WILLIAM MASON, M. A.

THE FOURTH EDITION.

Y O R K:

PRINTED BY A. WARD, AND SOLD BY ROBERT
HORSFIELD, N<sup>o</sup>. XXII. IN LUDGATE-STREET;
T. CADELL, IN THE STRAND; AND W. TESSEY-
MAN, IN THE MINSTER-YARD, YORK.

M.DCC.LXXIV.

TO
ROBERT EARL OF HOLDERNESSE,
BARON D'ARCY, MENIL AND CONYERS,
LORD WARDEN
OF HIS MAJESTY'S CINQUE PORTS,
AND
GOVERNOR OF DOVER CASTLE.

S O N N E T.

D'ARCY, to thee, whate'er of happier vein,
Smit with the love of Song, my youth essay'd,
This verse devotes from ASTON's secret shade,
Where letter'd Ease, thy gift, endears the scene.
Here, as the light-wing'd moments glide serene,
I weave the bower, around the tufted mead
In careless flow the simple pathway lead,
And strew with many a rose the shaven green.
So, to deceive my solitary days,
With rural toils ingenuous arts I blend,
Secure from envy, negligent of praise,
Yet not unknown to fame, if D'ARCY lend
His wonted smile to dignify my lays,
The Muse's Patron, but the Poet's Friend.

Sorrowing I catch the reed, and call the muse ;
If yet a muse on Britain's plain abide,
Since rapt MUSÆUS tun'd his parting strain :
With him they liv'd, with him perchance they dy'd.
For who e'er since their virgin charms espy'd,
Or on the banks of Thames, or met their train,
Where Isis sparkles to the sunny ray ?
Or have they deign'd to play,
Where Camus winds along his broider'd vale,
Feeding each blue bell pale, and daisie pied,
That fling their fragrance round his rushy side ?

Yet ah ! ye are not dead, Celestial Maids ;
Immortal as ye are, ye may not die :

N O T E.

* Mr. Pope died in the year 1744 ; this Poem was then written, and published first in the year 1747.

B 2

Nor is it meet ye fly these pensive glades,
 Ere round his laureat herse ye heave the sigh,
 Stay then awhile, Oh stay, ye fleeting fair ;
 Revisit yet, nor hallow'd Hippocrene,
 Nor Thespia's grove ; till with harmonious teen
 Ye sooth his shade, and slowly-dittied air.
 Such tribute pour'd, again ye may repair
 To what lov'd haunt ye whilom did elect ;
 Whether Lycæus, or that mountain fair
 Trim Mænalus, with piny verdure deckt.
 But now it boots ye not in these to stray,
 Or yet Cyllene's hoary shade to chuse,
 Or where mild Ladon's welling waters play.
 Forego each vain excuse,
 And haste to Thames's shores ; for Thames shall join
 Our sad society, and passing mourn,
 The tears fast-trickling o'er his silver urn,
 And, when the Poet's widow'd grot he laves,
 His reed-crown'd locks shall shake, his head shall bow,
 His tide no more in eddies blith shall rove,
 But creep soft by with long-drawn murmurs flow,
 For oft the mighty Master rous'd his waves
 With martial notes, or lull'd with strain of love :
 He must not now in brisk meanders flow

Game-

Gamefome, and kifs the fadly-filent fhore,
Without the loan of fome poetic woe.

Say firft, Sicilian Mufe,
For, with thy fifters, thou didft weeping ftand
In filent circle at the folemn fcene,
When Death approach'd, and wav'd his ebon wand,
Say how each laurel droopt its with'ring green?
How, in yon grot, each filver trickling fpring
Wander'd the fhelly channels all among;
While as the coral roof did foftly ring
Responsive to their sweetly-doleful fong.
Meanwhile all pale th' expiring Poet laid,
And funk his awful head,
While vocal fhadows pleafing dreams prolong;
For fo, his fick'ning fpirits to releafe,
They pour'd the balm of vifionary peace.

Firft, fent from Cam's fair banks, like Palmer old,
Came * TITYRUS flow, with head all filver'd o'er,

N O T E.

*Came * Tityrus, &c.] i. e. CHAUCER, a name frequently given him by Spenser. See Shep. Cal. Ecl. 2, 6, 12, and elfewhere.*

And

And in his hand an oaken crook he bore,
 And thus in antique guise short talk did hold.
 " Grete clerk of Fame' is house, whose excellence
 " Maie wele befitt thilk place of eminence,
 " Mickle of wele betide thy houres last,
 " For mich gode wirkè to me don and pass.
 " For fyn the days whereas my lyre ben strongen,
 " And deftly many a mery laie I songen,
 " Old Time, which alle things don maliciously
 " Gnawen with rusty tooth continually,
 " Gnattrid my lines, that they all cancrid ben,
 " Till at the last thou smoothen 'hem haft again ;
 " Sithence full femely gliden my rymes rude,
 " As, (if fitteth thilk similitude)
 " Whannè shallow brooke yrenneth hobling on,
 " Ovir rough stoness it makith full rough song ;
 " But, them stoness removen, this lite rivere
 " Stealith forth by, making plefaunt murmere ;
 " So my sely rymes, whofo may them note,
 " Thou makist everichone to ren right fote ;
 " And in thy verse entunist so fetifely,
 " That men sayen I make trewe melody,
 " And spoken every dele to myne honoure.
 " Mich wele, grete clerk, betide thy parting houre !"

He

He ceas'd his homely rhyme.

When * COLIN CLOUT, Eliza's shepherd swain,
The blithest lad that ever pip'd on plain,
Came with his reed soft-warbling on the way,
And thrice he bow'd his head with motion mild,
And thus his gliding numbers gan essay.

I.

“ † Ah ! luckless swain, alas ! how art thou lorn,
“ Who once like me could'st frame thy pipe to play
“ Shepherds devise, and chear the ling'ring morn :
“ Ne bush, ne breere, but learnt thy roundelay.
“ Ah plight too fore such worth to equal right !
“ Ah worth too high to meet such piteous plight !

NOTES.

* Colin Clout.] i. e. SPENSER, which name he gives himself throughout his works.

† The two first stanzas of this speech, as they relate to Pastoral, are written in the measure which Spenser uses in the first eclogue of the Shepherd's Calendar; the rest, where he speaks of Fable, are in the stanza of the Faery Queen.

II. “ But

II.

- “ But I nought strive, poor Colin, to compare
 “ My Hobbin’s or my Thenot’s rustic skill
 “ To thy deft swains, whose dapper ditties rare
 “ Surpafs ought else of quaintest shepherd’s quill.
 “ Ev’n Roman Tityrus, that peerless wight,
 “ Mote yield to thee for dainties of delight.

III.

- “ Eke when in Fable’s flow’ry paths you stray’d,
 “ Masking in cunning feints truth’s splendent face;
 “ Ne Sylph, ne Sylphid, but due tendance paid,
 “ To shield Belinda’s lock from felon base,
 “ But all mote nought avail such harm to chace.
 “ Then Una fair ’gan droop her princely mien,
 “ Eke Florimel, and all my faery race:
 “ Belinda far surpafst my beauties sheen,
 “ Belinda, subject meet for such soft lay I ween.

IV.

- “ Like as in village troop of birdlings trim,
 “ Where Chanticleer his red crest high doth hold,
 “ And quaking Ducks, that wont in lake to swim,
 “ And Turkeys proud, and Pigeons nothing bold;
 “ If

“ If chance the Peacock doth his plumes unfold, “ Eftfoons their meaner beauties all decaying,
 “ He glift’neth purple and he glift’neth gold,
 “ Now with bright green, now blue himself arraying.
 “ Such is thy beauty bright, all other beauties fwaying.

V.

“ But why do I defcant this toyifh rhyme,
 “ And fancies light in fimple guife pourtray ?
 “ Lifting to chear thee at this rueful time,
 “ While as black Death doth on thy heartftrings prey.
 “ Yet rede aright, and if this friendly lay
 “ Thou nathlefs judgeft all too flight and vain,
 “ Let my well-meaning mend my ill effay :
 “ So may I greet thee with a nobler ftrain,
 “ When foon we meet for aye, in yon ftar-fprinkled
 “ plain.”

Laft came a bard of more majeffic tread,
 And * THYRSIS hight by Dryad, Fawn, or Swain,
 Whene’er he mingled with the fhepherd train ;

NOTE.

* Thyrfis hight.] i. e. MILTON. Lycidas and the Epitaphium Damonis are the only Pastorals we have of Milton’s ; in the latter of which, where he laments Car. Deodatus under the name of Damon, he calls himfelf Thyrfis.

But feldom that ; for higher thoughts he fed ;
 For him full oft the heav'nly Mufes led
 To clear Euphrates, and the fecret mount,
 To Araby, and Eden, fragrant climes,
 All which the fabled bard would oft recount :
 And thus in ftrain, unus'd in fylvan fhade,
 To fad MUSÆUS rightful homage paid.

“ Thrice hail, thou heav'n-taught Warbler ! laft and beft
 “ Of all the train ! Poet, in whom conjoin'd
 “ All that to ear, or heart, or head, could yield
 “ Rapture ; harmonious, manly, clear, fublime.
 “ Accept this gratulation : may it cheer
 “ Thy finking foul ; nor thefe corporeal ill
 “ Ought daunt thee, or appall. Know, in high heav'n
 “ Fame blooms eternal o'er that fpirit divine,
 “ Who builds immortal verfe. There thy bold Mufe,
 “ Which while on earth could breathe Mæonian fire,
 “ Shall foar feraphic heights ; while to her voice
 “ Ten thoufand Hierarchies of Angels harp
 “ Symphonious, and with dulcet harmonies
 “ Ufher the fong rejoicing. I mean while,
 “ To footh thee in thefe irkfome hours of pain,
 “ Approach thy vifitant, with mortal praife

“ To

“ To praise thee mortal. First, for Rhyme subdued ;
 “ Rhyme, erst the minstrel of primæval Night,
 “ And Chaos, Anarch old : She near their throne
 “ Oft taught the rattling elements to chime
 “ With tenfold din ; till late to earth upborn
 “ On strident plume, what time fair Poesie
 “ Emerg’d from Gothic cloud, and faintly shot
 “ Rekindling gleams of lustre. Her the fiend
 “ Opprest ; forcing to utter uncouth dirge,
 “ Runic, or Leonine ; and with dire chains
 “ Fetter’d her scarce-fledg’d pinion. I such bonds
 “ Aim’d to destroy, hopeless that Art could ease
 “ Their thraldom, and to liberal use convert.
 “ This wonder to achieve MUSÆUS came ;
 “ Thou cam’st, and at thy magic touch the chains
 “ Off dropt, and (passing strange !) soft-wreathed bands
 “ Of flow’rs their place supply’d : which well the Muse
 “ Might wear for choice, not force ; obstruction none,
 “ But lov’liest ornament. Wond’rous this, yet here
 “ The wonder rests not ; various argument
 “ Remains for me, uncertain, where to cull
 “ The leading grace, where countless graces charm.
 “ Various this peaceful cave ; this mineral roof ;
 “ This ’semblage meet of coral, ore, and shell ;

“ These pointed crystals thro’ the shadowy clefts
 “ Bright glist’ring ; all these slowly-dripping rills,
 “ That tinkling wander o’er the pebbled floor :
 “ Yet not this various peaceful cave, with this
 “ Its mineral roof ; nor this assemblage meet
 “ Of coral, ore, and shell ; nor mid the shade
 “ These pointed crystals, glist’ring fair ; nor rills,
 “ That wander tinkling o’er the pebbled floor ;
 “ Deal charms more various to each raptur’d sense,
 “ Than thy mellifluous lay——”

“ Cease, friendly swain ;

(MUSÆUS cry’d, and rais’d his aching head)

“ ALL PRAISE IS FOREIGN, BUT OF TRUE DESERT ; “ PLAYS ROUND THE HEAD, BUT COMES NOT TO “ THE HEART.

“ Ah ! why recall the toys of thoughtless youth ?
 “ When flow’ry fiction held the place of truth ?
 “ Ere sound to sense resign’d the filken rein,
 “ And the light lay ran musically vain.
 “ Oh ! in that lay had richest fancy flow’d,
 “ The fyrens warbled, and the graces glow’d ;
 “ Had liveliest nature, happiest art combin’d ;
 “ That lent each charm, and this each charm refin’d,
 “ Alas ! how little were my proudest boast !
 “ The sweetest trifer of my tribe at most.

To

“ To sway the judgment, while he sooths the ear ;
 “ To curb mad passion in its wild career ;
 “ To wake by sober touch the useful lyre,
 “ And rule, with reason’s rigour, fancy’s fire :
 “ Be this the poet’s praise. And this possess,
 “ Take, Dulness and thy dunces ! take the rest.

“ Come then that honest fame ; whose temp’rate ray
 “ Or gilds the satire, or the moral lay ;
 “ Which dawns, tho’ thou, rough DONNE ! hew out
 “ the line :

“ But beams, sage HORACE ! from each strain of thine.
 “ Oh if like these, with conscious Freedom bold,
 “ One Poet more his manly measures roll’d,
 “ Like these led forth th’ indignant Muse to brave
 “ The venal statesman, and the titled slave ;
 “ To strip from frontless Vice her stars and strings,
 “ Nor spare her basking in the smile of Kings :
 “ If grave, yet lively ; rational, yet warm ;
 “ Clear to convince, and eloquent to charm ;
 “ He pour’d, for Virtue’s cause, serene along
 “ The purest precept, in the sweetest song :
 “ If, for her cause, his heav’n-directed plan
 “ Mark’d each meander in the maze of man ;

“ Unmov’d

“ Unmov’d by sophistry, unaw’d by name,
 “ No dupe to doctrines, and no fool to fame ;
 “ Led by no system’s devious glare astray,
 “ That meteor-like, but glitters to betray.
 “ Yes, if his soul to reason’s rule resign’d,
 “ And heav’n’s own views fair-op’ning on his mind,
 “ Caught from bright nature’s flame the living ray,
 “ Thro’ passion’s cloud pour’d in resistless day ;
 “ And taught Mankind in reas’ning Pride’s despite,
 “ That GOD IS WISE, and ALL THAT IS IS RIGHT ;
 “ If this his boast, pour here the welcome lays ;
 “ Praise less than this is mockery of praise.”

“ To pour that praise be mine,” fair VIRTUE cry’d ;
 And shot, all radiant, thro’ an op’ning cloud.
 But ah ! my Muse, how will thy voice express
 Th’ immortal strain, harmonious, as it flow’d ?
 Ill suits immortal strain a doric dress :
 And far too high already hast thou soar’d,
 Enough for thee, that, when the lay was o’er,
 The goddess clasp’d him to her throbbing breast,
 But what might that avail ? Blind Fate before
 Had op’d her shears, to cut his vital thread !
 And who may dare gainsay her stern behest ?
 Now thrice he wav’d the hand, thrice bow’d the head,
 And sigh’d his soul to rest. Now

Now wept the Nymphs ; witness, ye waving shades !
 Witness, ye winding streams ! the Nymphs did weep :
 The heav'nly Goddess too with tears did steep
 Her plaintive voice, that echo'd thro' the glades ;
 And, " cruel gods," and, " cruel stars," she cry'd :
 Nor did the shepherds, thro' the woodlands wide,
 On that sad day, or to the pensive brook,
 Or silent river, drive their thirsty flocks :
 Nor did the wild-goat brouze the shrubby rocks :
 And Philomel her custom'd oak forsook :
 And roses wan were wav'd by zephyrs weak,
 As Nature's self was sick :
 And ev'ry lily droop'd its silver head.
 Sad sympathy ! yet sure his rightful meed,
 Who charm'd all nature : well might Nature mourn
 Thro' all her choicest sweets MUSÆUS dead.

Here

Here end we, Goddess! this your shepherd sang;
 All as his hands an ivy chaplet wove.
 Oh! make it worthy of the sacred Bard;
 And make it equal to the shepherd's love:
 Thou too accept the strain with meet regard:
 For sure, blest Shade, thou hear'st my doleful song;
 Whether with angel troops, the stars among,
 From golden harp thou call'st seraphic lays;
 Or, for fair Virtue's cause, now doubly dear,
 Thou still art hov'ring o'er our tuneless sphere;
 And mov'st some hidden spring her weal to raise:

Thus the fond swain his doric date essay'd,
 Manhood's prime honours rising on his cheek:
 Trembling he strove to court the tuneful maid
 With stripling arts, and dalliance all too weak,
 Unseen, unheard, beneath an hawthorn shade.
 But now dun clouds the welkin 'gan to streak;
 And now down-dropt the larks, and ceas'd their strain:
 They ceas'd, and with them ceas'd the shepherd swain:

* MOTHER OF WISDOM! thou, whose sway
 The throng'd ideal hosts obey;
 Who bid'st their ranks, now vanish, now appear,
 Flame in the van, or darken in the rear;
     Accept this votive verse. Thy reign
     Nor place can fix, nor power restrain.
 All, all is thine. For thee the ear, and eye
 Rove thro' the realms of Grace, and Harmony:
     The Senses thee spontaneous serve,
     That wake, and thrill thro' ev'ry nerve.
 Else vainly soft, lov'd Philomel! would flow
 The soothing sadness of thy warbled woe;
     Else vainly sweet yon woodbine shade
     With clouds of fragrance fill the glade;

NOTE.

* According to a fragment of Afranius, who makes Experience and Memory the parents of Wisdom.

Usus me genuit, Mater peperit MEMORIA,

ΣΟΦΙΑΝ vocant me Graeci, vos SAPIENTIAM.

This passage is preserved by Aulus Gellius, lib. xiii. cap. 8.

Vainly, the cygnet spread her downy plume,
 The vine gush nectar, and the virgin bloom,
     But swift to thee, alive, and warm,
     Devolves each tributary charm :
 See modest Nature bring her simple stores,
 Luxuriant Art exhaust her plastic powers ;
     While every flower in Fancy's clime,
     Each gem of old heroic Time,
 Cull'd by the hand of the industrious Muse,
 Around thy shrine their blended beams diffuse,

II.

Hail, MEM'RY ! hail. Behold, I lead
 To that high shrine the sacred Maid :
 Thy daughter she, the Empress of the lyre,
 The first, the fairest, of Aonia's quire.
     She comes, and lo, thy realms expand !
     She takes her delegated stand
 Full in the midst, and o'er thy num'rous train
 Displays the awful wonders of her reign.
     There thron'd supreme in native state,
     If Sirius flame with fainting heat,
 She calls ; ideal groves their shade extend,
 The cool gale breathes, the silent show'rs descend.

Or,

Or, if bleak Winter, frowning round,
 Disrobe the trees, and chill the ground,
 She, mild Magician, waves her potent wand,
 And ready Summers wake at her command.
 See, visionary Suns arise,
 Thro' silver clouds, and azure skies ;
 See, sportive Zephyrs fan the crisped streams ;
 Thro' shadowy brakes light glance the sparkling beams :
 While, near the secret moss-grown cave,
 That stands beside the crystal wave,
 Sweet Echo, rising from her rocky bed,
 Mimics the feather'd Chorus o'er her head.

III.

Rise, hallow'd MILTON ! rise, and say,
 How, at thy gloomy close of day ;
 How, when " deprest by Age, beset with wrongs ;"
 When " fall'n on evil days and evil tongues ;"
 When Darkness, brooding on thy sight,
 Exil'd the sov'reign lamp of light ;
 Say, what could then one chearing hope diffuse ?
 What friends were thine, save Mem'ry and the Muse ?
 Hence the rich spoils, thy studious youth
 Caught from the stores of antient Truth :

Hence

Hence all thy classic wand'rings could explore,
 When Rapture led thee to the Latian shore ;
     Each Scene, that Tiber's bank supply'd ;
     Each Grace, that play'd on Arno's side ;
 The tepid Gales, thro' Tuscan glades that fly ;
 The blue Serene, that spreads Hesperia's sky ;
     Were still thine own : thy ample Mind
     Each charm receiv'd, retain'd, combin'd.
 And thence " the nightly Visitant," that came
 To touch thy bosom with her sacred flame,
     Recall'd the long-lost beams of grace,
     That whilom shot from Nature's face,
 When GOD, in Eden, o'er her youthful breast Spread with his own right hand Perfection's gorgeous vest.

\ To a WATER NYMPH.*

YE green-hair'd Nymphs, whom Pan's decrees
 Have giv'n to guard this solemn wood †,
 To speed the shooting scions into trees,
 And call the roseate blossom from the bud,
 Attend. But chief, thou Naiad, wont to lead
 This fluid crystal sparkling as it flows,
     Whither, ah, whither art thou fled?
     What shade is conscious to thy woes?
     Ah, 'tis yon Poplars' awful gloom:
     Poetic eyes can pierce the scene;
 Can see thy drooping head, thy withering bloom;
 See grief diffus'd o'er all thy languid mien.

N O T E S.

* This Ode was written in the year 1747, and published in the first Volume of Mr. Dodley's Miscellany. It is here revised throughout, and concluded according to the Author's original idea.

† A seat near * * finely situated, with a great command of water; but disposed in a very false taste.

Well

Well may'ft thou wear misfortune's fainting air ;
 Well rend thofe flow'ry honours from thy brow ;
     Devolve that length of carelefs hair ;
     And give thine azure veil to flow
     Loofe to the wind : for, oh, thy pain
     The pitying Mufe can well relate :
 That pitying Mufe fhall breathe her tend'reft ftain,
 To teach the echoes thy difaftrous fate.
 'Twas, where yon Beeches' crowding branches clos'd ;
 What time the Dog-ftar's flames intenfely burn,
     In gentle indolence compos'd,
     Reclin'd upon thy trickling urn,
     Slumb'ring thou lay'ft, all free from fears ;
     No friendly dream foretold thine harm ;
 When fudden, fee, the tyrant Art appears,
 To fnatch the liquid treasures from thine arms
 Art, gothic Art, has feiz'd thy darling vafe :
 That vafe which filver-flipper'd Thetis gave,
     For fome foft ftory told with grace,
     Among th' affociates of the wave ;
     When, in fequefter'd coral vales,
     While worlds of waters roll'd above,
 The circling fea-nymphs told alternate tales
 Of fabled changes, and of flighted love.

Ah !

Ah! lofs too juftly mourn'd : for now the Fiend
 Has on yon fhell-wrought terras pois'd it high ;
     And thence he bids its freams defcend,
     With torturing regularity.
     From ftep to ftep, with fullen found,
     The forc'd cafes indignat leap ;
 Now finking fill the bafon's meafur'd round ;
 There in a dull ftagnation doom'd to fleep.
 Where now the vocal pebbles' gurgling fong ?
 The rill flow-dripping from its rocky fpring ?
     What free meander winds along,
     Or curls when Zephyr waves his wing ?
     Alas, thefe glories are no more :
     Fortune, Oh give me to redeem
 The ravish'd vafe ; Oh give me to reftore
 Its antient honours to this haplefs fream.
 Then, Nymph, again, with all their wonted eafe,
 Thy wanton waters, volatile and free,
     Shall wildly warble, as they pleafe,
     Their foft, loquacious harmony.
     Where Thou and Nature bid them rove,
     There will I gently aid their way ;
 Whether to darken in the fhadowy grove,
 Or, in the mead, reflect the dancing ray.

For thee too, Goddess, o'er that hallow'd spot,
 Where first thy fount of crystal bubbles bright,
     These hands shall arch a rustic grot,
     Impervious to the garish light.
 I'll not demand of Ocean's pride
     To bring his coral spoils from far :
 Nor will I delve yon yawning mountain's side,
 For latent minerals rough, or polish'd spar :
 But antique roots, with ivy dark o'ergrown,
 Steep'd in the bosom of thy chilly lake,
     Thy touch shall turn to living stone ;
     And these the simple roof shall deck.
 Yet grant one melancholy boon :
     Grant that, at evening's sober hour,
 Led by the lustre of the rising moon,
 My step may frequent tread thy pebbled floor.
 There, if perchance I wake the love-lorn theme,
 In melting accents querulously flow,
     Kind Naiad, let thy pitying stream
     With wailing notes accordant flow :
     So shalt thou sooth this heaving heart,
     That mourns a faithful Virgin lost ;
 So shall thy murmurs, and my sighs impart
 Some share of pensive pleasure to her ghost.

To an * ÆOLUS'S HARP

Sent to Miss SHEPHEARD,

YES, magic Lyre! now all complete
 Thy slender frame responsive rings;
 While kindred notes, with undulation sweet,
 Accordant wake from all thy vocal strings.
 Go then to her, whose soft request
 Bid my blest hands thy form prepare:
 Ah go, and sweetly sooth her tender breast
 With many a warble wild, and artless air.
 For know, full oft, while o'er the mead
 Bright June extends her fragrant reign,
 The slumb'ring Fair shall place thee near her head,
 To court the gales that cool the sultry plain.

NOTE.

* This instrument was first invented by Kircher about the year 1649. See his Musurgia Universalis sive ars consoni & dissoni, lib. ix. After having been neglected above a hundred years, it was again accidentally discovered by Mr. Oswald.

Then shall the Sylphs, and Sylphids bright,
 Mild Genii all, to whose high care
 Her virgin charms are giv'n, in circling flight
 Skim sportive round thee in the fields of air.

Some, flutt'ring thro' thy trembling strings,
 Shall catch the rich melodious spoil,
 And lightly brush thee with their purple wings
 To aid the Zephyrs in their tuneful toil ;
 While others check each ruder gale,
 Expel rough Boreas from the sky,
 Nor let a breeze its heaving breath exhale,
 Save such as softly pant, and panting die.

Then, as thy swelling accents rise,
 Fair Fancy, waking at the sound,
 Shall paint bright visions on her raptur'd eyes,
 And waft her spirits to enchanted ground ;
 To myrtle groves, Elyfian greens,
 In which some fav'rite Youth shall rove,
 And meet, and lead her thro' the glittering scenes,
 And all be Music, Extasy, and Love.

HERE, on my native shore reclin'd,
 While Silence rules this midnight hour,
 I woo thee, GODDESS. On my musing mind
 Descend, propitious Power!

And bid these ruffling gales of grief subside :
 Bid my calm'd soul with all thy influence shine ;
 As yon chaste Orb along this ample tide
 Draws the long lustre of her silver line,
 While the hush'd breeze its last weak whisper blows,
 And lulls old HUMBER to his deep repose.

II.

Come to thy Vot'ry's ardent prayer,
 In all thy graceful plainness dress'd :
 No knot confines thy waving hair,
 No zone thy floating vest ;
 Unfullied Honour decks thine open brow,
 And Candour brightens in thy modest eye :
 Thy blush is warm Content's ethereal glow ;
 Thy smile is Peace ; thy step is Liberty :
 Thou scatter'st blessings round with lavish hand,
 As Spring with careless fragrance fills the land.

III.

As now o'er this lone beach I stray,
 * Thy fav'rite Swain oft stole along,
 And artless wove his Dorian lay,
 Far from the busy throng.

Thou heard'st him, Goddess, strike the tender string,
 And bad'st his soul with bolder passions move :
 Soon these responsive shores forgot to ring,
 With Beauty's praise, or plaint of slighted Love ;
 To loftier flights his daring Genius rose,
 And led the war, 'gainst thine, and Freedom's foes.

IV.

Pointed with Satire's keenest steel,
 The shafts of Wit he darts around ;

 And shrinks beneath the wound.

In awful poverty his honest Muse
 Walks forth vindictive thro' a venal land :
 In vain Corruption sheds her golden dews,
 In vain Oppression lifts her iron hand ;
 He scorns them both, and, arm'd with truth alone,
 Bids Lust and Folly tremble on the throne.

Behold, like him, immortal Maid,
 The Muses' vestal fires I bring :
 Here, at thy feet, the sparks I spread :
 Propitious wave thy wing.

And fan them to that dazzling blaze of Song,
 Which glares tremendous on the Sons of Pride.
 But, hark, methinks I hear her hallow'd tongue !
 In distant trills it echoes o'er the tide ;
 Now meets mine ear with warbles wildly free,
 As swells the Lark's meridian extacy.

To a FRIEND.

I.

AH! cease this kind persuasive strain,
 Which, when it flows from Friendship's tongue,
 However weak, however vain,
 O'erpowers beyond the Siren's song:
 Leave me, my friend, indulgent go,
 And let me muse upon my woe.
 Why lure me from these pale retreats?
 Why rob me of these pensive sweets?
 Can Musick's voice, can Beauty's eye,
 Can Painting's glowing hand supply
 A charm so suited to my mind,
 As blows this hollow gust of wind,
 As drops this little weeping rill
 Soft tinkling down the moss-grown hill,
 While thro' the west, where sinks the crimson Day,
 Meek Twilight slowly fails, and waves her banners grey?

F

Say,

II.

Say, from affliction's various source
 Do none but turbid waters flow?
 And cannot Fancy clear their course?
 For Fancy is the friend of Woe.
 Say, mid that grove, in love-lorn state,
 While yon poor Ringdove mourns her mate,
 Is all, that meets the shepherd's ear,
 Inspir'd by anguish, and despair?
 Ah! no; fair Fancy rules the Song:
 She swells her throat; she guides her tongue;
 She bids the waving Aspin spray
 Quiver in cadence to her lay;
 She bids the fringed Osiers bow,
 And rustle round the lake below,
 To suit the tenor of her gurgling sighs,
 And sooth her throbbing breast with solemn sympathies.

III.

To thee, whose young and polish'd brow
 The wrinkling hand of Sorrow spares;
 Whose cheeks, bestrew'd with roses, know
 No channel for the tide of tears;

To

To thee yon Abbey dank, and lone,
 Where ivy chains each mould'ring stone
 That nods o'er many a Martyr's tomb,
 May cast a formidable gloom.
 Yet Some there are, who, free from fear,
 Could wander thro' the cloisters drear,
 Could rove each desolated Isle,
 Tho' midnight thunders shook the pile;
 And dauntless view, or seem to view,
 (As faintly flash the lightnings blue)
 Thin shiv'ring Ghosts from yawning charnels throng,
 And glance with silent sweep the shaggy vaults along.

IV.

But such terrific charms as these,
 I ask not yet: My sober mind
 The fainter forms of sadness please;
 My sorrows are of softer kind.
 Thro' this still valley let me stray,
 Rapt in some strain of pensive GRAY:
 Whose lofty Genius bears along
 The conscious dignity of Song;
 And, scorning from the sacred store
 To waste a note on Pride or Power,

Roves thro' the glimmering twilight gloom,
And warbles round each rustic tomb :
He, too, perchance (for well I know,
His heart can melt with friendly woe)
He, too, perchance, when these poor limbs are laid,
Will heave one tuneful sigh, and sooth my hov'ring
Shade.

 JEHOVAH breaks th' Avenger's rod.
 The Son of Wrath, whose ruthless hand
 Hurl'd Desolation o'er the land,
 Has run his raging race; has clos'd the scene of blood.
 Chiefs arm'd around behold their vanquish'd Lord;
 Nor spread the guardian shield, nor lift the loyal sword.

NOTE.

* This Ode is a free paraphrase of Part of the 14th chapter of Isaiah, where the Prophet, after he has foretold the destruction of Babylon, subjoins a Song of Triumph, which, he supposes, the Jews will sing when his prediction is fulfilled. And it shall come to pass in the day that the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve, that thou shalt take up this proverb against the King of Babylon, and say, "How hath the oppressor ceased, &c."

He falls ; and Earth again is free.
 Hark ! at the call of Liberty,
 All Nature lifts the choral song,
 The Fir-trees, on the mountain's head,
 Rejoice thro' all their pomp of shade ;
 The lordly Cedars nod on sacred Lebanon :
 Tyrant ! they cry, since thy fell force is broke,
 Our proud heads pierce the skies, nor fear the woodman's stroke.

I. 3.

Hell, from her gulph profound,
 Rouses at thine approach ; and, all around,
 Her dreadful notes of preparation sound.
 See, at the awful call,
 Her shadowy Heroes all,
 Ev'n mighty Kings, the heirs of empire wide,
 Rising, with solemn state, and flow,
 From their fable thrones below,
 Meet, and insult thy pride.

 How art thou fall'n, thou King of Light!
 How fall'n from thy meridian height!
 Who said'st the distant poles shall hear me, and obey.

 Is this poor heap of duft the King of Babylon ?

Is this the Man, whose nod
 Made the Earth tremble : whose terrific rod
 Levell'd her loftieft cities ? Where He trod,

 Saw her rich realms transform'd to deferts dry ;
 While at his crouded prifon's gate,
 Grasping the keys of Fate,
 Stood ftern Captivity.

For why, proud King, thy ruthless hand
Hurl'd Defolation o'er the land,
And crush'd the subject race, whom kings are born to save :

For thus JEHOVAH swears ; no Name, no Son,
No remnant, shall remain of haughty Babylon.

III. 3.

Thus saith the righteous Lord :
My Vengeance shall unsheath the flaming sword ;
O'er all thy realms my Fury shall be pour'd.
Where yon proud city stood,
I'll spread the stagnant flood ;
And there the Bittern in the sedge shall lurk,
Moaning with fullen strain :
While, sweeping o'er the plain,
Destruction ends her work.
Yes, on mine holy mountain's brow,
I'll crush this proud Assyrian foe.
Th' irrevocable word is spoke.
From Judah's neck the galling yoke
Spontaneous falls, she shines with wonted state ;
Thus by MYSELF I swear, and what I swear is Fate.

ERE yet, ingenuous Youth, thy steps retire
 From Cam's smooth margin, and the peaceful vale,
 Where Science call'd thee to her studious quire,
 And met thee musing in her cloisters pale ;
 Oh ! let thy friend (and may he boast the name)
 Breathe from his artless reed one parting lay ;
 A lay like this thy early Virtues claim,
 And this let voluntary Friendship pay.
 Yet know, the time arrives, the dangerous time,
 When all those Virtues, opening now so fair,
 Transplanted to the world's tempestuous clime,
 Must learn each Passion's boist'rous breath to bear.
 There, if Ambition pestilent and pale,
 Or Luxury should taint their vernal glow ;
 If cold Self-interest, with her chilling gale,

If

If mimic hues, by Art, or Fashion spread,
 Their genuine, simple colouring should supply,
 Oh! with them may these laureate honours fade;
 And with them (if it can) my Friendship die.
 Then do not blame, if, tho' thyself inspire,
 Cautious I strike the panegyric string;
 The Muse full oft pursues a meteor fire,
 And, vainly vent'rous, soars on waxen wing.
 Too actively awake at Friendship's voice,
 The Poet's bosom pours the fervent strain,
 Till sad Reflection blames the hasty choice,
 And oft invokes Oblivion's aid in vain.
 Call we the Shade of POPE, from that blest bower
 Where thron'd he sits with many a tuneful Sage;
 Ask, if he ne'er bemoans that hapless hour
 When ST. JOHN'S name * illumin'd Glory's page?
 Ask, if the wretch, who dar'd his mem'ry stain,
 Ask, if his country's, his religion's foe
 Deserv'd the meed that MARLBRO' fail'd to gain,
 The deathless meed, he only could bestow †

The Bard will tell thee, the misguidèd praise
 Clouds the celestial sunshine of his breast ;
 Ev'n now, repentant of his erring Lays,
 He heaves a sigh amid the realms of rest.
 If POPE thro' Friendship fail'd, indignant view,
 Yet pity DRYDEN ; hark, whene'er he sings,
 How Adulation drops her courtly dew
 On titled Rhymers, and inglorious Kings.
 See, from the depths of his exhaustless mine,
 His glittering stores the tuneful Spendthrift throws ;
 Where Fear, or Interest bids, behold they shine ;
 Now grace a CROMWELL's, now a CHARLES's brows.
 Born with too generous, or too mean a heart,
 DRYDEN ! in vain to thee those stores were lent :
 Thy sweetest numbers but a trifling Art ;
 Thy strongest diction idly eloquent.
 The simplest Lyre, if Truth direct its Lays,
 Warbles a melody ne'er heard from thine :
 Not to disgust with false, or venal praise,
 Was PARNELL's modest fame, and may be mine.
 Go then, my Friend, nor let thy candid breast
 Condemn me, if I check the plausible string ;
 Go to the wayward world ; complete the rest ;
 Be, what the purest Muse would wish to sing.

Be still thyself; that open path of Truth,
 Which led thee here, let Manhood firm pursue;
 Retain the sweet simplicity of Youth,
 And, all thy virtue dictates, dare to do.
 Still scorn, with conscious pride, the mask of Art;
 On vice's front let fearful caution lower,
 And teach the diffident, discreeter part
 Of knaves that plot, and fools that fawn for Power.
 So, round thy brow when Age's honours spread,
 When Death's cold hand unfrings thy MASON's lyre,
 When the green turf lies lightly on his head,
 Thy worth shall some superiour bard inspire:
 He, to the amplest bounds of Time's domain,
 On Rapture's plume shall give thy Name to fly;
 For trust, with reverence trust this * Sabine strain:
 "The Muse forbids the virtuous Man to die."

WHILE o'er my head this laurel-woven bower
 Its arch of glittering verdure wildly flings,
 Can Fancy slumber? can the tuneful Power,
 That rules my lyre, neglect her wonted strings?
 No; if the blighting East deform'd the plain,
 If this gay bank no balmy sweets exhal'd,
 Still should the grove re-echo to my strain,
 And friendship prompt the theme, where beauty fail'd.
 For he, whose careless art this foliage dress'd,
 Who bad these twisting braids of woodbine bend,
 He first, with truth and virtue, taught my breast

* MUSÆUS, the first Poem in this Collection, written while the Author was a Scholar of St. John's College in Cambridge. See p. 16.

H

'Twas

'Twas there we met ; the Muses hail'd the hour ;
 The same desires, the same ingenuous arts
 Inspir'd us both ; we own'd, and blest the power
 That join'd at once our studies, and our hearts.
 Oh ! since those days, when Science spread the feast,
 When emulative Youth its relish lent,
 Say, has one genuine Joy e'er warm'd my breast ?
 Enough ; if Joy was his, be mine Content.
 To thirst for praise his temperate Youth forbore ;
 He fondly wish'd not for a Poet's name ;
 Much did he love the Muse, but Quiet more,
 And, tho' he might command, he slighted Fame.
 Hither, in manhood's prime, he wisely fled
 From all that Folly, all that Pride approves ;
 To this soft scene a tender Partner led ;
 This laurel shade was witness to their loves.
 " Begone," he cry'd, " Ambition's air-drawn plan ;
 " Hence with perplexing pomp, unwieldy wealth :
 " Let me not seem, but be the happy man,
 " Possess'd of Love, of Competence, and Health."
 Smiling he spake, nor did the Fates withstand ;
 In rural arts the peaceful moments flew :
 Say, lovely Lawn ! that felt his forming hand,
 How soon thy surface shone with verdure new ;

How

How soon obedient FLORA brought her store,
 And o'er thy breast a shower of fragrance flung :
 VERTUMNUS came ; his earliest blooms he bore,
 And thy rich sides with waving purple hung ;
 Then to the fight, he call'd yon stately spire,
 He pierc'd th' opposing oak's luxuriant shade ;
 Bad yonder crowding hawthorns low retire,
 Nor veil the glories of the golden mead.
 Hail, sylvan wonders, hail ! and hail the hand,
 Whose native taste thy native charms display'd,
 And taught one little acre to command
 Each envied happiness of scene, and shade.
 Is there a hill, whose distant azure bounds
 The ample range of Scarfdale's proud domain,
 A mountain hoar, that yon wild Peak surrounds,
 But lends a willing beauty to thy plain ?
 And, lo ! in yonder path I spy my friend ;
 He looks the guardian genius of the grove,
 Mild as * the fabled Form that whilom deign'd,
 At MILTON's call, in Harefield's haunts to rove.

N O T E.

* See the Description of the Genius of the Wood, in MILTON's Arcades.

For know, by lot, from Jove, I am the Power
 Of this fair wood, and live in oaken bower ;
 To nurse the Saplings tall, and curl the grove
 With ringlets quaint, &c.

Blest Spirit, come ! tho' pent in mortal mould,
 I'll yet invoke thee by that purer name ;
 Oh come, a Portion of thy blifs unfold,
 From Folly's maze my wayward step reclaim.
 Too long, alas, my inexperienc'd youth,
 Misled by flattering Fortune's specious tale,
 Has left the rural reign of Peace, and Truth,
 The huddling brook, cool-cave, and whispering vale,
 Won to the world, a candidate for praise,
 Yet, let me boast, by no ignoble art,
 Too oft the public ear has heard my lays,
 Too much its vain applause has touch'd my heart ;
 But now, ere Custom binds his powerful chains,
 Come, from the base enchanter set me free ;
 While yet my soul its first, best taste retains,
 Recall that soul to reason, peace, and thee.
 Teach me, like thee, to muse on Nature's page,
 To mark each wonder in Creation's plan,
 Each mode of being trace, and, humbly sage,
 Deduce from these the genuine powers of Man ;
 Of Man, while warm'd with reason's purer ray,
 No tool of policy, no dupe to pride ;
 Before vain Science led his taste astray ;
 When conscience was his law, and God his guide.

This

[ 53 ]

This let me learn, and learning let me live
The lesson o'er. From that great Guide of Truth
Oh may my suppliant soul the boon receive
To tread thro' age the footsteps of thy youth.

" Saw thee uplift the glitt'ring dagger high ;

" Ponder with fixed brow thy deep resolve,

" Prepar'd to strike, to triumph, and to die.

" Bring then to Britain's plain that choral throng ;

" Display thy buskin'd pomp, thy golden lyre ;

" Give her historic Forms the soul of song,

" And mingle Attic art with SHAKESPEAR's fire."

" Ah, what, fond boy, dost thou presume to claim ?"

The Muse reply'd : " Mistaken suppliant, know,

" To light in SHAKESPEAR's breast the dazzling flame

" Exhausted all PARNASSUS could bestow.

" True ; Art remains ; and, if from his bright page

" Thy mimic power one vivid beam can seize,

" Proceed ; and in that best of tasks engage,

" Which tends at once to profit, and to please."

She spake ; and Harewood's Towers spontaneous rose ;

Soft virgin warblings echo'd thro' the grove ;

And fair ELFRIDA pour'd forth all her woes,

The hapless pattern of connubial Love,

On the DEATH of a LADY.

THE midnight clock has toll'd; and hark, the bell
 Of Death beats slow! heard ye the note profound?
 It pauses now; and now, with rising knell,
 Flings to the hollow gale its fullen found.
 Yes * * * is dead. Attend the strain,
 Daughters of Albion! Ye that, light as air,
 So oft have tript in her fantastic train,
 With hearts as gay, and faces half as fair:
 For she was fair beyond your brightest bloom:
 (This Envy owns, since now her bloom is fled)
 Fair as the Forms, that, wove in Fancy's loom,
 Float in light vision round the Poet's head.
 Whene'er with soft serenity she smil'd,
 Or caught the orient blush of quick surprize,
 How sweetly mutable, how brightly wild,
 The liquid lustre darted from her eyes?
 Each look, each motion wak'd a new-born grace,
 That o'er her form its transient glory cast:
 Some lovelier wonder soon usurp'd the place,
 Chas'd by a charm still lovelier than the last.

That

That bell again ! It tells us what she is :

On what she was no more the strain prolong :

Luxuriant Fancy pause : an hour like this

Demands the tribute of a serious Song.

MARIA claims it from that fable bier,

Where cold and wan the slumberer rests her head ;

In still small whispers to reflection's ear,

She breathes the solemn dictates of the Dead.

Oh catch the awful notes, and lift them loud ;

Proclaim the theme, by Sage, by Fool rever'd ;

Hear it, ye Young, ye Vain, ye Great, ye Proud !

'Tis Nature speaks, and Nature will be heard.

Yes, ye shall hear, and tremble as ye hear,

While, high with health, your hearts exulting leap :

Ev'n in the midst of pleasure's mad career,

The mental Monitor shall wake and weep.

For say, than * * *'s propitious star,

What brighter planet on your births arose ;

Or gave of Fortune's gifts an ampler share,

In life to lavish, or by death to lose !

Early to lose ; while, born on busy wing,

Ye sip the nectar of each varying bloom :

Nor fear, while basking in the beams of spring,

The wintry storm that sweeps you to the tomb.

Think of her Fate ! revere the heav'nly hand
 That led her hence, though soon, by steps so slow ;
 Long at her couch Death took his patient stand,
 And menac'd oft, and oft withheld the blow :
 To give Reflection time, with lenient art,
 Each fond delusion from her soul to steal ;
 Teach her from Folly peaceably to part,
 And wean her from a world she lov'd so well.
 Say, are ye sure his Mercy shall extend
 To you so long a span ? Alas, ye sigh :
 Make then, while yet ye may, your God your friend,
 And learn with equal ease to sleep or die !
 Nor think the Muse, whose sober voice ye hear,
 Contracts with bigot frown her fullen brow ;
 Casts round Religion's orb the mists of fear,
 Or shades with horrors, what with smiles should glow.
 No ; she would warm you with seraphic fire,
 Heirs as ye are of heav'n's eternal day ;
 Would bid you boldly to that heav'n aspire,
 Not sink and slumber in your cells of clay.
 Know, ye were form'd to range yon azure field,
 In yon ethereal founts of bliss to lave ;
 Force then, secure in Faith's protecting shield,
 The Sting from Death, the Vict'ry from the Grave.

Is this the bigot's rant? Away ye Vain,
 Your hopes, your fears, in doubt, in dulness steep:
 Go forth your souls in sickness, grief, or pain,
 With the sad solace of eternal sleep.
 Yet will I praise you, triflers as ye are,
 More than those Preachers of your fav'rite creed,
 Who proudly swell the brazen throat of War,
 Who form the Phalanx, bid the battle bleed;
 Nor wish for more: who conquer, but to die.
 Hear, Folly, hear; and triumph in the tale:
 Like you, they reason; not, like you, enjoy
 The breeze of bliss, that fills your silken sail:
 On Pleasure's glitt'ring stream ye gayly steer
 Your little course to cold oblivion's shore:
 They dare the storm, and, through th' inclement year,
 Stem the rough surge, and brave the torrent's roar.

NOTE.

In a book of French verses, entitled Oeuvres du Philosophe de sans Souci, and lately reprinted at Berlin by authority, under the title of Poésies Diverses, may be found an epistle to Marshal KATIN, written professedly against the immortality of the Soul. By way of specimen of the whole, take the following lines.

De l'avenir, cher KATIN, jugeons par le passé;
 Comme avant que je fusse il n'avoit point pensé,
 De meme, après ma mort, quand toutes mes parties
 Par la corruption seront anéanties,
 Par un meme destin il ne pensera plus;
 Non, rien n'est plus certain, soyons-en convaincu &c.

It is to this epistle, that the rest of the Elegy alludes.

Is it for Glory? that just Fate denies.

Long must the Warrior moulder in his shroud,
Ere from her trump the heav'n-breath'd accents rise,
That lift the Hero from the fighting croud.

Is it his grasp of Empire to extend?

To curb the fury of insulting foes?
Ambition, cease: the idle contest end:

'Tis but a Kingdom thou canst win or lose.
And why must murder'd myriads lose their all,
(If Life be all) why desolation lour,
With famish'd frown, on this affrighted ball,
That thou may'st flame the meteor of an hour?

Go wiser ye, that flutter Life away,
Crown with the mantling Juice the goblet high;
Weave the light dance, with festive freedom gay,
And live your moment, since the next ye die.

Yet know, vain Scepticks, know, th' Almighty mind,
Who breath'd on Man a portion of his fire,
Bad his free Soul, by earth nor time confin'd,
To Heav'n, to Immortality aspire.

Nor shall the Pile of Hope, his Mercy rear'd,
By vain Philosophy be e'er destroy'd:

Eternity, by all or wish'd or fear'd,
Shall be by all or suffer'd or enjoy'd.

TAKE, holy Earth! all that my soul holds dear :
 Take that best gift which Heav'n so lately gave :
 To Bristol's fount I bore with trembling care
 Her faded form : she bow'd to taste the wave
 And died. Does Youth, does Beauty, read the line ?
 Does sympathetic fear their breasts alarm ?
 Speak, dead MARIA ! breathe a strain divine :
 Ev'n from the grave thou shalt have power to charm.
 Bid them be chaste, be innocent, like thee ;
 Bid them in Duty's sphere as meekly move ;
 And if so fair, from vanity as free ;
 As firm in friendship, and as fond in love.
 Tell them, tho' 'tis an awful thing to die,
 ('Twas ev'n to thee) yet the dread path once trod,
 Heav'n lifts its everlasting portals high,
 And bids " the Pure in heart behold their GOD."

HERE sleeps what once was Beauty, once was Grace;

Grace, that with tenderness and sense combin'd
To form that harmony of soul and face,

Where beauty shines the mirror of the mind.

Such was the Maid, that in the morn of youth,

In virgin innocence, in nature's pride,

Blest with each art that owes its charm to truth,

Sunk in her Father's fond embrace, and died.

He weeps: Oh venerate the holy tear:

Faith lends her aid to ease affliction's load;

The Parent mourns his Child upon her bier,

The Christian yields an Angel to his God.

The ARGUMENT.

EDGAR, King of England, having heard the beauty of ELFRIDA, daughter of ORGAR, Earl of Devonshire, highly celebrated; sent his Favourite Minister ATHELWOLD to the father's castle, to discover whether she was really so beautiful, as Fame reported her to be; and if she was, to offer her his Crown in marriage. ATHELWOLD, on seeing her, fell violently in Love with her himself; and married her; conveying her soon after to his own castle in Harewood Forest, where he visited her by stealth from court; and in his absence left her with a train of British Virgins, who form the CHORUS. After three months, ORGAR, disapproving this confinement of his daughter, came disguised to Harewood to discover the cause of it. His arrival opens the Drama. The incidents, which are produced by ATHELWOLD's return from court (who was absent when ORGAR came to his castle) and afterwards by the unexpected visit of the King, form the EPISODE of the Tragedy; the feigned pardon of ATHELWOLD, drawn from the King by the earnest intercessions of ELFRIDA, brings on the PERIPETIA, or change of fortune; and the single combat between the King and ATHELWOLD, in which the latter is slain, occasions ELFRIDA to take the vow, which completes the CATASTROPHE.

A
DRAMATIC POEM.

O R G A R.

HOW nobly does this venerable wood,
Gilt with the glories of the orient sun,
Embosom yon fair mansion ! The soft air
Salutes me with most cool and temp'rate breath ;
And, as I tread, the flow'r-besprinkled lawn
Sends up a gale of fragrance. I should guess,
If e'er Content deign'd visit mortal clime,
This was her place of dearest residence.
Grant Heav'n ! I find it such. 'Tis now three months,
Since first Earl ATHELWOLD espous'd my daughter.
He then besought me, for some little space
The nuptials might be secret ; many reasons,
He said, induc'd to this : I made no pause,
But, resting on his prudence, to his will
Gave absolute concurrence. Soon as married,
He to this secret seat convey'd ELFRIDA ;

L

Con-

Convey'd her as by stealth, enjoy'd, and left her :
 Yet not without I know not what excuse
 Of call to court, of EDGAR's royal friendship,
 And England's welfare. To his prince he went :
 And since, as by intelligence I gather,
 He oft returns to this his cloister'd wife ;
 But ever with a privacy most studied ;
 Borrowing disguises till inventive art
 Can scarce supply him with variety.
 His visits, as they're stol'n, are also short ;
 Seldom beyond the circuit of one sun ;
 Then back to court, while she his absence mourns
 Full many a lonely hour. I brook not this.
 Had ATHELWOLD espous'd some base-born peasant,
 This usage had been apt : but when he took
 My daughter to his arms, he took a virgin,
 Thro' whose rich veins the blood of British Kings
 Ran in un sullied stream. Her lineage sure
 Might give her place and notice with the noblest
 In EDGAR's court. ELFRIDA's beauty too
 (I speak not from a father's foolish fondness)
 Would shine amid the fairest, and reflect
 No vulgar glory on that beauty's master.
 This act bespeaks the madman. Who, that own'd

An

An em'rald, jasper, or rich chrysolite,
 Would hide its lustre, or not bid it blaze
 Conspicuous on his brow? Haply ATHELWOLD
 May have espous'd some other. 'Sdeath he durst not.
 My former feats in arms must have inform'd him,
 That ORGAR, while he liv'd, would never prove
 A traitor to his honour. If he has——
 This aged arm is not so much unstrung
 By slack'ning years, but just revenge will brace it.
 And, by yon awful heav'n—But hold, my rage.
 I came to search into this matter coolly.
 Hence, to conceal the father and the earl,
 This pilgrim's staff, and scrip, and all these marks
 Of vagrant poverty.

C H O R U S (within.)

Hail to thy living light, ambrosial Morn!

All hail thy rofeat ray!

O R G A R.

But hark, the sound of sweetest minstrelsy
 Breaks on mine ear. The females, I suppose,
 Whom ATHELWOLD has left my child's attendants;
 That, when she wails the absence of her lord,
 Their lenient airs, and sprightly-fancied songs,
 May steal away her woes. See, they approach:

This

This grove shall shroud me till they cease their strain ;
Then I'll address them with some feigned tale.

[He retires.]

C H O R U S.

O D E.

I. 1.

Hail to thy living light,
Ambrosial Morn ! all hail thy roseate ray :
That bids young Nature all her charms display
In varied beauty bright ;
That bids each dewy-spangled flowret rise,
And dart around its vermil dies ;
Bids silver lustre grace yon sparkling tide,
That winding warbles down the mountain's side,

I. 2.

Away, ye Goblins all,
Wont the bewilder'd traveller to daunt ;
Whose vagrant feet have trac'd your secret haunt
Beside some lonely wall,
Or shatter'd ruin of a moss-grown tow'r,
Where, at pale midnight's stillest hour,
Thro' each rough chink the solemn orb of night
Pours momentary gleams of trembling light.

Away,

I. 3.

Away, ye Elves, away :

Shrink at ambrosial Morning's living ray ;
 That living ray, whose pow'r benign
 Unfolds the scene of glory to our eye,
 Where, thron'd in artless majesty,
 The cherub Beauty sits on Nature's rustic shrine.—

C H O R U S, O R G A R.

C H O R U S.

Silence, my sisters. Whence this rudeness, stranger,
 That thus has prompted thine unbidden ear
 To listen to our strains ?

O R G A R.

Your pardon, Virgins :

I meant not rudeness, tho' I dar'd to listen ;
 For ah ! what ear so fortify'd and barr'd
 Against the force of powerful harmony,
 But would with transport to such sweet assailants
 Surrender its attention ? Never yet
 Have I pass'd by the night-bird's fav'rite spray,
 What time she pours her wild and artless song,
 Without attentive pause and silent rapture ;
 How could I then, with savage disregard,
 Hear voices tun'd by nature sweet as her's,
 Grac'd with all art's addition ?

CHORUS.

[ 78 ]

C H O R U S.

Thy mean garb,
And this thy courtly phrase but ill accord.
Whence, and what art thou, stranger?

O R G A R.

Virgins, know
These limbs have oft been wrapt in richer vest :
But what avails it now ? all have their fate ;
And mine has been most wretched.

C H O R U S,

May we ask
What cruel cause——

O R G A R.

No ! let this hapless breast
Still hide the melancholy tale.

C H O R U S,

We know,
There oft is found an avarice in grief ;
And the wan eye of Sorrow loves to gaze
Upon its secret hoard of treasure'd woes
In pining solitude. Perhaps thy mind
Takes the same pensive cast : if not, permit
That we, in social sympathy, may drop
The tender tear.

O R G A R.

[ 79 ]

O R G Á R.

Ah! ill would it become ye,
To let the woes of such a wretch as I am,
E'er dim your bright eyes with a pitying tear.

C H O R U S.

The eye, that will not weep another's sorrow,
Should boast no gentler brightness than the glare,
That reddens in the eye-ball of the wolf.

Let us entreat——

O R G A R.

Know, Virgins, I was born
To ample property of lands and flocks,
On this side Tweeda's stream. My youth and vigour
Achiev'd full many a feat of martial prowess:
Nor was my skill in chivalry unnoted
In the fair volume of my sov'reign's love;
Who ever held me in his best esteem,
And closest to his person. When he paid,
What all must pay, to fate; and short-liv'd EDWY
Mounted the vacant throne, which now his brother
Fills (as loud fame reports) right royally;
I then, unfit for pageantry and courts,
Sat down in peace among my faithful vassals,
At my paternal feat. But ah! not long

Had

Had I enjoy'd the sweets of that recess,
 Ere by the savage inroads of base hinds,
 That fallied frequent from the Scottish heights,
 My lands were all laid waste, my people murder'd ;
 And I, thro' impotence of age unfit
 To quell their brutal rage, was forc'd to drag
 My mis'ries thro' the land, a friendless wand'rer.

C H O R U S.

We pity and condole thy wretched state,
 But we can do no more ; which, on thy part,
 Claims just returns of pity : for whose lot
 Demands it more than theirs, whom fate forbids
 To taste the joys of courteous charity ;
 To wipe the trickling tears, which dew the cheek
 Of palsied age ; to smooth its furrow'd brow,
 And pay its gray hairs each due reverence ?
 Yet such delight we are forbid to taste !
 For 'tis our lord's command, that not a stranger,
 However high or lowly his degree,
 Have entrance at these gates.

O R G A R.

Who may this tyrant—

CHORUS.

[ 81 ]

C H O R U S.

Alas, no tyrant he; the more our wonder
At this harsh mandate: Tenderness and Pity
Have made his breast their home. He is a man
More apt, thro' inborn gentleness to err
In giving mercy's tide too free a course,
Than with a thrifty and illiberal hand
To stint its channel. This his praise you'll hear
The universal theme in EDGAR's court:
For EDGAR ranks him first in his high favour;
Loads him with honours, which the Earl receives,
As does the golden censer frankincense,
Only to spread a sacred gale of blessings
Around on all.

O R G A R.

Methinks, this pleasing portrait
Bears strong resemblance of Lord ATHELWOLD.

C H O R U S.

Himself: no Briton but has heard his fame.

O R G A R.

'Tis wondrous strange; can you conceive no cause
For this his conduct?

C H O R U S.

None, that we may trust.

M                      O R G A R.

O R G A R.

Your garbs bespeak you for the fair attendants
Of some illustrious dame, the wife, or sister
Of this dread earl.

C H O R U S.

On this head too, old man,
We are commanded a religious silence:
Which strictly we obey; for well we know
Fidelity's a virtue that ennobles
Ev'n servitude itself: Farewell, depart
With our best wishes; we do trespass much
To hold this open converse with a stranger.

O R G A R.

Stay, Virgins, stay; have ye no friendly shed,
But bord'ring on your castle, where these limbs
Might lay their load of mis'ry for an hour?
Have ye no food, however mean and homely,
Wherewith I might support declining nature?
Ev'n while I speak, I find my spirits fail;
And well, full well, I know, these trembling feet,
Ere I can pace a hundred steps, will sink
Beneath their wretched burthen.

C H O R U S.

Piteous sight!

What

What shall we do, my sisters? To admit
 This man beneath the roof, would be to scorn
 The Earl's strict interdict; and yet my heart
 Bleeds to behold that white, old, rev'rend head
 Bow'd with such misery.—Yes, we must aid him.
 Hie thee, poor Pilgrim, to yon neighb'ring bow'r,
 O'er which an old oak spreads his awful arm,
 Mantled in brownest foliage, and beneath
 The ivy, gadding from th' untwisted stem,
 Curtains each verdant side. There thou may'st rest,
 There too, perchance, some of our sisterhood
 May bring thee speedy sustenance.

O R G A R.

Kind Heav'n!

Reward——

C H O R U S.

Ah! stay not here to thank us,
 But haste to give thine age this meet repose.
 That done, we do conjure thee leave the place
 With cautious secrecy; for was it known,
 That thus we trespass'd on our lord's command,
 The consequence were fatal.

O R G A R.

Fairest Maid!

M 2

Think

Think not I'll basely draw down punishments
 On my preservers. I retire. May blessings
 Show'r'd from yon fount of Blifs repay your kindness.

[Exit Orgar.]

S E M I C H O R U S.

Yes, sisters, yes, when pale distress
 Implores your aiding hand,
 Let not a partial faithfulness,
 Let not a mortal's vain command
 Urge you to break th' unalterable laws
 Of heav'n-descended Charity.
 Ah! follow still the soft-ey'd Deity;
 For know, each path she draws,
 Along the plain of life,
 Meets at the central dome of heart-felt joy.
 Follow the soft-ey'd Deity;
 She bids ye, as ye hope for blessings, blefs.
 Aid then the gen'ral cause of gen'ral happiness.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Humanity, thy awful strain
 Shall ever greet our ear,
 Sonorous, sweet, and clear.
 And as amid the sprightly-swelling train
 Of dulcet notes, that breathe

From

From flute or lyre,
 The deep base rolls its manly melody,
 Guiding the tuneful choir ;
 So thou, Humanity, shalt lead along
 Th' accordant passions in their moral song,
 And give our mental concert truest harmony.

C H O R U S.

But see, ELFRIDA comes.
 Should we again resume our former strain,
 And hail the Morn that paints her waking beauties :
 Or stay her gentle bidding? Rather stay ;
 For, as I think, she seems in pensive mood ;
 And there are times, when to the forrowing soul
 Ev'n harmony is harshness.

E L F R I D A, C H O R U S.

E L F R I D A.

Oh my Virgins,
 With what a leaden and retarding weight,
 Does Expectation load the wing of Time ?
 Alas, how have these three dull hours crept on,
 Since first the crimson mantle of the morn
 Skirted yon gay horizon ? Say, my Friends,
 Have I miscounted ? Did not ATHELWOLD
 At parting fix this morn for his return ?

This

This dear long-wish'd for morn? He did, he did,
 And seal'd it with a kiss; I could not err.
 And yet he comes not. He was wont outstrip
 The sun's most early speed, and make its rising
 To me unwish'd and needless. This delay
 Creates strange doubts and scruples in my breast,
 Courts throng with beauties, and my ATHELWOLD
 Has a soft, susceptible heart, as prone
 To yield its love to ev'ry sparkling eye,
 As is the musk-rose to dispense its fragrance
 To ev'ry whisp'ring breeze; perhaps he's false,
 Perhaps ELFRIDA's wretched.

C H O R U S.

See, ELFRIDA,

Ah see! how round yon branching elm the ivy
 Clasps its green folds, and poisons what supports it.
 Not less injurious to the shoots of Love
 Is sickly jealousy.

E L F R I D A.

My mind nor pines
 With jealousy, nor rests secure in peace.
 Who loves, must fear; and sure who loves like me,
 Must greatly fear.

C H O R U S.

C H O R U S.

Yet whence the cause? Your Earl
 Has ever yet (this little breach excepted)
 Been punctual to appointment. Did his eye
 Glow with less ardent passion when he left you,
 Than at the first blest meeting? No! I mark'd him,
 His parting glance was that of fervent love,
 And constancy unalter'd. Do not fear him.

E L F R I D A.

I should not fear him, were his present stay
 The only cause. Alas, it is not so!
 Why comes my Earl so secret to these arms?
 Why, but because he dreads the just reproach
 Of some deluded fair one? Why am I
 Here shrouded up, like the pale Votarist,
 Who knows no visitant, save the lone owl,
 That nightly leaves his ivy-shrouded cell,
 And sails on slow wing thro' the cloister'd isles,
 Lift'ning her faintly orisons? Why am I
 Deny'd to follow my departed Lord
 Whene'er his duty calls him to the palace?

C H O R U S.

Covet not that; the noblest proof of love
 That ATHELWOLD can give, is still to guard

Your

Your beauties from the blast of courtly gales.
 The crimson blush of virgin modesty,
 The delicate soft tints of innocence
 There all fly off, and leave no boast behind
 But well-rang'd, faded features. Ah, ELFRIDA,
 Should you be doom'd, which happier fate forbid !
 To drag your hours through all that nauseous scene
 Of pageantry and vice ; your purer breast,
 True to its virtuous relish, soon would heave
 A fervent sigh for innocence and Harewood.

E L F R I D A.

You much mistake me, Virgins ; the throng'd palace
 Were undesir'd by me, did not that palace
 Detain my ATHELWOLD. If he were here,
 His presence would convert this range of oaks
 To stately columns ; these gay-liv'ried flow'rs
 To troops of gallant ladies ; and yon deer,
 That jut their antlers forth in sportive fray,
 To armed knights at joust or tournament.
 If ATHELWOLD dwelt here ; if no ambition
 Could lure his steps from love, and this still forest ;
 If I might never moan his time of absence,
 Longer than that which serv'd him for the chase
 Or of the wolf, or stag ; or when he bore

The

The hood-wink'd falcon forth; might these, my Virgins,
 And these alone, be love's short intervals,
 I should not have one thought remote from Harewood.

C H O R U S.

And would you wish that ATHELWOLD should flight
 The weal of England, and on these light toys
 Waste his unvalued hours? No, fond ELFRIDA;
 His active soul is wing'd for nobler flights.

E L F R I D A.

What then, must England's welfare hold my Earl
 For ever from these shades?

C H O R U S.

We say not that.

The youth, who bathes in pleasure's tempting stream
 At well-judg'd intervals, feels all his soul
 Nerv'd with recruited strength; but if too oft
 He swims in sportive mazes through the flood,
 It chills his languid virtue. For this cause
 Your Earl forbids, that these enchanting groves,
 And their fair mistress should possess him wholly.
 He knows he has a country and a king,
 That claim his first attention; yet be sure,
 'Twill not be long, ere his unbending mind
 Shall lose in sweet oblivion ev'ry care,
 Among th' embow'ring shades that veil ELFRIDA.

N

ELFRIDA.

E L F R I D A.

Oh be that speech prophetic ; may he soon
 Seek these embow'ring shades ! Meanwhile, my friends,
 Sooth me with harmony. I know full well
 That ye were nurs'd in Cornwall's wizard caves,
 And oft have pac'd the fairy-peopled vales
 Of Devon, where Posterity retains
 Some vein of that old minstrelsy, which breath'd
 Through each time-honour'd grove of British oak.
 There, where the spreading consecrated boughs
 Fed the sage mistletoe, the holy Druids
 Lay rapt in moral musings ; while the Bards
 Call'd from their solemn harps such lofty airs,
 As drew down Fancy from the realms of Light
 To paint some radiant vision on their minds,
 Of high mysterious import. But on me
 Such strains sublime were wasted : I but ask
 A sprightly song to speed the lazy flight
 Of these dull hours. And Music sure can find
 A magic spell to make them skim their round,
 Swift as the swallow circles. Try its power :
 While I, from yonder hillock, watch his coming.

[Exit Elfrida.]

CHORUS.

[ 91 ]

C H O R U S.

O D E.

I. 1.

The Turtle tells her plaintive tale,
Sequester'd in some shadowy vale ;
The Lark in radiant ether floats,
And swells his wild extatic notes :
Meanwhile on yonder hawthorn spray
The Linnet wakes her temp'rate lay ;
She haunts no solitary shade,
She flutters o'er no sun-shine mead,
No love-lorn griefs depress her song,
No raptures lift it loudly high,
But soft she trills, amid th' aerial throng,
Smooth simple strains of sob'rest harmony.

I. 2.

Sweet Bird ! like thine our lay shall flow,
Nor gaily brisk, nor sadly slow ;
For to thy note sedate, and clear,
CONTENT still lends a list'ning ear.
Reclin'd this mossy bank along,
Oft has she heard thy careless song :
Why hears not now ? What fairer grove
From Harewood lures her devious love ?

N 2

What

What fairer grove than Harewood knows,
 More woodland walks, more fragrant gales,
 More shadowy bowers, inviting soft repose,
 More streams flow-wand'ring thro' her winding vales ?

I. 3.

Perhaps to some lone cave the Rover flies,
 Where lull'd in pious peace the Hermit lies.
 For, from the Hall's tumultuous state,
 Where banners wave with blazon'd gold,
 There will the meek-ey'd Matron oft retreat,
 And with the solemn Sage high converse hold.

II. 1.

There, Goddess, on the shaggy mound,
 Where tumbling torrents roar around,
 Where pendant mountains o'er your head
 Stretch their reverential shade ;
 You listen, while the holy Seer
 Slowly chaunts his vespers clear ;
 Or of his sparing mefs partake,
 The fav'ry pulse, the wheaten cake,
 The bev'rage cool of limpid rill.
 Then, rising light, your host you bless,
 And o'er his faintly temples bland distil
 Seraphic day-dreams of heav'n's happiness.

Where'er

II. 2.

Where'er thou art, enchanting Power,
 Thou soon wilt smile in Harewood's bower :
 Soon will thy fairy feet be seen,
 Printing this dew-impearled green ;
 Soon shall we mark thy gestures meek,
 Thy glitt'ring eye, and dimpled cheek,
 Among the welcome guests that move
 Attendant on the state of Love.
 There, when the Sov'reign leads along
 Of Sports and Smiles a jocund train,
 Then last, but loveliest of the lovely throng,
 Thou com'st to soften, yet secure his reign.

II. 3.

And, hark, completing our prophetic lay,
 The fleet hoof rattles o'er the flinty way ;
 Now nearer, and now nearer sounds,
 Avaunt ! ye vain, delusive Fears.
 Hark ! Echo tells through Harewood's amplest bounds,
 That Love, Content, and ATHELWOLD appears.

ATHELWOLD, ELFRIDA, CHORUS.

Look ever thus ; with that bright glance of joy
 Thus always meet my transports. Let these arms

Thus

Thus ever fold me; and this cheek, that blooms
 With all health's op'ning rofes, prefs my lips,
 Warm as at this blest moment.

E L F R I D A.

ATHELWOLD,

I had prepar'd me many a stern rebuke;
 Had arm'd my brow with frowns, and taught my eye
 Th' averted glance of coldness, which might best
 Greet such a loit'ring lover: but I find,
 'Twas a vain task; for this my truant heart
 Forgets each lesson, which resentment taught,
 And in thy sight knows only to be happy.

My best ELFRIDA—Heav'ns! it cannot last.
 The giddy height of joy, to which I'm lifted,
 Is as a hanging rock, at whose low foot
 The black and beating furge of Infamy
 Rolls ready to receive, and sink my soul.

E L F R I D A.

So soon to fall into this musing mood—
 I thought, my Lord, you promis'd you would leave
 These looks behind at Court. Nay, 'twas the cause
 Assign'd for this my residence at Harewood,
 That you might never come to these fond arms,

But

But with a breast devoid of public care,
 And fill'd alone with rapture and ELFRIDA.
 Said you not so? Why then that pensive posture,
 That down-cast eye? Surely the City's din,
 And this calm grove have lost their difference.
 I'll with you to the palace.

Heav'n forbid!

E L F R I D A.

Nay, my best Lord, I meant it but in sport;
 For should you bid me quit these blooming lawns,
 For some bare heath, or drear unpeopled desert;
 Believe me, I would think its wildness Eden,
 If ATHELWOLD with frequent visitation
 Endear'd the savage scene: but yet I fear
 My Father.

Hah! why him;

E L F R I D A.

You know his temper;
 How jealous of his rank, and his trac'd lineage
 From royal ancestry. I fear me much,
 He will not brook you should conceal me long
 In this lone privacy: No, he will deem it

Far

Far unbecoming her, whose veins are fill'd
With the rich stream of his nobility.
Should it be so, his hot and fiery nature,
I doubt, will blaze, and do some dreadful outrage.

He need not know it, or, if chance he should,
It matters not, if so this forest life
Seem of your own adoption and free choice.
And that it will so seem, I trust that love,
Which ever yet has met my wayward will
With pleas'd compliance, and unask'd assent.

E L F R I D A.

And ever shall: yet blame me not, my Lord,
If prying womanhood should prompt a wish
To learn the cause of this your strange commotion,
Which ever wakes, if I but drop one thought
Of quitting Harewood.

Go to the clear surface
Of yon unruffled lake, and, bending o'er it,
There read my answer.

E L F R I D A.

These are riddles, Sir—

A T H E L-

No; for its glassy and reflecting surface
Will smile with charms too tempting for a palace.

E L F R I D A .

Does A T H E L W O L D distrust E L F R I D A's faith ?

No: but he much distrusts E L F R I D A's beauty.

E L F R I D A .

Away: you trifle.

Never more in earnest;

I would not for the throne which E D G A R sits on,
That E D G A R should behold it.

E L F R I D A .

What, my Lord,

Think you the face, that caught your single heart,
Will make all hearts its captives? Vain surmise.

Yet grant it could; the face is your's alone:

Not E D G A R's self would dare to seize it from you.

E D G A R's a King, and not a tyrant.

True,

E D G A R's a King, a just one; his firm feet
Walk ever in the fore-right road of honour:

O

Nor

Nor do I know what lure can draw his steps
 Devious from that straight path, save only one :
 That tempting lure is beauty. Ah! ELFRIDA,
 Throw but the dazzling bait within his view,
 The untam'd wolf does not with fiercer rage
 Burst the slight bondage of the silken net,
 Than he the ties of law. Late, very late,
 Smit casually with young MATILDA's face,
 He strait commanded her reluctant Mother
 To yield her to his arms : nor had she 'scap'd
 The violating fervour of his love,
 Had not the prudent dame suborn'd her handmaid,
 To take the unchaste office, and be led
 Veil'd in the mask of night, to EDGAR's chamber
 A counterfeit MATILDA. As it chanc'd,
 The damsel pleas'd the King, nor did detection
 A whit abate his fondness ; he forgave
 The prudent mother, eas'd MATILDA's fears,
 And led the wanton minstrel to his court,
 Where still she shares—

C H O R U S.

Behold, Earl ATHELWOLD,
 A messenger arrives ; his speed and aspect
 Speak some important errand.

EDWIN,

EDWIN, ATHELWOLD, ELFRIDA, CHORUS.

How now, EDWIN?

E D W I N.

The King, my Lord, is on his way to Harewood.

The King!

E D W I N.

His purpose is to pass through Mercia :

And in a hasty message, some two hours
After you left the palace, this his pleasure
Was sent you by Lord SEOFRID ; withal
Commanding your attendance. You being absent,
He straightway turn'd his course through this fair forest,
Meaning to chase the Stag ; his train is small,
As was his purpose sudden.

E L F R I D A.

Good my Lord,

Why thus perplex'd ?

C H O R U S.

Heav'ns ! what a deep Despair
Sits on his brow !

E L F R I D A.

The notice sure is short ;

O 2

But

But that's a trifle, a small train requires
The smaller preparation : let him come.

Yes, let him come : so thou wilt say, ELFRIDA,
When thou hast heard my tale. Yes, let him come,
So wilt thou say, and let thy husband perish.
Yet shall these arms once more embrace thee closely,
Ere yet thou fly them as the pois'nous adder.
'Tis o'er : in that embrace ELFRIDA'S Love
Was buried ; and in that embrace, the Peace
Of wretched ATHELWOLD.

E L F R I D A.

What may this be !

Oh EDWIN, EDWIN, when surviving Malice
Shall prey upon the Fame of thy dead Master,
Wilt thou not some way strive to check the Fiend's
Infatiate fury ? Wilt thou see my name
Defil'd, and blacken'd with Detraction's venom,
And bear it patiently ?

E L F R I D A.

What means my best—

A T H E L W O L D.

Peace ; not a word of Best, or Lov'd, or Dear :

These

These are not titles now for thee to use,
 Or me to triumph in. Virgins, retire ;
 We would a while be private. Nay, return.
 Concealment would be vain ; and ye and EDWIN
 Are bound to me. ALBINA ! as for you,
 I sav'd your father, when his blood was forfeit.

C H O R U S .

Not I, great Earl, alone, but all this train
 Are bound by ev'ry tie of faith and love
 To gen'rous ATHELWOLD ; to that mild master,
 Who never forc'd our Service to one act,
 But of such liberal fort, as Freedom's self
 Would smilingly perform.

A T H E L W O L D .

It may be so ;
 But where's the tie, ELFRIDA, that may bind
 Thy faith and love ?

E L F R I D A .

The strongest sure, my Lord,
 The golden, nuptial tie. Try but its strength.

I must perforce this instant. Know, ELFRIDA,
 Once, on a day of high festivity,
 The youthful King, encircled with his Nobles,

Crown'd

Crown'd high the sparkling bowl ; and much of Love,
 Of beauty much the sprightly converse ran.
 When, as it well might chance, the brisk Lord ARDULPH
 Made gallant note of ORGAR's peerless daughter,
 And in such phrase as might enflame a breast
 More cool than EDGAR's. Early on the morrow
 Th' impatient Monarch gave me swift commission
 To view those charms, of which Lord ARDULPH's tongue
 Had giv'n such warm description : to whose words
 If my impartial eye gave full assent,
 I had his royal mandate on the instant
 To hail you Queen of England.

E L F R I D A.

'Stead of which
 You came, and hail'd me Wife of ATHELWOLD.
 Was this the tale I was so taught to fear ?
 Was this the deed, that known would make me fly
 Thy clasping arm, as 'twere the pois'nous adder ?
 No, let this tender, fond embrace assure thee,
 That thy ELFRIDA's love can never die ;
 Or, if it could, this animating touch
 Would soon awake it into life and rapture.

A T H E L W O L D.

Dost thou then pardon me ? Come, injur'd sov'reign,
 Plunge

Plunge deep thy sword of justice in this breast,
And I will die contented.

E L F R I D A.

Heav'n forbid!

What can be done?

C H O R U S.

Indeed, ye constant pair,
'Tis fit ye strive to fly the coming danger.
For Safety now sits wav'ring on your Love,
Like the light down upon the Thistle's beard,
Which ev'ry breeze may part. Say, noble Earl,
What feint was us'd to lull the king's impatience?

Soon as these shades had veil'd my beauteous bride,
I hasted back to EDGAR, laugh'd at ARDULPH,
And talk'd of ELFRID, as of vulgar beauties;
Own'd no uncommon light'ning in her eye,
No breast that sham'd the snow, or cheek the rose.
The sprightly King believ'd me, and forgot her.

C H O R U S.

But an alliance, great as ATHELWOLD'S
With ORGAR'S daughter, soon would blaze abroad,
The theme of popular converse.

True, it would ;

And for that Reason, when I last was here,
The King was taught I went to wed ELFRIDA.

E L F R I D A.

How so, my Lord ?

Thy Father, my ELFRIDA,

Has rich possessions : These, and these alone,
I made my theme of Love ; and told the king,
That tho' thy face (pardon the impious falsehood)
Boasted not charms to grace a Monarch's throne,
Yet would thy dow'r well suit his minister.

I therefore meant to ask thee of thy father,
And (that my want of skill in choice might 'scape
All censure) hide thee close in Harewood castle.

EDGAR with smiles consented, and, I think,
Harbours no thought of my disloyalty.

E L F R I D A.

If so, what danger now ?

Ask'st thou, what danger ?

'Sdeath, will that glance not instantly proclaim
My tenfold treachery ?

E L F R I D A.

E L F R I D A.

He shall not see me.

I'll hide me instant in some secret chamber,
And robe this virgin in my bridal vestments.

Thy Love, like balm, runs trick'ling o'er the wounds
Of my torn bosom; yet 'tis vain, 'tis vain:
Thou must thyself appear, for ARDULPH ever
Attends the king, and would detect the fraud.

E L F R I D A.

If so, yet still I can insure our safety;
For as you fear my softness of complexion,
I'll stain it with the juice of dusky leaves,
Or yellow berries, which this various wood
From tree or shrub will yield me. These I'll use,
And form a thousand methods to conceal
The little gleams of grace, which Nature lent me.
Fear not my caution.

A T H E L W O L D.

Gentlest, best of Creatures,
Go, do then as thy tender care directs.
And yet how vain? What wond'rous art can steal
The liquid lightnings from those radiant eyes,
Or rob the wavy ringlets of that hair

Of all their nameless graces? Say it could,
Yet would that modest, but majestic mien,
That inborn dignity of soul, which breathes
Thro' each angelic gesture, still remain
To seize the heart of EDGAR. Rest, ELFRIDA,
Rest as thou art, in all that blaze of beauty :
I must submit to my just lot, and lose thee.

E L F R I D A.

Away, my Lord, with these too anxious scruples :
Fear not my carriage ; I will stoop my head,
Drawl out an idiot phrase, and do each act
With ev'n a rude and peasant awkwardness.

E D W I N.

Ere this, my Lord, I think, the King has reach'd
The full mid-way ; 'twere fit you stood prepar'd
To give him meeting.

Give him meeting, EDWIN!

Alas ! I have no mask to veil my baseness.
When deep contrition shadows all my soul,
I cannot dress my features in light smiles,
And look the thing I am not. No, these eyes
Are not as yet true vassals to my purpose,
As yet indeed I am but half a villain.

ELFRIDA.

E L F R I D A.

You weigh this matter in too nice a balance.
Your crime, my Lord, is but the crime of love :
Thousands like you have fail'd.

I know, ELFRIDA,
Could love absolve the crime, my soul were pure
As maiden innocence. Yes, I do love thee,
And thou art fair—beyond—But that's my bane ;
Thy ev'ry charm adds weight to my offence,
And heaps fresh wrongs upon the best of Masters.
Yes, ELFRID, EDGAR was the best of Masters.
Oh hide me from the thought in that dear bosom—
Heav'ns ! I must die or keep her.

E L F R I D A.

Live, or die,
I'm thine alike. Death cannot aught abate,
Or life augment, my love. Let this embrace
Be witness of my truth.

It shall, it shall :
Thy ev'ry word and look declares thee faithful,
Secure of all thy love, and all thy prudence,
Returning confidence has arm'd my soul

For this dread meeting : resting on thy truth

I go—

[Exit Athelwold.]

E L F R I D A.

Go, and thy guardian saint preserve thee,

Show'r blessings vast as would my lavish love,

Had I his power to bless thee !

C H O R U S.

Yes, my Sisters,

The silent awe that reigns thro' all your train,

Befits ye well. Let Admiration first

Pay her mute tribute. She can best express,

By those her kindling cheeks, and lifted eyes,

Where the tear twinkles, that transcendant praise

ELFRIDA'S Virtue claims.

E L F R I D A.

My Virtue, Virgins,

Is only love. Or, say that it be virtue,

It owes its source to Love, to chastest Love,

Than which what passion more impels the mind

To fair and gen'rous action? But the hours

Are precious now. I'll to yon neighb'ring grove :

There grows an azure flow'r, I oft have mark'd it,

Which stains the pressing finger with a juice

Of

Of dusky, yellow tinct: Its name I know not.
I'll fetch and try it ftrait. Wait my return.

[Exit Elfrida.

C H O R U S.

O D E.

I.

Whence does this sudden Lustre rise,
That gilds the grove? Not like the noontide beam,
Which sparkling dances on the trembling stream,
Nor the blue lightning's flash swift-shooting thro' the skies.

But such a solemn steady Light,
As o'er the cloudless azure steals,
When Cynthia, riding on the brow of night,
Stops in their mid career her silver wheels.

II.

Whence can it rise, but from the sober power
Of CONSTANCY? She, heav'n-born Queen,
Descends, and here in HAREWOOD's hallow'd bower,

Fixes her stedfast reign:
Stedfast, as when her high command
Gives to the starry band
Their radiant Stations in heav'n's ample plain.
Stedfast, as when around this nether sphere,
She winds the various year.

Tells

Tells what time the Snow-drop cold
 Its maiden whiteness may unfold,
 When the golden harvest bend,
 When the ruddy fruits descend.

Then bids pale Winter wake, to pour
 The pearly hail's translucent show'r,
 To cast his silv'ry mantle o'er the woods,
 And bind in crystal chains the flumb'ring floods.

III.

The Soul, which she inspires, has pow'r to climb
 To all the heights sublime
 Of Virtue's tow'ring hill.

That hill, at whose low foot weak-warbling strays
 The scanty stream of human praise,
 A shallow trickling rill.

While on the Summits hov'ring Angels shed,
 From their blest pinions, the nectareous dew
 Of rich immortal Fame: From these the Muse
 Oft steals some precious drops, and skilful blends

With those the lower fountain lends;
 Then show'rs it all on some high-favour'd head.
 But thou, ELFRIDA, claim'ft the genuine dew;
 Thy worth demands it all,

Pure, and unmixt, on thee the holy drops shall fall.

[Elfrida returns with flowers.]

ELFRIDA,

[ III ]

ELFRIDA, ORGAR, CHORUS.

ELFRIDA. [looking on the flower.]

'Tis strange, my Virgins, this sweet child of Summer,
Silken and soft, whose breath perfumes the air,
Whose gay vest paints the Morn, should in its bosom
Hide such pollution? Yet 'tis often thus:
All are not as they seem.

ORGAR.

Yet hear me, Lady.

ELFRIDA.

Be gone, unmanner'd Stranger, nor pursue me;
Hence, from the grove. Know ye this Pilgrim, Virgins?
On my return I met him here.

CHORUS.

Alas;

We saw him here before, and heard his tale,
That mov'd our pity—But I fear me now,
'Twas false; some spy perchance, and may have heard—

ORGAR.

I have; yet not for that are you betray'd.
Fair Excellence, my heart is bound unto you,
I feel a tender interest in your welfare,
Tender as Fathers feel.

ELFRIDA.

ELFRIDA.

As Fathers feel ;

That well-known voice, and ah ! that look—

ORGAR.

ELFRIDA !

ELFRIDA.

Yes it is him, it is my Father, Virgins.

Support me, or I faint ! Oh wherefore, Sir ?——

ORGAR.

Take courage, Daughter, my parental fondness

Prompted this visit. Thus I came disguis'd,

To learn the cause of my dear child's confinement :

And I have learnt it.

ELFRIDA.

Then all's lost for ever.

ORGAR.

Thou know'st, ELFRIDA, next my house's honour,

Thy peace has ever been my dearest care.

But such an insult—No : I cannot brook it.

So black a fraud ! By all my ancestors,

By BELIN's shade I will have ample vengeance.

ELFRIDA.

Alas, I know too well your dreadful purpose.

I knew it at the first. Yes, he must fall.

Yet

Yet pardon me, if my poor trembling heart
 Puts up I know not what of pray'rs and vows
 To ev'ry pitying faint. Celestial Guardians
 Of nuptial Constancy! Oh bend from heav'n
 Your star-crown'd heads, and hear a wretched woman,
 That begs ye save, from a dread father's rage,
 Her lord, her husband.

O R G A R.

Husband! 'Sdeath what husband?
 Is ATHELWOLD thy husband? Sooner call
 Th' impeached thief true master of the booty
 He stole, or murder'd for. Disdain the Villain;
 And help me to revenge thee.

C H O R U S.

Think, great Earl;
 What sanctimonious ties restrain your daughter.
 Did she not swear before the hallow'd shrine
 Eternal fealty to this her Lord?
 Yet say, that he deceiv'd her; shall her truth
 Dare to revenge? No, Sir, in highest heav'n
 Vengeance 'mid storms and tempests sits enshrin'd,
 Vested in robes of lightning, and there sleeps,
 Unwak'd but by th' incens'd Almighty's call.

Q

Oh!

Oh! let not Man presume to take unbid
That dread vicegerency.

O R G A R.

Peace, Virgins, peace.

Not ev'n the laws of Druids or of Bards
Have weight with me, when insults high as this
Rouse my just indignation. Hear me, Daughter;
You went to search for flow'rs, to blot your charms
With their dun hue. Yes, thou shalt search for flow'rs,
Yet shall they be the loveliest of the spring;
Flow'rs, that entangling in thine auburn hair,
Or blushing 'mid the whiteness of thy bosom,
May, to the power of ev'ry native grace,
Give double life and lustre. Haste, my child,
Array thyself in thy most gorgeous garb,
And see each jewel, which my Love procur'd thee,
Dart its full radiance. More than all, put on
The nobler ornament of winning smiles,
And kind inviting glances.

E L F R I D A.

Never, never;

When this true heart renounces ATHELWOLD,
May equitable heav'n—

O R G A R.

O R G A R.

Away with vows ;
 And with a duteous, and attentive Ear,
 Listen to my persuasions. Much I wish
 Persuasions might prevail, that not compell'd
 To use a father's just prerogative,
 My will may meet with thy unforc'd obedience.
 Follow me, on thy duty.

E L F R I D A.

Cruel Father,
 That duty shall obey you ; I will follow :
 Yet dread as is that frown, dreadful as death,
 It shall not shake the tenor of my faith ;
 Living or dead I still am ATHELWOLD'S.

[Exeunt Orgar and Elfrida.]

S E M I C H O R U S.

Horror ! Horror !
 The Pen of Fate, dipt in its deepest gall,
 Perhaps on that ill-omen'd wall,
 Now writes th' event of this tremendous day.
 Oh ! that our weaker fight
 Could read the mystic characters, and spy
 What to the unpurg'd, mortal Eye,
 Is hid in endless Night.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Suspense ! thou frozen guest, begone.
 The wretch, whose rugged bed
 Is spread on thorns, more softly rests his head,
 Than he that sinks amid the cygnet's down,
 If thou, tormenting fiend, be nigh,
 To prompt his starting tear, his ceaseless sigh,
 His wish, his pray'r, his vow for ling'ring certainty.

C H O R U S.

But hark ! that certainty arrives. Methought
 I heard the winding horn. I did not err ;
 The King is near at hand. This quick approach
 Will sure prevent this proud Earl's cruel purpose.
 Yet what of that ? Does her fair form require
 The blazon of rich vesture ? Genuine beauty
 Nor asks, nor needs it : Negligence alone
 Is its bright diadem, and artless ease
 Its robe of Tyrian tincture. Say, my Sisters,
 Shall we salute this monarch with a hymn
 Of Festival and Joy ? Alas, such joy
 Ill suits our trembling hearts, and weeping eyes.
 And now 'twere vain ; for see, the King approaches.

EDGAR,

EDGAR, ATHELWOLD, CHORUS.

E D G A R.

No, ATHELWOLD ; not from a partial blindness,
 Or for the mode and guise of Courtesy,
 Are we thus large in praise ; in our true judgment,
 This Castle is not more kind Nature's debtor
 For its delicious site, than 'tis to thee
 For this so goodly structure. From its base,
 Ev'n to yon turrets trim, and taper spires,
 All is of choicest Masonry. Each part
 Doth boast a separate grace ; but Ornament,
 Tho' here the richest that the eye can note,
 Is us'd, not lavish'd ; Art seems generous here,
 Yet not a prodigal. But ah ! my Earl, [seeing the Chorus.]
 What living charms are here ? Thy castle's beauty
 Must not detain me from this lovelier prospect.
 Your pardon, fair Ones, that my wayward Eye
 Paid not at first, where first was surely due,
 Its homage to your Graces.

Heav'ns ! they weep.

What may this mean ? Some dread and unseen chance
 Has counter-work'd my safety.

EDGAR.

[ 118 ]

E D G A R.

Whence this silence ?

Why are your lovely heads thus bow'd with sadness ?

Beshrew my heart, my Lord, but this is strange.

I know thee, Earl, and know thy gentleness,

More prone t'obey, than lord it o'er the sex ;

Else should I guess this sorrow had its rise

From some discourteous treatment.

C H O R U S.

No, dread Sov'reign ;

He is the noblest, gentlest, best of masters ;

And may your Love reward——

ORGAR, ATHELWOLD, EDGAR, CHORUS.

Death to my hopes !

O R G A R.

Yes, Villain, start ; but let this vengeful arm

Arrest thy baseness ; would to heav'n its strength,

Thus grasping thee, could open thy false breast,

And bare thy heart to the sham'd eye of Day.

E D G A R.

Patience, hot Man. What art thou ?

O R G A R.

Earl of Devon !

Pardon

Pardon me, Prince; that this my honest rage
 O'erleaps obedient duty. I am wrong'd,
 Yet that's but small; for know, much-injur'd Prince,
 Thy wrongs as well as mine both call for justice.
 Yes, Sir, I here, on a true subject's oath,
 Proclaim Earl ATHELWOLD a faithless traitor.

EDGAR.

Ha! what is this? Renounce the word, old Earl;
 Thy length of years hath forc'd thee, sure, to press
 The verge of dotage. ATHELWOLD! what ATHELWOLD
 A faithless traitor! Perish the suspicion.
 Never before did word, or thought, or look,
 Give doubt of his distinguish'd loyalty.
 Dotage alone could frame the accusation.

ORGAN.

I do not dote, thank Heav'n, my faculties
 Are yet my own, unblemish'd and unhurt.
 Would so my Daughter were!

EDGAR.

What is his drift?

ATHELWOLD.

Better, my royal Lord, you mark'd him not;
 The wayward Earl is—

ORGAN.

[ 120 ]

O R G A R.

What, audacious Villain!

I will be heard.

E D G A R.

Go to, thou choleric Lord.

O R G A R.

When thou hast heard me, EDGAR, call me choleric.

E D G A R.

Speak then, and briefly.

O R G A R.

Once, my sacred Liege,

I had a daughter, duteous as e'er crown'd
A Father's wifh, and lovely as could warm
A youth to am'rous transports. This, my Lord,
You learnt long fince from noble ARDULPH's praifes,
And fir'd with his description, fent this Earl,
This faithful Earl, t'invite her to our throne.

E D G A R.

No, ORGAR, not t'invite her to our throne,
Simply to note her beauty was his errand.

O R G A R.

Yes, he did note it, ftamp't it for his own.
But why this parley? Enter, Sir, thefe gates,
And let ELFRIDA's features be the book,

Where

Where you may read the story of his falshood,
Ev'n on the infant.

E D G A R.

Noble Lord, lead on.

We'll follow to the trial. I will humour
The Earl's hot temper. He has heard, my friend,
We meant t'exalt his daughter, and for that
His partial fondness, link'd with his ambition,
Levels this rage at thee. Attend us, Lords.

[Exeunt Edgar, Orgar, &c.]

C H O R U S.

My Lord, the King is enter'd: stand not thus
In mute and fixt distress.

Away, away;

What! can a Man that thinks such thoughts as I do
Have pow'r of word or motion? speak to me;
Inform me all. What said she, when I left her?
How came her Father hither? how did she
Greet his arrival? Say, was she compell'd,
Or did her free and voluntary voice
Tell all the story? Did she marshal him,
To this his deed of vengeance?

R

CHORUS.

C H O R U S.

Dearest Master ;

ELFRIDA told him not : his own deceit
 Was his informer. Here the Earl arriv'd
 Early at morn, in mean and pilgrim weeds,
 All like an ancient, toil-worn traveller ;
 And with a tale told in such piteous strain,
 Fraught with such sad and moving circumstance,
 With woes so well dissembled ; that our softness
 Suffered him enter this close bow'r for rest,
 Which he adapting to his prying purpose,
 Thence learnt the secret. This our disobedience,
 We own—

A T H E L W O L D.

Was my perdition. Yet 'tis well ;
 I blame ye not ; it was Heav'n's justice, Virgins ;
 This brought him hither ; this annull'd your faith.
 I do not think, you purpos'd my destruction ;
 But yet you have destroy'd me. Oh ELFRIDA,
 And art thou faithful ? This my jealous eye
 Thought it had mark'd some speck of change upon thee ;
 Thought it had found, what might have made thy loss
 Somewhat within endurance. 'Tis not so ;
 And this thy purity but serves t'augment

The

The sum of my distractions. Meet me, EDGAR,
With thy rais'd sword: be merciful and sudden—

[Exit Athelwold.]

C H O R U S.

O D E.

I. 1.

Say, will no white-rob'd Son of Light,
Swift-darting from his heav'nly height,
Here deign to take his hallow'd stand;
Here wave his amber locks; unfold
His pinions cloth'd with downy gold;
Here smiling stretch his tutelary wand?
And you, ye host of Saints, for ye have known
Each dreary path in Life's perplexing maze,
Tho' now ye circle yon eternal throne
With harpings high of inexpressive praise,
Will not your train descend in radiant state,
To break with Mercy's beam this gath'ring cloud of Fate?

I. 2.

'Tis silence all. No Son of Light
Darts swiftly from his heav'nly height;
No train of radiant Saints descend.
“Mortals, in vain ye hope to find,
“If guilt, if fraud has stain'd your mind,
“Or Saint to hear, or Angel to defend.”

R 2

So

So TRUTH proclaims. I hear the sacred sound
Burst from the centre of her burning throne :

Where aye she sits with star-wreath'd lustre crown'd :
A bright Sun clasps her adamant zone.

So TRUTH proclaims : her awful voice I hear :
With many a solemn pause it slowly meets my ear.

I. 3.

“ Attend, ye Sons of Men ; attend, and say,”
Does not enough of my refulgent ray
Break thro' the veil of your mortality !
Say, does not reason in this form decry
Unnumber'd, nameless glories, that surpass
The Angel's floating pomp, the Seraph's glowing grace ?

II. 1.

Shall then your earth-born daughters vie
With me ? Shall she, whose brightest eye
But emulates the diamond's blaze,
Whose cheek but mocks the peaches' bloom,
Whose breath the hyacinth's perfume,
Whose melting voice the warbling woodlark's lays,
Shall she be deem'd my rival ? Shall a form
Of elemental dross, of mould'ring clay,
Vie with these charms imperial ? The poor worm
Shall prove her contest vain. Life's little day

Shall

Shall pass, and she is gone : while I appear
 Flush'd with the bloom of youth thro' Heav'n's eternal year.

II. 2.

Know, Mortals, know, ere first ye sprung,
 Ere first these orbs in ether hung,
 I shone amid the heav'nly throng.
 These eyes beheld Creation's day,
 This voice began the choral lay,
 And taught Archangels their triumphant song.
 Pleas'd I survey'd bright Nature's gradual birth,
 Saw infant Light with kindling lustre spread,
 Soft vernal fragrance clothe the flow'ring earth,
 And Ocean heave on his extended bed ;
 Saw the tall pine aspiring pierce the sky,
 The tawny Lion stalk, the rapid Eagle fly.

II. 3.

Last, Man arose, erect in youthful grace,
 Heav'n's hallow'd image stamp'd upon his face,
 And, as he rose, the high behest was giv'n,
 " That I alone of all the host of heav'n,
 " Should reign Protectress of the godlike Youth."
 Thus the Almighty spake : he spake and call'd me TRUTH.

A T H E L-

ATHELWOLD, EDWIN, CHORUS,
A T H E L W O L D.

Banish me! No. I'll die. For why should Life
Remain a lonely lodger in that breast
Which Honour leaves deserted? Idle breath!
Thou can't not fill such vacancy. Be gone,
This sword shall free——

C H O R U S.

Oh shame to Fortitude!
Shame to that manly passion, which inspires
Its vigorous warmth, when the bleak blasts of Fate
Would chill the soul. Oh call the ready virtue
Quick to thy aid, for she is ever near thee;
Is ever prompt to spread her sevenfold shield
O'er noble breasts.

And but o'er noble breasts;
Not o'er the breast which livid Infamy
Indelibly has spotted. Oh shame, shame,
Sword, rid me of the thought.

C H O R U S.

Forbear, forbear;
Think what a sea of deep perdition whelms
The wretch's trembling soul, who launches forth

Un-

Unlicens'd to Eternity. Think, think;
 And let the thought restrain thy impious hand.
 The race of Man is one vast marshall'd army,
 Summon'd to pass the spacious realms of Time,
 Their leader the Almighty. In that march
 Ah who may quit his post? when high in air
 The chos'n Archangel rides, whose right hand wields
 Th' imperial standard of heav'n's providence,
 Which, dreadly sweeping thro' the vaulted sky,
 O'er shadows all creation.

I was once——

Yes, I was once (I have his royal word for't)
 A man of such try'd faith, such steady honour,
 As mock'd all doubt and scruple.—What a change!
 Now must that unstain'd, virgin character,
 Be doom'd to gross and hourly prostitution,
 Sating the lust of slander; and my wife,
 My chaste ELFRIDA! Oh distraction, no,
 I'll fly to save her.

E D W I N.

Stay, my dearest Master;
 You rush on instant death.

A T H E L-

[ 128 ]

I mean it, slave,
And would'st thou hinder me?

E D W I N.

Yes, Sir, I hold
'Tis duty to my king, and love to you,
Thus to oppose your entrance.

What, thou traitor!
Thy pardon, EDWIN, I forgot myself;
Forgot, that I stood here a banish'd Man;
And that this gate was shut against its Master.
And yet this gate leads to my dear ELFRIDA;
Can it be bar'd to me? Oh Earth, cold Earth,
Upon whose breast I cast this load of mis'ry,
Bear it awhile; and you, ye aged Oaks,
Ye venerable Fathers of this wood,
Who oft have cool'd beneath your arching shades
My humble ancestors, oft seen them hie
To your spread umbrage, from yon sultry field,
Their scene of honest labour, shade, ah! shade
The last, the wretchedest of all their race.
I will not long pollute ye; for I mean
To pay beneath your consecrated gloom

A sacrifice to honour, and the ghosts
Of those progenitors, who sternly frown
On me their base descendant.

E D W I N.

See, ye Virgins,
How Horror shades his brow; how fixt his eye;
Heav'ns! what despair—

C H O R U S.

EDWIN, 'tis ever thus
With noble minds, if chance they slide to folly;
Remorse stings deeper, and relentless Conscience
Pours more of gall into the bitter cup
Of their severe repentance.

'Tis resolv'd:

I'll enter and demand a second audience.
And yet how vain! Ere I can reach his ear,
His ready train will stop me, and, with all
The cruel punctuality of office,
So prompt to act 'gainst fallen favourites,
Dismiss me with reproof.—Surely I heard her.
Was't not ELFRIDA's voice? 'Tis she herself.

S

EL-

ELFRIDA, EDGAR, ATHELWOLD,
OR GAR, CHORUS.

ELFRIDA.

No, I will once more clasp him to my bosom.
I will not be withheld. I will o'ertake him,
Will go with him to exile. Hah, my Husband!
So quickly found? They thought to tear me from thee;
But we will part no more.

EDGAR.

Take heed, ELFRIDA,

This ill-tim'd fondness may recall the fate
I just now freed him from; who loves like me
Can ill brook this. Or quit him, or he dies.

ATHELWOLD.

Yes, let me die! Death is my dearest wish.
Quit me, ELFRIDA! leave me to my fate.
'Tis just, 'tis just. Thus to my sov'reign's sword
Freely I bare my breast. Strike, injur'd Prince;
But do not banish me.

ELFRIDA.

What, ATHELWOLD,

Is then the life, on whose dear preservation
ELFRIDA's peace depends, not worth the saving?
Die then. But ere thy murd'rer strikes the stroke,

Let

Let me inform him, that his act destroys
No single life.

E D G A R.

By heav'n, she loves the traitor
Beyond all hope of change——

E L F R I D A.

No, ATHELWOLD,

Thou shalt not die. That pause in royal EDGAR
Bespeaks forgiveness. He will soon relent;
And mercy, flowing from his gracious tongue,
Seal thy full pardon. Let us kneel, my Lord;
Seize the important moment; kneel together;
And, as these streaming eyes and lifted hands
Employ each act of silent supplication,
Do thou recount—Ah! no, thy modest tongue
Could never tell ev'n half the gallant story.
Be silent then. Let EDGAR's self reflect;
For well I know his Mem'ry writes thy Virtues
Upon its fairest page. Yes, let him weigh
All thy past deeds of loyalty and faith,
'Gainst this so light a fault.

E D G A R.

So light a fault!

Had he dislodg'd my richest coffer'd treasures,

Dispers'd sedition's poison 'mid my troops,
 Or aim'd with daring and rebellious hand
 To snatch these regal honours from my brow,
 I sooner could have pardon'd.

Cease, ELFRIDA,

My doom is just—Yes, royal Sir, I go
 To banishment. I do deserve to breathe,
 Deserve to bear this load of life about me,
 For many years; to lengthen out my age,
 Liff'ning the hourly knell of curst remembrance,
 Whose leaden stroke shall tell to my sad soul
 That I was faithful once.

E L F R I D A.

Oh flinty EDGAR,

What! will this penitence not move thee? Know
 There is a rose-lip'd Seraph sits on high,
 Who ever bends his holy ear to earth
 To mark the voice of Penitence, to catch
 Her solemn sighs, to tune them to his harp,
 And echo them in harmonies divine
 Up to the throne of Grace. Ev'n Heav'n is won
 By Penitence, and shall Heav'n's substitute,
 Shall EDGAR scorn——

ED-

E D G A R.

Cease, cease, thou beauteous pleader!

Ah far too beauteous! Would'st thou gain thy fuit,
 Why glows that vermil lip? why rolls that eye
 Bright as the ray of Morn? Why in each gesture
 Such inexpressive graces, but because
 They're native all, and will not be conceal'd?
 Else sure each charm betrays him, and becomes
 An advocate, whose silent eloquence
 Pleads 'gainst thy voice, and foils its tuneful power,
 Traitor! was this the face which thy false tongue
 Profan'd as vulgar? This such common beauty
 As the fair eye of Day beheld each hour
 In ev'ry clime he lighted? Base dissembler,
 This instant quit our realm.

E L F R I D A.

Oh stay thee, EDGAR,

And once more hear me. At thy feet I fall
 As earnest, and distressed a suppliant,
 As e'er embrac'd the knees of Majesty.
 Oh! spare thy Country's guardian, EDGAR, spare
 Thy closest, surest friend. Let not one fault
 Cancel his thousand, thousand acts of faith.
 Alas! I fall to vainest repetition,

Grief,

Grief, whelming grief drowns all my faculties,
And leaves me nought but tears.

E D G A R.

Rise, rise, ELFRIDA.

E L F R I D A.

Shall he then live?

E D G A R.

He shall, he shall, my fair.

If so he quit the realm within the space
Our sentence limited.

E L F R I D A.

Oh stop not there;

That sentence will be death to ATHELWOLD.

Think, for thou know'st full well his gentle nature,

Can he support the rigour of this doom?

Can he, who liv'd but in thy gracious smiles,

Who'd pine, if chance those smiles a single hour

Were dealt him thriftily; think, can he bear

The infamy of exile?

E D G A R.

Hear me, ATHELWOLD.

Did I not show'r on thy much-favour'd head

My thickest honours, and with gift so ready

As out-run all request? Did I not hold thee

Still

Still in such open confidence of friendship,
Such love as——

Sooner stab me than repeat it.

E D G A R.

Yet give me hearing. I repeat not this
To taunt or gall thee. On my soul thy worth
Did o'ertop all those honours, and thy zeal
Kept pace with my best love. Nor 'till this Deed—
But such a deed! look there, look on that face.
Thou know'st me, ATHELWOLD, has seen me gaze
On a soft yielding fair one, 'till mine eye
Shot flames. Perdition seize me, if this heart
Knew Love 'till now.

A T H E L W O L D.

I see it plain, my Liege,

Nor say I ought to lessen my Offence.

No, here I kneel, Oh! cast but on my mis'ry
One kind forgiving glance; this ready sword
Shall expiate all.

E L F R I D A.

Ah! will you? must he die?

E D G A R.

No, stay thee, ATHELWOLD, and sheath thy sword;

I never yet (save but this hour of rage)
 Deem'd thee my subject. Thou wert still my friend;
 And, injur'd as I am, thou still art such:
 I do forego the word; to banish thee
 Or seal thy death, transcends a friend's just right.

E L F R I D A.

Ah gen'rous deed! ah godlike goodness! Virgins,
 The king will pardon him. Wake each high note
 Of praise, and gratitude, teach EDGAR's name
 To Harewood's furthest Echo. Oh my Sov'reign!
 What words can speak my thanks—

E D G A R.

Nay, check these transports,
 Left, if I see thee thus, my soul forget
 Its milder purpose. I will leave thee, Lady;
 Yet first my lips must press this gentle hand,
 And breathe one soft sigh of no common fervour.
 Now on, my Lords—Fair wonder of thy sex,
 Adieu. We'll straight unto our realm of Mercia.
 Yet first, as was our purpose, thro' this forest,
 We'll chace the nimble Roebuck; may the sport
 More please us, than we hope. Earl ATHELWOLD,
 Thou too must join our train. Follow us straight.

[Exeunt Edgar, &c.]

A T H E L-

A T H E L W O L D :

I do, my Liege. ELFRIDA, I have much
For thy lov'd ear, and have but one farewell
To tell it all—And yet——

E L F R I D A :

Ah loiter not,
It may enrage: Farewel. Be sure, take heed
I come not in your talk ; avoid ev'n thinking ;
Check ev'n the sighs of absence. Haste, my Earl,
Oh haste thee, as thou lov'st thy constant wife.

[Exit Athelwold.]

O R G A R, E L F R I D A, C H O R U S.

O R G A R.

Thy constant Wife ! ah, stain of all thy race,
Degen'rate Girl ! Henceforth be ORGAR deem'd
Of soft, and dove-like temper, who could see
A child of his stoop to such vile abasement,
And yet forbore just wrath ; forbore to draw
That blood she had defil'd from her mean veins.
But sure thou art not mine ; some Elf or Fay
Did spirit away my babe, and by curst charms
Thee in her cradle plac'd. Nay hang not on me.
Dry, dry thy tears, they've done their office amply.
EDGAR has pardon'd him. No, by my Earldom,

T

I

I cannot think of majesty thus meanly.
 He'll yet avenge it : What if chance he should not ?
 That stops not me ; I have a heart, an arm,
 A sword can do me justice.

E L F R I D A.

Ah ! my Lord,
 Are you still merciless ? Alas, I hop'd —

O R G A R.

What could'st thou hope, ELFRIDA ? could'st thou think
 I e'er would pardon his vile perfidy,
 Or thy ignoble softness ?

E L F R I D A.

Dearest Father,
 Frown not thus sternly on me. I would fain
 Touch your relenting soul, fain win your heart
 To fatherly forgiveness. For thro' life
 I've oft had pleasing proof how that forgiveness
 Stoop'd to my fond persuasion. But I fear
 Persuasion now has left me. My sad thoughts
 Are all on wing, all following ATHELWOLD,
 Like unseen ministring spirits :—Pardon, Sir,
 That frown shall check me, I'll not mention him ;
 I will but plead for my own weakness, plead
 For that soft sympathy of soul, which you

Deem

Deem base and servile. Base perhaps it might be,
 Were I of bolder sex. But I, alas!—
 Ah pardon me, if Nature stamp'd me Woman;
 Gave me a heart soft, gentle, prone to pity,
 And very fearful. Fearful, sure with cause
 At this dread hour, when if one hapless word,
 One sigh break forth unbid, it may rekindle
 The Monarch's rage—What has my phrenzy said?
 I've wander'd from my meaning. Dearest Virgins,
 My rash tongue more inflames him. Oh assist me,
 Ye are not thus oppress'd with inward horror:
 Kneel, plead, persuade, convince—

C H O R U S.

Alas, my mistress,
 What may a servant's accents do t'appease
 This furious Earl?

O R G A R.

Ye well may spare them: Maidens,
 Know my firm soul's resolv'd, and be my heart
 As base as ATHELWOLD's, if it foregoes
 The honest resolution. Think what I,
 What Britain suffers from this Traitor's fraud:
 Had EDGAR took my daughter to his bed,
 Our British Line, which now is doom'd to sink

In vile subjection, had again assum'd
 The pall of royalty, with half its power,
 In time perchance the whole. But this false Saxon
 Shall with his life repay me. Here I'll wait
 His first return, and in his own domain
 Give him fair combat. I have known the time
 When this good arm had hardihood enough
 For thrice his prowess. What is lost thro' age,
 My just cause shall supply; and he shall fall
 As did the traitor OSWALD, whose bold tongue
 Defam'd me to King ATHELSTAN: To the ground
 My sharp lance nail'd the caitiff.

[Exit Orgar,

E L F R I D A, C H O R U S.

E L F R I D A.

Think, my Lord,

Will ATHELWOLD, will he enter those lists,
 Where conquest would be parricide? Alas,
 He hears me not. Go, thou obdurate Man.
 A daughter's tears will but the more provoke thee,
 I will not follow him. No, poor ELFRIDA!
 All thou can'st do is here to stand, and weep,
 And feel that thou art wretched.

C H O R U S.

[ 141 ]

C H O R U S.

Dearest Mistress,

Refrain this flood of tears, perhaps——

E L F R I D A.

Perhaps!

Ah! mock me not with hopes.

C H O R U S.

We do not mean it;

For Hope, tho' 'tis pale Sorrow's only cordial,

Has yet a dull and opiate quality,

Enfeebling what it lulls. It suits not you;

For, as we fear——

E L F R I D A.

Do you too fear? Alas!

I flatter'd my poor soul that all its Fears

Were Grief's distemper'd coinage, that my Love

Rais'd causeless apprehensions, and at length

EDGAR would quite forgive. I do bethink me,

My joy broke forth too rashly. When they left us,

His safety was not half secur'd; my pleading

Was not half heard; I should have follow'd EDGAR,

Claim'd more full pardon, forc'd him to embrace

My sorrowing Lord.

C H O R U S.

C H O R U S.

We fear that sorrow more
 Than EDGAR's rage. We fear his fallen Virtue,
 Self-condemnation works most strongly on him,
 Ev'n to Despondency. Ev'n at his pardon,
 No joy flush'd on his cheek; we mark'd him well,
 He shew'd no sign of welcome. No, he took it
 As who should say, "To give me aught but Death
 "Is a poor boon unwish'd and unaccepted."
 Too much we fear he'll do some impious Act—

E L F R I D A.

What, on his life? I thought I had explor'd
 Each various face of danger: this escap'd me.
 How mis'd I this? It suits his courage highly;
 Suits too his fix'd remorse.—But yet he will not,
 No, ATHELWOLD, thou wilt not kill ELFRIDA.

C H O R U S.

Oh may his love preserve him: may these shades
 Receive him soon in peace. To this blest end
 You sure should strive to calm your Father's rage;
 At least not suffer him, as now, retir'd
 To brood o'er his revenge. For know, ELFRIDA,
 Beneath the silent gloom of Solitude
 Tho' Peace can sit and smile; tho' meek Content

Can

Can keep the chearful tenor of her soul,
Ev'n in the loneliest shades ; yet let not Wrath
Approach, let black Revenge keep far aloof,
Or soon they flame to Madneſs.

E L F R I D A.

True, my Virgins ;

Attend me then : I'll try each winning art :
Tho' ill ſuch art becomes me, yet I'll aim it.—
Hark—whence that noiſe ? I heard ſome haſty footſteps.

C H O R U S.

Oh Heav'ns ! 'tis EDWIN.

E L F R I D A, E D W I N, C H O R U S.

E L F R I D A.

EDWIN, ah ! that look

Befpeaks too well the horroure of thy errand.

Tell it me all.

E D W I N.

Alas !—

E L F R I D A.

Nay, do not pauſe.

Tell it me all. I think it will not kill me.

Repeat each circumſtance. I'm ready, EDWIN,

Ev'n for the worſt.

E D W I N.

E D W I N.

Then hear that worst, ELFRIDA.

Soon as the stag had left yon westward thicket,
 The King dismiss'd his Lords, each sev'ral ways,
 To their best sport, bidding Earl ATHELWOLD,
 Lord ARDULPH, and myself, attend his person.
 Thus parted from the rest, the Monarch pierc'd
 A darkling dell, which open'd in a Lawn
 Thick set with elm around. Suddenly here
 He turn'd his steed, and cry'd, " This place befits
 " Our purpose well."

E L F R I D A.

Purpose ! what purpose, EDWIN ?
 'Twas predetermin'd then, dissembling tyrant !
 How could I trust, or hope——

E D W I N.

Yet give me hearing :

Thus with a grave composure, and calm eye,
 King EDGAR spake. Now hear me, ATHELWOLD ;
 Thy King has pardon'd this thy trait'rous act :
 From all disloyal baseness to thy prince
 Thou stand'st absolv'd ; yet, know, there still remains
 Somewhat to cancel more. As man to man,
 As friend to friend, now, ATHELWOLD, I call thee
 Straight

Straight to defend thy life with thy good sword.
 Nay, answer not; defend it gallantly.
 If thy arm prosper, this my dying tongue
 Shall pardon thee, and blefs thee. If thou fall'ft,
 Thy parting breath muft to my right resign
 ELFRIDA's beauties. At the word, both drew,
 Both fought; but ATHELWOLD's was ill-play'd paffion.
 He aim'd his falchion at the Monarch's head,
 Only to leave his own brave breast defencelefs.
 And on the infant EDGAR's rapid sword
 Pierc'd my dear master's heart. He fell to earth,
 And, falling, cry'd, " This wound atones for all.
 " EDGAR, thus full aveng'd, will pardon me,
 " And my true wife with chafte, connubial tears,
 " Embalm my memory." He fmil'd, and died.

E L F R I D A.

Nay, come not round me, Virgins, nor fupport me.
 I do not swoon, nor weep. I call not heav'n
 T'avenge my wretchednefs. I do not wifh
 This tyrant's hand may wither with cold palfies.
 No, I am very patient. Heav'n is juft!
 And, when the meafure of his crimes is full,
 Will bare its red right arm, and lance its lightnings.
 'Till then, ye elements, reft: and thou, firm Earth,

Ope not thy yawning jaws, but let this Monster
Stalk his due time on thine affrighted surface.
Yes ; let him still go on ; still execute
His savage purposes, and daily make
More widows weep, as I do. Foolish Eyes !
Why flow ye thus unbidden ? What have tears
To do with grief like mine ?

C H O R U S.

Help, help, my Sisters,

To bear her to the castle.

ORGAR, ELFRIDA, EDWIN, CHORUS.

O R G A R.

As I pass,

Methought I heard a sound of loud lament ;

ELFRIDA, ah !

E L F R I D A.

Is not my father there ?

Withhold me not ; I'll fall at his dear feet.

Oh Sir ! behold your child thus lowly prostrate ;

Avenge her wrongs, avenge your poor ELFRIDA,

Your helpless, widow'd Daughter.

O R G A R.

Widow'd Daughter !

What is he slain ?

EL-

E L F R I D A.

Inhospitably butcher'd ;

The Tyrant's savage self—Stand you thus cool ?
 Where is the British Spirit, where the fire
 Of Belin's race ?—Oh foolishness of grief !
 Alas, I had forgot ; had EDGAR spar'd him,
 That sword, to which my madness call'd for vengeance,
 Ere long was meant to do the bloody deed,
 And make the murder parricide. Have I
 No friend to do me right ?

O R G A R.

Thou hast, my Child ;

I am thy friend, thy father. Trust my care.
 EDWIN, a word. Retire, my dearest Daughter :
 Virgins, conduct her in.

E L F R I D A.

My Father, No.

What do you do ? I must not be withheld.
 I'll to yon bloody grove, and clasp my Husband,
 My murder'd Husband. Why restrain me, Sir ?
 Can my sad eye dart fire thro' his cold breast,
 And light up life anew ?

[ 148 ]

O R G A R.

Go in, my child,

And seek Tranquillity.

E L F R I D A.

Tranquillity!

I know her well; she is Death's pale-ey'd sister;

She's now in yonder grove closing the lids

Of my poor ATHELWOLD. That office done,

She'll bear his soul upon her gentle plumes

Up to the realms of Joy. I'll follow them:

I know he'd have it so: He'll not be blest,

Ev'n on his throne of bliss, till I am with him.

C H O R U S.

This way, my dearest Mistress.

E L F R I D A.

Hold, nay hold;

Croud not around me. Let me pause a while.

ALBINA, thou alone shalt join my mis'ry;

I've much to utter to thy friendly ear.

Lead on, thou gentle maid; thy single arm

Shall prop my trembling frame; thy single voice

Speak peace to my afflictions.

[Exit with the principal Virgin.]

O R G A R,

[ 149 ]

ORGAR, EDWIN, SEMICHORUS.

ORGAR.

On your lives,
Virgins, let no disturbing step approach her.
Say, EDWIN (for I guess 'twas you that brought These tidings hither) where was royal EDGAR,
When late you left him?

EDWIN.

At my master's side
Repentant of the stroke.

ORGAR.

Comes he not back
To Harewood?

SEMICHORUS.

Heav'n forbid! ELFRIDA's brain
Would madden at the fight.

ORGAR.

Mistake not, Virgins;
I did not mean at this distressful hour
The King should see my daughter.

SEMICHORUS.

No, for pity,
Do not profane this sabbath of her grief.
Oh! be her sorrow sacred!

ORGAR.

O R G A R.

Fear not, Virgins ;

Her peace is my best care, and, to ensure it,
 I'll haste this instant, by young EDWIN's guidance,
 To find the Monarch, Some four miles from Harewood
 Stands old Earl EGBERT's castle, my fast friend.
 With him will I persuade the King to sojourn,
 'Till my child's grief abate ; that too to speed
 Be it your business, Virgins. Watching ever
 Each happy interval, when your soft tongues
 May hint his praises, 'till by practice won
 She bear their fuller blazon. ELFRID's welfare
 Requires this friendly office at your hands ;
 And EDGAR's virtues bear such genuine lustre,
 That Truth itself directs——

[Exit Orgar.]

S E M I C H O R U S.

As Truth directs,

So only shall we act. This day has shewn
 What dire effects await its violation.
 Straight is the road of Truth, and plain ;
 And, tho' across the sacred way
 Ten thousand erring footsteps stray,
 'Tis ours to walk direct,

And,

And, with sage caution circumspect,
Pace slowly through the solemn scene.

[The principal Virgin returns.]

S E M I C H O R U S.

Has ORGAR left the grove ?

S E M I C H O R U S.

He has, my sister.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Then hear, and aid ELFRIDA's last resolve,
Who takes the only way stern Fate has left
To save her plighted faith for ever pure
To her dead ATHELWOLD.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Forbid it, Patience ;

Forbid it, that submissive calm of soul,
Which teaches meek-ey'd Piety to smile
Beneath the scourge of Heav'n.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Ye need not fear it,

She means not self-destruction. Thanks to heav'n,
Huge and o'erbearing as her mis'ry is,
It cannot so oblit'rate from her breast
The written rule of duty. Her pure Soul
Means, on the instant, to devote itself

To

To heav'n and holiness. Assist her straight,
 Lest EDGAR's presence, and her Father's rage
 Prevent the blest intention. See, she comes.
 Kneel on each side, devoutly kneel around her ;
 And breathe some pray'r in high and solemn strains,
 That Angels from their thrones of light may hear,
 And ratify her vow.

E L F R I D A, C H O R U S.

[Elfrida kneels, and the Virgins divide into two Troops.]

S E M I C H O R U S.

Hear, Angels, hear,
 Hear from these nether thrones of Light ;
 And Oh ! in golden characters record
 Each firm, immutable, immortal word.
 Then wing your solemn flight
 Up to the heav'n of heav'ns, and there
 Hang the conspicuous tablet high,
 'Mid the dread records of Eternity.

E L F R I D A.

Hear first, that ATHELWOLD's sad widow swears
 To rear a hallow'd Convent o'er the place,
 Where stream'd his blood : there will she weep thro' Life
 Immur'd with this chaste throng of Virgins ; there
 Each day shall six times hear her full-voic'd Choir

Chant

Chant the slow requiem o'er her martyr'd Lord;
 There too, when Midnight low'rs with awful gloom,
 She'll rise observant of the stated call
 Of waking Grief, bear the dim livid taper
 Along the winding isles, and at the altar
 Kiss ev'ry pale shrine with her trembling lips,
 Press the cold stone with her bent knee, and call
 On fainted ATHELWOLD.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Hear, Angels, hear,
 Hear from these nether thrones of Light;
 And Oh! in golden characters record
 Each firm, immutable, immortal word.
 Then wing your solemn flight
 Up to the heav'n of heav'ns, and there
 Hang the conspicuous tablet high,
 'Mid the dread records of Eternity.

E L F R I D A.

Hear next, that ATHELWOLD's sad widow swears
 Never to violate the holy vow
 She to his truth first plighted; swears to bear
 The sober singleness of Widowhood
 To her cold grave. If from this chaste resolve
 She ev'n in thought should swerve; if gaudy pomp,

Or flatt'ring greatness e'er should tempt one with
To stray beyond this purpose ; may that heav'n,
Which hears this vow, punish its violation,
As heav'nly justice ought.

C H O R U S.

Hear, Angels, hear,
Hear from these nether thrones of Light ;
And Oh ! in golden characters record
Each firm, immutable, immortal word.
Then wing your solemn flight
Up to the heav'n of heav'ns, and there
Hang the conspicuous tablet high,
'Mid the dread records of Eternity.

ANCIENT GREEK TRAGEDY.

The A R G U M E N T.

CARACTACUS, King of the Silures, having been defeated by OSTORIUS, the Roman Præfect, his Queen taken prisoner, and his Son (as it is supposed) either slain or fled, retired with his only Daughter, and took sanctuary amongst the DRUIDS in Mona. OSTORIUS, after the battle, leaving garrisons in the conquered country, marched to subdue the northern part of Britain, and led his troops to the frontiers of the Brigantes, then governed by CARTISMANDUA. This Queen, dreading the victorious enemy, made a truce with him; one of the conditions of which was, that she should assist the Romans in securing the British King, that he might be carried to Rome to grace the triumph of CLAUDIUS. She accordingly gave up her two Sons as Hostages, to be sent themselves to Rome, in case they did not seduce CARACTACUS from his Sanctuary, to which place they were to be accompanied by AULUS DIDIUS, and a sufficient force, to effect that design.

The Drama opens on their arrival in the consecrated grove, a little before midnight, and about the time when the DRUIDS, who form the CHORUS, were preparing the ceremonial of CARACTACUS's admission into their order. The two Princes are seized as spies; and the incidents, consequent upon this, form what is called the EPISODE of the piece. The EXODE, or CATASTROPHE, is prepared by the coming of ARVIRAGUS the King's son, who, having escaped with life in the late battle, had employed the intermediate time in privately collecting his Father's scattered forces, to put him again in a condition of facing the enemy. His bravery, in defending his Father and the DRUIDS, occasions the PERIPETIA, or change of fortune; and his death, with the final captivity of CARACTACUS, concludes the Tragedy.

DRAMATIC POEM.

AULUS DIDIUS, with Romans.

THIS is the secret centre of the isle :
Here, Romans, pause, and let the eye of wonder
Gaze on the solemn scene ; behold yon oak,
How stern he frowns, and with his broad brown arms
Chills the pale plain beneath him : mark yon altar,
The dark stream brawling round its rugged base,
These cliffs, these yawning caverns, this wide circus,
Skirted with unhewn stone : they awe my soul,
As if the very Genius of the place
Himself appear'd, and with terrific tread
Stalk'd thro' his drear domain. And yet, my friends,
(If shapes like his be but the fancy's coinage)
Surely there is a hidden power, that reigns
Mid the lone majesty of untam'd nature,

Con-

Controuling sober reason ; tell me else,
 Why do these haunts of barb'rous superstition
 O'ercome me thus ? I scorn them, yet they awe me.
 Call forth the British Princes : in this gloom
 I mean to school them to our enterprife.

[Enter Vellinus and Elidurus.]

AULUS DIDIUS, VELLINUS, ELIDURUS.
 Ye pledges dear of CARTISMANDUA's faith,
 Approach ! and to mine uninstructed ear
 Explain this scene of horror.

ELIDURUS.

Daring Roman,

Know that thou stand'st on consecrated ground :
 These mighty piles of magic-planted rock,
 Thus rang'd in mystic order, mark the place
 Where but at times of holiest festival
 The Druid leads his train.

AULUS DIDIUS.

Where dwells the fcer ?

VELLINUS.

In yonder shaggy cave ; on which the moon
 Now sheds a side-long gleam. His brotherhood
 Possess the neighb'ring cliffs.

AULUS

[ 161 ]

A U L U S D I D I U S.

Yet up the hill

Mine eye descries a distant range of caves,
Delv'd in the ridges of the craggy steep :
And this way still another.

E L I D U R U S.

On the left

Reside the Sages skill'd in Nature's lore :
The changeful universe, its numbers, powers,
Studious they measure, save when meditation
Gives place to holy rites : then in the grove
Each hath his rank and function. Yonder grotts
Are tenanted by Bards, who nightly thence,
Rob'd in their flowing vests of innocent white,
Descend, with harps that glitter to the moon,
Hymning immortal strains. The spirits of air,
Of earth, of water, nay of heav'n itself,
Do listen to their lay : and oft, 'tis said,
In visible shapes dance they a magic round
To the high minstrelsy. Now, if thine eye
Be fated with the view, haste to thy ships ;
And ply thine oars ; for, if the Druids learn
This bold intrusion, thou wilt find it hard
To foil their fury.

AULUS

A U L U S D I D I U S.

Prince, I did not moor

My light-arm'd shallops on this dangerous strand

To sooth a fruitless curiosity :

I come in quest of proud CARACTACUS ;

Who, when our veterans put his troops to flight,

Found refuge here.

E L I D U R U S.

If here the Monarch rests,

Presumptuous Chief ! thou might'st as well essay

To pluck him from yon stars : Earth's ample range

Contains no surer refuge : underneath

The soil we tread, a hundred secret paths,

Scoop'd thro' the living rock in winding maze,

Lead to as many caverns, dark, and deep :

In which the hoary sages act their rites

Mysterious, rites of such strange potency,

As, done in open day, would dim the sun,

Tho' thron'd in noontide brightness. In such dens

He may for life lie hid.

A U L U S D I D I U S.

We know the task

Most difficult : yet has thy royal mother

Furnish'd the means.

In proof of that firm faith ſhe lends to Rome,
She gave you up her honour's hoſtages.

E L I D U R U S.

She did : and we ſubmit.

To Rome we bear you ;
From your dear country bear you ; from your joys,
Your loves, your friendships, all your ſouls hold precious.

E L I D U R U S.

And doſt thou taunt us, Roman, with our fate ?

A U L U S D I D I U S.

No, Youth, by heav'n, I would avert that fate.
Wiſh ye for liberty ?

V E L L I N U S, E L I D U R U S.

More than for life.

A U L U S D I D I U S.

And would do much to gain it ?

V E L L I N U S.

Name the taſk.

A U L U S D I D I U S.

The taſk is eaſy. Haſte ye to theſe Druids :

Y 2

Tell

Tell them ye come, commission'd by your Queen,
 To seek the great CARACTACUS; and call
 His valour to her aid, against the Legions,
 Which, led by our OSTORIUS, now assail
 Her frontiers. The late treaty she has seal'd
 Is yet unknown: and this her royal signet,
 Which more to mask our purpose was obtain'd,
 Shall be your pledge of faith. The eager king
 Will gladly take the charge; and, he consenting,
 What else remains, but to the Meinai's shore
 Ye lead his credulous step? there will we seize him:
 Bear him to Rome, the substitute for you,
 And give you back to freedom.

V E L L I N U S.

If the Druids—

A U L U S D I D I U S.

If they, or he, prevent this artifice,
 Then force must take its way: then flaming brands,
 And biting axes, wielded by our soldiers,
 Must level these thick shades, and so unlodge
 The lurking savage.

E L I D U R U S.

Gods, shall Mona perish?

A U L U S

A U L U S D I D I U S.

Princes, her ev'ry trunk shall on the ground
 Stretch its gigantic length; unless, ere dawn,
 Ye lure this untam'd lion to our toils.
 Go then, and prosper; I shall to the ships,
 And there expect his coming. Youths, remember,
 He must to Rome to grace great CÆSAR's triumph:
 CÆSAR and Fate demand him at your hand.

[Exeunt Aulus Didius and Romans.]

E L I D U R U S, V E L L I N U S.

E L I D U R U S.

And will heav'n suffer it? Will the just gods,
 That tread yon spangled pavement o'er our heads,
 Look from their sky and yield him? Will these Druids,
 Their sage vicegerents, not call down the thunder;
 And will not instant its hot bolts be darted
 In such a righteous cause? Yes, good old king,
 Yes, last of Britons, thou art heav'n's own pledge;
 And shalt be such till death.

V E L L I N U S.

What means my brother?

Dost thou refuse the charge?

E L I D U R U S.

Dost thou accept it?

V E L-

V E L L I N U S,

It gives us liberty.

E L I D U R U S.

It makes us traitors.

Gods, would VELLINUS do a deed of baseness?

V E L L I N U S.

Will ELIDURUS scorn the proffer'd boon

Of freedom?

E L I D U R U S.

Yes, when such its guilty price,

Brother, I spurn it.

V E L L I N U S.

Go then, foolish boy!

I'll do the deed myself.

E L I D U R U S.

It shall not be:

I will proclaim the fraud.

V E L L I N U S.

Wilt thou? 'tis well,

Hie to yon cave; call loudly on the Druid;

And bid him drag to ignominious death

The partner of thy blood. Yet hope not thou

To 'scape; for thou didst join my impious steps:

Therefore his wrath shall curse thee: thou shalt live;

Yet shalt thou live an interdicted wretch,
All rights of nature cancell'd.

E L I D U R U S.

Oh VELLINUS!

Rend not my soul: by heav'n thou know'st I love thee;
As fervently as brother e'er lov'd brother:
And, loving thee, I thought I lov'd mine honour.
Ah! do not wake, dear youth, in this true breast
So fierce a conflict.

V E L L I N U S.

Honour's voice commands

Thou should'st obey thy mother, and thy queen.
Honour and Holiness alike conspire
To bid thee save these consecrated groves
From Roman devastation.

E L I D U R U S.

Horrid thought!

Hence let us haste, ev'n to the furthest nook
Of this wide isle; nor view the sacrilege.

V E L L I N U S.

No, let us stay, and by our prosperous art
Prevent the sacrilege. Mark me, my brother;
More years and more experience have matur'd
My sober thought; I will convince thy youth,

That

That this our deed has ev'ry honest sanction
Cool reason may demand.

E L I D U R U S.

To Rome with reason :

Try if 'twill bring her deluging ambition
Into the level course of right and justice :
Try if 'twill tame these insolent invaders ;
Who thus, in savageness of conquest, claim
Whom chance of war has spar'd. Do this, and prosper.
But, pray thee, do not reason from my soul
Its inbred honesty : that holy flame,
Howe'er eclips'd by Rome's black influence
In vulgar minds, ought still to brighten ours.

V E L L I N U S.

Vain talker, leave me.

E L I D U R U S.

No, I will not leave thee :

I must not, dare not, in these perilous shades.
Think, if thy fraud should fail, these holy men,
How will their justice rend thy trait'rous limbs ?
If thou succeed'st, the fiercer pangs of conscience,
How will they ever goad thy guilty soul ?
Mercy, defend us ! see, the awful Druids
Are issuing from their caves : hear'st thou yon signal ?

Lo,

Lo, on the instant all the mountain whitens
With slow-descending Bards. Retire, retire ;
This is the hour of sacrifice : to stay
Is death.

V E L L I N U S.

I'll wait the closing of their rites
In yonder vale : do thou, as likes thee best,
Betray, or aid me.

E L I D U R U S.

To betray thee, youth,
That love forbids ; honour, alas ! to aid thee.

[Exeunt.

Enter C H O R U S.

Sleep and Silence reign around ;
Not a night-breeze wakes to blow ;
Circle, fons, this holy ground ;
Circle close, in triple row.
And, if mask'd in vapours drear,
Any earth-born Spirit dare
To hover round this sacred space,
Haste with light spells the murky foe to chace.
Lift your boughs of vervain blue,
Dipt in cold September dew ;

Z

And

And dash the moisture chaste, and clear,
 O'er the ground, and thro' the air.
 Now the place is purg'd and pure.
 Brethren! say, for this high hour
 Are the milk-white steers prepar'd?
 Whose necks the rude yoke never scar'd,
 To the furrow yet unbroke?
 For such must bleed beneath yon oak.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Druid, these, in order meet,
 Are all prepar'd.

S E M I C H O R U S.

But tell me yet,

CADWALL! did thy step profound
 Dive into the cavern deep,
 Twice twelve fathom under ground,
 Where our sage fore-fathers sleep?
 Thence with reverence hast thou born,
 From the consecrated chest,
 The golden fickle, scrip, and vest,
 Whilom by old BELINUS worn?

S E M I C H O R U S.

Druid, these, in order meet,
 Are all prepar'd.

SEMI-

S E M I C H O R U S.

- But tell me yet,

From the grot of charms and spells,
 Where our matron sister dwells,
 BRENNUS! has thy holy hand
 Safely brought the druid wand;
 And the potent adder-stone,
 Gender'd 'fore th' autumnal moon?
 When, in undulating twine,
 The foaming snakes prolific join;
 When they hiss, and when they bear
 Their wond'rous egg aloof in air;
 Thence, before to earth it fall,
 The Druid, in his hallow'd pall,
 Receives the prize;
 And instant flies,
 Follow'd by th' envenom'd brood,
 'Till he crosses the crystal flood.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Druid, these, in order meet,
 Are all prepar'd.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Then all's complete.

And now let nine of the selected band,

Whose greener years besit such station best,
 With wary circuit pace around the grove :
 And guard each inlet ; watchful, lest the eye
 Of busy curiosity profane
 Pry on our rites : which now must be as close
 As done i'th' very central womb of earth.
 Occasion claims it ; for CARACTACUS
 This night demands admission to our train.
 He, once our king, while ought his power avail'd
 To save his country from the rod of tyrants,
 That duty past, does wisely now retire
 To end his days in secrecy and peace ;
 Druid with Druids, in this chief of groves,
 Ev'n in the heart of Mona. See, he comes !
 How awful is his port ! mark him, my friends !
 He looks, as doth the tower, whose nodding walls,
 After the conflict of heav'n's angry bolts,
 Frown with a dignity unmark'd before,
 Ev'n in its prime of strength. Health to the King !
 CARACTACUS, EVELINA, CHORUS.

C A R A C T A C U S.

This holy place, methinks, doth this night wear
 More than its wonted gloom : Druid, these groves
 Have caught the dismal colouring of my soul,

Chang-

Changing their dark dun garbs to very fable,
 In pity to their guest. Hail, hallow'd oaks !
 Hail, British born ! who, last of British race,
 Hold your primæval rights by nature's charter ;
 Not at the nod of CÆSAR. Happy forefathers,
 Ye wave your bold heads in the liberal air ;
 Nor ask, for privilege, a prætor's edict.
 Ye, with your tough and intertwisted roots,
 Grasp the firm rocks ye sprung from ; and, erect
 In knotty hardihood, still proudly spread
 Your leafy banners 'gainst the tyrannous north,
 Who, Roman like, assails you. Tell me, Druid,
 Is it not better to be such as these,
 Than be the thing I am ?

C H O R U S.

To be the thing,
 Eternal wisdom wills, is ever best.

C A R A C T A C U S.

But I am lost to that predestin'd use
 Eternal wisdom will'd, and fitly therefore
 May wish a change of being. I was born
 A king ; and Heav'n, who bade these warrior oaks
 Lift their green shields against the fiery sun,
 To fence their subject plain, did mean, that I Should,

Should, with as firm an arm, protect my people
 Against the pestilent glare of Rome's ambition.
 I fail'd ; and how I fail'd, thou know'st too well ;
 So does the babbling world : and therefore, Druid,
 I would be any thing save what I am.

C H O R U S.

See, to thy wish, the holy rites prepar'd,
 Which, if heav'n frown not, consecrate thee Druid :
 See to the altar's base the victims led,
 From whose free-gushing blood ourself shall read
 Its high behests ; which if assenting found,
 These hands around thy chosen limbs shall wrap
 The vest of sanctity ; while at the act
 Yon white-rob'd bards, sweeping their solemn harps,
 Shall lift their choral warblings to the skies,
 And call the gods to witness. Mean while, Prince,
 Bethink thee well, if ought on this vain earth
 Still holds too firm an union with thy soul,
 Estranging it from peace.

C A R A C T A C U S.

I had a queen :
 Bear with my weakness, Druid ! this tough breast
 Must heave a sigh, for she is unreveng'd.
 And can I taste true peace, she unreveng'd ?

So

So chaste, so lov'd a queen? ah, EVELINA!
 Hang not thus weeping on the feeble arm
 That could not save thy mother.

EVELINA.

To hang thus
 Softens the pang of grief; and the sweet thought,
 That a fond father still supports his child,
 Sheds, on my pensive mind, such soothing balm,
 As doth the blessing of these pious seers,
 When most they wish our welfare. Would to heav'n
 A daughter's presence could as much avail,
 To ease her father's woes, as his doth mine.

CARACTACUS.

Ever most gentle! come unto my bosom:
 Dear pattern of the precious prize I lost,
 Lost, so inglorious lost; my friends, these eyes
 Did see her torn from my defenceless camp;
 Whilst I, hemm'd round by squadrons, could not save her:
 My boy, still nearer to the darling pledge,
 Beheld her shrieking in the ruffian's arm;
 Beheld, and fled.

EVELINA.

Ah! Sir, forbear to wound

My

My brother's fame; he fled, but to recall
His scatter'd forces to pursue and save her.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Daughter, he fled. Now, by yon gracious moon,
That rising saw the deed, and instant hid
Her blushing face in twilight's dusky veil,
The flight was parricide.

E V E L I N A.

Indeed, indeed,

I know him valiant; and not doubt he fell
'Mid slaughter'd thousands of the haughty foe,
Victim to filial love. ARVIRAGUS,
Thou hadst no sister near the bloody field,
Whose sorrowing search, led by yon orb of night,
Might find thy body; wash with tears thy wounds;
And wipe them with her hair.

C H O R U S.

Peace, virgin, peace:

Nor thou, sad prince, reply; whate'er he is,
Be he a captive, fugitive, or corse,
He is what heav'n ordain'd: these holy groves
Permit no exclamation 'gainst heav'n's will
To violate their echoes: Patience, here,
Her meek hands folded on her modest breast,

In

In mute submission lifts th' adoring eye,
Ev'n to the storm that wrecks her.

E V E L I N A.

Holy Druid,

If ought my erring tongue has said pollutes
This sacred place, I from my soul abjure it.
And will these lips bar with eternal silence,
Rather than speak a word, or act a deed
Unmeet for thy sage daughters; blessing first
This hallow'd hour, that takes me from the world,
And joins me to their sober sisterhood.

C H O R U S.

'Tis wisely said. See, Prince, this prudent maid,
Now, while the ruddy flame of sparkling youth
Glow on her beauteous cheek, can quit the world
Without a sigh, whilst thou——

C A R A C T A C U S.

Would save my queen

From a base ravisher; would wish to plunge
This falchion in his breast, and so avenge
Insulted royalty. Oh holy men!
Ye are the sons of piety and peace;
Ye never felt the sharp vindictive spur,
That goads the injur'd warrior; the hot tide,

A a

That

That flushes crimson on the conscious cheek
 Of him, who burns for glory; else indeed
 Ye much would pity me: would curse the fate
 That coops me here inactive in your groves,
 Robs me of hope, tells me this trusty steel
 Must never cleave one Roman helm again;
 Never avenge my queen, nor free my country.

C H O R U S.

'Tis heav'n's high will——

C A R A C T A C U S.

I know it, reverend fathers!

'Tis heav'n's high will, that these poor aged eyes
 Shall never more behold that virtuous woman,
 To whom my youth was constant; 'twas heav'n's will
 To take her from me at that very hour,
 When best her love might soothe me; that black hour,
 [May memory ever raze it from her records]
 When all my squadrons fled, and left their king
 Old and defenceless: him, who nine whole years
 Had taught them how to conquer: Yes, my friends,
 For nine whole years against the sons of rapine
 I led my veterans, oft to victory,
 Never 'till then to shame. Bear with me, Druid,
 I've done: begin the rites.

CHORUS.

C H O R U S.

Oh would to heav'n

A frame of mind, more fitted to these rites,
 Possess thee, Prince! that Resignation meek,
 That dove-ey'd Peace, handmaid of Sanctity,
 Approach'd this altar with thee: 'stead of these,
 See I not gaunt Revenge, enfanguin'd Slaughter,
 And mad Ambition, clinging to thy soul,
 Eager to snatch thee back to their domain,
 Back to a vain and miserable world;
 Whose misery, and vanity, tho' try'd,
 Thou still hold'st dearer than these solemn shades,
 Where Quiet reigns with Virtue? Try we yet
 What Holiness can do! for much it can:
 Much is the potency of pious prayer:
 And much the sacred influence convey'd
 By sage mysterious office: when the soul,
 Snatch'd by the power of music from her cell
 Of fleshly thralldom, feels herself upborn
 On plumes of extasy, and boldly springs,
 'Mid swelling harmonies and pealing hymns,
 Up to the porch of heav'n. Strike, then, ye Bards!
 Strike all your strings symphonious; wake a strain
 May penetrate, may purge, may purify,

His yet unhallow'd bosom; call ye hither
 The airy tribe, that on yon mountain dwell,
 Ev'n on majestic Snowdon: they, who never
 Deign visit mortal men, save on some cause
 Of highest import, but, sublimely shrin'd
 On its hoar top in domes of crystalline ice,
 Hold converse with those spirits, that possess
 The skies' pure sapphire, nearest heav'n itself,

O D E.

I. 1.

Mona on Snowdon calls:
 Hear, thou King of mountains, hear;
     Hark, she speaks from all her strings;
     Hark, her loudest echo rings;
 King of mountains, bend thine ear:
     Send thy spirits, send them soon,
     Now, when Midnight and the Moon
 Meet upon thy front of snow:
     See, their gold and ebon rod,
     Where the sober sisters nod,
 And greet in whispers sage and slow.
 Snowdon mark! 'tis Magic's hour;
 Now the mutter'd spell hath power;
 Power to rend thy ribs of rock,
 And burst thy base with thunder's shock;

But

But to thee no ruder spell
 Shall Mona use, than those that dwell
 In music's secret cells, and lie
 Steep'd in the stream of harmony.

I. 2.

Snowdon has heard the strain :
 Hark, amid the wond'ring grove
 Other harpings answer clear,
 Other voices meet our ear,
 Pinions flutter, shadows move,
 Busy murmurs hum around,
 Rustling vestments brush the ground ;
 Round, and round, and round they go,
 Thro' the twilight, thro' the shade,
 Mount the oak's majestic head,
 And gild the tufted mistletoe.
 Cease, ye glitt'ring race of light,
 Close your wings, and check your flight :
 Here, arrang'd in order due,
 Spread your robes of saffron hue ;
 For lo, with more than mortal fire,
 Mighty MADOR smites the lyre :
 Hark, he sweeps the master-strings ;
 Listen all——

CHORUS.

C H O R U S.

Break off; a fullen smoke involves the altar;
The central oak doth shake; I hear the sound
Of steps profane: CARACTACUS, retire;
Bear hence the victims; Mona is polluted.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Father, as we did watch the eastern side,
We spied and instant seiz'd two stranger youths,
Who, in the bottom of a shadowy dell,
Held earnest converse: Britons do they seem,
And of Brigantian race.

C H O R U S.

Haste, drag them hither.

VELLINUS, ELIDURUS, CHORUS,

E L I D U R U S.

Oh spare, ye sage and venerable Druids!
Your countrymen and sons.

C H O R U S.

And are ye Britons?

Unheard of profanation: Rome herself,
Ev'n impious Rome, whom conquest makes more impious,
Would not have dar'd so rashly. Oh! for words,
Big with the fiercest force of execration,
To blast the deed, and doers.

ELI-

[ 183 ]

E L I D U R U S.

Spare the curſe;

Oh spare our youth !

C H O R U S.

Is it not now the hour;

The holy hour, when to the cloudleſs height
Of yon ſtarr'd concave climbs the full-orb'd moon,
And to this ſiether world in ſolemn ſtillneſs
Gives ſign, that to the liſt'ning ear of Heav'n
Religion's voice ſhould plead ? The very babe
Knows this, and, chance awak'd, his little hands
Lifts to the gods, and on his innocent couch
Calls down a bleſſing. Shall your manly years
Plead ignorance, and impiouſly preſume
To tread, with vile unconſecrated feet,
On Mona's hallow'd plain ? know, wretches, know,
At any hour ſuch boldneſs is a crime,
At this 'tis ſacrilege.

V E L L I N U S.

Were Mona's plain
More hallow'd ſtill, hallow'd as is Heav'n's ſelf,
The cauſe might plead our pardon.

E L I D U R U S.

Mighty Druid !

True,

'True, we have rashly dar'd, yet forc'd by duty,
Our sov'reign's mandate——

V E L L I N U S.

Elder by my birth,
Brother, I claim, in right of eldership,
To open our high embassy.

C H O R U S.

Speak then ;
But see thy words answer in honest weight
To this proud prelude. Youth ! they must be weighty,
T'atone for such a crime.

V E L L I N U S.

If then to give
New nerves to vanquish'd valour ; if to do,
What, with the blessing of the Gods, may save
A bleeding country from oppression's sword,
Be weighty business, know, on our commission,
And on its hop'd success, that weight depends.

C H O R U S.

Declare it then at once, briefly and boldly.

V E L L I N U S.

CARACTACUS is here.

C H O R U S.

Say'ft thou, proud boy ?

'Tis

'Tis boldly said, and, grant 'twere truly said,
 Think'ft thou he were not here from fraud or force
 As safe, as in a camp of conquerors?
 Here, youth, he would be guarded by the Gods;
 Their own high hostage; and each sacred hair
 Of his selected head, would in these caverns
 Sleep with the unshinn'd silver of the mine,
 As precious and as safe; record the time,
 When Mona e'er betray'd the hapless wretch,
 That made her groves his refuge.

V E L L I N U S.

Holy Druid!

Think not so harshly of our enterprise.
 Can force, alas! dwell in our unarm'd hands?
 Can fraud in our young bosoms? No, dread fear,
 Our business told, I trust thou'lt soon disclaim
 The vain suspicion; and thy holy ear
 (Be brave CARACTACUS or here or absent)
 Shall instant learn it. From the north we come;
 The sons of her, whose heav'n-entrusted sway
 Blesses the bold Brigantes; men who firmly
 Have three long moons withstood those Roman powers,
 Which, led by fell OSTORIUS, still assail
 Our frontiers: yet so oft have our stout swords

Repell'd their hot assault, that now, like falcons,
 They hang suspended, loath to quit their prey,
 Nor daring yet to seize it. Such the state
 Of us and Rome; in which our prudent mother,
 Revolving what might best secure her country
 From this impending ruin, gave us charge
 To seek the great CARACTACUS, and call
 His valour to her aid, to lead her bands,
 To fight the cause of liberty and Britain,
 And quell these ravagers.

[ Caractacus starts from behind the altar.

CARACTACUS, VELLINUS, ELIDURUS,

C H O R U S.

C A R A C T A C U S.

And ye have found me;
 Friends, ye have found me: lead me to your Queen,
 And the last purple drop in these old veins
 Shall fall for her and Britain.

C H O R U S.

Rash, rash Prince!

V E L L I N U S.

Ye blest immortal powers! is this the man,
 The more than man, who for nine bloody years
 Withstood all Rome? He is; that warlike front,

Seam'd

Seam'd o'er with honest scars, proclaims he is :
 Kneel, brother, kneel, while in his royal hand
 We lodge the signet : this, in pledge of faith,
 Great CARTISMANDUA sends, and with it tells thee
 She has a nobler pledge than this behind ;
 Thy Queen——

C A R A C T A C U S.

GUIDERIA !

V E L L I N U S.

Safely with our Mother.

C A R A C T A C U S.

How, when, where rescu'd ? mighty Gods, I thank ye ;
 For it is true, this signet speaks it true.
 Oh tell me briefly.

V E L L I N U S.

In a fally, Prince,

Which, wanting abler chiefs, my gracious mother
 Committed to my charge, our troops assail'd
 One outwork of the camp ; the mask of night
 Favour'd our arms, and there my happy hand
 Was doom'd with other prisoners to release
 The captive matron.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Let me clasp thee, youth,

B b 2

And

And thou shalt be my son : I had one, stranger,
 Just of thy years ; he look'd like thee right honest ;
 Had just that freeborn boldness on his brow,
 And yet he fail'd me. Were it not for him,
 Who, as thou seest, ev'n at this hour of joy,
 Draws tears down mine old cheek, I were as blest
 As the great gods. Oh, he has all disgrac'd
 His high-born ancestry ! But I'll forget him.
 Haste, EVELINA, barb my knotty spear,
 Bind fast this trusty falchion to my thigh,
 My bow, my target——

C H O R U S.

Rash CARACTACUS !

What hast thou done ? What dost thou mean to do ?

C A R A C T A C U S.

To save my country.

C H O R U S.

To betray thyself.

That thou hast done ; the rest thou can'st not do,

If Heav'n forbids ; and of its awful will

Thy fury recks not : Has the bleeding victim

Pour'd a propitious stream ? the milk-white steeds

Unrein'd and neighing pranc'd with fav'ring steps ?

Say, when these youths approach'd, did not a gust

OF

Of livid smoke involve the bickering flame?
 Did not the forest tremble? every omen
 Led thee to doubt their honesty of purpose;
 And yet, before their tongues could tell that purpose,
 Ere I had tender'd, as our laws ordain,
 Their test of faith, thy rudeness rush'd before me,
 Infringing my just rights.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Druid, methinks,
 At such a time, in such a cause, Reproof
 Might bate its sternness. Now, by Heav'n, I feel,
 Beyond all omens, that within my breast,
 Which marshals me to conquest; something here
 That snatches me beyond all mortal fears,
 Lifts me to where upon her jasper throne
 Sits flame-rob'd Victory, who calls me son,
 And crowns me with a palm, whose deathless green
 Shall bloom when CÆSAR's fades.

C H O R U S.

Vain confidence!

C A R A C T A C U S.

Yet I submit in all——

C H O R U S.

'Tis meet thou should'st.

Thou

Thou art a King, a sov'reign o'er frail man ;
I am a Druid, servant of the Gods ;
Such service is above such sov'reignty,
As well thou know'st : if they should prompt these lips
To interdict the thing thou dar'st to do,
What would avail thy daring ?

C A R A C T A C U S.

Holy man !

But thou wilt bless it ; Heav'n will bid thee bless it ;
Thou know'st that, when we fight to save our country,
We fight the cause of Heav'n. The man that falls,
Falls hallow'd ; falls a victim for the Gods ;
For them and for their altars.

C H O R U S.

Valiant Prince !

Think not we lightly rate our country's weal,
Or thee, our country's champion. Well we know
The glorious meed of those exalted souls,
Who flame like thee for freedom : mark me, Prince ;
The time will come, when Destiny and Death,
Thron'd in a burning car, the thund'ring wheels
Arm'd with gigantic scythes of adamant,
Shall scour this field of life : and in the rear
The fiend Oblivion : kingdoms, empires, worlds

Melt

Melt in the general blaze : when, lo, from high
Andraſte darting, catches from the wreck
The roll of fame, claps her aſcending plumes,
And ſtamps on orient ſtars each patriot name,
Round her eternal dome.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Speak ever thus,
And I will hear thee, 'till attention faint
In heedleſs extaſy.

C H O R U S.

This tho' we know,
Let man beware with headlong zeal to ruſh
Where ſlaughter calls ; it is not courage, Prince,
No nor the pride and practis'd ſkill in arms,
That gains this meed : the warrior is no patriot,
Save when, obſequious to the will of Heav'n,
He draws the ſword of vengeance.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Surely, Druid,
Such fair occaſion ſpeaks the will of Heav'n——

C H O R U S.

Monarch, perchance thou haſt a fair occaſion :
But, if thou haſt, the Gods will ſoon declare it :
Their ſov'reign will thou know'ſt not ; this to learn

De-

Demands our search. Ye mortals all retire !
 Leave ye the grove to us and Inspiration ;
 Nor let a step, or ev'n one glance profane,
 Steal from your caverns : stay, my holy brethren,
 Ye time-ennobled Seers, whose rev'rend brows
 Full eighty winters whiten ; you, ye Bards,
 LEOLINE, CADWALL, HOEL, CANTABER,
 Attend upon our slumbers : Wond'rous men,
 Ye, whose skill'd fingers know how best to lead,
 Thro' all the maze of sound, the wayward step
 Of Harmony, recalling oft, and oft
 Permitting her unbridled course to rush
 Thro' dissonance to concord, sweetest then
 Ev'n when expected harshest. MADOR, thou
 Alone shalt lift thy voice ; no choral peal
 Shall drown thy solemn warblings ; thou best know'st
 That opiate charm which lulls corporeal sense :
 Thou hast the key, great Bard ! that best can ope
 The portal of the soul ; unlock it straight,
 And lead the pensive pilgrim on her way,
 Through the vast regions of futurity.

[ Exeunt Caractacus, Vellinus, &c. ]

CHO-

[ 193 ]

CHORUS.

ODE.

I. 1.

Hail, thou Harp of Phrygian frame !

In years of yore that Camber bore
From Troy's sepulchral flame ;

With antient BRUTE, to Britain's shore
The mighty minstrel came :

Sublime upon the burnish'd prow,

He bad thy manly modes to flow ;

Britain heard the descant bold,

She flung her white arms o'er the sea ;

Proud in her leafy bosom to enfold

The freight of harmony.

I. 2.

Mute 'till then was ev'ry plain,

Save where the flood o'er mountains rude
Tumbled his tide amain :

And Echo from th' impending wood

Refounded the hoarse strain ;

While from the north the fullen gale

With hollow whistlings shook the vale ;

Dismal notes, and answer'd soon

By savage howl the heaths among,

C c

What

What time the wolf doth bay the trembling moon,
And thin the bleating throng.

I. 3.

Thou spak'ft, imperial Lyre,
The rough roar ceas'd, and airs from high
Lapt the land in extafy :
Fancy, the fairy, with thee came ;
And Inspiration, bright-ey'd dame,
Oft at thy call would leave her fapphire fky ;
And, if not vain the verfe prefumes,
Ev'n now fome chafte Divinity is near :
For lo ! the found of diftant plumes
Pants thro' the pathlefs defert of the air.
'Tis not the flight of her ;
'Tis fleep, her dewy harbinger ;
Change, my harp, Oh change thy meafures ;
Cull, from thy mellifluous treasures,
Notes that ftal on even feet,
Ever flow, yet never paufing,
Mixt with many a warble fweet,
In a ling'ring cadence clofing,
While the pleas'd pow'r finks gently down the fkies,
And feals with hand of down the Druid's flumb'ring eyes.

Thrice

II. 1.

Thrice I pause, and thrice I sound
The central string, and now I ring
(By measur'd lore profound)
A sevenfold chime, and sweep, and swing
Above, below, around,
To mix thy music with the spheres,
That warble to immortal ears.
Inspiration hears the call;
She rises from her throne above,
And, sudden as the glancing meteors fall,
She comes, she fills the grove.

II. 2.

High her port; her waving hand
A pencil bears; the days, the years,
Arise at her command,
And each obedient colouring wears.
Lo, where Time's pictur'd band
In hues ethereal glide along;
Oh mark the transitory throng;
Now they dazzle, now they die,
Instant they flit from light to shade,
Mark the blue forms of faint futurity,
Oh mark them ere they fade.

II. 3.

Whence was that inward groan ?
 Why bursts thro' closed lids the tear ?
 Why uplifts the bristling hair
 Its white and venerable shade ?
 Why down the consecrated head
 Courses in chilly drops the dew of fear ?
 All is not well, the pale-ey'd moon
 Curtains her head in clouds, the stars retire,
 Save from the sultry south alone,
 The swart star flings his pestilential fire ;
 Ev'n sleep herself will fly,
 If not recall'd by harmony.
 Wake, my lyre ! thy softest numbers,
 Such as nurse ecstatic slumbers,
 Sweet as tranquil virtue feels
 When the toil of life is ending,
 While from the earth the spirit steals,
 And, on new-born plumes ascending,
 Hastens to lave in the bright fount of day,
 'Till Destiny prepare a shrine of purer clay.

[The Druid waking, speaks.]

C H O R U S.

It may not be. Avaunt terrific axe ;
 Why hangs thy bright edge glaring o'er the grove ?

Oh

Oh for a giant's nerve to ward the stroke !

It bows, it falls.

Where am I? hush, my foul !

'Twas all a dream. Resume no more the strain :

The hour is past : my brethren ! what ye saw,

(If what ye saw, as by your looks I read,

Bore like ill-omen'd shape) hold it in silence.

The midnight air falls chilly on my breast ;

And now I shiver, now a fev'rish glow

Scorches my vitals. Hark, some step approaches.

E V E L I N A, C H O R U S.

E V E L I N A.

Thus, with my wayward fears, to burst unbidden

On your dread synod, rousing, as ye seem,

From holy trance, appears a desperate deed,

Ev'n to the wretch who dares it.

C H O R U S.

Virgin ! quickly

Pronounce the cause.

E V E L I N A.

Bear with a simple maid

Too prone to fear, perchance my fears are vain.

C H O R U S.

But yet declare them.

E V E-

[ 198 ]

E V E L I N A.

I suspect me much

The faith of these Brigantes.

C H O R U S.

Say'st thou, Virgin?

Heed what thou say'st; Suspicion is a guest
That in the breast of man, of wrathful man,
Too oft' his welcome finds; yet seldom sure
In that submissive calm that smooths the mind
Of maiden innocence.

E V E L I N A.

I know it well;

Yet must I still distrust the elder stranger;
For while he talks, (and much the flatterer talks)
His brother's silent carriage gives disproof
Of all his boast; indeed I mark'd it well;
And, as my father with the elder held
Bold speech and warlike, as is still his wont
When fir'd with hope of conquest, oft I saw
A sigh unbidden heave the younger's breast,
Half check'd as it was rais'd; sometimes, methought,
His gentle eye would cast a glance on me,
As if he pitied me; and then again
Would fasten on my father, gazing there

To

To veneration ; then he'd figh again,
 Look on the ground, and hang his modeft head
 Moft penfively.

C H O R U S.

This may demand, my brethren,
 More ferious fearch : Virgin ! proceed.

E V E L I N A.

'Tis true,

My father, rapt in high heroic zeal,
 His ev'ry thought big with his country's freedom,
 Heeds not the different carriage of thefe brethren,
 The elder takes him wholly ; yet, methinks,
 The younger's manners have I know not what,
 That fpeaks him far more artlefs. This befides,
 Is it not ftrange, if, as the tale reports,
 My mother fojourns with this diftant Queen,
 She fhould not fend or to my fire, or me,
 Some fond remembrance of her love ? ah ! none,
 With tears I fpeak it, none, not her dear bleffing
 Has reach'd my longing ears.

C H O R U S.

The Gods, my brethren,
 Have wak'd thefe doubts in the untainted breaft
 Of this mild maiden ; oft to female foftnefs,

Oft

Oft to the purity of virgin souls
 Doth heav'n its voluntary light dispense,
 When victims bleed in vain. They must be spies:
 Hie thee, good CANTABER, and to our presence
 Summon the young Brigantian.

E V E L I N A.

Do not that,
 Or, if ye do, yet treat him nothing sternly:
 The softest terms from such a tender breast
 Will draw confession, and, if ye shall find
 The treason ye suspect, forbear to curse him.
 (Not that my weakness means to guide your wisdom)
 Yet, as I think he would not wittingly
 E'er do a deed of baseness, were it granted
 That I might question him, my heart forebodes
 It more could gain by gentleness and prayers,
 Than will the fiercest threats.

C H O R U S.

Perchance it may:
 And quickly shalt thou try. But see the King!
 And with him both the youths.

E V E L I N A.

Alas! my fears
 Forewent my errand, else had I inform'd thee

That

That therefore did I come, and from my father
To gain admiffion. Mark the younger, Druid,
How fad he feems ; oft did he in the cave
So fold his arms——

C H O R U S.

We mark him much, and much
The elder's free and dreadlefs confidence.
Virgin, retire awhile in yonder vale,
Nor, 'till thy royal father quits the grove,
Refume thy ftation here.

Forgive me, Druid !

My eager foul no longer could fustain
The pangs of expectation ; hence I fent
The virgin innocence of EVELINA,
Safelt to break upon your privacy :
She not return'd, Oh pardon ! that uncall'd
I follow : the great caufe, I trust, abfolves me :
'Tis your's, 'tis freedom's, 'tis the caufe of heav'n ;
And fure heav'n owns it fuch.

C H O R U S.

C A R A C T A C U S,

All that by sage and sanctimonious rites
Might of the Gods be ask'd, we have essay'd ;
And yet, nor to our wish, nor to their wont,
Gave they benign assent.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Death to our hopes !

C H O R U S.

While yet we lay in sacred slumber tranc'd,
Sullen and sad to fancy's frighted eye
Did shapes of dun and murky hue advance,
In train tumultuous, all of gesture strange,
And passing horrible ; starting we wak'd,
Yet felt no waking calm ; still all was dark,
Still rang our tinkling ears with screams of woe.
Suspicious tremors still——

V E L L I N U S.

Of what suspicious ?

Druid, our Queen——

C H O R U S.

Restrain thy wayward tongue,
Insolent youth ! in such licentious mood
To interrupt our speech ill suits thy years,
And worse our sanctity.

C A-

C A R A C T A C U S.

'Tis his distress

Makes him forget, what else his reverent zeal
 Would pay ye holily. Think what he feels,
 Poor youth! who fears yon moon, before she wanes,
 May see his country conquer'd; see his mother
 The victor's slave, her royal blood debas'd,
 Dragging her chains thro' the throng'd streets of Rome,
 To grace oppression's triumph. Horrid thought!
 Say, can it be that he, whose strenuous youth
 Adds vigour to his virtue, e'er can bear
 This patiently? he comes to ask my aid,
 And, that withheld, (as now he needs must fear)
 What means, alas! are left? search Britain round,
 What chief dares cope with Rome? what king but holds
 His loan of power at a Proconsul's will,
 At best a scepter'd slave?

V E L L I N U S.

Yes, Monarch, yes,

If Heav'n restrains thy formidable sword,
 Or to its stroke denies that just success
 Which Heav'n alone can give, I fear me much
 Our Queen, ourselves, nay Britain's self, must perish.

C A R A C T A C U S.

But is not this a fear makes Virtue vain?
Tears from yon minist'ring regents of the sky
Their right? Plucks from firm-handed Providence,
The golden reins of sublunary fway,
And gives them to blind Chance? If this be so,
If Tyranny must lord it o'er the earth,
There's Anarchy in Heav'n. Nay, frown not, Druid,
I do not think 'tis thus.

C H O R U S.

We trust thou do'st not.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Masters of Wisdom! No: my soul confides
In that all-healing and all-forming Power,
Who, on the radiant day when Time was born,
Cast his broad eye upon the wild of ocean,
And calm'd it with a glance: then, plunging deep
His mighty arm, pluck'd from its dark domain
This throne of Freedom, lifted it to light,
Girt it with silver cliffs, and call'd it Britain:
He did, and will preserve it.

C H O R U S.

Pious Prince,
In that all-healing and all-forming power

Still

Still let thy foul confide ; but not in men,
 No, not in thefe, ingenuous as they feem,
 'Till they are try'd by that high teft of faith
 Our ancient laws ordain.

V E L L I N U S.

Illuftrious Seer,
 Methinks our Sov'reign's fignet well might plead
 Her envoy's faith. Thy pardon, mighty Druid,
 Not for ourfelves, but for our Queen we plead ;
 Miftruffing us, ye wound her honour.

C H O R U S.

Peace ;
 Our will admits no parley. Thither, Youths,
 Turn your aftonifh'd eyes ; behold yon huge
 And unhewn fphere of living adamant,
 Which, pois'd by magic, refts its central weight
 On yonder pointed rock : firm as it feems,
 Such is its ftrange and virtuous property,
 It moves obfequious to the gentleft touch
 Of him, whose breaft is pure ; but to a traitor,
 Tho' ev'n a giant's prowess nerv'd his arm,
 It ftands as fixt as Snowdon. No reply ;
 The Gods command that one of you muft now
 Approach and try it : in your snowy vefts,

Ye

Ye Priests, involve the lots, and to the younger,
As is our wont, tender the choice of Fate.

E L I D U R U S.

Heav'ns ! is it fall'n on me ?

C H O R U S.

Young Prince, it is ;

Prepare thee for thy trial.

E L I D U R U S.

Gracious Gods !

Who may look up to your tremendous thrones,
And say his breast is pure ? All-searching Powers,
Ye know already how and what I am ;
And what ye mean to publish me in Mona,
To that I yield and tremble.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Rouse thee, Youth !

And, with that courage honest Truth supplies,
(For sure ye both are true) haste to the trial ;
Behold I lead thee on.

C H O R U S.

Prince, we arrest

Thy hasty step ; to witness this high test
Pertains to us alone. Awhile retire,
And in yon cave his brother be thy charge ;

The

The trial past, again we will confer,
Touching that part which Heav'n's deciding choice
Wills thee to act.

[Exeunt Caractacus and Vellinus.]

C H O R U S, E L I D U R U S.

C H O R U S.

Now be the rites prepar'd :
And now, ye Bards, chant ye that custom'd hymn,
The prelude of this fam'd solemnity.

O D E.

I. I.

Thou Spirit pure, that spread'st unseen
Thy pinions o'er this pond'rous sphere,
And, breathing thro' each rigid vein,
Fill'st with stupendous life the marble mass,
And bid'st it bow upon its base,
When sov'reign Truth is near ;
Spirit invisible ! to thee
We swell the solemn harmony ;
Hear us, and aid :
Thou, that in Virtue's cause
O'er-rulest Nature's laws,
Oh hear, and aid with influence high
The sons of Peace and Piety.

First-

I. 2.

First-born of that ethereal tribe
 Call'd into birth ere time or place,
 Whom wave nor wind can circumscribe,
 Heirs of the liquid liberty of Light,
 That float on rainbow pennons bright
 Thro' all the wilds of space;
 Yet thou alone of all thy kind
 Can'st range the regions of the mind,
 Thou only know'st
 That dark meand'ring maze,
 Where wayward Falshood strays,
 And, seizing swift the lurking sprite,
 Forces her forth to shame and light.

I. 3.

Thou can'st enter the dark cell
 Where the vulture Conscience slumbers,
 And, unarm'd by charming spell,
 Or magic numbers,
 Can'st rouse her from her formidable sleep,
 And bid her dart her raging talons deep;
 Yet, ah! too seldom doth the furious fiend
 Thy bidding wait; vindictive, self prepar'd,
 She knows her torturing time; too sure to rend
 The trembling heart, when Virtue quits her guard.

Paufe

Pause then, celestial guest!

And, brooding on thine adamantine sphere,
If fraud approach, Spirit, that fraud declare;
To Conscience and to Mona leave the rest.

C H O R U S.

Heard'st thou the awful invocation, Youth,
Wrapt in those holy harpings?

E L I D U R U S.

Sage, I did;
And it came o'er my soul as doth the thunder,
While distant yet, with an expected burst,
It threatens the trembling ear. Now to the trial.

C H O R U S.

Ere that, bethink thee well what rig'rous doom
Attends thine act, if failing, certain death:
So certain, that in our absolving tongues
Rests not that power may save thee: Thou must die.

EVELINA, ELIDURUS, CHORUS.

E V E L I N A.

Die, say'st thou? Druid!

E L I D U R U S.

EVELINA here!

Lead to the rock.

E c

C H O-

[ 210 ]

C H O R U S.

No, Youth, awhile we spare thee;
And, in our stead, permit this royal maiden
To urge thee first with virgin gentleness;
Respect our clemency, and meet her questions
With answers prompt and true; so may'st thou 'scape
A sterner trial.

E L I D U R U S.

Rather to the rock.—

E V E L I N A.

Dost thou disdain me, Prince? Lost as I am,
Methinks the daughter of CARACTACUS
Might merit milder treatment: I was born
To royal hopes and promise, nurs'd i'th' lap
Of soft prosperity; alas the change!
I meant but to address a few brief words
To this young Prince, and he doth turn his eye,
And scorns to answer me.

E L I D U R U S.

Scorn thee, sweet Maid?

No, 'tis the fear—

E V E L I N A.

And can'st thou fear me, Youth?
Ev'n while I led a life of royalty,

I

I bore myself to all with meek deportment,
 In nothing harsh, or cruel: and, howe'er
 Misfortune works upon the minds of men,
 (For some they say it turns to very stone)
 Mine I am sure it softens. Wert thou guilty,
 Yet I should pity thee; nay, wert thou leagu'd
 To load this suffering heart with more misfortunes,
 Still should I pity thee; nor e'er believe
 Thou would'st, on free and voluntary choice,
 Betray the innocent.

E L I D U R U S.

Indeed I would not.

E V E L I N A.

No, gracious Youth, I do believe thou would'st not:
 For on thy brow the liberal hand of Heav'n
 Has portray'd Truth as visible and bold,
 As were the pictur'd suns that deckt the brows
 Of our brave ancestors. Say then, young Prince,
 (For therefore have I wish'd to question thee)
 Bring ye no token of a mother's fondness
 To her expecting child? Gentle thou seem'st,
 And sure that gentleness would prompt thine heart
 To visit and to sooth with courteous office,
 Distress like her's. A captive and a queen

Has more than common claim for pity, Prince,
 And ev'n the ills of venerable age
 Were cause enough to move thy tender nature.
 The tears o'ercharge thine eye. Alas, my fears !
 Sicknefs or fore infirmity had feiz'd her,
 Before thou left'ft the palace, elfe her lips
 Had to thy care entrusted fome kind meffage,
 And bleft her haplefs daughter by thy tongue.
 Would fhe were here !

E L I D U R U S.

Would Heav'n fhe were !

E V E L I N A.

Ah why ?

E L I D U R U S.

Because you wifh it.

E V E L I N A.

Thanks, ingenuous Youth,
 For this thy courtefy. Yet, if the Queen
 Thy mother fhines with fuch rare qualities,
 As late thy brother boasted, fhe will calm
 Her woes, and I fhall clasp her aged knees
 Again, in peace and liberty.—Alas !
 He fpeaks not ; all my fears are juft.

E L I-

E L I D U R U S.

What fears?

The Queen GUIDERIA is not dead.

E V E L I N A.

Not dead!

But is she in that happy state of freedom,
Which we were taught to hope? Why figh'ft thou, Youth?
Thy years have yet been prosp'rous. Did thy father
E'er lose a kingdom? Did captivity
E'er seize thy shrieking mother? thou can'ft go
To yonder cave, and find thy brother safe:
He is not lost, as mine is. Youth, thou figh'ft
Again; thou hast not sure such cause for sorrow;
But if thou hast, give me thy griefs, I pray thee;
I have a heart can softly sympathize,
And sympathy is soothing.

E L I D U R U S.

Oh Gods! Gods!

She tears my soul. What shall I say?

E V E L I N A.

Perchance,

For all in this bad world must have their woes,
Thou too hast thine; and may'ft, like me, be wretched.
Haply amid the ruinous waste of war,

'Mid

'Mid that wild havock, which those fons of blood
 Bring on our groaning country, some chaste maid,
 Whose tender soul was link'd by love to thine,
 Might fall the trembling prey to Roman rage,
 Ev'n at the golden hour, when holy rites
 Had seal'd your virtuous vows. If it were so,
 Indeed I pity her !

E L I D U R U S.

Not that : not that.

Never 'till now did beauty's matchless beam——
 But I am dumb.

E V E L I N A.

Why that dejected eye ?

And why this silence ? that some weighty grief
 O'erhangs thy soul, thy ev'ry look proclaims.
 Why then refuse it words ? The heart, that bleeds
 From any stroke of fate or human wrongs,
 Loves to disclose itself, that list'ning pity
 May drop a healing tear upon the wound.
 'Tis only, when with inbred horror smote
 At some base act, or done, or to be done,
 That the recoiling soul, with conscious dread,
 Shrinks back into itself. But thou, good Youth——

E L I-

E L I D U R U S.

Cease, royal maid! permit me to depart.—

E V E L I N A.

Yet hear me, stranger! Truth and Secrefy,
Tho' friends, are feldom necessary friends—

E L I D U R U S.

I go to try my truth—

E V E L I N A.

Oh! go not hence

In wrath; think not, that I suspect thy virtue:
Yet ignorance may oft make virtue slide,
And if——

E L I D U R U S.

In pity spare me.

E V E L I N A.

If thy brother——

Nay, start not, do not turn thine eye from mine;
Speak, I conjure thee, is his purpose honest?
I know the guilty price, that barbarous Rome
Sets on my father's head; and gold, vile gold,
Has now a charm for Britons: Brib'd by this,
Should he betray him—Yes, I see thou shudder'ft
At the dire thought; yet not, as if 'twere strange;
But as our fears were mutual. Ah, young stranger;
That

That open face scarce needs a tongue to utter
 What works within. Come then, ingenuous Prince,
 And instant make discovery to the Druid,
 While yet 'tis not too late.

E L I D U R U S.

Ah! what discover?

Say, whom must I betray?

E V E L I N A.

Thy brother.

E L I D U R U S.

Ha!

E V E L I N A.

Who is no brother, if his guilty soul
 Teems with such perfidy. Oh all ye stars!
 Can he be brother to a youth like thee,
 Who would betray an old and honour'd King,
 That King his countryman, and one whose prowess
 Once guarded Britain 'gainst th' affailing world?
 Can he be brother to a youth like thee,
 Who from a young, defenceless, innocent maid,
 Would take that King her father? Make her suffer
 All that an orphan suffers? More perchance:
 The ruffian foe.—Oh tears, ye choke my utterance!
 Can he be brother to a youth like thee,

Who

Who would defile his soul by such black deeds?
 It cannot be——And yet, thou still art silent.
 Turn, youth, and see me weep. Ah, see me kneel:
 I am of royal blood, not wont to kneel,
 Yet will I kneel to thee. Oh save my father!
 Save a distressful maiden from the force
 Of barbarous men! Be thou a brother to me,
 For mine alas! hah! [Sees Arviragus entering.]

ARVIRAGUS, EVELINA, ELIDURUS,

CHORUS.

ARVIRAGUS.

EVELINA, rise!

Know, maid, I ne'er will tamely see thee kneel,
 Ev'n at the foot of CÆSAR.

EVELINA.

'Tis himself:

And he will prove my father's fears were false,
 False, as his son is brave. Thou best of brothers,
 Come to my arms. Where hast thou been, thou wanderer?
 How wer't thou sav'd? Indeed, ARVIRAGUS,
 I never shed such tears, since thou wer't lost,
 For these are tears of rapture.

ARVIRAGUS.

EVELINA!

F f

Fain

Fain would I greet thee, as a brother ought :
But wherefore didst thou kneel ?

E V E L I N A.

Oh ! ask not now.

A R V I R A G U S.

By heav'n I must, and he must answer me,
Whoe'er he be. What art thou, fullen stranger ?

E L I D U R U S.

A Briton.

A R V I R A G U S.

Brief and bold.

E V E L I N A.

Ah, spare the taunt :

He merits not thy wrath. Behold the Druids ;
Lo, they advance : with holy reverence first
Thou must address their sanctity.

A R V I R A G U S.

I will.

But see, proud boy, thou do'st not quit the grove,
'Till time allows us parley.

E L I D U R U S.

Prince, I mean not.

A R V I R A G U S.

Sages, and sons of heav'n ! Illustrious Druids !

Abruptly

Abruptly I approach your sacred presence :
Yet such dire tidings——

C H O R U S.

On thy peril, peace !

Thou stand'st accus'd, and by a father's voice,
Of crimes abhorr'd, of cowardice and flight ;
And therefore may'st not in these sacred groves
Utter polluted accents. Quickly say,
Wherefore thou fled'st ? For that base fact unclear'd
We hold no further converse.

A R V I R A G U S.

Oh ye Gods !

Am I the son of your CARACTACUS ?
And could I fly ?

C H O R U S.

Waste not of time or words :

But tell us why thou fled'st ?

A R V I R A G U S.

I fled not, Druid !

By the great Gods I fled not ! Save to stop
Our dastard troops, that basely turn'd their backs.
I stopt, I rallied them, when lo a shaft
Of random cast did level me with earth,
Where pale and senseless, as the slain around me,

I lay 'till midnight: Then, as from long trance
 Awoke, I crawl'd upon my feeble limbs
 To a lone cottage, where a pitying hind
 Lodg'd me, and nourish'd me. My strength repair'd,
 It boots not that I tell, what humble arts
 Compell'd I us'd to screen me from the foe.
 How now a peasant from a beggarly scrip
 I sold cheap food to slaves, that nam'd the price,
 Nor after gave it. Now a minstrel poor
 With ill-tun'd harp, and uncouth descant shrill
 I ply'd a thriftless trade, and by such shifts
 Did win obscurity to shroud my name.
 At length to other conquests in the north
 OSTORIUS led his legions: Safer now,
 Yet not secure, I to some valiant chiefs,
 Whom war had spar'd, discover'd what I was;
 And with them plann'd, how surest we might draw
 Our scatter'd forces to some rocky fastness
 In rough Caernarvon, there to breathe in freedom,
 If not with brave incursion to oppress
 The thinly-station'd foe. And soon our art
 So well avail'd, that now at Snowdon's foot
 Full twenty troops of hardy veterans wait
 To call my fire their leader.

C H O R U S.

Valiant youth——

E V E L I N A.

He is——I said he was a valiant youth,
Nor has he sham'd his race.

C H O R U S.

We do believe

Thy modest tale: And may the righteous Gods
Thus ever shed upon thy noble breast
Discretion's cooling dew. When nurtur'd so,
Then, only then, doth valour bloom mature.

A R V I R A G U S.

Yet vain is valour, howfoe'er it bloom:
Druid, the Gods frown on us. All my hopes
Are blasted; I shall ne'er rejoin my friends,
Ne'er bless them with my father. Holy men,
I have a tale to tell, will shake your souls.
Your Mona is invaded; Rome approaches,
Ev'n to these groves approaches.

S E M I C H O R U S.

Horror! horror!

A R V I R A G U S.

Late as I landed on yon highest beach,
Where nodding from the rocks the poplars fling

Their

Their scatter'd arms, and dash them in the wave,
 There were their vessels moor'd, as if they fought
 Concealment in the shade, and as I pass
 Up yon thick-planted ridge, I 'spy'd their helms
 'Mid brakes and boughs trench'd in the heath below,
 Where like a nest of night-worms did they glitter,
 Sprinkling the plain with brightness. On I sped
 With silent step, yet oft did pass so near,
 'Twas next to prodigy, I 'scap'd unseen.

C H O R U S.

Their number, Prince?

A R V I R A G U S.

Few, if mine hasty eye
 Did find, and count them all.

C H O R U S.

Oh brethren, brethren,
 Treason and sacrilege, worse foes than Rome,
 Have led Rome hither. Instant seize that wretch,
 And bring him to our presence.

CHORUS, ELIDURUS, ARVIRAGUS.

C H O R U S.

Say, thou false one!
 What doom befits the slave, who sells his country?

ELI-

E L I D U R U S. A

Death, sudden death !

C H O R U S.

No, ling'ring piece-meal death ;
And to such death thy brother and thyself
We now devote. Villain, thy deeds are known ;
'Tis known, ye led the impious Romans hither
To slaughter us ev'n on our holy altars.

E L I D U R U S.

That on my soul doth lie some secret grief,
These looks perforce will tell : It is not fear,
Druids, it is not fear that shakes me thus ;
The great Gods know, it is not : Ye can never :
For, what tho' wisdom lifts ye next those gods,
Ye cannot, like to them, unlock men's breasts,
And read their inmost thoughts. Ah ! that ye could.

A R V I R A G U S.

What hast thou done ?

E L I D U R U S.

What, Prince, I will not tell.

C H O R U S.

Wretch, there are means——

E L I D U R U S.

I know, and terrible means ;

And

And 'tis both fit, that you should try those means,
And I endure them : Yet I think, my patience
Will for some space baffle your torturing fury.

C H O R U S.

Be that best known, when our inflicted goads
Harrow thy flesh !

A R V I R A G U S.

Stranger, ere this is try'd
Confess the whole of thy black perfidy ;
So black, that when I look upon thy youth,
Read thy mild eye, and mark thy modest brow,
I think indeed, thou durst not.

E L I D U R U S.

Such a crime
Indeed I durst not ; and would rather be
The very wretch thou seest. I'll speak no more.

C H O R U S.

Brethren, 'tis so. The virgin's thoughts were just :
This youth has been deceiv'd.

E L I D U R U S.

Yes, one word more,
You say, the Romans have invaded Mona.
Give me a sword and twenty honest Britons,
And I will quell those Romans. Vain demand !

Alas !

Alas ! you cannot : Ye are men of peace :
Religion's self forbids. Lead then to torture.

A R V I R A G U S.

Now on my soul this youth doth move me much.

C H O R U S.

Think not Religion and our holy office
Doth teach us tamely, like the bleating lamb,
To crouch before oppreffion, and with neck
Outstretch'd await the ftroke. Mistaken boy !
Did not strict justice claim thee for her victim,
We might full safely fend thee to these Romans,
Inviting their hot charge. Know, when I blow
That sacred trumpet bound with fable fillets
To yonder branching oak, the awful found
Calls forth a thousand Britons train'd alike
In holy and in martial exercife,
Not by fuch mode and rule, as Romans use,
But of that fierce portentous horrible fort,
As fhall appall ev'n Romans.

E L I D U R U S.

Gracious gods !

Then there are hopes indeed. Oh call them infant,
This Prince will lead them on : I'll follow him,

G g

Tho'

Tho' in my chains, and some way dash them round
To harm the haughty foe.

A R V I R A G U S.

A thousand Britons,
And arm'd! Oh instant blow the sacred trump,
And let me head them. Yet methinks this youth——

C H O R U S.

I know what thou wouldst say, might join thee, Prince.
'True, were he free from crime, or had confess.

E L I D U R U S.

Confest. Ah, think not, I will e'er——

A R V I R A G U S.

Reflect.

Either thyself or brother must have wrong'd us:
Then why conceal——

E L I D U R U S.

Hast thou a brother? no!

Else hadst thou spar'd the word; and yet a sister
Lovely as thine might more than teach thee, Prince,
What 'tis to have a brother. Hear me, Druids,
Tho' I would prize an hour of freedom now
Before an age of any after date:
Tho' I would seize it as the gift of heav'n,
And use it as heav'n's gift: yet do not think,

I so will purchase it. Give it me freely,
 I yet will spurn the boon, and hug my chains,
 'Till you do swear by your own hoary heads,
 My brother shall be safe.

C H O R U S.

Excellent youth !

Thy words do speak thy soul, and such a soul,
 As wakes our wonder. Thou art free ; thy brother
 Shall be thine honour's pledge ! so will we use him,
 As thou art false or true.

E L I D U R U S.

I ask no other.

A R V I R A G U S.

Thus then, my fellow-soldier, to thy clasp
 I give the hand of friendship. Noble youth,
 We'll speed, or die together.

C H O R U S.

Hear us, Prince !

Mona permits not, that he fight her battles,
 'Till duly purified : For tho' his soul
 Took up unwittingly this deed of baseness,
 Yet is lustration meet. Learn, that in vice
 There is a noisome rankness unperceiv'd
 By gross corporeal sense, which so offends

Heav'n's pure divinities, as us the stench
 Of vapour wafted from sulphureous pool,
 Or pois'nous weed obscene. Hence doth the man,
 Who ev'n converses with a villain, need
 As much purgation, as the pallid wretch
 'Scap'd from the walls, where frowning pestilence
 Spreads wide her livid banners. For this cause,
 Ye Priests, conduct the youth to yonder grove,
 And do the needful rites. Mean while ourself
 Will lead thee, Prince, unto thy father's presence.—
 But hold, the King comes forth.

[Exeunt Priests with Elidurus,

CARACTACUS, ARVIRAGUS, CHORUS,
 EVELINA.

C A R A C T A C U S.

My son, my son !

What joy, what transport, doth thine aged fire
 Feel in these filial foldings ! Speak not, boy,
 Nor interrupt that heart-felt extacy
 Should strike us mute. I know what thou wouldst say,
 Yet prithee, peace. Thy sister's voice hath clear'd thee ;
 And could excuse find words at this blest moment,
 Trust me, I'd give it vent. But, 'tis enough,
 Thy father welcomes thee to him and honour :

Honour,

Honour, that now with rapt'rous certainty
 Calls thee his own true offspring. Dost thou weep?
 Ah, if thy tears swell not from joy's free spring,
 I beg thee, spare them : I have done thee wrong,
 Can make thee no atonement : None, alas !
 Thy father scarce can bless thee, as he ought ;
 Unblest himself, beset with foes around,
 Bereft of queen, of kingdom, and of foldiers,
 He can but give thee portion of his dangers,
 Perchance and of his chains : Yet droop not, boy,
 Virtue is still thine own.

A R V I R A G U S.

It is, my father ;
 Pure as from thine illustrious fount it came ;
 And that unfullied, let the world oppress us ;
 Let fraud and falsehood rivet fetters on us ;
 Still shall our souls be free : Yet hope is ours,
 As well as virtue.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Spoken like a Briton.
 True, hope is ours, and therefore let's prepare :
 The moments now are precious. Tell us, Druid,
 Is it not meet, we see the bands drawn out,
 And mark their due array ?

CHO.

[ 230 ]

C H O R U S.

Monarch, ev'n now

They skirt the grove.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Then let us to their front——

C H O R U S.

But is the traitor-youth in safety lodg'd?

C A R A C T A C U S.

Druid, he fled——

C H O R U S.

Oh fatal flight to Mona!

C A R A C T A C U S.

But what of that? ARVIRAGUS is here,
My son is here, let then the traitor go,
By this he has join'd the Romans: Let him join them,
A single arm, and that a villain's arm,
Can lend but little aid to any powers
Oppos'd to truth and virtue. Come, my son,
Let's to the troops, and marshal them with speed,
That done, we from these venerable men
Will claim their ready blessing: Then to battle;
And the swift sun ev'n at his purple dawn
Shall spy us crown'd with conquest, or with death.

[Exeunt Caractacus, and Arviragus.

CHO-

[ 231 ]

CHORUS, EVELINA.

CHORUS.

What may his flight portend ! Say, EVELINA,
How came this youth to 'scape ?

EVELINA.

And that to tell

Will fix much blame on my impatient folly :
For, ere your hallow'd lips had given permission,
I flew with eager haste to bear my father
News of his son's return. Inflam'd with that,
Think, how a sister's zealous breast must glow !
Your looks give mild assent. I glow'd indeed
With the dear tale, and sped me in his ear
To pour the precious tidings : But my tongue
Scarce nam'd ARVIRAGUS, ere the false stranger
(As I bethink me since) with stealthy pace
Fled to the cavern's mouth.

CHORUS.

The king pursued ?

EVELINA.

Alas ! he mark'd him not, for 'twas the moment,
When he had all to ask and all to fear,
Touching my brother's valour. Hitherto
His safety only, which but little mov'd him,

Had

Had reach'd his ears : But when my tongue unfolded
 The story of his bravery and his peril,
 Oh how the tears cours'd plenteous down his cheeks !
 How did he lift unto the heav'ns his hands
 In speechless transport ! Yet he soon bethought him
 Of Rome's invasion, and with fiery glance
 Survey'd the cavern round ; then snatch'd his spear,
 And menac'd to pursue the flying traitor :
 But I with prayers (Oh pardon, if they err'd)
 Withheld his step, for to the left the youth
 Had wing'd his way, where the thick underwood
 Afforded sure retreat. Besides, if found,
 Was age a match for youth ?

C H O R U S.

Maiden, enough ;
 Better perchance for us, if he was captive :
 But in the justice of their cause, and heav'n,
 Do Mona's sons confide.

BARD, CHORUS, ELIDURUS, EVELINA.

B A R D.

Druid, the rites
 Are finish'd, all save that which crowns the rest,
 And which pertains to thy blest hand alone :
 For that he kneels before thee.

CHO.

[ 233 ]

CHORUS.

Take him hence,
We may not trust him forth to fight our cause.

ELIDURUS.

Now by ANDRASTE'S throne——

CHORUS.

Nay, swear not, youth,
The tie is broke, that held thy fealty :
Thy brother's fled.

ELIDURUS.

Fled !

CHORUS.

To the Romans fled ;
Yes, thou hast cause to tremble.

ELIDURUS.

Ah, VELLINUS !

Does thus our love, does thus our friendship end !
Was I thy brother, youth, and has thou left me !
Yes ; and how left me, cruel as thou art,
The victim of thy crimes !

CHORUS.

True, thou must die.

ELIDURUS.

I pray ye then on your best mercy, fathers,

H h

It

It may be speedy. I would fain be dead,
 If this be life. Yet I must doubt ev'n that ;
 For falsehood of this strange stupendous sort
 Sets firm-ey'd reason on a gaze, mistrusting,
 That what she sees in palpable plain form,
 The stars in yon blue arch, these woods, these caverns,
 Are all mere tricks of cozenage, nothing real,
 The vision of a vision. If he's fled,
 I ought to hate this brother.

C H O R U S.

Yet thou dost not,

E L I D U R U S.

But when astonishment will give me leave,
 Perchance I shall.— And yet he is my brother,
 And he was virtuous once. Yes, ye vile Romans,
 Yes, I must die, before my thirsty sword
 Drinks one rich drop of vengeance. Yet, ye robbers,
 Yet will I curse you with my dying lips :
 'Twas you, that stole away my brother's virtue.

C H O R U S.

Now then prepare to die.

E L I D U R U S.

I am prepar'd.

Yet, since I cannot now (what most I wish'd)

By

By manly prowess guard this lovely maid :
 Permit that on your holiest earth I kneel,
 And pour one fervent prayer for her protection,
 Allow me this, for tho' you think me false,
 The Gods will hear me.

E V E L I N A.

I can hold no longer !

Oh Druid, Druid, at thy feet I fall :
 Yes, I must plead (away with virgin-blushes)
 For such a youth must plead. I'll die to save him,
 Oh take my life, and let him fight for Mona.

C H O R U S.

Virgin, arise. His virtue hath redeem'd him,
 And he shall fight for thee and for his country.
 Youth, thank us with thy deeds. The time is short,
 And now with reverence take our high consecration :
 Thrice do we sprinkle thee with day-break dew
 Shook from the May-thorn blossom ; twice and thrice
 Touch we thy forehead with our holy wand :
 Now thou art fully purg'd. Now rise restor'd
 To virtue and to us. Hence then, my son,
 Hie thee, to yonder altar, where our Bards
 Shall arm thee duly both with helm and sword
 For warlike enterprise. [Exit Elidurus.

CARACTACUS, CHORUS, ARVIRAGUS,
EVELINA.

C A R A C T A C U S.

'Tis true, my son,

Bold are their bearings, and I fear me not
But they have hearts will not belie their looks.
I like them well. Yet would to righteous heav'n
Those valiant veterans, that on Snowdon guard
Their scanty pittance of bleak liberty,
Were here to join them; we would teach these wolves,
Tho' we permit their rage to prowl our coasts,
That vengeance waits them ere they rob our altars.
Hail, Druid, hail! we find thy valiant guards
Accoutred so, as well bespeaks the wisdom
That fram'd their phalanx. We but wait thy blessing
To lead them 'gainst the foe.

C H O R U S.

CARACTACUS!

Behold this sword: The sword of old BELINUS,
Stain'd with the blood of giants, and its name
TRIFINGUS. Many an age its charmed blade
Has slept within yon consecrated trunk.
Lo, I unsheath it, King; I wave it o'er thee;
Mark, what portentous streams of scarlet light

Flow

Flow from the brandish'd falchion. On thy knee
 Receive the sacred pledge.—And mark our words.
 By the bright circle of the golden sun,
 By the brief courses of the errant moon,
 By the dread potency of every star
 That studs the mystic zodiac's burning girth,
 By each, and all of these supernal signs,
 We do adjure thee with this trusty blade,
 To guard yon central oak, whose holiest stem
 Involves the spirit of high TARANIS :
 This be thy charge ; to which in aid we join
 Ourselves, and our sage brethren. With our vassals
 Thy son and the Brigantian prince shall make
 Incurfion on the foe.

C A R A C T A C U S.

In this, and all,
 Be ours observance meet. Yet surely, Druid,
 The fresh and active vigour of these youths
 Might better suit with this important charge.
 Not that my heart shrinks at the glorious task,
 But will with ready zeal pour forth its blood
 Upon the sacred roots, my firmest courage
 Might fail to save. Yet, Fathers, I am old ;

And

And if I fell the foremost in the onset,
Should leave a son behind, might still defend you,

C H O R U S.

The sacred adjuration we have utter'd
May never be recall'd.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Then be it so.

But do not think, I counsel this thro' fear :
Old as I am, I trust with half our powers
I could drive back these Romans to their ships ;
Dastards, that come as doth the cow'ring fowler
To tangle me with snares and take me tamely ;
Slaves, they shall find, that ere they gain their prey,
They have to hunt it boldly with barb'd spears,
And meet such conflict, as the chafed boar
Gives to his stout assailants. Oh ye Gods !
That I might instant face them.

C H O R U S.

Be thy son's

The onset.

A R V I R A G U S.

From his soul that son doth thank ye,
Blessing the wisdom, that preserves his father
Thus to the last. Oh if the fav'ring Gods

Direct

Direct this arm, if their high will permit
 I pour a prosperous vengeance on the foe,
 I ask for life no longer, than to crown
 The valiant task. Steel then, ye powers of heav'n,
 Steel my firm soul with your own fortitude,
 Free from alloy of passion. Give me courage,
 That knows not rage; revenge, that knows not malice;
 Let me not thirst for carnage, but for conquest:
 And conquest gain'd, sleep vengeance in my breast,
 Ere in its sheath my sword.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Oh hear his father!
 If ever rashness spur'd me on, great Gods,
 To acts of danger thirsting for renown;
 If e'er my eager soul pursu'd its course
 Beyond just reason's limit, visit not
 My faults on him. I am the thing you made me,
 Vindictive, bold, precipitate, and fierce:
 But as you gave to him a milder mind,
 Oh bless him, bless him with a milder fate!

E V E L I N A.

Nor yet unheard let EVELINA pour
 Her pray'rs and tears. Oh hear a hapless maid,
 That ev'n thro' half the years her life has number'd,

Ev'n

Ev'n nine long years has drag'd a trembling being;
 Beset with pains and perils. Give her peace;
 And, to endear it more, be that blest peace
 Won by her brother's sword. Oh bless his arm,
 And bless his valiant followers, One, and all.

ELIDURUS entering armed.

Hear, heav'n! and let this pure and virgin pray'r
 Plead ev'n for ELIDURUS, whose sad soul
 Can't look up to your immortal thrones,
 And urge his own request: Else would he ask,
 That all the dangers of th' approaching fight
 Might fall on him alone: That every spear
 The Romans wield might at his breast be aim'd;
 Each arrow darted on his rattling helm;
 That so the brother of this beauteous maid,
 Returning safe with victory and peace,
 Might bear them to her bosom.

CHORUS.

Now rise all;
 And heav'n, that knows, what most ye ought to ask,
 Grant all ye ought to have: Behold, the stars
 Are faded; universal darkness reigns.
 Now is the dreadful hour, now will our torches
 Glare with more livid horror, now our shrieks

And

And clanking arms will more appall the foe.
 But heed, ye Bards, that for the sign of onset
 Ye found the antientest of all your rhymes,
 Whose birth tradition notes not, nor who fram'd
 Its lofty strains: The force of that high air
 Did JULIUS feel, when, fir'd by it, our fathers
 First drove him recreant to his ships; and ill
 Had far'd his second landing, but that fate
 Silenc'd the master Bard, who led the song.
 Now forth, brave Pair! Go, with our blessing go;
 Mute be the march, as ye ascend the hill:
 Then, when ye hear the sound of our shrill trumpet,
 Fall on the foe.

C A R A C T A C U S.

Now glory be thy guide;
 Pride of my soul, go forth and conquer.

E V E L I N A.

Brother,

Yet one embrace. Oh thou much-honour'd Stranger,
 I charge thee fight by my dear brother's side,
 And shield him from the foe; for he is brave,
 And will with bold and well-directed arm
 Return thy succour.

C H O R U S.

Now, ye Priests, with speed
Strew on the altar's height your sacred leaves,
And light the morning flame. But why is this?
Why doth our brother MADOR snatch his harp
From yonder bough? Why this way bend his step?

C A R A C T A C U S.

He is entranc'd. The fillet bursts, that bound
His liberal locks; his snowy vestments fall
In ampler folds; and all his floating form
Doth seem to glisten with divinity!
Yet is he speechless. Say, thou Chief of Bards,
What is there in this airy vacancy,
That thou with fiery and irregular glance
Shouldst scan thus wildly? wherefore heaves thy breast?
Why starts——

C H O R U S.

O D E.

I. 1.

Hark! heard ye not yon footstep dread,
That shook the earth with thund'ring tread?
'Twas Death.—In haste
The Warrior past;
High tower'd his helmed head:

I mark'd his mail, I mark'd his shield,
 I 'spy'd the sparkling of his spear,
 I saw his giant arm the falchion wield;
 Wide wav'd the bick'ring blade, and fir'd the angry air.

I. 2.

On me (he cry'd) my Britons, wait,
 To lead you to the field of fate

I come : Yon car,
 That cleaves the air,

Descends to throne my state :

I mount your Champion and your God.
 My proud steeds neigh beneath the thong :

Hark ! to my wheels of brags, that rattle loud !
 Hark ! to my * clarion shrill, that brays the woods among !

I. 3.

Fear not now the fever's fire,

Fear not now the death-bed groan,

Pangs that torture, pains that tire,

Bed-rid age with feeble moan ;

These domestic terrors wait

Hourly at my palace gate ;

And when o'er slothful realms my rod I wave,

These on the tyrant king and coward slave

Rush with vindictive rage, and drag them to their grave.

* Here one of the Druids blows the sacred trumpet.

II. 1.

But ye, my Sons, at this high hour
Shall share the fulness of my power :

From all your bows,
In level'd rows,

My own dread shafts shall shower.

Go then to conquest, gladly go,
Deal forth my dole of destiny,

With all my fury dash the trembling foe
Down to those darksome dens, where Rome's pale spectres lie.

II. 2.

Where creeps the ninefold stream profound
Her black inexorable round,

And on the bank,
To willows dank,

The shiv'ring ghosts are bound.

Twelve thousand crescents all shall swell
To full-orb'd pride, and fading die,

Ere they again in life's gay mansions dwell :
Not such the meed that crowns the sons of Liberty.

II. 3.

No, my Britons ! battle-slain,

Rapture gilds your parting hour :

I, that all despotic reign,

Claim but there a moment's power.

Swiftly

Swiftly the soul of British flame
Animates some kindred frame,
    Swiftly to life and light triumphant flies,
    Exults again in martial extasies,
Again for freedom fights, again for freedom dies.

C A R A C T A C U S.

It does, it does ! unconquer'd, undismay'd,
The British soul revives—Champion, lead on,
I follow—give me way. Some blessed shaft
Will rid me of this clog of cumb'rous age ;
And I again shall in some happier mould
Rise to redeem my country.

C H O R U S.

    Stay thee, Prince,
And mark what clear and amber-skirted clouds
Rise from the altar's verge, and cleave the skies ;
Oh 'tis a prosperous omen ! Soon expect
To hear glad tidings.

C A R A C T A C U S.

    I will send them to thee.

C H O R U S.

But see, a Bard approaches, and he bears them :
Else is his eye no herald to his heart.

BARD,

[ 246 ]

BARD, CHORUS, CARACTACUS,
CARACTACUS.

Speedily tell thy tale.

BARD.

A tale like mine,
I trust your ears will willingly pursue
Thro' each glad circumstance. First, Monarch, learn,
The Roman troop is fled.

CHORUS,

Great Gods, we thank ye!

CARACTACUS.

Fought they not ere they fled? Oh tell me all,

BARD.

Silent, as night, that wrapt us in her veil,
We pac'd up yonder hill, whose woody ridge
O'erhung the ambush'd foe. No sound was heard,
Step felt, or sight descry'd: for safely hid,
Beneath the purple pall of sacrifice
Did sleep our holy fire, nor saw the air,
'Till to that pass we came, where whilom BRUTE
Planted his five hoar altars. To our rites
Then swift we hasted, and in one short moment
The rocky piles were cloth'd with livid flame.
Near each a white-rob'd Druid, whose stern voice
Thunder'd

Thunder'd dēep execrations on the foe.
 Now wak'd our horrid symphony, now all
 Our harps terrific rang : Meanwhile the grove
 Trembled, the altars shook, and thro' our ranks
 Our sacred sisters rush'd in sable robes,
 With hair dishevel'd, and funereal brands
 Hurl'd round with menacing fury. On they rush'd
 In fierce and frantic mood, as is their wont
 Amid the magic rites, they do to Night
 In their deep dens below. Motions like these
 Were never dar'd before in open air !

They stood aghast, and to our vollied darts,
 That thick as hail fell on their helms and corselets,
 Scarce rais'd a warding shield. The sacred trumpet
 Then rent the air, and instant at the signal
 Rush'd down ARVIRAGUS with all our vassals ;
 A hot, but short-liv'd, conflict then ensu'd :
 For soon they fled. I saw the Romans fly,

Yet captives as ye are, in Britain's eye
Ye are not slaves. Barbarians, tho' ye call us,
We know the native rights, man claims from man,
And therefore never shall we gall your necks
With chains, or drag you at our scythed cars
In arrogance of triumph. Nor 'till taught
By Rome (what Britain sure should scorn to learn)
Her avarice, will we barter you for gold.

I am his slave to treat as seems him good;
If cruelly, 'twill be an easy task

When trick'd and varnish'd by your glossing penmen,

 The slave that shot that dart, kill'd ev'ry hope
 Of lost CARACTACUS! Arise, my daughter.
 Alas! poor Prince; art thou too in vile fetters?

[To Elidurus.

Come hither, youth: Be thou to me a son,
 To her a brother. Thus with trembling arms
 I lead you forth; children, we go to Rome.
 Weep'st thou, my girl? I prithee hoard thy tears
 For the sad meeting of thy captive mother:
 For we have much to tell her, much to say
 Of these good men, who nurtur'd us in Mona;
 Much of the fraud and malice, that pursu'd us;
 Much of her son, who pour'd his precious blood
 To save his fire and sister: Think'st thou, maid,
 Her gentleness can hear the tale, and live?
 And yet she must. Oh Gods, I grow a talker!
 Grief and old age are ever full of words:
 But I'll be mute. Adieu! ye holy men;
 Yet one look more—Now lead us hence for ever.

L E T T E R S.

L E T T E R I,

I Was aware, when I sent you my * Poem, that it would be liable to the very objections you make to it. Yet perhaps they will be obviated to your satisfaction, when I have laid before you (as indeed I ought to have done at first) the original idea which led me to chuse such a subject, and to execute it in so peculiar a manner.

HAD I intended to give an exact copy of the antient Drama, your objections to the present Poem would be unanswerable. But my design was much less confined. I meant only to pursue the antient method, so far as it is probable a Greek Poet, were he alive, would now do, in order to adapt himself to the genius of our times, and the character of our Tragedy. According to this notion, every thing was to be allowed to the present taste, which nature and Aristotle could possibly dispense with; and nothing of intrigue or refinement was to be admitted, at which antient judgment could reasonably take offence. Good sense, as well as antiquity, prescribed an adherence to the three great Unities; these therefore were strictly observed. But on the other hand, to follow the modern masters in those respects wherein they had not so faultily deviated from their predecessors, a story was chosen, in which the tender rather than the noble passions were predominant, and in which even love had the principal share. Characters too were drawn as nearly approaching to private ones, as Tragic dignity would permit; and affections raised rather from the impulse of common humanity, than the distresses of royalty and the fate of kingdoms. Besides this, for the sake of natural embellishment, and to reconcile mere modern readers to that simplicity of fable, in which I thought it necessary to copy the Antients, I contrived to lay the scene in an old romantic forest. For, by this means, I was enabled to enliven the Poem by various touches of pastoral description; not affectedly brought in from the store-house of a picturesque imagination, but necessarily resulting from the scenery of the place itself: A beauty so extremely striking in the COMUS of Milton, and the AS YOU LIKE IT of Shakespear; and of which the Greek Muse (though fond of rural Imagery) has afforded few examples, besides that admirable one in the PHILOCTETES of Sophocles.

By this idea I could wish you to regulate your criticism. I need not, I think, observe to you that these deviations from the practice of the Antients may be reasonably defended. For we were long since agreed, that where Love does not degenerate into episodical gallantry, but makes the foundation of the distress, it is, from the universality of its influence, a passion very proper for Tragedy. And I have seen you too much moved at the representation of some of our best Tragedies of private story, to believe you will condemn me for making the other deviation.

L E T T E R II.

I AM glad, you approve the method, I have taken of softening the rigour of the old Drama. If I have, indeed, softened it sufficiently for the modern taste, without parting with any of the essentials of the Greek method, I have obtained my purpose: which was to obviate some of the popular objections made to the antient form of Tragedy. For the current Opinion, you know, is, that by the strict adherence to the Unities, it restrains the genius of the Poet; by the simplicity of its conduct, it diminishes the pathos of the fable; and, by the admission of a continued chorus, prevents that agreeable embarrass, which awakens our attention, and interests our passions.

THE universal veneration, which we pay to the name of Shakespear, at the same time that it has improved our relish for the higher beauties of Poetry, has undoubtedly been the ground-work of all this false criticism. That disregard, which, in compliance merely with the taste of the times, he shewed of all the necessary rules of the Drama, hath since been considered as a characteristic of his vast and original genius; and consequently set up as a model for succeeding writers. Hence M. Voltaire remarks very justly, Que le merite de cet auteur a perdu le Theatre Anglois. Le tems, qui seul fait la reputation des hommes, rend à la fin leurs defauts respectables.

YET, notwithstanding the absurdity of this low superstition, the notion is so popular amongst Englishmen, men, that I fear it will never be entirely discredited, till a poet rises up amongst us with a genius as elevated and daring as Shakespear's, and a judgment as sober and chastised as Racine's. But as it seems too long to wait for this prodigy, it will not surely be improper for any one of common talents, who would entertain the public without indulging its caprice, to take the best models of antiquity for his guides; and to adapt those models, as near as may be, to the manners and taste of his own times. Unless he do both, he will, in effect, do nothing. For it cannot be doubted, that the many gross faults of our stage are owing to the complaisance and servility, with which the ordinary run of writers have ever humoured that illiterate, whimsical, or corrupted age, in which it was their misfortune to be born.

MILTON, you will tell me, is a noble exception to this observation. He is so, and would have been a nobler, had he not run into the contrary extreme. The contempt in which, perhaps with justice, he held the age he lived in, prevented him from condescending either to amuse or instruct it. He had, before, given to his unworthy Countrymen the noblest Poem that genius, conducted by antient art, could produce; and he had seen them receive it with disregard, if not with dislike. Conscious therefore of his own dignity, and of their demerit, he looked to posterity only for his reward, and to posterity only directed his future labours. Hence it was perhaps, that he formed his SAMPSON AGONISTES on a model more simple and severe than Athens herself would have demanded; and took Æschylus for his master rather than Sophocles or Euripides : intending by this conduct to put as great a distance as possible between himself and his contemporary writers ; and to make his work (as he himself said) much different from what amongst them passed for the best. The success of the Poem was, accordingly, what one would have expected. The age, it appeared in, treated it with total neglect ; neither hath that posterity, to which he appealed, and which has done justice to most of his other writings, as yet given to this excellent piece its full measure of popular and universal fame. Perhaps, in your closet, and that of a few more, who unaffectedly admire genuine nature and antient simplicity, the Agonistes may hold a distinguished rank. Yet, surely, we cannot say (in Hamlet's phrase) "that it pleases the Million ; it is still Caviar to the general."

Hence, I think, I may conclude, that unless one would be content with a very late and very learned posterity, Milton's conduct in this point should not be followed. A Writer of tragedy must certainly adapt himself more to the general taste ; because the Dramatic, of all kinds of Poetry, ought to be most universally relished and understood. The Lyric Muse addresses herself to the imagination of a reader ; the Didactic to his judgment ; but the Tragic strikes directly on his passions. Few men have a strength of imagination capable of pursuing the flights of Pindar ; many have not a clearness of apprehension suited to the reasonings of Lucretius and Pope : But every man has passions to be excited ; and every man feels them excited by Shakespear.

N n

BUT,

BUT, though Tragedy be thus chiefly directed to the heart, it must be observed, that it will seldom attain its end without the concurrent approbation of the judgment. And to procure this, the artificial construction of the fable goes a great way. In France, the excellence of their several poets is chiefly measured by this standard. And amongst our own writers, if you except Shakespear (who indeed ought, for his other virtues, to be exempt from common rules) you will find, that the most regular of their compositions is generally reckoned their Chef d'oeuvre; witness the All for Love of Dryden, the Venice preserved of Otway, and the Jane Shore of Rowe.

L E T T E R III.

THE scheme, you proposed in your last, is I own practicable enough. Undoubtedly, most part of the Dialogue of the Chorus might be put into the mouth of an Emma or Matilda, who, with some little shew of sisterly concernment, might be easily made to claim kindred with Earl Athelwold. Nay, by the addition of a few unnecessary incidents, which would cost me no more than they are worth in contriving, and an unmeaning personage or two, who would be as little expence in creating, I believe I could quickly make the whole tolerably fit for an English Audience.

BUT for all this I cannot persuade myself to enter upon the task. I have, I know not how (like many of my betters) contracted a kind of veneration for the old Chorus; and am willing to think it essential to the Tragic

Tragic Drama. You shall hear the reasons that incline me to this judgment. They respect the Poet and the Audience.

It is agreed, I think, on all hands, that in the conduct of a fable, the admission of a Chorus lays a necessary restraint on the Poet. The two Unities of time and place, are esteemed by some of less consequence in our modern Tragedy, than the third Unity of Action; but admit a Chorus, and you must, of necessity, restore them to those equal rights, which they antiently enjoyed, and yet claim, by the Charter of Aristotle. For the difference, which the use of the Chorus makes, is this: The modern Drama contents itself with a fact represented; the antient requires it to be represented before Spectators. Now as it cannot be supposed, that these Spectators should accompany the chief personages into private apartments, one single Scene, or unity of Place, becomes strictly necessary. And as these Spectators are assembled on purpose to observe and bear a part in the action, the time of that action becomes, of course, that of the spectacle or representation itself; it being unreasonable to make the Spectators attend so long, as the Poet, in bringing about his Catastrophe, may require. And this is usually the practice of the antient Stage. The modern, on the contrary, regards very little these two capital restraints; and its disuse of the Chorus helps greatly to conceal the absurdity. For the Poet, without offending so much against the laws of probability, may lead his personages from one part to another of the same palace or city, when they have only a paltry Servant or insignificant Confidant to attend them.

He may think himself at liberty to spend two or three days, months, or even years, in completing his story; to clear the stage at the end, or, if he pleases, in the middle of every act: And, being under no controul of the Chorus, he can break the continuity of the Drama, just where he thinks it convenient; and, by the assistance of a brisk fugue and a good violin, can persuade his audience, that as much time has elapsed as his Hero's, or rather his own distress, may demand.

HENCE it is, that secret intrigues become (as Mr. Dryden gravely calls them) the beauties of our modern Stage. Hence it is, that Incidents, and Bustle, and Business, supply the place of Simplicity, Nature, and Pathos: A happy change, perhaps, for the generality of writers, who might otherwise find it impossible to fill cette longue carriere de cinq actes, which a Writer, sufficiently experienced in these matters, says, est si prodigieusement difficile à remplir sans Episodes.

BUT, whatever these Play-makers may have gained by rejecting the Chorus, the true Poet has lost considerably by it. For he has lost a graceful and natural resource to the embellishments of Picturesque Description, sublime allegory, and whatever else comes under the denomination of pure Poetry. Shakespear, indeed, had the power of introducing this naturally, and, what is most strange, of joining it with pure Passion. But I make no doubt, if we had a Tragedy of his formed on the Greek model, we should find in it more frequent, if not nobler instances of his high Poetical capacity, than in any single composition he has left us. I think you have a proof of this in those parts of his historical

historical plays, which are called Choruses, and written in the common Dialogue metre. And your imagination will easily conceive, how fine an ode the description of the night preceding the battle of Agincourt, would have made in his hands; and what additional grace it would receive from that form of composition.

WITH the means of introducing Poetry naturally is lost, also, the opportunity of conveying moral reflections with grace and propriety. But this comes more properly under consideration, when I give you my thoughts on the advantage the audience received from a well-conducted Chorus.

L E T T E R I V.

IN my last I took no notice of that superior pomp and majesty, which the Chorus necessarily added to the scene of the Drama. I made no remarks on the agreeable variety it introduced into the versification and metre; nor shewed how, by uniting the harmony of the Lyre to the pomp of the Buskin, music became intimately connected with it, and furnished it with all its additional graces. These and many other advantages I might have insisted upon, had I thought them so material as the two I mentioned; the latter of which, namely, its being a proper vehicle for moral and sentiment, is so material, that I think nothing can possibly atone for the loss of it.

IN those parts of the Drama, where the judgment of a mixt audience is most liable to be misled by what passes passes before its view, the chief actors are generally too much agitated by the furious passions, or too much attached by the tender ones, to think coolly, and impress on the spectators a moral sentiment properly. A Confidant or Servant has seldom sense enough to do it, never dignity enough to make it regarded. Instead therefore of these, the Antients were provided with a band of distinguished persons, not merely capable of seeing and hearing, but of arguing, advising, and reflecting; from the leader of which a moral sentiment never came unnaturally, but suitably and gracefully; and from the troop itself, a poetical flow of tender commiseration, of religious supplication, or of virtuous triumph, was ever ready to heighten the pathos, to inspire a reverential awe of the Deity, and to advance the cause of honesty and of truth.

IF you ask me, how it augmented the pathetic, I cannot give you a better answer than the Abbé Votry has done in his dissertation on the subject, published in the Memoirs de l'Acad. des Inscr. &c. “ It effected
 “ this (says he) both in its odes and dialogue. The “ wonderful power of Music and the Dance is univer“ sally allowed. And, as these were always accompa-
 “ nyments to the Odes, there is no doubt but they “ contributed greatly to move the passions. It was “ necessary that there should be odes or intermedes;
 “ but it was also necessary, that these intermedes
 “ should not suffer the minds of the Audience to cool,
 “ but, on the contrary, should support and fortify
 “ those passions which the previous scenes had already “ excited. Nothing imaginable could produce this “ effect

“ effect better, than the choral songs and dances,
 “ which filled the mind with ideas corresponding to
 “ the subject, and never failed to add new force to
 “ the sentiments of the principal personages. In the “ Dialogue also, the Chorus served to move the pas-
 “ sions, by shewing to the spectators other spectators “ strongly affected by the action. A spectacle of such “ a kind as is fitted to excite in us the passions of “ Terror, and Pity, will not of itself so strongly affect “ us, as when we see others, also, affected by it.
 “ The painters have generally understood this secret,
 “ and have had recourse to an expedient, similar to
 “ that of the Chorus of the poets. Not content with “ the simple representation of an historical event, they “ have also added groups of assistant figures, and ex“ pressed in their faces the different passions, they would “ have their picture excite. Nay they sometimes in“ list into their service even irrational animals. In
 “ the slaughter of the Innocents, le Brun was not satis“ fied with expressing all the horror, of which the “ subject is naturally capable; he has also painted two “ horses with their hair standing on end, and starting “ back, as afraid to trample upon the bleeding in“ fants. This is an artifice which has often been “ employed, and which has always succeeded. A good
 “ poet should do the same; and Iphigenia should not “ be suffered to appear on the Theatre, without being “ accompanied with persons capable of feeling her “ misfortunes.”

HAD this ingenious Abbé seen the famous Belifarius of Vandyke, I am apt to believe he would have thought it a much more noble illustration of the matter. The Soldier

Soldier in that piece, though so much condemned by our modern Professors of Virtù for being, as they say, the principal Figure, is the very thing which raises this picture from a simple Portrait (which it must otherwise have been) to the finest moral painting; and in Greece would have placed the painter amongst that class of Artists, which they esteemed the noblest, the ἨΘΙΓΡΑΦΟΙ. The greatest Tragic Poet could not have raised a more exquisite distress than this judicious painter has done by the attitude of that Soldier; as well as by the subordinate figures, which, with great propriety, are female ones; nothing being so likely to raise in a military mind that mixture of pity and disdain, which he wanted to express, as to see such a hero relieved by charity; and that too the charity of girls and old women.

BUT, returning to my subject, I will just observe to you, that if it be proper to assist an audience in relishing the pathetic, by shewing an imitation of that pathos in the Chorus, it is much more so to instruct them how to be affected properly; with the characters and actions which are represented in the course of the Drama. The character of PIERRE in Venice preserved; when left entirely to the judgment of the audience, is perhaps one of the most improper for public view; that ever was produced on any stage. It is almost impossible, but some part of the spectators should go from the representation with very false and immoral impressions. But had the Tragedy been written on the antient plan; had Pierre's character been drawn just as it is, and some few alterations made in Jaffier's; I know no two characters more capable of doing service vice in a moral view, when justly animadverted upon by the Chorus. I don't say, I would have trusted Otway with the writing of it.

To have done, and to release you. Bad characters become on this plan as harmless in the hands of the Poet, as the Historian; and good ones become infinitely more useful, by how much the Poetic is more forcible than the Historical mode of instruction.

L E T T E R V.

THE reason, why in a former Letter you advised me to alter the Chorus, is made very apparent in your last. For, by persuading me to get the Odes set to music, and to risk the Play on the stage, I understand only that you are willing, any how, to make it a more profitable work for me, than it can possibly be by means of the press alone.

YET certainly, Sir, one single reflection on our British pit will make you change your sentiments effectually. Think only on the trial made by M. Racine, in a nation whose taste for probability and decorum in Theatrical diversions is much before ours. In his two last Tragedies, you know, he has fully succeeded in the very thing I aimed at; and has adapted a noble imitation of antient simplicity to the taste of his own times: particularly in his Athalie, a poem in which the most superb and august spectacle, the most interesting event, and the most sublime flow of inspired Poetry, are all nobly and naturally united.

Yet I am told, that neither that, nor the Esther, retains its Chorus, when represented on the French Theatre.

To what is this owing? To the refinement most certainly of our modern music. This art is now carried to such a pitch of perfection, or if you will of corruption, which makes it utterly incapable of being an adjunct to Poetry. Il y a grand apparence, que les progrès que vous avez faits dans la musique, ont nui enfin à ceux de la véritable Tragedie. C'est un talent, qui a fait tort à un autre; says M. Voltaire with his usual taste and judgment. Our different cadences, our divisions, variations, repetitions, without which modern music cannot subsist, are entirely improper for the expression of poetry, and were scarce known to the Antients.

BUT could this be managed, the additional expence necessarily attendant on such a performance, would make the matter impracticable. This Mr. Dryden foresaw long ago. The passage is curious.

“ A new Theatre, much more ample and much “ deeper, must be made for that purpose; besides the “ cost of sometimes forty or fifty habits: which is an “ expence too large to be supplied by a company of “ actors. It is true, I should not be sorry to see a “ Chorus on a Theatre, more than as large and as “ deep again as ours, built and adorned at a King's “ charges; and on that condition, and another, which “ is, that my hands were not bound behind me, as “ now they are, I should not despair of making such
 “ a

“ a Tragedy as might be both instructive and delightful according to the manner of the Grecians.” What he means by having his hands bound, I imagine, is, that he was either engaged to his subscribers for a Translation of Virgil, or to the manager of the Theatre for so many plays a season. This suffrage of Mr. Dryden is, however, very apposite to the present point. It serves, also, to vindicate my design of imitating the Greek Drama. For if he, who was so prejudiced to the modern stage, as to think intrigue a capital beauty in it; if he, I say, owns that the grand secret prodesse et delectare was the characteristic of the Greek Drama only, nothing can better justify my present attempt than the approbation he gives to it in this passage.

HAVING now settled with you all matters of general criticism, I hope in your next you will give me your objections to scenes, speeches, images, &c. And be assured I shall treat your judgment in these matters with greater deference, than I have done in what related to the Stage and the Chorus.

Are the milk-white steers prepar'd?

In the minute description which Pliny gives us of the ceremony of gathering the mistletoe, he tells us, they sacrificed two white bulls. See Pliny's Natural History, l. xvi. c. 44. which Drayton, in his Polyolbion, thus versifies.

Sometimes within my shades, in many an antient wood,
Whose often-twined tops great Phoebus' fires withstood,
The fearless British priest, under an aged oak,
Taking a milk-white bull, untrained with the yoke,
And with an axe of gold, from that Jove-sacred tree

There are remains of this superstition still, both in

The few and imperfect accounts antiquity gives us of ceremonies, &c. which are unquestionably Druidical, make it necessary in this, and in other places of the Drama, to have recourse to Tacitus's account of the Germans; amongst whom, if there were really no established Druids, there was certainly a great correspondence, in religious opinions, with the Gauls and Britons. The passage here alluded to, is taken from his 10th chapter. Proprium gentis, equorumque quoque præfagia ac monitus experiri. Publicè aluntur iisdem nemoribus ac lucis, candidi & nullo mortali opere contacti, quos pressos sacro curru, sacerdos ac rex, vel princeps civitatis comitantur, hinnitus & fremitus observant, nec ulli auspicio major fides non solum apud plebem, sed apud proceres, apud sacerdotes.

This is meant to describe the rocking-stone, of which there are several still to be seen in Wales, Cornwall, and Derbyshire. They are universally supposed, by antiquarians, to be Druid monuments; and Mr. Toland thinks, “that the Druids made the people believe that they only could move them, and that by a miracle, by which they condemned or acquitted the accused, and often brought criminals to confess what could in no other way be extorted from them.” It was this conjecture which gave the hint for this piece of machinery. The reader may find a description of one of these rocking-stones in Camden’s Britannia, in his account of Pembroke-shire; and also several in Borlase’s history of Cornwall.

The Druids did not really worship the divinity under any symbol. But this is put intentionally into the mouth of the Roman, as mistaking the rude stones placed round the grove, for idols. Thus Lucan in his beautiful description of a Druid grove,
