much State and Riches;
So loving, and obedient to her Brother,
That on my Conscience, if he had given her also,
She would most willingly have made her tender.

Mir. May not I see her?

Fac. She desires it heartily.

Mir. And presently?

Fac. She is now about some Business,
Passing Accounts of some few Debts here owing,
And buying Jewels of a Merchant.

Mir. Is she wealthy?

Fac. I would ye had her, Sir, at all Adventure:
Her Brother had a main State.

Mir. And fair too?

Fac. The Prime of all those Parts of Italy,
For Beauty, and for Courtesie.

Mir. I must needs see her.

Fac. 'Tis all her Business, Sir. Ye may now see her,
But to morrow will be fitter for your Visitation,
For she is not yet prepared.

Mir. Only her Sight, Sir,
And when you shall think fit, for further Visit.

Fac. Sir, ye may see her, and I'll wait your coming.

Mir. And I'll be with ye instantly: I know the House,
Mean time, my Love, and Thanks, Sir.

Fac. Your poor Servant. ———

[Exit.

Pin. Thou hast the strangest Luck. (45) What was that Alberto?

Mir.

(45) ——— strangest Luck, what was that?] Mirabell must know Pinac's Meaning by his Mumping, if this is to stand 'so. For the Reader's Diversion I will give him the Text of the Copy of 1679, and that of 1711, and by this Means he will be better satisfied with the true Reading when 'tis shewn him.

Fac.

Mir. An honest noble Merchant, 'twas my Chance
To rescue from some Rogues had almost slain him,
And he in Kindness to remember this.

Bel. Now we shall have you,
For all your Protestations, and your Forwardness,
Find out strange Fortunes in this Lady's Eyes,
And new Enticements to put off your Journey ;
And who shall have Honour then ?

Mir. No, no, never fear it :
I must needs see her to receive my Legacy.

Bel. If it be ty'd up in her Smock, Heav'n help thee :
May not we see too ?

Mir. Yes, afore we go.
I must be known myself e'er I be able
To make thee welcome : Wouldst thou see more Women ?
I thought you had been out of Love with all.

Bel. I may be,
I find that, with the least Encouragement ;
Yet I desire to see whether all Countries
Are naturally possess'd with the same Spirits,
For if they be, I'll take a Monastery,
And never travel ; for I had rather be a Frier,
And live mew'd up, than be a Fool, and flouted.

Mir. Well, well, I'll meet ye anon, then tell you more, Boys ;

Fac. Your poor Servant — Exit Alberto.

Pin. Thou hast the strangest Luck, what was that ?

Thus reads the Copy of 1679. The Editor of 1711 coming to this Place, and seeing Exit Alberto, rightly concluded, as he thought, that Alberto being none of the Dramatis Personæ, of consequence had no Right to stand after Exit, and so at one Dash strikes him out and reads, Fac. Your poor Servant — Exit.

but had he consider'd that the ? stood in the wrong Place, and that Alberto was put above its proper Line, by not having Room in the Page to stand in its Order, it would easily have made him see, that the Copy of 1679, which mostly is the Authority he follows in that (1711) Edition, was exceeding right, and Alberto was as necessary to be kept in the Text after Exit, as Exit after your poor Servant, and that the whole should have run thus,

—— strangest Luck, what was that Alberto ?

and then Mirabell's Answer is clear as the Light.

Howe'er

Howe'er stand prepar'd, (46) prest for our Journey;
For certain, we shall go, I think, when I have seen her,
And view'd her well.

Pin. Go, go, and we'll wait for ye;
Your Fortune directs ours.

Bel. You shall find us i'th' Tavern,
Lamenting in Sack and Sugar for our Losses;
If she be right Italian, and want Servants,
You may prefer the prop'rest Man——
How I could

Worry a Woman now? Pin. Come, come, leave prating;
Ye may have enough to do, without this boasting.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E III.

Enter Lugier, De Gard, Rosalure, and Lillia.

Lug. This is the last Adventure.

De Ga. And the happiest,

As we hope too.

Ros. We should be glad to find it.

Lil. Who shall conduct us thither?

Lug. Your Man is ready,

For I must not be seen; no, nor this Gentleman;

That may beget Suspicion; all the rest

Are People of no Doubt; I would have ye, Ladies,

Keep your old Liberties, and do as we instruct ye:

Come, look not pale, you shall not lose your Wishes,

Nor beg 'em neither, but be yourselves, and happy.

Ros. I tell ye true, I cannot hold off longer,
Nor give no more hard Language.

De Ga. You shall not need.

Ros. I love the Gentleman, and must now show it;
Shall I beat a proper man out of Heart?

Lug. There's none advises ye.

Lil. 'Faith I repent me too.

Lug. Repent, and spoil all;
Tell what you know, ye had best.

(46) Prest] Prepar'd, ready.

Lil.

Lil. I'll tell what I think ;
For if he ask me now, if I can love him,
I'll tell him yes, I can : The Man's a kind Man,
And out of his true Honesty affects me,
Although he plaid the Fool, which I requited,
Must I still hold him at the Staves end ?

Lug. You are two strange Women.

Rof. We may be, if we fool still.

Lug. Dare ye believe me ?

Follow but this Advice I have set you in now,
And if ye lose—Would ye yield now so basely ;
Give up without your Honours saved ?

De Ga. Fie, Ladies.

Preserve your Freedom still.

Lil. Well, well, for this time.

Lug. And carry that full State.

Rof. That's as the Wind stands ;

If it begin to chop about, and scant us,
Hang me—but I know what I'll do ; come direct us,
I make no doubt, we shall do handsomely.

De Ga. Some Part o' the way we'll wait upon you,
Ladies ;

The rest your Man supplies.

Lug. Do well, I'll honour ye.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E. IV.

Enter Factor and Mirabell, Oriana, and two Merchants.

Fac. Look ye, Sir, there she is, you see how busie ;
Methinks you are infinitely bound to her, for her Journey.

Mir. How gloriously she shews ! She is a tall Woman.

Fac. Of a fair Size, Sir. My Master not being at home,
I have been so out of my Wits, to get her Company :
I mean, Sir, of her own fair Sex, and Fashion.

Mir. Afar off, she is most fair too.

Fac. Near, 'most excellent.

At length, I have entreated two fair Ladies,
And happily you know 'em, the young Daughters
Of Monsieur Nantolet.

Mir.

Mir. I know 'em well, Sir.
What are those? Jewels?

Fac. All.

Mir. They make a rich shew?

Fac. There is a matter of ten thousand Pounds too
Was owing here: You see those Merchants with her;
They have brought it in now.

Mir. How handsomely her Shape shews!

Fac. Those are still neat: Your Italians are most curious:
Now she looks this way.

Mir. She has a goodly Presence,
How full of Courtesie? Well, Sir, I'll leave ye,
And if I may be bold to bring a Friend or two,
Good noble Gentlemen ———

Fac. No doubt, ye may, Sir.
For you have most command.

Mir. I have seen a Wonder.

[Exit.

Oria. Is he gone?

Fac. Yes.

Oria. How?

Fac. Taken to the utmost,
A Wonder dwells about him.

Oria. He did not guess at me?

Fac. No, be secure; ye shew another Woman,
He is gone to fetch his Friends.

Oria. Where are the Gentlewomen?

Fac. Here, here, now they are come,
Sit still, and let them see ye.

Enter Rosalure, Lillia, and Servant.

Ros. Pray ye, where's my Friend, Sir?

Fac. She is within, Ladies, but here's another Gentle-
woman,

A stranger to this Town: So please you visit her,
'Twill be well taken.

Lil. Where is she?

Fac. There, above, Ladies.

Ser. 'Bless me: What thing is this? Two Pinacles
Upon her Pate! Is't not a Glode to catch Wood-cocks?

Ros. Peace, ye rude Knave.

Ser.

Ser. What a bouncing Bum she has too!
There's Sail enough for a Garrack.

Rof. What is this Lady?
For as I live, she's a goodly Woman.

Fac. Guess, guess.

Lil. I have not seen a nobler Presence.

Ser. 'Tis a lusty Wench: Now could I spend my Forty-pence,

With all my Heart, to have but one fling at her;
To give her but a washing blow.

Lil. Ye Rascal.

Ser. Ay that's all a Man has for's good will: 'Twill be long enough,
Before ye cry, Come Anthony and kifs me.

Lil. I'll have ye whipt.

Rof. Has my Friend seen this Lady?

Fac. Yes, yes, and is well known to her.

Rof. I much admire her Presence.

Lil. So do I too:

For I protest, she is the handsomest,
The rarest, and the newest to mine Eye
That ever I saw yet.

Rof. I long to know her;
My Friend shall do that Kindness.

Oria. So she shall Ladies,
Come, pray ye come up.

Rof. O me!

Lil. Hang me if I knew her:
Were I a Man myself, I should now love ye;
Nay, I should doat.

Rof. I dare not trust mine Eyes;
For as I live ye are the strangeliest alter'd;
I must come up to know the Truth.

Ser. So must I, Lady:
For I am a kind of Unbeliever too.

Lil. Get ye gone, Sirrah;
And what ye have seen, be secret in: You are paid else,
No more of your long Tongue.

Fac. Will ye go in Ladies,
And talk with her? These Venturers will come straight:

Away with this Fellow.

Lil. There Sirrah, go disport ye.

Ser. I would the trunk-hos'd Woman would go with [me
[Exit.

S C E N E V.

Enter Mirabell, Pinac, and Belleur.

Pin. Is she so glorious handsome?

Mir. You would wonder;

Our Women look like Gipsies, like Gills to her;
Their Cloaths and Fashions beggarly, and Bankrupt,
Base, old, and scurvy.

Bel. How looks her Face?

Mir. Most heav'nly;

And the becoming Motion of her Body
So sets her off.

Bel. Why then we shall stay.

Mir. Pardon me,

That's more than I know, if she be that Woman,
She appears to be.——

Bel. As 'tis impossible.

Mir. I shall then tell ye more.

Pin. Did ye speak to her?

Mir. No, no, I only saw her, she was busie;
Now I go for that End; and mark her, Gentlemen,
If she appear not to ye one o' th' sweetest,
The handsomest, the fairest in Behaviour——
We shall meet the two
Wenches there too, they come to visit her,
To wonder, as we do.

Pin. Then we shall meet 'em.

Bel. I had rather meet two Bears.

Mir. There you may take your Leaves, dispatch that Business,

And as ye find their Humours.

Pin. Is your Love there too?

Mir. No certain, she has no great Heart to set out again.
This is the House, I'll usher ye.

Bel. I'll bless me,

And take a good Heart if I can.

Mir. Come, nobly.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E VI.

Enter Factor, Rofalure, Lillia, and Oriana.

Fac. They are come in ; fit you two off as Strangers,

Enter Boy.

There Lady : Where's the Boy ? be ready, Sirrah,
And clear your Pipes ; the Musick now ; they enter. [Musick.

Enter Mirabell, Pinac, and Belleur.

Pin. What a State she keeps ! How far off they sit from her !

How rich she is ! I marry, this shews bravely.

Bel. She is a lusty Wench, and may allure a good Man,
But if she have a Tongue, I'll not give Two-Pence for her :

There fits my Fury, how I shake to see her !

Fac. Madam, this is the Gentleman.

Mir. How sweet she kisses!

[Aside.

She has a Spring dwells on her Lips, a Paradise ;
This is the Legacy.

S O N G.

*From the honour'd dead I bring
Thus his Love and last Off'ring.
Take it nobly, 'tis your due,
From a Friendship ever true.
From a Faith, &c.*

Ori. Most noble, Sir,
This from my now dead Brother, as his Love,
And grateful Memory of your great Benefit ;
From me my Thanks, my Wishes, and my Service.
'Till I am more acquainted I am silent,
Only I dare say this, you are truly Noble.

Mir. What should I think ?

Pin. Think ye have a handsome Fortune,
Would I had such another.

Rof. Ye are well met, Gentlemen,

We hear ye are for Travel?

Pin. Ye hear true, Lady,
And come to take our Leaves.

Lil. We'll along with ye,
We see you are grown so witty by your Journey,
We cannot chuse but step out too: This Lady
We mean to wait upon as far as Italy.

Bel. I'll travel into Wales, amongst the Mountains;
I hope they cannot find me.

Rof. If you go further,
So good and free Society we hold ye,
We'll jog along too.

Pin. Are ye so valiant, Lady?

Lil. And we'll be merry, Sir, and laugh.

Pin. It may be
We'll go by Sea.

Lil. Why 'tis the only Voyage;
I love a Sea-voyage, and a blustering Tempest;
And let all split.

Pin. This is a dainty Damsel:
I think 'twill tame ye: Can ye ride Post?

Lil. O excellently: I am never weary that way;
A hundred Mile a Day is nothing with me.

Bel. I'll travel under Ground. [Aside.] Do you hear, sweet Lady?

I find it will be dangerous for a Woman.

Rof. No danger, Sir, I warrant; I love to be under.

Bel. I see she will abuse me all the World over:
But say we pass through Germany, and drink hard?

Rof. We'll learn to drink and swagger too.

Bel. She'll beat me. [Aside.
Lady, I'll live at Home.

Rof. And I'll live with thee;
And we'll keep House together.

Bel. I'll keep Hounds first;
And those I hate right heartily.

Pin. I go for Turky,
And so it may be up into Persia.

Lil. We cannot know too much, I'll travel with ye.

Pin. And you'll abuse me?

Lil. Like enough.

Pin.

Pin. 'Tis dainty.

Bel. I will live in a Bawdy-house.

Rof. I dare come to ye.

Bel. Say, I'm dispos'd to hang myself?

Rof. There I'll

Leave ye. Bel. I am glad I know how to avoid ye.

Mir. May I speak yet? Fac. She beckens to ye. Mir.
Lady,

I could wish I knew how to recompence,
Even with the Service of my Life, those Pains,
And those high Favours you have thrown upon me;
Till I be more desertful in your Eye,
And till my Duty shall make known I honour ye,
Noblest of Women, do me but this Favour
To accept this back again, as a poor Testimony.

Oria. I must have you too with 'em; else the Will,
That says they must rest with ye, is infring'd, Sir;
Which pardon me, I dare not do.

Mir. Take me then;
And take me with the truest Love.

Oria. 'Tis certain,
My Brother lov'd ye dearly, and I ought
As dearly to preserve that Love. But, Sir,
Though I were willing, these are but your Ceremonies.

Mir. As I have Life, I speak my Soul.

Oria. I like ye.
But how you can like me, without I've Testimony,
A Stranger to ye.——

Mir. I'll marry ye immediately,
A fair State I dare promise ye.

Bel. Yet she'll cozen thee.

Oria. Would some fair Gentleman durst promise for ye.

Mir. By all that's good.——

Enter La Castre, Nantolet, Lugier, and de Gard.

All. And we'll make up the rest, Lady.

Oria. Then Oriana takes ye; nay, she has caught ye;
If ye start now let all the World cry shame on ye:
I have out-travell'd ye.

Bel. Did not I say she would cheat thee?

Mir. I thank ye, I am pleas'd ye have deceiv'd me ;
And willingly I swallow it, and joy in't ;
And yet perhaps I knew ye : Whose Plot was this ?

Lug. He is not asham'd that cast it : He that executed, Followed your Father's Will.

Mir. What a World's this, nothing but Craft and Cozenage ?

Ori. Who begun, Sir ?

Mir. Well ; I do take thee upon meer Compassion ;
And I do think, I shall love thee. As a Testimony,
I'll burn my Book, and turn a new Leaf over,
But these fine Cloaths you shall wear still.

Ori. I obey you, Sir, in all.

Nant. And how ! how, Daughters ! what say you to these Gentlemen ?

What say ye, Gentlemen, to the Girls ?

Pin. By my troth——if she can love me.

Lil.——How long ?

Pin. Nay, if once ye love.

Lil. Then take me,
And take your Chance.

Pin. Most willingly, ye are mine, Lady,
And if I use ye not, that ye may love me.——

Lil. A Match i'faith.

Pin. Why now ye travel with me.

Rof. How that thing stands !

Bel. (47) It will if ye urge it.

Bless your five Wits.

Rof. Nay, 'prithee stay, I'll have thee.

Bel. You must ask me Leave first.

Rof. Wilt thou use me kindly,
And beat me but once a Week ?

Bel. If ye deserve no more.

Rof. And wilt thou get me with Child ?

Bel. Dost thou ask me seriously ?

Rof. Yes indeed do I.

Bel. Yes, I will get thee with Child, come presently,

(47) Bell. It will if ye urge it.] The want of a Negative makes Belleur say just the contrary to what he design'd,
It will not if ye urge it.

And't

And't be but in Revenge, I'll do thee that Courtesie.
Well, if thou wilt fear God, and me, have at thee.

Rof. I'll love ye, and I'll honour ye.

Bel. I am pleas'd then.

Mir. This Wild-Goose Chase is done, we have won o'both sides.

Brother, your Love, and now to Church of all Hands;
Let's lose no time.

Pin. Our travelling, (48) lay by.

Bel. No more for Italy; for the Low Countries, I.

[Exeunt omnes.

(48) —————lay by.

Bell. No more for Italy, for the Low Countries.] The Reading, which the present Edition exhibits, is Mr. Theobald's, and an happy one it is, as it both compleats the Sense, and keeps up the solemn Custom of not only the Play-Wrights of our Authors, but these of our present time, viz. of making each Drama conclude in a Jingle.

P R O L O G U E.

YOU'RE welcome, Gentlemen, and would our Feast
Were so well season'd, to please ev'ry Guest ;
Ingenuous Appetites, I hope we shall,
And their Examples may prevail in all,
Our noble Friend, who writ this, bid me say,
He'd rather dress, upon a Triumph-Day,
My Lord Mayor's Feast, and make him Sauces too,
Sauce for each sev'ral Mouth, nay further go,
He'd rather build up those invincible Pies
And Castle-Custards that affright all Eyes,
Nay eat 'em all and their Artillery,
Than dress for such a curious Company
One single Dish ; yet he has pleas'd ye too,
And you've confess'd he knew well what to do ;
Be hungry as you were wont to be, and bring
Sharp Stomachs to the Stories he shall sing,
And he dare yet, he says, prepare a Table
Shall make you say, well drest, and he well able.

Enter King Frederick, Sorano, Valerio, Camillo, Cleanthes, Menallo, and Attendants.

SORANO.

WILL your Grace speak?

Fred. Let me alone, Sorano,

Although my Thoughts seem sad, they're welcome to me.

Sor. You know I'm private as your secret
Wishes,

Ready to fling my Soul upon your Service,
Ere your Command be on't.

Fred. Bid those depart.

Sor. You must retire, my Lords.

Cam. What new Design
Is hammering in his Head now?

Cle. Let's pray heartily
None of our Heads meet with't; my Wife's old,
That's all my Comfort.

Men. Mine's ugly, that I am sure on,
And I think honest too, 'twould make me start else.

Cam. Mine's troubled in the Country with a Fever,
And some few Infirmities else; he looks again,

Come

Come let's retire, certain 'tis some She-busines
This new Lord's employ'd in. Val. I'll not be far off, Because I doubt the Cause. [Exit.

Fred. Are they all gone?

Sor. All but your faithful Servant.

Fred. I would tell thee,
But 'tis a thing thou canst not like.

Sor. Pray ye speak it,
Is it my Head? I have it ready for ye, Sir:
Is't any Action in my Power? My Wit?
I care not of what Nature, nor what follows.

Fred. I am in Love.

Sor. That's th' least thing of a Thousand,
The easiest to atchieve.

Fred. But with whom, Sorano?

Sor. With whom you please, you must not be deny'd, Sir.

Fred. Say it be with one of thy Kinswomen.

Sor. Say with all,

I shall more love your Grace, I shall more honour ye,
And would I had enough to serve your Pleasure.

Fred. Why 'tis thy Sister then, the fair Evanthe,
I'll be plain with thee.

Sor. I'll be as plain with you, Sir,
She brought not her Perfections to the World,
To lock them in a Case, or hang 'em by her,
The use is all she breeds 'em for; she's yours, Sir.

Fred. Dost thou mean seriously!

Sor. I mean my Sister;

And if I had a Dozen more, they were all yours:
Some Aunts I have, they have been handsom Women,
My Mother's dead indeed, and some few Cousins
That are now shooting up, we shall see shortly.

Fred. No, 'tis Evanthe.

Sor. I have sent my Man to her
Upon some Business to come (1) presently,
Hither she shall come; your Grace dare speak unto her?

(1) ———— presently
Hither. she shall come;—] Hither, i. e. into your Apartments. But Sorano could not say that he had sent for her to come thither. The Comma therefore should be, as I have put it, after presently.

Large golden Promises, and sweet Language, Sir,
You know what they work; she's a compleat Courtier:
Besides I'll set in.

Fred. She waits on my Queen.
What Jealousy and Anger may arise,
Incensing her?

Sor. You have a good sweet Lady,
A Woman of so ev'n and still a Temper,
She knows not Anger; say she were a Fury,
I'd thought you had been absolute, the great King,
(2) The Fountain of all Honours, Plays and Pleasures,
Your Will and your Commands unbounded also;
Go get a Pair of Beads and learn to pray, Sir.

Enter Servant.

Ser. My Lord, your Servant stays.

Sor. Bid him come hither,
And bring the Lady with him. Fred. I will woo her.
And either lose myself, or win her Favour.

Sor. She's coming in.

Fred. Thy Eyes shoot through the Door,
They are so piercing, that the Beams they dart
Give new Light to the Room.

Enter Podramo and Evanthe.

Evan. Whither dost thou go?
This is the King's side, and his private Lodgings,
What Business have I here?

Pod. My Lord sent for ye.

(2) *The Fountain of all Honours, Plays and Pleasures,
Your Will and your Commands unbounded also;*] The Censure
this Passage is liable to I would endeavour to wipe off, by reading,

Pains and Pleasures;

Or throwing a Word in at the beginning of the second Line, and altering the Pointing in the first;

The Fountain of all Honours; Pains and Pleasures Waiting your Will, and your Commands unbounded.

i. e. I took you to be a great King that could punish or reward by arbitrary Will, and with an unbounded Authority. But the true Reading, as well as the most obvious, is this,

The Fountain of all Honours, Place and Pleasures.

So in the last Act of this Play Urbino (Valerio disguis'd) says,
*I love my Friend, not measur'd out by Time,
Nor hir'd by Circumstance of Place and Honour.*

Evan.

Evan. His Lodgings are below, you are mistaken,
We left them at the Stair-foot.

Pod. Good sweet Madam.

Evan. I am no Counsellor, nor important Sutor,
Nor have no private Business through these Chambers,
To seek him this way; o' my Life thou'rt drunk,
Or worse than drunk, hir'd to convey me hither
To some base End; now I look on thee better,
Thou hast a bawdy Face, and I abhor thee,
A beastly bawdy Face, I'll go no further.

Sor. Nay shrink not back, indeed you shall, good Sister.
Why do you blush? the good King will not hurt ye,
He honours ye, and loves ye.

Evan. Is this the Business?

Sor. Yes, and the best you ever will arrive at,
If you be wise. Evan. My Father was no Bawd, Sir,
Nor of that worshipful Stock, as I remember.

Sor. You are a Fool.

Evan. You're that I shame to tell ye.

Fred. Gentle Evanthe!

Evan. The gracious Queen, Sir,
Is well and merry, Heav'n be thanked for it,
And as I think she waits you in the Garden.

Fred. Let her wait there, I talk not of her Garden,
I talk of thee, sweet Flower.

Evan. Your Grace is pleasant,
Thus to mistake a Nettle for a Rose.

Fred. No Rose, nor Lily, nor no glorious Hyacinth,
Are of that sweetness, whiteness, tenderness,
Softness, and satisfying Blessedness,
As my Evanthe.

Evan. Your Grace speaks very feelingly;
I would not be a handfom Wench in your Way, Sir,
For a new Gown.

Fred. Thou art all Handsomness;
Nature will be ashamed to frame another
Now thou art made, thou'st robb'd her of her Cunning:
Each several part about thee is a Beauty.

Sor. D' you hear this, Sister?

Evan. Yes, unworthy Brother,

But

But all this will not do. Fred. But love Evanthe.
Thou shalt have more than Words, Wealth, Ease, and Honours,
My tender Wench.

Evan. Be tender of my Credit,
And I shall love you, Sir, and I shall honour ye.

Fred. I love thee to enjoy thee, my Evanthe,
To give thee the Content of Love.

Evan. Hold, hold, Sir,
Ye are too fleet; I have some Business this way,
Your Grace can ne'er content. Sor. You stubborn Toy.

Evan. Good my Lord Bawd I thank ye.

Fred. Thou shalt not go, believe me, sweet Evanthe,
So high I will advance thee for this Favour,
So rich and potent I will raise thy Fortune,
And thy Friends mighty.

Evan. Good your Grace be patient,
I shall make the Worst honourable Wench that ever was,
Shame your Discretion, and your Choice.

Fred. Thou shalt not.

Evan. Shall I be rich do you say, and glorious,
And shine above the rest, and scorn all Beauties,
And mighty in Command?

Fred. Thou shalt be any thing.

Evan. Let me be honest too, and then I'll thank ye.
Have you not such a Title to bestow too?
If I prove otherwise, I'd know but this, Sir;
Can all the Pow'r you have, or all the Riches,
But tie Mens Tongues up from discoursing of me,
Their Eyes from gazing at my glorious Folly,
Time that shall come, from wond'ring at my Impudence,
And they that read my wanton Life, from Curses?
Can you do this? Have ye this Magick in ye?
This is not in your Power, though you be a Prince, Sir,
No more than Evil is in holy Angels,
Nor I, I hope. Get Wantonness confirm'd
By Act of Parliament an Honesty,
And so receiv'd by all, I'll hearken to ye.
Heav'n guide your Grace.

Fred. Evanthe, stay a little,
I'll no more Wantonness, I'll marry thee.

Evan. What shall the Queen do?

Fred. I'll be divorc'd from her.

Evan. Can you tell why? What has she done against ye?

Has she contriv'd a Treason 'gainst your Person?
Abus'd your Bed? Does Disobedience urge ye?

Fred. That's all one, 'tis my Will.

Evan. 'Tis a most wicked one,
A most absurd one, and will show a Monster.
I'd rather be a Whore, and with less Sin,
T' your present Lust, than Queen to your Injustice.
Yours is no Love, Faith and Religion fly it,
Nor has no Taste of fair Affection in it.
Some hellish Flame abuses your fair Body,
And hellish Furies blow it; look behind ye,
Divorce you from a Woman of her Beauty,
Of her Integrity, her Piety?
Her Love to you, to all that honours ye;
Her chaste and virtuous Love, are these fit Causes?
What will you do to me, when I have cloy'd ye?
You may find Time out in Eternity,
Deceit and Violence in heav'nly Justice,
Life in the Grave, and Death among the Blessed,
Ere Stain or Brack in her sweet Reputation.

Sor. You've fool'd enough, be wise now, and a Woman;

You've shew'd a Modesty sufficient,
If not too much for Court.

Evan. You've shew'd an Impudence,
A more experienc'd Bawd would blush and shake at;
You'll make my Kindred mighty?

Fred. Prithee hear me.

Evan. I do Sir, and I count it a great Offer.

Fred. Any of thine.

Evan. 'Tis like enough you may clap Honour on them,
But how 'twill fit, and how Men will adore it,
Is still the Question. I'll tell you what they'll say, Sir,
What the Report will be, and 'twill be true too,

And

(3) And it must needs be Comfort to your Master,
These are the Issues of her Impudence.
I'll tell your Grace, so dear I hold the Queen,
So dear that Honour that she nurs'd me up in,
I'd first take to me, for my Lust, a Moor,
One of your Gally-slaves, that Cold and Hunger,
Decrepit Misery, had made a mock-Man,
Than be your Queen.

Fred. You're bravely resolute.

Evan. I'd rather be a Leper, and be shun'd,
And die by Pieces, rot into my Grave,
Leaving no Memory behind to know me,
Than be a high Whore to Eternity.

Fred. You have another Gamester I perceive by ye,
You durst not slight me else.

Sor. I'll find him out,
Though he lye next thy Heart hid, I'll discover him,
(4) And ye proud Peat, I'll make you curse your Insolence.

Val. Tongue of an Angel, and the Truth of Heav'n,
How am I blest! [Exit Val.]

Sor. Podramo go in haste
To my Sister's Gentlewoman, you know her well,
And bid her send her Mistress presently
The lesser Cabinet she keeps her Letters in,
And such like Toys, and bring it to me instantly. Away.

Pod. I am gone. [Exit.]

Enter the Queen with two Ladies.

Sor. The Queen.

Fred. Let's quit the Place, she may grow jealous!
[Exeunt Fred. and Sorano.]

Queen. So suddenly departed! what's the Reason?

(3) And it must needs be comfort to your Master] Who was Frederick's Master? Preferment had been promis'd to her Kindred, by whom her Brother Sorano is chiefly intended, who was Pandar and Minister of Frederick's Lusts. I read therefore,

And it must needs be Comfort to your Minister.

Mr. Seward.

(4) And ye pound Peat, —] This Reading is peculiar to the Copy of 1711.

Does my Approach displease his Grace? are my Eyes
So hateful to him? or my Conversation
Infected, thae he flies me? Fair Evanthe,
Are you there? then I see his Shame.

Evan. 'Tis true, Madam,
'T has pleas'd his Goodness to be pleasant with me.

Queen. 'Tis strange to find thy Modesty in this Place.
Does the King offer fair? Does thy Face take him?
Ne'er blush, Evanthe, 'tis a very sweet one.
Does he rain Gold, and precious Promises
Into thy Lap? Will he advance thy Fortunes?
Shalt thou be mighty, Wench?

Evan. Never mock, Madam;
'Tis rather on your part to be lamented,
At least reveng'd; I can be mighty, Lady,
And glorious too, glorious and great as you are.

Queen. He'll marry thee?

Evan. Who would not be a Queen, Madam?

Queen. 'Tis true, Evanthe, 'tis a brave Ambition,
A golden Dream, that may delude a good Mind;
What shall become of me?

Evan. You must learn to pray,
Your Age and Honour will become a Nunnery.

Queen. Wilt thou remember me? [Weeps.]

Evan. She weeps. Sweet Lady,
Upon my Knees I ask your sacred Pardon,
For my rude Boldness; and know, my sweet Mistress,
If e'er there were Ambition in Evanthe,
It was and is to do you faithful Duties:
'Tis true I have been tempted by the King,
And with no few and potent Charms, to wrong ye,
To violate the chaste Joys of your Bed;
And those not taking hold, t' usurp your State;
But she that has been bred up under ye,
And daily fed upon your virtuous Precepts,
Still growing strong b' Example of your Goodness,
Having no errant Motion from Obedience,
Flies from these Vanities, as meer Illusions;
And arm'd with Honesty, defies all Promises.
In token of this Truth, I lay my Life down

Under

Under your sacred Foot, to do you Service.

Queen. Rise my true Friend, thou virtuous Bud of Beauty,
Thou Virgins Honour, sweetly blow and flourish;
And that rude nipping Wind, that seeks to blast thee,
Or taint thy Root, be curst to all Posterity;
To my Protection from this Hour I take ye,
Yes, and the King shall know——

Evan. Give his Heat way, Madam,
And 'twill go out again, he may forget all. [Exeunt.]

Enter Camillo, Cleanthes, and Menallo.

Cam. What have we to Do with the Times? we cannot cure 'em.
Let 'em go on, when they are swoln with Surfeits
They'll burst and stink, then all the World shall smell 'em.

Cle. A Man
May live a Bawd, and be an honest Man.

Men. Yes, and
A wise Man too, it is a virtuous Calling.

Cam. To his own Wife especially, or his Sister,
The nearer to his own Blood, still the honest:
There want such honest Men, would we had more of 'em.

Men. To be a Villain is no such rude Matter.

Cam. No, if he be a neat one, and a perfect,
Art makes all excellent: What is it, Gentlemen,
In a good Cause to kill a Dozen Coxcombs,
That blunt rude Fellows call good Patriots?
Nothing, nor ne'er look'd after. Men. 'Tis e'en as much,
As easy too, as honest, and as clear,
To ravish Matrons, and deflow'r coy Wenches;
But here they are so willing, 'tis a Complement.

Cle. To pull down Churches with pretension
To build 'em fairer, may be done with Honour,
And all this time believe no Gods. Cam. I think so,
'Tis faith enough if they name 'em in their Angers,
(5) Or on their rotten Tombs engrave an Angel;

(5) Or on their rotten Tombs engrave an Angel;] But why rotten Tombs? A Commentator perhaps would answer, Because they contain rotten Carcases; and so the Business is done. But I should rather prefer, Or o'er their rotten Bones engrave an Angel.

Well, brave Alphonso, how happy had we been,
If thou had'st reign'd!

Men. Would I had his Disease,
Ty'd like a Leprosy to my Posterity,
So he were right again.

Cle. What is his Malady?

Cam. Nothing but sad and silent Melancholy,
Laden with Griefs and Thoughts, no Man knows why neither;

The good Brandino (6) Father to the Princes
Used all the Art and Industry that might be,
To free Alphonso from this dull Calamity,
And seat him in his Rule; he was his eldest
And noblest too, had not fair Nature stopt in him,
For which Cause this was chosen to inherit,
Frederick the younger.

Cle. Does he use his Brother
With that Respect and Honour that befits him?

Cam. He is kept privately, as they pretend,
To give more ease and comfort to his Sickness;
But he has honest Servants, the grave Rugio,
And Friar Marco, that wait on his Person,
And in a Monastery he lives.

Men. 'Tis full of Sadness,
To see him when he comes t' his Father's Tomb,
(As once a Day that is his Pilgrimage,
Whilst in Devotion, the Quire sings an Anthem;)
How piously he kneels, and like a Virgin
That some cross Fate had cozen'd of her Love,
Weeps 'till the stubborn Marble sweats with Pity,
And to his Groans the whole Quire bears a Chorus.

Enter Frederick, Sorano with the Cabinet, and Podramo.

Cam. So do I too. The King with his Contrivers,
This is no Place for us. [Exeunt Lords.]

Fred. This is a Jewel,

(6) ——— Father to the Princess] The true Lesson is,
————— Father to the Princes.

This, Mr. Theobald had observed in his Margin, and Mr. Seward herein concurred with us both.

Lay it aside; what Paper's that?

Pod. A Letter,

But 'tis a Woman's, Sir, I know by th' Hand,
And th' false Orthography, they write old Saxon.

Fred. May be her ghostly Mother's that instructs her.

Sor. No, 'tis a Cousin's, and came up with a great Cake.

Fred. What's that?

Sor. A Pair of Gloves the Duchefs gave her,
For so the outside says?

Fred. That other Paper?

Sor. A Charm for the Tooth-ach, here's nothing but Saints and Crosses.

Fred. Look in that Box, methinks that should hold Secrets.

Pod. 'Tis Paint, and Curls of Hair, she 'gins to exercise.
A Glas of Water too, I would fain taste it,
But I am wickedly afraid 'twill silence me;
Never a Conduit-Pipe to convey this Water?

Sor. These are all Rings, Deaths-heads, and such Memento's.

Her Grandmother, and Worm-eaten Aunts left to her,
To tell her what her Beauty must arrive at.

Fred. That, that.

Pod. They're written Songs, Sir, to provoke young Ladies;
Lord here's a Prayer-book, how these agree!

Here's a strange Union. Sor. Ever by a Surfeit
You have a Julep set, to cool the Patient.

Fred. Those, those.

Sor. They're Verses to the blest Evanthe.

Fred. Those may discover,
Read them out, Sorano.

To the blest Evanthe:

Let those complain that feel Loves Cruelty,

And in sad Legends write their Woes,

With Roses gently b'as corrected me,

My War is without Rage or Blows:

My Mistress Eyes shine fair on my Desires,

And hope springs up inflam'd with her new Fires.

A Wife for a Month.

*No more an Exile will I dwell,
 With folded Arms, and Sighs all Day,
 Reck'ning the Torments of my Hell,
 And flinging my sweet Joys away :
 I am call'd home again to quiet Peace,
 My Mistress smiles, and all my Sorrows cease.
 Yet what is living-in her Eye ?
 Or being blest with her sweet Tongue,
 If these no other Joys imply ?
 A golden Gyve, a pleasing wrong :
 To be your own but one poor Month I'd give My Youth, my Fortune, and then leave to live.*

Fred. This is my Rival, that I knew the Hand now.

Sor. I know it, I have seen it, 'tis Valerio's,
 That hopeful Gentleman's, that was brought up
 With ye, and by your Charge, nourish'd and fed
 At the same Table, with the same Allowance.

Fred. And all this Courtesie to ruin me ?
 Cross my desires ? h'ad better have fed humbler,
 And stood at greater Distance from my Fury :
 Go for him quickly, find him instantly,
 Whilst my impatient Heart swells high with choler :
 Better have lov'd Despair, and safer kiss'd her. [Ex. Lords.]

Enter Evanthe, and Cassandra.

Evan. Thou old weak Fool, dost thou know to what end,

To what betraying end he got this Casket ?
 Durst thou deliver him without my Ring,
 Or a Command from mine own Mouth, that Cabinet
 That holds my Heart ? you unconfid'rate Ass,
 You brainless Idiot.

Cas. I saw you go with him,
 At the first Word commit your Person to him,
 And make no scruple ; he's your Brother's Gentleman,
 And for any thing I know, an honest Man ;
 And might not I upon the same Security
 Deliver him a Box ? Evan. A Bottle-head.

Fred. You shall have Cause to chafe, as I will handle it.

Evan.

Evan. I'd rather thou'dst deliver'd me to Pirates,
Betray'd me to uncurable Diseases,
Hung up my Picture in a Market-place,
(7) And sold me to wild Bawds.

Caf. As I take it, Madam,
Your Maid'n-head lies not in that Cabinet,
You have a closer, and you keep the Key too,
Why are you vex'd thus?

Evan. I could curse thee wickedly,
And wish thee more deformed than Age can make thee ;
(8) Perpetual Hunger, and no Teeth to satisfy't,
Wait on thee still, nor sleep be found to ease it ;
Those Hands that gave the Casket, may the Palfie
For ever make unuseful, ev'n to feed thee.
Long Winters, that thy Bones may turn to Isicles,
No Hell can thaw again, inhabit by thee.
Is thy Care like thy Body, all one crookedness ?
How scurvily thou cryest now ! like a Drunkard,
I'll have as pure Tears from a dirty Spout ;
Do, swear thou didst this ignorantly, swear it,
Swear and be damn'd, thou half Witch.

Caf. These are fine Words,
Well, Madam, Madam. Evan. 'Tis not well, thou Mummy,
'Tis impudently, basely done, thou dirty——

Fred. Has your young Sanctity done railing, Madam,
Against your innocent 'Squire? Do you see this Sonnet,
This loving Script? D'you know from whence it came too?

Evan. I do, and dare avouch it pure, and honest.

Fred. You've private Visitants, my noble Lady,
That in sweet Numbers court your goodly Virtues,
And to the height of Adoration.

(7) And sold me to wild Bawds.] This may possibly be right, but had any of the Copies run thus, to wild Bands, I should have made no scruple to prefer it as better.

(8) Perpetual Hunger, and no Teeth to satisfy it,] That a Person may be perpetually hungry whether he has Teeth or no is very evident ; may we not then wish that, instead of Teeth, the Poets had wrote

———No Meat to satisfy it.

Evan.

Evan. Well, Sir,
There's neither Heresie nor Treason in it.

Fred. A Prince may beg at th' Door, whilst these feast with ye;

(9) A Favour or a Grace, from such as I am,

Enter Valerio, and Podramo.

Course common Things—You're welcome; pray come near, Sir,

D'you know this Paper?

Val. I'm betray'd; I do Sir,

'Tis mine, my Hand and Heart, if I die for her,
I am thy Martyr, Love, and Time shall honour me.

Caf. You faucy Sir, that came in my Lady's Name
For her gilt Cabinet, you cheating Sir too,
You scurvy Usher, with as scurvy Legs,
And a worse Face, thou poor base hanging-holder,
How durst thou come to me with a Lye in thy Mouth?
An impudent Lye?

Pod. Hollow, good Gill, you hobble.

Caf. A stinking Lye, more stinking than the Teller,
To play the pilfering Knave? there have been Rascals
Brought up to fetch and carry, like your Worship,
That have been hang'd for less, whipt they are daily,
And if the Law will do me right——

Pod. What then, old Maggot?

Caf. Thy Mother was carted younger; I'll have thy Hide,

Thy mangy Hide, embroider'd with a Dog-whip,
And it is now with potent Pox, and thicker.

Fred. Peace good Antiquity, I'll have your Bones else
Ground into Gunpowder to shoot at Cats with;
One Word more, and I'll blanch thee like an Almond,

(9) A Favour or a Grace from such as I am,

Course common Things] The Sense here is easy enough, but the Expression labours. I would read,

A Favour or a Grace, for such as I am

Course common things—You're welcome, &c.

i. e. such course common things as I am are not worthy of a Grace, &c.

There's

There's no such Cure for the she-falling Sickness
As th' Powder of a dry'd Baw'd's Skin; be silent.
You're very prodigal of your Service here, Sir,
Of your Life more, it seems.

Val. I repent neither,
Because your Grace shall understand it comes
From the best part of Love, my pure Affection,
And kindled with chaste flame, I will not fly from't;
If it be Error to desire to marry,
And marry her that Sanctity would dote on,
I've done amiss; if it be a Treason
To graft my Soul to Virtue, and to grow there,
To love the Tree that bears such happiness,
(Conceive me, Sir, this Fruit was ne'er forbidden;)
Nay, to desire to taste too, I'm Traytor;
Had you but Plants enough of this blest Tree, Sir,
Set round about your Court, to beautifie it,
Deaths twice so many, to dismay the Approachers,
The Ground would scarce yield Graves to noble Lovers.

Fred. 'Tis well maintain'd, you wish and pray to Fortune,
Here in your Sonnet, and she's heard your Prayers;
So much you dote upon your own undoing,
But one Month to enjoy her as your Wife,
Though at the expiring of that time you die for't.

Val. I could wish many, many Ages, Sir,
To grow as old as Time in her Embraces,
If Heav'n would grant it, and you smile upon it;
But if my Choice were two Hours, and then perish,
I would not pull my Heart back.

Fred. You've your wish,
To morrow I will see you nobly married,
Your Month take out in all Content and Pleasure;
The first Day of the following Month you die for't;
Kneel not, not all your Prayers can divert me.
Now mark your Sentence, mark it, scornful Lady,
If when Valerio's dead, within twelve Hours,
For that's your latest time, you find not out
Another Husband on the same Condition
To marry you again, you die yourself too.

Evan. Now you are merciful, I thank your Grace.

Fred.

Fred. If when you're married, you but seek to 'scape
 Out of the Kingdom, you, or she, or both,
 Or to infect Mens Minds with hot Commotions,
 You die both instantly; Will you love me now, Lady?
 My Tale will now be heard, but now I scorn ye. [Exit.
 [Manent Valerio and Evanthe.

Evan. Is our fair Love, our honest, our entire,
 Come to this hazard? Val. 'Tis a noble one,
 And I am much in love with Malice for it,
 Envy could not have studied me a way,
 Nor Fortune pointed out a Path to Honour,
 Straighter and nobler, if she had her Eyes;
 When I have once enjoy'd my sweet Evanthe,
 And blest my Youth with her most dear Embraces,
 I've done my Journey here, my Day is out;
 All that the World has else is foolery,
 Labour, and loss of Time; what should I live for?
 Think but Man's Life a Month, and we are happy.
 I would not have my Joys grow old for any thing;
 A Paradise as thou art, my Evanthe,
 Is only made to wonder at a little,
 Enough for human Eyes, and then to wander from:
 Come, do not weep, Sweet, you dishonour me,
 Your Tears and Griefs but question my Ability,
 Whether I dare die; Do you love intirely?

Evan. You know I do.

Val. Then grudge not my Felicity.

Evan. I'll to the Queen.

Val. Do any thing that's honest,
 But if you sue to him, in Death I hate you. [Exeunt.

A C T II. S C E N E I.

Enter Camillo, Cleanthes, and Menallo.

Cam. WAS there ever heard of such a Marriage?
Men. Marriage and Hanging go by destiny,
 'Tis the old Proverb, now they come together.

Cle. But a Month married, then to lose his Life for't?
 I'd

I'd have a long Month sure, that pays the Soldiers.

Enter Tony with an Urinal.

Cam. Or get all th' Almanacks burnt, that were a rare
trick,
And have no Month remembred. How now, Tony?
Whose Water are you casting?

Tony. A sick Gentleman's,
Is very sick, much troubled with the Stone,
He should not live above a Month, by's Urine,
(10) About St. David's Day it will go hard with him,
He'll then be troubled with a Pain in's Neck too.

Men. A pestilent Fool; when wilt thou marry, Tony?

Tony. When I mean to be hang'd, and 'tis the surer Contract.

Cle. What think you of this Marriage of Valerio's?

Tony. They have given him a hot Custard,
And mean to burn his Mouth with't; had I known
He had been given to die honourably,
I would have help'd him to a Wench, a rare one,
Should have kill'd him in three Weeks, and sav'd the Sentence. [too.

Cam. There be them would have spared ten Days of that

Tony. It may be so, you've Women of all Virtues:
There be some Guns that I could bring him to,
Some Mortar-pieces that are plac'd i' th' Suburbs,
Would tear him into Quarters in two Hours;
There be also of the Race of the old Cockatrices,
That would dispatch him with once looking on him.

Men. What Month wouldst thou chuse, Tony, if thou had'st the
Like Fortune? Tony. I would chuse a mull'd Sack Month
To comfort my Belly, for sure my Back would ake
For it, and at the Month's end I'd be most Dismally drunk, and scorn the Gallows. Men. I would Chuse March, for I would come in like a Lion.

Tony. But you'd go out like a Lamb when you went to hanging.

(10) This Play acted about the latter End of January. Mr. Theobald.

Cam.

Cam. I would take April, take the sweet o' th' Year,
And kifs my Wench upon the tender Flowrets,
Tumble on every Green, and as the Birds fung,
Embrace, and melt away my Soul in Pleasure.

Tony. You'd go a Maying gayly to the Gallows.

Cle. Prithee tell's some News.

Tony. I'll tell ye all I know ;
You may be honest, and poor Fools, as I am,
And blow your Fingers ends.

Cam. That's no News, Fool.

Tony. You may be Knaves then when you please, stark
Knaves,
And build fair Houses, but your Heirs shall have None of 'em.

Men. These are undoubted.

Tony. Truth's not worth the hearing.
I'll tell you News then ; there was a drunken Sailor,
That got a Mermaid with Child as she went a Milking,
And now she sues him in the Bawdy-Court for't ;
The Infant Monster is brought up in Fish-street.

Cam. Ay, this is something.

Tony. I'll tell you more, there was a Fish taken,
A monstrous Fish, with a Sword by's Side, a long Sword,
A Pike in's Neck, and a Gun in's Nose, a huge Gun,
And Letters of Mart in's Mouth, from the Duke of Florence.

Cle. This is a monstrous Lye.

Tony. I do confes it:
D'you think I'd tell you Truths, that dare not hear 'em ?
You're honest things, we Courtiers scorn to converse with.

[Exit.

Cam. A plaguy Fool : But let's consider, Gentlemen,
Why the Queen strives not to oppose this Sentence,
The Kingdom's Honour suffers in this cruelty

Men. No doubt the Queen, though she be virtuous,
Winks at the Marriage, for by that only means
The King's Flame lessens to the youthful Lady,
If not goes out ; within this Month, I doubt not,
She hopes to rock asleep his Anger also ;
Shall we go see the Preparation ?

'Tis time, for Strangers come to view the Wonder.

Cam.

Cam. Come, let's away, send my Friends happier Weddings. [Exeunt.]

Enter Queen and Evanthe.

Queen. You shall be merry, come, I'll have it so:
Can there be any Nature so unnoble,
Or Anger so inhuman, to pursue this?

Evan. I fear there is.

Queen. Your Fears are poor and foolish.
Though he be haughty, and his Anger Death,
His Will like Torrents not to be resisted,
Yet Law and Justice go along to guide him;
And what Law, or what Justice can he find
(11) To justify his Will? what Act or Statute,
By Human or Divine Establishment
Left to direct us, that makes Marriage Death?
Honest fair Wedlock? 'twas giv'n for increase,
For preservation of Mankind, I take it;
He must be more than Man then that dare break it.
Come, dress ye handsomly, you shall have my Jewels,
And put a Face on that contemns base Fortune,
'Twill make him more insult to see you fearful,
Outlook his Anger.

Evan. O my Valerio!

Be witness my pure mind, 'tis thee I grieve for.

Queen. But shew it not; I would so crucifie him
With an innocent neglect of what he can do,
A brave strong pious scorn, that I would shake him;
Put all the wanton Cupids in thine Eyes,
And all the Graces on that Nature gave thee;
Make up thy Beauty to that height of Excellence,
(I'll help thee, and forgive thee,) as if Venus
Were now again to catch the God of War,

(11) To justify his Will? —] Read

To Justify this with ?] viz. this arbitrary Sentence. So the good Queen a little before;

Can there be any Nature so unnoble,

Or Anger so inhuman, to pursue this?

But if the Reader is of opinion, that Will ought at all Events to retain its place, yet I wou'd suppose the poets to express the Sentiment more properly wrote, — To justify this Will?

In his most rugged Anger; when thou hast him
 (As 'tis impossible he should resist thee)
 And kneeling at thy conquering Feet for Mercy,
 Then shew thy Virtue, then again despise him,
 And all his Power; then with a look of Honour
 Mingled with noble Chastity, strike him dead.

Evan. Good Madam dress me,
 You arm me bravely.

Queen. Make him know his Cruelty
 Begins with him first, he must suffer for it;
 And that thy Sentence is so welcome to thee,
 And to thy noble Lord, you long to meet it.
 Stamp such a deep impression of thy Beauty
 Into his Soul, and of thy Worthiness,
 That when Valerio and Evanthe sleep
 In one rich Earth, hung round about with Blessings,
 He may run mad, and curse his Act; be lusty,
 I'll teach thee how to die too, if thou fear'st it.

Evan. I thank your Grace, you have prepar'd me strongly,
 And my weak Mind ———

Queen. Death is unwelcome never,
 Unless it be to tortur'd Minds and sick Souls,
 That make their own Hells; it is such a benefit
 When it comes crown'd with Honour, shews so sweet too!
 Though they paint it ugly, that's but to restrain us,
 For every living thing would love it else,
 Fly boldly to their Peace ere Nature call'd 'em;
 The Rest we have from labour and from trouble
 Is some Inticement; every thing alike,
 (12) The poor Slave that lies private has his liberty,
 As amply as his Master, in that Tomb,

(12) The poor Slave that lies private has his Liberty,

As amply as his Master, in that Tomb,

The Earth as light upon him ———] Private in its common Ac-ceptation would be flat here, but in its original Sense privatus deprived of Life and Motion, it gives the proper Idea. But why in that Tomb?
 No particular Tomb had been specified; I read the Tomb and add a Verb to the next Sentence.

As amply as his Master, in the Tomb

The Earth's as light upon him.

Mr. Seward.

The

The Earth as light upon him, and the Flowers
That grow about him, smell as sweet, and flourish.
But when we love with Honour to our ends,
When Memory and Virtues are our Mourners,
What pleasure's there! they're infinite, Evanthe;
Only, my virtuous Wench, we want our Senses,
That benefit we're barr'd, 'twould make us proud else,
And lazy to look up to happier life,
The Blessings of the People would so swell us.

Evan. Good Madam, dress me, you have dress'd my Soul,
The merriest Bride, I'll be for all this misery,
The proudest to some Eyes too.

Queen. 'Twill do better,
Come, shrink no more. Evan. I am too confident.
[Exeunt.]

Enter Frederick and Sorano.

Sor. You're too remiss and wanton in your Angers,
You mould things handsomly, and then neglect 'em;
A pow'rful Prince should be constant to his Power still,
And hold up what he builds, then People fear him:
When he lets loose his Hand it shews a weakness,
And Men examine or contemn his Greatness:
A Scorn of this high kind should have call'd up
A Revenge equal, not a Pity in you.

Fred. She is thy Sister.

Sor. And she were my Mother,
Whilst I conceive 'tis you sh'as wrong'd, I hate her,
And shake her nearness off; I study, Sir,
To satisfy your Angers that are just,
Before your Pleasures.

Fred. I've done that already,
I fear has pull'd too many Curses on me.

Sor. Curses or Envies, on Valerio's Head:
Would you take my counsel, Sir, they should all light,
And with the weight not only crack his Scull,
But his fair credit; th' exquisite vexation
I have devis'd, so please you give way in't,
And let it work, shall more afflict his Soul,
And trench upon that Honour that he brags of,
Than fear of Death in all the frights he carries;

If you sit down here they will both abuse ye,
 Laugh at your poor relenting power, and scorn ye.
 What satisfaction can their Deaths bring to you,
 That are prepar'd, and proud to die, and willingly,
 And at their ends will thank you for that honour?
 How are you nearer the Desire you aim at?
 Or if it be Revenge your Anger covets,
 How can their single Deaths give you content, Sir?
 Petty revenges end in Blood, slight angers;
 A Prince's Rage should find out new Diseases,
 Death were a pleasure too, to pay proud Fools with.

Fred. What should I do?

Sor. Add but your Power unto me,
 Make me but strong by your Protection,
 And you shall see what joy, and what delight,
 What infinite pleasure this poor Month shall yield him.
 I'll make him wish he were dead on's Marriage-day,
 Or Bed-rid with old Age; I'll make him curse,
 And cry and curse, give me but Power.

Fred. You have it,

Here, take my Ring, I am content he pay for't.

Sor. It shall be now Revenge, as I will handle it,
 He shall live after this to beg his Life too:
 Twenty to one by this Thread, as I'll weave it,
Evanthe shall be yours. Fred. Take all Authority,
 And be most happy. Sor. Good Sir, no more Pity.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Tony, three Citizens, and three Wives.

1 Wife. Good Master Tony put me in.

Tony. Where do you dwell?

1 Wife. Forsooth, at the Sign of the great Shoulder of Mutton. [stantly,

Tony. A hungry Man would hunt your House out in-
 Keep the Dogs from your Doors; Is this Lettice Ruff your Husband? a fine sharp Sallet to your Sign.

2 Wife. Will you put me in too?

3 Wife. And me, good Master Tony.

Tony. Put ye all in?

You had best come twenty more; you think 'tis easie,
 A Trick of Legerdemain, to put ye all in,

'Twould

'T would pose a Fellow that had twice my Body,
Though it were all made into Chines and Fillets. [that.

2 Wife. Put's into the Wedding, Sir, we would fain see

1 Wife. And the brave Masque too.

Tony. You two are pretty Women,

Are you their Husbands? 2 Cit. Yes, for want of better.

Tony. I think so too, you would not be so mad else

To turn 'em loose t' a company of young Courtiers,
That swarm like Bees in May, when they see young

Wenches ;

You must not squeak.

3 Wife. No, Sir, we're better tutor'd.

Tony. Nor if a young Lord offer you the courtesie——

2 Wife. We know what 'tis, Sir.

Tony. Nor you must not grumble,

If you be thrust up hard, we thrust most furiously.

1 Wife. We know the worst.

Tony. Get you two in then quietly,

And shift for yourselves ; we must have no old Women,

They're out of use, unless they have Petitions,

Besides they cough so loud, they drown the Musick.

You would go in too? but there's no Place for ye ;

I'm sorry for't, go and forget your Wives,

Or pray they may be able to suffer patiently.

You may have Heirs may prove wise Aldermen,

Go, or I'll call the Guard. 3. Cit. We will get in,

We'll venture broken Pates else. Tony. 'Tis impossible, [Ex. Cit. and Women.

You're too securely arm'd ; how they flock hither,

And with what joy the Women run by Heaps

To see this Marriage ! They tickle to think of it,

They hope for every Month a Husband too ;

Still how they run, and how the Wittals follow 'em,

The weak things that are worn between the Legs,

That brushing, dressing, nor new Naps can mend,

How do they post to see their own Confusion :

This is a merry World.

Enter Frederick.

Fred. Look to the Door Sirrah,

T 2

Thou

Thou art a Fool, and mayst do Mischief lawfully.

Tony. Give me your Hand, you are my Brother Fool,
You may both make the Law, and mar it presently.
D' you love a Wench?

Fred. Who does not, Fool? Tony. Not I
Unless you'll give m' a longer Lease to marry her.

Fred. What are all these that come, what Business have they?

Tony. Some come to gape, those are my fellow Fools;
Some to get home their Wives, those be their own Fools;
Some to rejoice with thee, those be the times Fools;
And some I fear to curse thee, those are poor Fools,

Enter Cassander, an old Lady passing over.

(13) A set People call them honest. Look, look King, look,

A weather-beaten Lady new Careen'd.

Fred. An old one.

Tony. The Glasses of her Eyes are new rub'd over,
And the worm-eaten Records in her Face
Are daub'd up neatly;
She lays her Breasts out too, (14) like two poch'd Eggs
That had the Yolks suckt out; they get new Heads also,
New Teeth, new Tongues, for the old are all worn out,
And as 'tis hop'd, new Tails. Fred. For what?

Tony. For old Courtiers,
The young ones are too stirring for their Travels.

Fred. Go leave your Knav'ry, and help
To keep the Door well, I'll have no such prefs.

Tony. Lay thy Hand o'thy Heart, King.

Fred. I'll have ye whipt.

Tony. The Fool and thou art parted. [Exit.]

(13) A set People call 'em honest—} Mr. Seward proposes correcting this Place thus,

Yet People call 'em honest.

I had put in my Margin

And yet People, &c.

The Preference is left to the Reader's Judgment.

(14) ——— Like to poch'd Eggs} Mr. Seward concurr'd with me in altering the Text.

Fred.

Fred. Sorano work, and free me from this Spell,
'Twiſt Love and Scorn there's nothing felt but Hell. [Exit.

Enter Valerio, Camillo, Cleanthes, Menallo, and Servants.

Val. Tie on my Scarf, you are ſo long about me—
Good my Lords help, give me my other Cloak,
That Hat and Feather, Lord what a Taylor's this,
To make me up thus ſtraight! One Sigh would burſt me,
I have not room to breath, come, button, button,
Button, apace.

Cam. I'm glad to ſee you merry, Sir.

Val. 'Twould make you merry had you ſuch a Wife,
And ſuch an Age t' enjoy her in.

Men. An Age, Sir?

Val. A Month's an Age to him that is contented,
What ſhould I ſeek for more? Give me my Sword.
Ha my good Lords, that every one of you now
Had but a Lady of that Youth and Beauty
To bleſs yourſelves this Night with, would ye not?
Pray ye ſpeak uprightly.

Cle. We confeſs ye happy,
And we could well wiſh ſuch another Banquet,
But on that price, my Lord——

Val. 'Twere nothing elſe;
No Man can ever come to aim at Heav'n,
But by the knowledge of a Hell. Theſe Shoes are heavy,

And if I ſhould be call'd to Dance they'll clog me,
Get me ſome Pumps; I'll tell ye brave Camillo,
And you dear Friends, the King has honour'd me,
Out of his gracious Favour has much honour'd me,
To limit me my time, for who would live long?

Who would be old? 'tis ſuch a wearineſs,
Such a diſeaſe, that hangs like Lead upon us.

As it increaſes, ſo Vexations,
Griefs of the Mind, Pains of the feeble Body,
Rheums, Coughs, Catarrhs; we're but our living Coffins;

Besides, (15) the fair Soul's old too, it grows covetous,
Which shews all Honour is departed from us,
And we are Earth again.

Cle. You make fair use, Sir.

Val. I would not live to learn to lye, Cleantbes,
For all the World; old Men are prone to that too;
Thou that hast been a Soldier, Menallo,
A noble Soldier, and defied all Danger,
Adopted thy brave Arm the Heir to Victory, [thee?
Would'st thou live so long (16) till thy Strength forsook
Till thou grew'st only a long tedious Story
Of what thou hadst been? till thy Sword hang by,
And lazy Spiders fill'd the Hilt with Cobwebs?

Men. No sure, I would not.

Val. 'Tis not fit ye should,
To die a young Man is to be an Angel;
Our (17) great good Parts put Wings unto our Souls:
We'll have a rouse before we go to Bed, Friends,
Pray ye tell me, is't a handsome Mask we have?

Cam. We understand so.

Val. And the young Gentlemen dance?

Cle. They do Sir, and some dance well.

Val. They must before the Ladies.

We'll have a rouse before we go to Bed, Friends,
A lusty one, 'twill make my Blood dance too. [Musick.

Cam. Ten, if you please.

Val. And we'll be wondrous merry.

(15) — the fair Soul's old too, it grows covetous,] The Sentence seems to labour under the want of a Verb which I would supply thus.

— the fair Soul grows old too, grows covetous &c.

(16) — till Strength forsook thee] Thus no Copy but that of 1711.

(17) — great good Parts —] One should not quarrel with a Word merely because it appears a little stiff; Words become so in one Age that Use made not so in the former: Great Parts is yet a common Phrase, but we should not now choose to join great and good to them, which when joined to Parts give much the same Idea; only good Parts signifies a less degree of bright Parts than great, and so make an Anti-Climax. If the Reader therefore should think any Change necessary, I propose which perfectly suits the Context.

Our yet good Parts —

Mr. Seward.

They

They stay sure, come, I hear the Musick; forward,
You shall have all Gloves presently. [Exit.] Men. We attend, Sir,
But first we must look to th' Doors, [Knocking within.
The King has charged us. [Exeunt.

Enter two Servants.

1 Ser. What a Noise
Do you keep there? call my Fellows o' the Guard;
You must cease now until the King be enter'd;
He's gone to th' Temple now.

2 Ser. Look to that back Door,
And keep it fast; they swarm like Bees about it.

Enter Camillo, Cleanthes, Menallo, Tony following.

Cam. Keep back those Citizens, and let their Wives in,
Their handsome Wives.

Tony. They've crowded me to Verjuice,
I sweat like a Butter-Box.

1 Ser. Stand further off there.

Men. Take the Women aside, and talk with 'em in private;

Give 'em that they came for.

Tony. The whole Court cannot do it;
Besides, the next Mask, if we use 'em so,
They'll come by Millions to expect our largess:
We've broke a hundred Heads.

Cle. Are they so tender?

Tony. But 'twas behind, before they have all Murrions.

Cam. Let in those Ladies, make 'em room for shame there.

Tony. They are no Ladies, there's one bald before 'em,
A Gent. bald, they're curtail'd Queans in hired Clothes;
They come out of Spain I think, they're very sultry.

Men. Keep 'em in Breath for an Ambassador.

[Knocks within.

Methinks my Nose shakes at their Memories.

What bouncing's that?

Within. I'm one o' th' Musick, Sir.

Within. I've Sweet-meats for the Banquet.

Cam. Let 'em in.

Tony. They lye, my Lord, they come to seek their Wives,
Two broken Citizens.

Cam. Break 'em more, they are but brusled yet.
Bold Rascals, offer to disturb your Wives?

Cle. Lock the Doors fast, the Musick, hark the King comes.

A Curtain drawn.

The King, Queen, Valerio, Evanthe, Ladies, Attendants, Camillo, Cleanthes, Sorano, Menallo.

A M A S K.

Cupid descends, the Graces sitting by him, Cupid being bound the Graces unbind him, he speaks.

Cupid. Unbind me, my Delight, this Night is mine;
Now let me look upon what Stars here shine,
Let me behold the Beauties, then clap high.
My colour'd Wings, proud of my Deity;
I'm satisfy'd, bind me again, and fast,
My angry Bow will make too great a waste
Of Beauty else; (18) now call my Maskers in,
Call with a Song, and let the Sports begin;
Call all my Servants the Effects of Love,
And to a Measure let them nobly move.

One of the Graces sings.

*Come you Servants of proud Love,
Come away:*

*Fairly, nobly, gently move.
Too long, too long you make us stay;
Fancy, Desire, Delight, Hope, Fear,
Distrust and Jealousie, be you too here;*

{17} ——— Now call my Maskers in

Call with a Song, ———] Cupid bids some of his Attendants
call in the Maskers with a Song, but it seems it was to little purpose, since by the present Disposition of the Scene, he sings the Song himself: To make the god's command of any signification or avail, we ought to insert some Speaker before, Come you Servants, &c. And who can be more proper than one of the Graces who descended with him, and waited at his Side?

Consuming

*Consuming Care, and raging Ire,
And Poverty in poor Attire,
March fairly in, and last Despair ;
Now full Musick strike the Air.*

(19) Enter the Maskers, Fancy, Desire, Delight, Hope, Fear, Distrust, Jealousy, Care, Ire, Poverty, Despair ; they dance, after which Cupid speaks.

Cupid. Away, I've done, the Day begins to light,
Lovers, you know your Fate, good Night, good Night.

[Cupid and the Graces ascend in the Chariot.

King. Come to the Banquet, when that's ended, Sir,
I'll see y' i'bed, and so good Night ; be merry ;
You've a sweet Bed-fellow.

Val. I thank your Grace,
And ever shall be bound unto your Nobleness.

King. I pray I may deserve your Thanks, set forward.

[Exeunt.

A C T III. S C E N E I.

Enter divers Monks, Alphonso going to the Tomb, Rugio and Frier Marco discover the Tomb and a Chair.

Mar. THE Night grows on, lead softly to the Tomb,
And sing not 'till I bid ye ; let the Musick
Play gently as he passës.

Rug. O fair Picture,
That wert the living Hope of all our Honours ;
How are we banisht from the Joy we dreamt of ?
Will he ne'er speak more ?

Mar. 'Tis full three Months, Lord Rugio,

(19) Enter the Maskers,—Care, Ire, Despair,] The Stage Direction here is faulty, as it does not set down the several Names of the Maskers in the foregoing Song ; for upon Comparison we shall find, that out of Eleven there are but Ten reckon'd up, Poverty being dropt betwixt Ire and Despair. This Observation I am not singular in, Mr. Theobald having before made the same in his Margin.

Since

Since any articulate Sound came from his Tongue.

Set him down gently.

[Sits in a Chair.

Rug. What should th' Reason be, Sir?

Mar. As 'tis in Nature with those loving Husbands,
That sympathise their Wives Pains, and their Throes
When they are breeding, and 'tis usual too,
We have it by Experience; (20) so in him, Sir,
In this most noble Spirit that now suffers;
For when his honour'd Father good Brandino
Fell sick, he felt the Griefs, and labour'd with them,
His Fits, and his Disease he still inherited,
Grew the same thing, and had not Nature check'd him,
Strength and Ability, h'ad dy'd that Hour too.

Rug. Emblem of noble Love!

Mar. That very Minute
His Father's Breath forsook him, that same Instant,
A rare Example of his Piety,
And Love paternal, th' Organ of his Tongue
Was never heard to sound again; so near Death
He seeks to wait upon his worthy Father,
But that we force his Meat, he were one Body.

Rug. He points to th' Tomb.

Mar. That is the Place he honours,
An House I fear he will not be long out of.
He will to th' Tomb, good my Lord lend your Hand;
Now sing the fun'ral Song, and let him kneel,
For then he's pleas'd.

[A Song.

Rug. Heav'n lend thy pow'rful Hand,
And ease this Prince.

Mar. He will pass back again.

[Exeunt.

Enter Valerio.

Val. They drink abundantly, I'm hot with Wine too,
Lustily warm, I'll steal now to my Happiness,
'Tis Midnight, and the silent Hour invites me,
But she is up still, and attends the Queen;
Thou Dew of Wine and Sleep hang on their Eye-Lids,

(20) — so in him, Sir,] The Ellipsis of the Verb makes this Passage a good deal obscure.

Steep their dull Senses in the Healths they drink,
That I may quickly find my lov'd Evanthe.
The King is merry too, and drank unto me,
Sign of fair Peace. O this Night's Blessedness!
If I had forty Heads I would give all for't.
Is not the end of our Ambitions,
Of all our human Studies, and our Travels,
Of our Desires, th' obtaining of our Wishes?
Certain it is, and there Man makes his Centre.
I have obtain'd Evanthe, I have married her,
Can any Fortune keep me from enjoying her?

Enter Sorano.

I have my Wish, what's left me to accuse now?
I'm Friends with all the World, but thy base Malice;
Go glory in thy Mischiefs thou proud Man,
And cry it to the World (21) thou hast ruin'd Virtue;
How I contemn thee, and thy petty Malice!
And with what Scorn I look down on thy Practice!

Sor. You'll sing me a new Song anon Valerio,
And wish these hot Words——

Val. I despise thee, Fellow,
Thy Threats, or Flatt'ries, all I fling behind me;
I have my end, I have thy noble Sister,
A Name too worthy of thy Blood; I've married her,
And will enjoy her too.

Sor. 'Tis very likely.

Val. And that short Month I have to bless me with her
I'll make an Age, I'll reckon each Embrace
A Year of Pleasure, and each Night a Jubile,
Ev'ry quick Kiss a Spring; and when I mean
To lose myself in all Delightfulness,
Twenty sweet Summers I will tie together;
In spite of thee, and thy malignant Master,
I will die old in Love, though young in Pleasure.

Sor. But that I hate thee deadly, I could pity thee,
Thou art the poorest miserable thing
This Day on Earth; I'll tell thee why, Valerio,

(21) — thou hast run'd Virtue;] Thus only the Copy of 1711.

All thou esteem'st, and build'st upon for Happiness,
For Joy, for Pleasure, for Delight, is past thee,
And like a wanton Dream already vanish'd.

Val. Is my Love false?

Sor. No, she is constant to thee,
Constant to all thy Misery she shall be,
And curse thee too.

Val. Is my strong Body weaken'd,
Charm'd or abus'd with subtle Drink? Speak, Villain.

Sor. Neither; I dare speak, thou art still as lusty
As when thou lov'dst her first, as strong and hopeful;
The Month thou'st given thee is a Month of Misery,
And where thou think'st each Hour shall yield a Pleasure,
Look for a killing Pain, for thou shalt find it
Before thou diest, each Minute shall prepare it,
And ring so many Knells to sad Afflictions;
The King has giv'n thee a long Month to die in,
And miserably die.

Val. Undo thy Riddle,
I am prepar'd whatever Fate shall follow.

Sor. Dost thou see this Ring?

Val. I know it too.

Sor. Then mark me:

By virtue of this Ring, this I pronounce to thee,
It is the King's will——

Val. Let me know it suddenly.

Sor. If thou dost offer to touch Evanthe's Body
Beyond a Kiss, though thou art marry'd to her,
And lawfully as thou think'st may'st enjoy her,
That Minute she shall die. Val. O Devil——

Sor. If thou
Discover this Command unto her, or to
A Friend that shall importune thee, and why thou
Abstain'st, and from whose Will, ye perish; all
Upon the self-same Forfeit: Are ye fitted, Sir?
Now if ye love her, ye may preserve her Life still,
If not, you know the worst: How falls your Month out?

Val. This Tyranny could never be invented
But in the School of Hell, Earth is too innocent;
Not to enjoy her when she is my Wife?

When

When she is willing too,

Sor. She is most willing,

And will run mad to miss; but if you hit her,

Be sure you hit her home, and kill her with it,

(There are such Women that will die with Pleasure :)

The Ax will follow else, that will not fail

To fetch her Maidenhead, and dispatch her quickly;

Then shall the World know you're the Cause of Murder,

And as 'tis requisite your Life shall pay for't.

Val. Thou dost but jest, thou canst not be so monstrous

As thou proclaim'st thyself; thou art her Brother,

And there must be a feeling Heart within thee

Of her Afflictions; wert thou a Stranger to us,

And bred amongst wild Rocks, thy Nature wild too,

Affection in thee as thy Breeding, cold,

And unrelenting as the Rocks that nourish'd thee,

Yet thou must shake to tell me this; they tremble

When the rude Sea threatens Divorce among't 'em,

They that are senseless Things shake at a Tempest;

Thou art a Man——

Sor. Be thou too then, 'twill try thee,

And Patience now will best become thy Nobleness.

Val. Invent some other Torment to afflict me,

All, if thou please, put all Afflictions on me,

Study thy Brains out for 'em, so this be none

I care not of what Nature, nor what Cruelty,

Nor of what length.

Sor. This is enough to vex ye.

Val. The Tale of Tantalus is now prov'd true,

And from me shall be registred Authentick;

To have my Joys within my Arms, and lawful,

Mine own Delights, yet dare not touch. Even as

Thou hat'st me Brother, let no young Man know this,

As thou shalt hope for Peace when thou most need'st it,

Peace in thy Soul; desire the King to kill me,

Make me a Traitor, any thing, I'll yield to it,

And give thee cause, so I may die immediately;

Lock me in Prison where no Sun may see me,

In Walls so thick no hope may e'er come at me,

Keep

Keep me from Meat, and Drink, and Sleep, I'll bless thee;
Give me some damned Potion (22) to deliver me,
That I may never know myself again, forget
My Country, Kindred, Name and Fortune; last,
That my chaste Love may ne'er appear before me,
This were some Comfort,

Sor. All I have I've brought ye,
And much good may it do ye, my dear Brother,
See ye observe it well; you'll find about ye
Many Eyes set, that shall o'er-look your Actions,
If you transgress, ye know, and so I leave ye. [Exit.

(22) Val. Heav'n be not angry, and I've some hope yet,
And when you please, and how allay my Miseries.
[Enter Frederick.

To whom I kneel be merciful unto me,
Look on my harmless Youth Angels of Pity,
And from my bleeding Heart wipe off my Sorrows,
The Power, the Pride, the Malice and Injustice
Of cruel Men, are bent against my Innocence.
You that controul the mighty Wills of Princes,
And bow their stubborn Armes, look on my Weakness,
And when you please, and how, allay my Miseries. [Exit.
Enter

(22) — to deliver me,] i. e. Deliver me from myself. I've thought that the Passage ought to run thus,

———— to delire me,

i. e. make me delirious; and I am not certain yet that it ought not to be so read.

(23) Val. Heav'n be not angry, and I've some hope yet,
And when you please, and how, allay my Miseries.

Enter Frederick.

To whom I kneel be merciful unto me,
Look on my harmless Youth Angels of Pity,
And from my bleeding Heart wipe off my Sorrows,
The Power, the Pride, the Malice and Injustice
Of cruel Men are bent against my Innocence.
You that controul the mighty Wills of Princes
And bow their stubborn Armes, look on my Weakness,
And when you please, and how, allay my Miseries. [Exit.]

This fine Speech I have recovered from the Folio of 1647, which why it should have been dropp'd, all but the first Line, by the two later Editors, I am at a loss to understand. I have given it in the Text. expressly as I found it, tho' I think it not so correct as to preclude all Attempts

Enter Frederick, and Sorano.

Fred. Hast thou been with him?

Sor. Yes, and given him that, Sir,
Will make him curse his Birth; I told ye which way.
Did you but see him, Sir, but look upon him,
With what a troubled and dejected Nature
He walks now in a Mist, with what a Silence,
As if he were the Shroud he wrapt himself in,
And no more of Valerio but his Shadow,
He seeks Obscurity to hide his Thoughts in,
You'd wonder and admire for all you know it;
His Jollity is down, valed to the Ground, Sir,
And his high Hopes of full Delights and Pleasures
Are turn'd Tormentors to him, strong Diseases.

Fred. But is there hope of her?

Sor. It must fall necessary
She must dislike him, quarrel with his Person,
For Women once deluded are next Devils?
And in the height of that Opinion, Sir,
You shall put on again, and she must meet ye.

Fred. I'm glad of this.

Sor. I'll tell ye all the Circumstance
Within this Hour; but sure I heard your Grace,
To day as I attended, make some Stops,
Some broken Speeches, and some Sighs between,
And then your Brother's Name I heard distinctly,
And some sad Wishes after.

Attempts toward its Melioration and Amendment. The second Line I would strike out as supernumerary and tautological, as well as the Stage Direction, Enter Frederick: Armes too, in the last but one, is plainly corrupted; in short, I would propose to read and point the whole thus,

Val. *Heav'n be not angry, and I've some hope yet,
To whom I kneel; be merciful unto me,
Look on my barmless Youth, Angels of Pity,
And from my bleeding Heart wipe off my Sorrows;
The Power, the Pride, the Malice and Injustice
Of cruel Men are bent against my Innocence.
You that controul the mighty Wills of Princes,
And bow their stubborn Arms, look on my Weakness,
And when you please, and how, allay my Miseries.*

Fred.

Fred. Ye're i' th' right, Sir,
I would he were as sad as I could wish him,
Sad as the Earth.

Sor. Would ye have it so?

Fred. Thou hear'st me.

Though he be sick with small hope of Recovery,
That hope still lives, and Mens Eyes live upon it,
And in their Eyes their Wishes; my Sorano,
Were he but cold once in the Tomb he dotes on,
(As 'tis the fittest Place for Melancholy,)
My Court should be another Paradise,
And flow with all Delights. Sor. Go to your Pleasures,
Let me alone with this, Hope shall not trouble ye,
Nor he three Days. Fred. I shall be bound unto thee.

Enter Valerio, Camillo, Cleanthes, and Menallo.

Sor. I'll do it neatly too, no Doubt shall catch me.

Fred. Be gone, they're going to Bed, I'll bid good Night to 'em.

Sor. And mark the Man, you'll scarce know 'tis Valerio:
[Exit.

Cam. Chear up my noble Lord, the Minute's come,
You shall enjoy the Abstract of all Sweetness;
We did you wrong, you need no Wine to warm ye,
Desire shoots through your Eyes like sudden Wildfires.

Val. Beshrew me Lords, the Wine has made me dull,
I am I know not what.

Fred. Good Pleasure to ye,
Good Night and long too, as you find your Appetite
You may fall to.

Val. I do beseech your Grace, [Aside to Frederick.
For which of all my Loves and Services
Have I deserv'd this?

Fred. I'm not bound to answer ye.

Val. Nor I bound to obey in unjust Actions.

Fred. Do as you please, you know the Penalty,
And as I have a Soul it shall be executed;
Nay look not pale, I am not us'd to fear, Sir,
If you respect your Lady, good Night to ye. [Exit.

Val. But for Respect to her, and to my Duty,

That

That reverend Duty that I owe my Sovereign,
Which Anger has no Power to snatch me from,
The good Night should be thine; good Night for ever.
The King is wanton, Lords, he would needs know of me
How many nick Chacés I would make to Night.

Men. My Lord, no doubt you'll prove a perfect Gamester.

Val. Faith no, I'm unacquainted with the Pleasure,
Bungle a Set I may: How my Heart trembles,
And beats my Breast as it would break his way out!
Good Night, my noble Friends.

Cle. Nay we must see you
Toward your Bed, my Lord.

Val. Good faith it needs not,
'Tis late, and I shall trouble you. Cam. No, no,
Till the Bride come, Sir— Val. I beseech you leave me,
You'll make me bashful else, I am so foolish;—
Besides, I have some few Devotions, Lords,
And he that can pray with such a Book in's Arms—

Cam. We'll leave ye then, and a sweet Night wait on ye.

Men. And a sweet Issue of this sweet Night crown ye.

Cle. All Nights and Days be such till you grow old, Sir.

[Exeunt Lords.]

Val. I thank ye, 'tis a Curse sufficient for me,
A labour'd one too, though you mean a Blessing.
What shall I do? I'm like a wretched Debtor,
That has a Sum to tender on the Forfeit
Of all he's worth, yet dare not offer it.
Other Men see the Sun, yet I must wink at it,
And though I know 'tis perfect Day, deny it:
My Veins are all on Fire, and burn like Ætna,
Youth and Desire beat 'Larums to my Blood,
And add fresh Fuel to my warm Affections.
I must enjoy her, yet when I consider,
When I collect myself, and weigh her Danger,
The Tyrant's Will, and his Pow'r taught to Murder,
My tender Care controlls my Blood within me,
And like a cold Fit of a peevish Ague
Creeps to my Soul, and flings an Ice upon me,

Enter Queen, Evanthe, Ladies and Fool.

That locks all Pow'rs of Youth up: But Prevention—
O what a Blessedness 'twere to be old now,
To be unable, Bed-rid with Diseases,
Or halt on Crutches to meet holy Hymen;
What a rare Benefit! But I am curst,
That that speaks other Men most freely happy,
And makes all Eyes hang on their Expectations,
Must prove the bane of me, Youth, and Ability.
She comes to Bed, how shall I entertain her?

Tony. Nay I come after too, take the Fool with ye,
For lightly he is ever one at Weddings.

Queen. Evanthe,
Make y' unready, your Lord stays for ye,
And prithee be merry.

Tony. Be very merry, Chicken,
Thy Lord will Pipe to thee anon, and make thee Dance too.

Lady. Will he so, good-man As?

Tony. Yes, good Filly,
And you had such a Pipe, that pip'd so sweetly,
You'd dance to Death, you've learnt your Sinque apace.

Evan. Your Grace desires that, that's too free in me;
I'm merry at the Heart.

Tony. Thou'lt be anon,
The young smug Boy will give thee a sweet Cordial:

Evan. I am so taken up in all my Thoughts,
So possess't, Madam, with the lawful Sweets
I shall this Night partake of with my Lord,
So far transported (pardon my Immodesty.)—

Val. Alas poor Wench, how shall I recompence thee?

Evan. That though they must be short, and snatcht away too

E'er they grow ripe, yet I shall far prefer 'em
Before a tedious Pleasure with Repentance.

Val. O how my Heart akes!

Evan. Take off my Jewels, Ladies,
And let my Ruff loose, I shall bid good Night t' ye,
My Lord stays here.

Queen. My Wench, I thank thee heartily,

For

For learning how to use thy few Hours handsomly,
They will be Years I hope; off with your Gown now,
Lay down the Bed there. Tony. Shall I get into it
And warm it for thee? a Fool's Fire's a fine thing,
And I'll so bus thee.

Queen. I'll have ye whipt, ye Rascal.

Tony. That will provoke me more; I'll talk with thy Husband.

He's a wise Man I hope.

Evan. Good night dear Madam,
Ladies, no further Service, I am well,
I do beseech your Grace to give us this leave;
My Lord and I to one another freely,
And privately, may do all other Ceremonies;
Woman and Page we'll be to one another,
And trouble you no farther.

Tony. Art thou a wise Man?

Val. I cannot tell thee, Tony, ask my Neighbours.

Tony. If thou beest so, go lye with me to Night,
Th' old Fool will lye quieter than the young one,
And give thee more Sleep, thou wilt look to morrow else
Worse than the prodigal Fool the Ballad speaks of,
That was squeez'd through a Horn.

Val. (24) I shall take thy Counsel.

Queen. Why then good night, good night, my best Evanthe,

My worthy Maid, and as that Name shall vanish,
(25) A worthy Wife, a long and happy; follow Sirrah.)

Evan. That shall be my care,
Goodness rest with your Grace.

Queen.

(24) Val. I shall take thy Counsel.] This is aside if the Words are right; but perhaps they would be better join'd, with some little Change, to the End of the Fool's Speech:

That was squeez'd through a Horn. Wilt take my Counsel?

(25) A worthy Wife, a long and happy; follow Sirrah.

Evan. That shall be my care,

Goodness rest with your Grace.] Instead of, follow Sirrah, I could wish to connect the Verb with the preceding Words. The Relative that too in the second Line, can only refer to, a worthy Wife, for all Evanthe's Care and Prudence could not possibly make her a long and happy one. With likewise in the last seems to have little U 2 Business

Queen. Be lusty, Lord, and take your Lady to ye,
And that Power that shall part ye be unhappy.

Val. Sweet rest unto ye, to ye all, sweet Ladies;

Tony, good night.

Tony. Shall not the Fool stay with thee?

Queen. Come away, Sirrah. [Exeunt Queen and Ladies.]

Tony. How the Fool is sought for!

Sweet Malt is made of easy Fire,

A hasty Horse will quickly tire,

A sudden Leaper sticks i' th' Mire,

“ Phlebotomy and th' Word lye nigher,

“ Take heed of Friend, I thee require;

This from an Almanack I stole,

And learn this Lesson from a Fool.

Good night my Bird.

[Exit Tony.]

Evan. Good night wife master Tony;

Will ye to Bed, my Lord? Come, let me help ye.

Val. To Bed, Evanthe, art thou sleepy? Evan. No,
I shall be worse if you look sad upon me;

Pray ye let's to Bed.

Val. I am not well, my Love.

Evan. I'll make ye well, there's no such Physick for ye
As your warm Mistrefs's Arms.

Val. Art thou so cunning?

Evan. I speak not by Experience, 'pray ye mistake not,
But if you love me——

Val. I do love so dearly,

So much above the base bent of Desire,
I know not how to answer thee.

Evan. To Bed then,

There I shall better credit ye; fie my Lord,

Business there. In a word, I would propose reading the whole in this manner:

A worthy Wife, a long and happy fellow it.

Evan. That shall be my Care; these——

Goodness rest your Grace.—That shall——

i. e. to be a worthy Wife shall be my Study and Endeavour; but these,
i. e. long and happy, must be left to the Gods (or something to that Effect) and so, Goodness rest, &c. i. e. May the Gods give your Grace good Rest to night.

Will

Will ye put a Maid to't, to teach ye what to do?
An innocent Maid? Are ye so cold a Lover?
In truth you make me blush, 'tis Midnight too,
And 'tis no stol'n Love, but authoris'd openly,
No Sin we covet; pray let me undress ye,
You shall help me too; prithee, sweet Valerio,
Be not so sad, the King will be more merciful.

Val. May not I love thy Mind?

Evan. And I yours too,
'Tis a most noble one, adorn'd with Virtue;
But if we love not one another really,
And put our Bodies and our Mind together,
And so make up the Concord of Affection,
Our Love will prove but a blind Superstition:
This is no School to argue in, my Lord,
Nor have we time to talk away allow'd us,
Pray let's dispatch, if any one should come
And find us at this distance, what would they think?
Come, kiss me, and to Bed. Val. That I dare do,
And kiss again. Evan. Spare not, they are your own, Sir.

Val. But to enjoy thee is to be luxurious;
Too sensual in my Love, and too ambitious;
O how I burn! to pluck thee from the Stalk,
Where now thou grow'st a sweet Bud and a beauteous,
And bear'st the prime and honour of the Garden,
Is but to violate thy Spring, and spoil thee.

Evan. To let me blow, and fall alone, would anger ye.

Val. Let's sit together thus, and as we sit
Feed on the Sweets of one another's Souls.
The Happiness of Love is Contemplation,
The Blessedness of Love is pure Affection,
Where no Allay of actual dull Desires,
Of Pleasure that partakes with Wantonness,
Of human Fire that burns out as it kindles,
(26) And leaves the Body but a poor Repentance,
Can ever mix; let's fix on that, Evanthe,

(26) And leaves the Body but a poor Repentance,] Our Authors, as the Reader will observe, are a little unphilosophical in expressing the Sentiment, since not the Body but the Soul is the proper Subject of Repentance.

That's Everlasting, th' other Casual ;
Eternity breeds one, the other Fortune,
Blind as herself, and full of all Afflictions:
Shall we love virtuously ?

Evan. I ever loved so.

Val. (27) And only think our Love? the rarest Pleasure,
(And that we most desire, let it be human,)
If once enjoy'd grows stale, and cloy's our Appetites ;
I would not lessen in my Love for any thing,
(28) Nor find thee but the same in my short Journey,
For my Love's safety.

Evan. Now I see I'm old, Sir,
Old and ill-favour'd too, poor and despis'd,
And am not worth your noble Fellowship,
Your Fellowship in Love, you would not else
Thus cunningly seek to betray a Maid,
A Maid that honours you thus piously ;
Strive to abuse the pious Love she brings ye.
Farewel my Lord, since ye've a better Mistress,
(For it must seem so, or ye are no Man,)
A younger, happier, I shall give her room,
So much I love ye still.

Val. Stay my Evanthe,
Heav'n bear me Witness, thou art all I love,
All I desire, and now (29) have Pity on me.
I never lyed before, forgive me, Justice ;

(27) And only think our Love ;—] The Pointing requir'd is that in the Text.

(28) Nor find thee but the same in my short Journey,
For my Love's safety.] Valerio would not suffer the least Abatement of her Affection if he might save, — What by it? his Love? his Life to be sure he design'd to save, and the true Reading is,

For my Life's safety.

(29) ——— have Pity on me.

I never lyed before, forgive me, Justice ;

Youth and Affection stop your Ears unto me.] Valeria going to pretend Impotency, prays, aside, that Heaven may forgive the Lie, and (as the Text at present runs) Evanthe not believe, but stop her Ears against it. But is not this a Contradiction glaring enough? 'Tis, I think, not only possible but very probable the Authors Manuscript ran,

Youth and Affection ope your Ears unto me.

i. e. to hear and believe what he was going to discover.

Youth

Youth and Affection stop your Ears unto me.

Evan. Why do you weep? If I have spoke too harshly,
And unbeseeming, my beloved Lord,
My Care and Duty, pardon me.

Val. O hear me,
Hear me, Evanthe; I am all on Torture,
And this Lie tears my Conscience as I vent it; [Aside.
I am no Man.

Evan. How, Sir? Val. No Man for Pleasure,
No Woman's Man.

Evan. Goodness forbid my Lord,
Sure you abuse yourself. Val. 'Tis true, Evanthe,
I shame to say you'll find it. [Weeps.

Evan. He weeps bitterly;
'Tis my hard Fortune, bless all young Maids from it;
Is there no help, my Lord, in Art will comfort ye?

Val. I hope there is.

Evan. How long have you been destitute?

Val. Since I was young.

Evan. 'Tis hard to die for nothing:
Now you shall know 'tis not the Pleasure, Sir,
(For I'm compell'd to love you spiritually)
That Women aim at, I affect ye for,
'Tis for your Worth; and kifs me, be at Peace,
Because I ever lov'd ye, I still honour ye,
And with all Duty to my Husband follow ye;
Will ye to Bed now? y' are asham'd it seems;
Pygmalion pray'd, and his cold Stone took Life;
You do not know with what Zeal I shall ask, Sir,
And what rare Mir'cle that may work upon ye;
Still blush? prescribe your Law.

Val. I prithee pardon me,
To Bed, and I'll sit by thee, and mourn with thee,
Mourn both our Fortunes, our unhappy ones:
Do not despise me, make me not more wretched.
I pray to Heav'n, when I am gone, Evanthe,
As my poor Date is but a Span of time now,
To recompence thy noble Patience,
Thy Love and Virtue with a fruitful Husband,
Honest and honourable.

Evan. Come, you have made me weep now,
All fond Desire die here, and welcome Chastity,
Honour and Chastity; do what you please, Sir. [Exeunt.]

A C T IV. S C E N E I.

Enter at one Door Rugio and Friar Marco, at the other Door Sorano, with a little Glass-Viol.

Rug. WHAT ails this Piece of Mischief to look sad?
He seems to weep too.

Mar. Something is a hatching,
And of some bloody Nature too, Lord Rugio,
This Crocodile mourns thus cunningly.

Sor. Hail holy Father,
And good Day to the good Lord Rugio;
How fares the sad Prince, I beseech ye, Sir?

Rug. 'Tis like you know, you need not ask that Question,
You have your Eyes and Watches on his Miseries
As near as ours, I would they were as tender.

Mar. Can you do him good? as the King and you appointed him,
So he is still, as you desir'd I think too,
For every Day he's worse: Heav'n pardon all!
Put off your Sorrow, you may laugh now, Lord,
He cannot last long to disturb your Master,
You have done worthy Service to his Brother,
And he most memorable Love.

Sor. You do not know, Sir,
With what Remorse I ask, nor with what Weariness
I groan and bow under this Load of Honour,
And how my Soul sighs for the beastly Services
I've done his Pleasures, these be witness with me;
And from your Piety believe me, Father,
I would as willingly uncloath myself
Of Title, that becomes me not, I know,
(Good Men and great Names best agree together;)
Cast off the glorious Favours, and the Trappings

Of Sound and Honour, Wealth and Promises,
His wanton Pleasures have flung on my Weakness,
And chuse to serve my Country's Cause and Virtue's,
Poorly and honestly, and redeem my Ruins,
As I would hope Remission of my Mischiefs.

Rug. Old and experienc'd Men, my Lord Sorano,
Are not so quickly caught with gilt Hypocrisie;
You pull your Claws in now and fawn upon us,
As Lions do t' entice poor foolish Beasts;
And Beasts we should be too if we believ'd ye;
Go exercise your Art.

Sor. For Heav'n's sake scorn me not,
Nor add more Hell to my afflicted Soul
Than I feel here; as you are honourable,
As you are charitable, look gently on me:
I will no more to Court, be no more Devil,
I know I must be hated even of him
That has my Love now, and the more he loves me
For his foul Ends, when they shall once appear to him,
Must before his Conscience and accuse him,
The fouler and the more falls his Displeasure;
Princes are fading things, so are their Favours.

Mar. He weeps again,
His Heart is toucht sure with Remorse. Sor. See this,
And give me fair Attention, good my Lord,
And worthy Father see, within this Viol
The Remedy and Cure of all my Honour,
And of the sad Prince, lyes.

Rug. What new Trick's this?

Sor. 'Tis true, I have done Offices abundantly
Ill and prodigious to the Prince Alphonso,
And whilst I was a Knave I fought his Death too.

Rug. You are too late convicted to be good yet.

Sor. But Father, when I felt this part afflict me,
This inward part, and call'd me to an audit
Of my Misdeeds and Mischiefs——

Mar. Well, go on Sir.

Sor. O then, then, then, what was my Glory then,
Father?

The Favour of the King, what did that ease me?

What

What was it to be bow'd to by all Creatures
Worship, and courted? what did this avail me?
I was a Wretch, a poor lost Wretch.

Mar. Still better.

Sor. 'Till in the midst of all my Grief I found
Repentance, and a learn'd man to gi' th' Means to it.
A Jew, an honest and a rare Physician;
Of him I had this Jewel; 'tis a Jewel,
And at the Price of all my Wealth I bought it:
If the King knew it I must lose my Head,
And willingly, most willingly I'd suffer;
A Child may take it, 'tis so sweet in working.

Mar. To whom would you apply it?

Sor. To the sick Prince,
It will in half a Day dissolve his Melancholy.

Rug. I do believe, and give him sleep for ever.
What Impudence is this, and what base Malice,
To make us Instruments of thy Abuses?
Are we set here to poison him? Sor. Mistake not;
Yet I must needs say, 'tis a noble Care,
And worthy virtuous Servants; if you'll see
A flourishing Estate again in Naples,
And great Alphonso reign that's truly good,
And like himself able to make all excellent,
Give him his Drink; and this good Health unto him.

[Drinks.]

I'm not so desp'rate yet to kill myself;
Never look on me as a guilty Man,
Nor on the Water as a speedy Poison:
I am not mad, nor laid out all my Treasure,
My Conscience and my Credit, to abuse ye:
How nimbly and how chearfully it works now
Upon my Heart and Head! Sure I'm a new Man,
There is no Sadness that I feel within me,
But as it meets it, like a lazy Vapour
How it flies off. Here, give it him with Speed,
You are more guilty than I ever was,
And worthier of the Name of evil Subjects,
If but an Hour you hold this from his Health.

Rug.

A Wife for a Month. 315

Rug. (30) 'Tis some rare virtuous thing fure; he's a good Man!

It must be so, come, let's apply it presently,
And may it sweetly work. Sor. Pray let me hear on't,
And carry't close, my Lords. Mar. Yes, good Sorano.

[Exeunt Rugio and Marco.]

Sor. Do my good Fools, my honest pious Coxcombs,
My wary Fools too: Have I caught your Wisdoms?
You never dreamt I knew an Antidote,
Nor how to take it to secure mine own Life;
I am an Ass; go, give him the fine Cordial,
And when you've done go dig his Grave, good Frier;
Some two Hours hence we shall have such a Bawling,
And roaring up and down for Aqua vitæ,
Such rubbing, and such 'nointing, and such cooling;
I've sent him that will make a Bonfire in's Belly;
If he recover't, there is no Heat in Hell fure. [Exit.]

Enter Frederick, and Podramo.

Fred. Podramo? Pod. Sir. Fred. Call hither Lord Valerio,

And let none trouble us. Pod. It shall be done, Sir. [Exit.]

Fred. I know he wants n' Additions to his Tortures,
He has enough for human Blood to carry,
(Yet I must vex him further;)
So many, that I wonder his hot Youth
And high-bred Spirit breaks not into Fury;
I must yet torture him a little further,
And make myself Sport with his Miseries,
My Anger is too poor else. Here he comes.

Enter Valerio.

Now my young marry'd Lord, how do you feel yourself;
You have the Happiness you ever aim'd at,
The Joy and Pleasure.

Val. Would you had the like, Sir.

Fred. You tumble in Delights with your sweet Lady,

(30) 'Tis some rare virtuous thing—] So Milton in his Il penseroso uses the Word,

And of the Virtuous Ring and Glass, &c.

And

And draw the Minutes out in dear Embraces,
You live a right Lord's Life.

Val. Would you had tried it,
That you might know the Virtue but to suffer :
Your Anger, though it be unjust and insolent,
Sits handsomer upon you than your Scorn ;
To do a willful Ill, and glory in it,
Is to do't double, double to be damn'd too.

Fred. Hast thou not found a loving and free Prince,
High in his favours too ; that has conferr'd
Such hearts ease, and such heaps of comfort on thee,
All thou could'st ask ?

Val. You're grown a Tyrant too
Upon so suffering, and so still a Subject ;
You've put upon me such a Punishment,
That if your Youth were honest it would blush at :
But you're a shame to Nature, as to Virtue.
Pull not my Rage upon ye, 'tis so just,
It will give way to no respect ; my Life,
My innocent Life, I dare maintain it, Sir,
Like a wanton Prodigal you've flung away ;
Had I a thousand more I would allow 'em,
And be as careless of 'em as your will is ;
But to deny those rights the Law hath giv'n me,
The holy Law, and make her Life the Penance,
Is such a studied and unheard of Malice,
No Heart that is not hired from Hell dare think of ;
To do it then too, when my Hopes were high,
High as my Blood, all my Desires upon me,
My free Affections ready to embrace her,

Enter Cassiandra.

And she mine own. D'you smile at this? Is't done well?
Is there not Heav'n above you, that sees all? [Exit Val.

Fred. Come hither, Time, how does your noble Mistress?

Cas. As a Gentlewoman may
Do in her case that's newly married, Sir :
(31) Sickly sometimes and fond on't, like your Majesty.

(31) Sickly sometimes and fond on't, like your Majesty.] This Place
I would read so,

Sickly sometimes and fond, an't like your Majesty.

Fred.

Fred. She's breeding then?

Caf. She wants much of her Colour,
And has her qualms as Ladies use to have, Sir,
And her disgusts.

Fred. And keeps her Chamber?

Caf. Yes, Sir,

Fred. And eats good Broths and Jellies.

Caf. I am sure she sighs, Sir, and weeps, good Lady.

Fred. Alas, good Lady, for it,
She should have one could comfort her, Cassandra,
Could turn those Tears to Joys, a lusty Comforter.

Caf. A comfortable Man does well at all Hours,
For he brings comfortable things. Fred. Come hither,
And hold your Fan between, you've eaten Onions;
Her Breath stinks like a Fox, her Teeth are contagious;
These old Women are all Elder-pipes; do ye mark me?
[Gives a Purse.

Caf. Yes, Sir, but does your Grace think I am fit,
That am both old and virtuous?

Fred. Therefore the fitter, th' older still the better,
I know thou art as holy as an old Cope,
Yet upon necessary use——

Caf. 'Tis true, Sir.

Fred. Her feeling sense is fierce still, speak unto her,
You are familiar; speak, I say, unto her,
Speak to the purpose; tell her this, and this.

Caf. Alas, she's honest, Sir, she's very honest,
And would you have my Gravity—— Fred. I, I,
Your Gravity will become the Cause the better;
I'll look thee out a Knight shall make thee a Lady too,
A lusty Knight, and one that shall be ruled by thee,
And add to these, I'll make 'em good, no mincing,
Nor ducking out of nicety, good Lady,
But do it home; we'll all be Friends too, tell her,
And such a Joy——

Caf. That's it that stirs me up, Sir,
I would not for the World attempt her Chastity,
But that they may live lovingly hereafter.

Fred. For that I urge it too. Caf. A little Evil
May well be suffered for a general good, Sir,

I'll take my leave of your Majesty.

[Exit.]

Enter Valerio.

Fred. Go fortunately,
Be speedy too : Here comes Valerio,
If his Affliction have allay'd his Spirit
My work has end. Come hither, Lord Valerio,
How do you now ?

Val. Your Majesty may guess,
Not so well, nor so fortunate as you are,
That can tie up (32) Mens honest Wills and Actions

Fred. You clearly see now, brave Valerio,
What 'tis to be the Rival to a Prince,
To interpose against a raging Lion ;
I know you've suffer'd, infinitely suffer'd,
And with a kind of Pity I behold it,
And if you dare be worthy of my Mercy,
I can yet heal you, yield up your Evanthe,
Take off my Sentence also.

Val. I fall thus low, Sir,
My poor sad Heart under your Feet I lay,
And all the Service of my Life. Fred. Do this then,
For without this 'twill be impossible,
Part with her for a while.

Val. You've parted us,
What should I do with that I cannot use, Sir ?

Fred. 'Tis well consider'd, let me have the Lady,
And thou shalt see how nobly I'll befriend thee,
How all this difference——

(32) —— Mens honest Wills and Actions.] After this Speech, there follows in the Copy of 1647, a foolish as well as maimed and corrupted Repetition of the following ones,

Fred. You have the Happiness you never aim'd at,
The Joy and Pleasure.

Val. Wou'd you had the like, Sir.

Fred. You tumble in Delights with your sweet Lady,
And drew the Minutes out in dear Embraces ;
You lead a right Lord's Life.

Val. Wou'd you had try'd it,
That you might know the Virtue but to suffer ;
If Anger, tho' it be unjust and insolent
Sits handsomer upon you than your Scorn.

Fred. You clearly see, &c.

Val.

Val. Will she come, d'you think, Sir?

Fred. She must be wrought, I know she is too modest,
And gently wrought, and cunningly.

Val. 'Tis fit, Sir.

Fred. And secretly it must be done.

Val. As thought.

Fred. I'll warrant ye her Honour shall be fair still,
No foil nor stain shall appear on that, Valerio ;
You see a thousand that bear sober Faces,
And shew off, as inimitable Modesties,
You would be sworn too that they were pure Matrons,
And most chaste Maids ; and yet t'augment their Fortunes,
And get them noble Friends ———

Val. They are content, Sir,
In private to bestow their Beauties on 'em.

Fred. They are so, and they're wise, they know no want for't,
Nor no Eye sees they want their Honesties.

Val. If't might be carried thus.

Fred. It shall be, Sir.

Val. I'll see you dead first ; with this Caution, [Aside.
Why, sure I think it might be done.

Fred. Yes, easily.

Val. For what time would your Grace desire her Body?

Fred. A Month or two ; it shall be carried still
As if she kept with you, and were a Stranger,
Rather a hater of the Grace I offer ;
And then I will return her with such Honour ———

Val. 'Tis very like ; I dote much on your Honour.

Fred. And load her with such Favour too, Valerio——

Val. She never shall claw off : I humbly thank ye.

Fred. I'll make ye both the happiest, and the richest,
And th' mightiest too———

Val. But who shall work her, Sir ?
For on my Conscience she is very honest,
And will be hard to cut as a rough Diamond.

Fred. Why, you must work her, any thing from your Tongue,
Set off with golden and persuasive Language,
Urging your Dangers too———

Val.

Val. But all this time

Have you the Conscience, Sir, to leave me nothing,
Nothing to play withal? Fred. There be a thousand,
Take where thou wilt.

Val. May I make bold with your Queen?
She's useles to your Grace, as it appears, Sir,
And but a loyal Wife that may be lost too;
I have a mind to her, and then 'tis equal.

Fred. How, Sir?

Val. 'Tis so, Sir: thou most glorious Impudence,
Have I not wrongs enow to suffer under,
But thou must pick me out to make a Monster?
A hated wonder to the World? D' you start
At my intrenching on your private Liberty,
And would you force a High-way through mine Honour,
And make me pave it too? But that thy Queen
(33) Is of that excellence in Honefty,
And guarded with Divinity about her,
No loose thought can come near, nor flame unhallowed,
I would so right myself.

Fred. Why, take her to ye;

I am not vex'd at this, thou shalt enjoy her,
I'll be thy Friend, if that may win thy Courtesie.

Val. I will not be your Bawd, though for your Royalty.
Was I brought up, and nourish'd in the Court,
With thy most Royal Brother, and thyself,
Upon thy Father's charge, thy happy Father's,
And suck'd the sweetness of all human Arts,
Learn'd Arms and Honour, to become a Rascal?
Was this the expectation of my Youth,
My growth of Honour? Do you speak this truly,
Or do you try me, Sir? for I believe not,
At least I would not, and methinks 'tis impossible
There should be such a Devil in a King's Shape,
Such a malignant Friend.

(33) Is of that excellent Honefty] The Edition of 1679, from whence that of 1711 is but a Transcript, has happily preserv'd the Sense of our Authors, but the Expression is his own, for thus runs the Folio 1647,

Is of that excellence in Honefty.

Fred.

Fred. I thank ye, Sir,
To morrow is your last Day, and look to it——
Get from my sight, away. Val. Ye are——Oh, my Heart is too high and full to think upon ye. [Exeunt.]

Enter Evanthe, and Cassandra.

Evan. You think it fit then, mortified Cassandra,
That I should be a Whore?

Caf. Why a Whore, Madam?
If ev'ry Woman that upon necessity
Did a good turn, (for there's the main point, mark it,)
Were term'd a Whore, who would be honest, Madam?
Your Lord's Life, and your own, are now in hazard,
Two precious Lives may be redeem'd with nothing,
Little or nothing; say an Hour's or Day's Sport,
Or such a Toy, (34) the end to't is not Wantonness,
That we call Lust, that Maidens lose their Fame for
But a compell'd necessity of Honour,
Fair as the Day, and clear as Innocence,
Upon my Life and Conscience, a direct way——

Evan. To be a Rascal.

Caf. 'Tis a kind of Rape too,
That keeps you clear; for where your Will's compell'd,
Though you yield up your Body, you are safe still.

Evan. Thou'art grown a learned Bawd, I ever look'd
Thy great sufficiency would break out.

Caf. You may,
You that are young and fair, scorn us old Creatures,
But you must know my Years, e'er you be wise, Lady,
And my Experience too; say the King loved ye?
Say it were nothing else? Evan. I, marry Wench,
Now thou comest to me.

Caf. Do you think Princes Favours are such slight
Things,
To fling away when you please? There be young Ladies,

(34) ——the end to it is Wantonness,] For want of a negative
Particle here, the old Procureess is made to contradict all she was contending for; the Place ought to run so,

——the end to it is not Wantonness,
Mr. Seward likewise made the same Observation.

Both fair and honourable, that would leap to reach 'em,
And leap aloft too.

Evan. Such are light enough ;
I am no Vaulter, Wench ; but canst thou tell me,
Though he be a King whether he be found or no ?
I would not give my youth up to Infection.

Caf. As found as Honour ought to be, I think, Lady ;
Go to, be wise, I do not bid you try him ;
But if he love you well, and you neglect him,
Your Lord's Life hanging on the Hazard of it——
If you be so wilful proud.

Evan. Thou speak'st to the Point still ;
But when I've lain with him, what am I then, Gentle-
woman ?

Caf. What are you ? why, the same you're now, a Woman,

A virtuous Woman, and a noble Woman ;
Touching at what is noble, you become so.
Had Lucrece e'er been thought of but for Tarquin ?
She was before a simple unknown Woman,
When she was ravish'd, she was a reverend Saint ;
And do you think she yielded not a little,
And had a kind of Will t' have been re-ravish'd ?
Believe it, yes : There are a thousand Stories
Of wondrous loyal Women, that have slipt,
But it has been o'th' Ice of tender Honour,
That keep them cool still to the World. I think You're blest, that have such an Occasion in your Hands
To beget a Chronicle, a faithful one.

Evan. It must needs be much Honour.

Caf. As you may make it, infinite, and safe too ;
And when 'tis done, your Lord and you may live
So quietly, and peaceably together,
And be what you please.

Evan. But suppose this, Wench,
The King should so delight me with his Company,
I should forget my Lord, and no more look on him.

Caf. That's the main Hazard, for I tell you truly,
I've heard report speak he's an infinite Pleasure,
Almost above Belief ; there be some Ladies,

And

And modest to the World too, wondrous modest,
That have had th' Blessedness to try his Body,
That I have heard proclaim him a new Hercules.

Evan. So strongly able?

Caf. There will be the Danger,
(You being but a young and tender Lady,
Although your Mind be good, yet your weak Body,
At first encounter too,) to meet with one
Of his unconquer'd Strength.

Evan. Peace thou rude Bawd,
Thou studied (35) old Corruptness, tie thy Tongue up,
Your hir'd base Tongue; is this your timely Counsel?
Dost thou seek to make me doat on Wickedness,
Because 'tis ten times worse than thou deliver'st it?
To be a Whore, because he has sufficiency
To make a hundred? O thou Impudence!
Have I reliev'd thy Age to mine own Ruin?
And worn thee in my Bosom, to betray me?
Can Years and Impotence win nothing on thee
That's good and honest, but thou must go on still?
And where thy Blood wants Heat to sin thyself,
Force thy decrepit Will to make me wicked?

Caf. I did but tell ye.

Evan. What the damnedst Woman,
The cunning'st and the skilful'st Bawd comes short of;
If thou hadst liv'd ten Ages to be damn'd in,
And exercis'd this Art the Devil taught thee,
Thou couldst not have express'd it more exactly.

Caf. I did not bid you sin.

Evan. Thou wood'st me to it;
Thou that art fit for Prayer and the Grave,
Thy Body Earth already, and Corruption,
Thou taught'st the way; go follow your fine Function,
There are Houses of Delight, that want good Matrons,
Such grave Instructors, get thee thither, Monster,
And read variety of Sins to Wantons,
And when they roar with Pains, learn to make Plaisters.

(35) ——— old Corruptness] This in Martial's Words is, non Vitiosum sed Vitium.

Caf. This we've for our good Wills.

Evan. If e'er I see thee more,
Or any thing that's like thee, to afright me,
By this fair Light I'll spoil thy Bawdery,
I'll leave thee neither Eyes nor Nose to grace thee.
When thou want'st Bread, and common Pity towards thee,

Enter Frederick.

And art a starving in a Ditch, think of me,
Then die, and let the wandering Bawds lament thee;
Be gone, I charge thee leave me.

Caf. You'll repent this. [Exit.

Fred. She's angry, and t'other crying too, my suit's cold;

I'll make your Heart ake, stubborn Wench, for this.
Turn not so angry from me, I will speak to you,
Are you grown so proud with your Delight, good Lady,
So pamper'd with your Sport, you scorn to know me?

Evan. I scorn ye not, I would you scorn'd not me, Sir,
And forc'd me to be weary of my Duty;
I know your Grace, would I had never seen ye.

Fred. Because I love you, 'cause I dote upon ye.
Because I am a Man that seek to please ye.

Evan. I've Man enough already to content me,
As much, as noble, and as worthy of me,
As all the World can yield.

Fred. That's but your Modesty.
You have no Man — nay never look upon me,
I know it, Lady, no man to content ye,
No Man that can, or at the least, that dares,
Which is a poorer Man, and nearer nothing.

Evan. Be nobler, Sir, inform'd.

Fred. I'll tell thee, Wench,
The poor Condition of this poorer Fellow,
And make thee blush for shame at thine own Error;
He never tender'd yet a Husband's Duty
To thy warm longing Bed.

Evan. How should he know that? [Aside.

Fred. I'm sure he did not, for I charg'd him no,
Upon his Life I charg'd him, but to try him;

Could

Could any brave or noble Spirit stop here;
Was Life to be preferr'd before Affection?
Lawful and long'd for too?

Evan. Did you command him?

Fred. I did in Policy to try his Spirit.

Evan. And could he be so dead cold to observe it?
Brought I no Beauty, nor no Love along with me?

Fred. Why, that is it that makes me scorn to name him.
I should have lov'd him if he'd ventur'd for't,
Nay, doted on his Brav'ry.

Evan. Only charg'd?

And with that spell sit down? dare Men fight bravely
For poor slight things, for Drink, or Ostentation;
And there indanger both their Lives and Fortunes?
And for their lawful Loves fly off with fear?

Fred. 'Tis true,

And with a cunning base fear too t' abuse thee,
Made thee believe, poor innocent Evanthe,
Wretched young Girl, it was his Impotency;
Was it not so? deny it. Evan. O my Anger!

At my Years to be cozen'd with a young Man!

Fred. A strong Man too, certain he lov'd ye dearly.

Evan. To have my Shame and Love mingled together,
And both flung on me like a Weight to sink me:
I would have dy'd a thousand times.

Fred. So would any,

Any that had the Spirit of a Man;
I would have been kill'd in your Arms.

Evan. I would he'd been,

And buried in mine Arms, that had been noble;
And what a Monument would I have made him?
Upon this Breast he should have slept in Peace,
Honour and everlasting Love his Mourners;
And I still weeping 'till old Time had turn'd me,
And pitying Powers above, into pure Crystal.

Fred. Hadst thou lov'd me, and had my way been stuck
With Death, as thick as frosty Nights with Stars,
I would have ventur'd. Evan. Sure there is some Trick
in't:

Valeria ne'er was Coward. Fred. Worse than this too,

Tamer, and seasoning of a baser Nature,
 He set your Woman on ye to betray ye,
 Your bawdy Women, or your sin Sollicitor ;
 (I pray but think what this Man may deserve now,)
 I know he did, and did it to please me too.

Evan. Good Sir afflict me not too fast, I feel
 I am a Woman, and a wrong'd one too,
 And sensible I am of my Abuses.

Sir, you have loved me. Fred. And I love thee still,
 Pity thy Wrongs, and doat upon thy Person.

Evan. To set my Woman on me—'twas too base, Sir.

Fred. Abominable vile.

Evan. But I shall fit him.

Fred. All Reason and all Law allows it to ye,
 And y' are a Fool, a tame Fool, if ye spare him.

Evan. You may speak now, and happily prevail too,
 And I beseech your Grace be angry with me.

Fred. I am at Heart. She staggers in her Faith,
 And will fall off I hope, I'll ply her still.

Thou abus'd Innocence, I suffer with thee,
 If I should give him Life, he'd still betray thee ;
 That Fool that fears to die for such a Beauty,
 Would for the same Fear sell thee unto Misery.
 I don't say he would have been Bawd himself too.

Evan. Follow'd thus far ? nay then I smell the Malice,
 It tastes too hot of practis'd Wickedness,
 There can be no such Man, I'm sure no Gentleman ;
 Shall my Anger make me Whore, and not my Pleasure ?
 My sudden inconsiderate Rage abuse me ?
 Come home again, my frightened Faith, my Virrtue,
 Home to my Heart again ; he be a Bawd too ?

Fred. I will not say he offer'd fair, Evan be.

Evan. Nor do not dare, 'twill be an Impudence,
 And not an Honour for a Prince to lie ;
 Fye, Sir, a Person of your Rank to trifle,
 I know you do lie. Fred. How ? Evan. Lie shamefully,
 And I could wish myself a Man but one Day,
 To tell you openly, you lie too basely.

Fred. Take heed, wild Fool.

Evan. Take thou heed, thou tame Devil,

Thou

Thou all Pandora's Box in a King's Figure,
Thou'st almost whor'd my weak Belief already,
And like an Engineer blown up mine Honour;
But I shall countermine, and catch your Mischief.
This little Fort you seek, I shall man nobly,
And strongly too, with chaste Obedience
To my dear Lord, with virtuous Thoughts that scorn ye.
Victorious Thomyris ne'er won more Honour
In cutting off the Royal Head of Cyrus,
Than I shall do in conqu'ring thee; farewell,
And if thou canst be wise, learn to be good too.
'Twill give thee nobler Lights than both thine Eyes do;
My poor Lord and myself are bound to suffer,
And when I see him faint under your Sentence,
I'll tell ye more, it may be then I'll yield too.

Fred. Fool unexampl'd, shall my Anger follow thee?
[Exeunt.]

Enter Rugio, and Fryar Marco, amaz'd.

(36) Rug. Curse on our Sights, our fond Credulities,
A thousand Curses on the Slave that cheated us,
The damned Slave.

Mar. We have e'en sham'd our Service,
Brought our best Care and Loyalties to nothing;
'Tis the most fearful Poison, the most potent——
Heav'n give him Patience: Oh it works most strongly,
And tears him, Lord!

Rug. That we should be so stupid
To trust the arrant'st Villain that e'er flatter'd,
The bloodiest too, to believe a few soft Words from him,
And give way to his prepar'd Tears.

Alphonso. [within.] Oh! Oh! Oh!

Rug. Hark, Fryar Marco,
Hark, the poor Prince; That we should be such Block-heads,
As to be taken with his drinking first!

(36) Curst on our Sights——] Every Body sees this is not Sense:
to make it so, I would read curse on our Light (or Slight) our fond, &c.
Light i. e. our easiness in Believing.

And never think what Antidotes are made for !
 Two Wooden Sculls we have, and we deserve
 To be hang'd for't ;
 For certainly it will be laid to our Charge ;
 As certain too, it will dispatch him speedily,
 Which way to turn or what to — Mar. Let us pray,
 Heav'n's Hand is strong.

Rug. The Poison's strong, you'd say.

Enter Alphonso, carried on a Couch by two Fryars.

Would any thing — He comes, let's give him Comfort.

Alph. Give me more Air, Air, more Air, blow, blow,
 Open thou Eastern Gate and blow upon me, [blow,
 Distil thy cold Dews, O thou Icy Moon,
 And Rivers run thro' my afflicted Spirit.
 I am all Fire, Fire, Fire, to the raging Dog-Star
 Reigns in my Blood ; O which way shall I turn me ?
Ætna, and all his Flames burn in my Head.
 Fling me into the Ocean, or I perish ;
 Dig, dig, dig, until the Springs fly up,
 The cold, cold Springs, that I may leap into 'em,
 And bathe my scorch'd Limbs in their purling Pleasures.
 Or shoot me up into the higher Region,
 Where Treasures of delicious Snow are nourish'd,
 And Banquets of sweet Hail. Rug. Hold him fast, Fryar,
 O how he burns ! Alph. What, will ye sacrifice me ?
 Upon the Altar lay my willing Body,
 And pile your Wood up, fling your holy Incense ;
 And as I turn me you shall see all Flame,
 Consuming Flame ; stand off me, or you're Ashes.

Both. Most miserable Wretches.

Alph. Bring hither Charity

And let me hug her, Fry'r, they say she's cold,
 Infinite cold, Devotion cannot warm her ;
 Draw me a River of false Lovers Tears
 Clean thro' my Breast, they're dull, cold, and forgetful,
 And will give Ease ; let Virgins sigh upon me,
 Forsaken Souls, (37) their Sighs are precious,

(37) — the Sighs are precious] So all the Copies.

Let

Let them all sigh : Oh Hell, Hell, Hell, O Horror !

Mar. To Bed, good Sir.

Alph. My Bed will burn about me ;
Like Phaeton, in all consuming Flashes
I am inclosed, let me fly, let me fly, give room ;
Betwixt the cold Bear and the raging Lion
Lies my safe way ; O for a Cake of Ice now,
To clap unto my Heart to comfort me ;
Decrepit Winter hang upon my Shoulders,
And let me wear thy frozen Ificles
Like Jewels round about my Head, to cool me ;
My Eyes burn out, and sink into their Sockets,
And my infected Brain like Brimstone boils,
I live in Hell, and several Furies vex me ;
O carry me where no Sun ever shew'd yet
A Face of Comfort, where the Earth is Crystal,
Never to be dissolv'd, where nought inhabits
But Night and Cold, and nipping Frosts, and Winds
That cut the stubborn Rocks and make them shiver ;
Set me there, Friends. Rug. Hold fast, he must to Bed,
Friar,

What scalding sweats he has ? Mar. He'll scald in Hell
for't,

That was the Cause. Alph. Drink, Drink, a world of Drink,

Fill all the Cups and all the antique Vessels,
And borrow Pots, let me have Drink enough ;
Bring all the worthy Drunkards of the Time,
Th' experienc'd Drunkards, let me have them all,
And let them drink their worst, I'll make them Idiots,
I'll lie upon my Back and swallow Vessels ;
Have Rivers made of cooling Wine run through me,
Not stay for this Man's Health, or this great Prince's,
But take an Ocean, and begin to all ; oh, oh.

Mar. He cools a little, now away with him,
And to his warm Bed presently. Alph. No Drink ?
No Wind ? no cooling Air ? Rug. You shall have any thing.

His hot Fit lessens, Heav'n put in a Hand now,
And save his Life ; there's Drink, Sir, in your Chamber,

And

And all cool things.

Alph. Away, away, let's fly to 'em.

[Exeunt.]

Enter Valerio and Evanthe.

Evan. To say you were impotent, I'm asham'd on't;
To make yourself no Man to a fresh Maid too,
A longing Maid; upon her wedding Night also,
To give her such a Dor.

Val. I prithee pardon me.

Evan. Had you been drunk, 't had been excusable,
Or like a Gentleman under th' Surgeon's Hands,
And so not able, there had been some Colour;
But wretchedly to take a Weakness to ye,
A fearful Weakness to abuse your Body,
And let a Lie work like a Spell upon ye,
A Lie to save your Life——

Val. Will you give me Leave, Sweet?

Evan. You've taken too much Leave, and too base
Leave too,

To wrong your Love; hast thou a noble Spirit?
And canst thou look up to the Peoples Loves,
That call thee worthy, and not blush, Valerio?
Canst thou behold me that thou hast betray'd thus,
And no Shame touch thee? Val. Shame attend the sinful,
I know my Innocence.

Evan. Ne'er think to face it, that's a double Weakness,
And shews thee falser still: The King himself,
Though he be wicked, and our Enemy,
But juster than thou art, in pity of my Injuries,
Told me the Truth.

Val. (38) What did he tell, Evanthe?

Evan. That but to gain thy Life a Fortnight longer,
Thy lov'd poor Life, thou gav'st up all my Duties.

Val. I swear 'tis false; my Life and Death are equal,
I've weigh'd 'em both, and find 'em but one Fortune;
But Kings are Men, and live as Men, and die too,
Have the Affections Men have, and their Falsehoods;

(38) What did he tell thee, Evanthe?] The Text is from the Copy of 1647.

Indeed

Indeed they have more Power to make 'em good ;
The King's to blame, it was to save thy Life, Wench,
Thy innocent Life, that I forbore thy Bed,
For if I'd toucht thee thou hadst dy'd, he swore it.

Evan. And was not I as worthy to die nobly,
To make a Story for the time that follows,
As he that married me? What Weakness, Sir,
Or Difability, do you see in me,
Either in Mind or Body, to defraud me
Of such an Opportunity? D' you think I marry'd you
Only for Pleasure, or Content in Lust?
To lull you in my Arms, and kifs you hourly?
Was this my End? I might have been a Queen, Sir,
If that had caught me, and have known all Delicates ;
There's few that would have shun'd so fair an Offer.
O thou unfaithful fearful Man, thou'lt kill'd me ;
In saving me this way, thou hast destroy'd me,
Robb'd me of that thy Love can never give more ;
To be unable, to save me? O Misery!
Had I been my Valerio, thou Evanthe,
I would have lain with thee under a Gallows,
Tho' the
Hangman had been my Hymen, and the Furies
With Iron Whips and Forks, ready to torture me,
I would have hug'd thee too, tho' Hell had gap'd at me ;
Save my Life! that expected to die bravely,
That would have woo'd it too? (39) Would I had married
An Eunuch, that had truly no Ability,
Than such a fearful Lyar ; thou hast done me
A scurvy Courtesy, that has undone me.

Val. I'll do no more ; since you're so nobly fashion'd,
Made up so strongly, I'll take my Share with ye,
Nay, Dear, I'll learn of you.

Evan. He weeps too tenderly ;
My Anger's gone, good my Lord pardon me ;

(39) ———— Would I had married

An Eunuch, that had truly no Ability,

Than such a ————] The want of rather before thus such, &c. has a fine Effect, and the Hurry of her Passion fully justifies such a wilful Omission in the Poet.

And

And if I have offended, be more angry ;
 It was a Woman's Flash, a sudden Valour,
 That could not lie conceal'd. Val. I honour ye,
 By all the Rites of holy Marriage,
 And Pleasures of chaste Love, I wonder at ye ;
 Y' appear the Vision of a Heav'n unto me
 Stuck all with Stars of Honour shining clearly,
 And all the Motions of your Mind Celestial ;
 Man is a lump of Earth, the best Man's spiritless,
 To such a Woman ; all our Lives and Actions
 But Counterfeits in Arras to this Virtue ;
 Chide me again, you have so brave an Anger,
 And flows so nobly from you, thus deliver'd,
 That I could suffer like a Child to hear ye,
 Nay, make myself guilty of some Faults to honour ye.

Evan. I'll chide no more, you've robb'd me of my Courage,

And with a cunning Patience check'd my Impudence ;
 Once more Forgiveness.

[She kneels.

Val. Will this serve, Evanthe ?

[Kisses her.

And this, my Love? Heav'n's Mercy be upon us ;
 But did he tell no more? Evan. Only this Trifle :
 You set my Woman on me, to betray me ;
 'Tis true, she did her best, a bad old Woman,
 It stirr'd me, Sir.

Val. I cannot blame thee, Jewel:

Evan. And methought when your Name was founded that way —

Val. He that will spare no Fame, will spare no Name,
 Sweet ;

Tho' as I am a Man, I'm full of Weakness,
 And may slip happily into some Ignorance,
 Yet at my Years to be a Bawd, and cozen
 Mine own Hopes with my Doctrine—— Evan. I believe not,

Nor ever shall ; our Time is out to Morrow.

Val. Let's be to Night then full of Fruitfulness,
 Now we are both of one Mind, let's be happy,
 I am no more a wanting Man, Evanthe,
 Thy warm Embraces shall dissolve that Impotence,

And

And my cold Lye shall vanish with thy Kisses:
You Hours of Night be long, (as when Alcmena
Lay by the lusty Side of Jupiter;) .
Keep back the Day, and hide his golden Beams,
Where the chaste watchful Morning may not find 'em;
Old doating Tybon, hold Aurora fast,
And tho' she blush the Day-break from her Cheeks,
Conceal her still; thou, heavy Wain, stand firm,
And stop the quicker Revolutions;
Or if the Day must come, to spoil our Happiness,
Thou envious Sun peep not upon our Pleasure,
Thou that all Lovers curse, be far off from us.

Enter Castruchio with Guard.

Evan. Then let's to Bed, and this Night in all Joys
And chaste Delights———

Cast. Stay, I must part ye both;
It is the King's Command, who bids me tell ye,
To Morrow is your last Hour.

Val. I obey, Sir;
In Heav'n we shall meet, Captain, where King Frederick
Dare not appear to part us. Cast. Mistake me not,
Though I am rough in doing of my Office,
You shall find, Sir, you have a Friend to honour ye.

Val. I thank ye, Sir.

(40) Evan. Pray, Captain, tell the King,
They that are sad on Earth, in Heaven shall sing.

[Exeunt.

A C T V. S C E N E I.

Enter Rugio, and Fryar Marco.

Rug. HAve you writ to the Captain of the Castle?

Mar. Yes, and charged him,
Upon his Soul's health, that he be not cruel;

(40) Evan. Pray Captain, &c.] This concluding Speech of Evan-
she is wanting only in the Copy of 1711.

Told

Told him Valerio's worth among the People,
And how it must be punish'd in Posterity,
Though he scape now.

Rug. But will not he, Fryar Marco,
Betray this to the King? Mar. Though he be stubborn,
And of a rugged Nature, yet he's honest,
And honours much Valerio.

Rug. How does Alphonso?
For now methinks my Heart is light again,
And pale Fear fled.

Mar. He is as well as I am;
The Rogue against his will has sav'd his Life,
A desp'rate Poison has re-cur'd the Prince.

Rug. To me 'tis most miraculous. Mar. To me too,
Till I consider why it should do so,
And now I've found it a most exc'llent Physick,
It wrought upon the dull cold misty Parts,
That clog'd his Soul, which was another Poison,
A desperate too, and found such matter there,
And such Abundance also to resist it,
And wear away the dang'rous Heat it brought with't,
That the pure Blood and th' Spirits scap'd untainted.

Rug. 'Twas Heav'n's high Hand, none of Sorano's Pity.

Mar. Most certain 'twas; had the malicious Villain

Enter Castruchio.

Given him a cooling Poison, he had paid him.

Rug. The Captain of the Castle.

Mar. O y'are welcome,

How does your Prisoner? Cas. He must go for dead;
But when I do a Deed of so much Villany,
I'll have my Skin pull'd o'er mine Ears, my Lord,

Enter Alphonso, and Fryars.

Though I'm the King's, I'm none of his Abuses;
How does your Royal Charge? That I might see once.

Mar. I pray see now, you're a trusty Gentleman.

Alph. Good Fathers, I thank Heav'n, I feel no Sickness.

Cas. He speaks again.

Alph. Nothing that bars the free use of my Spirit;

Methinks

Methinks the Air is sweet to me, and Company
A thing I covet now: Castruchio. Caf. Sir;
He speaks, and knows; for Heav'n's sake break my Pate,
Lord,

That I may be sure I sleep not.

Alpb. Thou wert honest,
Even among the Rank of good Men counted;
I have been absent, long out of the World,
A Dream I've lived; how does it look, Castruchio?
What Wonders are abroad?

Caf. I fling off Duty
To your dead Brother, for he's dead in Goodness,
And to the living Hope of brave Alphonso,
The noble Heir of Nature, and of Honour,
I fasten my Allegiance. Mar. Softly, Captain,
We dare not trust the Air with this blest Secret.
Good Sir, be close again, Heav'n has restor'd ye,
And by miraculous Means, to your fair Health,
(And made the Instrument, your Enemies Malice,)
Which does prognosticate your noble Fortune;
Let not our careless Joy lose you again, Sir,
Help to deliv'r ye to a further Danger:
I pray you pass in, and rest a while forgotten,
For if your Brother come to know you're well again,
And ready to inherit as your Right,
Before we've strength enough t' assure your Life,
What will become of you? and what shall we Deserve in all Opinions that are honest,
For our Loss of Judgment, Care, and Loyalty?

Rug. Dear Sir, pass in: Heav'n has begun the Work,
And blest us all, let our Endeavours follow,
To preserve this blessing to our timely Uses,
And bring it to the noble End we aim at;
Let our Cares work now, and our Eyes pick out
An Hour to shew ye safely to your Subjects,
A secure Hour.

Alpb. I'm counsel'd; ye are faithful.

Caf. Which Hour shall not be long, as we shall handle it.
Once more the tender of my Duty.

Alpb. Thank ye.

Caf.

Caf. Keep you the Monast'ry.

Rug. Strong enough I'll warrant ye. [Exeunt.]

Enter the Fool, and Podrano.

Pod. Who are all these that crowd about the Court,
Fool?

Those strange new Faces?

Fool. They are Suitors, Coxcomb,
Dainty fine Suitors to the Widow-Lady,

Thou hadst best

Make one of 'em, thou wilt be hanged as handsomly
At the Month's end, (41) and with as much Joy follow'd,
And 'twere to morrow; as many mourning Bawds for thee,

And holy Nuns, whose vestal Fire ne'er vanishes,
In sackcloth Smocks, as if thou wert Heir apparent
To all the impious Suburbs, and the Sink-holes.

Pod. Out you base Rogue.

Fool. Why dost abuse thyself?

Thou art to blame, I take thee for a Gentleman;
But why does not thy Lord and Master marry her?

Pod. Why, she's his Sister.

Fool. 'Tis the better, Fool,

He may make bold with his own Flesh and Blood,
For o' my Conscience there's none else will trust him;
Then he may pleasure th' King at a dead Pinch too,
Without a (42) Mephestophilus, such as thou art,
And ingross the Royal Disease like a true Subject.

Pod. Thou wilt be whipt.

Fool. I'm sure thou wilt be hang'd,
I've lost a Ducklet else, which I'd be loath to venture
Without Certainty. (43) They appear. [Suitors pass by.]

Pod. Why, these are Rascals.

Fool. They were meant to be so,
Does thy Master deserve better Kindred?

(41) — and as much Joy follow'd,] So all the Copies but that of the earliest Date.

(42) Mephestophilus,] A familiar Spirit attending upon Dr. Faustus.

(43) — They appear.] This seems to have been a Stage-Direction, and not the original Text.

Pod. There's an old Lawyer,
Trim'd up like a Gally Foist, what would he do with her?

Fool. As Usurers do with their Gold, he would look on her,

And read her over once a Day, like a hard Report,
Feed his dull Eye, and keep his Fingers itching;
For any thing else, she may appeal to Parliament,
(44) Sub Pœna's and Posteas have spoil'd his Codpiece;
(45) There's a Physician too older than he,
And Gallen Gallinaceus, but he has lost his Spurs,
He would be nibling too. Pod. I mark'd the Man,
If he be a Man. Fool. H'as much ado to be so,
Searcloths and Sirrups glew him close together,
He'd fall a pieces else; mending of the Patients,
And then trying whether they be right or no
In his own Person, (there's the honest care on't,)
Has mollify'd the Man; if he do marry her,
And come but to warm him well at Cupid's Bonfire,
He'll bulge so subtilly and suddenly,
You may snatch him up by Parcels, like a Sea Wreck:
Will your Worship go, and look upon the rest, Sir?
And hear what they can say for themselves.

Pod. I'll follow thee.

[Exeunt.

Enter Camillo, Menallo, Cleanthes, and Castruchio.

Cam. You tell us Wonders. Cas. But I tell you Truths,

(44) Sub Pœna's and Post Kaes have spoil'd—] Thus run all the Copies: Post Kaes as join'd with Subpœna's ought to be a Term in Law, but this does not appear. As the Poet undoubtedly inserted one here, we ought to endeavour after the recovery of the Fugitive, and this I think can't be better done, or more near the Trace of the Letters than by supposing the Author wrote originally thus,

Subpœna's and Posteas have

The meaning of which any Law Dictionary will easily shew.

(45) There's a Physician too older than he,
And Gallen Gallinaceus, but he has lost his Spurs,
He would be nibling too.]

Haply the Place ought to be printed thus,

There's a Physician too, older than he,
A Gallen Gallinaceus, but he has lost his Spurs;
He would be nibling tho'——

They are both well. Men. Why are not we in Arms then?
 (46) And all the Island given to know——Caf. Discreetly
 And privately it must be done, 'twill miss else,
 And prove our Ruins; most o' th' noble Citizens
 Know it by me, and stay th' Hour to attend it,
 Prepare your Hearts and Friends, let their be right too,
 And keep about the King t' avoid Suspicion;

Enter Frederick and Sorano.

When you shall hear the Castle Bell, take Courage,
 And stand like Men; away, the King is coming.

[Exeunt Lords.]

Fred. Now Captain,
 What have you done with your Pris'ner? Caf. He's dead,
 Sir, and his Body flung i' th' Sea,
 To feed the Fishes; 'twas your Will, I take it,
 I did it from a strong Commission,
 And stood not to Capitulate.

Fred. 'Tis well done,
 And I shall love you for your Faith. What Anger
 Or Sorrow did he utter at his End?

Caf. Faith little, Sir, that I gave any Ear to,
 He would have spoke, but I had no Commission
 To argue with him, so I flung him off;
 His Lady would have seen, but I lock'd her up,
 For fear her Womans Tears should hinder us.

Fred. 'Twas trusty still. I wonder, my Sorano,
 We hear not from the Monastery; I believe
 They gave it not, or else it wrought not fully.

Caf. Did you name th' Monast'ry?

Fred. Yes, I did, Captain.

Caf. I saw the Fryar this Morning, and Lord Rugio,
 Bitterly weeping, and wringing of their Hands,
 And all the holy Men hung down their Heads.

Sor. 'Tis done I'll warrant ye.

Caf. I ask'd the Reason.

Fred. What Answer hadst thou?

(46) And all the Island given to know] As the Scene is throughout at Naples, this Expression, if not a Corruption, is a flagrant Oversight.

Caf. This in few Words, Sir,
Your Brother's dead, this Morning he deceas'd;
I was your Servant, and I wept not, Sir,
I knew 'twas for your good.

Fred. 'T shall be for thine too
Captain, indeed it shall. O my Sorano,
Now we shall live.

Sor. Ay, now there's none to trouble ye.

Fred. Captain, bring out the Woman, and give way
To any Suitor that shall come to marry her,
Of what degree soe'er.

Caf. It shall be done, Sir. [Exit Caf.

Fred. O let me have a lusty Banquet after 't,

Enter Evanthe, Camillo, Cleanthes, Menallo, and Fool.

I will be high and merry.

Sor. There be some Lords
That I could counsel ye to sling from Court, Sir,
They pry into our Actions, they are such
The foolish People call their Countries Honours,
Honest brave things; and stile them with such Titles,
As if they were the Patterns of the Kingdom;
Which makes them proud, and prone to look into us,
And talk at random of our Actions.
They should be lovers, Sir, of your Commands,
And followers of your Will; Bridles and Curbs
To the hard-headed Commons that malign us;
They come here to do Honour to my Sister,
To laugh at your Severity, and fright us;
If they had Power, what would these Men do?
Do you hear, Sir, how privily they whisper?

Fred. I shall silence 'em,
And to their Shames, within this Week Sorano;
In the mean time have Patience. Sor. How they jeer?
And look upon me as I were a Monster,
And talk and jeer; How I shall pull your Plumes, Lords,
How I shall humble you within these two Days,
Your great Names, nor your Country cannot save ye.

Enter Evantbe, Lawyer, Physician, Captain, and Cut-purse.

Fred. Let in the Suitors. Yet submit, I'll pardon ye,
You're half undone already, do not wind
My Anger to that height, it may consume ye,
And utterly destroy thee, fair Evantbe:

Yet I have Mercy. Evan. Use it to your Bawds,
To me use Cruelty, it best becomes ye,
And shews more Kingly: I contemn your Mercy,
It is a coz'ning, and a bawdy Mercy.

Can any thing be hop'd for, to relieve me?

Or is it fit I thank you for a Pity,

When you have kill'd my Lord?

Fred. Who will have her?

Evan. My Tears are gone,

My Tears of Love unto my dear Valerio,

But I have fill'd mine Eyes again with Anger;

O were it but so powerful to consume ye!

My Tongue with Curses I have arm'd against ye,

(With Maiden Curses, that Heav'n crowns with Horrors,)

My Heart set round with hate against thy Tyranny;

O! would my Hands could hold the Fire of Heav'n,

Wrapt in the Thunder that the Gods revenge with,

That like stern Justice I might fling it on thee;

Thou art a King of Monsters, not of Men,

And shortly thou wilt turn this Land to Devils.

Fred. I'll make you one first, and a wretched Devil.
Come, who will have her?

Law. I, an't like your Majesty, I am a Lawyer,
I can make her a Jointure of any Man's Land in Naples.
And she shall keep it too, I have a Trick for it.

Fool. Canst thou make her a Jointure of thine Honesty,
Or thy Ability, thou lewd Abridgement?
Those are Non-suited and flung o'er the Bar.

Phy. An't please your Majesty to give me leave,
I dare accept her; and though old I seem, Lady,
Like Æson, by my Art I can renew
Youth and Ability. Fool. In a powdering Tub
Stew thyself tender again, like a Cock Chicken;

The Broth may be good, but the Flesh is not fit for Dogs sure.

Capt. Lady, take me, and I'll maintain thine Honour,
I'm a poor Captain, as poor People call me,
Very poor People, for my Soldiers they
Are quarter'd in the outside of the City,
Men of Ability to make good a high Way ;
We have but two grand Enemies that oppose us,
The Don Gout, and the Gallows. Fool. I believe ye,
And both these you will bind her for a Jointure ;
Now Signior Firk.

Cut-purse. Madam, take me and be wise,
I'm rich and nimble, and those are rare in one Man ;
Every Man's Pocket is my Treasury,
And no Man wears a Sute but fits me neatly ;
Cloaths you shall have, and wear the purest Linen,
I have a Tribute out of every Shop, Lady,
Meat you shall eat, I have my Caters out too,
The best and lustiest, and drink good Wine, good Lady,
Good quickening Wine, Wine that will make you caper.
And at the worst —————

Fool. It is but cap'ring short, Sir.
You seldom stay for Agues or for Surfeits,
A shaking fit of a Whip sometimes o'ertakes ye ;
Marry you die most commonly of Choakings,
Obstructions of the Halter are your Ends ever ;
Pray leave your Horn and your Knife for her to live on.

Evan. Poor wretched People, why d' you wrong yourselves ?
Though I fear'd Death, I should fear you ten times more,
You're every one a new Death, and an odious ;
The Earth will purify corrupted Bodies,
You'll make us worse and stink eternally.
Go home, go home and get good Nurses for you,
Dream not of Wives. Fred. You shall have one of 'em,
If they dare venture for ye. Evan. They're dead already,
Crawling Diseases that must creep into
The next Grave they find open ; are these fit Husbands
For her you've loved, Sir ? Though you hate me now,
And hate me mortally, as I hate you,

342 A Wife for a Month.

Your Noblenefs, (in that you have done otherwife,
And named Evanthe once as your poor Miftrefs,) Might offer worthier choice. Fred. Speak, who dare take her

For one Month, and then die? Pby. Die Sir? Fred. Ay, die Sir,

That's the Condition. Pby. One Month is too little
For me to repent in for my former Pleasure,
To go ftill on, 'lefs I were fure ſhe'd kill me,
And kill me delicately before my Day;
Make't up a Year, for by that time I muſt die,
My Body will hold out no longer. Fred. No, Sir,
It muſt be but a Month. (47) Law. Then farewel, Madam,

This is like to be a great Year of Diffenfion
Among good People, and I dare not loſe it,
There will be Money got. Capt. Blefs your good La-diſhip,

There's nothing in the Grave but Bones and Aſhes,
In Taverns there's good Wine, and exc'llent Wenches,
And Surgeons while we live.

Cut-purſe. Adieu ſweet Lady,
Lay me when I am dead near a rich Alderman,
I cannot pick his Purſe; no, I'll no Dying,
Though I ſteal Linnen, I'll not ſteal my Shrowd yet.

All. Send ye a happy Match. [Exeunt.]

Fool. And you all Halters, you've deſerv'd 'em richly.
Theſe do all Villanies,
And Miſchiefs of all forts, yet thoſe they fear not:
To flinch where a fair Wench is at the Stake.——

Evan. Come, come your Sentence, let me Die: You
ſee, Sir,
None of your valiant Men dare venture on me,
A Month's a dangerous thing.

(47) Law. Then farewel, Madam,] This farewel Line is moſt probably the Physician's. The three that follow I would give to the Lawyer, as they are mighty well adapted to a ſly quirking Practitioner, who would rather empty the Pockets of his Clients of their Money, for one whole Year longer, than fill a Grave for his Pleaſure, in a twelfth Part of the Time.

Enter

Enter Valerio disguis'd.

Fred. Away with her,
Let her die instantly.

* * * * *

Evan. (48) Will you then be willing
To die at th' time prefixt? That I must know too,
And know it beyond doubt.

Fred. What if I did, Wench?

Evan. On that condition if I had it certain,
I'd be your any thing, and you should injoy me,
However in my Nature I abhor ye,
Yet as I live I'd be obedient to you;
But when your Time came how I should rejoice,
How then I should bestir myself to thank ye;
To see your Throat cut, how my Heart would leap, Sir!
I'd die with you, but first I would so torture ye,
And cow you in your End, so despise you, for
A weak and wretched Coward, you must end sure;
Still make ye fear, and shake, (49) despised, still laugh at ye.

Fred. Away with her, let her die instantly.

Cam. Stay, there's another, and a Gentleman,
His Habit shews no less, may be his Business
Is for this Lady's Love. Fred. Say why ye come, Sir,
And what you are. Val. I am descended nobly,
A Prince by Birth, and by my Trade a Soldier,
A Prince's Fellow, Abydos brought me forth,
My Parents Duke Agenor and fair Egla,
My Business hither, to renew my Love

(48) Will you then be willing, &c.] There certainly are some Speeches wanting between Frederic's Order in the Line above, and Evanthe's Question in this that follows it; the Reader cannot but perceive a want of Connection here, and as such I have marked an Hiatus, which I fear we shall never be able to fill up.

49 ————despised, still laugh at ye] It may be thought Refinement to read this Passage otherwise than we do at present; but possibly once it might run so,

Evan. Still make ye fear, and shake,——

Fred. Despised still?

Evan. Laugh at ye.

The pressing Order to execute her immediately is by this means naturally introduced, and the whole goes off well.

With a young noble Spirit, call'd Valerio;
 Our first Acquaintance was at Sea, in fight Against a Turkish Man of War, a stout one,
 Where Lion-like I saw him shew his Valour,
 And as he had been made of compleat Virtue,
 Spirit, and Fire, no dreggs of dull Earth in him——

Evan. Thou'rt a brave Gentleman, and bravely speak'ft him.

Val. The Vessel dancing under him for Joy,
 And the rough whistling Winds becalm'd to view him;
 I saw the Child of Honour, for he was young,
 (50) Deal such an Alms amongst the spightful Pagans,
 His towring Sword flew like an eager Falcon,
 And round about his Reach invade the Turks,
 He had intrench'd himself in his dead Quarries;
 The silver Crescents on the Tops they carried Shrunk in their Heads to see his Rage so bloody,
 And from his Fury suffered sad Eclipses;
 The game of Death was never plaid more nobly,
 The meager Thief grew wanton in his Mischiefs,
 And his shrunk hollow Eyes smil'd on his Ruins.

Evan. Heav'n keep this Gentleman from being a Suitor,
 For I shall ne'er deny him he's so Noble.

Val. But what can last long? Strength and Spirit wasted,
 And fresh Supplies flew on upon this Gentleman,
 Breathless and weary with Oppression,
 And almost kill'd with killing. 'Twas my Chance
 In a tall Ship I had to view the Fight;
 I set into him, entertain'd the Turk,
 And for an Hour gave him so hot a Breakfast,

(50) *Deal such an Alms amongst the spightful Pagans,
 His towring Sword flew like an eager Falcon,
 And round about his reach invade the Turks
 He had intrench'd himself ——*]

The Construction of the Verb in the second Line is manifestly wrong, and an Addition to the fourth is as manifestly wanting. I read the whole so,

*Deal such an Alms amongst the spightful Pagans,
 His towring Sword fly like an eager Falcon,
 And round about his reach invade the Turks,
 Till he had intrench'd himself in his dead Quarries.*

He

He clapt all Linnen up he had to save him,
And like a Lover's Thought he fled our Fury ;
There first I saw the Man I lov'd. Valerio
There was acquainted, there my Soul grew to him,
And his to me, we were the Twins of Friendship.

Evan. Fortune protect this Man, or I shall ruin him.

Val. I made this Voyage to behold my Friend,
To warm my Love anew at his Affection ;
But since I landed, I have heard his Fate :
My Father's had not been to me more cruel.
I have lamented too, and yet I keep
The treasure of a few Tears for you, Lady,
For by Description you were his Evanthe.

Evan. Can he weep that's a Stranger to my Story,
And I stand still and look on ? Sir, I thank ye ;
If noble Spirits after their Departure
Can know, and wish, certain his Soul gives Thanks too ;
There are your Tears again, and when yours fail, Sir,
Pray ye call to me, I've some store to lend ye.

Your Name ? Val. Urbino. Evan. That I may remember,

That little Time I have to live, your Friendships,
(51) My Tongue shall study both. Fred. Do you come hither

Only to tell this Story, Prince Urbino ?

Val. My Business now is, Sir, to woo this Lady.

Evan. Blessing defend ye ; do you know the Danger ?

Val. Yes, and I fear it not, Danger's my Playfellow,
Since I was Man 't has been my best Companion ;
I know your Doom, 'tis for a Month you give her,
And then his Life you take that marries her.

Fred. 'Tis true, nor can your being born a Prince,
If you accept the Offer, free you from it.

Val. I not desire it, I have cast the worst,
And ev'n that worst to me is many Blessings ;
I lov'd my Friend, not measur'd out by Time,
Nor hir'd by circumstance of Place and Honour,
But for his wealthy self and worth I lov'd him,

(51) My Tongue shall study both.] i. e. Shall talk of both.

His Mind and noble Mold he ever mov'd in ;
 And woo his (52) Friend, 'cause she was worthy of him,
 The only Relick that he left behind, Sir,
 To give his Ashes Honour ; Lady take me,
 And in me keep Valerio's Love alive still ;
 When I am gone, take those that shall succeed me,
 Heav'n must want Light, before you want a Husband,
 To raise up Heirs of Love and noble Memory,
 To your unfortunate——Evan. Am I still hated ?
 Hast thou no End, O fate, of my Affliction ?
 Was I ordain'd to be a common Murdrefs ?
 And of the best Men too ? Good Sir——

Val. Peace, Sweet, look on my Hand. [Aside,

Evan. I do accept

The Gentleman, I faint with Joy. Fred. I stop it,
 None shall have her, convey this Stranger hence.

Val. I am no Stranger——Hark to th' Bell that rings,
 Hark, hark, proud Fred'rick, that was King of Mischief,
 Hark, thou abhorr'd Man, dost thou hear thy Sentence ?
 Does not this Bell ring in thine Ears thy Ruin ?

Fred. What Bell is this ?

Cam. The Castle Bell: Stand sure Sir,
 And move not, if you do you perish.

Men. It rings your Knell. Alphonso, King Alphonso.

All. Alphonso, King Alphonso. Fred. I'm betray'd,
 Lock fast the Palace.

Cam. We have all the Keys, Sir,
 And no Door here shall shut without our Licence.

Cle. D' you shake now, Lord Sorano ? no new Trick ?
 Nor speedy Poison to prevent this Business ?
 No bawdy Meditation now to fly to ?

Fred. Treason, Treason, Treason.

Cam. Yes, we hear ye,

Enter Alphonso, Rugio, Marco, Castruchio, and Queen, with Guard.

And we have found the Trairor in your Shape, Sir,
 We'll keep him fast too.

(52) ——Friend,] i. e. Wife.

Fred.

Fred. Recover'd! then I'm gone,
The Sun of all my Pomp is set and vanish'd.

Alph. Have you not forgot this Face of mine, King
Frederick?

Brother, I'm come to see you, and have brought
A Banquet to be merry with your Grace;
I pray sit down, I do beseech your Majesty,
And eat, eat freely, Sir; why do you start?
Have you no Stomach to the Meat I bring you?
Dare you not taste? Have ye no Antidotes?
You need not fear; Sorano's a good Apothecary?
Methinks you look not well, some fresh Wine for him,
Some of the same he sent me by Sorano;
I thank you for't, it sav'd my Life, I'm bound to ye,
But how 'twill work on you—I hope your Lordship
Will pledge him too, methinks you look but scurvily,
And would be put into a better Colour,
But I've a candy'd Toad (53) for your good Lordship.

Sor. Would I had any thing that would dispatch me,
So it were down, and I out of this fear once.

Fred. Sir, thus low, as my Duty now compells me,
I do confes m' unbounded Sins, my Errors,
And feel within my Soul the smarts already;
Hide not the noble Nature of a Brother,
The Pity of a Friend, from my Afflictions;
Let me a while lament my Misery,
And cast the Load off of my Wantonness,
Before I find your Fury; then strike home,
I do deserve the deepest blow of Justice,
And then how willingly, O Death, I'll meet thee!

Alph. Rise, Madam, those sweet Tears are potent speakers;
And Brother live, but in the Monastery,
Where I liv'd, with the self-same silence too;
I'll teach you to be good against your will, Brother,
Your Tongue has done much harm, that must be Dumb
now;
The daily Pilgrimage to my Father's Tomb,

(53) ——— for your Lordship] So all the Copies but that of 1647.

(Tears,

(Tears, Sighs, and Groans, you shall wear out your Days
with,

And true ones too,) you shall perform dear Brother;
Your Diet shall be slender to enforce these;

Too light a Penance, Sir. Fred. I do confess it.

Alph. Sorano, you shall——

Sor. How he studies for it!

Hanging's the least part of my Penance certain.

[Evanthe kneels.

Alph. What Lady's that that kneels?

Cas. The chaste Evanthe.

Alph. Sweet, your Petition?

Evan. 'Tis for this bad Man, Sir,
Abominable bad, but yet my Brother.

Alph. The bad Man shall attend as bad a Master,
And both shall be confin'd within the Monastery;
His rank Flesh shall be pull'd with daily Fasting,
But once a Week he shall smell Meat, he'll forfeit else,
And his immodest Mind compell'd to Prayer;
On the bare Boards he shall lye, to remember
The Wantonness he did commit in Beds;
And drink fair Water, that will ne'er inflame him;
He sav'd my Life, though he purpos'd to destroy me,
For which I'll save his, though I make it miserable:
Madam, at Court I shall desire your Company,
You're Wise and Virtuous; when you please to visit
My Brother Frederick, you shall have our Licence:
My dear best Friend, Valerio!

Val. Save Alphonso.

Omn. Long live Alphonso, King of us, and Naples.

Alph. Is this the Lady that the Wonder goes on?
Honour'd sweet Maid! here take her, my Valerio,
The King now gives her, she's thine own without fear.
Brother,

Have you so much Provision that is good,
Not season'd by Sorano and his Cooks,
That we may venture on with honest Safety,
We and our Friends?

Fred. All that I have is yours, Sir.

Alph. Come then, let's in, and end this Nuptial,
Then

Then to our Coronation with all speed :
My virtuous Maid, this Day I'll be your Bride-man,
And see you bedded to your own desires too ;
Beswew me, Lords, who is not merry hates me,
Only Sorano shall not bear my Cup :
Come, now forget old Pains and Injuries,
As I must do, and drown all in fair Healths ;
That Kingdom's blessed, where the King begins
His true Love first, for there all Loves are Twins.

[Exeunt Omnes.

E P I L O G U E.

WE have your Favours, Gentlemen, and you
Have our Endeavours, (dear Friends, grudge not now)
There's none of you, but when you please can sell
Many a lame Horse, and many a fair Tale tell,
Can put off many a Maid unto a Friend,
That was not so since th' Action at Mile-end ;
Ours is a Virgin yet, and they that love
Untainted Flesh, we hope our Friends will prove.

THE

LOVERS PROGRESS.

A

TRAGEDY.

P R O L O G U E.

A Story, and a known one, long since writ,
Truth must take Place, and by an able Wit;
Foul-mouth'd Detraction daring not deny
To give so much to Fletcher's Memory;
If so, some may object, why then do you
Present an old Piece to us for a new?
Or wherefore will your profest Writer be (Not tax'd of Theft before) a Plagiary?
To this he answers in his just Defence,
And to maintain to all our Innocence,
Thus much; though he hath travell'd the same way,
Demanding, and receiving too the Pay
For a new Poem, you may find it due,
He having neither cheated us, nor you:
He vows, and deeply, that he did not spare
The utmost of his Strengths, and his best Care
In the reviving it, and though his Pow'rs
Could not as he desir'd, in three short Hours
Contract the Subject, and much less express
The Changes, and the various Passages
That will be look'd for, you may hear this Day
Some Scenes that will confirm it is a Play,
(1) He being ambitious that it should be known
What's good was Fletcher's, and what Ill his own.

(1) He being ambitious that it should be known
What's good was Fletcher's, and what Ill his own.] This Passage is a flaming Contradiction to an Assertion of the Bookteller, in his Preface to the Edition of 1647, which the Reader will see in the Introductory Note upon the Coxcomb, and thither I refer him for what I have said upon that Occasion.

LOVERS PROGRESS.

A C T I. S C E N E I.

Enter Leon and Malfort.

MALFORT.

AND as I told you, Sir.

Leon. I understand you,
Clarinda's still perverse.

Mal. She's worse, obdurate,
Flinty, relentless, my Love-Passions jeer'd at,
My Presents scorn'd.

Leon. 'Tis strange, a Waiting-Woman
In her Condition, apt to yield, should hold out,
A Man of your Place, reverend Beard and Shape,
Besieging her.

Mal. You might add too my Wealth,
Which she contemns, five hundred Crowns per Annum,
For which I've ventur'd hard, my Conscience knows it,
Not thought upon, though offer'd for a Jointure:
This Chain, which my Lord's Peasants worship, flouted;
My solemn hums and ha's, the Servants quake at,
No Rhetorick with her; ev'ry hour she hangs out

Some new Flag of Defiance to torment me :
 Last Lent my Lady call'd me her poor John,
 But now I'm grown a walking Skeleton,
 You may see through and through me.

Leon. Indeed you are Much fall'n away. Mal. I am a kind of nothing,
 As she hath made me: Love's a terrible Glisten,
 And if some Cordial of her Favours help not,
 I shall, like an Italian, die backward,
 And breath my last the wrong way. Leon. As I live
 You have my Pity; but this is cold Comfort,
 And in a Friend Lip-Phylick; and now I think on't,
 I should do more, and will, so you deny not Yourself the Means of Comfort. Mal. I'll be hang'd first:
 One Dram of't, I beseech you. Leon. You're not jealous
 Of any Man's Access to her? Mal. I would not Receive the Dor, but as a Bosom Friend
 You shall direct me, still provided that I understand who is the Man, and what
 His Purpose that pleads for me.

Leon. By all Means.

First, for the Undertaker I am he:
 The Means that I will practise, thus——

Mal. Pray you forward.

Leon. You know your Lady chaste Calista loves her.

Mal. Too well, that makes her proud.

Leon. Nay, give me Leave.

This beauteous Lady, I may stile her so,
 Being the Paragon of France for Feature,
 Is not alone contented in herself
 To seem, and be good, but desires to make
 All such as have Dependance on her like her;
 For this Clarinda's Liberty's restrain'd;
 And though her Kinsman, the Gate's shut against me;
 Now if you please to make yourself the Door,
 For my Conveyance to her, though you run
 The Hazard of a check for't, 'tis no matter

Mal. It being for mine own Ends.

Leon. I'll give't o'er,
 If that you make the least Doubt otherwise:

Studying upon't ? good morrow.

Mal. Pray you stay, Sir;

You are my Friend; yet as the Proverb says,
When Love puts in, Friendship is gone: Suppose
You should yourself affect her? Leon. Do you think I'll commit Incest; for it is no less,
She being my Cousin German. Fare you well, Sir.

Mal. I had forgot that; for this once forgive me,
Only to ease the throbbing of my Heart,
For I do feel strange Pangs, instruct me what
You will say for me.

Leon. First, I'll tell her that She hath so far besotted you, that you have Almost forgot to cast Account.

Mal. Meer Truth, Sir.

Leon. That of a wise and provident Steward, you
Are turn'd stark Afs. Mal. Urge that Point home, I am so.

Leon. That you adore the Ground she treads upon,
And kifs her Foot-steps.

Mal. As I do when I find their Print i' th' Snow.

Leon. A loving Fool, I know it,
By your bloodless frosty Lips. Then having related
How much you suffer for her, and how well
You do deserve it——Mal. How! to suffer?

Leon. No, Sir,
To have your Love return'd. Mal. That's good, I thank you.

Leon. I will deliver her an Inventory
Of your good Parts; as this your precious Nose, Dropping Affection; your high Forehead, reaching Almost to th' Crown of your Head; your slender Waste,
And a Back not like a Threshers, but a bending
And Court-like Back, and so forth, for your Body.
But when I touch your Mind, for that must take her,
(Since your Outside promises little) I'll enlarge it,
Though ne'er so narrow, as your Arts to thrive,
Your Composition with the Cook, and Butler,
For Coney-Skins and Chippings; and half a Share
With all the under-Officers o' th' House,
In Strangers Bounties; that she shall have all,

And you as 'twere her Bailiff.

Mal. (2) As I will be.

Leon. As you shall, so I'll promise. Then your Qualities,

As playing on a Cittern, or a Jews Trump.

Mal. A little too o' th' Vial.

Leon. Fear you nothing.

Then finging her asleep with curious Catches
Of your own making: For as I have heard,
You are Poetical.

Mal. Something giv'n that way:

Yet my Works seldom thrive; and the main Reason
The Poets urge for't, is, because I am not
As poor as they are.

Leon. Very likely; fetch her,

While I am in the Vein. Mal. 'Tis an apt time,
My Lady being at her Prayers. Leon. Let her pray on.
Nay go, and if upon my Intercession

She do you not some Favour, I'll disclaim her;

I'll ruminat on't th' while. Mal. A hundred Crowns

Is your Reward. Leon. Without 'em——Nay, no trifling. [Ex. Mal.

That this dull Clod of Ignorance should know

How to get Money, yet want Eyes to see

How grossly he's abus'd, and wrought upon;

When he should make his Will, the Rogue's turn'd rampant,

As he'd renew'd his Youth: A handsome Wench

Love one a spittle Whore would run away from?

Well, Master Steward, I will plead for you

In such a Method, as it shall appear

You are fit to be a Property.

(2) Mal. As I will be.

Leon. As You shall, so I'll promise] To restore lost Puns has been an Office, that Critics have been laugh'd at, rather than praised for;
but the Original, be it bad or good, ought to be restored; and therefore we should not drop a Conundrum here intended. Leon should answer.

As you shall, so I'll promise.

i. e. I'll promise you shall be made an Afs of.

Mr. Seward.

Enter

Enter Malfort and Clarinda.

Mal. Yonder he walks

That knows my Worth and Value, though you scorn it.

Clari. If my Lady know not this——

Mal. I'll answer it:

If you were a Nun, I hope your Cousin German
Might talk with you through a Grate, but you are none,
And therefore may come clofer: Ne'er hang off,
As I live you shall bill: You may falute as Strangers,
Custom allows it. Now, now, come upon her
With all your Oratory, tickle her to the quick,
As a young Advocate should, and leave no Virtue
Of mine unmention'd, I'll stand Centinel,
Nay keep the Door myself. [Exit.

Clari. How have you work'd

This Piece of motley to your Ends? Leon. Of that At leisure, Mistress. [Kissing.

Clar. Lower, you're too loud,

Though th' Fool be deaf, some of the House may hear you.

Leon. Suppose they should, I am a Gentleman,
And held your Kinsman, under that I hope
I may be free.

Clari. I grant it, but with Caution;

But be not seen to talk with me familiarly,

But at fit distance, or not seen at all,

It were the better; you know my Lady's humour,

She is all Honour, and compos'd of Goodness,

As she pretends; and you having no Business,

How jealous may she grow?

Leon. I will be rul'd.

But you have promis'd, and I must enjoy you.

Clari. We shall find time for that; you are too hasty:

Make yourself fit, and I shall make Occasion;

Deliberation makes best in that Business,

And contents every way.

Leon. But you must feed

This foolish Steward with some Shadow of

A future Favour, that we may preserve him

To be our Instrument.

Clari. Hang him.

Leon. For my sake, Sweet,
I undertook to speak for him, any Bauble
Or slight Employment in the way of Service,
Will feed him fat.

Clari. Leave him to me.

Enter Malfort.

Mal. She comes.

My Lady. Clari. I will satisfy her. Mal. How far
Have you prevail'd? Leon. Observe.

Clari. Monsieur Malfort,
I must be brief, my Cousin hath spoke much
In your behalf, and to give you some Proof,
I entertain you as my Servant, you
Shall have the Grace. Leon. Upon your Knee receive it.

Clari. And take it as a special Favour from me,
To tie my Shoe.

Mal. I am o'erjoy'd.

Leon. Good Reason.

Clari. You may come high'r in time.

Enter Calista.

Leon. No more, the Lady.

Mal. She frowns.

Clari. I thank you for this Visit, Cousin,
But without Leave hereafter from my Lady,
I dare not change Discourse with you.

Mal. Pray you take your Morning's Draught.

Leon. I thank you:
Happiness attend your Honour. [Exe. Leon and Malfort.

Cal. Who gave warrant to this private Parley?

Clari. My Innocence; I hope.
My Conference with a Kinsman cannot call
Your Anger on me.

Cal. Kinsman? Let me have no more of this, as you desire you may Continue mine. Clari. Why Madam, under Pardon, Suppose him otherwise; yet coming in
A lawful way it is excusable.

Cal.

Cal. How's this?

Clari. I grant you're made of Pureness,
And that your Tenderness of Honour holds
The Sovereignty o'er your Passions. Yet you have A noble Husband, with allow'd Embraces,
To quench lascivious Fires, should such flame in you,
As I must ne'er believe. Were I the Wife
Of one that could but zany brave Cleander,
Ev'n in his least Perfections, (excuse
My o'er-bold Inference) I should desire
To meet no other Object. Cal. You grow faucy.
Do I look further? Clari. No, dear Madam; and
It is my Wonder or Astonishment rather,
You could deny the Service of Lisander;
A man without a Rival, one the King
And Kingdom gazes on with Admiration,
For all the Excellencies a Mother cou'd
Wish in her only Son.

Cal. Did not mine Honour
And Obligation to Cleander, force me
To be deaf to his Complaints?

Clari. 'Tis true; but yet
Your Rigour to command him from your Presence,
Argu'd but small Compassion; the Groves
Witness his grievous Sufferings; your fair Name
(3) Upon the Rind of every gentle Poplar,
And amorous Myrtle Trees, to Venus sacred,

With

(3) Upon the Rind of ev'ry gentle Poplar,
And amorous Myrtle, Trees to Venus sacred,] Our Poet has either committed an Oversight, in making the Poplar and the Myrtle both sacred to Venus, or if he had any Authority for so doing, I don't know it at present: 'Tis true, as the Poplar delights in Moisture, and grows upon the Banks of Rivers, and has Leaves with dark and white Sides, it may be a pretty Symbol of the unlimited Command of that powerful Goddess, throughout the three Allotments of Jupiter, Neptune, and Pluto. But notwithstanding this, I am inclined to think, that the Reading and Pointing was originally thus,

—————of ev'ry gentle Poplar,
And amorous Myrtle Tree, to Venus sacred.

By changing the Number, and altering the Comma, we affix the Epithet Sacred, solely to the Myrtle, and take away the Confusion, which before subsisted, of appropriating two Trees to one Deity, when
in

With Adoration carv'd, and kneel'd unto.
 This you unseen of him, both saw and heard
 Without Compassion ; and what receiv'd he
 For his true Sorrows, but the heavy Knowledge,
 That 'twas your peremptory Will and Pleasure,
 How-e'er my Lord liv'd in him, he should quit
 Your Sight and House for ever. Cal. I confess
 I gave him a strong Potion to work
 Upon his hot Blood, and I hope 'twill cure him :
 Yet I could wish the Cause had concern'd others,
 I might have met his Sorrows with more Pity ;
 At least have lent some Counsel to his Miseries ;
 Though now for Honour sake, I must forget him,
 And never know the Name more of Lisander :
 Yet in my Justice I am bound to grant him,
 Laying his Love aside, most truly noble.
 But mention him no more, this instant Hour
 My Brother Lidian, now return'd from Travel,
 And his brave Friend Clarange, long since Rivals
 For fair and rich Olinda, are to hear
 Her absolute Determination, whom
 She pleases to elect. See all things ready
 To entertain 'em, and on my Displeasure
 No more Words of Lisander. Clari. She endures
 To hear him nam'd by no Tongue but her own :
 How-e'er she carries it, I know she loves him. [Exit.]
Cal. Hard Nature, hard Condition of poor Women!
 That where we are most su'd to, we must fly most!
 The Trees grow up, and mix together freely,
 (4) The Oak's not envious of the failing Cedar :
 The lusty Vine's not jealous of the Ivy,
 Because she clips the Elm ; the Flowers shoot up,
 And wantonly kiss one another hourly, This in reality the Case was very far otherwise, as any one knows who is the least vers'd in the Classicks.

(4) The Oak's not envious of the failing Cedar :] Our Author here, has (contrary to Classical Custom) given the Epithet failing to the Cedar, which usually belongs to another Tree ; I once thought we should transpose this Verse and read thus,

The failing Oak's not envious of the Cedar,
 which is agreeable enough to modern Practice, and of consequence justifiable ;

This Blossom glorying in the other's Beauty,
 And yet they smell as sweet, and look as lovely :
 But we are ty'd to grow alone. O Honour,
 Thou hard Law to our Lives, Chain to our Freedoms!
 He that invented thee had many Curfes.
 How is my Soul divided? O Cleander,
 My best deserving Husband! O Lisander!
 The truest Lover that e'er sacrific'd
 To Cupid against Hymen: O mine Honour ;
 A Tyrant, yet to be obey'd, and 'tis
 But Justice we should thy strict Laws endure,
 Since our Obedience to thee keeps us pure.

[Exit.

Enter Cleander, Lidian, and Clarange.

Cle. How insupportable the difference
 Of dear Friends is, the Sorrow that I feel
 For my Lisander's absence, one that stamps
 A reverend Print on Friendship, does assure me.
 You're Rivals for a Lady, a fair Lady,
 And in the acquisition of her Favours,
 Hazard the cutting of that Gordian Knot
 From your first Childhood to this present Hour,
 By all the Ties of Love and Amity fasten'd.
 I am blest in a Wife, Heav'n make me thankful,
 Inferior to none, sans Pride I speak it ;
 Yet if I were a Freeman, and could purchase
 At any rate the certainty t' enjoy
Lisander's Conversation while I liv'd,
 Forgive me, my Calista, and the Sex,
 I never wou'd seek change.

Lid. My Lord and Brother,
 I dare not blame your choice, Lisander's Worth
 Being a Mistress to be ever courted ;

justifiable; but I am now persuaded the Poet wrote the Line just as it stands; he having in Valentinian Act 2d. sub finem, put this Expression in the Mouth of Lucina, who speaking, of her Husband Maximus, to the Emperor Valentinian, says,

*His Fame and Family have grown together,
 And spread together, like two sailing Cedars
 Over the Roman Diadem.* —————

Nor

Nor shall our equal Suit to fair Olinda
Weaken, but add strength to our true Affection,
With Zeal so long continued:

Clara. When we know
Whom she prefers, as she can chuse but one,
By our so long-try'd Friendship we have vow'd
The other shall desist.

Cle. 'Tis yet your Purpose,
But how this Resolution will hold
In him that is refus'd, is not alone
Doubtful, but dang'rous.

Enter Malfort.

Mal. The rich Heir is come, Sir.

Cle. Madam Olinda?

Mal. Yes, Sir, and makes choice,
After some little Conference with my Lady,
Of this Room to give Answer to her Suitors.

Cle. Already both look pale, between your hopes
To win the Prize, and your despair to lose
What you contend for.

Lid. No, Sir, I am arm'd.

Clara. I confident of my Int'rest. Cle. I'll believe ye
When you've endur'd the Test.

Enter Calista, Olinda, and Clarinda.

Mal. Is not your Garter
Unty'd? You promis'd that I should grow higher
In doing you Service.

Clari. Fall off, or you lose me. [Exit Mal.]

Cle. Nay take your place, no Paris now fits Judge
On the contending Goddesses. You are
The Deity that must make curst or happy,
One of your languishing Servants. Olin. I thus look
With equal Eyes on both; either deserves
A fairer Fortune than they can in reason
Hope for from me; from Lidian I expect
When I have made him mine, all pleasures that
The sweetness of his Manners, Youth, and Virtues
Can give assurance of: But turning this way

To

To brave Clarange, in his Face appears
A kind of Majesty which shou'd command,
Not sue for Favour. If the fairest Lady
Of France, set forth with Nature's best Endowments,
Nay should I add a Princess of the Blood,
Did now lay claim to either for a Husband,
So veh'ment my Affection is to both,
My envy at her Happiness would kill me.

Cle. The strangest Love I ever heard. Cal. You can Enjoy but one. Clari. The more, I say, the merrier.

Olin. Witness these Tears I love both, as I know
You burn with equal Flames, and so affect me;
Abundance makes me poor; such is the hard
Condition of my Fortune, be your own Judges;
If I should favour both, 'twill taint my Honour,
And that before my Life I must prefer:
If one I lean to, th' other is disvalued;
You're fiery both, and Love will make you warmer.

Clari. The warmer still the fitter. You're a Fool, Lady.

Olin. To what may Love, and th' Devil Jealousy, spur you,
Is too apparent; my Name's call'd in question;
Your Swords fly out, your Angers range at large:
Then what a Murder of my Modesty follows?

Clari. Take heed of that by any means. O innocent
That will deny a Blessing when 'tis offer'd,
Wou'd I were murder'd so, I'd thank my Modesty.

Cle. What pause you on? Oli. It is at length resolv'd.

Clara. We're on the Rack, uncertain Expectation's
The greatest Torture.

Lid. Command what you please,
And you shall see how willingly we'll execute.

Olin. Then hear what for your Satisfaction,
And to preserve your Friendship, I resolve
Against myself, and 'tis not to be alter'd:
You're both brave Gentlemen, I'll still profess it,
Both noble Servants, for whose gentle offers
The undeserving and the poor Olinda
Is ever bound; you love both, fair, and virtuously;
Would I could be so happy to content both;
Which since I cannot, take this res'lute Answer;

Go from me both contentedly, and he
That last makes his return, and comes to visit,
Comes to my Bed. You know my Will, farewell :
My Heart's too big to utter more : Come, Friend.

Cal. I'll wait on you t' your Coach.

[Exeunt Olin. Cal. and Clari.

Cle. You both look blank,
I cannot blame you. Lid. We have our Dispatches.

Clara. I'll home.

Lid. And I'll abroad again, Farewel.

Clara. Farewel to ye. [Exeunt Clara. and Lid.

Cle. Their blunt Departure troubles me : I fear
A sudden and a dangerous Divifion
Of their long Love will follow : Have you took Your leave of fair Olinda ?

Enter Calista with a Purse.

Cal. She is gone, Sir.

Cle. Had you brought News Lifander were return'd too,
I were most happy.

Cal. Still upon Lifander ?

Cle. I know he loves me, as he loves his Health ;
And Heav'n knows I love him.

Cal. I find it so ;

For me you have forgot, and what I am to you.

Cle. O think not so. If you had lost a Sister,
You lock'd all your Delights in, it would grieve you :
A little you would wander from the fondness
You ow'd your Husband : I have lost a Friend,
A noble Friend ; all that was excellent
In Man, or Mankind, was contain'd within him.
That loss, my Wife——

Enter Malfort.

Mal. Madam, your noble Father——
A Fee for my good News.

Cal. Why, what of him, Sir ?

Mal. Is lighted at the Door, and longs to see you.

Cal. Attend him hither.

Cle. O my dear Lifander.

But

But I'll be merry : Let's meet him, my Calista.

Cal. I hope Lisander's Love will now be buried ;
My Father will bring Joy enough for one Month,
To put him out of's Memory.

Enter Dorilaus, bis Arm in a Scarf.

Dor. How do you, Son ?

Bless my fair Child, I'm come to visit ye,
To see what House you keep, they say you're bountiful,
I like the Noise well, and I come to try it.
Ne'er a great Belly yet? How have you trifl'd?
If I had done so, Son, I shou'd have heard on't
On both sides, by Saint Dennis.

Cle. You are nobly welcome, Sir :
We've time enough for that.

Dor. See how she blushes ;
'Tis a good Sign, you'll mend your fault ; how dost thou,
My good Calista ?

Cal. Well, now I see you, Sir ;
I hope you bring a fruitfulness along with ye.

Dor. Good luck, I ne'er miss, I was ever good at it :
Your Mother groan'd for't, Wench, so did some other,
But I durst never tell.

Cal. How does your Arm, Sir ?

Cle. Have you been let Blood of late ?

Dor. Against my will, Sir.

Cal. A Fall, dear Father ?

Dor. No, a Gun, dear Daughter ;
Two or three Guns ; I've one here in my Buttock,
'Twould trouble a Surgeon's Teeth to pull it out.

Cal. O me! O me!

Dor. Nay, if you fall to fainting,
'Tis time for me to trudge : Art such a Coward,
At the mere Name of Hurt to change thy Colour?
I have been shot that Men might see clean through me,
And yet I fainted not : Besides myself,
Here are an Hospital of hurt Men for ye.

Enter Servants wounded in several places.

Cle. What should this wonder be ?

Cal.

368 The Lovers Progress.

Cal. I'm amaz'd at it.

Dor. What think y' of these? they're every one hurt
foundly,

Hurt to the proof, they're thro' and thro' I 'sure ye;
And that's good Game, they scorn your puling Scratches.

Cal. Who did this, Sir?

Dor. Leave crying, and I'll tell you,
And get your Plaisters, and your warm Stupes ready:
Have you ne'er a Shepherd that can Tar us over?
'Twill prove a business else, we are so many.

Coming to see you, I was set upon,
I and my Men, as we were singing frolickly,
Not dreaming of an Ambush of base Rogues,
Set on i' th' Forest, I've forgot the Name——

Cle. 'Twixt this and Fontaine-Bleau.

In the wild Forest?

Dor. The same, the same, in that accursed Forest,
Set on by Villains, that make boot of all Men.
The Peers of France are Pillage there, they shot at us,
Hurt us, unhors'd us, came to th' Sword, there ply'd us,
Oppress'd us with fresh Multitudes, fresh Shot still,
Rogues that would hang themselves for a fresh Doublet,
And for a Scarlet Caskock kill their Fathers.

Cle. Lighted you among these?

Dor. Among these Murderers,
Our poor Bloods were engag'd; yet we struck bravely,
And more than once or twice we made them shun us,
And shrink their rugged Heads; but we were hurt all.

Cle. How came you off? For I ev'n long to hear that.

Dor. After our Prayers made to Heav'n to help us,
Or to be merciful unto our Souls,
So near we were——Alas, poor Wench, wipe, wipe.
See Heav'n sends Remedy.

Cal. I'm glad 'tis come, Sir,
My Heart was ev'n a bleeding in my Body.

Dor. A Curl'd-Hair Gentleman step'd in, a Stranger,
As he rode by, belike he heard our bickering,
Saw our Distresses, drew his Sword, and prov'd
He came to execute, and not to argue.

Lord what a Lightning methought flew about him,

When

When he once toss'd his Blade; in Face Adonis,
While Peace inhabited between his Eye-brows:
But when his noble Anger stirr'd his Mettle,
And blew his fiery Parts into a Flame,
Like Pallas, when she sits between two Armies,
Viewing with horrid Brows their sad Events,
Such then he look'd; and as her Shield had arm'd him.

Cal. This Man, Sir, were a Friend to give an Age for.
This Gentleman I must love nat'rally;
Nothing can keep me off. I pray you go on, Sir.

Dor. I will, for now you please me: This brave Youth,
This Bud of Mars, for yet he is no riper,
When once he had drawn Blood, and flesh'd his Sword,
Fitted his manly Mettle to his Spirit,
How he bestirr'd him? What a Lane he made?
And through their fiery Bullets thrust securely,
The hardned Villains wondring at his Confidence.
Lame as I was I follow'd, and admir'd too,
And stirr'd, and laid about me with new Spirit,
My Men too with new Hearts thrust into Action,
And down the Rogues went.

Cle. I am struck with wonder.

Dor. Remember but the Story of strong Hector.

(5) When like to Lightning he broke through his Vanguard,

How the Greeks frighted ran away by Troops,
And trod down Troops to save their Lives: So this Man,
Dispers'd these Slaves: Had they been more and mightier,
He had come off the greater, and more Wonder.

Cle. Where is the Man, good Sir, that we may honour
him?

Cal. That we may fall in Superstition to him.

(5) When like to Lightning he broke through his Vanguard.] To break through his own Vanguard, is hardly Sense; to break from it, is the true Image, and what is much nobler expressed in The Two Noble Kinsmen,

*When I saw you charge first,
Methought I heard a dreadful Clap of Thunder Break from the Troop.*

But from in the Line in Question would hurt the Measure, the Corruption therefore is probably in the Relative his, which should be the or their, i. e. the Grecian Vanguard. Mr. Seward.

Dor. I know not that, from me he late departed,
 But not without that pious Care to see safe
 Me, and my weak Men lodg'd, and dress'd; I urg'd him
 First hither, that I might more freely thank him:
 He told me he had Business, crav'd my Pardon,
 Business of much import.

Cle. Know you his Name?

Dor. That he deny'd me too: a Vow had bar'd him.

Cal. In that he was not noble to be nameless.

Dor. Daughter, you must remember him when I am
 dead,

And in a noble sort requite his Piety,

'Twas his Desire to dedicate this Service

To your fair Thoughts. Cal. He knows me then?

Dor. I nam'd you,

And nam'd you mine: I think that's all his Knowledge.

Cle. No Name, no Being?

Cal. Now I'm mad to know him:

Saving mine Honour, any thing I had now

But to enjoy his sight, but his bare Picture;

Make me his Saint, I must needs honour him.

Ser. I know his Name.

Cal. There's thy Reward for't; speak it.

Ser. His Man told me, but he desir'd my silence.

Cal. O Jasper speak, 'tis thy good Master's Cause too:

We all are bound in Gratitude to compel thee.

Ser. Lisander, yes, I'm sure it was Lisander.

Cal. Lisander? 'Twas Lisander. Cle. 'Tis Lisander.

O my bale Thoughts! my wicked! to make Question

This Act could be another Man's: 'Tis Lisander,

A handfom timber'd Man.

Ser. Yes.

Cle. My Lisander!

Was this Friend's Absence to be mourn'd?

Cal. I grant it:

I'll mourn his going now, and mourn it seriously:

When you weep for him, Sir, I'll bear you Company.

That so much Honour, so much Honesty

Shou'd be in one Man, to do things thus bravely,

Make me his Saint, to me give this brave Service?

What

What may I do to recompence his Goodness?
I cannot tell. Cle. Come, Sir, I know you're fickly,
So are your Men. Dor. I must confes I'm weak,
And fitter for a Bed, than long Discourses.

Cle. You shall hear to Morrow, to Morrow provide Surgeons.

Dor. Lifander——

Cal. What new Fire is this? Lifander—— [Exeunt.

A C T II. S C E N E I.

Enter Lifander, and Lancelot.

Lif. PRithe, good Lancelot, remember that Thy Master's Life is in thy trust, and therefore Be very careful. Lan. I will lose mine own,
Rather than hazard yours. Lif. Take what Disguise
You in your own Discretion shall think fittest,
To keep yourself unknown.

Lan. I warrant ye ;
'Tis not the first time I have gone invisible :
I am as fine a Fairy in a business
Concerning Night-work——

Lif. Leave your Vanities :
With this Purse (which deliver'd, you may spare
Your Oratory) convey this Letter to Calista's Woman. Lan. 'Tis a handsom Girl,
Mistress Clarinda. Lif. I have made her mine.
You know your work. Lan. And if I sweat not in it,
At my Return discard me. [Exit.

Lif. O Calista!
The fairest! cruellest!

Enter Clarange.

Clara. So early stirring?
A good Day to you. Lif. I was viewing, Sir,
Th' Site of your House, and th' handsomness about it :
Believe me it stands healthfully and sweetly.

Clara. The House and Master of it really

Are ever at your Service. Lif. I return it :
Now if you please go forward in your Story
Of your dear Friend and Mistress.

Clara. I will tell it,
And tell it short, because 'tis Breakfast time,
And (Love's a tedious thing to a quick Stomach)
You eat not Yester-night.

Lif. I shall endure, Sir.

Clara. Myself and (as I then deliver'd to you)
A Gentleman of noble hope, one Lidian,
Both brought up from our Infancy together,
One Company, one Friendship, and one Exercise
Ever affecting, one Bed holding us,
One Grief, and one Joy parted still between us,
More than Companions, Twins in all our Actions,
We grew up till we were Men, (6) held one Heart still:
Time call'd us on to Arms, we were one Soldier,
Alike we fought our Dangers and our Honours,
Gloried alike one in anothers Nobleness:
When Arms had made us fit we were one Lover,
We lov'd one Woman, lov'd without Division,
And woo'd a long time with one fair Affection;
And she, as it appears, loves us alike too.
At length considering what our Love must grow to
And covet in the end, this one was parted;
Rivals and Honours make Men stand at distance.
We then woo'd with Advantage, but were Friends still,
Saluted fairly, kept the Peace of Love;
We could not both enjoy the Lady's Favour,
Without some Scandal to her Reputation,
We put it to her Choice, this was her Sentence,
To part both from her, and the last returning
Shou'd be her Lord; w' obey'd, and now you know it;
And for my part, (so truly I am touch'd with't)
I will go far enough, and be the last too,
Or ne'er return.

Lif. A Sentence of much Cruelty,
But mild, compar'd with what's pronounc'd on me.

(6) — held our Heart still:] Thus all the Copies but that of 1647.

Our loving Youth is born to many Miseries.
What is that Lidian pray ye? Clara. Calista's Brother,
If ever you have heard of that fair Lady.

Lif. I've seen her, Sir.

Clara. Then you have seen a Wonder.

Lif. I do confes: Of what Years is this Lidian?

Clara. About my Years: There is not much between us.

Lif. I long to know him.

Clara. 'Tis a virtuous longing;
As many Hopes hang on his noble Head,
As Blossoms on a Bough in May, and sweet ones.

Lif. Ye're a fair Story of your Friend.

Clara. Of Truth, Sir.
Now, what's the matter?

Enter a Servant.

Ser. There's a Gentleman
At Door would speak with you on private Business.

Clara. With me?

Ser. He says so, and brings haste about him.

Clara. Wait on him in. [Exit Servant.]

Lif. I will retire the while, to the next Room.

Clara. We shall not long disturb you.

Enter Alcidon.

Alc. Save ye, Sir.

Clara. The like to you, fair Sir: Pray you come near.

Alc. Pray you instruct me, for I know you not.

With Monsieur Clarange I would speak.

Clara. I'm he, Sir:

Ye are nobly welcome: I wait your business.

Alc. This will inform you.

Clara. Will you please to sit down?

[Gives him a Letter which he reads.]

He shall command me, Sir, I'll wait upon him
Within this Hour.

Alc. You are a noble Gentleman,
Will't please you bring a Friend? we are two of us,
And pity either, Sir, should be unfurnish'd.

Clara. I have none now, and the time's set so short;

'Twill not be possible.

Alc. Do me the Honour:

I know you are so full of brave Acquaintance,
And worthy Friends, you cannot want a Partner:
I would be loath to stand still, Sir; besides,
You know the Custom and the Vantage of it,
If you come in alone,

Clara. And I must meet it.

Alc. Send, we'll defer an Hour, let us be equal:
Games won and lost on equal Terms shew fairest.

Clara. 'Tis to no purpose to send any whither,
Unless Men be at home by Revelation:
So please you breath a while; when I have done with him
You may be exercis'd too: I'll trouble no Man.

Enter Lisander.

Lis. They are very loud. Now what's the News?

Clara. I must leave you,

Leave you a while, two Hours hence I'll return, Friend.

Lis. Why, what's the matter?

Clara. A little Business.

Lis. And't be but a little, you may take me with ye.

Clara. 'Twill be a trouble to you. Lis. No indeed,
To do you Service, I account a Pleasure.

Clara. I must alone. Lis. Why?

Clara. 'Tis necessity——

Before you pass the Walks, and back again,
I will be with ye. Lis. If it be n't unmannerly
To press you, I wou'd go.

Clara. I'll tell you true, Sir,

This Gentleman and I upon appointment,
Are going to visit a Lady. Lis. I am no Capuchin,
Why shou'd not I go? Alc. Take the Gentleman,
Come he may see the Gentlewoman too,
And be most welcome, I do beseech you take him.

Lis. By any means, I love to see a Gentlewoman,
A pretty Wench too.

Clara. Well, Sir, we will meet you,
And at the Place: My Service to the Lady.

Alc. I kiss your Hand.

[Exit.
Clara.

Clara. Prithee read o'er her Letter.

Lisander reads.

Monfieur,

I Know you have consider'd the dark Sentence Olinda gave us, and that, however she disguis'd it, it pointed more at our Swords Edges than our Bodies Banishments; the last must enjoy her: if we retire, our Youths are lost in wandering; in Emulation we shall grow old Men, and feeble, which is the scorn of Love, and rust of Honour, and so return more fit to wed our Sepulchres, than the Saint we aim at; let us therefore make our Journey short, and our Hearts ready, and with our Swords in our Hands put it to Fortune, which shall be worthy to receive that Blessing. I'll stay you on the Mountain, our old hunting Place, this Gentleman alone runs the bazard with me, and so I kiss your Hand.

Your Servant Lidian.

Is this your Wench? you'll find her a sharp Mistress.
What have I thrust myself into? Is this that Lidian
You told me of? Clara. The same.

Lis. My Lady's Brother?

No Cause to heave my Sword against but his?
To save the Father Yesterday, and this Morning
To help to kill the Son? This is most courteous,
The only way to make the Daughter doat on me.

Clara. Why do you muse? would you go off?

Lis. No, no, I must on now. This will be kindly taken;

No Life to sacrifice, but part of hers?
Do you fight straight? Clara. Yes, presently.

Lis. To Morrow then,

The baleful Tidings of this Day will break out,
And this Night's Sun will set in Blood; I'm troubled:
If I am kill'd, I'm happy.

Clara. Will you go, Friend?

Lis. I'm ready, Sir. Fortune, thou'lt made me monstrous.

[Exeunt.

Enter Malfort and Clarinda.

Mal. Your Cousin, and my true Friend, lusty Leon,
A a 4 Shall

Shall know how you use me.

Clari. Be more temperate,
Or I will never use, nor know you more
I'th' way of a Servant; all the House takes notice
Of your ridiculous Foppery; I've no sooner
Perform'd my Duties in my Lady's Chamber,
And she scarce down the Stairs, but you appear
Like my evil Spirit to me. Mal. Can the Fish live
Out of the Water, or the Salamander
Out of the Fire? or I live warm, but in The Frying-pan of your Favour?

Clari. Pray you forget.
Your curious Comparisons, borrow'd from
The Pond, and Kitchen, and remember what
My Lady's pleasure is for th' Entertainment
Of her noble Father. Mal. I would learn the Art
Of Mem'ry in your Table-Book.

Clari. Very good, Sir,
No more but up and ride; I apprehend
Your Meaning, soft Fire makes sweet Malt, Sir: I'll Answer you in a Proverb. Mal. But one Kiss from Thy honey Lip. Clari. You fight too high, my Hand is A fair Ascent from my Foot. His slav'ring Kisses
Spoil me more Gloves,——enough for once, you'll surfeit
With too much Grace.

Mal. Have you n' Imployment for me?

Clari. Yes, yes, go send for Leon, and convey him
Into the private Arbour, from his Mouth
I hear your Praises with more Faith. Mal. I'm gone.
Yet one thing e'er I go, there's at the Door
The rarest Fortune-teller, he hath told me
The strangest things; he knows ye are my Mistress,
And under Seal deliver'd how many Children
I shall beget on you; pray you give him hearing,
He'll make it good to you.

Clari. A cunning Man
Of your own making, howsoe'er I'll hear him
At your intreaty.

Mal. Now I perceive ye love me;
At my entreaty, come in Friend—remember

Enter

Enter Lancelot like a Fortune-teller, with a Purse, and two Letters in it.

To speak as I directed, he knows his Lesson,
And the right way to please her; this it is
To have a Head-piece.

[Exit.

Clari. 'Tis said you can tell
Fortunes to come. Lan. Yes, Mistrefs, and what's past;
Un-glove your Hand; by this straight Line I see
You have lain crooked. Clari. How? lain crooked?

Lan. Yes; and in that Posture plaid at the old Game,
(No Body hears me, and I'll be no blab)
And at it lost your Maidenhead.

Clari. A shrewd Fellow;
'Tis truth, but not to be confes'd; in this
Your Palmeftry deceives you; something else, Sir.

Lan. Ye're a great Woman with your Lady, and Acquainted with her Counfels.

Clari. Still more strange.

Lan. There is a noble Knight, Lifander, loves her,
Whom she regards not; and the Destinies,
With whom I am familiar, have deliver'd
That by your means alone he must enjoy her.
Your Hand again, yes, yes, you have already Promis'd him your Assistance, and what's more,
Tasted his Bounty, for which, from the Sky
There are two hundred Crowns drop'd in a Purse,
Look back, you'll find it true; nay, open it,
'Tis good Gold I'll assure you. (7) Clari. How, two Letters?
The first indors'd to me? this to my Lady?
Subscrib'd Lifander. Lan. And the Fortune-teller

His

(7) Clari. How, two Letters?
The first endors'd to me? this to my Lady?
Subscrib'd Lifander.

Probably the Author wrote thus :

—————Two Letters?

The first endors'd to me? ————— Subscrib'd Lifander,

—————This to my Lady?] I have made a Dash after The first endors'd to me, to give time for the opening or reading of her own Letter; otherwise how could she know it was from Lifander, before she had either broke the Seal or perus'd its Contents? And it seems as odd

His Servant Lancelot. Clari. How had I lost my Eyes,
That I could not know thee? Not a word o'th' loss
Of my Virginity.

Lan. Nor who I am.

Clari. I'll use all speedy means for your dispatch
With a welcome Answer; but till you receive it
Continue thus disguis'd. Monsieur Malfort
(You know the way to humour him) shall provide
A Lodging for you, and good Entertainment;
Nay, since we Trade both one way, thou shalt have
Some feeling with me, take that. Lan. Bountiful Wench, May'st thou ne'er want Employment.

Clari. Nor such Pay, Boy. [Exeunt.

Enter Lidian and Alcidon at one Door, Lisander and Clarange at another.

Lid. You're welcome

Alc. Let us do our Office first,
And then make choice of a new piece of Ground
To try our Fortunes. Lif. All's fair here. Alc. And here,
Their Swords are equal. Lif. If there be any odds
In mine we will exchange. Alc. We'll talk of that
When we are farther off, farewell.

Lif. Farewel, Friend. [Exe. Lif. and Alc.

Lid. Come, let us not be idle? Clara. I will find you
Employment, fear not. Lid. You know, Sir, the Cause
That brings us hither. Clara. There needs no more discourfing,

No time nor place for repetition now.

Lid. Let our Swords argue, and I wish, Clarange,
The proud Olinda saw us.

Clara. Wou'd she did;
Whatever estimation she holds of me,
She shou'd behold me like a Man fight for her.

Lid. 'Tis nobly said; set on—Love and my Fortune—
[They fight.

Clara. The fame for me; come home brave Lidian,
'Twas manly thrust, this token to the Lady;

as can be, for Lisander to set his Name on the Outside of Calista's
Billet, since the subscribing it at the Bottom, was all that was requisite.

Ye have it, Sir, deliver it, take Breath,
I see ye bleed apace, ye shall have fair play.

Enter Lifander.

Lif. You must lie there a while, I cannot help you.

Lid. Nay, then my Fortune's gone, I know I must die:

(8) Yet dearly will I sell my Love: come on both,
And use your Fortunes, I expect no Favour;
Weak as I am, my confidence shall meet ye.

Clara. Yield up your Cause, and live.

Lid. What, dost thou hold me
A Recreant, that prefers Life before Credit?
Though I bleed hard, my Honour finds no Issue,
That's constant to my Heart.

Clara. Have at your Life then.

Lif. Hold, or I'll turn, and bend my Sword against ye,
My Cause, Clarange too. View this brave Gentleman,
That yet may live to kill you; he stands nobly,
And has as great a promise of the day
As you can tie unto yourself; he's ready,
His Sword as sharp, view him with that remembrance,
That you deliver'd him to me, Clarange:
And with those Eyes, that clearness will become ye:
View him, as you reported him; survey him,
Fix on your Friendship, Sir. I know you're noble,
And step but inward to your old Affection,
Examine but that Soul grew to your Bosom,
And try then if your Sword will bite, it cannot,
The Edge will turn again, ashamed and blunted;
Lidian, you are the Pattern of fair Friendship,
Exempl'd for your Love, and imitated;
The Temple of true Hearts, stor'd with Affections,
For sweetness of your Spirit made a Saint:

(8) Yet dearly I will tell my Love;—] Mr. Seward conjectures with me, that this Place ought to run thus:

Yet dearly I will sell my Life—

Life and Love have been put the one for the other, in more Places than one, in our Authors Plays. He instances in Cupid's Revenge and I in AE 3d of the Play preceding this, to both which Places I refer the Reader.

Can

Can you decline this nobleness to Anger?
 To mortal Anger? 'gainst the Man ye love most?
 Have ye the Name of Virtuous, not the Nature?

Lid. I will sit down.

Clara. And I'll sit by you, Lidian.

Lif. And I'll go on. Can Heav'n be pleas'd with these things?

To see two Hearts that have been (9) twinn'd together,
 Married in Friendship to the World, a wonder;
 Of one Growth, of one Nourishment, one Health,
 Thus mortally divorc'd for one weak Woman?
 Can Love be pleas'd? Love is a gentle Spirit,
 The Wind that blows the April Flowers not softer;
 She's drawn with Doves to shew her Peacefulness.
 Lyons and bloody Pards are Mars's Servants.
 Would ye serve Love? do it with humbleness,
 Without a noise, with still Prayers, and soft Murmurs;
 Upon her Altars offer your Obedience,
 And not your Brawls; she's won with Tears, not Terrors:
 That Fire ye kindle to her Deity,
 Is only grateful when it blows with sighs,
 And holy Incense flung with white-hand Innocence;
 Ye wound her now; ye are too superstitious:
 No Sacrifice of Blood or Death she longs for.

Lid. Came he from Heaven?

Clara. He tells us truth, good Lidian.

Lif. That part of noble Love which is most sweet,
 And gives eternal Being to fair Beauty,

(9) ——— that have been twin'd together,
Married in Friendship to the World, to wonder,] The Errors in these two Lines, both as to the Words and Pointing, owe their Original to nought but the Press. I correct (with Mr. Seward) both the one and the other thus:

————— that have been twinn'd together,
Married in Friendship, to the World a Wonder.

The former is authoris'd by the Poet himself, at the beginning of this Act, where Clara says, that himself and Lidian were,

More than Companions, Twins in all their Actions.

The latter plain Sense requires otherwise;

They wou'd be married to the World in Friendship, not to Each Other; which manifestly contradicts what he design'd here to say.

Honour,

Honour, you hack a pieces with your Swords:
And that ye fight to crown, ye kill, fair Credit.

Clara. Thus we embrace, no more fight, but all Friendship,

And (10) where Love pleases to bestow his Benefits,
Let us not argue.

Lid. Nay brave Sir, come in too,
You may love also, and may hope; if ye do,
And not rewarded for't, there is no Justice;
Farewel, Friend, here let's part upon our Pilgrimage,
It must be so, Cupid draws on our Sorrows,
And where the Lot lights——

Clara. I shall count it Happiness.
Farewel, dear Friend.

Lis. First, let's relieve the Gentleman:
That lies hurt in your Cause, and bring him off,
And take some Cure for your hurts; then I'll part too,
A third unfortunate, and willing Wanderer. [Exeunt.]

Enter Olinda, and Calista.

Olin. My fears foresaw 'twou'd come to this.

Cal. I wou'd your Sentence had been milder.

Olin. 'Tis past help now.

Cal. I share in your despair, and yet my Hopes
Have not quite left me, since all possible means
Are practis'd to prevent the mischief following
Their mortal Meeting; my Lord's coasted one way,
My Father, though his hurts forbad his travel,
Hath took another; my Brother-in-law Beronte,
A third, and ev'ry Minute we must look for
The certain Knowledge which we must endure
With that calm Patience Heav'n shall please to lend us.

(10) ——where Love pleases to bestow his Benefits,] Love here is considered as a Male Deity, tho' in the fine Speech a little above, the same Power is wholly described as a Female one: 'Tis true both are justifiable, because Antiquity considered this Divinity as partaking of either Sex. Upon this Account I have not dared to alter the Text: But if the Reader has a mind to make the Poet consistent with himself, and lay the Corruption only to the Printer's charge, 'tis easily done, by reading thus:

———to bestow her Benefits.

Enter

Enter Dorilaus, and Cleander severally.

Dor. Dead both ?

Cle. Such is the rumour, and 'tis general.

Olin. I hear my Passing-Bell.

Cal. I'm in a Fever.

Cle. They say their Seconds too ; but what they are,
Is not known yet, some worthy Fellows certain.

Dor. Where had you Knowledge ?

Cle. Of the Country People,
'Tis spoken every where.

Dor. I heard it so too ;

And 'tis so common, I do half believe it.
You've lost a Brother, Wench, he lov'd you well,
And might have liv'd t'have done his Country Service ;
But he is gone. Thou fell'st untimely, Lidian,
But by a valiant Hand, that's some small comfort,
And took'st him with thee too, thou lov'st brave Company ;

Weeping will do no good, you lost a Servant,
He might have liv'd t'have been your Master, Lady,
But you fear'd that.

Olin. Good Sir, be tender to me,
The News is bad enough, (11) you need not press it ;
I lov'd him well, I lov'd 'em both.

Dor. It seems so.

How many more have you to love so, Lady ?
They were both Fools to fight for such a Fiddle ;
Certain there was a dearth of noble Anger,
When a slight Woman was thought worth a quarrel.

Olin. Pray you think nobler.

Dor. I'll tell thee what I think, the Plague, War, Famine,
Nay put in Dice and Drunkenness, and those You'll grant are pretty helps, kill not so many (I mean so many noble) as your Loves do,
Rather your Lewdness ; I crave your mercy, Women.
Be not offended if I anger ye.

(11) ——— you need not press it ;] i. e. make it worse.

I'm sure ye've touch'd me deep, I came to be merry,
And with my Children, but to see one ruin'd
By this fell accident——are they all dead?
If they be, speak?

Cle. What News?

Enter Beronte, Alcidon, and Clarinda following with a Letter.

Ber. What dead? ye pose me;
I understand you not.

Cle. My Brother Lidian, Clorange, and their Seconds.

Ber. Here's one of 'em, and sure this Gentleman's alive.

Alc. I hope so, so's your Son, Sir, so's brave Clorange :
They fought indeed, and they were hurt sufficiently ;
We were all hurt, that bred the general rumour,
But friends again all, and like Friends we parted.

Cle. Heard ye of Lisander ?

Ber. Yes, and miss'd him narrowly ;
He was one of th' Combatants, fought with this Gentle-
man,

Second against your Brother ; by his Wisdom
(For certainly good Fortune follows him)
All was made Peace. I'll tell you th' rest at Dinner,
For we are hungry.

Alc. I before I eat

Must pay a Vow I'm sworn to ; my Life, Madam,
Was at Lisander's mercy, I live by it ;
And for the noble Favour, he desir'd me
To kiss your fair Hand for him, offering
This second service as a Sacrifice
At th' Altar of your Virtues.

Dor. Come, joy on all sides ;
Heav'n will not suffer honest Men to perish.

Cle. Be proud of such a Friend.

Dor. Forgive me, Madam,
It was a grief might have concern'd you near too.

Cle. No work of excellence but still Lisander,——
Go thy ways worthy.

Olin. We'll be merry too.

Were

Were I to speak again, I would be wiser.

[Exe. Manent Clarin. and Calist.]

Cal. Too much of this rare Cordial makes me Sick,
However I obey you. Clari. Now or never

Is an apt time to move her, Madam. Cal. Who's that?

Clari. Your Servant, I would speak with your Ladyship.

Cal. Why dost thou look about?

Clari. I've private Business

That none must hear but you. Lisander ———

Cal. Where?

Clari. Nay, he's not here, but wou'd intreat this favour,
Some of your Balsam from your own Hand given,
For he's much hurt, and that he thinks wou'd cure him.

Cal. He shall have all my Pray'rs too.

Clari. But conceive me,

It must be from yourself immediately.

Pity so brave a Gentleman shou'd perish,

He's Superstitious, and he holds your Hand

Of infinite Power. I'd not urge this, Madam,

But only in a Man's Extrems, to help him,

Cal. Let him come,

Good Wench, 'tis that I wish, I'm happy in't,

My Husband his true Friend, my noble Father,

The fair Olinda, all desire to see him;

He shall have many Hands.

Clari. That he desires not,

Nor Eyes, but yours to look upon his Miseries,

For then he thinks 'twou'd be no perfect Cure, Madam;

He wou'd come private.

Cal. How can that be here?

I shall do wrong unto all those that honour him,

Besides my Credit.

Clari. Dare ye not trust a hurt Man?

Not strain a Courtesie to save a Gentleman?

To save his Life, that has sav'd all your Family?

A Man that comes like a poor mortify'd Pilgrim

Only to beg a blessing, and depart again?

He wou'd but see you, that he thinks wou'd cure him.

But since you find fit Reasons to the contrary,

And that it cannot stand with your clear Honour,

(Though

(Though you best know how well he has deserv'd of ye;) I'll send him word back, though I grieve to do it, (Grieve at my Soul, for certainly 'twill kill him,) What your Will is. Cal. Stay, I will think upon't; Where is he, Wench? Clari. If you desire to see him, Let not that trouble you, he shall be with ye, And in that time that no Man shall suspect ye; Your Honour, Madam, 's in your own free keeping; Your Care in me, in him all Honesty; If ye desire him not, let him pass by ye: And all his Business reckon but a Dream.

Cal. Go in and counsel me, I wou'd fain see him, And willingly comfort him.

Clari. 'Tis in your Pow'r. And if you dare trust me, you shall do't safely. Read that, and let that tell you, how he honours you.

[Exeunt.]

A C T III. S C E N E I.

Enter Clarinda with a Key, and Leon.

Leon. THIS happy Night— [Kisses her.]

Clari. Preserve this Eagerness Till we meet nearer, there is something done Will give us Opportunity.

Leon. Witty Girl, the Plot?

Clari. You shall hear that at leisure. The whole House reels with Joy at the Report Of Lidian's Safety, and that Joy increas'd From their Affection to the brave Lisander, In being made th' happy Instrument to compound The bloody Diff'rence.

Leon. They'll hear shortly that Will turn their Mirth to Mourning; he was then The principal means to save two Lives, but since There are two slain, and by his single Hand, For which his Life must answer, if the King, Whose Arm is long, can reach him.

Clari. We have now
No spare time to hear Stories: take this Key,
'Twill make your Passage to the Banqueting-House
I' the Garden free.

Leon. You will not fail to come?

Clari. For mine own sake ne'er doubt it; now for Lisander.
[Exit Leon.]

Enter Dorilaus, Cleander, and Servants with Lights.

Dor. To Bed, to Bed, 'tis very late. Cle. To Bed all,
I've drank a Health too much.

Dor. You'll sleep the better,
My usual Physick that way.

Cle. Where's your Mistress?

Clari. She is above, but very ill and aguish:
The late Fright of her Brother has much troubl'd her;
She would entreat to lie alone.

Cle. Her Pleasure.

Dor. Commend my Love t' her, and my Pray'rs for her
Health,
I'll see her ere I go. [Exit. Manet Clari.]

Clari. All good rest to ye:
Now to my Watch for Lisander, when he's furnish'd,
For mine own Friend; since I stand Centinel,
I love to laugh i' th' Evenings too, and may,
The priv'lege of my Place will warrant it. [Exit.]

Enter Lisander and Lancelot.

Lis. You've done well hitherto; where are we now?

Lan. Not far from th' House, I hear by th' Owls, there are

Many of your Welch Faulconers about it;
Here were a Night to chuse to run away with Another Man's Wife, and do the Feat.

Lis. Peace, Knave,
The House is here before's, and some may hear us;
The Candles are all out.

Lan. But one i' th' Parlour,
I see it simper hither; pray come this way.

Lis. Step to the Garden-door, and feel and't be open.

Lan.

Lan. I'm going, Luck deliver me fro' th' Saw-pits,
Or I am buried quick : I hear a Dog,
No, 'tis a Cricket, ha! here's a Cuckold buried,
Take heed of's Horns, Sir ; here's the Door, 'tis open.

Clari. [At the Door.] Who's there?

Lif. A Friend.

Clari. Sir! Lifander!

Lif. I.

Clari. Y'are welcome, follow me, and make no Noife.

Lif. Go to your Horfe, and keep your Watch with care, Sirrah,

And be sure ye sleep not. [Exeunt Lif. and Clari.]

Lif. Send me out the Dairy-maid

To play at trump with me, and keep me waking.
My fellow Horfe, and I, now must discourse
Like two learn'd Almanack-makers, of the Stars,
And tell what a plentiful Year 'twill prove of Drunkards.
If I'd but a pottle of Sack, like a sharp Prickle,
To knock my Nose against when I am nodding,
I should sing like a Nightingale ; but I must Keep watch without it ; I am apt to dance,
Good Fortune guide me from the Fairies Circles. [Exit.]

Enter Clarinda with a Taper, and Lifander with a Pistol two Chairs set out.

Clari. [to Lifander.] Come near ;

[Calista sitting behind a Curtain.]

I'll leave ye now, draw but that Curtain,
And have your Wish ; now Leon I'm for thee.
We that are Servants must make use of stol'n Hours,
And be glad of snatch'd Occasions. [Exit.]

Lif. She's asleep,
Fierce Love hath clos'd his Lights, (I may look on her,)
Within her Eyes 'has lock'd his Graces up ;
I may behold and live ; how sweet she breathes!
The orient Morning breaking out in Odours
Is not so full of Perfumes as her Breath is ;
She's the Abstract of all Excellence,
And scorns a Parallel.

Cal. Who's there?

Lis. Your Servant,
 Your most obedient Slave, ador'd Lady,
 That comes but to behold those Eyes again,
 And pay some Vows I have to sacred Beauty,
 And so pass by; I'm blind as Ignorance,
 And know not where I wander, how I live,
 'Till I receive from their bright Influence
 Light to direct me; for Devotion's sake,
 (You are the Saint I tread these holy Steps to,
 And holy Saints are all relenting Sweetness;)
 Be not enrag'd, nor be not angry with me;
 The greatest Attribute of Heav'n is Mercy;
 And 'tis the Crown of Justice, and the Glory,
 Where it may kill with Right, to save with Pity.

Cal. Why do you kneel, I know you come to mock me,
 T' upbraid me with the Benefits you've given me,
 Which are too many, and too mighty, Sir,
 For my Return; and I confess 'tis Justice,
 That for my Cruelty you should despise me;
 And I expect, however you are calm now,
 (A Foil you strive to set your Cause upon,)
 It will break out, Calista is unworthy,
 Coy, proud, disdainful, I acknowledge all,
 Colder of Comfort than the frozen North is,
 And more a Stranger to Lisander's Worth,
 His Youth and Faith, than it becomes her Gratitude;
 I blush to grant it, yet take this along,
 (A sovereign Medicine to allay Displeasure,
 May be an Argument to bring me off too;)
 She's marry'd, and she's chaste; how sweet that sounds;
 How it perfumes all Air 'tis spoken in!
 O dear Lisander, wou'd you break this Union?

Lis. No, I adore it: Let me kiss your Hand,
 And seal the fair Faith of a Gentleman on it.

Cal. You're truly valiant; would it not afflict you
 To have the horrid Name of Coward touch you?
 Such is the Whore to me.

Lis. I nobly thank ye;
 And may I be the same when I dishonour ye;
 This I may do again.

[Kissing her Hand.
Cal.

Cal. Ye may, and worthily ;
Such Comforts Maids may grant with Modesty,
And neither (12) make them poor, nor wrong their Bounty ;
Noble Lifander, how fond now I'm of ye!
I heard you were hurt.

Lif. You dare not heal me, Lady ?
I am hurt here. How sweetly now she blushes !
Excellent Objects kill our Sight, she blinds me :
The Roses in the Pride of May shew pale to her.
O Tyrant Custom, and O coward Honour !
How ye compel me to put on mine own Chains !
May I not kiss you now in Superstition ?
For you appear a thing that I wou'd kneel to :
Let me err that way. [Kisses her.

Cal. Ye shall err for once,
I have a kind of noble Pity on you.
Among your manly Sufferings, make this most,
To err no farther in Desire, for then, Sir,
Ye add unto the Gratuities I owe you ;
And after Death, your dear Friend's Soul shall bless you.

Lif. I'm wondrous honest.

Cal. I dare try. [Kisses her.

Lif. I've tasted
A Blessedness too great for dull Mortality,
Once more, and let me die.

Cal. I dare not murder ;
How will Maids curse me if I kill with Kisses,
And young Men fly th' Embraces of fair Virgins ;
Come pray sit down, but let's talk temperately.

Lif. Is my dear Friend abed ?

Cal. Yes, and asleep,
Secure asleep ; 'tis Midnight too, Lifander,
Speak not so loud.

Lif. You see I am a Statue,
I cou'd not stand else, as I'd eaten Ice,

(12) — make her poor, nor wrong her Bounty ;] As her has nothing to refer to but Maids in the Line above, we must certainly change the Number, and write,

— make them poor, nor wrong their Bounty.

Or took into my Blood a drowsy Poison,
 And Nature's noblest, brightest Flame burn in me;
 Midnight? and I stand quietly to behold so?
 The Alarm rung, and I sleep like a Coward?
 I'm worn away, my Faith, and dull Obedience
 Like Crutches, carry my decayed Body
 Down to the Grave; I have no Youth within me;
 Yet happily you love too.

Cal. Love with Honour.

Lif. Honour? What's that? 'tis but a specious Title
 We shou'd not prize too high.

Cal. Dearer than Life.

Lif. The Value of it, is as Time has made it,
 And Time and Custom have too far insulted:
 We are no Gods, to b' always tied to Strictness
 'Tis a Presumption to shew too like 'em;
 March but an Hour or two under Love's Ensigns,
 We have Examples of great Memories——

Cal. But foul ones too, that Greatness cannot cover;
 That Wife that by Example sins, sins double,
 And pulls the Curtain open to her Shame too;
 Methinks t' enjoy you thus——

Lif. 'Tis no Joy, Lady;

A longing Bride, if she stop here, wou'd cry,
 The Bridegroom too, and with just Cause, curse Hymen;
 But yield a little, be one Hour a Woman,
 (I do not speak this to compel you, Lady)
 And give your Will but Motion, let it stir,
 But in the Taste of that weak Fears call Evil,
 Try it to understand it, we'll do nothing,
 You'll never come to know pure good else.

Cal. Fie, Sir.

Lif. I've found a way; let's slip into this Error
 As Innocents, that knew not what we did;
 As we were dreaming both let us embrace;
 The Sin is none of ours then, but our Fancies.

What have I said? What Blasphemy to Honour?
 O my base Thoughts! Pray ye take this and shoot me.
 My villain Thoughts!

[Noise within.]

Cal. I weep your Misery,

And

And wou'd to Heav'n——What Noise?

Lif. It comes on louder.

Kill me, and save yourself; save your fair Honour,
And lay the Fault on me, let my Life perish,
My base lascivious Life, shoot quickly, Lady.

Cal. Not for the World; retire behind the Hangings,
And there stand close — my Husband, close Lisander.

Enter Cleander with a Taper.

Cle. Dearest, are you well?

Cal. O my sad Heart; my Head! my Head!

Cle. Alas poor Soul! What do you out of your Bed?
You take cold, my Calista; how do ye?

Cal. Not so well, Sir, to lye by ye: my Brother's Fright——

Cle. I had a frightful Dream too,
A very frightful Dream, my best Calista.
Methought there came a Dragon to your Chamber,
A furious Dragon, Wife, I yet shake at it.
Are all things well?

Lif. [From behind the Hangings.] Shall I shoot him?

Cal. No.——All's well, Sir.

'Twas but your Care of me, your loving Care
Which always watches.

Cle. And methought he came
As if he had risen thus out of his Den,
As I do from these Hangings.

Lif. Dead.

Cal. Hold, good Sir.

Cle. And forc'd ye in his Arms thus.

Cal. 'Twas but Fancy
That troubled ye, here's nothing to disturb me;
Good Sir, to rest again, and I'm now drowsy,
And will to bed; make no Noise, dearest Husband,
But let me sleep; before you can call any Body
I am abed. Cle. This, and sweet Rest dwell with ye. [Exit.

Cal. Come out again; and as you love, Lisander,
Make haste away, you see his Mind is troubled:
D' you know the Door ye came at?

Lif. Well, sweet Lady.

Cal. And can ye hit it readily?

Lif. I warrant ye;

And must I go? Must here end all my Happiness?
Here in a Dream, as if it had no Substance?

Cal. For this time, Friend, or here begin our Ruins;
We are both miserable.

Lif. This is some Comfort
In my Afflictions; they're so full already,
They can find no increase.

Cal. Dear, speak no more.

Lif. You must be silent then. Cal. Farewel, Lifander,
Thou joy of Man farewel.

Lif. Farewel, bright Lady,
Honour of Woman-kind, a heav'nly Blessing.

Cal. Be ever honest.

Lif. I'll be a Dog else;
The Virtues of your Mind I'll make my Library,
In which I'll study the celestial Beauty:
Your Constancy, my Armour that I'll fight in:
And on my Sword your Chastity shall sit,
Terror to Rebel Blood.

Cal. Once more farewel: [Noise within.
O that my Modesty cou'd hold you still, Sir,—
He comes again.

Lif. Heav'n keep my Hand from Murder,
Murder of him I love.

Cal. Away, dear Friend,
Down to the Garden-Stairs, that way, Lifander,
We are betray'd else.

Lif. Honour guard the Innocent. [Exit Lifander.

Enter Cleander.

Cle. Still up? I fear'd your Health.

Cal. 'Has mis'd him happily;
I'm going now, I've done my Meditations,
My Heart's almost at Peace.

Cle. To my warm Bed then.

Cal. I will, pray ye lead. [A Pistol shot within.

Cle. A Pistol shot i'th' House?
At these Hours? Sure some Thief, some Murderer:

Rise

Rise ho, rise all, I am betray'd.

Cal. O Fortune!

O giddy thing! 'has met some Opposition,
And kill'd; I am confounded, lost for ever.

Enter Dorilaus.

Dor. Now, what's the matter?

Cle. Thieves, my noble Father,
Villains and Rogues. Dor. Indeed I heard a Pistol,
Let's search about.

Enter Malfort, Clarinda, and Servants.

Mal. To Bed again; they're gone, Sir,
(I will not bid you thank my Valour for't;)
Gone at the Garden-Door, there were a Dozen,
And bravely arm'd, I saw 'em. Clari. I am glad,
Glad at the Heart.

Ser. One shot at me, and miss'd me.

Mal. No, 'twas at me, the Bullet flew close by me,
Close by my Ear; another had a huge Sword,
Flourish'd it thus, but at the Point I met him;
But the Rogue taking me to be your Lordship,
(As sure your Name is terrible, and we Not much unlike i'th' dark) roar'd out aloud,
It is the Kill-Cow Dorilaus; and away
They ran as they had flown: Now you must love me, [Aside to Clarinda.

Or fear me for my Courage, Wench.

Clari. O Rogue!

O lying Rogue! Lisander stumbled, Madam,
At the Stairs head, and in the fall the Shot went off;
Was gone before they rose.

Cal. I thank Heav'n for't.

Clari. I was frighted too, it spoil'd my Game with Leon.

Cle. You must sit up; and they'd come to your Chamber
What Pranks would they have plaid? How came the Door open?

Mal. I heard 'em when they forc'd it; up I rose,
Took Durindana in my Hand, and like
Orlando, issu'd forth.

Clari.

Clari. I know you're valiant.

Cle. To bed again,
And be you henceforth provident; at Sun-rising
We must part for a while.

Dor. When you are abed,
Take leave of her, there 'twill be worth the taking,
Here 'tis but a cold Ceremony; ere long
We'll find Lisander, or we have ill Fortune.

Cle. Lock all the Doors fast.

Mal. Though they all stood open,
My Name writ on the Door, they dare not enter. [Exeunt.]

Enter Clarange, and Friar with a Letter.

Clara. Turn'd Hermit?

Friar. Yes, and a devout one too;
I heard him preach. Clara. That lessens my Belief;
For though I grant my Lidian a Scholar——
As far as fits a Gentleman, 'hath studied
Humanity, and in that he's a Master,
Civility of Manners, Courtship, Arms;
But never aim'd at, as I could perceive,
The deep Points of Divinity.

Friar. That confirms his Devotion to be real, no way tainted
With Ostentation or Hypocrisy,
The Cankers of Religion; his Sermon
So full of Gravity, and with such Sweetness
Deliver'd, that it drew the Admiration
Of all the Hearers, on him; his own Letters
To you, which witness he will leave the World,
And these to fair Olinda, his late Mistress,
In which he hath with all the moving Language
That ever express'd Rhetorick, sollicit
The Lady to forget him, and make you
Blessed in her Embraces, may remove All scrup'lous Doubts.

Clara. It strikes a Sadness in me,
I know not what to think of't.

Friar. Ere he entred
His solitary Cell, he penn'd a Ditty,

His

His long and last Farewel to Love, and Women,
So feelingly, that I confess, however
It stands not with my Order to be taken
With such Poetical Raptures, I was mov'd
And strangely, with it.

Clara. Have you th' Copy?

Friar. Yes, Sir:

My Novice too can sing it, if you please
To give him hearing.

Clara. And it will come timely,
For I am full of melancholy Thoughts,
Against which I have heard, with reason, Musick
To be the speediest Cure, pray you apply it.

A S O N G by the Novice.

*Adieu fond Love, farewell you wanton Pow'rs,
I'm free again ;
Thou dull Disease of Blood and idle Hours,
Bewitching Pain,
Fly to the Fools that sigh away their time.
My nobler Love to Heaven climb,
And there behold Beauty still young,
That Time can ne'er corrupt, nor Death destroy ;
Immortal Sweetness by fair Angels sung,
And honour'd by Eternity and Joy :
There lives my Love, thither my Hopes aspire ;
Fond Love declines, this heav'nly Love grows higher.*

Friar. How do y' approve it?

Clara. To its due Desert.

It is a heav'nly Hymn, no Ditty, Father,
It passes through my Ears unto my Soul,
And works divinely on it; give me leave
A little to consider; shall I be
Out-done in all things? nor good of myself,
Nor by Example? shall my loose Hopes still,
The Viands of a fond Affection, feed me
As I were a sensual Beast? and spiritual Food
Refus'd by my sick Palate? 'tis resolv'd.

How

How far off, Father, doth this new-made Hermit
Make his Abode ?

Fri. Some two Days Journey, Son.

Clara. Having reveal'd my fair Intentions to ye,
I hope your Piety will not deny me
Your Aids to further 'em? Fri. That were against A good Man's Charity. Clara. My first Request is,
You wou'd some time, for Reasons I will shew you,
Defer Delivery of Lidian's Letters
To fair Olinda.

Fri. Well, Sir.

Clara. For what follows,
You shall direct me ; something I will do,
A new-born Zeal and Friendship prompts me to. [Ex.]

Enter Dorilaus, Cleander, Chamberlain, a Table, Tapers and Chairs.

Cle. We have supp'd well, Friend ; let our Beds be ready,
We muff be stirring early.

Cham. They are made, Sir.

Dor. I cannot sleep yet, where's the jovial Host
You told me of ? 'thas been my custom ever
To parly with mine Host.

Cle. He's a good Fellow,
And such a one I know you love to laugh with ;
Go call your Master up.

Cham. He cannot come, Sir.

Dor. Is he a-bed with's Wife ?

Cham. No certainly.

Dor. Or with some other Guests ?

Cham. Neither, and't like ye.

Cle. Why then he shall come by your leave, my Friend,
I'll fetch him up myself,

Cham. Indeed you'll fail, Sir.

Dor. Is he i'th' House ?

Cham. No, but he is hard by, Sir ;
He's fast in's Grave, he has been dead these three Weeks.

Dor. Then o'my Conscience he will come but lamely,
And discourse worse,

Cle.

Cle. Farewel mine honest Host then,
Mine honest merry Host ; will you to Bed yet ?

Dor. No, not this Hour, I prithee sit and chat by me.

Cle. Give us a Quart of Wine then, we'll be merry.

Dor. A match, my Son ; pray let your Wine be living,
Or lay it by your Master.

Cham. 'T shall be quick, Sir.

[Exit.

Dor. Has not mine Host a Wife ?

Cle. A good old Woman.

Dor. Another Coffin, that is not so handsome ;
Your Hostesses in Inns should be Blith things,
Pretty and young, to draw in Passengers ;
She'll ne'er
Fill her Beds well, if she be n't beauteous.

Enter Chamberlain with Wine.

Cle. And courteous too.

Dor. I, I, and a good Fellow,
That will mistake sometimes a Gentleman
For her good Man. Well done ; here's to Lisander.

Cle. My full Love meets it ; make fire in our Lodgings,
We'll trouble thee no farther ; to your Son.

[Exit Chamberlain.

Dor. Put in Clarangè too ; off with't, I thank ye ;
This Wine drinks merrier still. O for mine Host now,
Were he alive again, and well dispos'd,
I would so claw his Pate.

Cle. You're a hard drinker.

Dor. I love to make mine Host drunk, he'll lie then
The rarest, and the roundest, of his Friends,
His Quarrels, and his Guests, and they're th'best Bauds
too,

Take'em in that Tune. Cle. You know all. Dor. I did Son,
But Time and Arms have worn me out. Cle. 'Tis late, Sir,
I hear none stirring.

[A Lute is struck.]

Dor. Hark, what's that, a Lute ?

'Tis at the Door, I think.

Cle. The Doors are shut fast.

Dor.

Dor. 'Tis Morning sure, the Fidlers are got up
To fright Mens sleeps ; have we ne'er a Pifs-pot ready?

Cle. Now I remember, I've heard mine Host that's dead,
Touch a Lute rarely, and as rarely sing too,
A brave still mean.

Dor. I'd give a brace of French Crowns
To see him rise and fiddle. Cle. Hark, a Song,
Now as I live it is his Voice.

A S O N G.

'Tis late and cold, stir up the Fire ;
Sit close, and draw the Table nigher ;
Be merry, and drink Wine that's old,
A hearty Med'cine 'gainst a Cold.
Your Beds of wanton Down the best,
Where you shall tumble to your rest ;
I cou'd wish you Wenches too,
But I am dead, and cannot do ;
Call for the best the House may ring,
Sack, White, and Claret, let them bring,
And drink apace, while Breath you have,
You'll find but cold Drink in the Grave ;
Plover, Partridge, for your Dinner,
And a Capon for the Sinner,
You shall find ready when you're up,
And your Horse shall have his sup :
Welcome shall fly round,
And I shall smile though under Ground.

Dor. He sings well, the Devil has a pleasant Pipe.
Cle. The fellow ly'd sure.

Enter Host.

He is not dead, he's here : how pale he looks !

Dor. Is this he ?

Cle. Yes.

Host.

Host. You're welcome, noble Gentlemen,
My brave old Guest most welcome.

Cle. Lying Knaves,
To tell us you were dead ; come sit down by us,
We thank ye for your Song.

Host. Wou'd't had been better.

Dor. Speak, are ye dead ?

Host. Yes indeed am I, Gentlemen,
I have been dead these three Weeks.

Dor. Then here's to ye,
To comfort your cold Body. Cle. What d'you mean ?
Stand further off. Dor. I will stand nearer to him.
Shall he come out on's Coffin to bear us Company,
And we not bid him welcome ? Come, mine Host,
Mine honest Host, here's to ye.

Host. Sp'rits, Sir, drink not.

Cle. Why do y'appear ?

Host. To wait upon ye, Gentlemen,
('Thas been my Duty living, now my Farewel ;)
I fear ye are not us'd accordingly.

Dor. I cou'd wish you warmer Company, mine Host,
Howe'er we're us'd.

Host. Next to entreat a Courtesy,
And then I go to Peace.

Cle. Is't in our Power ?

Host. Yes, and 'tis this, to see my Body buried
In holy Ground, for now I lie unhallow'd,
By the Clerk's Fault ; let my new Grave be made
Amongst good Fellows, that have died before me,
And merry Hosts of my kind.

Cle. 'T shall be done.

Dor. And forty Stoops of Wine drank at thy Funeral.

Cle. Do you know our Travel ?

Host. Yes, to seek your Friends,
That in Afflictions wander now.

Cle. Alas !

Host. Seek 'em no farther, but be confident
They shall return in Peace.

Dor. There's comfort yet.

Cle.

Cle. Pray ye one Word more ; is't in your Pow'r, mine
Host,

(Answer me softly) some Hours 'fore my Death,
To give me warning ?

Host. I can't tell ye truly,
But if I can, so much alive I lov'd ye,
I will appear again ; adieu.

[Exit.

Dor. Adieu, Sir.

Cle. I'm troubled ; these strange Apparitions are
For th'most part fatal.

Dor. This, if told, will not Find credit ; the Light breaks apace, let's lie down
And take some little Rest, an Hour or two,
Then do mine Host's desire, and so return ;
I do believe him.

Cle. So do I ; to rest, Sir.

[Exeunt.

Enter Calista, and Clarinda.

Cal. Clarinda!

Clari. Madam.

Cal. Is the House well order'd ?
The Doors look'd to, now in your Master's Absence ?
Your Care, and Diligence amongst the Servants ?

Clari. I'm stirring, Madam.

Cal. So thou art, Clarinda,
More than thou ought'st I'm sure ; why dost thou blush ?

Clari. I do not blush.

Cal. Why dost thou hang thy Head, Wench ?

Clari. Madam, ye are deceiv'd, I look upright,
I understand ye not : She has spied Leon. [Aside.

Shame of his want of caution. Cal. Look on me ;
What, blush again ?

Clari. 'Tis more than I know, Madam ;
I have no cause that I find yet.

Cal. Examine then.

Clari. Your Ladyship is set, I think, to shame me.

Cal. Do not deserve't. Who lay with you last Night ?
What Bedfellow had ye ? None of the Maids came near ye.

Clari. Madam, they did.

Cal. 'Twas one in your Cousin's Cloaths then,

And

And wore a Sword ; and sure I keep no Amazons.
Wench do not lie, 'twill but proclaim thee Guilty ;
(14) Lies hide our Sins like Nets ; like Perspectives,
They draw Offences nearer still, and greater :
Come tell the truth.

Clari. You are the strangest Lady
To have these Doubts of me ; how have I liv'd, Madam ?
And which of all my careful Services
Deserves these Shames ? Cal. Leave facing, 'twill not serve ye :
This Impudence becomes thee worse than Lying.
I thought ye had liv'd well, and I was proud of 't ;
But you are pleas'd t'abuse my Thoughts ; who was't ?
Honest Repentance yet will make the Fault less.

Clari. Do ye compel me ? Do you stand so strict too ?
Nay, then have at ye ; I shall rub that Sore, Madam,
Since ye provoke me, will but vex your Ladyship ;
Let me alone.

Cal. I will know.

Clari. For your own Peace,
The Peace of your own Conscience, ask no farther ;
Walk in, and let me alone.

Cal. No, I'll know all.

Clari. Why, then I'll tell ye ; 'twas a Man I lay with, (Never admire, 'tis easy to be done, Madam,
And usual too) a proper Man I lay with ;
Why shou'd you vex at that ? Young as Lisander,
And able too ? I grudge not at your Pleasure,
Why shou'd you stir at mine ? I steal none from ye.

Cal. And dost thou glory in this Sin ?

Clari. I'm glad on't,
To glory in't is for a mighty Lady
That may command.

Clari. Why didst thou name Lisander ?

Clari. Does't anger ye ? Does it a little gall ye ?
I know it does ; why would ye urge me, Lady ?
Why wou'd ye be so curious to compel me ?
I nam'd Lisander as my Precedent,

(14) Lies hide our Sins—] Thus Mr. Seward reads, and thus the Copy of 1647 runs. Vulg. Lies hid our Sins.

The rule I err'd by; you love him, I know it,
I grudg'd not at it, but am pleas'd it is so;
And by my care and diligence you enjoy'd him.
Shall I for keeping counsel have no Comfort?

Will you have all yourself? Ingress all Pleasure?

Are ye so hard-hearted? Why do ye blush now, Madam?

Cal. My Anger blushes, not my Shame, base Woman.

Clari. I'll make your Shame blush, since you put me to't;

Who lay with you t'other Night?

Cal. With me? ye Monster.

Clari. Whose sweet Embraces circled ye? Not your Husband's;

I wonder ye dare touch me in this point, Madam?

Stir her against ye in whose hand your Life lies?

More than your Life, your Honour? What smug Amazon

Was that I brought you? that Maid had ne'er a Petticoat.

Cal. She'll half persuade me anon, I am a Beast too,

And I mistrust myself, though I am honest,

For giving her the Helm. Thou know'st, Clarinda,

Ev'n in thy Conscience, I was ever Virtuous;

As far from Lust in meeting with Lisander,

As the pure Wind in welcoming the Morning;

In all the Conversation I had with him,

As free, and innocent, as yon fair Heav'n;

Didst n't thou persuade me too?

Clari. Yes, I had reason for't,

And now you are persuaded I'll make use on't.

Cal. If I had sin'd thus, and my Youth entic'd me,

The nobleness and beauty of his Person,

Beside the mighty Benefits I'm bound to,

Is this sufficient Warrant for thy Weakness?

If I had been a Whore, and crav'd thy Counsel

In the conveyance of my Fault, and Faithfulness,

Thy secrecie, and truth in hiding of it;

Is it thy Justice to repay me thus?

To be the Master Sinner to compel me?

And build thy Lust's secur'ty on mine Honour?

Clari. They that love this Sin, love their Security;

Prevention, Madam, is the Nail I knock'd at,

And I have hit it home, and so I'll hold it,

And

And you must pardon me, and be silent too,
And suffer what ye see, and suffer patiently;
I shall do worse else.

Cal. Thou canst not touch my Credit,
Truth will not suffer me to be abus'd thus.

Clari. Do not you stick to Truth, she's seldom heard,
Madam,

A poor weak Tongue she has, and that is hoarse too
With pleading at the Bars; none understands her,
Or if you had her, what can she say for ye?
Must she not swear he came at Midnight to ye,
The Door left open, and your Husband cozen'd
With a feign'd Sickness?

Cal. But by my Soul I was honest,
Thou know'st I was honest.

Clari. That's all one what I know,
What I will testify is that shall vex ye;
Trust not a guilty Rage with Likelihoods,
And on apparent Proof; take heed of that, Madam;
If you were innocent, as't may be ye are,
I do not know, I leave it to your Conscience,
It were the weakest and the poorest part of ye,
Men being so willing to believe the worst,
So open-ey'd in this Age to all Infamy,
To put your Fame in this weak Bark to th' venture.

Cal. What do I suffer? O my precious Honour,
Into what Box of Evils have I lock'd thee?
Yet rather than be thus outbrav'd, and by
My Drudge, my Footstool, one that su'd to be so,
Perish both Life, and Honour; Devil thus
I dare thy worst, defie thee, spit at thee,
And in my virtuous Rage, thus trample on thee;
Awe me thy Mistress, Whore, to be thy Bawd?
Out of my House, proclaim all that thou know'st,
Or Malice can invent; fetch Jealousie
From Hell, and like a Fury breath it in
The Bosom of my Lord; and to thy utmost
Blast my fair Fame, yet thou shalt feel with Horror
To thy fear'd Conscience, my Truth is built
On such a firm base, that if e'er it can

Be forc'd, or undermin'd by thy base Scandals,
Heav'n keeps no guard on Innocence.

[Exit.]

Clari. I'm lost,
In my own Hopes forsaken, and must fall,
(The greatest Torment to a guilty Woman,)
Without revenge; 'Till I can fashion it
I must submit, at least appear as if
I did repent, and would offend no farther.
Monfieur Beronte, my Lord's Brother, is Oblig'd unto me for a private Favour:
'Tis he must meditate for me; but when Time
And Opportunity bids me strike, my wreak
Shall pour itself on her nice Chastity
Like to a Torrent, Deeds, not Words shall speak me.

[Exit.]

A C T VI. S C E N E I.

Enter Alcidon and Beronte, severally.

Alc. YE're opportunely met. Ber. Your Countenance
Expresses haste mixt with some fear.

Alc. You'll share

With me in both, as soon as you are made
Acquainted with the Cause; (15) if you love Virtue,
In danger not secure; I have no time
For Circumstance, instruct me if Lisander
(16) Be in your Father's House?

Ber. Upon my Knowledge

(15) ——— if you love Virtue

In danger not secure; ———] Thus all the Copies, but whether right or wrong, the Reader must judge: To me the Place appears manifestly corrupt, and I am inclined to think it ought to run so,

——— if you love Virtue,

In danger ought to succour it.

(16) Be in your Fathers House?] As Beronte's Father does not appear once thro' the Play, it may well be supposed he is not among the Living, and so we ought to read (as Mr. Seward likewise observ'd) thus,

Be in your Brother's House

But this I lay no great Stress on, and the Reader may take his Choice.

He

He is not there.

Alc. I'm glad on't. Why, good Sir?
Without Offence I speak it, there's no Place in which he is more honour'd, or more safe, than with his Friend Cleander.

Alc. In your Votes
grant it true, but as it now stands with him, can give reason to make Satisfaction for what I speak; you cannot but remember
The ancient Difference between Lisander
And Cloridon, a Man in Grace at Court.

Ber. I do; and the foul Plot of Cloridon's Kinsmen
Upon Lisander's Life, for a Fall given
To Cloridon 'fore the King, as they encountred
At a solemn Tilting. Alc. It is now reveng'd.
In brief a Challenge was brought to Lisander
By one Chryfantes; and as far as Valour
Would give him Leave, declin'd by bold Lisander:
But Peace refus'd, and Braves on Braves heap'd on him,
Alone he met the Opposites, ending the Quarrel
With both their Lives.

Ber. I'm truly sorry for't.

Alc. The King incens'd for his Favourite's Death,
Hath set a Price upon Lisander's Head,
As a Reward to any Man that brings it
Alive or dead; to gain this, every where
He is pursu'd, and laid for, and the Friendship
Between him and your noble Brother known,
His House in reason cannot pass unsearcht,
And that's the principal Cause that drew me hither,
To hasten his remove, if he had chosen
This Castle for his Sanctuary.

Ber. 'Twas done nobly,
And you most welcome; this Night pray you take
A Lodging with us; and at my Entreaty
Conceal this from my Brother, he is grown
Exceeding sad of late; and the hard Fortune
Of one he values at so high a rate,
Will much increase his Melancholy.

Alc. I'm tutor'd:

Pray you lead the way.

Ber. To serve you, I will shew it. [Exeunt.]

Enter Cleander with a Book.

Cle. Nothing more certain than to die, but when
Is most uncertain: If so, every Hour
We should prepare us for the Journey, which Is not to be put off. I must submit
To the divine Decree, not argue it,
And chearfully I welcome it: I have
Dispos'd of my Estate, confes'd my Sins,
And have Remission from my Ghostly Father,
(17) Being at Peace too here. The Apparition
Proceeded not from Fancy, Dorilaus
Saw it, and heard it with me; it made answer
To our Demands, and promis'd, if 'twere not Deny'd to him by Fate, he would forewarn me
Of my approaching end. I feel no Symptom
Of Sicknes; yet I know not how, a Dulness
Invadeth me all over. Ha!

Enter Host.

Host. I come, Sir,
To keep my Promise; and as far as Spirits
Are sensible of Sorrow for the Living,
I grieve to be the Messenger to tell you,
Ere many Hours pass, you must resolve
To fill a Grave.

Cle. And feast the Worms?

Host. E'en so, Sir.

Cle. I hear it like a Man. Host. It well becomes you,
There's no evading it. Cle. Can you discover
By whose Means I must die? Host. That is deny'd me:

(17) Being at Peace too hear.—] This is wrong; while Cleander speaks these Words, he lays his Hand upon his Breast, to signify that his Conscience was at ease, and had nothing at all to reproach him with; we should therefore read,

Being at Peace too here.—

Thus too reads Mr. Seward, and this Lesson is confirm'd by the Folio of 1647.

But

But my Prediction is too sure; prepare
To make your Peace with Heav'n, so farewell, Sir. [Exit.]

Cle. I see no En'my near; and yet I tremble
Like a pale Coward; my sad Doom pronounc'd
By this aerial Voice, as in a Glafs
Shews me my Death in its most dreadful Shape.
What Rampire can my human Frailty raise Against th' Assault of Fate? I do begin
To fear myself, my inward Strengths forsake me,
I must call out for help. Within there! haste
And break in to my Rescue.

Enter Dorilaus, Calista, Olinda, Beronte, Alcidon, Servants, and Clarinda, at several Doors.

Dor. Rescue? where?

Shew me your Danger. Cal. I will interpose
My Loyal Breast between you and all Hazard.

Ber. Your Brother's Sword secures you.

Alc. A true Friend will die in your Defence.

Cle. I thank ye,

To all my Thanks. Encompass'd thus with Friends
How can I fear? and yet I do: I'm wounded,
Mortally wounded; nay it is within,
I am hurt in my Mind: One Word——

Dor. A thousand.

Cle. I shall not live to speak so many to you.

Dor. Why? what forbids you?

Cle. But e'en now the Spirit

Of my dead Host appear'd, and told me, that
This Night I should be with him; Did you not meet it?
It went out at that Door.

Dor. A vain Chimera

Of your Imagination: Can you think
Mine Host wou'd not as well have spoke to me now,
As he did in the Inn? These waking Dreams,
Not alone trouble you, but strike a strange
Distraction in your Family. See the Tears
Of my poor Daughter, fair Olinda's Sadness,
Your Brother's and your Friends grief, Servants sorrow.
Good Son bear up, you've many Years to live

A Comfort to us all ; let's in to Supper ;
 Ghosts never walk 'till after Midnight, if I may believe my Grannam. We will wash
 These Thoughts (18) away with Wine, spight of Hobgob-lins.

Cle. You reprehend me justly ; gentle Madam,
 And all the rest, forgive me ; I'll endeavour
 To be merry with you. Dor. That's well said.

Ber. I have
 Procur'd your Pardon. [To Clarinda.

Cal. Once more I receive you
 Into my Service ; but take special Care
 You fall no further.

Clari. Never, Madam. Sir,
 When you shall find fit time to call me to it, [Aside.
 I will make good what I have said. Ber. 'Till when,
 Upon your Life be silent. Dor. We will have A Health unto Lisander.

Cle. His Name, Sir,
 Somewhat revives me ; but his Sight wou'd cure me.
 However let's to Supper.

Olin. Would Clarange
 And Lidian were here too, as they shou'd be,
 If Wishes cou'd prevail.

Cal. They are fruitless, Madam. [Exit.

Enter Leon.

Leon. If that Report speak Truth, Clarinda is Discharg'd her Lady's Service, and what Burden
 I then have drawn upon me is apparent ;
 The Crop she reapt from her Attendance was
 Her best Revenue, and my principal Means
Clarinda's Bounty, though I labour'd hard for't,
 A younger Brother's Fortune. Must I now
 Have sow'r Sawce, after sweet Meats ? and be driven
 To levy half a Crown a Week, besides
 Clouts, Sope, and Candles, for my Heir apparent,

(18) ———away with Wine, in spight of——] So Vulg. The Text is from the Copy of 1647.

If she prove, as she swears she is, with Child ;
Such as live this way, find like me, though wenching
Hath a fair Face, there's a Dragon in the Tail of't,
That stings to th' quick. I must skulk here, untill
I am resolv'd : How my Heart pants between My Hopes and Fears ! She's come ; are we i' th' Port ?
If not, let's sink together.

Enter Clarinda.

Clari. Things go better
Than you deserve ; you carry things so openly,
I must bear ev'ry way ; I am once more
In my Lady's Grace. Leon. And I in yours.

Clari. It may be ;
But I have sworn unto my Lady never
To sin again.

Leon. To be surpriz'd— the sin
Is in itself excusable ; to be taken
Is a Crime, as th' Poet writes.

Clari. You know my Weakness,
And that makes you so confident. You've got A fair Sword ; was it not Lisander's ?

Leon. Yes, Wench,
And I grown valiant by the wearing of it :
It hath been th' Death of two. With this Lisander
Slew Cloridon, and Chrysanthes. I took it up,
Broken i' th' Handle, but that is reform'd,
And now in my Possession ; the late Master
Dares never come to challenge it : This Sword,
And all the Weapons that I have, are ever
Devoted to thy Service : Shall we bill ?
I'm very gamefome.

Clari. I must first dispose of
The Fool Malfort ; he has smoak'd you, and is not,
But by some new Device, to be kept from me ;
I have it here shall fit him : You know where
You must expect me, with all possible silence
Get thither.

Leon. You will follow ?

Clari. Will I live ?

She

She that is forfeited to Lust must die,
That humour being un-fed ; be gone, here comes [Ex. Leon.
My Champion in Armour.

Enter Malfort in Armour.

Mal. What Adventure
I'm bound upon I know not, but it is
My Mistress' Pleasure that I should appear thus.
I may perhaps be terrible to others,
But as I am, I'm sure my Shadow frights me ;
The clashing of my Armour in my Ears,
Sounds like a Passing-bell ; and my Buckler puts me
In mind of a Bier ; this my Broad-sword, a Pick-axe
To dig my Grave : O Love ! abominable Love !
What Monsters issue from thy dismal Den,
Clarinda's Placket (19) which I must encounter,
Or never hope to enter.

Clari. Here's a Knight-Errant, Monsieur Malfort!

Mal. Stand, stand,

Or I'll fall for ye. Clari. Know ye not my Voice ?

Mal. Yes, 'twas at that I trembl'd.

But were my false Friend Leon here——

Clari. 'Tis he.

Mal. Where ? where ?

Clari. He is not come yet.

Mal. 'Tis well for him,

I am so full of Wrath.

Clari. Or fear——This Leon,

Howe'er my Kinsman, hath abus'd you grossly,
And this Night vows to take me hence perforce,
And marry me t' another : 'Twas for this,
Presuming on your Love, I did entreat you
To put your Armour on, that with more Safety
You might defend me.

Mal. And I'll do it bravely.

Clari. You must stand here to beat him off, and suffer
No human thing to pass you, though 't appear

(19) ——what I must encounter,] The Text is from the first Folio.

In my Lord's shape, or Lady's: Be not cozen'd
With a disguise. Mal. I have been fool'd already,
But now I'm wise. Clari. You must swear not to stir hence.

Mal. Upon these Lips.

Clari. Nor move until I call you.

Mal. I'll grow here rather.

Clari. This Night's Task well ended,
I am yours to Morrow. Keep sure guard. [Exit Clari.

Mal. Adieu;

My Honey-comb, how sweet thou art, did not
A Nest of Hornets keep it; what Impossibilities
Love makes me undertake? I know myself
A natural Coward, and should Leon come,
Though this were Cannon proof, I should deliver
The Wench before he ask'd her. I hear some footing;
'Tis he; where shall I hide myself? that is My best Defence.

Enter Cleander.

Cle. I cannot sleep, strange Visions
Make this poor Life, I fear'd of late to lose,
A Toy that I grow weary of.

Mal. 'Tis Leon.

Cle. What's that?

Mal. If you are come, Sir, for Clarinda,
I'm glad I have her for you; I resign
My Interest, you'll find her in her Chamber,
I did stay up to tell you so. Cle. Clarinda
And Leon! There is something more in this Than I can stay to ask. [Exit,

Mal. What a cold pickle,
And that none of the sweetest, do I find
My poor self in!

Cle. [Speaks within.] Yield, Villain.

Enter Clarinda and Leon running, Cleander following.

Clari. 'Tis my Lord,
Shift for yourself. Leon. His Life, Shall first make answer

For

For this Intrusion.

[Kills Cleander.

Mal. I am going away,
I'm gone already

[Falls in a Swoon.

Cle. Heav'n take Mercy on My Soul ; too true presaging Host.

Clari. He's dead,
And this Wretch little better : Do you stare
Upon your Handy-work? Leon. I am amaz'd.

Clari. Get o'er the Garden Wall, fly for your Life,
But leave your Sword behind ; enquire not why :
I'll fashion something out of it, though I perish,
Shall make way for Revenge.

Leon. These are the Fruits
Of Lust, Clarinda.

Clari. Hence, repenting Milk-fop. [Exit Leon.
Now 'tis too late. Lisander's Sword, ay, that, [Puts the Sword in Malfort's Hand.

That is the Base I'll build on. So, I'll raise
The House. Help! Murder, a most horrid Murder.
Monsieur Beronte, noble Dorilaus,
All buried in sleep? Ay me, a Murder!
A most unheard of Murder!

Enter Dorilaus as from Bed.

Dor. More Lights, Knaves ;
Beronte, Alcidon ; more Lights.

Enter Beronte, Alcidon, and Servants with Lights.

Clari. By this
I see too much. Dor. My Son Cleander bathing
In his own Gore. The Devil to tell Truth i' th'
Shape of an Host! Ber. My Brother?

Mal. I have been
I' th' other World, in Hell I think, these Devils
With Fire-brands in their Paws sent to torment me,
(Though I ne'er did the Deed,) for my lewd purpose
To be a Whore-master. Dor. Who's that? Alc. 'Tis one in
Armour. A bloody Sword in 's Hand.

Dor. Sans question

The

The Murderer. Mal. Who I? you do me wrong,
I never had the Heart to kill a Chicken ;
Nor do I know this Sword.

Alc. I do, too well.

Ber. I've seen Lisander wear it.

Clari. This confirms

What Yester-night I whisper'd : Let it work,
The Circumstance may make it good. Mal. My Lord?
And I his Murderer?

Ber. Drag the Villain hence.

The Rack shall force a free Confession from him.

Mal. I am struck dumb ; you need not stop my Mouth.

Ber. Away with him. [Exit with Mal.

Enter Calista and Olinda.

Cal. Where is my Lord ?

Dor. All that

Remains of him lies there : Look on this Object,
And then turn Marble.

Cal. I am so already,

Made fit to be his Monument : But wherefore
Do you, that have both Life and Motion left you,
Stand sad Spectators of his Death, and not Bring forth his Murderer? Ber. That lies in you :
You must, and shall produce him. Dor. She, Beronte?

Ber. None else.

Dor. Thou ly'st, I'll prove it on thy Head,
Or write it on thy Heart.

Alc. Forbear, there is Too much Blood shed already.

Ber. Let not Choler

Stifle your Judgment : Many an honest Father
Hath got a wicked Daughter. If I prove not
With evident Proofs, her Hand was in the Blood
Of my dear Brother, too good a Husband for her,
Give your Revenge the Reins, and spur it forward.

Dor. If any Circumstance but shew her guilty,
I'll strike the first Stroke at her.

Ber. Let me

Ask a question calmly. Do you know this Sword?

Have

Have you not seen Lisander often wear it?

Dor. The same with which he rescued me. Cal. I do,
What Inference from this to make me guilty?

Ber. Was he not with you in the House to Night?

Cal. No, on my Soul.

Ber. Nor ever heretofore

In private with you, when you feign'd a Sickness,
To keep your Husband absent? Cal. Never, Sir,
To a dishonest End. Ber. Was not this Woman
Your Instrument? Her Silence does confess it.
Here lies Cleander dead, and here the Sword
Of false Lisander, too long cover'd with
A Masque of seeming Truth.

Dor. And is this all

The Proof ye can alledge? Lisander guilty,
Or my poor Daughter an Adulteress?

Suppose that she had chang'd Discourse with one
To whom she ow'd much more? Cal. Thou hast thy ends,

Wicked Clarinda.

[She falls.]

Olin. Help, the Lady sinks,

Malice hath kill'd her. Dor. I wou'd have her live,
Since I dare swear she's innocent: 'Tis no Time
Or Place to argue now; this Cause must be Decided by the Judge; and though a Father,
I will deliver her into the Hands
Of Justice: If she prove true Gold when try'd,
She's mine; if not, with Curses I'll disclaim her:
Take up your part of Sorrow, mine shall be Ready to answer with her Life the Fact
That she is charg'd with. Ber. Sir, I look upon you
As on a Father. Dor. With the Eyes of Sorrow
(20) I see you as a Brother: Let your Witnesses
Be ready.

Ber. 'Tis my care.

(20) I see you as a Brother:—] i. e. As a Partaker in Sorrow, if the Place is right: Otherwise to make an Antithesis, it ought to be,
I see you as a Son.

Beronte having before led the way by saying,
I look upon you as a Father.

Alc.

Alc. I am for Lydian.
This Accident no doubt will draw him from His Hermit's Life.

Clari. Things yet go right ; persist, Sir. [Exit.]

Enter Lifander, and Lancelot.

Lif. Are th' Horses dead ?

Lan. Out-right. If you ride at this rate,
You must resolve to kill your two a day,
And that's a large proportion.

Lif. Will you please
At any Price, and speedily, to get fresh ones.
You know my Danger, and the Penalty
That follows it, shou'd I be apprehended :
Your Duty in obeying my Commands,
Will in a better Language speak your Service,
Than your unnecessary and untimely Care
Of my Expence. Lan. I'm gone, Sir.

[Exit.]

Lif. In this Thicket
I will expect you. Here yet I have leisure
To call myself unto a strict Account
For my pass'd Life, how vainly spent : I wou'd
I stood no farther guilty : But I have
A heavier reckoning to make. This Hand,
Of late as white as Innocence, and unspotted,
Now wears a purple Colour, dy'd in Gore ;
My Soul of the same Tincture ; purblind Passion,
With flatt'ring Hopes, wou'd keep me from Despair,
Pleading I was provok'd to 't ; but my Reason
Breaking such thin and weak Defences, tells me
I've done a double Murder ; and for what ?
Was it in service of the King ? His Edicts
Command the contrary : Or for my Country ?
Her Genius, like a mourning Mother, answers
In Cloridon and Chrysanthes she hath lost
Two hopeful Sons, that might have done their Parts,
To guard her from Invasion. For what Cause then ?
To keep th' Opinion of my Valour upright
I' th' popular Breath ? a sandy Ground to build on ;
Bought with the King's Displeasure ; as the breach

OF

Of Heav'n's Decrees, the loss of my true Comforts,
 In Parents, Kinsmen, Friends; as the Fruition
 Of all that I was born to, and that fits
 Like to a Hill of Lead here, in my Exile,
 (Never to be repeal'd, if I escape so)
 I have cut off all Hopes ever to look on

Enter Lidian, like a Hermite.

Divine Calista, from her sight and converse
 For ever banish'd.

Lid. I shou'd know this Voice.

His naming too my Sister, whom Lisander
 Honour'd, but in a noble Way, assures me
 That it can be no other: I stand bound
 To comfort any Man I find distress'd;
 But to aid him that sav'd my Life, Religion
 And Thankfulness, commands; and it may be High Providence for this good end hath brought him
 Into my solitary Walk. Lisander!

Noble Lisander! Lif. Whatsoe'er thou art,
 That honourable Attribute thou giv'st me,
 I can pretend no right to. Come not near me,
 I am infectious, the Sanctity
 Of thy Profession (for thou appear'st
 A Rev'rend Hermite) if thou fly not from me,
 As from the Plague or Leprosy, can't keep thee
 From being polluted.

Lid. With good Counsel, Sir,
 And holy Prayers to boot, I may cure you,
 Though both ways so infected. You look wildly,
 (Peace to your Conscience,) Sir, and stare upon me,
 As if you never saw me: Hath my Habit
 Alter'd my Face so much, that yet you know not
 Your Servant Lidian?

Lif. I am amaz'd:—

So Young, and so Religious? Lid. I purpose,
 Heav'n make me thankful for't, to leave the World:
 I've made some trial of my Strengths in this
 My solitary Life; and yet I find not
 A Faintness to go on. Lif. Above belief;

Do you inhabit here? Lid. Mine own free choice, Sir:
I live here poorly, but contentedly,
Because I find enough to feed my Fortunes;
Indeed too much: These wild Fields are my Gardens,
The Crystal Rivers they afford their Waters,
And grudge not their sweet Streams to quench Afflictions;
The hollow Rocks their Beds, which though they're hard,
(The Emblems of a doting Lover's Fortune)
Yet they are quiet; and the weary Slumbers
The Eyes catch there, softer than Beds of Down, Friend;
The Birds my Bell to call me to Devotions;
My Book the Story of my wandring Life,
In which I find more Hours due to Repentance
Than Time hath told me yet.

Lif. Answer me truly.

Lid. I will do that without a Conjuraton.

Lif. I' th' depth of Meditation, do you not Sometimes think of Olinda?

Lid. I endeavour

To raze her from my Mem'ry, as I wish
You wou'd do the whole Sex; for know, Lisander,
The greatest Curse brave Man can labour under,
Is the strong Witch-craft of a Woman's Eyes;
Where I find Men I preach this Doctrine to 'em:
As you're a Scholar, Knowledge make your Mistrefs,
(21) The hidden Beauties of the Heav'ns your Study;
There shall you find fit wonder for your Faith,
And for your Eye inimitable Objects:
As you're a profess'd Soldier, court your Honour,
Though she be stern, she's honest, a brave Mistrefs;
The greater Danger you oppose to win her,
She shews the sweeter, and rewards the nobler;
Womens best loves to hers mere Shadows be,
For after Death she weds your Memory.
These are my Contemplations.

Lif. Heav'nly ones;

And in a young Man more remarkable.
But wherefore do I envy, and not tread in

(21) The hidden Beauties——] Hidden i. e. unobserv'd before.

This blessed Tract? Here's in the Heart no falshood
 To a vow'd Friend, no Quarrels seconded
 With Challenges, which answer'd in defence
 Of the word Reputation, Murder follows.
 A Man may here repent his Sins, and though
 His Hand like mine be stain'd in Blood, it may be
 With Penitence and true Contrition wash'd off;
 You've prov'd it, Lidian? Lid. And you'll find it true,
 If you persevere. Lif. Here then ends my Flight,
 And here the Fury of the King shall find me
 Prepar'd for Heav'n, if I am mark'd to die
 For that I truly grieve for.

Enter Friar, and Clarangè in Friars Habit.

Fri. Keep yourself
 Conceal'd, I am instructed. Clari. How the sight
 Of my dear Friend confirms me!

Lif. What are these?

Lid. Two reverend Friars, one I know.

Fri. To you

This Journey is devoted.

Lid. Welcome Father.

Fri. I know your Resolution's so well grounded,
 And your adieu unto the World's so constant,
 That though I am the unwilling Messenger
 Of a strange accident to try your Temper,
 It cannot shake you. You had once a Friend,
 A noble Friend, Clarangè.

Lid. And have still,

I hope; good Father. Fri. Your false Hopes deceive
 you,
 He's Dead.

Lif. Clarangè Dead?

Fri. I buried him.

Some said he died of Melancholy, some of Love,
 And of that Fondness perish'd.

Lid. O Clarangè.

Clara. Hast thou so much brave Nature, noble Lidian,
 So tenderly to love thy Rival's Memory?
 The bold Lifander weeps too. Fri. I expected

That

That you would bear this better.

Lid. I'm a Man, Sir,
And my great loss weigh'd duly—

Fri. His last Words were,
After Confession, live long, dear Lidian,
Possess of all thy Wishes. And of me
He did desire, bathing my Hand with Tears,
That with my best Care, I should seek and find you,
And from his dying Mouth prevail so with you,
That you a while should leave your Hermits strictness,
And on his Monument pay a Tear, or two,
To witness how you lov'd him. Lid. O my Heart!
To witness how I lov'd him? Wou'd he had not Led me unto his Grave, but sacrific'd
His Sorrows unto mine: He was my Friend,
My noble Friend, I will bewail his Ashes,
His Fortunes and poor mine were born together,
And I will weep 'em both: I will kneel by him,
And on his hallow'd Earth do my last Duties.
I'll gather all the pride of Spring to deck him;
Wood-bines shall grow upon his honour'd Grave,
And, as they prosper, clasp to shew our Friendship,
And when they wither I'll die too.

Cl. Who wou'd not
Desire to die, to be bewail'd thus nobly?

Fri. There is a Legacy he hath bequeath'd you;
But of what value I must not discover,
Until those Rites and pious Ceremonies
Are duly tender'd. Lid. I'm too full of Sorrow
To be inquisitive. Lis. To think of his,
I do forget mine own Woes.

Enter Alcidon.

Alc. Graze thy fill, now
Thou'st done thy business; ha? Who have we here?
Lisander, Lidian? and two Rev'rend Friars?
What a strange Scene of Sorrow is express'd
In different Postures, in their Looks and Station!
A common Painter eying these, to help

His dull Invention, (22) might draw to the Life
 The living Sons of Priam, as they stood
 On the pale Walls of Troy, when Hector fell
 Under Achilles' Spear. I come too late,
 My Horse, though good and strong, mov'd like a Tortoise:
 Ill News had Wings, and hath got here before me.
 All Pythagoreans? Not a Word?

Lid. O Alcidon! ———

Deep Rivers with soft murmurs, glide along
 The shallow roar. Clarangè! Lis. Cloridon!
Chrysanthes! Spare my Grief, and apprehend
 What I should speak

Alc. Their Fates I have long since
 For your sake mourn'd; Clarange's Death, for so
 Your silence doth confirm, till now I heard not:
 Are these the Bounds that are prescrib'd unto
 The swelling Seas of Sorrow?

Lis. (22) The Bounds, Alcidon?
 Can all the Winds of Mischief from all Quarters,
 (Euphrates, Ganges, Tigris, Volga, Po, Paying at once their Tribute to this Ocean,)

Make

(22) ——— might draw to the Life

The living Sons of Priam, as they stood

On the pale Walls of Troy——] A Writer less acquainted with the Classicks, or less heated with poetick Fire than our Poet here, would not have dar'd to express himself in this bold manner: His groveling Muse would only have aimed at Correctness; without soar-ing to Sublimity, and what is noble in the present Line would have been melted down into good Sense, tho' very bad Poetry thus.

—— as they stood

Pale on the Walls of Troy——

The giving of Life to inanimate Substances, with the farther Addition of Passions, is peculiar to Poetry, and when well expressed (as here) excites in the Soul of any Person capable of relishing it an inexpressible Pleasure.

(23) The Bounds, Alcidon?

Can all the Winds of Mischief from all Quarters,

Euphrates, Ganges, &c.——]

The whole Metaphor, before an after Winds, in this Place, most evidently requires a Word, that signifieth Waters; but the Expression from all Quarters being only attended to by the Transcriber, he probably put Winds instead of Waves, or Floods; the latter is the best Word, and I believe the true one.

Mr. Seward.

Mr.

Make it swell higher? I'm a Murderer,
Banish'd, proscrit'd; is there aught else that can
Be added to it?

Lid. I have lost a Friend,
Priz'd dearer than my Being, and he dead,
My Misery at th' height, condemn the worst
Of Fortune's Malice.

Alc. How our human Weakness,
Grown desperate from small Disasters, makes us
Imagine them a Period to our Sorrows,
When the first Syllable of greater Woes
Is not yet written. Lid. How?

Lif. Speak it at large,
Since Grief must break my Heart, I am ambitious
It should be exquisite.

Alc. It must be told,
Yet e'er you hear it, with all care put on
The surest Armour anvil'd in the Shop
Of passive Fortitude; the good Cleander,
Your Friend, is murder'd.

Lif. 'Tis a terrible Pang,
And yet it will not do; I live yet; act not
The Tort'rer's Part: If that there be a Blow
Beyond this, give it, and at once dispatch me.

Alc. Your Sword, dy'd in his Heart's Blood, was found near him;

Mr. Seward's Note on this Passage is very ingenious, but I am not certain that 'tis true: For by reading thus, i. e. Floods for Winds, instead of carrying on the Metaphor you destroy it, or rather by reading Waves or Floods for Winds you do indeed preserve one Figure, but destroy another; for if we consider the Passage nicely it will appear, that both Winds and Waters were designedly mentioned by the Poet, in order to swell his Sea of Sorrow higher: The Sense of the Place in my Opinion is this: Can all the Winds of Mischief blowing from all Quarters, can even the Waters of the greatest Rivers, viz. Euphrates, Ganges, &c. that disembogue themselves from all Parts of the World into this Ocean of Sorrow, make it swell higher? By asking these Questions he plainly implies they could not; I have therefore not altered the Text. but only put,

Euphrates, Ganges, Tigris, Volga, Po,
Paying at once their Tribute to this Ocean,
in a Parenthesis, and it makes the whole easy.

Your private Conference at midnight urg'd
 With fair Calista; which by her, whose pure Truth
 Would never learn to tell a Lye, being granted,
 She by enrag'd Beronte is accus'd
 Of Murder and Adultery, and you
 (However I dare swear it false) concluded
 Her principal Agent.

Lid. Wave upon Wave rolls o'er me.
 My Sister? My dear Sister?

Clara. Hold, great Heart.

Fri. Tear ope' his Doublet.

Lif. Is this Wound too narrow
 For my Life to get out at? Bring me to A Cannon loaded, and some pitying Friend
 Give Fire unto it, while I nail my Breast
 Unto his thundring Mouth, that in the Instant
 I may be piece-meal torn, and blown so far,
 As not one Joint of my dismembred Limbs
 May ever be, by search of Man, found out.
Cleander! Yet why name I him? However
 His fall deserv'd an Earth-quake, if compar'd
 With what true Honour in Calista suffers,
 Is of no moment. My good Angel keep me
 From Blasphemy, and strike me dumb, before,
 In th' agony of my Spirit, I do accuse
 The Pow'rs above, for their unjust Permission
 Of Virtue, innocent Virtue, to be branded
 With the least vitious Mark. Clara. I never saw
 A Man so far transported. Alc. Give it way,
 'Tis now no time to stop it.

Enter Lancelot.

Lan. Sir, I've bought
 Fresh Horses; and as you respect your Life
 Speedily back 'em; th' Archers of the King's Guard
 Are every where in quest of you.

Lif. My Life?
 Perish all such with thee that wish it longer:

[Strikes Lancelot.

Let it but clear Calista's Innocence,

And

And Nestor's Age to mine was Youth ; I'll fly
To meet the Rage of my incensed King,
And wish his Favourite's Ghost appear'd in Flames,
To urge him to Revenge ; let all the Tortures
That Tyranny e'er found out circle me,
Provided Justice set Calista free.

Alc. I'll follow him.

[Exeunt Lisander, Alcidon, and Lancelot.

Lid. I'm rooted here. Fri. Remember
Your dear Friend's last Request, your Sister's Dangers,
With th' Aids that you may lend her.

Lid. Pray you support me,
My Legs deny their Office.

Clara. I grow still
Farther engag'd unto his matchless Virtues,
And I am dead indeed, until I pay
The Debt I owe him in a noble way.

[Exeunt.

A C T V. S C E N E I.

Enter Dorilaus and Servants.

Dor. THOU hast him safe?

Serv. As fast as Locks can make him :
He mu't break through three Doors, and cut the Throats
Of ten tall Fellows, if that he escape us :
Besides, as far as I can apprehend,
He hath (24) no such Intention, for his Looks,
Are full of Penitence.

Dor. Trust not a Knave's Looks
They are like a Whore's Oaths.
How does my poor Daughter
Brook her Restraint?

Serv. With such a Resolution
As well becomes your Lordship's Child. [Knock within.

Dor. Who's that?

(24) —no such Invention—] Mr. Seward concurr'd with me in the present Alteration.

Enter Lemure.

Serv. Monsieur Lemure.

Dor. This is a special Favour,
And may stand an Example in the Court
For Courtesie : It is the Client's Duty
To wait upon his Patron ; you prevent me,
That am your humble Suitor.

Lem. My near Place

About the King, though it swell others, cannot Make me forget your Worth and Age, which may Challenge much more Respect ; and I am sorry
That my Endeavours for you, have not met with
The good Success I wish'd ; I mov'd the King
With my best Advantage, both of Time and Place,
I' th' Favour of your Daughter. Dor. How d' you find
His Majesty affected? Lem. Not to be Sway'd from the Rigour of the Law ; yet so far
The rarity o' th' Cause hath won upon him,
That he resolves to have in his own Person
The hearing of't ; her Trial will be noble,
And to my utmost Strength, where I may serve her,
My Aids shall not be wanting.

Dor. I'm your Servant.

Lem. One Word more : If you love Lisander's Life, Advise him, as he tenders it, to keep
Out of the Way ; if he be apprehended,
This City cannot ransom him ; so good morrow. [Exit.

Dor. All Happiness attend you ; go thy ways,
Thou hast a clear and noble Soul. For thy sake
I'll hold that Man mine En'my, who dares mutter
The Court is not the Sphere where Virtue moves,
Humanity and Nobleness waiting on her.

Enter a Servant.

Serv. Two Gentlemen (but what they are I know not,
Their Faces are so muffled) press to see you,
And will not be deny'd. Dor. What e'er they are,
I am too old to fear. Serv. They need no Usher,
They make their own way.

Enter

The Lovers Progress.

425

Enter Lisander and Alcidon.

Dor. Take you yours. Lisander! [Exit Servant.
My Joy to see you, and my Sorrow for
The Danger you are in, contend so here,
(Though different Passions, nay oppos'd in Nature,)
I know not which to entertain. Lis. Your hate
Should win the Victory from both; with Justice
You may look on me as a Homicide,
A Man whose Life is forfeited to th' Law,
But if, howe'er I stand accus'd, in Thought
I sinn'd against Cleander's Life, or live
Guilty of the Dishonour of your Daughter,
May all the Mis'ries that can fall on Man
Here, or hereafter, circle me. Dor. To me
This Protestation's useles; I embrace you,
As the Preserver of my Life, the Man
To whom my Son owes his, with Life, his Honour:
And howsoever your Affection
To my unhappy Daughter, though it were,
(For I have sifed her,) in a noble way,
Hath printed some Taint on her Fame, and brought
Her Life in Question; yet I would not purchase
The wish'd Recovery of her Reputation,
With strong Assurance of her Innocence
Before the King her Judge, with certain Loss
Of my Lisander, for (25) whose Life, if found,
There's no Redemption; my excess of Love,
(Though to enjoy you one short Day, would lengthen
My Life a Dozen Years) boldly commands me,
Upon my Knees, which yet were never bent
But to the King and Heav'n, to entreat you
To fly hence with all possible Speed, and leave
Calista to her Fortune. Lis. O blest'd Saints,
Forfake her in Affliction? can you
Be so unnatural to your own Blood,
To one so well deserving, as to value
My Safety before hers? Shall Innocence

(25) ——— for whole Life, if found,] Whose is the right Reading, the other a manifest Error of the Press.

In her be branded, and my Guilt escape
 Unpunish'd? Does she suffer so much for me,
 For me unworthy, and shall I decline,
 Eating the bitter Bread of Banishment,
 The course of Justice to draw out a Life?
 A Life? I stile it false, a living Death,
 Which, being uncompell'd laid down, will clear her,
 And write her Name anew in the fair Legend
 Of the best Women. Seek not to dissuade me.
 I will not, like a careless Poet, spoil
 The last Act of my Play, 'till now applauded,
 By giving th' World just Cause to say I fear'd
 Death, more than loss of Honour. Dor. But suppose
 Heav'n hath design'd some other saving means
 For her Deliv'rance? Lis. Other Means? That is A Mischief above all I have groan'd under:
 Shall any other pay my Debt, while I
 Write myself Bankrupt? Or Calista owe
 The least Beholdingness for that which she,
 On all the Bonds of Gratitude I've seal'd to,
 May challenge from me to be freely tender'd?
 Avert it Mercy! I'll go to my Grave,
 Without the Curses of my Creditors;
 I'll vindicate her fair Name, and so cancel
 My Obligation to her; to the King,
 To whom I stand accountable for the loss
 Of two of his lov'd Subjects Lives, I'll offer
 Mine own in Satisfaction; to Heav'n
 I'll pay my true Repentance; to the Times
 Present, and future, I'll be registred
 A memorable Precedent t' admonish
 Others, however valiant, not to trust
 To their Abilities to dare and do;
 And much less for the airy Words of Honour,
 And false stamp'd Reputation, to shake off
 The Chains of their Religion, and Allegiance,
 The principal Means (26) appointed to prefer Societies and Kingdoms.

[Exit.]

(26) ——— appointed to prefer
 Societies, &c.—] As this Reading is common to all the Copies,

Dor. Let's not leave him;
His Mind's much troubled.

Alc. Were your Daughter free,
(Since from her Dangers his Distraction rises,)
His Cause is not so desp'rate for the Slaughter
Of Cloridon and Chrysanthes, but it may Find Passage to the Mercy of the King,
The Motives urg'd in his Defence; that forc'd him
To act that bloody Scene.

Dor. Heav'n can send Aids,
When they are least expected; let us walk,
The Hour of Trial draws near.

Alc. May it end well.

[Exeunt.

Enter Olinda, and Lidian.

Olin. That for my Love you should turn Hermit, Lidian,
As much amazes me, as your Report
Clarange's dead. Lid. He is so, and all Comforts
My Youth can hope for, Madam, with him buried;
Nor had I ever left my Cell, but that
He did injoin me at his Death to shed
Some Tears of Friendship on his Monument,
And those last Rites perform'd, he did bequeath you,
As the best Legacy a Friend cou'd give,
Or I indeed could wish, to my Embraces.

Olin. 'Tis still more strange, is there no foul Play in it?
I must confess I am not sorry, Sir,
For your fair Fortune; yet 'tis fit I grieve
The most untimely Death of such a Gentleman;
He was my worthy Servant. Lid. And for this Acknowledgment, if I cou'd prize you at A higher Rate I shou'd; he was my Friend,
My dearest Friend.

Olin. But how shou'd I b' assur'd, Sir,
(For slow Belief is the best Friend of Truth)
Of this Gentleman's Death? If I shou'd credit it,

Copies, and is certainly Sense, I have not ventur'd to displace it; but probably (Mr. Seward likewise so conjecturing) we ought to read,

— appointed to preserve
Societies, &c.

And

And afterward it fall out contrary,
How am I sham'd? How is your Virtue tainted?

Lid. There is a Friar that came along with me,
His Business to deliver you a Letter
From dead Clarangè: You shall hear his Testimony.
Father, my reverend Father; look upon him,
Such holy Men are Authors of no Fables.

Enter Clarange (with a Letter writ out) and Friar.

Olin. They should not be, their Lives and their Opinions,
Like brightest purest Flames, shou'd still burn upwards.
To me, Sir? [Delivers the Letter.]

Clara. If you are the fair Olinda——

Fri. I do not like these cross Points.

Clara. Give me leave,
I'm nearest to myself. What I have plotted
Shall be pursu'd: You must not over-rule me.

Olin. D' you put the first Hand to your own Undoing?
Play to betray your Game? Mark but this Letter.

Lady, I am come to claim your noble Promise, [Reads.]
If you be Mistress of your Word, ye're mine,
I'm last return'd: Your Riddle is dissolv'd,
And I attend your Faith. Your humble Servant, Clarange.
Is this the Friar that saw him dead?

Lid. 'Tis he.

Clarangè, on my Life! I am defeated:
Such reverend Habits juggle? My true Sorrow
For a false Friend, not worth a Tear, derided?

Fri. You have abus'd my Trust. Olin. It is not well,
Nor like a Gentleman. Clara. All Stratagems
In Love, and that's the sharpest War, are lawful.
By your Example I did change my Habit,
Caught you in your own Toil, and triumph in it,
And what by Policy's got, I will maintain
With Valour; no Lisander shall come in Again to fetch you off. Lid. His honour'd Name,
Pronounc'd by such a treacherous Tongue, is tainted.
Maintain thy Treason with thy Sword? With what Contempt I hear it; in a Wilderness
I durst encounter it, and would, but that

In my retired Hours, (not counterfeited
As thy religious Shape was,) I have learn'd
When Justice may determine, such a Cause,
And of such Weight as this fair Lady is,
Must not be put to Fortune. I appeal
Unto the King, and he whose Wisdom knows
To do his Subjects right in their Estates,
As graciously with Judgment will determine
In Points of Honour.

Olin. I'll steer th' same Course with you.

Clara. I'll stand the Trial.

Fri. What have you done? Or what Intend you?

Clara. Ask not; I'll come off with Honour.

[Exeunt.

Enter Beronte, Clarinda, Malfort, a Bar set forth, Officers.

Ber. Be constant in your Proofs: Should you shrink back now,
Your Life must answer it, nor am I safe,
My Honour being engag'd to make that good
Which you affirm.

Clari. I'm confident, so dearly
I honour'd my dead Lord, that no respect,
Or of my Lady's Bounties (which were great ones
I must confess) nor of her former Life,
For while that she was chaste, indeed I lov'd her,
Shall hinder me from lending my Assistance
Unto your just Revenge——mine own I mean. [Aside.

If Leon keep 'far off' enough, all's secure:
Lisander dares not come in; modest Blushes
Parted with me long since, and Impudence
Arm'd with my Hate, unto her Innocence
Shall be the Weapon I will fight with now.

Ber. The Rack
Being presented to you, you'll roar out
What you conceal yet.

Mal. Conceal? I know nothing
But that I shall be hang'd, and that I look for;
It is my Destiny, I ever had

A hanging Look ; and a wise Woman told me,
 Though I had not the Heart to do a Deed
 Worthy the Halter, in my Youth or Age,
 I shou'd take a turn with a wry Mouth, and now
 'Tis come about : I have penn'd mine own Ballad
 Before my Condemnation, in fear
 Some Rhimer should prevent me. Here's my Lady ;
 Wou'd I were in Heav'n, or a thousand Miles hence,
 That I might not blush to look on her.

Enter Dorilaus, Calista, and Olinda.

Dor. You

Behold this Preparation, and the Enemies
 Who are to fight against your Life ; yet if
 You bring no Witness here, that may convince ye
 Of breach of Faith to your Lord's Bed, and hold up
 Unspotted Hands before the King, this Trial
 You are to undergo, will but refine,
 And not consume your Honour.

Cal. How confirm'd

I am here, whatsoever Fate falls on me,
 You shall have ample Testimony ; till the Death
 Of my dear Lord, to whose sad Memory
 I pay a mourning Widow's Tears, I liv'd
 Too happy in my Holyday Trim of Glory,
 And (27) courted with Felicity ; that drew on me,
 With other helps of Nature, as of Fortune,
 The Envy, not the Love, of most that knew me ;
 This made me to presume too much, perhaps Too proud, but I am humbled ; and if now
 I do make it apparent, I can bear
 Adversity with such a constant Patience
 As will set off my Innocence, I hope, Sir,
 In your declining Age, when I should live
 A Comfort to you, you shall have no Cause,

(27) — courted with Felicity ;—] The whole Sense of the Passage calls manifestly for a Change of,

— courted with Felicity, —

Into

— sported with Felicity.

How-

Howe'er I stand accus'd, to hold your Honour
Ship-wreck'd in such a Daughter. Olin. O best Friend,
My Honour's at the stake too, for---Dor. Be silent:
The King.

Enter King, Lemure, and Attendants.

Lem. Sir, if you please to look upon
The Pris'ner, and the many Services
Her Father hath done for you——

King. We must look on
The Cause, and not the Persons. Yet beholding,
With an impartial Eye, th' excelling Beauties
Of this fair Lady, (which we did believe Upon Report, but till now never saw 'em,)
It moves a strange kind of Compassion in me:
Let us survey you nearer; she's a Book
To be with care perus'd; and 'tis my wonder,
If such mishapen Guests, as Lust and Murder,
At any Price should ever find a Lodging
In such a beauteous Inn! Mistake us not,
Though we admire the outward Structure, if
The Rooms be foul within, expect no Favour.
I were no Man, if I cou'd look on Beauty
Distress'd, without some Pity; but no King,
If any superficial Gloss of Feature
Cou'd work me to decline the Course of Justice.
But to the Cause, Cleander's Death, what Proofs
Can you produce against her? Ber. Royal Sir?
Touching that Point, my Brother's Death, we build
On Suppositions——King. Suppositions? how?
Is such a Lady, Sir, to be condemn'd
On Suppositions?

Ber. They're well-grounded, Sir;
And if we make it evident she's guilty
Of the first Crime we charge her with, Adultery;
That being the Parent, it may find belief,
That Murder was the Issue.

King. We allow
It may be so; but that it may be, must not Infer a necessary Consequence

To cast away a Lady's Life. What Witness
To make this good?

Ber. The Principal, this Woman,
For many Years her Servant; she hath taken
Her Oath in Court. Come forward. King. By my Crown,
A lying Face. Clari. I swore, Sir, for the King:
And if you are the Party, as I do
Believe you are, for you have a good Face,
However mine appears, swearing for you, Sir,
I ought to have my Oath pass. King. Impudent too?
Well, what have you sworn? Clari. That this Lady was
A goodly tempting Lady, as she is:
How thinks your Majesty? And I her Servant
Her Officer as one would say, and trusted
With her closest Chamber-service; that Lisander
Was a fine-timber'd Gentleman, and active,
That he could do fine Gambols
To make a Lady merry; that this Pair,
A very loving Couple, mutually Affected one another: So much for them, Sir.
That I, a simple Waiting-woman, having taken
My bodily Oath, the first Night of Admittance
Into her Ladyship's Service, on her Slippers,
(That was the Book) to serve her Will in all things,
And to know no Religion but her Pleasure,
'Tis not yet out of fashion with some Ladies;
That I, as th' Premises shew, being commanded
To do my Function, in Conveyance of Lisander to her Chamber, (my Lord absent
On a pretended Sickness) did the Feat,
(It cannot be deny'd) and at dead Midnight
Left 'em together: What they did, some here
Can easily imagine. I have said, Sir.

Dor. The Devil's Oratrix. King. Then you confess
You were her Bawd?

Clari. That's coarse; her Agent, Sir.

King. (28) So goody Agent? And you think there is

(28) So goody Agent?—] I can't forbear thinking but our Author wrote one Letter more here, and gave it,

So goody Agent. —————

No Punishment due for your Agentship?

Clari. Let her suffer first,
Being my better, for Adultery,
And I'll endure the Mulct impos'd on Bawds,
Call it by the worst Name.

Cal. Live I to hear this?

King. Take her aside. Your Answer to this, Lady?

Cal. Heav'n grant me Patience: To be thus confronted,
(O pardon, Royal Sir, a Woman's Passion)
By one, and this the worst of my Misfortunes,
That was my Slave, but never to such ends, Sir,
Wou'd give a Statue Motion into Fury:
Let my pass'd Life, my Actions, nay Intentions,
Be by my grand Accuser justly censur'd,
(For her I scorn to answer) and if they Yield any probability of Truth
In that she urges, then I will confess
A guilty Cause; the Peoples Voice, which is
The Voice of Truth, my Husband's Tendernefs
In his Affection to me, that, no Dotage,
But a Reward of Humbleness, the Friendship
Echo'd through France between him and Lisander,
All make against her; for him, in his Absence,
(Whatever Imputation it draw on me)
I must take leave to speak: 'Tis true, he lov'd me,
But not in such a wanton way, his Reason
Master'd his Passions: I grant I had
At Midnight Conf'rence with him; but if he Ever receiv'd a farther Favour from me,
Than what a Sister might give to a Brother,
May I sink quick: And thus much, did he know
The Shame I suffer for him, with the loss
Of his Life for appearing, on my Soul
He would maintain.

Enter Lisander, and Alcidon.

Lis. And will, thou clear Example
Of Womens Purenese.

King. Though we hold her such,
Thou hast expres'd thyself a desp'rate Fool,

To thrust thy Head into the Lion's Jaws,
The Justice of thy King.

Lis. I came prepar'd for't,
And offer up a guilty Life to clear
Her Innocence; the Oath she took, I swear to;
And for Cleander's Death, to purge myself
From any Colour Malice can paint on me,
Or that she had a Hand in't, I can prove
That fatal Night when he in's own House fell,
And many Days before, I was distant from it
A long Day's Journey.

Clari. I am caught. [Afide.

Ber. If so,
How came your Sword into this Steward's Hands?
Stand forth.

Mal. I have heard nothing (29) that you spake;
I know I must die, and what kind of Death
Pray you resolve me, I shall go away else
In a Qualm; I'm very faint.

Enter Leon, Servants and Guard.

King. Carry him off,
His Fear will kill him. [Exit with Mal.

Dor. Sir, 'twas my Ambition,
My Daughter's Reputation being wounded
I'th' general Opinion, to have it
Cur'd by a publick Trial, I had else
Forborn your Majesty's Trouble: I'll bring forth
Cleander's Murderer; in a Wood I heard him,
As I rode sadly by, unto himself
With some Compunction, though this Devil had none,
Lament what he had done, cursing her Lust,
That drew him to that bloody Fact.

Leon. To lessen
The foulness of it, for which I know justly
I am to suffer; and with my last Breath
To free these Innocents, I do confess all;

(29) — that you speak;] The change of Tense is here certainly necessary, and the Copy of 1647 confirms it;
—— that you spake.

This wicked Woman's only guilty with me.

Clari. Is't come to this? thou puling Rogue, die thou
With Pray'rs in thy Mouth; I'll curse the Laws
By which I suffer; all I grieve for is That I die unreveng'd.

Leon. But one Word more, Sir,
And I have done; I was by Accident where Lisander met with Cloridon and Chrysanthes,
Was an Ear Witness when he fought for Peace,
Nay, begg'd it upon colder Terms than can Almost find Credit, his past Deeds consider'd;
But they, deaf to his Reasons, sev'rally
Assaulted him, but such was his good Fortune,
That both fell under it; upon my Death
I take it uncompell'd, that they were guilty
Of their own violent Ends; and he against
His Will, the Instrument. Alc. This I will swear too,
For I was not far off. Dor. They have alledg'd
As much to wake your sleeping Mercy, Sir,
As all the Advocates of France can plead
In his Defence.

King. The criminal Judge shall sentence
These to their Merits—with mine own Hand, Lady,
I take you from the Bar, and do myself
Pronounce you innocent. [Exeunt with Leon, and Clari.]

All. Long live the King.

King. And to confirm you stand high in our Favour,
And as some Recompence for what you have
With too much Rigour in your Trial suffer'd;
Ask what you please, becoming me to grant,
And be possesst of't.

Cal. Sir, I dare not doubt
Your Royal Promise, in a King it is
A strong Assurance, that emboldens me
Upon my humble Knees to make my Boon
Lisander's Pardon. Dor. My good Genius
Did prompt her to it. Leon. At your Feet thus prostrate,
I second her Petition. Alc. Never King
Pour'd forth his Mercy on a worthier Subject.

Ber. To witness my Repentance, for the Wrong

In my unjust Suspicion I did both,
I join in the same Suit.

Lif. The Life you give,
Still ready, Sir, to lay down for your Service,
Shall be against your Enemies employ'd,
Not hazarded in Brawls.

All. Mercy, dread Sir.

King. So many pressing me, and with such Reasons
Moving Compassion, I hope it will not Be censur'd Levity in me, though I borrow
In this from Justice, to relieve my Mercy ;
I grant his Pardon at your Intercession,
But still on this Condition ; you Lisander,
In expiation of your Guilt, shall build
A Monument for my Cloridon and Crysanthes :
And never henceforth draw a Sword, but when
By us you are commanded, in defence of
The Flower-de-Luce ; and after one Year's Sorrow
For your dear Friend Cleander's wretched Fate, Marry Calista.

Enter Lidian.

Lif. On your sacred Hand,
I vow to do it seriously.

Lid. Great Sir, stay,
Leave not your Seat of Justice, 'till you have Giv'n Sentence in a Cause as much important
As this you have determined.

King. Lidian ?

Enter Clarange and Friar.

Lid. He, Sir,
Your humblest Subject : I accuse Clarangè
Of Falshood in true Friendship at the height ;
We both were Suitors to this Lady, both Injoin'd one Penance.

Clara. Trouble not the King
With an unnecessary Repetition,
Of what the Court's familiar with already.

King. Clarangè ?

Dor.

Dor. With a shaven Crown?

Olin. Most strange.

Clara. Look on thy Rival, your late Servant, Madam,
But now devoted to a better Mistrefs,
The Church, whose Orders I have took upon me:
I here deliver up my Interest to her,
And what was got with Cunning as you thought,
I simply thus surrender: Heretofore
You did outstrip me in the Race of Friendship,
I am your Equal now.

Dor. A Suit soon ended.

Clara. And joining thus your Hands, I know both willing,
I may do in the Church my Friar's Office
In marrying you.

Lid. The Victory is yours, Sir.

King. It is a glorious one, and well sets off
Our Scene of Mercy; to the Dead we tender
Our Sorrow, to the Living ample Wishes
Of future Happiness. 'Tis a King's Duty
To prove himself a Father to his Subjects;
And I shall hold it, if this well succeed,
A meritorious and praise-worthy Deed.

[Exeunt.]

EPILOGUE,

STILL doubtful, and perplex'd too, whether he Hath done Fletcher right in this History,
The Poet sits within; since he must know it,
He with Respect, desires that you would shew it
By some accustom'd Sign; if from our Action
Or his Endeavours, you meet Satisfaction,
With ours he hath his Ends; we hope the best,
To make that Certainty in you doth rest.

THE PILGRIM.

ACT I. SCENE I.

Enter Alphonso, Curio, and Seberto.

CURIO.

SIGNIOR Alphonso, ye're too rugged to her,
Believe't, too full of Harshness.

Alph. Yes it seems so.

Seb. A Father of so sweet a Child, so happy,
(Fie Sir,) so excellent in all Endowments,
In blessedness of Beauty, such a Mirror.

Alph. She is a Fool, away.

Seb. Can ye be angry?

Can any Wind blow rough, upon a Blossom
So fair and tender? Can a Father's Nature,
A noble Father's too?

Alph. All this is but prating:

Let her be rul'd; let her observe my Humour;
With my Eyes let her see; with my Ears listen;
I am her Father: I begot her, bred her,
And I will make her——

Cur. No doubt ye may compel her,
But what a mischievous, unhappy Fortune
May wait upon this Will of yours; as commonly,
Such Forcings ever end, in Hates and Ruins.

Alph.

Alph. Is't not a Man I wish her to? A strong Man?
 What can she have? What wou'd she have? A Gentleman?
 A young Man? and an able Man? a rich Man?
 A handsome Man? a valiant Man? d'you mark me?
 None of your piec'd-Companions, your pin'd Gallants,
 That fly to Fitters, with ev'ry Flaw of Weather:
 None of your impt Bravadoes: What can she ask more?
 Is't not a metal'd Man fit for a Woman?
 A strong-chin'd Man? I'll not be fool'd, nor flurted.

Seb. I grant ye Roderigo is all these,
 And a brave Gentleman: Must it therefore follow
 Upon Necessity she must doat on him?
 Will ye allow no Liberty in chusing?

Cur. Alas! she's tender yet.

Alph. Enough, enough, enough, Sir;
 She's malleable, she'll endure the Hammer;
 And why not that strong Workman that strikes deepest?
 Let me know that: she's fifteen, with the vantage,
 And if she be not ready now for Marriage——

Seb. You know he is a banish'd Man, an Outlaw,
 And how he lives; his Nature rough, and bloody
 By customary Rapines: now, her sweet Humour,
 That is as easy as a Calm, and peaceful;
 All her Affections, like the Dews on Roses;
 Fair as the Flowers themselves; as sweet and gentle:
 How would you have these meet?

Alph. A-bed, a-bed, Sir:
 Let her be the fairest Rose, and the sweetest,
 Yet I know this fair Rose must have her Prickles:
 I grant ye Roderigo is an Outlaw,
 An easy Composition calls him in again;
 He is a valiant Man, and he's a rich Man,
 And loves the Fool; a little rough by Custom:
 She'll like him ten times better. She'll doat upon him.
 (If e'er they come to grappling,) run mad for him;
 But there's another in the Wind, some Castrel
 That hovers over her, (1) and dares her daily,
 Some flickring Slave.

(1) —— and dares her daily,] i. e. makes her afraid.

Cur. I dare not think so poorly.

Alph. Something there is, and must be; but I shall scent it

And hunt it narrowly.

Seb. I never saw her yet
Make offer at the least glance of Affection,
But still so modest, wise.

Alph. They're wise to gull us.
There was a Fellow, old Fernando's Son,
I must confess handsome, but my Enemy,
And the whole Family, I hate young Pedro :
That Fellow I have seen her gaze upon,
And turn, and gaze again, and make such offers
As if she'd shoot her Eyes like Meteors at him :
But that Cause stands removed.

Cur. You need not doubt him,
For long since, as 'twas thought on a griev'd Conscience,
He left his Father, and his Friends; (2) more pity :
For Truth reports he was a noble Gentleman.

Alph. Let him be what he will, he was a Beggar;
And there I'll leave him.

Seb. Th' more the Court must answer;
But certainly I think, though she might favour him,
And love his Goodness, as he was an honest Man,
She never with loose Eyes stuck on his Person.

Alph. She is so full of Conscience too, and Charity,
And outward Holiness, she will undo me :
Relieves more Beggars, than an Hospital;
And all poor Rogues, that can but say their Prayers,
And tune their Pipes to Lamentations.

Enter Alinda, and Juletta.

She thinks she's bound to dance to. Good-morrow to you,
And that's as ye deserve too; you know my Mind,
And study to observe it, do it cheerfully,
And readily, and home.

Alin. I shall obey ye.
But, noble Sir.

(2) ————— more pity :] These Words seemingly would come better from Seberio's Mouth, than his that speaks 'em.

Alph.

Alph. Come, come, away with your Flatteries,
And your fine Phrases.

Cur. Pray ye be gentle to her.

Alph. I know 'em; and know your Feats; if you will find me
Noble and loving, seek me in your Duty,
You know I'm too indulgent——

Seb. Alas, poor Lady.

Alph. To your Devotions; I take no good thing from you.

Come, Gentlemen, leave pitying, and moaning of her,
And praising of her Virtues, and her Whim-whams;
It makes her proud, and sturdy.

Seb. Cur. Good Hours wait on ye. [Exeunt.

Alin. I thank ye, Gentlemen: I want such Comforts.
I would thank you too, Father, but your Cruelty
Hath almost made me senseless of my Duty;
Yet still I must know: Would I had known nothing.
What Poor attend my Charity to Day, Wench?

Jul. Of all sorts, Madam; your open-handed Bounty
Makes 'em flock every Hour: Some worth your Pity,
But others that have made a trade of Begging.

Alin. Wench, if they ask it truly, I must give it:
It takes away the holy use of Charity
T' examine Wants.

Jul. I would you would be merry:
A chearful-giving Hand, as I think, Madam,
Requires a Heart as chearful.

Alin. Alas, Fuletta,
What is there to be merry at? What Joy now,
Unless we fool our own Afflictions,
And make them shew ridiculous?

Jul. Sure, Madam,
You could not seem thus serious, if you were married,
Thus sad, and full of Thoughts.

Alin. Married? To whom, Wench?
Thou think'st if there be a young handsome Fellow,
As those are plentiful, our Cares are quenched then.

Jul. Madam, I think a lusty handsome Fellow,
If he be kind and loving, and a right one,

Is ev'n as good a Pill to purge this Melancholy,
As ever Galen gave ; I'm sure more natural,
And merrier for the Heart, than Wine and Saffron :
Madam, a wanton Youth is such a Cataplasm.

Alin. Who's been thy Tutor, Wench ?

Jul. Ev'n my own Thoughts, Lady :
For though I be bar'd th' liberty of Talking,
Yet I can think unhappily, and as near the Mark, Madam,
'Faith, marry, and be merry.

Alin. Who will have me ?

Who will be troubled with a tettiſh Girl ?
(It may be proud, and to that Vice expenceful)
Who can assure himself, I shall live honest ?

Jul. Let ev'ry Man take his Fortune.

Alin. And o' my Conscience,
If once I grow to breeding, a whole Kingdom
Will not contain my Stock.

Jul. The more the merrier :
'Tis brave to be a Mother of new Nations.

Alin. Why, I should bury a hundred Husbands.

Jul. 'Tis no matter :
As long as ye leave sufficient Men to stock ye.
Alin. Is this thy Mirth ? Are these the Joys of Marriage ?
Away light-headed Fool ; are these Contentments ?
If I could find a Man.

Jul. You may a thousand.

Alin. Meer Men I know I may : And there a Woman
Has liberty, (at least she'll venture for it,)
To be a Monster, and become the Time too ;
But to enjoy a Man, from whose Example
As from a Compass, we may steer our Fortunes,
Our Actions, and our Age ; and safe arrive at
A Memory that shall become our Ashes,
Such things are few, and far to seek ; to find one
That can but rightly manage th' wild Beast, Woman,
And sweetly govern with her. But no more of this, Wench,
'Tis not for thy Discourse : Let's in, and see What poor Afflicted wait our Charity. [Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter a Porter, four Beggars, Pedro, and a Pilgrim.

Por. Stand off, and keep your Ranks: Twenty Foot further :

There louse yourselves with Reason and Discretion.
The Sun shines warm: The farther still the better,
Your Beasts will bolt anon, and then 'tis dangerous.

1 Beg. Heav'n bless our Mistres.

Por. Does the Crack go that way?

'Twill be o'th' other side anon.

2 Beg. Pray ye, Friend.

Por. Your Friend? And why your Friend? Why, goodman Turncoat,

What dost thou see within me, or without me,
Or what Itch dost thou know upon me, tell me,
That I should be thy Friend? What do I look like,
Any of thy Acquaintance hung in Gibbets?
Hast thou any Friends, Kindred or Alliance,
Or any higher Ambition, than an Alms-basket?

2 Beg. I'd be your Worship's Friend.

Por. So ye shall, Sirrah,

When I quarter the same Louse with ye.

3 Beg. 'Tis twelve o' Clock.

Por. 'Tis ever so with thee, when thou'lt done scratching,
For that provokes thy Stomach to ring Noon;
O th' infinite Seas of Porridge thou hast swallow'd!
And yet thou look'ft as if they had been but Glisters;
Thou feedst abundance, thou hadst need of Sustenance;
Alms do you call it to relieve these Rascals?
Nothing but a gen'ral Rot of Sheep can satisfy 'em.

Enter Alphonso, Curio, and Seberto.

Alph. Did not I tell you, how she would undo me?
What Marts of Rogues, and Beggars?

Seb. It is Charity:

Methinks you are bound to love her for——

Alph. Yes I warrant ye,
If Men could fail to Heav'n in Porridge Pots,

With

With Mafts of Beef and Mutton, what a Voyage should I make ?

What are all thefe ?

1 Beg. Poor People, an't like your Worſhip.

2 Beg. Wretched poor People.

3 Beg. Very hungry People.

Alph. And very Loufy.

4 Beg. Yes, forſooth, fo, fo.

Por. I'll undertake five hundred Head about 'em,
And that's no needy Graſier.

Alph. What are you ?

Pil. Strangers that come to wonder at your Charity,
Yet People poor enough to beg a Bleſſing.

Cur. Uſe them with favour, Sir, their Shews are reverend.
It ſeems ye're holy Pilgrims ?

Pil. Ye gueſs right, Sir,
And bound far off, to offer our Devotions.

Alph. What make ye this way ? We keep no Relicks here,
Nor holy Shrines.

Pil. The holieſt we e'er heard of ;
Ye keep a living Monument of Goodneſs,
A Daughter of that pious Excellence,
The very (3) Shrines of Saints ſink at her Virtues,
And ſwear they cannot hold pace with her Pieties.
We come to ſee this Lady : Not with prophane Eyes,
Nor wanton Bloods, to doat upon her Beauties,
But through our tedious ways to beg her Bleſſings.

Alph. This is a new way of Begging, and a neat one,
And this cries Money for Reward ; good ſtore too :
Theſe Commendations beg not with Bag, and Bottle.
Well, well, the fainting of this Woman, Gentlemen,
I know what it muſt come to ; theſe Women-Saints
Are plaguy heavy Saints, they out-weigh a He-faint
Three thouſand thick ; I know, I feel.

Seb. Ye're more afraid than hurt, Sir.

Alph. Have you your Commendations ready too ?
He bows, and nods.

(3) — Shrines of Saints ſink at —] The Poet probably de-ſigned to ſay ſhrink.

Cur. A handsome well-built Person.

Alph. What Country-craver are you? Nothing but Motion?

A Puppet-Pilgrim?

Pil. He's a Stranger, Sir;

This four Days I have travel'd in his Company,
But little of his Business, or his Language,
As yet I've understood.

Seb. Both young and handsome,
Only the Sun has been too saucy with him.

Alph. Would ye have Money, Sir, or Meat? What kind of Blessing

Does your Devotion look for? Still more ducking?
Be there any Saints, that understand by Signs only?
More Motion yet? This is the prettiest Pilgrim,
The pink of Pilgrims; I'll be for ye, Sir;
Do ye discourse with Signs? Ye're heartily welcome,
A poor Viaticum; very good Gold, Sir;
But holy Men affect a better Treasure.

I kept it for your Goodness, but nevertheless
Since it can prove but burdensome t' your Holiness,
And you affect light Prayer, fit for Carriage,
I'll put this up again.

Cur. Ye're too unreverent.

[too,

Alph. Ye talk too broad; must I give way, and Wealth
To every Toy, that carries a grave seeming?
Must my good Angels wait on him? If the proud Hilding
Would yield but to my Will, and know her Duty,
I know what I would suffer.

Seb. Good Sir, be patient,
The Wrongs ye do these Men may light on you,
Too heavy too; and then you'll wish you'd said less:
A comely and sweet Usage becomes Strangers.

Alph. We shall have half the Kingdom Strangers shortly,
An this fond Prodigality be suffer'd;
But I must be an Ass: See 'em relieved, Sirrah;
If I were young again, I would sooner get Bear-whelps,
And safer too, than any of these She-saints.
But I will break her.

Cur. Such a Face for certain.

Seb.

Seb. Methinks I've seen it too: But we are cozen'd;
But fair befall thee, Pilgrim, thou look'st lovely. [Exit.]

Por. Will ye troop up, ye Porridge Regiment?
Captain Poor's Quarter, will ye move?

Enter Alinda, and Juletta.

Alin. Ye dull Knave,
Are not these Wretches served yet?

Beg. 'Bless my Mistress.

Alin. Do you make Sport, Sir, with their Miseries?
Ye drowsy Rogue.

Por. They are too high fed, Madam,
Their Stomachs are asleep yet.

Alin. Serve 'em plentifully,
Or I'll serve you out next; e'en out o' Doors, Sirrah;
And serve 'em quickly too.

Beg. Heav'n bless the Lady.

Alin. Bless the good End I mean it for.

Jul. I would I knew it:
If it be for any Man's sake, I'll cry Amen too.
Well Madam, ye've e'en as pretty a (4) Port of Pensioners——

Alin. Vain-glory would seek more, and handsomer.
But I appeal to Virtue what my end is; [Exe. Beggars.]
What Men are these?

Jul. It seems they're holy Pilgrims:
That handsome Youth should suffer such a Penance,
Would I were e'en the Saint they make their Vows to,
How eas'ly I would grant.

Pil. Heav'ns Grace in-wheel ye,
And all good Thoughts, and Prayers dwell about ye,
Abundance be your Friend, and holy Charity
Be ever at your Hand, to crown ye Glorious.

(4) —— Port of Pensioners——] The Sense of the Place is plain, tho' the manner of Expression is difficult. In Cases of Criticism, of such a nature as this before us, we may oftner say with certainty, this or that is wrong, than what we wou'd substitute in its room is right. So here, tho' I think I may justly condemn Port, yet whether Sort, or Cohort, or neither, is the true Lesson, must be left to the Judgment of the candid and ingenious Reader.

Alin. I thank ye, Sir; Peace guide your Travels too,
And what you wish for most, end all your Troubles;
Remember me by this; and in your Prayers,
When your strong Heart melts, mediate my poor Fortunes.

Pil. All my Devotions wait upon your Service.

Alin. Are y' of this Country, Sir?

Pil. Yes, worthiest Lady,
But far off bred: My Fortunes farther from me.

Alin. Gentle, I dare believe.

Pil. I have liv'd freer.

Alin. I'm no Inquisitor, that were too curious:
Whatever Vow or Penance pulls ye on, Sir;
Conscience, or Love, or stubborn Disobedience,
The Saint ye kneel to, hear, and ease your Travels.

Pil. Yours ne'er begin: And thus I seal my Prayers.

Alin. How constantly this Man looks? How he sighs!
Some great Affliction hatches his Devotions.

Right holy Sir; how young, and sweet he suffers!

Jul. Would I might suffer with him.

Alin. He turns from us:

Alas, he weeps too: Something presses him
He would reveal, but dare not. Sir, be comforted,
Ye come for that, and take it: If't be want, Sir,
To me y'appear so worthy of relieving,
I am your Steward: Speak, and take. He's dumb still:
Now as I have a faith this Man so stirs me,
His Modesty makes me afraid I have trespass'd.

Jul. Would he would stir me too: I like his Shape well.

Alin. May be he'd speak alone; go off, Juletta, (Afflicted Hearts fear their own Motions)
Be not far off.

Jul. Would I were nearer to him,

A young smug handsome Holiness has no Fellow. [Exit]

Alin. Why do you grieve? Do you find your Penance sharp?

Or are the Vows ye've made too mighty for ye?
Does not the World allure ye to look back,
And sorrow for the sweet time ye have lost?

Ye're

Ye're young, and fair; be not deluded, Sir;
 A manly made up Heart contemns these Shadows,
 And yours appears no less; (5) Griefs for your Fears,
 For Hours ill-spent, for Wrongs done rash and rudely,
 For foul Contempts, for Faiths ill violated,
 Become Tears well; I dare not task your Goodness;
 And then a Sorrow shews in his true Glory,
 When the whole Heart is excellently sorry.
 I pray ye be comforted.

Ped. I am, dear Lady,
 And such a Comfort ye have cast upon me,
 That though I struggle with mine own Calamities
 Too mighty, and too many for my Manage;
 And though, like angry Waves, they curl'd upon me,
 Contending proudly who should first devour me,

(5) ——— Griefs for your Fears,
 For Hours ill-spent, for Wrongs done rash and rudely,
 For foul Contempts, for Faiths ill violated,
 Become Fears well; ———] Fears in the last Line is undoubtedly Corrupt, and Tears evidently the true Word. But Fears also in the first Line looks very suspiciously: Sins is the properest Word; and I have often found the late Editions make as great Changes in Words as from Sins to Fears, and the first Editor or Transcriber might do the same: But as there is a Word often used by our Author, which changing only an r to a t, gives Propriety to the Text that seems most probable: I conjecture therefore,

———— Griefs for your FEATS,
i. e. Actions, as in The Two Noble Kinsmen,
 ————— give me Words,
 Such as you've shew'd me feat.

Mr. Seward.

Mr. Seward's Conjecture, however ingenious, I cannot entirely agree to; the Reasons are not many, nor difficult to be conceiv'd.

My good Friend by reading Feats, was not aware of making the Poet guilty of Tautology, seeing Wrongs done rash and rudely, must be some of these very Feats he is here contending for. Besides this, by admitting Feats into the Text we shall still be at a loss for something easy and natural to precede and introduce Hours, to which the Participle spent may be common, and with which both the Substantives may agree: The Correction I would offer has both these last mention'd Qualities, and 'tis this,

———— Griefs for your Years,
 For Hours ill-spent, &c.

i. e. The grieving for the ill-spending, not only of the larger but lesser Portions of your Life past, becomes, &c.

(6) Yet I would stem their Danger.

Alin. He speaks nobly ;

What do ye want ?

Ped. All that can make me happy,
I want myself.

Alin. Yourself ? Who robb'd ye, Pilgrim ?

Why does he look so constantly upon me ?

[Aside.

I want myself. Indeed, you holy Wanderers

Are said to seek much ; but to seek yourselves——

Ped. I seek myself, and am but myself's Shadow ;
Have lost myself, and now am not so noble.

Alin. I seek myself ; something I yet remember
That bears that Motto : 'Tis not he, he's younger,
And far more tender : For that self-sake, Pilgrim,
Be who it will, take this.

[Offers him Money.

Ped. Your Hand I dare take,
(That be far from me,) Lady, thus I kiss it,
And thus I bless it too ; be constant, fair, still :
Be good, and live to be a great Example.

[Exit.

Alin. One Word more, Pilgrim. H'as amaz'd me strangely :

Be constant, fair, still ; 'tis the Posy here :
And here without, Be good : He wept to see me.

Juletta.

Enter Juletta.

Jul. Madam.

Alin. Take this Key, and fetch me
The Marygold Jewel that lies in my little Cabinet ;
I think 'tis that : What Eyes had I to miss him ?

[Exit Juletta.

O' me, what Thoughts ? He had no Beard then, and
As I remember well, he was more ruddy.

(6) Yet I would stem their Danger.] Tho' Danger is Sense here, especially if we read the Danger, yet Anger carries on the Metaphor so much more poetically, that I have little doubt of its being the true Word ; and what almost makes it certain is, that the old Edition has put the D quite distant from the rest of the Word, D anger ; the Setter of the Press, taking it first for Danger, begun with a D, then seeing his Mistake, put anger by itself, but forgot to take away the D.

Mr. Seward.

If

If this be he, he has a manly Face yet,
A goodly Shape.

Enter Juletta.

Jul. Here, Madam.

Alin. Let me see it :

'Tis so, too true : It must be he, or nothing ;
He spake the Words just as they stand Engraved here ;
I seek myself, and am but myself's Shadow ;
Alas poor Man : Didst thou not meet him, Juletta ?
The Pilgrim, Wench ?

Jul. He went by long ago, Madam.

Alin. I forgot to give him something.

Jul. 'Twas ill done, Lady :

For, o' my Troth, he is the hansom'st Man
I saw this many a Day ; would he'd all my Wealth,
And me to boot : What ails she to grow fullen ?

Alin. Come, I forgot ; but I will recompence it.

[Exeunt.]

A C T II. S C E N E I.

Enter Alphonso, Curio, Seberto, Juletta, Porter and Servants.

Alph. CAN she slip through a Cat-hole? tell me that ;
Resolve me ; can she fly i' th' Air? Is she
A thing invisible? Gone, and none know it?

Seb. Ye amaze your Servants.

Alph. Some pelting Rogue has watch'd her Hour of itching,
And claw'd her, claw'd her ; do you mark me, claw'd her ;
Some that I foster up.

Cur. They are all here, Sir.

Alph. Let 'em be where they will, they're arrant Rascals,
And by this Hand I'll hang 'em all.

Seb. Deal calmly ;
You will not give 'em time to answer ye.

Alph. I'll choak 'em, famish 'em: What say you, Wagtail?

You knew her Mind, you were of Council with her;
Tell me, and tell me true.

Cur. Ask with Discretion.

Alph. Discretion? hang Discretion, hang ye all:
Let me know where she is.

Jul. Would you know o' me, Sir?

Alph. O' thee, Sir; ay, o' thee, Sir: What art thou, Sir?

Jul. Her Woman, Sir, and't like your Worship, Sir.

Alph. (7) Her Baud, her Fiddle-stick,
Her Lady-fairy, to oil th' Doors o' Nights,
That they may open with Discretion,
Her Gin, her Nut-crack.

Jul. 'Tis very well, Sir.

Alph. Thou liest; 'tis damnable ill, 'tis most abominable:
Will ye confess, Thing?

Jul. Say I were guilty, Sir,
I would be hang'd before I would confess;
Is this a World to confess in?

Cur. Deal directly.

Jul. Yes, if my Matter lie direct before me;
But when I'm forc'd and ferretted.

Alph. Tell me th' Truth,
And as I live I'll give thee a new Petticoat.

Jul. And you would give me ten I would not tell ye?
Truths bear a greater Price than you're aware of.

Seb. Deal modestly.

Jul. I do not pluck my Cloaths up.

Alph. What say you, Sirrah? you? or you? are ye dumb all?

Por. I saw her last Night, and't shall like your Worship,
When I serv'd in her Livery.

Alph. What's that, Sirrah?

Por. Her Chamber-pot, and't please ye.

Seb. A new Livery.

(7) Her Band, her Fiddle-stick,] Thus, in spite of Sense, read all the Copies: The mistake of n for u was very easy, and we may be sure could have its rise from no other Place, but that of the Press. The Text is from the Conjecture of all three.

Alph.

Alph. Where lay she? who lay with her?

Por. In truth, not I, Sir;

I lay with my Fellow-Frederick, in the Flea-chamber,
And't like your Worship, we are almost worried.

Ful. I left her by herself, in her own Closet,
And there I thought sh'ad slept.

Alph. Why lay you from her?

Ful. It was her Will I should? she is my Mistress,
And my part is Obedience.

Alph. Were all th' Doors lock'd?

Por. All mine.

Ser. And mine: She could not get out those ways
Unless she leapt the Walls, and those are higher Than any Woman's Courage dare aspire at.

Alph. Come, you must know.

Cur. Conceal it not, but deal plain.

Ful. If I did know, and her Trust lay upon me,
Not all your Angers, nor your Flatteries
Should make me speak; but having no more Interest
Than I may well deliver to the Air,
I'll tell ye what I know, and tell it liberally:
I think she's gone, because we cannot find her;
I think she's weary of your Tyranny,
And therefore gone: May be she is in Love:
May be in Love where you show no great liking,
And therefore gone: May be some point of Conscience,
Or vow'd Devotion.

Alph. These are nothing, Minion;
You that can aim at these, must know the Truth too.

Ful. Any more Truth than this, if I know, hang me,
Or where to search for't; if I make a Lie
(8) To gain your Love, and envy my best Mistress,
Pin me against a Wall, with my Heels upwards.

(8) To gain your Love, and envy my best Mistress,] Envy here is most probably corrupt; it may indeed be made Sense with the Context, but injure seems much more likely to be the true Reading.

Mr. Seward.

The bare transposing of the latter part of the Line will make the Sense very clear:

To gain your Love, and my best Mistress' Envy.

Alph. Out of my Doors.

Jul. That's all my poor Petition ;
For if your House were Gold, and she not in it,
Sir, I should count it but a Cage to whistle in.

Alph. Whore, if she be above ground, I will have her.

Jul. I'd live in a Cole-pit, then, were I your Daughter.

Seb. Certain she does not know, Sir.

Alph. Hang her, hang her,
She knows too much : Search all the House, all Corners,
And where 'tis possible she may go out. [Exeunt Serv.
If I do find your Tricks.

Jul. Reward me for 'em.

Or if I had such Tricks you could discover,
So weak, and slightly woven, you might look through,
All the young Girls should hoot me out o'th' Parish.
You are my Master, but ye own an Anger
Becomes a School-boy, that hath lost his Apples ;
Will ye force things into our Knowledges ?

Alph. Come hither, Fuletta ; thou didst love me.

Jul. And do still :

You are my Lady's Father, and I reverence ye.

Alph. Thou wouldst have pleas'd my Humour.

Jul. Any good way,
That carried not Suspicion in't, or Flattery,
Or fail of Trust.

Alph. Come, come, thou wouldst have——

Jul. Stay, Sir.

Alph. And thou hast felt my Bounty for't, and shalt do.
Dost thou want Cloaths or Money ?

Jul. Both.

Alph. Shalt have both.

Jul. But not this way ; I had rather be an Adamite,
And bring Fig-leaves into fashion again.

If you were young, Sir,
Handsome, and fitted to a Woman's Appetite,
And I a giddy-headed Girl, that car'd for nothing,
Much might be done ; then you might fumble with me,
And think to grope out Matters of some moment,
Which now you will put too short for ;
For what you have seen hitherto,

And

And known by me, has been but honest Service,
Which I dare pin i'th' Market-place to answer ;
And let the World, the Flesh and Devil examine it,
And come you in too, I dare stand your strictest.
And so much good may do you with your Dreams
Of Courtesy.

Alpb. This is most monstrous.

Enter Porter and Servants.

Seb. Sure she does not know, Sir ;
She durst not be so confident, and guilty.

Alpb. How now, what News? (9) what Hopes and Steps discovered ?

Speak any thing that's good, that tends to th' matter ;
Do you stand staring still ?

1 Ser. We are no Gods, Sir,
To say she's here, or there, and what she is doing ;
But we have search'd.

Por. I am sure she is not i'th' Cellar ;
For look you, Sir, if she had been i' th' Cellar—

Alpb. I'm sure thou hast been there.

Por. As I carried the matter,
For I search'd every Piece of Wine ; yes sure, Sir,
And every (10) little Tierce that could but testify :
And I drew hard to bolt her out.

Alpb. Away with him,
Fling him i'th' Hay-mow, let him lye a mellowing ;
He stinks of Muskadel like an Englisb Christmas :
Are these your Cares? your Services ?

2 Ser. Pray y' hear, Sir,
We've found where she went out ; her very Footing.

Alpb. Where? where? go on.

Cur. Observe then with more Stayedness.

2 Ser. Searching the Garden, at the little Postern
That opens to the Park, we first discovered it.

(9) ——— what Hopes and Steps discovered?] As plausible as this Reading appears, I can't help imagining our Author wrote,
——— what Hops and Steps, &c.

(10) — little Terefs—] A manifest Corruption for Tierce, i. e. A third part of a Pipe of Wine.

Alpb.

Alph. A little Foot?

1 Ser. It must be hers, or none, Sir.

Alph. How far beyond that?

2 Serv. To the Park it leads us,

But there the Ground being hard, we could not mark it.

Alph. She always kept that Key; I was a Coxcomb,
A Fool, an Afs, to give a Girl that Liberty:

Saddle my Horses, Rogues! ye drunken Varlets,

Your precious Diligence lies in Pint-pots,

Your Brains in Buts; my Horses, ye Pin-buttocks

You'll bear me company?

Seb. We dare not leave ye,

Unless we found a quieter Soul within ye.

Cur. If we may do the Lady any Service,
Sweet, gentle Soul.

Alph. I say again, my Horses:

Are ye so hot? have ye your private Pilgrimages?]

Must ye be Jumping-foan? I'll wander with ye,

I'll jump ye, and I'll joggle ye: My Horses!

And keep me this young Lirry-poop within Doors.

I will discover, Dame.

Jul. 'Tis fit you should, Sir,

If ye knew what: Well Love, if thou beest with her,

Or what Power else that arms her Resolution,

Conduct her fair, and keep her from this Madman,

Direct her to her Wishes, dwell about her,

That no dishonourable End o'er-take her,

Danger, or Want; and let me try my Fortune.

Alph. You know the Place we meet in?

Seb. We shall hit it.

Alph. And as ye're honest Gentlemen, endeavour.

Cur. We'll search the best we can; if she light in our Hands.

Alph. Tie her to th' Horse-Tail.

Seb. We know how to use her,

But not your way, for all your State.

Alph. Make haste there:

And get you in, and look to th' House. If you stir out,
Damsel,

Or set o' foot any new Motion this way,

When

When I come home, (which shall be suddenly)
You know my Mind if you do play the Rascal
I have my Eyes and Ears in sundry Places,
If ye do prounce——

Ful. I shall do that that's fit, Sir,
And fit to cros your Fooleries; I'll fail else.
And so I'll to my Chamber.

[Exit.

Alph. To your Prayers,
And leave your stubborn Tricks: She is not far yet,
She cannot be; and we dividing suddenly——

Cur. Keep her from thy Hands, I beseech. [Aside.

Alph. Our Horses!
Come, chearfully. I'll teach her to run gadding. [Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter Roderigo, and four Outlaws.

1 Outl. Captain, you are not merry.

Rod. We get nothing,
We have no Sport; whoring and drinking spoils us,
We keep no Guards.

2 Outl. There come no Passengers,
Merchants, nor Gentlemen, nor whosoever,
But we have Tribute.

Rod. And whilst we spend that idly,
We let those pass that carry the best Purchase:
I'll have all search'd and brought in; Rogues and Beggars,
Have got the Trick now to become Bank-masters.
I'll have none 'scape; only my Friends, and Neighbours,
That may deliver to the King my Innocence;
Those I would have regarded; it is Policy.
But otherwise nor Gravities, nor Shadows,
Appear they how they will, that may have Purfes,
For they shall pay.

3 Outl. Ye speak now like a Captain.
And if we spare, flea us, and coin our Cassocks;
Will ye look blith?

Rod. You hear no Preparation
The King intends against us yet?

4 Outl.

4 Outl. Not a Word, Sir.

Good Man, he's troubled with Matter of more moment,
Humblings of higher Nature vex his Brains, Sir ;
Do not we see his Garrisons ?

Rod. Who're out now ?

4 Outl. Good Fellows, Sir, that if there be any Purchase stirring

Will strike it dead ; Faques and Lopes, Lads
That know their Quarters, as they know their Knapfacks ;
And will not off.

Rod. Where is the Boy ye brought me ?
A pretty Lad, and of a quick Capacity,
And bred up neatly.

1 Outl. He's within at Meat, Sir,
The Knave is hungry ; yet he seasons all
He eats or drinks with many Tears and Sighings.
The saddest Appetite I ever look'd on !

(11) The Boy is young, 'tis Fear and want of Company
He knows and loves ; use him not rough, nor harshly,
He will be quickly bold. Rod. I'll entertain him :
I want a pretty Boy to wait upon me,
And when I'm sad or sleepy, to prate to me ;
Besides there's something in his Face I like well :
And still the more I look, more like ; let him want nothing,
And use him gently, all.

2 Outl. Here's a small Box, Sir,
We took about him, which he griev'd to part with,
May be some Wealth.

Rod. Alas, some little Money
The poor Knave carried to defray his Lodgings,
I'll give it him again, and add unto it :
'Twere Sin to open such a petty Purchase.

(11) The Boy is young, —] In the Folio Editions the 1st Outlaw is made to speak from

He's within at Meat, Sir,

to,

And use him gently, all.

That of 1711 has given part of it to Roderigo, as it stands at present, but happily (as Mr. Seward too observed with me) the Captain's Speech begins two Lines above, with,

The Boy is young, &c.

Enter

Enter Lopes and Jaques, with Pedro.

How now, who's this? what have you brought me, Soldiers?

Lop. We know not well what? a (12) strange staving Fellow,

Sullen enough I am sure.

Rod. Where took ye him?

Jaq. Upon the Skirt o'th' Wood, viewing, and gaping,
And sometime standing still, as if he'd meant
To view the best Accesses to our Quarters;
Money he has enough, and when we threatned him,
He smil'd, and yielded; but not one Word utter'd.

Lop. His Habit says he's holy; if his Heart
Keep that Proportion too, 'tis best ye free him;
We'll keep his Wallet here; I'm sure 'tis heavy.

Rod. Pilgrim; come hither, Sir: Are you a Pilgrim?
A Piece of pretty Holiness; d' you shrink, Sir?
A smug young Saint. What Country were you born in?
Ye have a Spanish Face: In a dumb Province?
And had your Mother too this excellent Virtue?
No Tongue, d' you say? Sure she was a matchless Woman?
What a fine Family is this Man sprung from!
Certain he was begotten in a Calm,
When all was hush: The Midwife was dumb Midnight;
Are ye seal'd up? Or do you scorn to answer?
Ye're in my Hands, and I have Med'cines for ye
Can make ye speak: Pull off his Bonnet, Soldiers;
Ye have a speaking Face.

Lop. I'm sure a handsome:
This Pilgrim cannot want She-faints to pray to.

Rod. Stand nearer, ha?

Ped. Come, do your worst; I'm ready.

(12) ——— strange staving Fellow,] Mr. Seward as well agrees with me in the explaining staving, i. e. having a Pilgrim's Staff in his Hands, as in adding farther, that if the Reader is still dissatisfied with the Place, he may suppose the Poet to have wrote,

— a strange staring Fellow,

And there may be some Reason for it from Jaques's Speech a little lower, where, speaking of this new Captive, he says, they took him

Upon the Skirt o'th' Wood, viewing, and gaping, &c.

Rod.

Rod. Is your Tongue found? Go off, and let me talk with him;

And keep your Watches round.

All. We're ready, Captain. [Exeunt Outlaws.]

Rod. So; now what are ye?

Ped. Am I?

My Habit shews me what I am.

Rod. (13) Thou art

A desp'rate Fool, and so thy Fate shall tell thee;

What Devil brought thee hither? for I know thee.

Ped. I know thou dost; and since it is my Fortune
To light into thy Fingers, I must think too

The most malicious of all Devils brought me,

Yet some Men say thou'rt noble.

Rod. Not to thee,

That were a Benefit to mock the Giver:

Thy Father hates my Friends, and Family,

And thou hast been the Heir of all his Malice.

Can two such Storms meet then, and part with Kissing?

Ped. You have the mightier Hand.

Rod. And so I'll use it.

Ped. I cannot hinder ye; less can I beg

Submissive at his Knees that knows not Honour;

That bears the Stamp of Man, and not his Nature;

Ye may do what ye please.

Rod. I will do all.

Ped. And when you've done all, which is my poor Ruin,
(For farther your base Malice cannot venture)

Dishonour's self will cry you out a Coward.

Hadst thou been brave, and noble, and an Enemy,

Thou wouldst have fought me whilst I carried Arms,

Whilst my good Sword was my Profession,

And then have cried out, Pedro, I defy thee;

Then stuck Alphonso's Quarrel on the Point,

The mercenary Anger thou serv'ft under

(13) Thy Heart,

A desperate Fool, —] This Passage surely ought to run so,

Thou art

A desp'rate Fool, &c.

In this Mr. Seward likewise concurred.

To

To get his Daughter. Then thou should'st have brav'd me,
And arm'd with all thy (14) Family's Hate, upon me
Done something, worthy feat: Now poor and basely
Thou set'st Toils to betray me; and like the Peasant,
That dares not meet the Lion in the Face,
Dig'st crafty Pit-falls; Thou sham'st th' Spanish Honour:
Thou'st neither point of Man, nor Conscience in thee.

Rod. Sir, Sir, you're brave; ye plead now in a Sanctuary;
You think your Pilgrim's Bulwark can defend ye;
You will not find it so.

Ped. I look not for't.

The more unhallow'd Soul hast thou to offer it.

Rod. When you were bravest, Sir, and your Sword sharpest,

I durst affront ye, when the Court Sun gilded ye,
And every Cry was the young hopeful Pedro,
Alonso's sprightly Son; then durst I meet ye,
When you were Master of this Fame, and Fashion,
And all your Glories in the full Meridian,
The King's Proof-favour buckled on your Body;
Had we then come to Competition,
Which I have often sought——

Ped. And I desired too.

Rod. You should have seen this Sword, howe'er you sight it,

And felt it too; sharper than Sorrow felt it,
In Execution quicker than thy Scorns;
Thou should'st have seen all this, and shrunk to see it.
Then like a Gentleman I would have us'd thee,
And given thee the fair fortune of thy Being,
Then with a Soldier's Arm I'd honour'd thee;
But since thou steal'st upon me like a Spy,

(14) —— Family's Hate upon me,
Done something worthy feat:—] A Comma or two here will put all to Right, thus,

—— Family's Hate, upon me
Done something worthy Feat:——

But Mr. Seward thinks that something farther is requisite, and to make the whole run more naturally, we ought to read thus,

—— —— upon me
Have done some worthy Feat.——

And Thief-like think'st that holy Case shall carry thee
Through all my Purposes, and so betray me,
(15) Base as you act, thy End be, and I forget thee.

Ped. What poor Evasions thou build'st on, t' abuse me?
The goodness of a Man ne'er taught these Principles.
I come a Spy? Durst any noble Spirit
Put on this Habit, to become a Traitor?
Ev'n in an Enemy shew me this Antipathy
Where there is Christian Faith, and this not revered:
I come a Spy? No, Roderigo, no;
A Hater of thy Person, a Maligner?
So far from that, I brought no Malice with me,
But rather when I meet thee, (16) Tears to soften thee;
When I put on this Habit, I put off
All Fires, all Angers, all those starts of Youth
That (17) clapt too rank a Bias to my Being,
And drew me from the right Mark all should aim at;
Instead of stubborn Steel, I put on Prayers;
For rash and hasty Heats, a sweet Repentance:
Long weary Steps, and Vows, for my Vain-glories.
O Roderigo!

Rod. If thy Tongue could save thee,
Or Prating be thy Bail, thou hast a rare Benefit.
Soldiers, come out, and bring a Halter with ye;
I'll forgive your holy Habit, Sir, but I'll hang you.

(15) Base as you act, thy End be.—] The Copies here vary. Those of 1647 and 1711 read as in the Text; that of 1679 gives the Passage thus;

Base as the Act, &c.

But, as I think, none of 'em right. I conjectur'd once that the Line should run so,

Base as your Act, &c.

But finding afterward, upon Examination, that the was the reading of the 2d Folio, I am now inclin'd to think the Place should run thus,

Base as this Act, &c.

i. e. his coming upon him (Roderigo) as he thought, in the Habit of a Pilgrim, to spy out his Place of Concealment, Strength, &c. in order to discover all he knew to the Governor.

(16) ——— Tears so soften thee;] This Reading is peculiar to the Copy of 1711.

(17) — clapt too rank a Bias—] i. e. strong, great, &c.

Enter

Enter Outlaws, Lopes, and Jaques.

1 Outl. Wherefore this Halter, Captain?

Rod. For this Traitor.

Go, put it on him, and then tie him up.

1 Outl. D' you want a Band, Sir? This is a course wearing,

'Twill fit but scurvily upon this Collar;
But Patience is as good as a French Pickadel.

Lop. What's his Fault, Captain?

Rod. 'Tis my Will he perish,
And that's his Fault.

Ped. A Captain of good Government.
Come, Soldiers, come, ye're roughly bred, and bloody;
Shew your Obedience, and the Joy ye take
In executing impious Commands;
Ye have a Captain seals your liberal Pardons,
Be no more Christians, put Religion by,
'Twill make ye Cowards; feel no Tenderness,
Nor let a thing call'd Conscience trouble ye;
Alas, 'twill breed Delay. Bear no Respect
To what I seem; were I a Saint indeed,
Why should that stagger ye? You know not Holiness:
To be excellent in Evil, is your Goodness;
And be so, 'twill become ye; have no Hearts,
For fear you should repent; that will be dangerous;
For if there be a knocking there, a pricking,
And that Pulse beat back to your Considerations,
How ye have laid a stiff Hand on Religion——

Rod. Truſs him, I ſay.

Ped. And violated Faith——

Rod. Hear him not prate.

Ped. Why, what a thing will this be?
What ſtrange Confuſion then will breed among ye?

Rod. Will none of ye obey?

Ped. What Devils vex ye?
The Fears ye live in, and the hourly Dangers
Will be Delights to theſe: Thoſe have their Ends,
But theſe out-live all Time, and all Repentance:
And if it creep into your Conſcience once,

Be sure ye lock that close.

Rod. Why stand ye gazing?

Ped. Farewel Sleep, Peace, all that are human Comforts,
Better ye had been Trees, or Stones, and happier;
For those die here, and seek no further Being,
Nor Hopes, nor Punishments.

Rod. Rots take ye, Rascals.

Jaq. What would you have us do?

Rod. Dispatch the Prater.

Jaq. And have religious Blood hang on our Consciences?
We're bad enough already: Sins enough
To make our Graves ev'n loath us.

Rod. No Man love me?

Lop. Although I be a Thief, I am no Hangman;
They're two Mens Trades, and let another Execute.
Lay violent Hands on holy Things?

Rod. Base Cowards,

Put to your Powers, ye Rascals, I command ye.
For holy, or unholy, if I say it,
I'll have it done.

1 Outl. If I do't, let me starve for't.

2 Outl. Or I.

3 Outl. Or I: We will obey things handsome,
And bad enough, and over-do Obedience,
But to be made such Instruments of Mischief——

Jaq. I've done as many Villanies as another,
And with as little Reluctation;
Let me come clear of these, and wipe that Score off.
Put me upon a felt and known Perdition——

Rod. Have ye conspir'd, ye Slaves?

Ped. (18) How vildly this shows,
In one that would command another's Temper,
And bear no bound in's own.

Rod. Am I thus jaded?

Ped. Is it my Life thou long'ft for, Roderigo?
And can no Sacrifice appease thy Malice,
But my Blood spilt? Do it thyself, dispatch it;
And as thou tak'ft the whole Revenge unto thee,

(18) How wildly this shows,] The Folio of 1647 gives the Text.

Take

Take the whole Sin upon thee, and be mighty,
Mighty in Evil, as thou art in Anger:
And let not these poor Wretches houl for thy sake.
Those things that in thine own Glafs seem most monftrous,
Would'ft thou abufe their weak Sights with, for amiable?
Is it, thou think'ft to fear me with thy Terrors,
And into weak Condition draw my Virtue?
If I were now to learn to die, I'd fue to thee;
Or did I fear Death, then I'd make thee Glorious;
But knowing what, and how far I can fuffer,
And all my whole Life being but Death's Preface,
My Sleep but at next Door——

Rod. Are ye fo valiant?

I'll make ye feel; I'll make ye know, and feel too;
And Rascals, you fhall tremble. Keep him here,
And keep him fafe too; if he 'scape your Guards——

Ped. Fear not, I will not.

Rod. As I live, ye die for't;
I will not be thus baffled. [Exit.

Jaq. What a Devil have ye done, Pilgrim? Or what Mifchief

Have you conspir'd, that he fhould rage and rave thus?
Have you kill'd his Father, or his Mother?
Or frangled any of his Kindred?

Lop. Has he no Sifters? Have you not been bouncing
About their Belly-pieces?

Jaq. Why fhould that be dangerous,
Or any way deserve Death? Is't not Natural?
Bar us the Christian Liberty of Women,
And build us up with Brick, take 'way our Free-ftone.

Outl. Because thou'rt holier than he, upon my Con-fciences

He does not envy thee: That's not his Quarrel;
For, look you, that might be compounded without Prayers.

Lop. Nor that thou feem'ft an honefter Man; for here
We have no trading with fuch Tinfel-ftuff;
To be an excellent Thief, is all we aim at.
Wilt thou take a Spit and Stride, and fee if thou canft out-run us?

Ped. I fcorn to fhift his Fury; keep your Obedience;

For though your Government admit no Precedent,
Keep yourselves careful in't.

Jaq. Thou wilt be hang'd then.

Ped. I cannot die with fewer Faults upon me.

2 Outl. 'Tis ten to one he'll shoot him: For the Devil's in him

If he hang him himself:

Lop. H'as too proud a Nature;

He will compel some one. Jaq. I'm confident.

Lop. And so are all, I think. Ped. Be not molested,
If I must die, let it not trouble you;
It stirs not me: 'Tis the end I was born for.
Only this honest Office I desire ye,
If there be Courtesy in Men of your Breed,
To see me buried; not to let his Fury
Expose my Body to the open Violence
Of Beasts, and Fowls; so far I urge Humanity.

Enter Roderigo and Alinda.

Jaq. He shan't deny us that; we'll see ye under Ground,
And give ye a Volley of as good Cups of Sack,
For that's our Discipline-----

Lop. He comes again,

As high in rage as ever; the Boy with him.

1 Outl. Will he compel the Child?

Lop. He's bent to do it,
And must have some Body.

Rod. If thou lov'st me, do it;
Love me, or love me not, I say thou shalt do it:
Stare not, nor stagger, Sirrah; if ye deny me—
Do you see this, Rogue?

Alin. What would ye have me do, Sir?
Heav'n's goodness blefs me.

Rod. Do? why hang a Rascal,
That would hang me.

Alin. I am a Boy, and weak, Sir:

Rod. Thou'rt strong enough to tie him to a Bough,
And turn him off; come, thou shalt be my Jewel,
And I'll allow thee Horse, and all thy Pleasures,
And twenty gallant Things; I'll teach thee Arms too;
Make

Make thee mine Heir.

Alin. Let me inherit Death first.

Rod. Make me not angry, Sirrah.

Alin. Which is the Man, Sir?

I'll pluck up the best Heart I can, yet——

Rod. Fear not,

It is my Will: That in the Pilgrim's Coat there,
That Devil in the Saint's Skin.

Alin. Guard me, Goodness.

Rod. Dispatch him presently.

Ped. I wait your worst, Sir.

Jaq. Will the Boy do it? Is the Rogue so confident?
So young, so deep in Blood?

Lop. He shakes, and trembles.

Ped. Dost thou seek more Coals still to sear thy Conscience,

Work sacred Innocence, to be a Devil?

Do it thyself for shame, thou best becom'st it.

Rod. Sirrah, I scorn my Finger should be 'fil'd with thee;

And yet I'll have it done; this Child shall strangle thee;
A crying Girl, if she were here, should master thee.

Alin. How should I save him? How myself from Violence? [Aside.

Ped. Leave your Tongue-valour, and dispatch your Hate, Sir,

The Patience of my Death, shall more torment thee,
(Thou painted Honour, thou base Man made backward,)
Than all my Life has fear'd thee.

Rod. Gag him, Sirrah.

Jaq. The Boy looks chearfully now; sure he will do it.

Lop. He'll maul him else.

Alin. Are ye prepar'd to die, Sir?

Ped. Yes, Boy, and ready; prithee to thy Business.

Alin. Why are ye then so angry? So perplex'd, Sir?

Patience wins Heav'n, and not the heat of Passion.

Why do you rail?

Lop. The Boy's a pretty Priest.

Ped. I thank ye, gentle Child, you teach me truly.

Alin. You seem to fear too.

Ped. Thou feest more than I feel, Boy.

Alin. You tremble sure.

Ped. No sure, Boy, 'tis thy Tenderness;
Prithee make haste, and let that Gulph be satisfied.

Alin. Are ye so willing to go to't?

Ped. Most willing:

I would not borrow from his Courtesy
One Hour of Life, to gain an Age of Glory.

Alin. And is your Reckoning straight, Sir?

Ped. As straight as Truth, Boy;
I cannot go more joyfully to a Wedding.

Alin. Then to your Prayers, I'll dispatch ye presently.
Now guide my Tongue, thou Blessedness. [Aside.

Rod. A good Boy.

Alin. But hark ye, Sir, one Word; and pray ye resolve me.

Let me speak privately.

Rod. What would'st thou have, Child?

Alin. Shall this Man die?

Rod. Why dost thou make that Question?

Alin. Pray ye be not angry; if he must, I'll do it.
But must he now?

Rod. What else? Who dare reprieve him?

Alin. Pray ye think again; and as your Injuries
Are great, and full, you suffer from this Fellow,
Do not ye purpose so to suit your Vengeance?

Rod. I do, and must.

Alin. You cannot if he die now.

Rod. Cannot?

Alin. No, cannot; be not vex'd, you'll find it:
I have consider'd, and I know it certain,
Ye suffer below him: lose all your Angers.

Rod. Why, my best Boy?

Alin. I love and tender ye,
I would not tell ye else. Is that Revenge,
To slight your Cause, and Saint your Enemy?
Clap the Dove's Wings of downy Peace unto him,
And let him soar to Heav'n, whilst you are fighting?
Is this Revenge?

Rod. I'd have him die.

Alin.

Alin. Prepar'd thus?

The Blessing of a Father never reach'd it:
His Contemplation now scorns ye, contemns ye,
And all the Tortures ye can use. Let him die thus,
And these that know and love Revenge will laugh at ye:
Here lies the Honour of a well-bred Anger,
To make his Enemy shake and tremble under him;
Doubt, nay, almost despair, and then confound him.
This Man ye rock asleep, and all your Rages
Are Requiems to his parting Soul, meer Anthems.

Rod. Indeed he's strongly built.

Alin. You cannot shake him;

And the more Weight ye put on his Foundation,
Now as he stands, ye fix him still the stronger;
If ye love him, honour him, would heap upon him
Friendships and Benefits beyond Example,
Hope him a Star in Heaven, and there would stick him,
Now take his Life.

Rod. I'd rather take mine own, Boy.

Alin. I'll ease him presently.

Rod. Stay, be not hasty.

Alin. Bless my Tongue still.

Lop. What has the Boy done to him?

How dull and still he looks.

Alin. You are a wise Man,

And long have buckled with the World's Extremities,
A valiant Man, and no doubt know both Fortunes,
And would ye work your Master-piece thus madly,
(19) Take the bare name of Honour, that will pity ye,
When the World knows ye've prey'd upon a poor Pilgrim?

Rod.

(19) Take the bare name of Honour, that will pity ye,

When the World knows ye have prey'd on a poor Pilgrim?] I believe a Transposition here and false Points have rendred this all Darknes and Obscurity; what confirms the Suspicion is, that the old Folio, the first Edition of this Play, has a large Space between knows and ye in the second Line: I read therefore,

Take the bare name of Honour? when the World knows

Ye've prey'd on a poor Pilgrim, they will pity ye. Mr. Seward.

I would not defraud the Reader of Mr. Seward's ingenious Note, tho' I can't allow of so bold a Proceeding against the Text, which I think may be set right with less Trouble so,

Rod. The Boy has stagger'd me: What would'st thou have me?

Alin. Have ye? D' you not feel, Sir? Does 't not stir ye?

D' you ask a Child? I'd have ye do most bravely,
Because I most affect ye: Like yourself, Sir,
Scorn him, and let him go; seem to contemn him,
And now ye've made him shake, seal him his Pardon;
When he appears a Subject fit for Anger,
And fit for you, his pious Armour off,
His Hopes no higher than your Sword may reach at,
Then strike, and then ye know Revenge, then take it.
I hope I've turn'd his Mind. [Aside.]

Rod. Let the Fool go there;
I scorn to let loose so base an Anger
May light on thee: See me no more, but quit me,
And when we meet again——

Ped. I'll thank ye, Captain. [Exit.]

Alin. Why this was like yourself: But which way goes he?

Shall we ne'er happy meet? [Aside.]

Rod. I'm drowsy, Boy,
Go with me, and discourse; I like thy Company,
O Child! I love thy Tongue.

Alin. I shall wait on ye. [Exeunt.]

Lop. The Boy has done't; a plaguy witty Rascal,
And I shall love him terribly.

Jaq. 'Twas he most certain,
For if ye mark, how earnest he was with him,
And how he labour'd him.

Lop. A cunning Villain,
But a good Rogue: This Boy will make's all honest.

Outl. I scarce believe that; but I like the Boy well:
Come, let's to Supper; then upon our Watches.

————— thus madly?

Take the bare name of Honour, it will pity you

When the World knows you've prey'd on a poor Pilgrim.

The meaning is, Consider only your Honour, and how poorly the World will think of you when it comes to know that you have prey'd on a poor Pilgrim.

Lop.

Lop. (20) This Pilgrim 'scap'd a joyful one.

Jaq. Let's drink round,
To the Boy's Health, and then about our Business.

[Exeunt.]

A C T III. S C E N E I.

Enter Roderigo, Jaques, Lopes, and three Outlaws.

Rod. NONE of you know her?

Jaq. Alas, Sir, we ne'er saw her,
Nor e'er heard of her, but from your Report.

Rod. No happy Eye?

Lop. I do not think 'tis she, Sir,
Methinks a Woman dares not.

Rod. Thou speak'st poorly;
What dares not Woman, when she is provok'd?
Or what seems dangerous to Love, or Fury?
That it is she, this has confirm'd me certain,
These Jewels here, a part of which I sent her,
And though unwilling, yet her Father wrought her
To take and wear.

Lop. A Wench, and we not know it?
And among us? where were our Understandings?
I could have guess'd unhappily, have had some feeling
In such a matter: Here are as pretty Fellows,
At the discovery of such a Jigambob.
A handsome Wench too? Sure we've lost (21) our Faculties,
We have no Motions: What should she do here, Sir?

(20) This Pilgrim 'scap'd a joyful one.] This may be understood as if this Pilgrim was joyful on account of his Escape, but 'tis more in Character to make one relate to Supper, and then, tho' joyful, understood ironically, may stand, yet woful seems a more humorous Word. I read therefore,

This Pilgrim 'scap'd a woful one. Mr. Seward.

(21) ———— our Faculties,
We have no Motions:—] The N and the M have taken the same turn here as in Shakespeare. Read,
——— our Faculties,
We have no Notions.———

Rod.

Rod. That's it that troubles me: O that base Rascal!
There lies the misery: How cunningly she quit him,
And how she urg'd! Had ye been constant to me,
I ne'er had suffer'd this.

1 Outl. Ye might have hang'd him;
And would he had been hang'd, that's all we care for't,
So our Hands had not done't.

Rod. She's gone again too.
And what care have ye for that? gone, and contemn'd me;
Master'd my Will, and Power, and now laughs at me.

Lop. The Devil that brought her hither, Sir, I think
Has carried her back again invisible,
For we ne'er knew nor heard of her Departure.

Jaq. No living thing came this Night through our Watches;
She went with you.

Rod. Was by me till I slept,
But when I wak'd, and call'd—O my dull Pate here!
If I had open'd this when it was given me,
This roguy Box.

Enter Alphonso, and two Outlaws.

Lop. We could but give it ye.

Rod. Pilgrim? a pox o' Pilgrims, there the Game goes,
There's all my Fortune fled; I know't, I feel it.

Alph. Bring me unto thy Captain; where's thy Captain?
I'm founder'd, melted, some fairy thing or other
Has led me dancing; the Devil has haunted me
I th' Likeness of a Voice; give me thy Captain.

2 Outl. He's here, Sir, there he stands.

Alph. How dost thou, Captain?
I have been fool'd and jaded, made a Dog-bolt.
My Daughter's run away: I have been haunted too,
I've lost my Horse; I'm hungry, and out of my Wits also:

Rod. Come in; I'll tell you what I know; strange things!

And take your Ease; I'll follow her Recovery;
These shall be yours the whilst, and do ye Service.

Alph. Let me have Drink enough, I'm almost choak'd too.

Rod.

Rod. You shall have any thing; what think you now,
Soldiers?

Jaq. I think a Woman, is a Woman, that's any thing.
The next we take, we'll search a little nearer,
We'll not be boy'd again with a Pair of Breeches.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E II.

Enter Julietta.

Jul. He's gone in here: This is Roderigo's Quarter,
And I'll be with him soon, I'll startle him,
A little better than I have done: All this long Night
I've led him out o' th' way, to try his Patience,
And made him swear, and curse, and pray, and swear again,
And cry for Anger; I made him leave his Horse too,
Where he can never find him more; whistled to him,
And then he'd run through thick and thin to reach me;
And down in this Ditch, up again, and shake him,
And swear some certain Blessings; then into that Bush
Pop goes his Pate, and all his Face is comb'd over,
And I sit laughing: A hundred Tricks I've serv'd him,
And I will double 'em, before I leave him;
I'll teach his Anger to dispute with Women;
But all this time I cannot meet my Mistrefs,
I cannot come to comfort her, that grieves me,
For sure she's much afflicted; till I do,
I'll haunt thy Ghost, Alphonso; I'll keep thee waking:
Yes, I must get a Drum: I am villanous weary,
And yet I'll trot about these Villages
Till I have got my Will, and then have at ye.
I'll make your Anger drop out at your Elbows, e'er I leave ye.

[Exit.

S C E N E III.

Enter Seberto, and Curio.

Seb. 'Tis strange, in all the Circuit we have ridden,
We cannot cross her; no way light upon her.

Cur. I don't think she is gone thus far, or this way,

For

For certain if she had, we should have reach'd her,
Made some Discov'ry, heard some News; we've seen nothing.

Seb. Nor pass'd by any Body that could promise any thing.

She's certainly disguis'd; her Modesty
Durst never venture else.

Cur. Let her take any Shape,
And let me see it once, I can distinguish it.

Seb. So should I think too; has n't her Father found her?

Cur. No, I'll be hang'd then; h'as no Patience,
Unless she light in's Teeth, to look about him.
(22) He guesses now, and chafes, and frets like Tinsel.

Seb. Let him go on, he cannot live without it;
But keep her from him, Heav'n! Where are we, Curio?

Cur. In a Wood I think, hang me if I know else,
And yet I've ridden all these Coasts at all Hours,
And had an aim.

Seb. I would we had a Guide.

Cur. And if I be not much awry, Seberto,
Not far off should be Roderigo's Quarter,
For in this Fastness, If I be not cozen'd,
He and his Outlaws live.

Seb. This is the Place then
W' appointed him to meet in.

Enter Alinda.

Cur. Yes, I think so.

Seb. Would we could meet some living thing: What's that there?

Cur. A Boy, I think; stay, why may n't he direct us?

(22) He guesses now, and chafes, and frets like Tinsel.] This Line, to me, is not without its Difficulties, and if I may be allow'd to guess what Curio would be understood to say, perhaps it might be as follows.
' Alphonso has not Patience enough for a deliberate Search; he stops in' deed sometimes as if he would consider which way he shall take next,
' but he only chafes and frets, and, after all, pursues at random.' To make the Line in some measure to agree with this Interpretation, we should read it,

He guesses not, but chafes and frets like Tinsel.

Aln.

Alin. I'm hungry, and I'm weary, and I can't find him.
Keep my Wits, Heav'n, I feel 'em wavering:
O God, my Head!

Seb. Boy, dost thou hear, thou Stripling?

Alin. Now they will tear me, torture me, now Roderigo
Will hang him without Mercy; ha?

Cur. Come hither:

A very pretty Boy; what Place is this, Child?
And whither dost thou travel? how he stares!
Some stubborn Master has abus'd the Boy,
And beaten him: How he complains! whither goest
thou?

Alin. I go to Segovia, Sir, to my sick Mother;
I have been taken here by drunken Thieves,
And (O my Bones!) I have been beaten, Sir,
Mis-us'd and robb'd; extremely beaten, Gentlemen.
O God, my Side!

Seb. What Beasts would use a Boy thus?
Look up, and be of good Cheer.

Alin. O, I cannot.

My Back! my Back! my Back!

Cur. What Thieves?

Alin. I know not,

But they call th' Captain, Roderigo.

Cur. Look ye,

I knew we were thereabouts.

Seb. Dost thou want any thing?

Alin. Nothing but Ease, but Ease, Sir.

Cur. There's some Money,

And get thee to thy Mother.

Alin. I thank ye, Gentlemen.

Seb. This was extremely foul, to vex a Child thus.
Come let's along, we cannot lose our way now.

[Exeunt.]

Alin. Though ye are honest Men, I fear your Fingers,
And glad I am got off; O how I tremble!
Send me but once within his Arms, dear Fortune,
And then come all the World: What shall I do now?
'Tis almost Night again, and where to lodge me
Or get me Meat, or any thing, I know not;

These

These wild Woods, and the Fancies I have in me,
Will run me mad.

Enter Julietta.

Jul. Boy! Boy!

Alin. More set to take me?

Jul. Dost thou hear, Boy, thou Pointer?

Alin. 'Tis a Boy too,

A Lacky-Boy; I need not fear his Fierceness.

Jul. Canst thou beat a Drum?

Alin. A Drum?

Jul. This thing, a Drum here.

Didst thou ne'er see a Drum? Canst thou make this grumble?

Alin. Julietta's Face and Tongue; is she run mad too?

[Aside.

Here may be double Craft. I have no Skill in't.

Jul. I'll give thee a Royal but to go along with me.

Alin. I care not for thy Royal, I've other Business.

Drum to thyself, and dance to't.

Jul. Sirrah, Sirrah;

Thou scurvy Sirrah; thou Snotty-nos'd Scab, dost thou hear me?

If I lay down my Drum——

Enter Roderigo, and two Outlaws.

Alin. Here comes more Company,

I fear a Plot, Heav'n send me fairly from it.

[Exit.

Jul. Basta, who's here?

Lop. Captain, (23) do you need me farther?

Rod. No, not a Foot: Give me the Gown; the Sword
now.

Jul. This is the Devil Thief, and if he take me,
Woe be to my Gally-gaskins.

Lop. Certain, Sir,

She'll take her Patches off, and change her Habit.

(23) — do you need me, Father?] This Passage, as Mr. Seward too observed with me, should be read,

—— need me farther?

And I find the Copy of 1679 is here on our side.

Rod.

Rod. Let her do what she please: No, no, Alinda,
You cannot cozen me again in a Boy's Figure,
Nor hide the Beauty of that Face in Patches,
But I shall know't.

Jul. A Boy, his Face in Patches?

Rod. Nor shall your Tongue again bewitch mine Anger.
If she be found i'th' Woods, send me Word presently,
And I'll return; she cannot be far gone yet,
If she be not, expect me, when ye see me;
Use all your Service to my Friend Alphonso,
And have a care to your Business: Farewel,
No more, farewel. [Exit.

Jul. (24) I'm heart'ly glad thou art gone: yet
This Boy in Patches was the Boy came by me,
The very same, how hastily it shifted!
What a mop-ey'd Ass was I, I could not know her;
This must be she, this is she, now I remember her,
How loth she was to talk too, how she fear'd me!
I could now piss mine Eyes out for meer Anger:
I'll follow her——But who shall vex her Father then?
One flirt at him, and then I'm for the Voyage,
If I can cross the Captain too: Come Tabor. [Exit.

S C E N E V.

Enter Jaques, and one Outlaw.

Jaq. Are they all fet?

1 Outl. All, and each Quarter quiet.

Jaq. Is the old Man asleep?

1 Outl. An Hour ago, Sir.

Jaq. We must be very careful in his Absence,
And very watchful.

1 Outl. It concerns us nearly,
He will not be long from us.

Jaq. No, he cannot.

(24) I am heart'ly glad thou art gone yet.] The Sense here would be greatly heightned, by a Change in the Pointing, and metamorphosing this heavy yet into yes.

I am heart'ly glad thou art gone. Yes.
This Boy in Patches, &c.

1 Outl.

1 Outl. A little heat of Love, which he must wander out.
[Drum afar off.]

And then again : Hark !

Jaq. What ?

1 Outl. 'Tis not the Wind, sure :
That's still and calm, no Noise, nor Flux of Waters.

Jaq. I hear a Drum, I think.

1 Outl. That, that ;
It beats again now.

Jaq. Now it comes nearer : Sure we are surpris'd, Sir ;
Some from the King's Command ; we're lost, we're dead all.

1 Outl. Hark, hark, a Charge now : My Captain has betray'd us,
And left us to this Ruin, run away from's.

Enter two Outlaws.

Lop. Another beats o' that side.

2 Outl. Fly, fly, Jaques,
We're taken in a Toil, snapt in a Pitfal ;
Methinks I feel a Sword already shave me.

3 Outl. A thousand Horse and Foot, a thousand Pioneers,
If we get under Ground, to fetch us out again ;
And every one an Ax to cut the Woods down.

Lop. This is the dismal'st Night—— [Exit.]

Enter Alphonso.

Alph. Where is my Nag now ?
And what make I here to be hang'd ? What Devil
Brought me into this Danger ? is there ne'er a Hole,
That I may creep in deep enough, and die quickly ?
Ne'er an old Ditch to choke in ? I shall be taken
For their Commander now, their General,
And have a commanding Gallows set up for me
As high as a May-pole, and nasty Songs made on me ;
Be printed with a Pint-pot and a Dagger.
They are all kill'd by this time : Can I pray ?
Let me see that first—I've too much Fear to be faithful.
Where's all my State now ? I must go hunt for Daughters,
Daughters, and Damsels of the Lake, damned Daughters.

A

A hundred Crowns (25) for a good Tod of Hay,
Or a fine hollow Tree, that would contain me;
I hear 'em coming; I feel the Noose about me.

Enter Seberto, Curio, Outlaws, and Jaques.

Seb. Why do you fear, and fly? Here are no Soldiers;
None from the King to vex ye.

1 Outl. The Drum, the Drum, Sir.

Cur. I never saw such Pidgeon-hearted People:
What Drum? what Danger; Who's that that shakes behind there?

Mercy upon me, Sir, why are ye fear'd thus?

Alpb. Are we all kill'd, no Mercy to be hop'd for?
Am I not shot, d' you think?

Seb. You're strangely frightened,
Shot with a Fiddle-stick; who's here to shoot ye?
A Drum we saw indeed, a Boy was beating it,
And hunting Squirrels by Moon-light.

Lop. Nothing else, Sir?

Cur. Not any thing; no other Person stirring.

Alpb. O that I had that Boy! this is that Devil,
That fairy Rogue, that haunted me last Night;
H'as Sleeves like Dragon's Wings.

Seb. A little Foot-boy.

Alpb. Come, let's go in, and let me get my Cloaths on;
If e'er I stay here more to be thus Martyr'd——
Did ye not meet the Wench?

Seb. No sure, we met her not.

Alpb. She has been here in Boy's Apparel, Gentlemen,
A gallant thing, and famous for a Gentlewoman,
And all her Face patch'd over for Discovery;
A Pilgrim too, and thereby hangs a Circumstance,

(25) —— for a good Tod of Hay,] I have not ventured at an Alteration of the Text, but I strongly suspect a Corruption, and that the Line once run,

—— for a good Tod of Ivy.
So in Bonduca, Act I.

—— then did I see
These —— Men of Britain
Like boading Owls creep into Tods of Ivy.

That she hath play'd her Master-prize, a rare one.
I came too short.

Cur. Such a young Boy we met, Sir.

Alpb. In a gray Hat.

Cur. The same; his Face all patch'd too.

Alpb. 'Twas she, a rot run with her; she, that rank she;
Walk in, I'll tell ye all; and then we'll part again,
But get some store of Wine; this Fright fits here yet.

[Exeunt.

Enter Juletta.

Jul. What a Fright I've put 'em in; what a brave Hurry.

(26) If this do bolt him, I'll be with him again
With a new Part, was never play'd; I'll firke him.
As he hunts her, so I'll hunt him; I'll claw him.
Now will I see if I can cross her footing:
Yet still I'll watch his Water, he shall pay for't;
And when he thinks most Malice, and means worse,
I'll make him know the Mare's the better Horse. [Exit.

S C E N E V.

Enter Pedro, and a Gentleman.

Gent. Ye are a Stranger, Sir, and for Humanity,
Being come within our Walls, I'd shew you something.
Ye've seen the Castle?

Ped. Yes, Sir, 'tis a strong one,
And well maintain'd.

Gent. Why are you still thus sad, Sir;
How do ye like the Walks?

Ped. They're very pleasant;
Your Town stands cool and sweet.

Gent. But that I would not Affect you with more Sadness, I could shew ye
A Place worth View.

Ped. Shows seldom alter me, Sir;
Pray ye speak it, and then shew it.

(26) If this do bolt him,—] Probably the Negative is wanting.
If this don't bolt him ———

Gent.

Gent. 'Tis a House here
Where People of all sorts, that have been visited
With Lunacies and Follies, wait their Cures ;
There Fancies of a thousand Stamps and Fashions,
Like Flies in several shapes, buz round about ye,
And twice as many Gestures ; some of Pity,
That it would make ye melt to see their Passions ;
And some as light again, that would content ye.
But I see, Sir, your Temper is too modest,
Too much inclin'd to Contemplation,
To meet with these ?

Ped. You could not please me better ;
And I beseech you, Sir, do me the Honour
To let me wait upon ye.

Gent. Since ye're willing,
To me 't shall be a Pleasure to conduct ye.

Ped. I ne'er had such a mind yet to see Misery.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E VI.

Enter two Keepers.

1 Keep. Carry mad Bess some Meat, she roars like Thunder ;
And tie the Parson short, the Moon's a'th' Full,
H'as a thousand Pigs in's Brains : Who looks to th'
Prentice ?

Keep him from Women, he thinks h'as lost his Mistress ;
And talk of no Silk Stuffs, 'twill run him horn mad.

2 Keep. The Justice keeps such a stir yonder with his Charges,
And such a coil with Warrants.

1 Keep. Take away his Statutes ;
The Devil has possess'd him in the Likness
Of penal Laws ; Keep him from Aqua-vitæ,
For if that Spirit creep into his Quorum,
He will commit us all ; how's it with th' Scholar ?

2 Keep. For any thing I see, he's in his right Wits.

1 Keep. Thou art an Ass ; in's right Wits, goodman Coxcomb ?

As though any Man durst be in's right Wits, and be here.
It is as much as we dare be that keep 'em.

Enter English Madman.

Engl. Give me some Drink.

1 Keep. O, there's the English Man.

Engl. Fill me a thousand Pots, and froth 'em, froth 'em.
Down o' your Knees ye Rogues, and pledge me roundly,
One, two, three, and four;
We shall be all merry within this Hour.
To the great Turk.

1 Keep. Peace, peace, thou heathen Drunkard;
These English are so Malt-mad, there's no meddling with
'em;

When they've a fruitful Year of Barley there,
All the whole Island's thus.

Engl. A Snuff, a Snuff, a Snuff;
A lewd notorious Snuff; give't him again, Boy.

Enter She-fool.

Fool. God-ye-good even, Gaffer.

2 Keep. Who let the Fool loose?

1 Keep. If any of the Madmen take her, she is pepper'd,
They'll bounce her Loins.

Fool. Will ye walk into th' Coal-house?

1 Keep. She is as lecherous too as a She-ferret.

2 Keep. Who a vengeance looks to her? Go, go in, Kate,
I'll give thee a fine Apple.

Fool. Will ye buss me,
And tickle me, and make me Laugh?

1 Keep. I'll whip ye.

Engl. Fool, Fool, come up to me, Fool.

Fool. Are ye peeping?

Engl. I'll get thee with five Fools.

Fool. O fine, O dainty!

Engl. And thou shalt lie in a Horse-cloth, like a Lady.

Fool. And shall I have a Coach?

Engl. Drawn with four Turkeys,
And they shall tread thee too.

Fool. We shall have Eggs then;

And

And shall I sit upon 'em ?

Engl. Ay, ay, and they shall be all addle,
And make an admirable Tansey for the Devil.
Come, come away, I'm taken with thy Love, Fool,
And will mightily belabour thee.

1 Keep. How the Fool bridles! How she twitters at him!
These Englishmen would stagger a wise Woman.
If we should suffer her to have her Will now,
We should have all the Women in Spain as mad as she here.

2 Keep. They would strive who should be most Fool; away with her.

Enter Master, three Gentlemen, a mad Scholar, and Pedro.

Fool. Pray ye stay a little: Let's hear him sing, h'as a fine Breast.

1 Keep. Here comes my Master; to the spit, ye Whore,
And stir no more abroad, but tend your Business;
You shall have no more Sops i' th' Pan else, nor no Porridge:

Besides, I'll whip your Breech.

Fool. I'll go in presently.

1 Gent. I'll assure ye, Sir, the Cardinal's angry with ye
For keeping this young Man.

Mastr. I'm heartily sorry.

If ye allow him sound, pray ye take him with ye.

1 Gent. This is the Place, and now observe their Humours.

2 Gent. We can find nothing in him light, nor tainted;
No Startings, nor no Rubs, in all his Answers;
In all his Letters nothing but Discretion,
Learning, and handsome Stile.

Mastr. Be not deceiv'd, Sir,
Mark but his Look.

1 Gent. His Grief, and his Imprisonment,
May stamp that there.

Mastr. Pray talk with him again then.

2 Gent. That will be needless, we have try'd him long enough,

And if he had a Taint we should have met with't.
Yet to discharge your Care——

Ped. A sober Youth:

Pity so heavy a cross should light upon him.

2 Gent. You find no Sickness?

Schol. None, Sir, I thank Heav'n,

Nor nothing that diverts my Understanding.

1 Gent. Do you sleep a-nights?

Schol. As sound, and sweet, as any Man.

2 Gent. Have ye no fearful Dreams?

Schol. Sometimes, as all have

That go to bed with raw and windy Stomachs ;

Else, I'm all one Piece.

1 Gent. Is there no Unkindness

You have conceiv'd from any Friend or Parent ?

Or Scorn from what ye lov'd ?

Schol. No, truly, Sir :

I never yet was Master of a Faith

So poor, and weak, to doubt my Friend or Kindred ;

And what Love is, unless it lie in Learning,

I think I'm ignorant.

1 Gent. This Man is perfect ;

A civiller Discourser I ne'er talk'd with.

Mast. You'll find it otherwise.

2 Gent. I must tell ye true, Sir,

I think ye keep him here to teach him Madness.

Here's his Discharge from my Lord Cardinal ;

And come, Sir, go with us.

Schol. I'm bound unto ye,

And farewell, Master.

Mast. Farewel, Stephano ;

Alas, poor Man !

1 Gent. What Flaws and Whirles of Weather,

Or rather Storms, have been aloft these three Days ;

How dark, and hot, and full of Mutiny !

And still grows louder.

Mast. 'T has been stubborn Weather.

2 Gent. Strange Work at Sea, I fear me there's old tumbling.

1 Gent. Bless my old Uncle's Bark, I have a Venture.

2 Gent. And I more than I'd wish to lose.

Schol. Do you fear ?

2 Gent. Ha! how he looks ?

Mast.

Mast. Nay, mark him better, Gentlemen.

2 Gent. Mercy upon me, how his Eyes are alter'd!

Mast. Now tell me how you like him; whether now
He be that perfect Man ye credited?

Schol. Does the Sea stagger ye?

Mast. Now ye have hit the Nick.

Schol. Do ye fear the Billows?

1 Gent. What ails him? Who has stirr'd him?

Schol. Be not shaken,

Nor let the finging of the Storm shoot through ye,
Let it blow on, blow on: Let the Clouds wrestle,
And let the Vapours of the Earth turn mutinous,
The Sea in hideous Mountains rise and tumble,
Upon a Dolphin's Back I'll make all tremble,
For I am Neptune.

Mast. Now what think ye of him?

2 Gent. Alas, poor Man!

Schol. Your Bark shall plough through all,
And not a Surge so faucy to disturb her.
I'll see her safe, my Power shall fail before her.

*Down, ye angry Waters all,
Ye loud whistling Whirlwinds, fall:
Down, ye proud Waves, ye Storms, cease;
I command ye, be at Peace.
Fright not with your churlish Notes,
Nor bruise the Keel of Bark that flotes:
No devouring Fish come nigh,
Nor Monster in my Empery
Once shew his Head, or Terror bring;
But let the weary Sailor sing:
Amphitrite with white Arms
Strike my Lute, I'll sing thy Charms.*

Mast. He must have Musick now: I must observe him.
His Fit will grow too full else, [Musick, Song.

2 Gent. I must pity him.

Mast. Now he will in himself most quietly,
And clean forget all, as he had done nothing.

1 Gent. We're sorry, Sir, and we have seen a Wonder;

From this Hour we'll believe, and so we'll leave ye.

[Exeunt two Gentlemen.]

Ped. This was a strange Fit.

Mast. Did ye mark him, Sir?

Ped. He might have cozen'd me with his Behaviour.

Mast. Many have sworn him right, and I have thought so :
Yet on a sudden, from some Word or other,
When no Man could expect a Fit, he'as flown out :
I dare not give him Will.

Enter Alinda.

Ped. Pray Heav'n recover him.

Alin. Must I come in too?

Mast. No, my pretty Lad ;
Keep in thy Chamber, Boy, 'shalt have thy Supper.

Ped. I pray ye what's he, Sir?

Mast. A strange Boy, that last Night
Was found i'th' Town, a little craz'd, distracted,
And so sent hither.

Ped. How the pretty Knave looks,
And plays, and peeps upon me! sure such Eyes
I've seen, and lov'd ; what fair Hands! certainly——

Mast. Good Sir, you'll make him worse.

Ped. I pray believe not.

Alas, why should I hurt him? How he smiles!
The very Shape, and Sweetness of Alinda :
Let me look once again ; were it in such Cloaths
As when I saw her last ; this must be she.
How tenderly it stroaks me!

Mast. Pray ye be mild, Sir?

I must attend elsewhere.

[Exit.]

Ped. Pray ye be secure, Sir,
What would ye say? how my Heart beats and trembles?
He holds me hard by th' Hand ; (27) O my Life, her Flesh
too!

(27) — O my Life, her Flesh too!] Would it not require a prodigious nice Touch, to distinguish the Flesh of any one single Person, whether Man or Woman, from all the World's beside? The Reading I would offer to make this Line more intelligible is this,

—— O my Life, her Blush too!

And who knows but the Poet had these Words of Virgil in his Eye,
Sic Oculos, sic ora ferebat. Æneid 3.

I know not what to think ; her Tears, her true ones ;
Pure orient Tears : Hark, do you know me, little one ?

Alin. O Pedro, Pedro !

Ped. O my Soul !

3 Gent. What Fit's this ?

The Pilgrim's off the Hooks too.

Alin. Let me hold thee,

And now come all the World, and all that hate me.

Ped. Be wise, and not discover'd : O how I love ye!

How do ye now ?

Alin. I have been miserable ;

But your most virtuous Eyes have cur'd me, Pedro :

Pray ye think it no Immodesty, I kiss ye ;

My Head's wild still.

Ped. Be not so full of Passion,

Nor do not hang so greedily upon me,

'Twill be ill taken.

Alin. Are ye weary of me ?

I will hang here eternally, kiss ever,

And weep away for Joy.

Enter Master.

Master. I told ye, Sir,

What ye would do ; for Shame do not afflict him :

You've drawn his Fit upon him fearfully :

Either depart, and presently ; I'll force ye else.

Who waits within ?

Enter two Keepers to fetch them off.

Ped. Alas, good Sir.

Master. This is the way never to hope Recovery.

Stay but one Minute more, I'll complain to th' Governor.

Bring in the Boy ; d' you see how he swells and tears himself ?

Is this your Cure ? Be gone ; if th' Boy miscarry

Let me ne'er find you more, for I'll so hamper ye—

3 Gent. You were to blame, too rash.

Ped. Farewel for ever.

[Exeunt.]

A C T

A C T IV. S C E N E I.

Enter Alphonso, a Gentleman and Julietta.

Gent. YOU are now within a Mile o' th' Town, Sir;
 If my Business
 Would give me Leave, I'd turn and wait upon ye;
 But for such Gentlemen as you enquire of,
 Certain, I saw none such; But for the Boy ye spoke of,
 I will not say 'tis he, but such a one;
 Just of that height.

Alpb. In such Cloaths?

Gent. I much mistake else,
 Was sent in th' other Night, a little maddish
 And where such People wait their Cures.

Alpb. I understand ye.Gent. There you may quickly know.Alpb. I thank ye, Sir.

Jul. So do I too; and if there be such a Place,
 I ask no more; but you shall hear more of me.
 She may be there, and you may play the Tyrant;
 I'll see what I can do. I'm almost foundred
 In following him; and yet I'll never leave him,
 I'll crawl of all four first; my Cause is meritorious,
 And come what can come.

Gent. All you've told me's certain,
 Complexion, and all else.

Alpb. It may be she then;

And I'll so fumble her: Is she grown mad now?
 Is her Blood set so high? I'll have her madded;
 I'll have her worm'd.

Jul. Mark but the end, old Master,
 If thou beest not sick o' th' Bots within these five Hours,
 And kick'st and roar'st—I'll make ye fart Fire, Signior.

Enter Alinda, as a Fool.

Gent. Here's one o' th' House, a Fool, an Idiot, Sir;
 May be she's going home; she'll be a Guide to ye,
 And so I kiss your Hand.

[Exit.Alpb.

Alph. I am your Servant.

Alin. O now I'm lost, lost, lost! Lord, how I tremble!
My Father, arm'd in all his Hates and Angers?
This is more Misery than I have 'scap'd yet.

Alph. Fool! Fool!

Alin. He knows me not. Will ye give me two Pence?
And Gaffer, here's a Crow-Flower, and a Dazie;
I've some Pye in my Pocket too.

Alph. This is an arrant Fool,
An ignorant thing.

Alin. Believe so, and I'm happy.

[Aside.]

Alph. Dost thou dwell in Segovia, Fool?

Alin. No, no, I dwell in Heav'n,
And I have a fine little House, made of Marmalade.
And I am a lone Woman, and I spin for Saint Peter;
I have a hundred little Children, and they sing Psalms with me.

Alph. 'Tis pity this pretty thing should want Understanding.

But why do I stand talking with a Coxcomb?

If I do find her, if I light upon her——

I'll say no more. Is this the way to th' Town, Fool?

Alin. You must go o'er the top of that high Steeple, Gaffer.

Alph. A plague o' your Fool's Face.

Ful. No, take her Counsel.

Alin. And then you shall come to a River twenty Mile over,

And twenty Mile and ten, and then you must pray, Gaffer,
And still you must pray, and pray.

Alph. Pray Heav'n deliver me
From such an Afs, as thou art.

Alin. Amen, sweet Gaffer:

And sling a Sop of Sugar-Cake into it;
And then you must leap in naked.

Ful. Would he would believe her.

Alin. And sink seven Days together; can ye sink,
Gaffer?

Alph. Yes, Coxcomb, yes; prithee farewel; a pox on thee.

A plague o' that Fool too, that set m' upon thee.

Alin. And then I'll bring you a sup of Milk shall serve ye:
I'm going to get Apples.

Alph. Go to th' Devil:

Was ever Man tormented with a Puppy thus?
Thou tell me News? thou be a Guide?

Alin. And then, Nunkle——

Alph. Prithee keep on thy way, good Naunt. I could rail now

These ten Hours at mine own Improvidence:
Get Apples and be choak'd; farewell.

[Exit.

Alin. Farewel, Nuncle.

Jul. I rejoice in any thing that vexes him,
And I shall love this Fool extremely for't:
Could I but see my Mistress now, to tell her
How I have truly, honestly wrought for her,
How I have worn myself away, to serve her——
Fool, there's a Ryal for the Sport thou mad'st me
In crossing that old Fool, that parted from thee.

Alin. Thou'rt honest sure, but yet thou must not see me.
I thank ye, little Gentleman; Heav'n bless ye,
And I'll pray for ye too: Pray ye keep this Nutmeg,
'Twas sent me from the Lady of the Mountain,
A Golden Lady.

Jul. How prettily it prattles.

Alin. 'Tis very good to rub your Understanding.

And so good Night; the Moon's up.

Jul. Pretty Innocent.

Alin. Now Fortune, if thou dar'st do good, protect me.

[Exit.

Jul. I'll foll'w him to yond Town, he shall not 'scape me.
Stay, I must counterfeit a Letter by the way first,
And one that must carry some Credit with it: I am wide
else,

And all this to no purpose that I aim at.

A Letter must be had, and neatly handled;
And then if Goodwife Fortune do not fail me,
Have at his Skirts; I shall worse anger him
Than ever I have done, and worse torment him.
It does me good to think how I shall conjure him

And

And crucify his Crabb'dness : He's my Master ;
 But that's all one, I'll lay that on the left hand.
 He would now persecute my harmless Mistress,
 A Fault without Forgiveness, as I take it ;
 And under (28) that bold Banner flies my Vengeance,
 A meritorious War, and so I'll make it.
 I'th' name of Innocence, what's this the Fool gave me ?
 She said 'twas good to rub my Understanding.
 What strange Concealment ? Bread, or Cheese, or a Chestnut ?
 Ha ! 'tis a Ring, a pretty Ring, a right one ;
 A Ring I know too ! the very same Ring :
 O admirable Blockhead ! O base Eyes !
 A Ring my Mistress took from me, and wore it,
 I know it by the Pofy ; (29) Prick me, and heal me.
 None could deliver this but she herself too ;
 Am I twice Sand-blind ? twice so near the Blessing
 I would arrive at, and block-like ne'er know it ?
 I'm vengeance angry, but that shall light on thee,
 And heavily, and quickly, I pronounce it :
 There are so many cross ways, (30) there's no foll'wing
 her ;
 And yet I must not now. I hope she is right still
 For all her outward Shew, for sure she knew me,
 And in that hope, some few Hours I'll forget her. [Exit.

(28) — that bold Banner flies my Vengeance,] The Discontinuity of the Metaphor makes this Place greatly obscure, we should probably read, — under that bold Banner fights my Vengeance.

(29) — Prick me, and heal me] These Words, by what Mistake I know not, are wanting in the Folio of 1679.

(30) — there's no foll'wing her ;
And yet I must not now. —] The Distraction of Juletta here will be finely expressed if we alter the pointing ;

— there's no following her ; —
And yet I must — not now. I hope, &c.

S C E N E II.

Enter Roderigo, in a Pilgrim's Habit.

Rod. She's not to be recovered, which I vex at;
 And he beyond my Veng'ance, which torments me:
 O! I am fool'd and slighted, made a Rascal;
 (31) My Hopes are flatter'd, as my present Fortunes:
 Why should I wander thus, and play the Coxcomb?
 Tire out my Peace and Pleasure for a Girl?
 A Girl that scorns me too? a thing that hates me?
 And consider'd at the best, 's but a short Breakfast
 For a hot Appetite! Why should I walk, and walk thus,
 And fret myself, and travel like a Carrier,
 And peep, and watch? want Meat and Wine, to cherish
 me,
 When thousand Women may be had, ten thousand,
 And thank me too, and I sit still? Well, trim Beauty
 And Chastity, and all that seem to ruin me,
 Let me not take ye, let me not come near ye,
 For I'll so trim ye, I'll so baffle with ye—
 'Tis not the Name of Virgin shall redeem ye,
 (I'll change that Property :) nor Tears nor Angers,
 I bear a Hate about me scorns those Follies.
 To find this Villain too——for there's my main Prize;
 (32) And if he scape me then——

Enter Alinda.

Alin. Is not that Pedro?
 'Tis he, 'tis he; O!
Rod. What art thou?
Alin. Ha? now, now, now,
 O now most miserable!

(31) My Hopes are flatter'd, as my present Fortunes:] But flatter'd with what? If Disappointments are Flatteries, then the Passage is clear.
 Write without Dispute,

My Hopes are flat as are my present Fortunes.

(32) And if he scape me then——] Thus I read against the Authority of all the Copies who agree in representing the Place so,
 —— snap me then.

Rod.

Rod. What a Devil art thou?

Alin. No end of my Misfortunes, Heav'n?

Rod. What Antick?

Speak, Puppet, speak.

Alin. That Habit to betray me?

Ye holy Saints, can ye see this?

Rod. It danceth:

The Devil in a Fool's Coat, is he turn'd Innocent?

What Mops and Mowes it makes, heigh, how it frisketh,

Is't not a Fairy? or some small Hobgoblin?

It has a mortal Face, and I have a great mind to it,

But if't should prove the Devil then.

Alin. Come hither.

Rod. I think 'twill ravish me;

Is is a handsome thing, but horribly Sun-burnt;

What's that it points at?

Alin. Dost thou see that Star there,

That, just above the Sun?

Prithee go thither, and light me this Tobacco,

And stop it with the Horns o' th' Moon.

Rod. The thing's mad,

Abominably mad, her Brains are butter'd.

Go sleep, Fool, sleep.

Alin. Thou canst not sleep so sweetly:

For so I can say my Prayers, and then slumber.

(33) *I am not proud, nor full of Wine,
This little Flower will make me fine:
Cruel in Heart, for I shall cry,
If I see a Sparrow die:
I am not watchful to do ill,*

(34) *Nor glorious to pursue it still:
Nor pitiless to those that weep;
Such as are, bid them go sleep.*

(33) *I am not proud, nor full of Wine,
This little Flower will make me fine:*

Cruel in Heart, —] The Negative not in the first Line is to be understood here in the third, or the Sense will turn out directly contrary to what she designs.

(34) Nor glorious to pursue —] i. e. Take no Pride, Pleasure in, &c.

Do,

Do, do, do, and see if they can:

Rod. It said true,
I feel it sink into me forcibly.
Sure 'tis a kind of Sibyl, some mad Prophet.
I feel my Wildness bound and fetter'd in me.

Alin. Give me your Hand, and I'll tell you what's your Fortune.

Rod. Here; prithee speak.

Alin. Fie, fie, fie, fie, fie.
Wash your Hands, and pare your Nails, and look finely,
You shall never kiss the King's Daughter else.

Rod. I wash 'em daily.

Alin. But still you foul 'em faster.

Rod. This goes nearer.

Alin. You'll have two Wives.

Rod. Two Wives?

Alin. Ay, two fine Gentlewomen;
Make much of 'em, for they'll stick close to you, Sir.
And these two, in two Days.

Rod. That's a fine Riddle.

Alin. To-day you shall wed Sorrow,
And Repentance will come To-morrow.

Rod. Sure she's inspired.

Alin. I'll sing ye a fine Song, Sir.

*He called down his merry Men all,
By one, by two, by three,
William would fain have been the first,
But now the last is he.*

Rod. 'Tis the meer Chronicle of my Mishaps.

Alin. I'll bid you good-ev'n; for my Boat stays for me yonder,
And I must sup with the Moon to Night in the Mediterranean.
[Exit.]

Rod. When Fools and Mad-folks shall be Tutors to me,
And feel my Sores, yet I unsensible—
Sure it was set by Providence upon me
To steer my Heart right: I am wondrous weary:
My Thoughts too, which add more burden to me:
I have been ill, and, which is worse, pursu'd it,

And

And still run on : I must think better, nobler,
And be another thing, or not at all.

Enter four Peasants.

Still I grow heavier, heavier ; Heav'n defend me !
I'll lie down, and take rest, and Goodness guard me.

1 Pea. We've scap'd to day well ; certain, if the Outlaws
Had known we had been stirring, we had paid for't.

2 Pea. Plague on 'em, they have robb'd me thrice.

3 Pea. And me five times :

Beside they made my Daughter one of us too,
An arrant Drum : O, they're the lewdest Rascals !
The Captain such a damn'd Piece of Iniquity——
But we are far enough off on 'em, that's the best on't,
They cannot hear.

4 Pea. They'll come to me familiarly
And eat up all I have ; drink up my Wine too,
And if there be a Servant that contents 'em,
Let her Keel hold, they'll give her Stowage enough ;
We have no Children now, but Thieves, and Outlaws :
The very Brats
P' their Mothers Bellies have their Qualities,
They'll steal into the World.

1 Pea. Would we had some of 'em here.

2 Pea. Ay, o' that Condition we could master 'em,
They're sturdy Knaves.

3 Pea. A Devil take their Sturdiness,
We can neither keep our Wives from 'em, nor our States,
We pay the Rent, and they possess the Benefit.

1 Pea. What is this lies here ? is it drunk or sober ?
It sleeps and soundly too.

2 Pea. 'Tis an old Woman
That keeps Sheep hereabouts ; it turns and stretches.

4 Pea. Does she keep Sheep with a Sword ?

3 Pea. It has a Beard too.

1 Pea. Peace, peace : It is the Devil Roderigo,
Peace of all hands, and look.

2 Pea. 'Tis he.

3 Pea. Speak softly.

4 Pea. Now we may fit him.

4 Pea. Stay, stay ; let's be provident.

1 Pea. Kill him, and wake him then.

4 Pea. Let me come to him,

Ev'n one Blow at his Pate, if e'er he wake more.

3 Pea. So, so, so, lay that by.

2 Pea. I must needs kill him.

It stands with my Reputation.

3 Pea. Stand off, I say :

And let us some way make him sure ; then torture him.

To kill him presently, has no Pleasure in't.

H'as been tormenting of us, at least this Twelvemonth.

Rod. Oh me!

All. He comes, he comes.

4 Pea. Has he no Guns about him?

3 Pea. Softly again : No, no ; take that Hand easily,
And tie it fast here, that to th' other Bough there.

Fast, fast, and easy, lest he wake.

2 Pea. Have we got ye?

This was a Benefit we never aim'd at.

3 Pea. Out with your Knives, and let us carve this Cock-thief,

Daintily carve him.

1 Pea. I would h'had been used thus

Ten Years ago, we might have thought we had Children.

3 Pea. O, that (35) Sir Nicholas now our Priest were here,

What a sweet Homily would he say over him,

For ringing all in, with his Wife i'th' Belfry!

He would stand up stiff girt : Now pounce him lightly,

And as he rores, and rages, let's go deeper ;

Come near, you are dim-ey'd, on with your Spectacles.

Rod. O, what torments me thus? What Slaves, what Villains?

O spare me, do not murder me.

3 Pea. We'll but tickle ye.

You've tickled us at all Points.

4 Pea. Where are his Emblems?

(35) — Sir Nicholas now our Priest, &c.] Sir was a Title given (formerly) to any Clergyman under the degree of a Doctor. The Reader can't but observe the great Impropriety which the next Line but one contains, the Scene lying not in England but Spain.

Enter

Enter Pedro:

Rod. As y' are Men, and Christians.

2 Pea. Yes, we hear ye,
And you shall hear of us too.

Rod. Oh! no Mercy?

Ped. What Noise is this? What Roar? I cannot find her,
She is got free again; but where, or which way?

Rod. O Villains, Beasts!

Ped. Murd'ring a Man, ye Rascals?
Y' inhuman Slaves, off, off, and leave this Cruelty,
Or as I am a Gentleman—Do ye brave me?
Then have among ye all, ye Slaves, ye Cowards;
Take up that Sword, and stand: [To Roderigo.] Stay, ye base Rascals,
Ye cut-throat Rogues——

All. Away, away. [Exeunt Peasants.]

Ped. Ye Dog-whelps.

Rod. O! I am now more wretched far, than ever. [Aside.]

Ped. A Violence to that Habit? Ha? Roderigo?
What makes he here, thus clad? Is it Repentance,
(36) Or only a fair Shew to guild his Mischiefs?

Rod. This Benefit has made me shame to see him,
To know him, blush.

Ped. You are not much hurt?

Rod. No, Sir;
All I can call a Hurt, sticks in my Conscience,
That pricks and tortures me.

Ped. Have ye consider'd
The Nature of these Men, and how they us'd ye?
Was it fair Play? Did it appear t' you handsome?

Rod. I dare not speak: Or if I do, 'tis nothing
Can bring me off, or justify me. Ped. Was it

(36) Or only a fair Shew to guide his Mischiefs? In this Blunder do all the Copies agree, yet that general Consent can't incline me to think the Passage sound. A Disguise is not us'd as a Guide, but a Cover or Colour, and so it ought to be here. There are several ways of correcting this Place, as Hide, 'Sguise, i. e. Disguise: But I like (as Mr. Seward too directed) Guild the best, there being great reason to believe that to be the original Reading, from what the Edition of 1679 exhibits, tho' corruptly, —— fair Shew to guile his Mischiefs.

Noble to be o'er-lay'd with odds, and Violence?
 Manly, or brave in these, thus to oppress ye?
 D' you blush at this, in such as are mere Rudeness?
 That have stopt Souls, that never knew things gentle?
 And dare you glorify worse in yourself, Sir?
 Ye us'd me with much Honour, and I thank ye,
 In this I have requited some; ye know me:
 Come turn not back, ye must and ye shall know me;
 Had I been over-season'd with base Anger,
 And suited all Occasions to my Mischiefs,
 Bore no respect to Honesty, Religion;
 No Faith, no common Tie of Man, Humanity,
 Had I had in me, but giv'n Reins, and Licence
 To a tempestuous Will, as wild as Winter,
 This Day, know, Roderigo, I had set
 As small a Price upon thy Life, and Fortunes,
 As thou didst lately on mine Innocence;
 But I reserve thee to a nobler Service.

Rod. I thank ye, and I'll study more to honour ye;
 You have the nobler Soul, I must confess it,
 And are the greater Master of your Goodness.
 Though't be impossible I should now recover
 And my rude Will grow handsome, in an instant,
 Yet touching but the Pureness of your Metal,
 Something shall shew like Gold, at least shall glister;
 That Men may hope, although the Mine be rugged,
 Stony and hard to work, yet Time, and Honour
 Shall find and bring forth that, that's rich and worthy.

Ped. I'll try that; and to th' purpose. Ye told me, Sir,
 In noble Emulation, so I take it,
 (I'll put your Hatred far off, and forget it;)
 You had a fair Desire to try my Valour:
 You seem'd to court me to 't; you've found a time,
 A Weapon in your Hand, an equal Enemy,
 That, as he puts this off, puts off all Injuries,
 And only now for Honour's sake defies ye:
 Now, as you are a Man, I know you're valiant,
 As you're gentle bred, a Soldier fashion'd——

Rod. His Virtue startles me; I dare fight, Pedro.

Ped. And as you have a Mistress that you honour,

Mark

Mark me, a Mistres—

Rod. Ha?

Ped. A handsome Mistres;

As you dare hold yourself deserving of her—

Rod. Deserving? What a Word was that to fire me?

Ped. I could compel ye now without this Circumstance,
But I'll deal free and fairly, like a Gentleman:
As ye are worthy of the Name ye carry,
A daring Man—

Rod. O that I durst not suffer;
For all I dare do now, implies but Penance.

Ped. Now do me noble Right.

Rod. I'll satisfy ye;

(37) But not by th' Sword: Pray ye hear me, and allow me.

I have been rude; but shall I be a Monster,
And teach my Sword to hurt that that preserv'd me?
Though I be rough by Nature, shall my Name
Inherit that eternal Stain of Barbarous?

Give me an Enemy, a thing that hates ye,
That never heard of yet, nor felt your Goodness,
(That is one main Antipathy to Sweetness,)

And set me on, you cannot hold me Coward;

(38) If I have ever err'd, 't has been in hazard:

The Temper of my Sword starts at your Virtue
And will fly off, nay it will weep (39) to light ye;

Things

(37) But not by th' Word:—] The Copy of 1647 has drop'd a Letter, which that of 1679 has luckily pick'd up, and reads the Text, as it doubtless was wrote primitively,

But not by the Sword:—

Thus Mr. Seward too saw the Place should run.

(38) If I have err'd, 't has been in hazard:] When a Line is evidently mangled, and has lost Words absolutely necessary to its meaning, the whole that one can hope is to recover the Sentiment; and if we miss that, to put one in its stead that may not at least disgrace the Context: I hope the following Conjecture will be thought probable,

If I have err'd shall thy Life be in hazard?

i. e. It is just that for my Crimes my Life should be in hazard, but surely not yours, whose Virtue would charm things inanimate, and make my Sword start back on its Master. Mr. Seward.

(39) ——— to light ye;] We have here either an Ellipsis or a Corruption; the one will be filled up easier than the other amended:
As to the first, to make the Sense easy the Words ought to run so,

———— to light on ye;

Things excellently mingled, and of pure Nature,
Hold sacred Love and Peace with one another.
See how it turns!

Ped. This is a strange Conversion:
And can ye fail your Mistress? Can ye grow cold
In such a Case?

Rod. Those Heats that they add to us,
O noble Pedro, let us feel 'em rightly,
And rightly but consider how they move us.

Ped. Is not their Honour ours?

Rod. If they be virtuous;
And then the Sword adds nothing to their Lustre,
But rather calls in question what's not doubted:
If they be not, the best Swords and best Valours
Can never fight 'em up to Fame again,
No, not a Christian War, and that's held Pious.

Ped. How bravely now he's temper'd! I must fight,
And rather make it honourable, than angry;
I would not task those Sins to me committed.

Rod. You cannot, Sir, you've cast those by, discarded 'em,
And in a noble Mind, so low and loosely
To look back, and collect such Lumps, and lick 'em
Into new horrid Forms again——

Ped. Still braver.

Rod. To fight, because I dare, were worse, and weaker
Than if I had a Woman in my Cause, Sir,
And more proclaim'd me Fool; yet I must confess
I have been covetous of all Occasions,

This Mr. Seward saw as well as myself; but if the Reader is not satisfied with it he may read,

—— to pight ye:

i. e. strike. So Chaucer, in his Squire's Tale, l. 488. speaking of a Falcon, has these Lines,

*And evir and anon she cry'd, and shrigh't,
And with her Bek herself in so she pight.*

But, upon second Thoughts, this I am afraid will not be Grammar, unless pight could be found either in the Present Tense Indicative or Infinitive. What I like best, supposing a Corruption, is to read the Passage thus,

—— will weep to flight ye;

i. e. cut, wound, &c. from the A. S. Slitan, scindere, lacerare.

And

And this I have taken upon trust, for Noble,
The more shame mine; devise a way to fight thus,
That like the wounded Air no Blood may Issue,
Nor where this Sword shall enter, no lost Spirit,
And set me on; I would not scar that Body,
That virtuous, valiant Body, nor deface it,
To make the Kingdom mine: If one must bleed,
Let me be both the Sacrifice, and Altar,
And you the Priest; I have deserv'd to suffer.

Ped. The noble Roderigo, now I call ye;
And thus my Love shall ever count, and hold ye.

Rod. I am your Servant, Sir, and now this Habit,
Devotion, not Distrust shall put upon me.
I'll wait upon your Fortunes, that's my way now,
And where you grieve, or joy, I'll be a Partner.

Ped. I thank ye, Sir, I shall be too proud of ye;
O I could tell ye strange things!

Rod. I guess at 'em,
And I could curse myself, I made 'em stranger;
Yet my Mind says, you are not far from Happiness.

Ped. It shall be welcome; come, let's keep us thus still,
And be as we appear, Heav'n's Hand may bless us.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E III.

Enter Alphonso, Master, and two Keepers.

Mastr. Yes, Sir, here be such People: But how pleasing
They will appear to you——

Alph. Pray let me see 'em;
I come to that end, pray let me see 'em all.

Mastr. They will confound ye, Sir, like Bells rung backward;
They're nothing but Confusion, and meer Noises.

Alph. May be I love a Noise; but hark ye, Sir,
Have ye no Boys, handsome young Boys?

Mastr. Yes one, Sir,
A very handsome Boy.

Alph. Long here?

Mastr. But two Days;

A little craz'd, but much hope of Recovery.

Alpb. Ay, that Boy let me see, may be I know him;
That Boy, I say; this is the Boy he told me of,
And it must needs be she: that Boy I beseech ye, Sir,
That Boy I come to see.

Mast. And ye shall see him,
Or any else, but pray be not too violent.

Alpb. I know what to do, I warrant ye; I am for all Fancies,
I can talk to 'em, and dispute.

1 Keep. As madly,
For they be very mad, Sir.

Alpb. Let 'em be horn mad.

2 Keep. We have few Citizens, they've Bedlams of their own, Sir,
And are mad at their own Charges.

Alpb. Who lies here?

Mast. Pray ye don't disturb 'em, Sir, here lie such Youths

Will make you start if they but dance their Trenchmores.
Fetch out the Boy, Sirrah: Hark! [Exit Keeper.]

Alpb. Heigh Boys.

[Shake Irons within. English Madman, Scholar, Parson.

Engl. Bounce,

Clap her o'th' Star-board, bounce, top the Can, Jenkin.

Schol. Dead ye Dog, dead: D' ye quarrel in my Kingdom?

Give me my Trident.

Engl. Bounce, 'twixt Wind and Water,
Loaden with Mackrels: O brave Meat!

Schol. My Sea-horfes!

I'll charge the Northern-Wind, and break his Bladder.

Par. I'll sell my Bells, before I be out-brav'd thus.

Alpb. What's he? What's he?

Mast. A Parson, Sir, a Parson,
That run mad for Tythe-Goslings.

Alpb. Green Sauce cure him.

Par. I'll curse ye all, I'll excommunicate ye:
Thou English Heretick, give me the tenth Pot.

Engl. Sue me, I'll drink up all; bounce I say once more.

O,

O, have I split your Mizen? Blow, blow, thou West-
Wind,

(40) Blow till thou rive, and make the Sea run roaring.
I'll hiss it down again with a Bottle of Ale.

Schol. Triton! why Triton!

Engl. Triton's drunk with Metheglin.

Schol. Strike, strike the Surges, strike.

Engl. Drink, drink, 'tis Day-light;

Drink, didle, didle, didle, drink Parson, proud Parson:

A Pig's Tail in thy Teeth, and I defy thee.

Par. Give me some Porridge, or I'll damn thee, English.

Alph. How comes this English Madman here?

Mast. Alas,

That's no Question, they're mad ev'ry where, Sir;
Their Fits are cool now, let 'em rest.

Enter Keeper and She-fool.

Alph. Mad Gallants,

Most (41) admirably mad, I love their Fancies.

1 Keep. Ye stinking Whore, who knew of this? who look'd to him?

Fox take him, he was sleepy when I left him.

2 Keep. Certain he made the Fool drunk.

Mast. How now, who's this here?

Where is the Boy?

(40) Blow till thou rive, —] This is a manifest copying from Shakespear's Boatswain in the Tempest,

Blow till thou burst thy Wind, if Room enough.

Which Passage is not Sense as it stands, but ought to be alter'd thus,

Blow till thou burst thee, Wind, &c.

By which Reading he (Boatswain) addresses the Wind as a Person, and the Sentence acquires a Dignity which it had not before.

(41) — admirably mad, I love their Faces] Alphonso must be near as mad as the Folks here in Bedlam to talk thus: Read,

———— I love their Fancies.

So in Act 3. Scene 5. the Gentleman describing this Place to Pedro, says,

———— ———— 'tis a House

Where People of all sorts, that have been visited

With Lunacies and Follies, wait their Cures;

Their Fancies of a thousand Stamps and Fashions, &c.

1 Keep.

Keep. The Boy, Sir?

Maſt. Ay, the Boy, Sir.

Keep. Here's all the Boys we found.

Maſt. Theſe are his Cloaths,
But where's the Boy?

Fool. The Boy is gone a Maying,
He'll bring me home a Cuckow's Neſt; d' ye hear, Maſter?
I put my Cloaths off, and I dizen'd him,
And pin'd a Plumb in's Forehead, and a Feather,
And buſ'd him twice, and bid him go ſeek his Fortune:
He gave me this fine Money, and fine Wine too,
And bid me ſop, and gave me theſe trim Cloaths too,
And put 'em on.

Alph. Is this the Boy you'd ſhew?

Fool. I'll give you Two-pence, Maſter.

Alph. Am I fool'd of all ſides?

I met a Fool i'th' Woods, they ſaid ſhe dwelt here,
In a long pied Coat.

Maſt. That was the very Boy, Sir.

Fool. Ay, ay, I gave him leave to play forſooth;
He'll come again To-morrow, and bring Peſcods.

Maſt. I'll bring your Bones——

Alph. Pox o' your Fools, and Bedlams,
Plague o' your Owls and Apes.

Maſt. Pray ye, Sir, be tamer,
We cannot help this preſently; but we ſhall know;
I'll recompence your Care too.

Alph. Know me a Pudding:
You juggle, and ye fiddle, fart upon ye,
I am abuſed.

Maſt. Pray ye, Sir.

Enter Welch Madman.

Alph. And I will be abuſed, Sir,
And you ſhall know I am abuſed.

Welſh. Whaw, Mr. Keeper.

Alph. Pox o' thy Whaws, and thy Whims,
Pox o' thy Urſhip.

Welſh.

Welsh. Give me some Ceeze and Onions, give me some Wash-brew,

I have——in my Bellies, give me Abundance;
Pendragon was a Shentleman, marg you, Sir,
And the Organs at Rixum were made by Revelations;
There is a Spirit blows, and blows the Bellows,
And then they sing.

Alph. What Moon-calf's this? what Dream?

Mast. Pray ye, Sir, observe him,
He is a Mountaineer, a Man of Goatland.

Welsh. I will beat thy Face as black as a blue Clout,
I will leave no more Sheet in thine Eyes.

Mast. He will not hurt ye.

Welsh. Give me a great deal of Guns: thou art the Devils,

I know thee by thy Tails: Poor Owen's hungry,
I will pig thy Bums full of Bullets.

Alph. This is the rarest Rascal,
He speaks as if he had Butter-milk in's Mouth;
Is this any thing akin to th' English?

Mast. The elder Brother, Sir,
He run mad because a Rat eat up's Cheefe:

Alph. H'ad a great deal of Reason, Sir.

Welsh. Besar las manos, is for an old Cod-piece, mark ye,
I will borrow thy Urship's Whore to seal a Letter.

Mast. Now he grows villanous.

Alph. Methinks he's best now.

Mast. Away with him.

Alph. He shall not.

Mast. Sir, he must.

Welsh. I will sing, and dance, do any thing.

Alph. Wilt thou declaim in Greek?

Mast. Away with the Fool,
And whip her soundly, Sirrah.

Fool. I'll tell no more Tales:

[Exit.

Alph. Or wilt thou fly i' th' Air?

Engl. Do, and I'll catch thee,
And like a Wisp of Hay, I'll whirle, and whirle thee,
And puff thee up, and puff thee up.

Schol.

Schol. I'll save thee,
And thou shalt fall into the Sea, soft, softly.

Welsh. I'll get upon a Mountain and call my Countrymen.

Mast. They all grow wild; away with 'em for Heav'n sake.

Sir, ye are much to blame.

Alph. No, no, 'tis brave, Sir.

Ye've cozen'd me; I'll make you mad.

Mast. In with him,
And lock him fast.

Alph. I'll see him in his Lodging.

Mast. What means this Gentleman?

[Exit.

Enter Juletta.

Jul. He's in; have at him.

Are you the Master, Sir?

Mast. What would you with him?

Jul. I have a Business from the Duke of Medina;
Is there not an old Gentleman come lately in?

Mast. Yes, and a wild one too; but not a Prisoner.

Jul. Did you observe him well? 'tis like he may be.

Mast. I have seen younger Men of better Temper.

Jul. You have hit the Cause I come for; there's a Letter,

Pray ye peruse it well. I shall be wi' ye,

And suddenly, I fear not; finely, daintily;

I shall so feed your fierce Vexation,

And raise your Worship's Storms; I shall so niggle ye,

And juggle ye, and fiddle ye, and firk ye,

I'll make ye curse the Hour ye vex'd a Woman;

I'll make ye shake, when our Sex are but founded:

For the Lord's sake, we shall have him at; I long to see it,

As much as for my Wedding-night; I gape after it.

Mast. This Letter says the Gentleman is Lunatick,
I half suspected it.

Jul. 'Tis very true, Sir,

And such Pranks he has play'd.

Mast. He's some great Man,

The

The Duke commands me with such Care to look to him ;
And if he grow too violent to correct him,
To use the speediest means for his Recovery,
And those he must find sharp.

Jul. The better for him.

Mast. How got y' him hither?

Jul. With a Train, I told him :
He's in love with a Boy, there lies his Melancholy.

Mast. Hither he came to seek one.

Jul. Yes, I sent him ;
Now had we dealt by force, we'd never brought him.

Mast. Here was a Boy.

Jul. He saw him not ?

Mast. He was gone first.

Jul. It is the better ; look you to your Charge well ;
I'll see him lodged, for so the Duke commanded me ;
He will be very rough.

Mast. We're us'd to that, Sir,
And we as rough as he, if he give occasion.

Jul. (42) You will find him gainful, but be sure ye curb him,
And get him if ye can fairly t' his Lodging ;
I am afraid ye will not.

Enter Alphonso.

Mast. We must sweat then.

Alpb. What dost thou talk to me of Noises? I'll have more Noise,
I'll have all loose, and all shall play their Prizes ;
Thy Master has let loose the Boy I look'd for,
Safely convey'd him hence.

Keep. Will ye go out, Sir?

Alpb. I will not out, I will have all out with me,
I'll have thy Master in ; he's only mad here. [Shake Irons.
And Rogues, I'll have y' all whipt ; heigh, mad Boys, mad Boys.

Jul. Do you perceive him now ?

(42) You will find him gainful, —] i. e. wayward, resty, &c.

Mast.

Mast. 'Tis too apparent.

Jul. I'm glad she's gone; he raves thus.

Mast. Do you hear, Sir,

Pray will ye make less stir, and see your Chamber;
Call in more help, and make the Closet ready.

Keep. I thought he was mad; I'll have one long Lash at ye.

Alpb. My Chamber? where my Chamber? why my Chamber?

Where's the young Boy?

Mast. Nay, pray ye, Sir, be more modest
For your own Credit sake; the People see ye,
And I would use ye with the best.

Alpb. Best? hang ye,
What dost thou think me mad?

Mast. Pray, and be civil,
Heav'n may deliver ye.

Alpb. Into a Rogue's Hands.

Mast. You do but draw more Misery upon ye,
And add to your Disease.

Alpb. Get from me.

Mast. No, Sir,
You must not be left so; bear yourself civilly,
And 'twill be better for ye; swell not, nor chafe not.

Alpb. I am a Gentleman, and a Neighbour, Rascal.

Mast. A great deal the more pity, I have heard of ye.

Jul. Excellent Master.

Mast. The Duke is very tender too.

Alpb. Am I a Lunatick? am I run mad?
What dost thou talk to me of Dukes and Devils?
Why do the People gape so?

Mast. Do not anger 'em,
But go in quietly, and slip in softly,
They will so tew ye else; I am commanded, Sir.

Alpb. Why, prithee, why?

Mast. Ye're Dog-mad, yet perceive 't not,
Very far mad, and Whips will scant recover ye.

Alpb. Ha, Whips?

Mast. Ay, Whips, and fore Whips, and ye were a Lord, Sir,

If ye be stubborn here.

Alpb. Whips? what am I grown?

Ful. O I could burst; hold, hold, hold, hold o' both ends;
How he looks! pray Heav'n he be not mad indeed.

Alpb. I don't perceive I'm so, but if you think it—
Nor I'll be hang'd if't be so.

Mast. Do you see this, Sir? [Irons brought in.]
Down with that Devil in ye.

Alpb. Indeed I'm angry,
But I'll contain myself: O I could burst now,
And tear myself; but these Rogues will torment me.
Mad in my old Days? make mine own Afflictions?

Mast. What do you mutter, Sir?

Alpb. Nothing, Sir, nothing;
I will go in, and quietly, most civilly:
And good Sir,

Let none of your Tormentors come about me;
You have a gentle Face, they look like Dragons.

Mast. Be civil and be safe; come, for these two Days
Ye must eat nothing neither; 'twill ease your Fits, Sir.

Alpb. 'Twill starve me, Sir; but I must bear it joyfully.
I may sleep?

Mast. Yes, a little; go in with these Men.

Alpb. O miserable me!

[Exit.]

Mast. I'll follow presently.
You see 'tis done, Sir.

Ful. Ye have done it handsomely,
And I'll inform the Duke so: Pray y' attend him,
Let him want nothing, but his Will.

Mast. He shall not,
And if he be rebellious—

Ful. Never spare him:
H'as Flesh, and Hide enough, he loves a Whipping.

Mast. My Service to his Grace.

[Exit.]

Ful. I shall commend it.
So thou art fast; I must go get some fresh Room
To laugh and caper in: O how it tickles me!
O how it tumbles me with Joy! Thy Mouth's stopt:
Now if I can do my Mistress good, I'm Sainted.

[Exit.]

A C T

A C T V. S C E N E I.

Enter Seberto and Curio.

Seb. NOW o' my Conscience, we have lost him utterly;
He's not gone home, we heard from thence this Morning;

And since our parting last at Roderigo's,
You know what Ground we've travel'd.

Cur. He's asleep sure:

For if h'ad been awake, we should have met with him:
Faith let's turn back, we've but a fruitless Journey;

And to hope further of Alinda's Recovery,
(For sure she'll rather perish than return)

(43) Is but to seek a Moth i'th' Sun.

Seb. We'll on sure;

Something we'll know, some Cause of all this Fooling,
Make some Discovery.

Cur. Which way shall we cast then?

For all the Champian Country, and the Villages,
And all those sides——

Seb. We'll cross these Woods awhile then:

Here if we fail, we'll gallop to Segovia,

And if we light of no News there, hear nothing,

We'll ev'n turn fairly home, and coast the other side.

Cur. He may be sick, or fall'n into some Danger;
He has no Guide, nor no Man to attend him.

Seb. He's well enough, he has a travell'd Body,

And though he be old, he's tough, and will endure well;

But he's so violent to find her out,

That his Anger leads him a thousand wild Goose Chases:

I'll warrant he is well.

Cur. Shall we part Company?

Seb. By no means, no; that were a fullen Business:

(43) Is but to seek a Moth i' th' Sun.] Mr. Theobald has a Correction here which I think myself oblig'd to communicate to the Reader, tho' I have not ventur'd to insert it in the Text;

————— to seek a Moat i' th' Sun.

No Pleasure in our Journey : Come, let's cross here first,
And where we find the Paths, let them direct us. [Exeunt.]

S C E N E II.

Enter Juletta and Alinda.

Jul. Why are you still so fearful of me, Lady?
So doubtful of my Faith, and honest Service?
To hide yourself from me, to fly my Company?
Am I not yours? All yours? By this Light you shake still;
Do ye suspect me false? Did I e'er fail ye?
D' you think I am corrupted, base, and treacherous?
Lord, how ye look! Is not my Life ty'd to ye?
And all the Power I have to serve, and honour ye?
Still do ye doubt? still am I terrible?
I will not trouble ye: Good Heav'n preserve ye,
And send ye what ye wish: I will not see ye,
Nor once remember I had such a Mistress,
I will not speak of ye, nor name Alinda,
For fear you should suspect I would betray ye:
Goodness and Peace conduct ye.

Alin. Prithee pardon me,
I know thou'rt truly faithful; and thou'rt welcome,
A welcome Partner to my Miseries;
Thou know'st I love thee too.

Jul. I've thought so, Lady.

Alin. Alas, my Fears have so distracted me
I durst not trust myself.

Jul. Come, pray ye think better,
And cast those by; at least consider, Lady,
How to prevent 'em; pray ye put off this Fool's Coat,
Though it have kept ye secret for a Season,
'Tis known now, and will betray ye; your arch Enemy
Roderigo is abroad; many are looking for ye.

Alin. I know it, and those many I have cozen'd.

Jul. You cannot still thus.

Alin. I've no means to shift it.

Jul. I have, and shift you too. I lay last Night
At a poor Widow's House here in the Thicket,

Whither I will conduct ye, and new shape ye,
Myself too to attend ye.

Alin. What Means hast thou?

For mine are gone.

Jul. Fear not, enough to serve ye;
I came not out so empty.

Alin. Prithee tell me,
(For thou hast struck a kind of Comfort through me,)
When saw'st thou Roderigo?

Jul. Ev'n this Morning,
And in these Woods: Take heed, h'as got a new Shape.

Alin. The Habit of a Pilgrim? Yes, I know it,
And I hope shall prevent it; was he alone?

Jul. No, Madam, and which made me wonder mightily,
He was in Compay with that handsome Pilgrim,
That sad sweet Man.

Alin. That I forgot to give to?

Jul. The same, the very same, that you so pitied;
A Man as fit to suit his Villanies——

Alin. And did they walk together?

Jul. Wondrous civilly.

Alin. Talk, and discourse?

Jul. I think so, for I saw 'em
Make many Stands, and then embrace each other.

Alin. The Pilgrim is betray'd, a Judas dwells with him,
(44) A Simon, that will seem a Saint to choak him.
Canst thou but shew me this?

Jul. Lord how she trembles!
Not thus, for all the World, ye are undone then;
But let's retire, and alter, then we'll walk free;
And then I'll shew ye any thing.

Alin. Come, good Wench,
And speedily, for I have strange Faiths working,
As strange Fears too, I'll tell thee all my Life then.

Jul. Come quick, I will conduct ye, and still serve ye,
And do not fear; hang Fear, it spoils all Projects.

This way, I'll be your Guide. [Exeunt.]

(44) A Simon,—] The Text from the Edition of 1679.

S C E N E II.

Enter Governor, Verdugo, and Citizens.

Gov. Use all your Sports, all your Solemnities ;
'Tis the King's Day To-morrow,
His Birth-day, and his Marriage, a glad Day,
A Day we ought to honour, all.

1 Cit. We will, Sir,
And make Segovia ring with our Rejoicings.

Gov. Be sumptuous, but not riotous ; be bounteous,
But not in drunken Bacchanals ; free to all Strangers,
Easy and sweet in all your Entertainments,
For 'tis a Royal Day, admits no Rudeness.

2 Cit. Your Lordship
Will do us th' Honour to be here yourself,
And grace the Day ?

Gov. 'Tis a main part of my Service.

1 Cit. I hope your Honour
Has taken into your Consideration
The Miseries we have suffer'd by these Outlaws,
The Losses, hourly Fears ; the rude Abuses,
Strangers that travel to's are daily loaden with ;
Our Daughters and our Wives Complaints.

Gov. I'm sorry for't,
And have Commission from the King to ease it :
You shall not be long vext.

1 Cit. Had we not Walls, Sir,
And those continually mann'd too with our Watches,
We should not have a Bit of Meat to feed us.
And yet they are our Friends, and we must think so,
And entertain 'em so sometimes, and feast 'em,
And send 'em loaden home too, we are lost else.

2 Cit. They'll come to Church 'mongst us, as we hope,
Christians,
When all their Zeal is but to steal the Chalice ;
'At this good time now, if your Lordship were not here,
To awe their Violence, with your Authority,
They'd play such Gambols.

Gov. Are they grown so heady?

2 Cit. They'd drink up all our Wine, piss out our Bonfires;

Then, like the drunken Centaurs, have at th' fairest, Nay, have at all; Four-score and ten's a Goddess, Whilst we, like Fools, stand shaking in our Cellars.

Gov. Are they so fierce upon so little Sufferance?

I'll give 'em such a Purge, and suddenly——

Verdugo, after this Solemnity is over

Call on me for a Charge of Men, of good Men, (To see what House these Knaves keep,) of good Soldiers, As sturdy as themselves; that dare dispute with 'em, Dare walk the Woods as well as they, as fearless, But with a better Faith belabour 'em; I'll know what Claim they have to their Possession.

'Tis pity of their Captain, Roderigo,

A well-bred Gentleman, and a good Soldier,

And one his Majesty has some little Reason

To thank for sundry Services, and fair ones;

That long Neglect bred this. I'm sorry for him.

Ver. The hope of his Estate keeps back his Pardon; There's divers Wasps that buz about that Honey-Box, And long to lick themselves full.

Gov. True, Verdugo,

Would he had but the Patience to discern it, And Policy to wipe their Lips.

Ver. To fetch him in, Sir,

By Violence, he being now no Infant,

Will ask some bloody Crowns. I know his People

Are of his own Choice, Men that will not totter

Nor blench much at a Bullet; I know his Order;

And though he have no Multitude, h'as Manhood;

The elder Twin to that too, staid Experience.

But if he must be forc'd, Sir,——

Gov. There's no Remedy,

Unless he come himself.

Verd. That will be doubtful.

Did you ne'er hear yet of the noble Pedro?

Gov. I cannot by no Means; I think he's dead sure;

The

The Court bewails much his untimely Loss:
The King himself laments him.

Verd. He was sunk;
And if he be dead, he dy'd happily;
He buried all he had in the King's Service,
And lost himself.

Gov. Well, if he be alive, Captain,
(As hope still speaks the best) I know the King's Mind
So inwardly and full, he will be happy.
Come, to this Preparation; when that's done,
The Outlaws Expedition is begun.

Cit. We'll contribute all to that, and help ourselves too.

[Exeunt.

S C E N E IV.

Enter Roderigo and Pedro.

Rod. How sweet these solitary Places are! How wantonly
The Wind blows through the Leaves, and courts, and plays with 'em!

Will ye sit down, and sleep? The Heat invites ye.
Hark how yond purling Stream dances, and murmurs,
The Birds sing softly too; pray take some Rest, Sir.
I would fain wooe his Fancy to a Peace,
It labours high and hastily upon him:
Pray ye sit, and I'll sit by.

Ped. I cannot sleep, Friend,
I have those Watches here admit no Slumbers,
Saw ye none yet?

Lop. No Creature.

Ped. What strange Musick
Was that we heard 'far off?

Rod. I cannot guess;
'Twas loud, and shrill: Sometimes it shew'd hard by us,
And by and by the Sound fled as the Wind does;
Here's no Inhabitants,

Ped. It much delighted me.

Rod. They talk of Fairies, and such Demi-Devils,
This is as fine a Place to dance their Gambols.—

Ped. Methought I heard a Voice. [Musick and Birds.]

Rod. They can sing admirably,
They never lose their Maiden-heads: I would fool any away

To make him merry now; methinks yond Rocks yonder
Shew like enchanted Cells, where they inhabit.

[Musick afar off. Pot Birds.]

Ped. 'Tis here again, hark, gentle Roderigo,
Hark, hark: O sweet, sweet, how the Birds record too!
Mark how it flies now ev'ry way, O Love!
In such a Harmony art thou begotten,
In such soft Air, so gentle, lull'd and nourish'd,
O my best Mistress!

Rod. How he weeps! Dear Heav'n,
Give him his Heart's Content, and me forgive too.
I must melt too.

Ped. The Birds sing louder, sweeter,
And every Note they emulate one another!
Lie still and hear: These when they've done their Labours,

Enter Alinda and Julietta, like old Women.

Their pretty Airs, fall to their Rests, enjoy 'em.
Nothing rocks Love asleep, but Death.

Rod. Who're these?

Ped. What?

Rod. Those there, those, those things that come upon us,
Those grandam things, those strange Antiquities.
Did not I say these Woods begot strange Wonders?

Jul. Now ye may view 'em.

Alin. Ha?

Jul. The Men ye long'd for,
Here they are both: Now ye may boldly talk with 'em,
And ne'er be guess'd at; be n't afraid, nor faint not;
They wonder at us; let's maintain that wonder;
Shake not, but what ye purpose do discreetly,
And from your Tongue I'll take my Part.

Alin. Ha?

Jul. There,
Before ye, there; do not turn Coward, Mistress,

If

If ye do love, carry your Love out handsomely.

Alin. 'Tis he and Roderigo: What a Peace Dwells in their Faces, what a friendly Calm Crowns both their Souls?

Rod. They show as they were mortal; They come upon us still.

Ped. Be not afraid, Man, Let 'em be what they will, they cannot hurt us.

Rod. That thing i' th' Button'd-Cap looks terribly. She has Guns in her Eyes, the Devil's Engineer.

Ped. Come, stand, and let's go meet 'em.

Rod. Go you first.

I have less Faith: When I have said my Prayers——

Ped. There needs no Fear. Hail reverend Dames.

Alin. Good Even, What do ye seek?

Ped. We would seek happier Fortunes.

Rod. That little Devil has main need of a Barber, What a trim Beard she has? [Aside.]

Alin. Seek 'em, and make 'em,
Lye not still, (45) nor longer here,
Here inhabits nought but Fear.

Be constant good, in Faith be clear:
Fortune will wait ye every where.

Ped. Whither should we go? for we believe thy Reverence,

And next obey.

Alin. Go to Segovia,
And there before the Altar pay thy Vows,
Thy Gifts, and Prayers; unload thy Heaviness,
To-morrow shed thy Tears, and gain thy Suit,
Such honest noble Show'rs ne'er wanted Fruit.

Jul. Stand you out too. [To Roderigo.]

Rod. I shall be hang'd, or whip'd I know; These know and these have Pow'r.

(45) —— nor longer here,] Tho' this is Sense, I yet suspect we should read, —— nor linger here.

Jul. See how he shakes.

A secure Conscience never quakes ;

Thou hast been ill, be so no more,

A good Retreat is a great Store.

Thou hast commanded Men of Might,

Command thyself, and then thou'rt right.

Alin. Command thy Will, thy foul Desires.

Put out and quench thy unhallo'd Fires :

Command thy Mind, and make that pure ;

Thou'rt wise then, valiant and secure.

A Blessing then thou may'st beget.

Jul. A Curse else that shall never set

Will light upon thee : Say thy Prayers ;

Thou hast as many Sins as Hairs.

Thou art a Captain, let thy Men

Be honest, have good Thoughts, and then

Thou may'st command, and lead in chief,

Yet thou art bloody, and a Thief.

Rod. What shall I do? I do confess.

Alin. Retire,

And purge thee perfect in his Fire :

His Life observe ; live in his School,

And then thou shalt put off the Fool.

Jul. Pray at Segovia too, and give

Thy Off rings up, repent, and live.

[Musick within.]

Alin. Away, away ; enquire no more,

Do this, ye're rich, else Fools, and poor ;

What Musick's this?

[Aside.]

Jul. Retire ; 'tis some neat Joy,

In Honour of the King's great Day ; they wonder,

This comes in right to confirm their Reverence.

Away, away, let them admire, it makes

For our Advantage ; how the Captain shakes! [Exeunt.]

Ped. This was the Musick.

Rod. Yes, yes ; how I sweat!

I was ne'er so deserted ; sure these Woods are Only inhabited with rare Dreams, and Wonders ;

I would not be a Knave again, a Villain——

Lord, how I loath it now! for these know all, Sir,

And

And they would find me out.

Ped. They're excellent Women,
Deep in their Knowledge, Friend.

Rod. I'd not be Traitor,
And have these of my Jury; how light I am,
And how my Heart laughs now methinks within me!
Now I 'am Catechiz'd, I'd ever dwell here,
For there's a kind of Court of Reformation;
Had I been stubborn, Friend——

Ped. They would have found it.

Rod. And then they would have handled me a new way,
The Deel's dump had been danced then.

Ped. Let's away

And do their great Commands, and do 'em handsomly,
Contrite, and true; for I believe, Roderigo,
And constantly believe, we shall be happy.

Rod. So you do well; fall edge or flat o' my side,
All I can stagger at is the King's Anger,
Which if it come, I am prepar'd to meet it.

Ped. The King has Mercy, Friend, as well as Justice.
(46) And when you fall: No more.

Rod. I hope the fairest.

[Exeunt.]

S C E N E V.

Enter Master, Seberto, and Curio.

Cur. We've told ye what he is, what time we've sought
him,

His Nature, and his Name; the seeming Boy too,
Ye had here, how, and what, by your own relation,

(46) And when you fall: No more.

Rod. I hope the fairest.] Mr. Seward is displeas'd at the Pointing of the first Line, and wou'd alter it thus,

And when you fall no more.

Rod. I hope the fairest.

I shall give the Reader what occur'd to me before I received
Mr. Seward's Letter, and leave it to his Judgment:

And when you fall——

Rod. No more; I hope the fairest.

All

All Circumstances we have clear'd: That the Duke sent him
We told ye how impossible; he knows him not;
That he is mad himself, and therefore fit
To be your Prisoner, we dare swear against it.

Seb. Take heed, Sir, be not madder than you'd make him;
Though he be rash, and sudden (which is all his Wildness)
Take heed ye wrong him not: He is a Gentleman,
And so must be restor'd and clear'd in all Points;
The King shall be a Judge else.

Cur. 'Twas some trick
That brought him hither: Th' Boy and Letter counterfeit,
Which shall appear, if ye dare now detain him.

Mast. I dare not, Sir, nor will not: I believe ye,
And will restore him up; had I known sooner
H'ad been a Neighbour, and the Man you speak him,
(Though as I live, he carried a wild seeming)
My Service and myself had both attended him.
How I have us'd him, let him speak.

Seb. Let's in, and visit him,
Then to the holy Temple, there pay our Duties,
And so we'll take our Leaves.

Mast. I'll wait upon ye. [Exeunt.]

S C E N E VI.

An Altar prepar'd. Solemn Musick.

Enter Governor, Verdugo, Courtiers, Ladies, &c.

Gov. This to Devotion sacred be,
This to the King's Prosperity,
This to the Queen, and Chastity. [Musick.]

Ver. (47) These Oblations first we bring
To purge ourselves: These to the King.
To Love, and Beauty these: Now Sing. [Musick.]

(47) These Obligations first we bring] The Lession of the oldest Copies makes both the Sense and Measure compleat, thus,
These Oblations —

Ladies.

Ladies. *Holy Altar, deign to take These for ourselves: For the King's sake
And Honour's, these: These sacred lye
To Virtue, Love, and Modesty,
Our Wishes to Eternity.*

[Musick.

Enter Pedro, and Roderigo.

Ped. *For ourselves first, thus we bend;
Forgive us Heav'n, and be our Friend.*

Rod. And happy Fortune to us send.

Ped. *To the King, Honour, and all Joy,
Long, and happy from Annoy.*

Rod. *Prosperous be all his Days,
Every new Hour, a new Praise.*

Ped. Every Minute thus be seen,

Both. And thousand Honours crown the Queen.

[Musick.

Enter Alphonso, Curio, and Seberto.

Seb. Come to the Altar; let us do our Duties.

Alph. I have almost forgot a Church.

Cur. Kneel reverently.

Alph. For my lost Wits (let me see)

First I pray; and secondly,

To be at home again, and free;

And if I travel more, hang me.

For the King, and for the Queen,

That they may be wise, and seen

Never in the Madman's Inn.

For my Daughter I would pray,

But she has made a Holy-day,

And needs not my Devotion now;

Let her take her own course, Heav'n,

Whether it be odd, or even,

And if that please not, take her you.

Seb. A short, and sweet Meditation, what are these here?

Enter Alinda, and Juletta, like Shepherds.

Alin. Hail to this sacred Place.

Jul.

Jul. They are all here, Madam ;
No Violence dare touch here, be secure.
My Bilbo-Master too: How got he loose again?
How lamentably he looks! h'as had Discipline.
I dare not let him know my Pranks.

Seb. 'Tis she sure.

Cur. 'Tis certainly.

Ped. Ha! do I dazle?

Rod. 'Tis the fair Alinda.

Gov. What wonder stand these Strangers in?

Rod. Her Woman by her ;
The same, Sir, as I live.

Alph. I had a Daughter
With such a Face once, such Eyes, and Nose too.
Ha, let me see, 'tis wondrous like Alinda ;
Their Devotion ended, I'll mark 'em and nearer.
And she had a Filly too that waited on her
Just with such a Favour ; do they keep Goats now ?

Alin. Thus we kneel, and thus we pray
A happy Honour to this Day ;
Thus our Sacrifice we bring
Ever happy to the King.

Jul. These of Purple, Damask, green,
Sacred to the virtuous Queen,
Here we hang.

Alin. As these are now,
Her Glories ever spring, and show.
These for ourselves, our Hopes, and Loves,
Full of Pinks, and Lady-gloves,
Of (48) Hearts-ease too, which we would fain,
As we labour for, attain ;
Hear me, Heav'n, and as I bend,
Full of Hope, some Comfort send.

Jul. Hear her, hear her ; if there be A spotless Sweetness, this is she.

Ped. Now, Roderigo, stand.

Rod. He that divides ye
Divides my Life too.

[Musick.

(48) Heart's-ease] i. e. Pansy or Viola tricolor.

Gov.

Gov. Pedro, noble Pedro,
Do not you know your Friend?

Ped. I know, and honour ye.

Gov. Lady, this Leave I'll crave, pray be not angry,
I will not long divide you; how happy, Pedro,
Would all the Court be now, might they behold thee,
Might they but see you thus, and thus embrace you!
The King will be a joyful Man, believe it.
Most joyful, Pedro.

Ped. I'm his humble Servant.

Nay, good Sir, speak your Will, I see you wonder,
One easy Word from you——

Alph. I dare say nothing,
My Tongue's a new Tongue, Sir, and knows his Tither;
Let her do what she please, I dare do nothing.
I have been damn'd for doing. Will the King know him,
That Fellow there? Will he respect and honour him?
He has been look'd upon, they say; will he own him?

Gov. Yes certainly and grace him, ever honour him,
Restore him every way; h'as much lamented him.

Alph. Is't your Will too? 'Tis the last time of Asking.

Rod. I am sure, none else shall touch her, none else enjoy her.

If this, and this hold.

Alph. You had best begin

The Game then, I have no Title in her,
Pray take her, and dispatch her, and commend me to her,
And let me get me home, and hope I'm sober:
Kiss, kiss, it must be thus; stand up, Alinda,
I am the more Child, and more need of Blessing.
Ye had a waiting Woman, one Juletta,
A pretty desperate thing, just such another
As this sweet Lady; we call'd her Nimble-chaps.
I pray is this the Party?

Jul. No indeed, Sir,

She is at home; I am a little Foot-boy,
That walk a Nights, and fright old Gentlemen;
Make 'em loose Hats and Cloaks.

Alph. And Horses too.

Jul.

Jul. Sometimes I do, Sir ; teach 'em th' way through Ditches,

And how to break their Worships Shins, and Noses
Against old broken Stiles and Stumps.

Alpb. A fine Art!

I feel it in my Bones yet.

Jul. I'm a Drum, Sir,

A Drum at Midnight, ran, tan, tan, tan, tan, Sir ;

D' you take me for Fuletta ? I'm a Page, Sir,

That brought a Letter from the Duke of Medina

To have one Senior Alphonso, just such another

As your old Worship, worm'd for running mad, Sir.

Alas, you are mistaken.

Alpb. Thou'rt the Devil,

And so thou'st used me.

Jul. I am any thing,

An old Woman, that tells Fortunes——

Rod. Ha.

Jul. And frights good People,

And sends them to Segovia for their Fortunes :

I am strange Airs and excellent sweet Voices.

I'm any thing, to do her good, believe me ;

She now recovered, and her Wishes crown'd,

I am Fuletta again ; pray, Sir, forgive me.

Alpb. I dare not

Do otherwise, for fear thou should'st still follow me ;

Prithee be forgiv'n, and I prithee forgive me too :

And if any of you will marry her——

Jul. No, I beseech you, Sir ;

My Mistress is my Husband, with her I'll dwell still,

And when you

Play any more Pranks you know where to have me.

Ped. You know him, Sir ?

Gov. Know him, and much lament him ;

The King's incens'd much, much Sir, I can assure you.

Ped. Noble Governor——

Gov. But since he is your Friend, and now appears,

In honour of this Day, and Love to you, Sir,

I'll try the Power I have, to th' pinch I'll put it ;

Here's

Here's my Hand, Roderigo, I'll set you fair again.

Rod. And here's mine, to be true and full of Service.

Gov. Your People too shall have their general Pardons,
We'll have all Peace and Love.

Rod. And shall pray for you.

Gov. To my House now, and suit you to your Worths;
Off with these Weeds, and appear Glorious:
Then to the Priest that shall attend us here,
And this be stil'd Loves new and happy Year.

Rod. The King's and Queen's; two noble Honours meet
To grace this Day, two true Loves at their Feet.

Alph. Well, well, since Wedding will come after Wooing,
Give me some Rosemary, and let's be going. [Exeunt.

The End of the Fifth Volume.

The first part of the document describes the general situation of the country and the state of the economy.
It also mentions the main problems that the government is facing at the moment.
The second part of the document discusses the measures that the government has taken to solve these problems.
It also mentions the results of these measures and the prospects for the future.

THE SECOND PART OF THE DOCUMENT

DISCUSSES THE MEASURES

To the FIFTH VOLUME.

By Mr. S E W A R D.

Page 61, Note 16.

SH E's parcel drunk] I was misled by Skinner to interpret parcel by portly. It was probably only a typographical Error in that excellent Dictionary. For parcel us'd adverbially always signifies partly.

Page 100, Note 15.

*What noble Spirit eager of Advancement,
Whose Employment is his Plough.*] I rather condemn the Change I have made of Employment to Interest. I had more regard to the Measure than was necessary.

Page 116, Note 37. I give up the Change I have made here, and prefer the former Pointing.

Page 120, Line 9.

*Who knows not the unbounded Flood and Sea,
In which my Brother Rollo's Appetites
Alter and rage with every Puff of Breath?
His swelling Blood exhales, and therefore bear.*] I accidentally forgot to correct the old Pointing of this Passage, tho' the Faults were visible at first Reading, and are such as greatly diminish the extreme Beauty of the Metaphors. I read,

*Who knows not the unbounded Flood and Sea
In which my Brother Rollo's Appetites
Alter and rage? With every Puff of Wind
His swelling Blood exhales. ——— exhales i. e. boils and flings off Vapours, as the Sea in Storms does its Spray. This is the true meaning of the Word, from the Latin exhalare. We corrupt it when we say the Sun exhales Vapours from the Sea.*

Page 140, Line ult.

That sleep'st within thy Master's Ear, and whisper'st, &c.] The Tale-bearer, Whisperer and Sycophant, cannot be said to sleep within their Master's Ear, since they are generally vigilant and eager to instil their poisonous Counsel. I read therefore, That creep'st within thy Master's Ear.

Page 447.

*The very Shrines of Saints sink at her Virtues,
And swear they cannot hold pace with her Pieties.]* I have none of the old Editions now by me to examine whether they also make the Shrines swear, or whether it is a meer Mistake of the present Printer: For sweat is undoubtedly the true Word, being the proper Metaphor to the Shrines.

Page 376, Note 8:

Yet dearly will I sell my Love] It was great Inattention to Lidian's Character which made Mr. Sympson and myself propose to change Love to Life. His Love was his Life, and all he regretted in the loss of the latter, was that he should lose the former.

Page 516, Line 22.

And Policy to wipe their Lips] Verdugo had said that the Court-Wasps buz'd about the Honey of Roderigo's Estate, and in hopes of gaining it, prevented his Pardon. The Governor in answer, wishes he had Policy enough to bribe them; but how does he express it? why, Would he had Policy to wipe their Lips. To make the Metaphor clear and expressive of the Sense, we should, I think, read, And Policy to wet their Lips. i. e. to gain some of them by letting them taste some of his Honey.
