INTRODUCTION

THE plays written by Beaumont and Fletcher are dramatic collaboration in the best sense. Scholarly investigation at the hands of Fleay, Boyle, Oliphant, Macaulay, Thorndike, and Alden, subjecting the plays said to have been written by the two men to all kinds of external and internal tests, has sought to distinguish clearly the styles of Beaumont and Fletcher, and to apportion to each his proper share in the plays in question. Yet all this effort leaves us echoing the words of Jasper Maine, prefixed to the first folio of the works of Beaumont and Fletcher—

“ Whether one did contrive, the other write,
Or one framed the plot, the other did indite;
Whether one found the matter, th’ other dress,
Or th’ one disposed what th’ other did express;
Where’er your parts between yourselves lay, we,
In all things which you did, but one thread see;
So evenly drawn out, so gently spun,
That art with nature ne’er did smoother run . . .
So, though you were thus twisted and combined,
As (in) two bodies to have but one fair mind,
Yet, if we praise you rightly, we must say,
Both join’d, and both did wholly make the play.
For that you could write singly, we may guess
By the divided pieces which the press
Hath severally sent forth; nor were join’d so,
Like some our modern authors made to go
One merely by the help of th’ other, who
To purchase fame do come forth one of two;
Nor wrote you so, that one’s part was to lick
The other into shape; nor did one stick
The other’s cold inventions with such wit,
As served, like spice, to make them quick and fit;
Nor, one of mutual want, or emptiness,
Did you conspire to go still twins to the press;
But what, thus join’d, you wrote, might have come forth
As good from each, and stored with the same worth
That thus united them.”

This perfect co-operation, however, must necessarily have been brief. It began, apparently, in 1607-1608, when Fletcher was twenty-nine and Beaumont was twenty-three. Beaumont apparently gave over all close association with the stage after 1611. He died in 1616.¹ Only three plays in which Beaumont had at least a share were published before his death, and all of them without his name on the title-page—The Woman-Hater, 1607; The Knight of the Burning Pestle, 1613; and Cupid's Revenge, 1615. Beaumont seems to have had some hand in the following plays which may be dated before 1616: The Knight of the Burning Pestle, The Woman-Hater, Philaster, The Maid's Tragedy, Four Plays in One, Love's Cure, The Scornful Lady, The Coxcomb, A King and No King, Cupid's Revenge, The Honest Man's Fortune, and Thierry and Theodoret. It is possible that he had a hand in The Captain, and Wit at Several Weapons. Critics agree that the work of Beaumont predominates, at least, in The Woman-Hater, Philaster, The Maid's Tragedy, The Knight of the Burning Pestle, and A King and No King. Indeed, many critics give both The Woman-Hater and The Knight of the Burning Pestle wholly to Beaumont. He wrote in 1613 a Masque of the Inner Temple.

viii Beaumont and Fletcher's Plays

Any one who has read the twelve plays named above, as wholly or in part by Beaumont, must recognise that they are the best, or among the best, in the whole group of independent or collaborated plays at any time assigned to Beaumont and Fletcher, and that their excellences differ from those of the plays written by Fletcher independently, or in collaboration with other dramatists. The method and the spirit of The Maid's Tragedy or Philaster differ distinctly from the method and the spirit of Bonduca or Valentinian. In similar fashion, A King and No King differs from the serious romantic work of Fletcher. Obviously, each of the collaborators wrote better when aided by the other. Certainly, so complete is the artistic sympathy that again and again one suspects, in a scene assigned to Beaumont or Fletcher, the stimulating imagination or the corrective criticism of his fellow-worker.

Fletcher was baptised at Rye in Sussex, December 20, 1579. His father, Richard Fletcher, Bishop of London, was at that time a minister at Rye. He became a pensioner at Benet College, Cambridge, in 1591. His father was successively Dean of Peterborough and holder of the Sees of Bristol, Worcester, and London. John Fletcher died of the plague and was buried August 29, 1625, in St. Saviour's, Southwark.

Moreover, these two men working together produced a composite providing just the needed bridge from the drama of 1600-1608 to that of 1608-1625. Fletcher became the leader in the drama of 1612-1625, the latter the date of his death. Indeed, his influence dominates to the closing of the theatres in 1642, and even beyond. During all this time he was certainly as popular as Shakespeare, and probably more so. Beaumont, on the other hand, in his love of poetry for its own sake, in his fondness for romantic situation such as one finds in Philaster, in his interest in more rounded characterisation, was an Elizabethan living in the early days of James I. Through Beaumont, then, the collaborative work looked back to the older drama. Resting on sympathetic appreciation of the best that had been, Beaumont developed with Fletcher a new form of romantic drama. Much that was essential in this newer romantic tragi-comedy and tragedy Fletcher carried on triumphantly from 1612 to 1625. At the same time, with an equal or greater success, he developed his own peculiar vein of comedy. To speak broadly, it was through Beaumont that the peculiar characteristics of Fletcher's independent tragedy and comedy won the suffrages of a public accustomed to the romanticism of Shakespeare, and the realism of Ben Jonson and Thomas Middleton.

It looks as if the first performances of Philaster (1608) and The Maid's Tragedy (circa 1609) really deserve the abused epithet "epoch-making." Since 1600 the chronicle-play had given way to the tragedy of Shakespeare—Hamlet, Othello, Lear, and Antony and Cleopatra. With this development of tragedy in the highest sense of the word had come the realistic plays of Ben Jonson and Thomas Middleton, portraying life in the shops, streets, brothels, and taverns of London. Repetition of the same types in these realistic plays was growing wearisome. The subtle psychology, the increasingly involved phrasing, the rich thoughtfulness of the Shakespearean work, even if carried to success by the vivid and dramatic incident of a well-wrought story, made demands on the attention of the public sure to react in a craving for simpler entertainment. The public was ready for romanticism, and a romanticism in which the incident, if presented by characters convincing within the scene, would suffice. The public was ready for dramatic storytelling once again. This is exactly what these collaborative plays of Beaumont and Fletcher gave them. It is certainly striking that about 1608, when these plays of Beaumont and Fletcher appear, Shakespeare turned from his tragedies to something quite similar, in Cymbeline, The Winter's Tale, and The Tempest, and that Thomas Middleton shifted from realism to romanticism. It cannot be proved that Beaumont and Fletcher are the inventors of this new romanticism, but they work in it so consistently when collaborating, and show such an amount of it, that one is almost forced to accept the opinion of Professor Thorndike¹ and grant them leadership in the matter.

“Their plots, largely invented, are ingenious and complicated. They deal with royal or noble persons, with heroic actions, and are placed in foreign localities. The conquests, usurpations, and passions that ruin kingdoms are their themes, there are no battles or pageants, and the action is usually confined to the rooms of the palace or its immediate neighbourhood. Usually contrasting a story of gross sensual passion with one of idyllic love, they introduce a great variety of incidents and aim at constant but varied excitement. Some of the situations that they use more than once, indicate their general character—a girl, disguised as a boy, is stabbed by the man whom she loves; a woman convicted of adultery brazenly defies her accusers; the hero is saved from the tyrant by a timely insurrection of the turbulent populace. The tragic, idyllic, and sensational material is skilfully constructed into a number of theatrically telling situations, which lead by a series of surprises to very effective climaxes or catastrophes. All signs of the epic methods of construction found in the early drama have disappeared; there is usually a chance until the last moment for either a happy or an unhappy ending, and in every case the dénouement or catastrophe is elaborately prepared for and complicated. The dramatis personæ belong to impossible and romantic situations rather than to life, and are usually of certain types—the sentimental or violent hero; his faithful friend, a blunt, outspoken soldier; the sentimental heroine, often a love-lorn maiden disguised as a page that she may serve the hero; the evil woman defiant in her crimes; and the poltroon, usually a comic personage. With the addition of a king, some gentlemen and ladies of the court, and a few persons from the lower ranks, the cast is complete. The plays depend for interest, not on their observation or revelation of human nature, or the development of character, but on the variety of situations, the clever construction that holds the interest through one suspense to another up to the unravelling at the very end, and on the naturalness, felicity, and vigour of the poetry.

“Beaumont and Fletcher have no emotions too fleeting or too profound for utterance, no perplexing tangle of thought that defies expression in decasyllabics; and they had no desire to make their style sententious, weighty, philosophical. They had no doubt about what they wanted to say, and they said it clearly and rapidly. They had room for ornament and rhetorical device but none for eccentricity or obscurity.”¹

All this work Beaumont treated with an unusual sense of the irony of life, that is, the contrast between the largeness of the result and the pettiness of the cause; with much humorous observation of character, and often with much sympathetic insight. Indeed, in contrast with Fletcher, it may be said that he cared more for rounded and consistent characterisation, although he is not impeccable in this respect.

Did these two young men, then, present in these collaborative plays life as they saw it? Surely it would rather seem that they agreed with George Chapman: “And for the aunted truth of eyther person or action, who

xii Beaumont and Fletcher's Plays

(worth the respecting) will expect it in a Poeme, whose subject is not truth, but things like truth." All this work is not far removed as dramatic writing from what to-day we call "refined melodrama." Yet, was even this high order of melodrama the spontaneous outpouring of the artistic impulses of these two men? Hardly, it is to be suspected. In the first place, their work shows that they were under the influence of both Shakespeare and Jonson. They knew and had studied the successes of these dramatic masters. There is evident imitation of both in The Woman-Hater and elsewhere in the early works. In that play Beaumont, and just possibly Fletcher, seem to be feeling their way hesitatingly toward individual expression. Moreover, the critical sense that usually renders whole-hearted adherence to romance impossible was not wanting in Beaumont, nor was critical dramatic sense lacking in Fletcher. The proof of this lies in The Knight of the Burning Pestle and The Faithful Shepherdess. In each play the dramatist, though hoping to please his audience, wrote primarily to please himself. In neither case did the public approve the play. The Knight girds at all the absurdities of popular dramatic romance, as seen, for instance, in the plays of Marston and Heywood. Yet romance was just as rampant in this collaborative work of Beaumont and Fletcher, though it was of a somewhat different kind and its absurdities were disguised by better stage-craft, a larger amount of really fine poetry, and more effective characterisation. Moreover, in the swifter movement of this newer romance an auditor had no time to hesitate and discover flaws. Quickly aroused emotionally by striking action at the beginning of the play, he was swept on by constantly varied and exciting incident, unable to criticise before the end was reached, and perhaps not even then. Beaumont too clearly recognised the faults inherent in such work and too evidently half despised the public for their devotion to mere romance not to see the fundamental unrealities in his own work. Fletcher, too, shows his critical sense in The Faithful Shepherdess: in it, for strictly artistic ends, he exercised a restraint practically unknown in his popular plays. "Fletcher on the other hand conceived of the pastoral as artistically remote from actual life, and even to please his audience would not make it 'a play of country-hired shepherds with curtailed dogs in strings.' That

Fletcher felt this aloofness of the form is evident from the fact that in using it he adopted a treatment distinct in almost every point from that which he followed in his other plays. Not only does he introduce a different metrical scheme, but here, as nowhere else, he subordinates the plot interest to subtler considerations and effects, keeps down his predilection for complications and conventions, except such as will harmonise with the central idea, and even omits much of the plot of his Italian source—the Pastor Fido, which, in his search for material, would usually offer a strong appeal to him—all in order that he may obtain a simplicity of impression and unity of tone. That he also realised the small possibilities of stage effectiveness in the method which he followed is practically certain from his constant attention in other plays to stage success, as well as from the fact that he appears to have kept this play in its early form in spite of its utter failure on its first presentation. If such an inference is justifiable, The Faithful Shepherdess becomes interesting as apparently the only instance of Fletcher's fidelity to a high artistic instinct when it was weighed in the balance against stage success."¹

Does not all this look as if two men whose educated critical sense revealed to them the weaknesses of popular dramatic romance said to themselves: "Romantic story-telling the public will have; to contend against this is useless. Very well, then, it is as well that we should entertain them as another. But we will tell our extraordinary or impossible stories so that they shall seem as lifelike as possible, and shall have as much literary quality as we can give them"? That attitude is certainly not unknown at the present day. These two men did not believe in their romance-land, but for their own amusement and the delight of the public pretended to believe in it. Peele, Greene, Shakespeare, believing in their romance, turn it for us into reality.

With this theory, that Beaumont and Fletcher wrote in half-amused contempt of their public, yet gave their artistic best in producing what they conceived it wanted, it is easier to understand Beaumont's quitting of the theatrical world in 1611. His was quite a different mood

xiv Beaumont and Fletcher's Plays from that of Shakespeare or Thomas Heywood, who could unite in saying—

“ He who denies then theatres should be,
He may as well deny a world to me.”

Born a gentleman, by environment and education a thoroughly cultivated man, Beaumont had given his literary instincts expression in a way that satisfied the general public. He had gratified youthful ambition and vanity by proving that he could win the suffrages of a public whose taste he despised, and at the same time lift it to appreciation of better art than they usually acclaimed. So, too, the outpouring of praise for Beaumont at his early death is easier to understand, if we may believe that the critical part of the public recognised in him not merely a charming personality and a rich poetic gift, but the man who had done the chief part in re-establishing romance in the drama, and a romance different in kind from that of 1580 to 1600.

Certainly, in the last few years students of the Elizabethan and Jacobean drama have been recognising more and more that it is Beaumont rather than Fletcher who is the real creator of this new romance and is consequently the real forerunner, rather than Fletcher, of the heroic drama of the Restoration period. The romantic methods worked out in collaboration with Beaumont, Fletcher, so far as he was able, maintained. Through him they pass on to Massinger and D'Avenant, and from these to the Restoration period. While it is of course true that France through such romances as those of Calprenède and Mlle. de Scudéry, and through the drama of Corneille and Racine, had its effect on our heroic drama of 1660 to 1690, these influences found a soil thoroughly prepared by the romantic drama of Beaumont and his successors. Misled by the fact that D'Avenant and Dryden acknowledge their debt in heroic drama to Fletcher, we have failed till recently to note that Fletcher in his tragedies merely continues, as his equipment permits, what he had done in collaboration with Beaumont. The high-flown ideas of friendship between man and man such as we see in Melantius and Amintor in The Maid's Tragedy become the stock-in-trade of the Restoration heroic drama. The heroines of the collaborative plays of Beaumont and Fletcher, and later of Fletcher working by himself, are prepared to sacrifice all for love and hold the world well lost. As every one knows, the heroic drama in the Restoration turns on the struggle between love and honour, with the emotional scales tipping always on the side of love. Moreover, these plays of the newer romance show a straining of the situations that will in the hands of less competent men produce the excesses in the so-called tragedy of 1620 to 1642 and of the Restoration. Absurdity is often grimacing behind a mask in Beaumont and Fletcher, and especially in Fletcher's own work: only the skill of the characterisation within the scene and consummate stage-craft save the day. In the heroic drama of the Restoration all these tendencies break loose, and absurdity reigns, except for an audience of the time hypnotised into delighted attention by the literary and dramatic conventions of the hour.

Beaumont's position, then, in our drama is unique. Richly poetic, thoughtful, genuinely humorous, a belated Elizabethan working in the early years of James I., he is the chief creator of a new dramatic romance which leads in unbroken sequence to the heroic drama fifty years later.

Fletcher as a dramatist works for about twenty years. We attribute to him wholly or in part at least thirty-eight plays in which Beaumont is not held to have shared. As we have seen, they probably wrote together some eight or ten plays. That is, he seems to have been connected with some fifty extant plays, certainly a large product for twenty years. He collaborated with Massinger, Shakespeare, and it is said with Field and Rowley. As has been pointed out, he was certainly as popular as Shakespeare, and probably more popular, between 1610 and 1642. During the Restoration period two of his plays were revived to one of any other man. Nor is this popularity hard to understand. He provides the maximum of entertainment of high literary value with the minimum of required attention. If it be true, as has recently been said, that "A playwright is a man who writes entertaining and successful plays; a dramatist is a playwright who teaches while he entertains," then Fletcher is the consummate playwright, but Shakespeare remains the great dramatist. In serious drama, while following in general on the lines laid down in his collaborative work with Beaumont, he depends more upon constant variety in exciting incident and convincing characterisation within the scene than on character

xvi Beaumont and Fletcher's Plays

as consistent as the work of Beaumont showed or work as thoughtfully poetic. He is a past master in getting from his material the largest amount of emotional effect which it can provide for the audience he has in mind. Even his verse has a curiously persuasive value. Notable particularly for the freedom with which it uses extra syllables both within the line and at the end, it runs over freely. Indeed, while full of subtle music, it sounds when properly spoken remarkably like the speech of cultivated men and women. In his hands it is capable of almost any dramatic work and he rarely uses prose; but in the hands of those who copy him its delicacies of rhythm are missed, and it stumbles or halts into prose.

It is probably in comedy that Fletcher finds his best individual expression. His comedies with their conscienceless gaiety, their unceasing, cackling chase after laughter at any cost, their emphasis on the comic values of the duel of sex, in their regard for dialogue as a reliable appeal to the public, became models for the comedies of 1625 to 1642 and to a considerable extent for the Restoration comedy. In the Restoration the plots are thinner, the emphasis on talk greater; but the central situations, many of the characters, and the general moral tone are much the same. That is, there is no real break in English comedy between 1642 and 1660 because of Fletcher and his sons. Shirley admires and copies Fletcher; so, too, do many of the minor men before 1642. Etheredge in his Love and a Tub is, in the main plot, writing as nearly as he can in the style of Fletcher. Dryden studies and copies Fletcher, making his Spanish Friar from the Spanish Curate. Farquhar, not to mention other cases, makes his Inconstant from The Wild-Goose Chase.

The extraordinary acting quality of his plays is proved by the fact that they held the stage remarkably even beyond the Restoration. In the eighteenth century one finds repeated mention of performances of Rule a Wife and Have a Wife, The Chances, The Humorous Lieutenant, and Monsieur Thomas. Indeed, till the vogue of the "old comedy" passed, with the coming of Robertson's plays in the sixties, we still find occasional performances of his plays.

It is doubtful if Fletcher ever took his art very seriously. He seems always to have held his unusual powers subject to the wishes of his public. Yet by his hold on the public of his own day, by his passing on to the Restoration the traditions of the newer romance which he had established with Beaumont, by his development of the finest comedy up to 1642 outside Shakespeare, and by his consummate stage-craft, he is remarkable. He belongs to the group of great theatrical entertainers of all ages, and stands very high in the list. One does not think of him with Euripides, Shakespeare, Goethe, Corneille, Racine, or Molière; but rather with Scribe and Sardou. In resourcefulness, in variety, in stage-craft he is the equal of the best playwrights, and even superior to most. In poetic power and literary ability he is incomparably above almost all of them. It was only his lack of artistic conscience which kept him from rising above the great playwright into the great dramatist.

GEO. P. BAKER.

The following is a complete list of their works:—

The Woman Hater (now thought to be Beaumont's alone), 1607; plays of joint authorship: Knight of the Burning Pestle, 1613; Cupid's Revenge (with possible help of a third hand), 1615; Scornful Lady, 1616; Maid's Tragedy, 1619; A King and No King, 1619; Philaster, 1620; four plays or moral representations, fol., 1647; The Coxcomb (Beaumont's hand traced in parts, otherwise the authorship by Beaumont and Fletcher is questioned), fol., 1647; The Captain (Beaumont's share uncertain; other dramatists are suggested as collaborators with Fletcher), fol., 1647.

To Fletcher alone are ascribed: The Faithful Shepherdess, 1609 (?); Wit without Money, 1639; Monsieur Thomas, 1639; Rule a Wife and have a Wife, 1640; Bonduca, Valentinian, The Loyal Subject, Mad Lover, Humorous Lieutenant, Women Pleas'd, Island Princess, The Pilgrim, Woman's Prize, A Wife for a Month, Chances—these eleven plays were published in the folio, 1647; The Wild-goose Chase, 1652.

Works by Fletcher in collaboration with one or more dramatists (Massinger, Middleton, Rowley, Field): Thierry and Theodoret, 1621; The Elder Brother, 1637; The Bloody Brother (Jonson believed to have helped in this), 1639; The Night Walker or the Little Thief (thought to be a play of Fletcher's revised by Shirley), 1640; in the folio, 1647, appeared: Queen of Corinth, Little French Lawyer, Custom of the Country, Double Marriage, False One, Beggar's Bush, Prophetess, Sea Voyage, Lover's Progress, Spanish Curate, Love's Pilgrimage, Love's Cure (?), Nice Valour, or the Passionate Madman, Laws of Candy (chiefly by Massinger), Fair Maid of the Inn, Maid in the Mill, The Honest Man's Fortune, Knight of Malta.—A Very Woman, or the Woman's Plot, 1655. To Shakespeare are ascribed parts of Two Noble Kinsmen, 1634, and Fletcher is generally believed to have helped in Henry VIII. Other plays have been in part ascribed to Fletcher, but they are not considered genuine work of his by late authorities. Sir John Van Olden Barnavelt was not published until edited by Bullen for A Collection of Old English Plays, 1882-5; two plays, Cardano and Jeweller of Amsterdam, have been lost.

xviii Beaumont and Fletcher's Plays

Beaumont was author of prefatory verse to Sir John Beaumont's Metamorphosis of Tobacco, 1602; of (doubtfully) Salmacis and Hermaphroditus (poem), 1602; and a Masque of the Inner Temple and Grayes Inne, 1612-13. Both Beaumont and Fletcher wrote commendatory verses which were prefixed to some of Jonson's plays.

1777 - 1778 - 1779 - 1780 - 1781

TO HIS MANY WAYS ENDEARED FRIEND,
MASTER ROBERT KEYSAR

SIR,—This unfortunate child, who, in eight days (as lately I have learned), was begot and born, soon after was by his parents (perhaps because he was so unlike his brethren) exposed to the wide world, who, for want of judgment, or not understanding the privy mark of irony about it (which shewed it was no offspring of any vulgar brain), utterly rejected it; so that, for want of acceptance, it was even ready to give up the ghost, and was in danger to have been smothered in perpetual oblivion, if you (out of your direct antipathy to ingratitude) had not been moved both to relieve and cherish it: wherein I must needs commend both your judgment, understanding, and singular love to good wits. You afterwards sent it to me, yet being an infant and somewhat ragged: I have fostered it privately in my bosom these two years; and now, to shew my love, return it to you, clad in good lasting clothes, which scarce memory will wear out, and able to speak for itself; and withal, as it telleth me, desirous to try his fortune in the world, where, if yet it be welcome, father, foster-father, nurse, and child all have their desired end. If it be slighted or traduced, it hopes his father will beget him a younger brother, who shall revenge his quarrel, and challenge the world either of fond and merely literal interpretation or illiterate misprision. Perhaps it will be thought to be of the race of Don Quixote; we both may confidently swear it his elder above a year; and therefore may (by virtue of his birthright) challenge the wall of him. I doubt not but they will meet in their adventures, and I hope the breaking of one staff will make them friends; and perhaps they will combine themselves, and travel through the world to seek their adventures. So I commit him to his good fortune, and myself to your love. Your assured friend,

W. B[URRE].

TO THE READERS OF THIS COMEDY

GENTLEMEN,—The world is so nice in these our times, that for apparel there is no fashion; for music (which is a rare art, though now slighted) no instrument; for diet, none but the French kickshaws that are delicate; and for plays, no invention but that which now runneth an invective way, touching some particular persons, or else it is contemned before it is thoroughly understood. This is all that I have to say: that the author had no intent to wrong any one in this comedy; but, as a merry passage, here and there interlaced it with delight, which he hopes will please all, and be hurtful to none.

PROLOGUE

WHERE the bee can suck no honey, she leaves her sting behind ; and where the bear cannot find origanum to heal his grief, he blasteth all other leaves with his breath. We fear it is like to fare so with us ; that, seeing you cannot draw from our labours sweet content, you leave behind you a sour mislike, and with open reproach blame our good meaning, because you cannot reap the wonted mirth. Our intent was at this time to move inward delight, not outward lightness ; and to breed (if it might be) soft smiling, not loud laughing ; knowing it, to the wise, to be a great pleasure to hear counsel mixed with wit, as to the foolish, to have sport mingled with rudeness. They were banished the theatre of Athens, and from Rome hissed, that brought parasites on the stage with apish actions, or fools with uncivil habits, or courtezans with immodest words. We have endeavoured to be as far from unseemly speeches, to make your ears glow, as we hope you will be free from unkind reports, or mistaking the authors' intention (who never aimed at any one particular in this play), to make our cheeks blush. And thus I leave it, and thee to thine own censure, to like or dislike.—VALE.

THE KNIGHT OF THE BURNING PESTLE

INDUCTION

Several Gentlemen sitting on Stools upon the Stage. The Citizen, his Wife, and RALPH sitting below among the audience.

Enter Speaker of the Prologue.

S. of Prol. "From all that's near the court, from all that's great,
Within the compass of the city-walls—
We now have brought our scene——"

Citizen leaps on the Stage.

Cit. Hold your peace, goodman boy!

S. of Prol. What do you mean, sir?

Cit. That you have no good meaning: this seven years there hath been plays at this house, I have observed it, you have still girds at citizens; and now you call your play "The London Merchant." Down with your title, boy! down with your title!

S. of Prol. Are you a member of the noble city?

Cit. I am.

S. of Prol. And a freeman?

Cit. Yea, and a grocer.

S. of Prol. So, grocer, then, by your sweet favour, we intend no abuse to the city.

Cit. No, sir! yes, sir: if you were not resolved to play the Jacks, what need you study for new subjects, purposely to abuse your betters? why could not you be contented, as well as others, with "The legend of Whittington," or "The Life and Death of Sir Thomas Gresham, with the building of the Royal Exchange," or "The story of Queen Eleanor, with the rearing of London Bridge upon woolsacks?"

- S. of Prol.* You seem to be an understanding man: what would you have us do, sir?
- Cit.* Why, present something notably in honour of the commons of the city.
- S. of Prol.* Why, what do you say to "The Life and Death of fat Drake, or the Repairing of Fleet-privies?"
- Cit.* I do not like that; but I will have a citizen, and he shall be of my own trade.
- S. of Prol.* Oh, you should have told us your mind a month since; our play is ready to begin now.
- Cit.* 'Tis all one for that; I will have a grocer, and he shall do admirable things.
- S. of Prol.* What will you have him do?
- Cit.* Marry, I will have him——
- Wife.* [below.] Husband, husband!
- Ralph.* [below.] Peace, mistress.
- Wife.* [below.] Hold thy peace, Ralph; I know what I do, I warrant ye.—Husband, husband!
- Cit.* What sayest thou, cony?
- Wife.* [below.] Let him kill a lion with a pestle, husband! let him kill a lion with a pestle!
- Cit.* So he shall.—I'll have him kill a lion with a pestle.
- Wife.* [below.] Husband! shall I come up, husband?
- Cit.* Ay, cony.—Ralph, help your mistress this way.—Pray, gentlemen, make her a little room.—I pray you, sir, lend me your hand to help up my wife: I thank you, sir.—So. [Wife comes on the Stage.]
- Wife.* By your leave, gentlemen all; I'm something troublesome: I'm a stranger here; I was ne'er at one of these plays, as they say, before; but I should have seen "Jane Shore" once; and my husband hath promised me, any time this twelvemonth, to carry me to "The Bold Beauchamps," but in truth he did not. I pray you, bear with me.
- Cit.* Boy, let my wife and I have a couple of stools and then begin; and let the grocer do rare things. [Stools are brought.]
- S. of Prol.* But, sir, we have never a boy to play him: every one hath a part already.
- Wife.* Husband, husband, for God's sake, let Ralph play him! beshrew me, if I do not think he will go beyond them all.
- Cit.* Well remembered, wife.—Come up, Ralph.—I'll tell you, gentlemen; let them but lend him a suit of reparel and necessaries, and, by gad, if any of them all blow wind in the tail on him, I'll be hanged.

[Ralph comes on the Stage.]

Wife. I pray you, youth, let him have a suit of reparel!— I'll be sworn, gentlemen, my husband tells you true: he will act you sometimes at our house, that all the neighbours cry out on him; he will fetch you up a couraging part so in the garret, that we are all as feared, I warrant you, that we quake again: we'll fear our children with him; if they be never so unruly, do but cry, "Ralph comes, Ralph comes!" to them, and they'll be as quiet as lambs.—Hold up thy head, Ralph; show the gentlemen what thou canst do; speak a huffing part; I warrant you, the gentlemen will accept of it.

Cit. Do, Ralph, do.

Ralph. "By Heaven, methinks, it were an easy leap
To pluck bright honour from the pale-faced moon;
Or dive into the bottom of the sea,
Where never fathom-line touched any ground,
And pluck up drowned honour from the lake of hell."

Cit. How say you, gentlemen, is it not as I told you?

Wife. Nay, gentlemen, he hath played before, my husband says, Mucedorus, before the wardens of our company.

Cit. Ay, and he should have played Jeronimo with a shoemaker for a wager.

S. of Prol. He shall have a suit of apparel, if he will go in.

Cit. In, Ralph, in, Ralph; and set out the grocery in their kind, if thou lovest me. [Exit Ralph.]

Wife. I warrant, our Ralph will look finely when he's dressed.

S. of Prol. But what will you have it called?

Cit. "The Grocer's Honour."

S. of Prol. Methinks "The Knight of the Burning Pestle" were better.

Wife. I'll be sworn, husband, that's as good a name as can be.

Cit. Let it be so.—Begin, begin; my wife and I will sit down.

S. of Prol. I pray you, do.

Cit. What stately music have you? you have shawms?

S. of Prol. Shawms! no.

Cit. No! I'm a thief, if my mind did not give me so. Ralph plays a stately part, and he must needs have shawms: I'll be at the charge of them myself, rather than we'll be without them.

S. of Prol. So you are like to be.

Cit. Why, and so I will be: there's two shillings;—[Gives money.]—let's have the waits of Southwark; they are as rare fellows as any are in England; and that will fetch them all o'er the water with a vengeance, as if they were mad.

S. of Prol. You shall have them. Will you sit down, then?

Cit. Ay.—Come, wife.

Wife. Sit you merry all, gentlemen; I'm bold to sit amongst you for my ease. [Citizen and Wife sit down.]

S. of Prol. “From all that's near the court, from all that's great,

Within the compass of the city-walls,
We now have brought our scene. Fly far from hence
All private taxes, immodest phrases,
Whatever may but show like vicious!
For wicked mirth never true pleasure brings,
But honest minds are pleased with honest things.”—
Thus much for that we do; but for Ralph's part you must answer for yourself.

Cit. Take you no care for Ralph; he'll discharge himself, I warrant you. [Exit Speaker of Prologue.]

Wife. I'faith, gentlemen, I'll give my word for Ralph.

ACT I

SCENE I.—A Room in the House of Venturewell.

Enter VENTUREWELL and JASPER.

Vent. Sirrah, I'll make you know you are my prentice,
And whom my charitable love redeemed
Even from the fall of fortune; gave thee heat
And growth, to be what now thou art, new-cast thee;
Adding the trust of all I have, at home,
In foreign staples, or upon the sea,
To thy direction; tied the good opinions
Both of myself and friends to thy endeavours;
So fair were thy beginnings. But with these,
As I remember, you had never charge
To love your master's daughter, and even then
When I had found a wealthy husband for her;
I take it, sir, you had not: but, however,

I'll break the neck of that commission,
And make you know you are but a merchant's factor.

Jasp. Sir, I do liberally confess I am yours,
Bound both by love and duty to your service,
In which my labour hath been all my profit:
I have not lost in bargain, nor delighted
To wear your honest gains upon my back;
Nor have I given a pension to my blood,
Or lavishly in play consumed your stock;
These, and the miseries that do attend them,
I dare with innocence proclaim are strangers
To all my temperate actions. For your daughter,
If there be any love to my deservings
Borne by her virtuous self, I cannot stop it;
Nor am I able to refrain her wishes,
She's private to herself, and best of knowledge
Whom she will make so happy as to sigh for:
Besides, I cannot think you mean to match her
Unto a fellow of so lame a presence,
One that hath little left of nature in him.

Vent. 'Tis very well, sir: I can tell your wisdom
How all this shall be cured.

Jasp. Your care becomes you.

Vent. And thus it shall be, sir: I here discharge you
My house and service; take your liberty;
And when I want a son, I'll send for you.

[Exit.

Jasp. These be the fair rewards of them that love!
Oh, you that live in freedom, never prove
The travail of a mind led by desire!

Enter LUCE.

Luce. Why, how now, friend? struck with my father's thunder!

Jasp. Struck, and struck dead, unless the remedy
Be full of speed and virtue; I am now,
What I expected long, no more your father's.

Luce. But mine.

Jasp. But yours, and only yours, I am;
That's all I have to keep me from the statute.
You dare be constant still?

Luce. Oh, fear me not!
In this I dare be better than a woman:
Nor shall his anger nor his offers move me,

Were they both equal to a prince's power.

Jasp. You know my rival!

Luce. Yes, and love him dearly;
Even as I love an ague or foul weather:
I prithee, Jasper, fear him not.

Jasp. Oh, no!
I do not mean to do him so much kindness.
But to our own desires: you know the plot
We both agreed on?

Luce. Yes, and will perform
My part exactly.

Jasp. I desire no more.
Farewell, and keep my heart; 'tis yours.

Luce. I take it;
He must do miracles makes me forsake it.

[Exeunt severally.]

[Cit. Fie upon 'em, little infidels! what a matter's here now!
Well, I'll be hanged for a halfpenny, if there be not some abomination knavery in this play. Well; let 'em look to't; Ralph must come, and if there be any tricks
a-brewing—

Wife. Let 'em brew and bake too, husband, a' God's name;
Ralph will find all out, I warrant you, an they were older than they are.—[Enter Boy.—I pray, my pretty youth, is Ralph ready?

Boy. He will be presently.

Wife. Now, I pray you, make my commendations unto him, and withal carry him this stick of liquorice: tell him his mistress sent it to him; and bid him bite a piece; 'twill open his pipes the better, say.] [Exit Boy.]

SCENE II.—Another Room in the House of Venturewell.

Enter VENTUREWELL and HUMPHREY.

Vent. Come, sir, she's yours; upon my faith, she's yours;
You have my hand: for other idle lets
Between your hopes and her, thus with a wind
They are scattered and no more. My wanton prentice,
That like a bladder blew himself with love,
I have let out, and sent him to discover
New masters yet unknown.

Hum. I thank you, sir,
Indeed, I thank you, sir; and, ere I stir,

It shall be known, however you do deem,
I am of gentle blood, and gentle seem.

Vent. Oh, sir, I know it certain.

Hum. Sir, my friend,

Although, as writers say, all things have end,
And that we call a pudding hath his two,
Oh, let it not seem strange, I pray, to you,
If in this bloody simile I put
My love, more endless than frail things or gut!

[Wife. Husband, I prithee, sweet lamb, tell me one thing; but tell me truly.—Stay, youths, I beseech you, till I question my husband.]

Cit. What is it, mouse?

Wife. Sirrah, didst thou ever see a prettier child? how it behaves itself, I warrant ye, and speaks and looks, and perts up the head!—I pray you, brother, with your favour, were you never none of Master Moncaster's scholars?

Cit. Chicken, I prithee heartily, contain thyself: the childer are pretty childer; but when Ralph comes, lamb——

Wife. Ay, when Ralph comes, cony!—Well, my youth, you may proceed.]

Vent. Well, sir, you know my love, and rest, I hope,
Assured of my consent; get but my daughter's,
And wed her when you please. You must be bold,
And clap in close unto her: come, I know
You have language good enough to win a wench.

[Wife. A whoreson tyrant! h'as been an old stringer in's days, I warrant him.]

Hum. I take your gentle offer, and withal
Yield love again for love reciprocal.

Vent. What, Luce! within there!

Enter LUCE.

Luce. Called you, sir?

Vent. I did:

Give entertainment to this gentleman;
And see you be not froward.—To her, sir:
My presence will but be an eye-sore to you. [Exit.

Hum. Fair Mistress Luce, how do you? are you well?

Give me your hand, and then I pray you tell
How doth your little sister and your brother;
And whether you love me or any other.

Luce. Sir, these are quickly answered.

Hum. So they are,

Where women are not cruel. But how far
Is it now distant from the place we are in,
Unto that blessed place, your father's warren?

Luce. What makes you think of that, sir?

Hum. Even that face;

For, stealing rabbits whilom in that place,
God Cupid, or the keeper, I know not whether,
Unto my cost and charges brought you thither,
And there began——

Luce. Your game, sir.

Hum. Let no game,

Or any thing that tendeth to the same,
Be ever more remembered, thou fair killer,
For whom I sate me down, and brake my tiller.

[Wife. There's a kind gentleman, I warrant you: when will you do as much for me, George?]

Luce. Beshrew me, sir, I am sorry for your losses,
But, as the proverb says, I cannot cry:
I would you had not seen me!

Hum. So would I,

Unless you had more maw to do me good.

Luce. Why, cannot this strange passion be withstood;
Send for a constable, and raise the town.

Hum. Oh, no! my valiant love will batter down
Millions of constables, and put to flight
Even that great watch of Midsummer-day at night.

Luce. Beshrew me, sir, 'twere good I yielded, then;
Weak women cannot hope, where valiant men
Have no resistance.

Hum. Yield, then; I am full

Of pity, though I say it, and can pull
Out of my pocket thus a pair of gloves.
Look, Luce, look; the dog's tooth nor the dove's
Are not so white as these; and sweet they be,
And whipt about with silk, as you may see.
If you desire the price, shoot from your eye
A beam to this place, and you shall espy
F S, which is to say, my sweetest honey,
They cost me three and twopence, or no money.

Luce. Well, sir, I take them kindly, and I thank you:
What would you more?

Hum. Nothing.

Luce. Why, then, farewell.

Hum. Nor so, nor so; for, lady, I must tell,
Before we part, for what we met together:
God grant me time and patience and fair weather!

Luce. Speak, and declare your mind in terms so brief.

Hum. I shall: then, first and foremost, for relief
I call to you, if that you can afford it;
I care not at what price, for, on my word, it
Shall be repaid again, although it cost me
More than I'll speak of now; for love hath tost me
In furious blanket like a tennis-ball,
And now I rise aloft, and now I fall.

Luce. Alas, good gentleman, alas the day!

Hum. I thank you heartily; and, as I say,
Thus do I still continue without rest,
I' the morning like a man, at night a beast,
Roaring and bellowing mine own disquiet,
That much I fear, forsaking of my diet
Will bring me presently to that quandary,
I shall bid all adieu.

Luce. Now, by St. Mary,
That were great pity!

Hum. So it were, beshrew me;
Then, ease me, lusty Luce, and pity show me.

Luce. Why, sir, you know my will is nothing worth
Without my father's grant; get his consent,
And then you may with assurance try me.

Hum. The worshipful your sire will not deny me;
For I have asked him, and he hath replied,
"Sweet Master Humphrey, Luce shall be thy bride."

Luce. Sweet Master Humphrey, then I am content.

Hum. And so am I, in truth.

Luce. Yet take me with you;
There is another clause must be annexed,
And this it is: I swore, and will perform it,
No man shall ever joy me as his wife
But he that stole me hence. If you dare venture,
I am yours (you need not fear; my father loves you);
If not, farewell for ever!

Hum. Stay, nymph, stay:
I have a double gelding, coloured bay,
Sprung by his father from Barbarian kind;

Another for myself, though somewhat blind,
Yet true as trusty tree.

Luce. I am satisfied;

And so I give my hand. Our course must lie
Through Waltham forest, where I have a friend
Will entertain us. So, farewell, Sir Humphrey,
And think upon your business.

[Exit.

Hum. Though I die,

I am resolved to venture life and limb

For one so young, so fair, so kind, so trim.

[Exit.

[Wife. By my faith and troth, George, and as I am virtuous, it is e'en the kindest young man that ever trod on shoe-leather.—Well, go thy ways; if thou hast her not, 'tis not thy fault, i'faith.

Cit. I prithee, mouse, be patient; 'a shall have her, or I'll make some of 'em smoke for't.

Wife. That's my good lamb, George.—Fie, this stinking tobacco kills me! would there were none in England!—
Now, I pray, gentlemen, what good does this stinking tobacco do you? nothing, I warrant you: make chimneys o' your faces!]

SCENE III.—A Grocer's Shop.

Enter RALPH, as a Grocer, reading Palmerin of England, with TIM and GEORGE.

[Wife. Oh, husband, husband, now, now! there's Ralph,
there's Ralph.

Cit. Peace, fool! let Ralph alone.—Hark you, Ralph; do not strain yourself too much at the first.—Peace!—
Begin, Ralph.]

Ralph. [Reads.] Then Palmerin and Trineus, snatching their lances from their dwarfs, and clasping their helmets, galloped amain after the giant; and Palmerin, having gotten a sight of him, came posting amain, saying, “Stay, traitorous thief! for thou mayst not so carry away her, that is worth the greatest lord in the world;”
and, with these words, gave him a blow on the shoulder, that he struck him besides his elephant. And Trineus, coming to the knight that had Agricola behind him, set him soon besides his horse, with his neck broken in the fall; so that the princess, getting out of the throng, between joy and grief, said, “All happy knight, the mirror of all such as follow arms, now may I be well assured of the love thou bearest me." I wonder why the kings do not raise an army of fourteen or fifteen hundred thousand men, as big as the army that the Prince of Portigo brought against Rosicleer, and destroy these giants; they do much hurt to wandering damsels, that go in quest of their knights.

[Wife. Faith, husband, and Ralph says true; for they say the King of Portugal cannot sit at his meat, but the giants and the ettins will come and snatch it from him.]

[Cit. Hold thy tongue.—On, Ralph!]

[Ralph. And certainly those knights are much to be commended, who, neglecting their possessions, wander with a squire and a dwarf through the deserts to relieve poor ladies.]

[Wife. Ay, by my faith, are they, Ralph; let 'em say what they will, they are indeed. Our knights neglect their possessions well enough, but they do not the rest.]

[Ralph. There are no such courteous and fair well-spoken knights in this age: they will call one "the son of a whore," that Palmerin of England would have called "fair sir;" and one that Rosicleer would have called "right beauteous damsel," they will call "damned bitch."]

[Wife. I'll be sworn will they, Ralph; they have called me so an hundred times about a scurvy pipe of tobacco.]

[Ralph. But what brave spirit could be content to sit in his shop, with a flappet of wood, and a blue apron before him, selling mithridatum and dragon's-water to visited houses, that might pursue feats of arms, and, through his noble achievements, procure such a famous history to be written of his heroic prowess?]

[Wife. They go finely, by my troth.]

[Ralph. Why should not I, then, pursue this course, both for the credit of myself and our company? for amongst all the worthy books of achievements, I do not call to mind that I yet read of a grocer-errant: I will be the said knight.—Have you heard of any that hath wandered unfurnished of his squire and dwarf? My elder prentice Tim shall be my trusty squire, and little George my dwarf. Hence, my blue apron! Yet, in remembrance of my former trade, upon my shield shall be portrayed a Burning Pestle, and I will be called the Knight of the Burning Pestle.

[Wife. Nay, I dare swear thou wilt not forget thy old trade; thou wert ever meek.]

Ralph. Tim!

Tim. Anon.

Ralph. My beloved squire, and George my dwarf, I charge you that from henceforth you never call me by any other name but "the right courteous and valiant Knight of the Burning Pestle;" and that you never call any female by the name of a woman or wench, but "fair lady," if she have her desires, if not, "distressed damsel;" that you call all forests and heaths "deserts," and all horses "palfreys."

[Wife. This is very fine, faith.—Do the gentleman like Ralph, think you, husband?

Cit. Ay, I warrant thee; the players would give all the shoes in their shop for him.]

Ralph. My beloved squire Tim, stand out. Admit this were a desert, and over it a knight-errant pricking, and I should bid you inquire of his intents, what would you say?

Tim. Sir, my master sent me to know whither you are riding?

Ralph. No, thus: "Fair sir, the right courteous and valiant Knight of the Burning Pestle commanded me to inquire upon what adventure you are bound, whether to relieve some distressed damsel, or otherwise."

[Cit. Whoreson blockhead, cannot remember!

Wife. I'faith, and Ralph told him on't before: all the gentlemen heard him.—Did he not, gentlemen? did not Ralph tell him on't?]

George. Right courteous and valiant Knight of the Burning Pestle, here is a distressed damsel to have a halfpenny-worth of pepper.

[Wife. That's a good boy! see, the little boy can hit it; by my troth, it's a fine child.]

Ralph. Relieve her, with all courteous language. Now shut up shop; no more my prentices, but my trusty squire and dwarf. I must bespeak my shield and arming pestle.

[Exeunt Tim and George.

[Cit. Go thy ways, Ralph! As I'm a true man, thou art the best on 'em all.

Wife. Ralph, Ralph!

Ralph. What say you, mistress?

Wife. I prithee, come again quickly, sweet Ralph.

Ralph. By and by.]

[Exit.

SCENE IV.—A Room in Merrythought's House.

Enter MISTRESS MERRYTHOUGHT and JASPER.

Mist. Mer. Give thee my blessing! no, I'll ne'er give thee my blessing; I'll see thee hanged first; it shall ne'er be said I gave thee my blessing. Thou art thy father's own son, of the right blood of the Merrythoughts. I may curse the time that e'er I knew thy father; he hath spent all his own and mine too; and when I tell him of it, he laughs, and dances, and sings, and cries, "A merry heart lives long-a." And thou art a wastethrift, and art run away from thy master that loved thee well, and art come to me; and I have laid up a little for my younger son Michael, and thou thinkest to bezzle that, but thou shalt never be able to do it.—Come hither, Michael!

Enter MICHAEL.

Come, Michael, down on thy knees; thou shalt have my blessing.

Mich. [Kneels.] I pray you, mother, pray to God to bless me.

Mist. Mer. God bless thee! but Jasper shall never have my blessing; he shall be hanged first: shall he not, Michael? how sayest thou?

Mich. Yes, forsooth, mother, and grace of God.

Mist. Mer. That's a good boy!

[Wife. I'faith, it's a fine-spoken child.]

Jasp. Mother, though you forget a parent's love

I must preserve the duty of a child.

I ran not from my master, nor return

To have your stock maintain my idleness.

[Wife. Ungracious child, I warrant him; hark, how he chops logic with his mother!—Thou hadst best tell her she lies; do, tell her she lies.

Cit. If he were my son, I would hang him up by the heels, and flay him, and salt him, whoreson haltersack.]

Jasp. My coming only is to beg your love,

Which I must ever, though I never gain it;

And, howsoever you esteem of me,
 There is no drop of blood hid in these veins
 But, I remember well, belongs to you
 That brought me forth, and would be glad for you
 To rip them all again, and let it out.

Mist. Mer. I'faith, I had sorrow enough for thee, God knows; but I'll hamper thee well enough. Get thee in, thou vagabond, get thee in, and learn of thy brother Michael.

[Exeunt Jasper and Michael.]

Mer. [Singing within.]

Nose, nose, jolly red nose,
 And who gave thee this jolly red nose?

Mist. Mer. Hark, my husband! he's singing and hoiting;
 and I'm fain to cark and care, and all little enough.—
 Husband! Charles! Charles Merrythought!

Enter MERRYTHOUGHT.

Mer. [Sings.]

Nutmegs and ginger, cinnamon and cloves;
 And they gave me this jolly red nose.

Mist. Mer. If you would consider your state, you would have little list to sing, i-wis.

Mer. It should never be considered, while it were an estate, if I thought it would spoil my singing.

Mist. Mer. But how wilt thou do, Charles? thou art an old man, and thou canst not work, and thou hast not forty shillings left, and thou eatest good meat, and drinkest good drink, and laughest.

Mer. And will do.

Mist. Mer. But how wilt thou come by it, Charles?

Mer. How! why, how have I done hitherto these forty years?
 I never came into my dining room, but, at eleven and six o'clock, I found excellent meat and drink o' the table; my clothes were never worn out, but next morning a tailor brought me a new suit: and without question it will be so ever; use makes perfectness. If all should fail, it is but a little straining myself extraordinary, and laugh myself to death.

[Wife. It's a foolish old man this; is not he, George?

Cit. Yes, cony.

Wife. Give me a penny i' the purse while I live, George.

Cit. Ay, by lady, cony, hold thee there.]

Mist. Mer. Well, Charles; you promised to provide for Jasper, and I have laid up for Michael. I pray you, pay Jasper his portion: he's come home, and he shall not consume Michael's stock; he says his master turned him away, but, I promise you truly, I think he ran away.

[Wife. No, indeed, Mistress Merrythought; though he be a notable gallows, yet I'll assure you his master did turn him away, even in this place; 'twas, i'faith, within this half-hour, about his daughter; my husband was by.

[Cit. Hang him, rogue! he served him well enough: love his master's daughter! By my troth, cony, if there were a thousand boys, thou wouldst spoil them all with taking their parts; let his mother alone with him.

[Wife. Ay, George; but yet truth is truth.]

[Mer. Where is Jasper? he's welcome, however. Call him in; he shall have his portion. Is he merry?

[Mist. Mer. Ah, foul chive him, he is too merry!—Jasper! Michael!

Re-enter JASPER and MICHAEL.

[Mer. Welcome, Jasper! though thou runnest away, welcome! God bless thee! 'Tis thy mother's mind thou shouldst receive thy portion; thou hast been abroad, and I hope hast learned experience enough to govern it; thou art of sufficient years; hold thy hand—one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, there is ten shillings for thee. [Gives money.] Thrust thyself into the world with that, and take some settled course: if fortune cross thee, thou hast a retiring place; come home to me; I have twenty shillings left. Be a good husband; that is, wear ordinary clothes, eat the best meat, and drink the best drink; be merry, and give to the poor, and, believe me, thou hast no end of thy goods.

[Jasp. Long may you live free from all thought of ill,
And long have cause to be thus merry still!
But, father——

[Mer. No more words, Jasper; get thee gone.
Thou hast my blessing; thy father's spirit upon thee!
Farewell, Jasper! [Sings.

But yet, or ere you part (oh, cruel!)
Kiss me, kiss me, sweeting, mine own dear jewel!

So, now begone; no words. [Exit Jasper.

[Mist. Mer. So, Michael, now get thee gone too.

Mich. Yes, forsooth, mother; but I'll have my father's blessing first.

Mist. Mer. No, Michael; 'tis no matter for his blessing; thou hast my blessing; begone. I'll fetch my money and jewels, and follow thee; I'll stay no longer with him, I warrant thee. [Exit Michael.]—Truly, Charles, I'll be gone too.

Mer. What! you will not?

Mist. Mer. Yes, indeed will I.

Mer. [Sings.]

Heigh-ho, farewell, Nan!
I'll never trust wench more again, if I can.

Mist. Mer. You shall not think, when all your own is gone, to spend that I have been scraping up for Michael.

Mer. Farewell, good wife; I expect it not: all I have to do in this world, is to be merry; which I shall, if the ground be not taken from me; and if it be, [Sings.

When earth and seas from me are reft,
The skies aloft for me are left.

[Exeunt severally.]

[Wife. I'll be sworn he's a merry old gentleman for all that. [Music.] Hark, hark, husband, hark! fiddles, fiddles! now surely they go finely. They say 'tis present death for these fiddlers, to tune their rebecks before the great Turk's grace; it's not, George? [Enter a Boy and dances.] But, look, look! here's a youth dances!—Now, good youth, do a turn o' the toe.—Sweetheart, i'faith, I'll have Ralph come and do some of his gambols.—He'll ride the wild mare, gentlemen, 'twould do your hearts good to see him.—I thank you, kind youth; pray, bid Ralph come.

Cit. Peace, cony!—Sirrah, you scurvy boy, bid the players send Ralph; or, by God's——an they do not, I'll tearsome of their periwigs beside their heads: this is all riff-raff.]

[Exit Boy.]

ACT II

SCENE I.—A Room in the House of Venturewell.Enter VENTUREWELL and HUMPHREY.Vent. And how, faith, how goes it now, son Humphrey?Hum. Right worshipful, and my beloved friend
And father dear, this matter's at an end.Vent. 'Tis well: it should be so: I'm glad the girl
Is found so tractable.Hum. Nay, she must whirl
From hence (and you must wink; for so, I say,
The story tells,) to-morrow before day.[Wife. George, dost thou think in thy conscience now 'twill be a match? tell me but what thou thinkest, sweet rogue. Thou seest the poor gentleman, dear heart, how it labours and throbs, I warrant you, to be at rest!
I'll go move the father for't.Cit. No, no; I prithee, sit still, honeysuckle; thou'lt spoil
all. If he deny him, I'll bring half-a-dozen good fellows myself, and in the shutting of an evening, knock't up, and there's an end.Wife. I'll buss thee for that, i'faith, boy. Well, George, well, you have been a wag in your days, I warrant you; but God forgive you, and I do with all my heart.]Vent. How was it, son? you told me that to-morrow
Before day-break, you must convey her hence.Hum. I must, I must; and thus it is agreed:
Your daughter rides upon a brown-bay steed,
I on a sorrel, which I bought of Brian,
The honest host of the Red roaring Lion,
In Waltham situate. Then, if you may,
Consent in seemly sort; lest, by delay,
The Fatal Sisters come, and do the office,
And then you'll sing another song.Vent. Alas,
Why should you be thus full of grief to me,
That do as willing as yourself agree
To any thing, so it be good and fair?
Then, steal her when you will, if such a pleasure
Content you both; I'll sleep and never see it,
To make your joys more full. But tell me why

You may not here perform your marriage?

Wife. God's blessing o' thy soul, old man! i'faith, thou art loath to part true hearts. I see 'a has her, George; and I'm as glad on't!—Well, go thy ways, Humphrey, for a fair-spoken man; I believe thou hast not thy fellow within the walls of London; an I should say the suburbs too, I should not lie.—Why dost not rejoice with me, George?

Cit. If I could but see Ralph again, I were as merry as mine host, i'faith.]

Hum. The cause you seem to ask, I thus declare—
Help me, O Muses nine! Your daughter sware
A foolish oath, and more it was the pity;
Yet no one but myself within this city
Shall dare to say so, but a bold defiance
Shall meet him, were he of the noble science;
And yet she sware, and yet why did she sware?
Truly, I cannot tell, unless it were
For her own ease; for, sure, sometimes an oath,
Being sworn thereafter, is like cordial broth;
And this it was she swore, never to marry
But such a one whose mighty arm could carry
(As meaning me, for I am such a one)
Her bodily away, through stick and stone,
Till both of us arrive, at her request,
Some ten miles off, in the wild Waltham forest.

Vent. If this be all, you shall not need to fear
Any denial in your love: proceed;
I'll neither follow, nor repent the deed.

Hum. Good night, twenty good nights, and twenty more,
And twenty more good nights,—that makes three-score!
[Exeunt severally.]

SCENE II.—Waltham Forest.

Enter Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT and MICHAEL.

Mist. Mer. Come, Michael; art thou not weary, boy?

Mich. No, forsooth, mother, not I.

Mist. Mer. Where be we now, child?

Mich. Indeed, forsooth, mother, I cannot tell, unless we be at Mile-End: Is not all the world Mile-End, mother?

Mist. Mer. No, Michael, not all the world, boy; but I can assure thee, Michael, Mile End is a goodly matter: there has been a pitchfield, my child, between the naughty Spaniels and the Englishmen; and the Spaniels ran away, Michael, and the Englishmen followed: my neighbour Coxstone was there, boy, and killed them all with a birding-piece.

Mich. Mother, forsooth——

Mist. Mer. What says my white boy?

Mich. Shall not my father go with us too?

Mist. Mer. No, Michael, let thy father go snick-up; he shall never come between a pair of sheets with me again while he lives; let him stay at home, and sing for his supper, boy. Come, child, sit down, and I'll show my boy fine knacks, indeed. [They sit down: and she takes out a casket.] Look here, Michael; here's a ring, and here's a brooch, and here's a bracelet, and here's two rings more, and here's money and gold by th'eye, my boy.

Mich. Shall I have all this, mother?

Mist. Mer. Ay, Michael, thou shalt have all, Michael.

[Cit. How likest thou this, wench?

Wife. I cannot tell; I would have Ralph, George; I'll see no more else, indeed, la; and I pray you, let the youths understand so much by word of mouth; for, I tell you truly, I'm afraid o' my boy. Come, come, George, let's be merry and wise: the child's a fatherless child; and say they should put him into a strait pair of gaskins, 'twere worse than knot-grass; he would never grow after it.]

Enter RALPH, TIM, and GEORGE.

[Cit. Here's Ralph, here's Ralph!

Wife. How do you do, Ralph? you are welcome, Ralph, as I may say; it's a good boy, hold up thy head, and be not afraid; we are thy friends, Ralph; the gentlemen will praise thee, Ralph, if thou playest thy part with audacity. Begin, Ralph, a' God's name!]

Ralph. My trusty squire, unlace my helm: give me my hat. Where are we, or what desert may this be?

George. Mirror of knighthood, this is, as I take it, the perilous Waltham-down; in whose bottom stands the enchanted valley.

Mist. Mer. Oh, Michael, we are betrayed, we are betrayed! here be giants! Fly, boy! fly, boy, fly!

[Exit with Michael leaving the casket.

Ralph. Lace on my helm again. What noise is this?
 A gentle lady, flying the embrace
 Of some uncourteous knight! I will relieve her.
 Go, squire, and say, the Knight, that wears this Pestle
 In honour of all ladies, swears revenge
 Upon that recreant coward that pursues her;
 Go, comfort her, and that same gentle squire
 That bears her company.

Tim. I go, brave knight. [Exit.

Ralph. My trusty dwarf and friend, reach me my shield;
 And hold it while I swear. First, by my knighthood;
 Then by the soul of Amadis de Gaul,
 My famous ancestor; then by my sword
 The beauteous Brionella girt about me;
 By this bright burning Pestle, of mine honour
 The living trophy; and by all respect
 Due to distressed damsels; here I vow
 Never to end the quest of this fair lady
 And that forsaken squire till by my valour
 I gain their liberty!

George. Heaven bless the knight
 That thus relieves poor errant gentlewomen! [Exeunt.

[Wife. Ay, marry, Ralph, this has some savour in't; I would see the proudest of them all offer to carry his books after him. But, George, I will not have him go away so soon; I shall be sick if he go away, that I shall: call Ralph again, George, call Ralph again; I prithee, sweetheart, let him come fight before me, and let's ha' some drums and some trumpets, and let him kill all that comes near him, an thou lovest me, George!]

Cit. Peace a little, bird: he shall kill them all, an they were twenty more on 'em than there are.]

Enter JASPER.

Jasp. Now, Fortune, if thou be'st not only ill,
 Show me thy better face, and bring about
 Thy desperate wheel, that I may climb at length,
 And stand. This is our place of meeting,
 If love have any constancy. Oh, age,
 Where only wealthy men are counted happy!
 How shall I please thee, how deserve thy smiles,
 When I am only rich in misery?
 My father's blessing and this little coin

Is my inheritance; a strong revénué!
From earth thou art, and to the earth I give thee:

[Throws away the money.]

There grow and multiply, whilst fresher air
Breeds me a fresher fortune.—How! illusion?

[Sees the casket.]

What, hath the devil coined himself before me?
'Tis metal good, it rings well; I am waking,
And taking too, I hope. Now, God's dear blessing
Upon his heart that left it here! 'tis mine;
These pearls, I take it, were not left for swine.

[Exit with the casket.]

[Wife. I do not like that this unthrifty youth should embezzle away the money; the poor gentlewoman his mother will have a heavy heart for it, God knows.

[Cit. And reason good, sweetheart.

[Wife. But let him go; I'll tell Ralph a tale in's ear shall fetch him again with a wanion, I warrant him, if he be above ground; and besides, George, here are a number of sufficient gentlemen can witness, and myself, and yourself, and the musicians, if we be called in question.

SCENE III.—Another part of the Forest.

Enter RALPH and GEORGE.

But here comes Ralph, George; thou shalt hear him speak as he were an emperal.]

[Ralph. Comes not sir squire again?

[George. Right courteous knight,
Your squire doth come, and with him comes the lady,
For and the Squire of Damsels, as I take it.

Enter TIM, Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT, and MICHAEL.

[Ralph. Madam, if any service or devoir
Of a poor errant knight may right your wrongs,
Command it; I am prest to give you succour;
For to that holy end I bear my armour.

[Mist. Mer. Alas, sir, I am a poor gentlewoman, and I have lost my money in this forest!

[Ralph. Desert, you would say, lady; and not lost
Whilst I have sword and lance. Dry up your tears,
Which ill befit the beauty of that face,

And tell the story, if I may request it,
Of your disastrous fortune.

Mist. Mer. Out, alas! I left a thousand pound, a thousand pound, e'en all the money I had laid up for this youth, upon the sight of your mastership; you looked so grim, and, as I may say it, saving your presence, more like a giant than a mortal man.

Ralph. I am as you are, lady; so are they;
All mortal. But why weeps this gentle squire?

Mist. Mer. Has he not cause to weep, do you think, when he hath lost his inheritance?

Ralph. Young hope of valour, weep not; I am here
That will confound thy foe, and pay it dear
Upon his coward head, that dares deny
Distressèd squires and ladies equity:
I have but one horse, on which shall ride
This fair lady behind me, and before
This courteous squire: fortune will give us more
Upon our next adventure. Fairly speed
Beside us, squire and dwarf, to do us need! [Exeunt.

[Cit. Did not I tell you, Nell, what your man would do? by the faith of my body, wench, for clean action and good delivery, they may all cast their caps at him.

Wife. And so they may, i'faith; for I dare speak it boldly, the twelve companies of London cannot match him, timber for timber. Well, George, an he be not inveigled by some of these paltry players, I ha' much marvel: but, George, we ha' done our parts, if the boy have any grace to be thankful.

Cit. Yes, I warrant thee, duckling.]

SCENE IV.—Another part of the Forest.

Enter HUMPHREY and LUCE.

Hum. Good Mistress Luce, however I in fault am
For your lame horse, you're welcome unto Waltham;
But which way now to go, or what to say,
I know not truly, till it be broad day.

Luce. Oh, fear not, Master Humphrey; I am guide
For this place good enough.

Hum. Then, up and ride;
Or, if it please you, walk, for your repose,
Or sit, or, if you will, go pluck a rose;

Either of which shall be indifferent
 To your good friend and Humphrey, whose consent
 Is so entangled ever to your will,
 As the poor harmless horse is to the mill.

Luce. Faith, an you say the word, we'll e'en sit down,
 And take a nap.

Hum. 'Tis better in the town,
 Where we may nap together; for, believe me,
 To sleep without a snatch would mickle grieve me.

Luce. You're merry, Master Humphrey.

Hum. So I am,
 And have been ever merry from my dam.

Luce. Your nurse had the less labour.

Hum. Faith, it may be,
 Unless it were by chance I did beray me.

Enter JASPER.

Jasp. Luce! dear friend Luce!

Luce. Here, Jasper.

Jasp. You are mine.

Hum. If it be so, my friend, you use me fine:
 What do you think I am?

Jasp. An arrant noddy.

Hum. A word of obloquy! Now, by God's body,
 I'll tell thy master; for I know thee well.

Jasp. Nay, an you be so forward for to tell,
 Take that, and that; and tell him, sir, I gave it:
 And say, I paid you well. [Beats him.]

Hum. Oh, sir, I have it,
 And do confess the payment! Pray, be quiet.

Jasp. Go, get you to your night-cap and the diet,
 To cure your beaten bones.

Luce. Alas, poor Humphrey;
 Get thee some wholesome broth, with sage and comfrey;
 A little oil of roses and a feather
 To 'noint thy back withal.

Hum. When I came hither,
 Would I had gone to Paris with John Dory!

Luce. Farewell, my pretty nump; I am very sorry I cannot bear thee company.

Hum. Farewell:
 The devil's dam was ne'er so banged in hell.

[Exeunt Luce and Jasper.]

Wife. This young Jasper will prove me another thing, o' my conscience, an he may be suffered. George, dost not see, George, how 'a swaggers, and flies at the very heads o' folks, as he were a dragon? Well, if I do not do his lesson for wronging the poor gentleman, I am no true woman. His friends that brought him up might have been better occupied, i-wis, than have taught him these fegaries: he's e'en in the high way to the gallows, God bless him!

Cit. You're too bitter, cony; the young man may do well enough for all this.

Wife. Come hither, Master Humphrey; has he hurt you? now, beshrew his fingers for't! Here, sweetheart, here's some green ginger for thee. Now, beshrew my heart, but 'a has peppernel in's head, as big as a pullet's egg! Alas, sweet lamb, how thy temples beat! Take the peace on him, sweetheart, take the peace on him.

Cit. No, no; you talk like a foolish woman: I'll ha' Ralph fight with him, and swinge him up well-favouredly.—Sirrah boy, come hither. [Enter Boy.] Let Ralph come in and fight with Jasper.

Wife. Ay, and beat him well; he's an unhappy boy.

Boy. Sir, you must pardon; the plot of our play lies contrary; and 'twill hazard the spoiling of our play.

Cit. Plot me no plots! I'll ha' Ralph come out; I'll make your house too hot for you else.

Boy. Why, sir, he shall; but if any thing fall out of order, the gentlemen must pardon us.

Cit. Go your ways, goodman boy! [Exit Boy.] I'll hold him a penny, he shall have his bellyful of fighting now. Ho, here comes Ralph! no more!]

SCENE V.—Another part of the Forest.

Enter RALPH, Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT, MICHAEL,
TIM, and GEORGE.

Ralph. What knight is that, squire? ask him if he keep
The passage, bound by love of lady fair,
Or else but prickant.

Hum. Sir, I am no knight,
But a poor gentleman, that this same night
Had stolen from me, on yonder green,
My lovely wife, and suffered (to be seen

Yet extant on my shoulders) such a greeting,
That whilst I live I shall think of that meeting.

[Wife. Ay, Ralph, he beat him unmercifully, Ralph; an thou sparest him, Ralph, I would thou wert hanged.

Cit. No more, wife, no more.]

Ralph. Where is the caitiff-wretch hath done this deed?

Lady, your pardon; that I may proceed
Upon the quest of this injurious knight.—
And thou, fair squire, repute me not the worse,
In leaving the great venture of the purse
And the rich casket, till some better leisure.

Hum. Here comes the broker hath purloined my treasure.

Enter JASPER and LUCE.

Ralph. Go, squire, and tell him I am here,
An errant knight-at-arms, to crave delivery
Of that fair lady to her own knight's arms.
If he deny, bid him take choice of ground,
And so defy him.

Tim. From the Knight that bears
The Golden Pestle, I defy thee, knight,
Unless thou make fair restitution
Of that bright lady.

Jasp. Tell the knight that sent thee,
He is an ass; and I will keep the wench,
And knock his head-piece.

Ralph. Knight, thou art but dead,
If thou recall not thy uncourteous terms.

Jasp. Come, knight; I am ready for you. Now your Pestle [Snatches away his pestle.

Shall try what temper, sir, your mortar's of.
With that he stood upright in his stirrups, and gave the Knight of the calf-skin such a knock [Knocks Ralph down.] that he forsook his horse, and down he fell; and then he leaped upon him, and plucking off his helmet—

Hum. Nay, an my noble knight be down so soon,
Though I can scarcely go, I needs must run. [Exit.

[Wife. Run, Ralph, run, Ralph; run for thy life, boy;
Jasper comes, Jasper comes!] [Exit Ralph.

Jasp. Come, Luce, we must have other arms for you:
Humphrey, and Golden Pestle, both adieu! [Exeunt.

[Wife. Sure the devil (God bless us!) is in this springald!

Why, George, didst ever see such a fire-drake? I am afraid my boy's miscarried: if he be, though he were Master Merrythought's son a thousand times, if there be any law in England, I'll make some of them smart for't.

Cit. No, no; I have found out the matter, sweetheart; as sure as we are here, he is enchanted: he could no more have stood in Ralph's hands than I can in my lord mayor's. I'll have a ring to discover all enchantments, and Ralph shall beat him yet: be no more vexed, for it shall be so.]

SCENE VI.—Before the Bell Inn, Waltham.

Enter RALPH, Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT, MICHAEL, TIM, and GEORGE.

[Wife. Oh, husband, here's Ralph again!—Stay, Ralph again, let me speak with thee. How dost thou, Ralph? art thou not shrewdly hurt? the foul great lungies laid unmercifully on thee: there's some sugar-candy for thee. Proceed; thou shalt have another bout with him.]

Cit. If Ralph had him at the fencing-school, if he did not make a puppy of him, and drive him up and down the school, he should ne'er come in my shop more.]

Mist. Mer. Truly, Master Knight of the Burning Pestle, I am weary.

Mich. Indeed, la, mother, and I am very hungry.

Ralph. Take comfort, gentle dame, and you, fair squire; For in this desert there must needs be placed Many strong castles, held by courteous knights; And till I bring you safe to one of those, I swear by this my order ne'er to leave you.

[Wife. Well said, Ralph!—George, Ralph was ever comfortable, was he not?

Cit. Yes, duck.

Wife. I shall ne'er forget him. When he had lost our child, (you know it was strayed almost alone to Puddle Wharf, and the criers were abroad for it, and there it had drowned itself but for a sculler,) Ralph was the most comfortablest to me: "Peace, mistress," says he, "let it go; I'll get you another as good." Did he not, George, did he not say so?

Cit. Yes, indeed did he, mouse.]

George. I would we had a mess of pottage and a pot of drink, squire, and were going to bed!

Tim. Why, we are at Waltham town's end, and that's the Bell Inn.

George. Take courage, valiant knight, damsel, and squire!
I have discovered, not a stone's cast off,
An ancient castle, held by the old knight
Of the most holy order of the Bell,
Who gives to all knights-errant entertain:
There plenty is of food, and all prepared
By the white hands of his own lady dear.
He hath three squires that welcome all his guests;
The first, hight Chamberlino, who will see
Our beds prepared, and bring us snowy sheets,
Where never footman stretched his buttered hams;
The second, hight Tapstero, who will see
Our pots full filled, and no froth therein;
The third, a gentle squire, Ostlero hight,
Who will our palfreys slick with wisps of straw,
And in the manger put them oats enough,
And never grease their teeth with candle-snuff.

[Wife. That same dwarf's a pretty boy, but the squire's a groutnol.]

Ralph. Knock at the gates, my squire, with stately lance.

[Tim knocks at the door.]

Enter Tapster.

Tap. Who's there?—You're welcome, gentlemen: will you see a room?

George. Right courteous and valiant Knight of the Burning Pestle, this is the Squire Tapstero.

Ralph. Fair Squire Tapstero, I a wandering knight,
Hight of the Burning Pestle, in the quest
Of this fair lady's casket and wrought purse,
Losing myself in this vast wilderness,
Am to this castle well by fortune brought;
Where, hearing of the goodly entertain
Your knight of holy order of the Bell
Gives to all damsels and all errant knights,
I thought to knock, and now am bold to enter.

Tap. An't please you see a chamber, you are very welcome.

[Exeunt.]

[Wife. George, I would have something done, and I cannot tell what it is.

Cit. What is it, Nell?

Wife. Why, George, shall Ralph beat nobody again? prithee, sweetheart, let him.

Cit. So he shall, Nell; and if I join with him, we'll knock them all.]

SCENE VII.—A Room in the House of Venturewell.

Enter HUMPHREY and VENTUREWELL.

[Wife. Oh, George, here's Master Humphrey again now that lost Mistress Luce, and Mistress Luce's father. Master Humphrey will do somebody's errand, I warrant him.]

Hum. Father, it's true in arms I ne'er shall clasp her;
For she is stoln away by your man Jasper.

[Wife. I thought he would tell him.]

Vent. Unhappy that I am, to lose my child!
Now I begin to think on Jasper's words,
Who oft hath urged to me thy foolishness:
Why didst thou let her go? thou lov'st her not,
That wouldst bring home thy life, and not bring her.

Hum. Father, forgive me. Shall I tell you true?
Look on my shoulders, they are black and blue:
Whilst to and fro fair Luce and I were winding,
He came and basted me with a hedge-binding.

Vent. Get men and horses straight: we will be there
Within this hour. You know the place again!

Hum. I know the place where he my loins did swaddle;
I'll get six horses, and to each a saddle.

Vent. Meantime I will go talk with Jasper's father.

[Wife. George, what wilt thou lay with me now, that Master Humphrey has not Mistress Luce yet? speak, George, what wilt thou lay with me?

Cit. No, Nell; I warrant thee, Jasper is at Puckeridge with her by this.

Wife. Nay, George, you must consider Mistress Luce's feet are tender; and besides 'tis dark; and, I promise you truly, I do not see how he should get out of Waltham forest with her yet.

Cit. Nay, cony, what wilt thou lay with me, that Ralph has her not yet?

Wife. I will not lay against Ralph, honey, because I have not spoken with him.]

SCENE VIII.—A Room in Merrythought's House.

Enter MERRYTHOUGHT.

[Wife. But look, George, peace! here comes the merry old gentleman again.]

Mer. [Sings.]

When it was grown to dark midnight,
And all were fast asleep,
In came Margaret's grimly ghost,
And stood at William's feet.

I have money, and meat, and drink beforehand, till to-morrow at noon; why should I be sad? methinks I have half-a-dozen jovial spirits within me! [Sings.]

I am three merry men, and three merry men!

To what end should any man be sad in this world? give me a man that when he goes to hanging cries,

Troul the black bowl to me!

and a woman that will sing a catch in her travail! I have seen a man come by my door with a serious face, in a black cloak, without a hat-band, carrying his head as if he looked for pins in the street; I have looked out of my window half a year after, and have spied that man's head upon London Bridge. 'Tis vile: never trust a tailor that does not sing at his work; his mind is of nothing but filching.

[Wife. Mark this, George; 'tis worth noting; Godfrey my tailor, you know, never sings, and he had fourteen yards to make this gown: and I'll be sworn, Mistress Penistone the draper's wife had one made with twelve.]

Mer. [Sings.]

'Tis mirth that fills the veins with blood,
More than wine, or sleep, or food;
Let each man keep his heart at ease,
No man dies of that disease.
He that would his body keep
From diseases, must not weep;
But whoever laughs and sings,
Never he his body brings
Into fevers, gouts, or rheums,
Or lingeringly his lungs consumes,

Or meets with achès in the bone,
Or catarrhs or griping stone;
But contented lives for aye;
The more he laughs, the more he may.

[Wife. Look, George; how sayst thou by this, George? is't not a fine old man?—Now, God's blessing o' thy sweet lips!—When wilt thou be so merry, George? faith, thou art the frowningest little thing, when thou art angry, in a country.

Cit. Peace, cony; thou shalt see him taken down too, I warrant thee.

Enter VENTUREWELL.

Here's Luce's father come now.]

Mer. [Sings.]

As you came from Walsingham,
From that holy land,
There met you not with my true love
By the way as you came?

Vent. Oh, Master Merrythought, my daughter's gone!
This mirth becomes you not; my daughter's gone!

Mer. [Sings.]

Why, an if she be, what care I?
Or let her come, or go, or tarry.

Vent. Mock not my misery; it is your son
(Whom I have made my own, when all forsook him)
Has stoln my only joy, my child, away.

Mer. [Sings.]

He set her on a milk-white steed,
And himself upon a grey;
He never turned his face again,
But he bore her quite away.

Vent. Unworthy of the kindness I have shown
To thee and thine! too late I well perceive
Thou art consenting to my daughter's loss.

Mer. Your daughter! what a stir's here wi' your daughter?
Let her go, think no more on her, but sing loud. If both my sons were on the gallows, I would sing, [Sings.

Down, down, down they fall;
Down, and arise they never shall.

Vent. Oh, might I behold her once again,
And she once more embrace her aged sire!

Mer. Fie, how scurvily this goes! "And she once more embrace her aged sire?" You'll make a dog on her, will ye? she cares much for her aged sire, I warrant you.

[Sings.

She cares not for her daddy, nor
 She cares not for her mammy,
 For she is, she is, she is, she is
 My lord of Lowgave's lassy.

Vent. For this thy scorn I will pursue that son
 Of thine to death.

Mer. Do; and when you ha' killed him, [Sings.

Give him flowers enow, palmer, give him flowers enow
 Give him red, and white, and blue, green, and yellow.

Vent. I'll fetch my daughter——

Mer. I'll hear no more o' your daughter; it spoils my mirth.

Vent. I say, I'll fetch my daughter.

Mer. [Sings.]

Was never man for lady's sake,
 Down, down,
 Tormented as I poor Sir Guy,
 De derry down,
 For Lucy's sake, that lady bright,
 Down, down,
 As ever men beheld with eye,
 De derry down.

Vent. I'll be revenged, by Heaven! [Exeunt severally.

[Wife. How dost thou like this, George?

Cit. Why, this is well, cony; but if Ralph were hot once, thou shouldst see more. [Music.

Wife. The fiddlers go again, husband.

Cit. Ay, Nell; but this is scurvy music. I gave the whoreson gallows money, and I think he has not got me the waits of Southwark: if I hear 'em not anon, I'll twinge him by the ears.—You musicians, play Baloo!

Wife. No, good George, let's ha' Lachrymæ!

Cit. Why, this is it, cony.

Wife. It's all the better, George. Now, sweet lamb, what story is that painted upon the cloth? the Confutation of St. Paul?

Cit. No, lamb; that's Ralph and Lucrece.

Wife. Ralph and Lucrece! which Ralph? our Ralph?

Cit. No, mouse; that was a Tartarian.

Wife. A Tartarian! Well, I would the fiddlers had done, that we might see our Ralph again!]

ACT III

SCENE I.—Waltham Forest.Enter JASPER and LUCE.

Jasp. Come, my dear dear; though we have lost our way
We have not lost ourselves. Are you not weary
With this night's wandering, broken from your rest,
And frightened with the terror that attends
The darkness of this wild unpeopled place?

Luce. No, my best friend; I cannot either fear,
Or entertain a weary thought, whilst you
(The end of all my full desires) stand by me:
Let them that lose their hopes, and live to languish
Amongst the number of forsaken lovers,
Tell the long weary steps, and number time,
Start at a shadow, and shrink up their blood,
Whilst I (possessed with all content and quiet)
Thus take my pretty love, and thus embrace him.

Jasp. You have caught me, Luce, so fast, that, whilst I live,
I shall become your faithful prisoner,
And wear these chains for ever. Come, sit down,
And rest your body, too, too delicate
For these disturbances.—[They sit down.] So: will you sleep?

Come, do not be more able than you are;
I know you are not skilful in these watches,
For women are no soldiers: be not nice,
But take it; sleep, I say.

Luce. I cannot sleep;
Indeed, I cannot, friend.

Jasp. Why, then, we'll sing,
And try how that will work upon our senses.

Luce. I'll sing, or say, or any thing but sleep.

Jasp. Come, little mermaid, rob me of my heart
With that enchanting voice.

Luce. You mock me, Jasper.

[They sing.]

Jasp. Tell me, dearest, what is love?

Luce. 'Tis a lightning from above;
'Tis an arrow, 'tis a fire,
'Tis a boy they call Desire;
'Tis a smile
Doth beguile

Jasp. The poor hearts of men that prove.

Tell me more, are women true?

Luce. Some love change, and so do you.

Jasp. Are they fair and never kind?

Luce. Yes, when men turn with the wind.

Jasp. Are they froward?

Luce. Ever toward

Those that love, to love anew.

Jasp. Dissemble it no more; I see the god
Of heavy sleep lay on his heavy mace
Upon your eyelids.

Luce. I am very heavy.

[Sleeps.]

Jasp. Sleep, sleep; and quiet rest crown thy sweet thoughts!

Keep from her fair blood distempers, startings,
Horrors, and fearful shapes! let all her dreams
Be joys, and chaste delights, embraces, wishes,
And such new pleasures as the ravished soul
Gives to the senses!—So; my charms have took.—
Keep her, you powers divine, whilst I contemplate
Upon the wealth and beauty of her mind!
She is only fair and constant, only kind,
And only to thee, Jasper. Oh, my joys!
Whither will you transport me? let not fulness
Of my poor buried hopes come up together
And overcharge my spirits! I am weak.
Some say (however ill) the sea and women
Are governed by the moon; both ebb and flow,
Both full of changes; yet to them that know,
And truly judge, these but opinions are,
And heresies, to bring on pleasing war
Between our tempers, that without these were Both void of after-love and present fear,
Which are the best of Cupid. Oh, thou child
Bred from despair, I dare not entertain thee,
Having a love without the faults of women,
And greater in her perfect goods than men!
Which to make good, and please myself the stronger,
Though certainly I am certain of her love,
I'll try her, that the world and memory
May sing to after-times her constancy.—

[Draws his sword.]

Luce! Luce! awake!

Luce. Why do you fright me, friend,
With those distempred looks? what makes your sword
Drawn in your hand? who hath offended you?

I prithee, Jasper, sleep; thou art wild with watching.

Jasp. Come, make your way to Heaven, and bid the world,
With all the villanies that stick upon it,
Farewell; you're for another life.

Luce. Oh, Jasper,
How have my tender years committed evil,
Especially against the man I love,
Thus to be cropped untimely?

Jasp. Foolish girl,
Canst thou imagine I could love his daughter
That flung me from my fortune into nothing?
Dischargèd me his service, shut the doors
Upon my poverty, and scorned my prayers,
Sending me, like a boat without a mast,
To sink or swim? Come; by this hand you die;
I must have life and blood, to satisfy
Your father's wrongs.

[Wife. Away, George, away! raise the watch at Ludgate, and bring a mittimus from the justice for this desperate villain!—Now, I charge you, gentlemen, see the king's peace kept!—Oh, my heart, what a varlet's this, to offer manslaughter upon the harmless gentlewoman!

Cit. I warrant thee, sweetheart, we'll have him hampered.]

Luce. Oh, Jasper, be not cruel!
If thou wilt kill me, smile, and do it quickly,
And let not many deaths appear before me;
I am a woman, made of fear and love,
A weak, weak woman; kill not with thy eyes,
They shoot me through and through: strike, I am ready;
And, dying, still I love thee.

Enter VENTUREWELL, HUMPHREY, and Attendants.

Vent. Whereabouts?

Jasp. No more of this; now to myself again. [Aside.

Hum. There, there he stands, with sword, like martial knight,

Drawn in his hand; therefore beware the fight,
You that be wise; for, were I good Sir Bevis,
I would not stay his coming, by your leaves.

Vent. Sirrah, restore my daughter!

Jasp. Sirrah, no.

Vent. Upon him, then!

[They attack Jasper, and force Luce from him.

[Wife. So; down with him, down with him, down with him!
cut him i' the leg, boys, cut him i' the leg!]

Vent. Come your ways, minion: I'll provide a cage
For you, you're grown so tame.—Horse her away.

Hum. Truly, I'm glad your forces have the day.

[Exeunt all except Jasper.

Jasp. They are gone, and I am hurt; my love is lost,
Never to get again. Oh, me unhappy!
Bleed, bleed and die! I cannot. Oh, my folly,
Thou hast betrayed me! Hope, where art thou fled?
Tell me, if thou be'st anywhere remaining,
Shall I but see my love again? Oh, no!
She will not deign to look upon her butcher,
Nor is it fit she should; yet I must venture.
Oh, Chance, or Fortune, or whate'er thou art,
That men adore for powerful, hear my cry,
And let me loving live, or losing die!

[Exit.

[Wife. Is 'a gone, George?

Cit. Ay, cony.

Wife. Marry, and let him go, sweetheart. By the faith o' my body, 'a has put me into such a fright, that I tremble (as they say) as 'twere an aspen-leaf. Look o' my little finger, George, how it shakes. Now, in truth, every member of my body is the worse for't.

Cit. Come, hug in mine arms, sweet mouse; he shall not fright thee any more. Alas, mine own dear heart, how it quivers!]

SCENE II.—A Room in the Bell Inn, Waltham.

Enter Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT, RALPH, MICHAEL,
TIM, GEORGE, Host, and Tapster.

[Wife. Oh, Ralph! how dost thou, Ralph? How hast thou slept to-night? has the knight used thee well?

Cit. Peace, Nell; let Ralph alone.]

Tap. Master, the reckoning is not paid.

Ralph. Right courteous knight, who, for the order's sake
Which thou hast ta'en, hang'st out the holy Bell,
As I this flaming Pestle bear about,
We render thanks to your puissant self,
Your beauteous lady, and your gentle squires,

For thus refreshing of our wearied limbs,
Stiffened with hard achievements in wild desert.

Tap. Sir, there is twelve shillings to pay.

Ralph. Thou merry Squire Tapstero, thanks to thee
For comforting our souls with double jug:
And, if adventurous fortune prick thee forth,
Thou jovial squire, to follow feats of arms,
Take heed thou tender every lady's cause,
Every true knight, and every damsel fair;
But spill the blood of treacherous Saracens,
And false enchanters that with magic spells
Have done to death full many a noble knight.

Host. Thou valiant Knight of the Burning Pestle, give ear to me; there is twelve shillings to pay, and, as I am a true knight, I will not bate a penny.

[Wife. George, I prithee, tell me, must Ralph pay twelve shillings now?

Cit. No, Nell, no; nothing but the old knight is merry with Ralph.

Wife. Oh, is't nothing else? Ralph will be as merry as he.]

Ralph. Sir Knight, this mirth of yours becomes you well;
But, to requite this liberal courtesy,
If any of your squires will follow arms,
He shall receive from my heroic hand
A knighthood, by the virtue of this Pestle.

Host. Fair knight, I thank you for your noble offer:
Therefore, gentle knight,
Twelve shillings you must pay, or I must cap you.

[Wife. Look, George! did not I tell thee as much? the knight of the Bell is in earnest. Ralph shall not be beholding to him: give him his money, George, and let him go snick up.

Cit. Cap Ralph! no.—Hold your hand, Sir Knight of the Bell; there's your money [gives money]: have you anything to say to Ralph now? Cap Ralph!

Wife. I would you should know it, Ralph has friends that will not suffer him to be capt for ten times so much, and ten times to the end of that.—Now take thy course,
Ralph.]

Mist. Mer. Come, Michael; thou and I will go home to thy father; he hath enough left to keep us a day or two, and we'll set fellows abroad to cry our purse and our casket: shall we, Michael?

Mich. Ay, I pray, mother; in truth my feet are full of chilblains with travelling.

[Wife. Faith, and those chilblains are a foul trouble. Mistress Merrythought, when your youth comes home, let him rub all the soles of his feet, and his heels, and his ankles with a mouse-skin; or, if none of your people can catch a mouse, when he goes to bed, let him roll his feet in the warm embers, and, I warrant you, he shall be well; and you may make him put his fingers between his toes, and smell to them; it's very sovereign for his head, if he be costive.]

Mist. Mer. Master Knight of the Burning Pestle, my son Michael and I bid you farewell: I thank your worship heartily for your kindness.

Ralph. Farewell, fair lady, and your tender squire.
If pricking through these deserts, I do hear
Of any traitorous knight, who through his guile
Hath light upon your casket and your purse,
I will despoil him of them, and restore them.

Mist. Mer. I thank your worship. [Exit with Michael.]

Ralph. Dwarf, bear my shield; squire, elevate my lance:—
And now farewell, you Knight of holy Bell.

[Cit. Ay, ay, Ralph, all is paid.]

Ralph. But yet, before I go, speak, worthy knight,
Of aught you do of sad adventures know,
Where errant knight may through his prowess win
Eternal fame, and free some gentle souls
From endless bonds of steel and lingering pain.

Host. Sirrah, go to Nick the barber, and bid him prepare himself, as I told you before, quickly.

Tap. I am gone, sir. [Exit.]

Host. Sir Knight, this wilderness affordeth none
But the great venture, where full many a knight
Hath tried his prowess, and come off with shame;
And where I would not have you lose your life
Against no man, but furious fiend of hell.

Ralph. Speak on, Sir Knight; tell what he is and where:
For here I vow, upon my blazing badge,
Never to blaze a day in quietness,
But bread and water will I only eat,
And the green herb and rock shall be my couch,
Till I have quelled that man, or beast, or fiend,
That works such damage to all errant knights.

Host. Not far from hence, near to a craggy cliff,
 At the north end of this distressed town,
 There doth stand a lowly house,
 Ruggedly builded, and in it a cave
 In which an ugly giant now doth won,
 Ycleped Barbarossa: in his hand
 He shakes a naked lance of purest steel,
 With sleeves turned up; and him before he wears
 A motley garment, to preserve his clothes
 From blood of those knights which he massacres
 And ladies gent: without his door doth hang
 A copper basin on a prickant spear;
 At which no sooner gentle knights can knock,
 But the shrill sound fierce Barbarossa hears,
 And rushing forth, brings in the errant knight,
 And sets him down in an enchanted chair;
 Then with an engine, which he hath prepared,
 With forty teeth, he claws his courtly crown;
 Next makes him wink, and underneath his chin
 He plants a brazen piece of mighty bord,
 And knocks his bullets round about his cheeks;
 Whilst with his fingers, and an instrument
 With which he snaps his hair off, he doth fill
 The wretch's ears with a most hideous noise:
 Thus every knight-adventurer he doth trim,
 And now no creature dares encounter him.

Ralph. In God's name, I will fight with him. Kind sir,
 Go but before me to this dismal cave,
 Where this huge giant Barbarossa dwells,
 And, by that virtue that brave Rosicleer
 That damnèd brood of ugly giants slew,
 And Palmerin Frannarco overthrew,
 I doubt not but to curb this traitor foul,
 And to the devil send his guilty soul.

Host. Brave-sprighted knight, thus far I will perform
 This your request; I'll bring you within sight
 Of this most loathsome place, inhabited
 By a more loathsome man; but dare not stay,
 For his main force swoops all he sees away.

Ralph. Saint George, set on before! march squire and page!
[Exeunt.

[Wife. George, dost think Ralph will confound the giant?

Cit. I hold my cap to a farthing he does: why, Nell, I saw him wrestle with the great Dutchman, and hurl him.

Wife. Faith, and that Dutchman was a goodly man, if all things were answerable to his bigness. And yet they say there was a Scotchman higher than he, and that they two and a knight met, and saw one another for nothing. But of all the sights that ever were in London, since I was married, methinks the little child that was so fair grown about the members was the prettiest; that and the hermaphrodite.

Cit. Nay, by your leave, Nell, Ninivie was better.

Wife. Ninivie! oh, that was the story of Jone and the wall, was it not, George?

Cit. Yes, lamb.]

SCENE III.—The Street before Merrythought's House.

Enter Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT.

[Wife. Look, George, here comes Mistress Merrythought again! and I would have Ralph come and fight with the giant; I tell you true, I long to see't.

Cit. Good Mistress Merrythought, begone, I pray you, for my sake; I pray you, forbear a little; you shall have audience presently; I have a little business.

Wife. Mistress Merrythought, if it please you to refrain your passion a little, till Ralph have despatched the giant out of the way, we shall think ourselves much bound to you. [Exit Mistress Merrythought.] I thank you, good Mistress Merrythought.

Cit. Boy, come hither. [Enter Boy.] Send away Ralph and this whoreson giant quickly.

Boy. In good faith, sir, we cannot; you'll utterly spoil our play, and make it to be hissed; and it cost money; you will not suffer us to go on with our plot.—I pray, gentlemen, rule him.

Cit. Let him come now and despatch this, and I'll trouble you no more.

Boy. Will you give me your hand of that?

Wife. Give him thy hand, George, do; and I'll kiss him. I warrant thee, the youth means plainly.

Boy. I'll send him to you presently.

Wife. [Kissing him.] I thank you, little youth. [Exit Boy.]

Faith, the child hath a sweet breath, George; but I think it be troubled with the worms; carduus benedictus and mare's milk were the only thing in the world for't.

SCENE IV.—Before a Barber's Shop, Waltham.

Enter RALPH, Host, TIM, and GEORGE.

Wife. Oh, Ralph's here, George!—God send thee good luck, Ralph!]

Host. Puissant knight, yonder his mansion is.

Lo, where the spear and copper basin are!

Behold that string, on which hangs many a tooth,

Drawn from the gentle jaw of wandering knights!

I dare not stay to sound; he will appear. [Exit.

Ralph. Oh, faint not, heart! Susan, my lady dear,
The cobbler's maid in Milk Street, for whose sake
I take these arms, oh, let the thought of thee
Carry thy knight through all adventurous deeds;
And, in the honour of thy beauteous self,
May I destroy this monster Barbarossa!—
Knock, squire, upon the basin, till it break
With the shrill strokes, or till the giant speak.

[Tim knocks upon the basin.

Enter Barber.

[Wife. Oh, George, the giant, the giant!—Now, Ralph, for thy life!]

Bar. What fond unknowing wight is this, that dares
So rudely knock at Barbarossa's cell,
Where no man comes but leaves his fleece behind?

Ralph. I, traitorous caitiff, who am sent by fate
To punish all the sad enormities
Thou hast committed against ladies gent
And errant knights. Traitor to God and men,
Prepare thyself; this is the dismal hour
Appointed for thee to give strict account
Of all thy beastly treacherous villanies.

Bar. Fool-hardy knight, full soon thou shalt aby
This fond reproach: thy body will I bang;
[Takes down his pole.
And, lo, upon that string thy teeth shall hang!
Prepare thyself, for dead soon shalt thou be.

Ralph. Saint George for me!

[They fight.]

Bar. Gargantua for me!

Cit. Falsify a blow, Ralph, falsify a blow! the giant lies open on the left side.

Wife. Bear't off, bear't off still! there, boy!—

Oh, Ralph's almost down, Ralph's almost down!

Ralph. Susan, inspire me! now have up again.

[Wife. Up, up, up, up, up! so, Ralph! down with him, down with him, Ralph!

Cit. Fetch him o'er the hip, boy!

[Ralph knocks down the Barber.]

Wife. There, boy! kill, kill, kill, kill, kill, Ralph!

Cit. No, Ralph; get all out of him first.]

Ralph. Presumptuous man, see to what desperate end
Thy treachery hath brought thee! The just gods,
Who never prosper those that do despise them,
For all the villanies which thou hast done
To knights and ladies, now have paid thee home
By my stiff arm, a knight adventurous.
But say, vile wretch, before I send thy soul
To sad Avernus, (whither it must go)
What captives holdst thou in thy sable cave?

Bar. Go in, and free them all; thou hast the day.

Ralph. Go, squire and dwarf, search in this dreadful cave,
And free the wretched prisoners from their bonds.

[Exeunt Tim and George.]

Bar. I crave for mercy, as thou art a knight,
And scorn'st to spill the blood of those that beg.

Ralph. Thou show'd'st no mercy, nor shalt thou have any;
Prepare thyself, for thou shalt surely die.

Re-enter TIM leading a Man winking, with a Basin under his Chin.

Tim. Behold, brave knight, here is one prisoner,
Whom this vile man hath used as you see.

[Wife. This is the first wise word I heard the squire speak.]

Ralph. Speak what thou art, and how thou hast been used,
That I may give him condign punishment.

Man. I am a knight that took my journey post
Northward from London; and in courteouswise

This giant trained me to his loathsome den,
 Under pretence of killing of the itch;
 And all my body with a powder strewed,
 That smarts and stings; and cut away my beard,
 And my curled locks wherein were ribands tied;
 And with a water washed my tender eyes,
 (Whilst up and down about me still he skipt,)
 Whose virtue is, that, till my eyes be wiped
 With a dry cloth, for this my foul disgrace,
 I shall not dare to look a dog i' the face.

[Wife. Alas, poor knight!—Relieve him, Ralph; relieve poor knights, whilst you live.]

Ralph. My trusty squire, convey him to the town,
 Where he may find relief.—Adieu, fair knight.

[Exeunt Man with Tim, who presently re-enters.]

Re-enter GEORGE, leading a second Man, with a patch over his nose.

George. Puissant Knight, of the Burning Pestle hight,
 See here another wretch, whom this foul beast
 Hath scotched and scored in this inhuman wise.

Ralph. Speak me thy name, and eke thy place of birth,
 And what hath been thy usage in this cave.

2nd Man. I am a knight, Sir Pockhole is my name,
 And by my birth I am a Londoner,
 Free by my copy, but my ancestors
 Were Frenchmen all; and riding hard this way
 Upon a trotting horse, my bones did ache;
 And I, faint knight, to ease my weary limbs,
 Light at this cave; when straight this furious fiend,
 With sharpest instrument of purest steel,
 Did cut the gristle of my nose away,
 And in the place this velvet plaster stands:
 Relieve me, gentle knight, out of his hands!

[Wife. Good Ralph, relieve Sir Pockhole, and send him away;
 for in truth his breath stinks.]

Ralph. Convey him straight after the other knight.—Sir
 Pockhole, fare you well.

2nd Man. Kind sir, good night.

[Exit with George, who presently re-enters.]

3rd Man [within]. Deliver us! [Cries within.]

Woman [within]. Deliver us!

[Wife. Hark, George, what a woeful cry there is! I think some woman lies-in there.]

3rd Man [within]. Deliver us!

Women [within]. Deliver us!

Ralph. What ghastly noise is this? Speak, Barbarossa,
Or, by this blazing steel, thy head goes off!

Bar. Prisoners of mine, whom I in diet keep.
Send lower down into the cave,
And in a tub that's heated smoking hot,
There may they find them, and deliver them.

Ralph. Run, squire and dwarf; deliver them with speed.

[Exeunt Tim and George.]

[Wife. But will not Ralph kill this giant? Surely I am afraid, if he let him go, he will do as much hurt as ever he did.]

Cit. Not so, mouse, neither, if he could convert him.

Wife. Ay, George, if he could convert him; but a giant is not so soon converted as one of us ordinary people. There's a pretty tale of a witch, that had the devil's mark about her, (God bless us!) that had a giant to her son, that was called Lob-lie-by-the-fire; didst never hear it, George?

Cit. Peace, Nell, here comes the prisoners.]

Re-enter TIM, leading a third Man, with a glass of lotion in his hand, and GEORGE leading a Woman, with diet-bread and drink in her hand.

George. Here be these pinèd wretches, manful knight,
That for this six weeks have not seen a wight.

Ralph. Deliver what you are, and how you came To this sad cave, and what your usage was?

3rd Man. I am an errant knight that followed arms
With spear and shield; and in my tender years
I stricken was with Cupid's fiery shaft,
And fell in love with this my lady dear,
And stole her from her friends in Turnbull Street,
And bore her up and down from town to town,
Where we did eat and drink, and music hear;
Till at the length at this unhappy town
We did arrive, and coming to this cave,
This beast us caught, and put us in a tub,
Where we this two months sweat, and should have done

Another month, if you had not relieved us.

Woman. This bread and water hath our diet been,
Together with a rib cut from a neck
Of burned mutton; hard hath been our fare:
Release us from this ugly giant's snare!

3rd Man. This hath been all the food we have received;
But only twice a-day, for novelty,
He gave a spoonful of this hearty broth
To each of us, through this same slender quill.

[Pulls out a syringe.

Ralph. From this infernal monster you shall go,
That useth knights and gentle ladies so!—
Convey them hence.

[3rd Man and Woman are led off by Tim and George, who presently re-enter.

[Cit. Cony, I can tell thee, the gentlemen like Ralph.

Wife. Ay, George, I see it well enough.—Gentlemen, I thank you all heartily for gracing my man Ralph; and I promise you, you shall see him oftener.]

Bar. Mercy, great knight! I do recant my ill,
And henceforth never gentle blood will spill.

Ralph. I give thee mercy; but yet shalt thou swear,
Upon my Burning Pestle, to perform
Thy promise utterèd.

Bar. I swear and kiss.

[Kisses the Pestle.

Ralph. Depart, then and amend.—

[Exit Barber.

Come, squire and dwarf; the sun grows towards his set,
And we have many more adventures yet. [Exeunt.

[Cit. Now Ralph is in this humour, I know he would ha' beaten all the boys in the house, if they had been set on him.

Wife. Ay, George, but it is well as it is: I warrant you, the gentlemen do consider what it is to overthrow a giant.]

SCENE V.—The Street before Merrythought's House.

Enter Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT and MICHAEL.

[Wife. But, look, George; here comes Mistress Merrythought, and her son Michael.—Now you are welcome, Mistress Merrythought; now Ralph has done, you may go on.]

Mist. Mer. Mick, my boy—

Mich. Ay, forsooth, mother.

Mist. Mer. Be merry, Mick; we are at home now; where, I warrant you, you shall find the house flung out of the windows. [Music within.] Hark! hey, dogs, hey! this is the old world, i'faith, with my husband. If I get in among them, I'll play them such a lesson, that they shall have little list to come scraping hither again—Why, Master Merrythought! husband! Charles Merrythought!

Mer. [Appearing above, and singing.]

If you will sing, and dance, and laugh,
And hollow, and laugh again,
And then cry, "there, boys, there!" why, then,
One, two, three, and four,
We shall be merry within this hour.

Mist. Mer. Why, Charles, do you not know your own natural wife? I say, open the door, and turn me out those mangy companions; 'tis more than time that they were fellow and fellow-like with you. You are a gentleman, Charles, and an old man, and father of two children; and I myself, (though I say it) by my mother's side niece to a worshipful gentleman and a conductor; he has been three times in his majesty's service at Chester, and is now the fourth time, God bless him and his charge, upon his journey.

Mer. [Sings.]

Go from my window, love, go;
Go from my window, my dear!
The wind and the rain
Will drive you back again;
You cannot be lodged here.

Hark you, Mistress Merrythought, you that walk upon adventures, and forsake your husband, because he sings with never a penny in his purse; what, shall I think myself the worse? Faith, no, I'll be merry. You come not here; here's none but lads of mettle, lives of a hundred years and upwards; care never drunk their bloods, nor want made them warble "Heigh-ho, my heart is heavy."

Mist. Mer. Why, Master Merrythought, what am I, that you should laugh me to scorn thus abruptly? am I not your fellow-feeler, as we may say, in all our miseries? your comforter in health and sickness? have I not brought you children? are they not like you, Charles? look upon thine own image, hard-hearted man! and yet for all this——

Mer. [Sings.]

Begone, begone, my juggy, my puggy,
 Begone, my love, my dear!
 The weather is warm,
 'Twill do thee no harm:
 Thou canst not be lodged here.—

Be merry, boys! some light music, and more wine!

[Exit above.]

[Wife. He's not in earnest, I hope, George, is he?

Cit. What if he be, sweetheart?

Wife. Marry, if he be, George, I'll make bold to tell him he's an ingrant old man to use his bedfellow so scurvily.

Cit. What! how does he use her, honey?

Wife. Marry, come up, sir saucebox! I think you'll take his part, will you not? Lord, how hot you have grown! you are a fine man, an' you had a fine dog; it becomes you sweetly!

Cit. Nay, prithee, Nell, chide not; for, as I am an honest man and a true Christian grocer, I do not like his doings.

Wife. I cry you mercy, then, George! you know we are all frail and full of infirmities.—D'ye hear, Master Merrythought? may I crave a word with you?]

Mer. [Appearing above.] Strike up lively, lads!

[Wife. I had not thought, in truth, Master Merrythought, that a man of your age and discretion, as I may say, being a gentleman, and therefore known by your gentle conditions, could have used so little respect to the weakness of his wife; for your wife is your own flesh, the staff of your age, your yoke-fellow, with whose help you draw through the mire of this transitory world; nay, she's your own rib: and again——]

Mer. [Sings.]

I came not hither for thee to teach,
 I have no pulpit for thee to preach,
 I would thou hadst kissed me under the breech,
 As thou art a lady gay.

[Wife. Marry, with a vengeance! I am heartily sorry for the poor gentlewoman: but if I were thy wife, i'faith, grey-beard, i'faith——

Cit. I prithee, sweet honeysuckle, be content.

Wife. Give me such words, that am a gentlewoman born! hang him, hoary rascal! Get me some drink, George;

I am almost molten with fretting: now, beshrew his knave's heart for it! [Exit Citizen.]

Mer. Play me a light lavolta. Come, be frolic.
Fill the good fellows wine.

Mist. Mer. Why, Master Merrythought, are you disposed to make me wait here? You'll open, I hope; I'll fetch them that shall open else.

Mer. Good woman, if you will sing, I'll give you something; if not— [Sings.]

You are no love for me, Margaret,
I am no love for you.—

Come aloft, boys, aloft! [Exit above.]

Mist. Mer. Now a churl's fart in your teeth, sir!—Come, Mick, we'll not trouble him; 'a shall not ding us i' the teeth with his bread and his broth, that he shall not. Come, boy; I'll provide for thee, I warrant thee. We'll go to Master Venturewell's, the merchant: I'll get his letter to mine host of the Bell in Waltham; there I'll place thee with the tapster: will not that do well for thee, Mick? and let me alone for that old cuckoldly knave your father; I'll use him in his kind, I warrant ye. [Exeunt.]

Re-enter Citizen with Beer.

[Wife. Come, George, where's the beer?

Cit. Here, love.

Wife. This old fornicating fellow will not out of my mind yet.—Gentlemen, I'll begin to you all; and I desire more of your acquaintance with all my heart. [Drinks.] Fill the gentlemen some beer, George. [Enter Boy.] Look, George, the little boy's come again: methinks he looks something like the Prince of Orange in his long stocking, if he had a little harness about his neck. George, I will have him dance fading.—Fading is a fine jig, I'll assure you, gentlemen.—Begin, brother. [Boy dances.] Now 'a capers, sweetheart!—Now a turn o' the toe, and then tumble! cannot you tumble, youth?

Boy. No, indeed, forsooth.

Wife. Nor eat fire?

Boy. Neither.

Wife. Why, then, I thank you heartily; there's twopence to buy you points withal.]

ACT IV

SCENE I.—A Street.Enter JASPER and Boy.

Jasp. There, boy, deliver this; but do it well.
Hast thou provided me four lusty fellows,
[Gives a letter.

Able to carry me? and art thou perfect
In all thy business?

Boy. Sir, you need not fear;
I have my lesson here, and cannot miss it:
The men are ready for you, and what else
Pertains to this employment.

Jasp. There, my boy;
Take it, but buy no land. [Gives money.

Boy. Faith, sir, 'twere rare
To see so young a purchaser. I fly,
And on my wings carry your destiny.

Jasp. Go, and be happy! [Exit Boy.] Now, my latest hope,
Forsake me not, but fling thy anchor out,
And let it hold! Stand fixed, thou rolling stone,
Till I enjoy my dearest! Hear me, all
You powers, that rule in men, celestial! [Exit.

[Wife. Go thy ways; thou art as crooked a sprig as ever grew in London. I warrant him, he'll come to some naughty end or other; for his looks say no less: besides, his father (you know, George) is none of the best; you heard him take me up like a flirt-gill, and sing bawdy songs upon me; but, i'faith, if I live, George,—

Cit. Let me alone, sweetheart: I have a trick in my head shall lodge him in the Arches for one year, and make him sing peccavi ere I leave him; and yet he shall never know who hurt him neither.

Wife. Do, my good George, do!

Cit. What shall we have Ralph do now, boy?

Boy. You shall have what you will, sir.

Cit. Why, so, sir; go and fetch me him then, and let the Sophy of Persia come and christen him a child.

Boy. Believe me, sir, that will not do so well; 'tis stale; it has been had before at the Red Bull.

Wife. George, let Ralph travel over great hills, and let him be very weary, and come to the King of Cracovia's house, covered with black velvet; and there let the king's daughter stand in her window, all in beaten gold, combing her golden locks with a comb of ivory; and let her spy Ralph, and fall in love with him, and come down to him, and carry him into her father's house; and then let Ralph talk with her.

Cit. Well said, Nell; it shall be so.—Boy, let's ha't done quickly.

Boy. Sir, if you will imagine all this to be done already, you shall hear them talk together; but we cannot present a house covered with black velvet, and a lady in beaten gold.

Cit. Sir boy, let's ha't as you can, then.

Boy. Besides, it will show ill-favouredly to have a grocer's prentice to court a king's daughter.

Cit. Will it so, sir? you are well read in histories! I pray you, what was Sir Dagonet? was not he prentice to a grocer in London? Read the play of "The Four Prentices of London," where they toss their pikes so. I pray you, fetch him in, sir, fetch him in.

Boy. It shall be done.—It is not our fault, gentlemen. [Exit.

Wife. Now we shall see fine doings, I warrant ye, George.]

SCENE II.—A Hall in the King of Moldavia's Court.

Enter POMPIONA, RALPH, TIM, and GEORGE.

[Wife. Oh, here they come! how prettily the King of Cracovia's daughter is dressed!

Cit. Ay, Nell, it is the fashion of that country, I warrant ye.]

Pomp. Welcome, Sir Knight, unto my father's court,
King of Moldavia; unto me Pompiona,
His daughter dear! But, sure, you do not like
Your entertainment, that will stay with us
No longer but a night.

Ralph. Damsel right fair,
I am on many sad adventures bound,
That call me forth into the wilderness;
Besides, my horse's back is something galled,

Which will enforce me ride a sober pace.
But many thanks, fair lady, be to you
For using errant knight with courtesy!

Pomp. But say, brave knight, what is your name and birth?

Ralph. My name is Ralph; I am an Englishman
(As true as steel, a hearty Englishman),
And prentice to a grocer in the Strand
By deed indent, of which I have one part:
But fortune calling me to follow arms,
On me this only order I did take
Of Burning Pestle, which in all men's eyes
I bear, confounding ladies' enemies.

Pomp. Oft have I heard of your brave countrymen,
And fertile soil and store of wholesome food;
My father oft will tell me of a drink
In England found, and nipitato called,
Which driveth all the sorrow from your hearts.

Ralph. Lady, 'tis true; you need not lay your lips
To better nipitato than there is.

Pomp. And of a wild fowl he will often speak,
Which powdered-beef-and-mustard called is:
For there have been great wars 'twixt us and you;
But truly, Ralph, it was not 'long of me.
Tell me then, Ralph, could you contented be
To wear a lady's favour in your shield?

Ralph. I am a knight of a religious order,
And will not wear a favour of a lady
That trusts in Antichrist and false traditions.

[Cit. Well said, Ralph! convert her, if thou canst.]

Ralph. Besides, I have a lady of my own
In merry England, for whose virtuous sake
I took these arms; and Susan is her name,
A cobbler's maid in Milk Street; whom I vow
Ne'er to forsake whilst life and Pestle last.

Pomp. Happy that cobbling dame, whoe'er she be,
That for her own, dear Ralph, hath gotten thee!
Unhappy I, that ne'er shall see the day
To see thee more, that bear'st my heart away!

Ralph. Lady, farewell; I needs must take my leave.

Pomp. Hard-hearted Ralph, that ladies dost deceive!

[Cit. Hark thee, Ralph: there's money for thee [Gives money]; give something in the King of Cracovia's house; be not beholding to him.]

Ralph. Lady, before I go, I must remember
 Your father's officers, who truth to tell,
 Have been about me very diligent:
 Hold up thy snowy hand, thou princely maid!
 There's twelve-pence for your father's chamberlain;
 And another shilling for his cook,
 For, by my troth, the goose was roasted well;
 And twelve-pence for your father's horse-keeper,
 For 'nointing my horse-back, and for his butter
 There is another shilling; to the maid
 That washed my boot-hose there's an English groat
 And two-pence to the boy that wiped my boots;
 And last, fair lady, there is for yourself
 Three-pence, to buy you pins at Bumbo-fair.

Pomp. Full many thanks; and I will keep them safe
 Till all the heads be off, for thy sake, Ralph.

Ralph. Advance, my squire and dwarf! I cannot stay.

Pomp. Thou kill'st my heart in passing thus away.

[Exeunt.

[Wife. I commend Ralph yet, that he will not stoop to a Cracovian; there's properer women in London than any are there, I-wis.]

SCENE III.—A Room in the House of Venturewell.

Enter VENTUREWELL, HUMPHREY, LUCE, and Boy.

[Wife. But here comes Master Humphrey and his love again now, George.

Cit. Ay, cony; peace.]

Vent. Go, get you up; I will not be entreated;
 And, gossip mine, I'll keep you sure hereafter
 From gadding out again with boys and unthrifths:
 Come, they are women's tears; I know your fashion.—
 Go, sirrah, lock her in, and keep the key
 Safe as you love your life. [Exeunt Luce and Boy.

Now, my son Humphrey,
 You may both rest assured of my love
 In this, and reap your own desire.

Hum. I see this love you speak of, through your daughter,
 Although the hole be little; and hereafter
 Will yield the like in all I may or can,
 Fitting a Christian and a gentleman.

Vent. I do believe you, my good son, and thank you;
For 'twere an impudence to think you flattered.

Hum. It were, indeed; but shall I tell you why?
I have been beaten twice about the lie.

Vent. Well, son, no more of compliment. My daughter
Is yours again: appoint the time and take her;
We'll have no stealing for it; I myself
And some few of our friends will see you married.

Hum. I would you would, i'faith! for, be it known,
I ever was afraid to lie alone.

Vent. Some three days hence, then.

Hum. Three days! let me see:
'Tis somewhat of the most; yet I agree,
Because I mean against the appointed day
To visit all my friends in new array.

Enter Servant.

Serv. Sir, there's a gentlewoman without would speak with your worship.

Vent. What is she?

Serv. Sir, I asked her not.

Vent. Bid her come in.

[Exit Servant.]

Enter Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT and MICHAEL.

Mist. Mer. Peace be to your worship! I come as a poor suitor to you, sir, in the behalf of this child.

Vent. Are you not wife to Merrythought?

Mist. Mer. Yes, truly. Would I had ne'er seen his eyes! he has undone me and himself and his children; and there he lives at home, and sings and hoits and revels among his drunken companions! but, I warrant you, where to get a penny to put bread in his mouth he knows not:
and therefore, if it like your worship, I would entreat your letter to the honest host of the Bell in Waltham, that I may place my child under the protection of his tapster, in some settled course of life.

Vent. I'm glad the heavens have heard my prayers. Thy husband,

When I was ripe in sorrows, laughed at me;
Thy son, like an unthankful wretch, I having Redeemed him from his fall, and made him mine,
To show his love again, first stole my daughter,

Then wronged this gentleman, and, last of all,
 Gave me that grief had almost brought me down
 Unto my grave, had not a stronger hand
 Relieved my sorrows. Go, and weep as I did,
 And be unpitied; for I here profess
 An everlasting hate to all thy name.

Mist. Mer. Will you so, sir? how say you by that?—Come,
 Mick; let him keep his wind to cool his pottage. We'll go to thy nurse's, Mick: she knits silk stockings, boy; and we'll knit too, boy, and be beholding to none of them all. [Exit with Michael.]

Enter Boy.

Boy. Sir, I take it you are the master of this house.

Vent. How then, boy!

Boy. Then to yourself, sir, comes this letter. [Gives letter.]

Vent. From whom, my pretty boy?

Boy. From him that was your servant; but no more
 Shall that name ever be, for he is dead:
 Grief of your purchased anger broke his heart.
 I saw him die, and from his hand received
 This paper, with a charge to bring it hither:
 Read it, and satisfy yourself in all.

Vent. [Reads.] Sir, that I have wronged your love I must confess; in which I have purchased to myself, besides mine own undoing, the ill opinion of my friends. Let not your anger, good sir, outlive me, but suffer me to rest in peace with your forgiveness: let my body (if a dying man may so much prevail with you) be brought to your daughter, that she may truly know my hot flames are now buried, and withal receive a testimony of the zeal I bore her virtue. Farewell for ever, and be ever happy! JASPER.

God's hand is great in this: I do forgive him;
 Yet I am glad he's quiet, where I hope
 He will not bite again.—Boy, bring the body,
 And let him have his will, if that be all.

Boy. 'Tis here without, sir.

Vent. So, sir; if you please,
 You may conduct it in; I do not fear it.

Hum. I'll be your usher, boy; for, though I say it,
 He owed me something once, and well did pay it.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—Another Room in the House of Venturewell.

Enter Luce.

Luce. If there be any punishment inflicted Upon the miserable, more than yet I feel,
Let it together seize me, and at once
Press down my soul! I cannot bear the pain
Of these delaying tortures.—Thou that art
The end of all, and the sweet rest of all,
Come, come, oh, Death! bring me to thy peace,
And blot out all the memory I nourish
Both of my father and my cruel friend!—
Oh, wretched maid, still living to be wretched,
To be a say to Fortune in her changes,
And grow to number times and woes together!
How happy had I been, if, being born,
My grave had been my cradle!

Enter Servant.

Serv. By your leave,
Young mistress; here's a boy hath brought a coffin:
What 'a would say, I know not; but your father
Charged me to give you notice. Here they come.
[Exit.]

Enter Boy, and two Men bearing a Coffin.

Luce. For me I hope 'tis come, and 'tis most welcome.

Boy. Fair mistress, let me not add greater grief
To that great store you have already. Jasper
(That whilst he lived was yours, now dead
And here enclosed) commanded me to bring
His body hither, and to crave a tear
From those fair eyes (though he deserved not pity),
To deck his funeral; for so he bid me
Tell her for whom he died.

Luce. He shall have many.—

Good friends, depart a little, whilst I take
My leave of this dead man, that once I loved.

[Exeunt Boy and Men.]

Hold yet a little, life! and then I give thee
 To thy first heavenly being. Oh, my friend!
 Hast thou deceived me thus, and got before me?
 I shall not long be after. But, believe me,
 Thou wert too cruel, Jasper, 'gainst thyself,
 In punishing the fault I could have pardoned,
 With so untimely death: thou didst not wrong me,
 But ever wert most kind, most true, most loving;
 And I the most unkind, most false, most cruel!
 Didst thou but ask a tear? I'll give thee all,
 Even all my eyes can pour down, all my sighs,
 And all myself, before thou goest from me:
 These are but sparing rites; but if thy soul
 Be yet about this place, and can behold
 And see what I prepare to deck thee with,
 It shall go up, borne on the wings of peace,
 And satisfied. First will I sing thy dirge,
 Then kiss thy pale lips, and then die myself,
 And fill one coffin and one grave together. [Sings.

Come, you whose loves are dead,
 And, whiles I sing,
 Weep, and wring
 Every hand, and every head
 Bind with cypress and sad yew;
 Ribands black and candles blue
 For him that was of men most true!

Come with heavy moaning,
 And on his grave
 Let him have
 Sacrifice of sighs and groaning;
 Let him have fair flowers enow,
 White and purple, green and yellow,
 For him that was of men most true!

Thou sable cloth, sad cover of my joys,
 I lift thee up, and thus I meet with death.

[Removes the Cloth, and Jasper rises out of the Coffin.

Jasp. And thus you meet the living.

Luce. Save me, Heaven!

Jasp. Nay, do not fly me, fair; I am no spirit:
 Look better on me; do you know me yet?

Luce. Oh, thou dear shadow of my friend!

Jasp. Dear substance;
 I swear I am no shadow; feel my hand,
 It is the same it was; I am your Jasper,
 Your Jasper that's yet living, and yet loving.

Pardon my rash attempt, my foolish proof
 I put in practice of your constancy;
 For sooner should my sword have drunk my blood,
 And set my soul at liberty, than drawn
 The least drop from that body: for which boldness
 Doom me to anything; if death, I take it,
 And willingly.

Luce. This death I'll give you for it; [Kisses him.
 So, now I am satisfied you are no spirit,
 But my own truest, truest, truest friend:
 Why do you come thus to me?

Jasp. First, to see you;
 Then to convey you hence.

Luce. It cannot be;
 For I am locked up here, and watched at all hours,
 That 'tis impossible for me to scape.

Jasp. Nothing more possible. Within this coffin
 Do you convey yourself: let me alone,
 I have the wits of twenty men about me;
 Only I crave the shelter of your closet
 A little, and then fear me not. Creep in,
 That they may presently convey you hence:
 Fear nothing, dearest love; I'll be your second;
 [Luce lies down in the Coffin, and Jasper covers her with the cloth.

Lie close: so; all goes well yet.—Boy!

Re-enter Boy and Men.

Boy. At hand, sir.

Jasp. Convey away the coffin, and be wary.

Boy. 'Tis done already. [Exeunt Men with the Coffin.

Jasp. Now must I go conjure. [Exit into a Closet.

Enter VENTUREWELL.

Vent. Boy, boy!

Boy. Your servant, sir.

Vent. Do me this kindness, boy; (hold, here's a crown;)
 Before thou bury the body of this fellow,
 Carry it to his old merry father, and salute him
 From me, and bid him sing; he hath cause.

Boy. I will, sir.

Vent. And then bring me word what tune he is in,

And have another crown; but do it truly.

I have fitted him a bargain now will vex him.

Boy. God bless your worship's health, sir!

Vent. Farewell, boy!

[Exeunt severally.]

SCENE V.—A Street before Merrythought's House.

Enter MERRYTHOUGHT.

[Wife. Ah, old Merrythought, art thou there again? let's hear some of thy songs.]

Mer. [Sings.]

Who can sing a merrier note
Than he that cannot change a groat?

Not a denier left, and yet my heart leaps: I do wonder yet, as old as I am, that any man will follow a trade, or serve, that may sing and laugh, and walk the streets. My wife and both my sons are I know not where; I have nothing left, nor know I how to come by meat to supper; yet am I merry still, for I know I shall find it upon the table at six o'clock; therefore, hang thought! [Sings.]

I would not be a serving-man
To carry the cloak-bag still,
Nor would I be a falconer
The greedy hawks to fill;
But I would be in a good house,
And have a good master too;
But I would eat and drink of the best,
And no work would I do.

This it is that keeps life and soul together, mirth; this is the philosopher's stone that they write so much on, that keeps a man ever young.

Enter Boy.

Boy. Sir, they say they know all your money is gone, and they will trust you for no more drink.

Mer. Will they not? let 'em choose! The best is, I have mirth at home, and need not send abroad for that; let them keep their drink to themselves. [Sings.]

For Julian of Berry, she dwells on a hill,
And she hath good beer and ale to sell,
And of good fellows she thinks no ill;
And thither will we go now, now, now,
And thither will we go now.

And when you have made a little stay,
 You need not ask what is to pay,
 But kiss your hostess, and go your way;
 And thither will we go now, now, now,
 And thither will we go now.

Enter another Boy.

2nd Boy. Sir, I can get no bread for supper.

Mer. Hang bread and supper! let's preserve our mirth, and we shall never feel hunger, I'll warrant you. Let's have a catch, boys; follow me, come. [They sing.

Ho, ho, nobody at home!
 Meat, nor drink, nor money ha' we none.
 Fill the pot, Eedy,
 Never more need I.

Mer. So, boys; enough. Follow me: Let's change our place, and we shall laugh afresh. [Exeunt.

[Wife. Let him go, George; 'a shall not have any countenance from us, nor a good word from any i' the company, if I may strike stroke in't.

Cit. No more 'a sha'not, love. But, Nell, I will have Ralph do a very notable matter now, to the eternal honour and glory of all grocers.—Sirrah! you there, boy! Can none of you hear?

Enter Boy.

Boy. Sir, your pleasure?

Cit. Let Ralph come out on May-day in the morning, and speak upon a conduit, with all his scarfs about him, and his feathers, and his rings, and his knacks.

Boy. Why, sir, you do not think of our plot; what will become of that, then?

Cit. Why, sir, I care not what become on't: I'll have him come out, or I'll fetch him out myself; I'll have something done in honour of the city: besides, he hath been long enough upon adventures. Bring him out quickly; or, if I come in amongst you——

Boy. Well, sir, he shall come out, but if our play miscarry, sir, you are like to pay for't.

Cit. Bring him away then! [Exit Boy.

Wife. This will be brave, i'faith! George, shall not he dance the morris too, for the credit of the Strand?

Cit. No, sweetheart, it will be too much for the boy. Oh, there he is, Nell! he's reasonable well in reparel: but he has not rings enough.]

Enter RALPH, dressed as a May-lord.

Ralph. London, to thee I do present the merry month of May;

Let each true subject be content to hear me what I say:
For from the top of conduit-head, as plainly may appear,
I will both tell my name to you, and wherefore I came here.

My name is Ralph, by due descent though not ignoble I
Yet far inferior to the stock of gracious grocery;
And by the common counsel of my fellows in the Strand,
With gilded staff and crossèd scarf, the May-lord here I stand.

Rejoice, oh, English hearts, rejoice! rejoice, oh, lovers
dear!

Rejoice, oh, city, town, and country! rejoice, eke every shere!

For now the fragrant flowers do spring and sprout in seemly sort,

The little birds do sit and sing, the lambs do make fine
sport;

And now the birchen-tree doth bud, that makes the schoolboy cry;

The morris rings, while hobby-horse doth foot it
feateously;

The lords and ladies now abroad, for their disport and play,

Do kiss sometimes upon the grass, and sometimes in the hay;

Now butter with a leaf of sage is good to purge the blood;

Fly Venus and phlebotomy, for they are neither good;
Now little fish on tender stone begin to cast their bellies,
And sluggish snails, that erst were mewed, do creep out of their shellies;

The rumbling rivers now do warm, for little boys to paddle;

The sturdy steed now goes to grass, and up they hang his saddle;

The heavy hart, the bellowing buck, the rascal, and the pricket,

Are now among the yeoman's peas, and leave the fearful thicket:

And be like them, oh, you, I say, of this same noble town,
 And lift aloft your velvet heads, and slipping off your gown,
 With bells on legs, and napkins clean unto your shoulders tied,
 With scarfs and garters as you please, and "Hey for our town!" cried.
 March out, and show your willing minds, by twenty and by twenty,
 To Hogsdon or to Newington, where ale and cakes are plenty;
 And let it ne'er be said for shame, that we the youths of London
 Lay thrumming of our caps at home, and left our custom undone.
 Up, then, I say, both young and old, both man and maid a-maying,
 With drums, and guns that bounce aloud, and merry tabor playing!
 Which to prolong, God save our king, and send his country peace,
 And root out treason from the land! and so, my friends,
 I cease. [Exit.]

ACT V

SCENE I.—A Room in the House of Venturewell.Enter VENTUREWELL.

Vent. I will have no great store of company at the wedding; a couple of neighbours and their wives; and we will have a capon in stewed broth, with marrow, and a good piece of beef stuck with rosemary.

Enter JASPER, with his Face mealed.

Jasp. Forbear thy pains, fond man! it is too late.

Vent. Heaven bless me! Jasper!

Jasp. Ay, I am his ghost,

Whom thou hast injured for his constant love;
 Fond worldly wretch! who dost not understand
 In death that true hearts cannot parted be.

First know, thy daughter is quite borne away
 On wings of angels, through the liquid air,
 To far out of thy reach, and never more
 Shalt thou behold her face: but she and I
 Will in another world enjoy our loves;
 Where neither father's anger, poverty,
 Nor any cross that troubles earthly men,
 Shall make us sever our united hearts.

And never shalt thou sit or be alone
 In any place, but I will visit thee
 With ghastly looks, and put into thy mind
 The great offences which thou didst to me:
 When thou art at thy table with thy friends,
 Merry in heart, and filled with swelling wine,
 I'll come in midst of all thy pride and mirth,
 Invisible to all men but thyself,
 And whisper such a sad tale in thine ear
 Shall make thee let the cup fall from thy hand,
 And stand as mute and pale as death itself.

Vent. Forgive me, Jasper! Oh, what might I do,
 Tell me, to satisfy thy troubled ghost?

Jasp. There is no means; too late thou think'st of this.

Vent. But tell me what were best for me to do?

Jasp. Repent thy deed, and satisfy my father,
 And beat fond Humphrey out of thy doors. [Exit.

[Wife. Look, George; his very ghost would have folks beaten.]

Enter HUMPHREY.

Hum. Father, my bride is gone, fair Mistress Luce:

My soul's the fount of vengeance, mischief's sluice.

Vent. Hence, fool, out of my sight with thy fond passion!
 Thou hast undone me. [Beats him.

Hum. Hold, my father dear,
 For Luce thy daughter's sake, that had no peer!

Vent. Thy father, fool! there's some blows more; begone.—
[Beats him.

Jasper, I hope thy ghost be well appeased
 To see thy will performed. Now will I go
 To satisfy thy father for thy wrongs. [Aside and exit.

Hum. What shall I do? I have been beaten twice,
 And Mistress Luce is gone. Help me, device!
 Since my true love is gone, I never more,

Whilst I do live, upon the sky will pore;
But in the dark will wear out my shoe-soles

In passion in Saint Faith's church under Paul's. [Exit.

[Wife. George, call Ralph hither; if you love me, call Ralph hither: I have the bravest thing for him to do, George; prithee, call him quickly.

Cit. Ralph! why, Ralph, boy!

Enter RALPH.

Ralph. Here, sir.

Cit. Come hither, Ralph; come to thy mistress, boy.

Wife. Ralph, I would have thee call all the youths together in battle-ray, with drums, and guns, and flags, and march to Mile-End in pompous fashion, and there exhort your soldiers to be merry and wise, and to keep their beards from burning, Ralph; and then skirmish, and let your flags fly, and cry, "Kill, kill, kill!" My husband shall lend you his jerkin, Ralph, and there's a scarf; for the rest, the house shall furnish you, and we'll pay for't. Do it bravely, Ralph; and think before whom you perform, and what person you represent.

Ralph. I warrant you, mistress; if I do it not, for the honour of the city and the credit of my master, let me never hope for freedom!

Wife. 'Tis well spoken, i'faith. Go thy ways; thou art a spark indeed.

Cit. Ralph, Ralph, double your files bravely, Ralph!

Ralph. I warrant you, sir.

[Exit.

Cit. Let him look narrowly to his service; I shall take him else. I was there myself a pikeman once, in the hottest of the day, wench; had my feather shot sheer away, the fringe of my pike burnt off with powder, my pate broken with a scouring-stick, and yet, I thank God, I am here.

Wife. Hark, George, the drums!

Cit. Ran, tan, tan, tan, tan, tan! Oh, wench, an thou hadst but seen little Ned of Aldgate, Drum-Ned, how he made it roar again, and laid on like a tyrant, and then struck softly till the ward came up, and then thundered again, and together we go! "Sa, sa, sa, bounce!" quoth the guns; "Courage, my hearts!" quoth the captains; "Saint George!" quoth the pikemen; and withal, here they lay: and there they lay: and yet for all this I am here, wench.

Wife. Be thankful for it, George; for indeed 'tis wonderful.]

SCENE II.—A Street (and afterwards Mile End).

Enter RALPH and Company of Soldiers (among whom are WILLIAM HAMMERTON and GEORGE GREENGOOSE), with drums and colours.

Ralph. March fair, my hearts! Lieutenant, beat the rear up.—Ancient, let your colours fly; but have a great care of the butcher's hooks at Whitechapel; they have been the death of many a fair ancient.—Open your files, that I may take a view both of your persons and munition.—Sergeant, call a muster.

Serg. A stand!—William Hammerton, pewterer!

Ham. Here, captain!

Ralph. A corselet and a Spanish pike; 'tis well: can you shake it with a terror?

Ham. I hope so, captain.

Ralph. Charge upon me. [He charges on Ralph.]—'Tis with the weakest: but more strength, William Hammerton, more strength. As you were again!—Proceed, Sergeant.

Serg. George Greengoose, poulterer!

Green. Here!

Ralph. Let me see your piece, neighbour Greengoose: when was she shot in?

Green. An't like you, master captain, I made a shot even now, partly to scour her, and partly for audacity.

Ralph. It should seem so certainly, for her breath is yet inflamed; besides, there is a main fault in the touch-hole, it runs and stinketh; and I tell you moreover, and believe it, ten such touch-holes would breed the pox in the army. Get you a feather, neighbour, get you a feather, sweet oil, and paper, and your piece may do well enough yet. Where's your powder?

Green. Here.

Ralph. What, in a paper! as I am a soldier and a gentleman, it craves a martial court! you ought to die for't. Where's your horn? answer me to that.

Green. An't like you, sir, I was oblivious.

Ralph. It likes me not you should be so; 'tis a shame for you, and a scandal to all our neighbours, being a man of worth and estimation, to leave your horn behind you: I am afraid 'twill breed example. But let me tell you no more on't.—Stand, till I view you all.—What's become o' the nose of your flask?

1st Sold. Indeed, la, captain, 'twas blown away with powder.

Ralph. Put on a new one at the city's charge.—Where's the stone of this piece?

2nd Sold. The drummer took it out to light tobacco.

Ralph. 'Tis a fault, my friend; put it in again.—You want a nose,—and you a stone.—Sergeant, take a note on't, for I mean to stop it in the pay.—Remove, and march! [They march.] Soft and fair, gentlemen, soft and fair! double your files! as you were! faces about! Now, you with the sodden face, keep in there! Look to your match, sirrah, it will be in your fellow's flask anon. So; make a crescent now; advance your pikes; stand and give ear!—Gentlemen, countrymen, friends, and my fellow-soldiers, I have brought you this day, from the shops of security and the counters of content, to measure out in these furious fields honour by the ell, and prowess by the pound. Let it not, oh, let it not, I say, be told hereafter, the noble issue of this city fainted; but bear yourselves in this fair action like men, valiant men, and free men! Fear not the face of the enemy, nor the noise of the guns, for, believe me, brethren, the rude rumbling of a brewer's cart is far more terrible, of which you have a daily experience; neither let the stink of powder offend you, since a more valiant stink is nightly with you.

To a resolvèd mind his home is everywhere:

I speak not this to take away

The hope of your return; for you shall see

(I do not doubt it) and that very shortly

Your loving wives again and your sweet children,

Whose care doth bear you company in baskets.

Remember, then, whose cause you have in hand,

And, like a sort of true-born scavengers,

Scour me this famous realm of enemies.

I have no more to say but this: stand to your tacklings, lads, and show to the world you can as well brandish a sword as shake an apron. Saint George, and on, my hearts!

All. Saint George, Saint George!

[Exeunt.]

[Wife. 'Twas well done, Ralph! I'll send thee a cold capon a-field and a bottle of March beer; and, it may be, come myself to see thee.

Cit. Nell, the boy hath deceived me much; I did not think it had been in him. He has performed such a matter, wench, that, if I live, next year I'll have him captain of the galley-foist, or I'll want my will.]

SCENE III.—A Room in Merrythought's House.

Enter MERRYTHOUGHT.

Mer. Yet, I thank God, I break not a wrinkle more than I had. Not a stoop, boys? Care, live with cats: I defy thee! My heart is as sound as an oak; and though I want drink to wet my whistle, I can sing; [Sings.

Come no more there, boys, come no more there;
For we shall never whilst we live come any more there.

Enter Boy, and two Men bearing a Coffin.

Boy. God save you, sir!

Mer. It's a brave boy. Canst thou sing?

Boy. Yes, sir, I can sing; but 'tis not so necessary at this time.

Mer. [Sings.]

Sing we, and chant it;
Whilst love doth grant it.

Boy. Sir, sir, if you knew what I have brought you, you would have little list to sing.

Mer. [Sings.]

Oh, the Mimon round,
Full long I have thee sought,
And now I have thee found,
And what hast thou here brought?

Boy. A coffin, sir, and your dead son Jasper in it.

[Exit with Men.

Mer. Dead! [Sings.]

Why, farewell he!
Thou wast a bonny boy,
And I did love thee.

Enter JASPER.

Jasp. Then, I pray you, sir, do so still.

Mer. Jasper's ghost!

[Sings.

Thou art welcome from Stygian lake so soon;
Declare to me what wondrous things in Pluto's court are done.

Jasp. By my troth, sir, I ne'er came there; 'tis too hot for me, sir.

Mer. A merry ghost, a very merry ghost!

[Sings.

And where is your true love? Oh, where is yours?

Jasp. Marry, look you, sir!

[Removes the cloth, and Luce rises out of the Coffin.

Mer. Ah, ha! art thou good at that, i'faith?

[Sings.

With hey, trixy, terlery-whiskin,
The world it runs on wheels;
When the young man's ———,
Up goes the maiden's heels.

Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT and MICHAEL within.

Mist. Mer. [within.] What, Master Merrythought! will you not let's in? what do you think shall become of us?

Mer. [Sings.]

What voice is that that calleth at our door?

Mist. Mer. [within.] You know me well enough; I am sure I have not been such a stranger to you.

Mer. [Sings.]

And some they whistled, and some they sung,
Hey, down, down!
And some did loudly say,
Ever as the Lord Barnet's horn blew,
Away, Musgrave, away!

Mist. Mer. [within.] You will not have us starve here, will you, Master Merrythought?

Jasp. Nay, good sir, be persuaded; she is my mother:
If her offences have been great against you,
Let your own love remember she is yours,
And so forgive her.

Luce. Good Master Merrythought,
Let me entreat you; I will not be denied.

Mist. Mer. [within.] Why, Master Merrythought, will you be a vexed thing still?

Mer. Woman, I take you to my love again; but you shall sing before you enter; therefore despatch your song and so come in.

Mist. Mer. [within.] Well, you must have your will, when all's done.—Mick, what song canst thou sing, boy?

Mich. [within.] I can sing none, forsooth, but "A Lady's Daughter, of Paris properly," [Sings within.

It was a lady's daughter, etc.

MERRYTHOUGHT opens the Door; enter Mistress MERRYTHOUGHT and MICHAEL.

Mer. Come, you're welcome home again. [Sings.

If such danger be in playing,
And jest must to earnest turn,
You shall go no more a-maying—

Vent. [within.] Are you within, sir? Master Merrythought!

Jasp. It is my master's voice: good sir, go hold him

In talk, whilst we convey ourselves into

Some inward room.

[Exit with Luce.

Mer. What are you? are you merry?

You must be very merry, if you enter.

Vent. [within.] I am, sir.

Mer. Sing, then.

Vent. [within.] Nay, good sir, open to me.

Mer. Sing, I say,

Or, by the merry heart, you come not in!

Vent. [within.] Well, sir, I'll sing.

[Sings.

Fortune, my foe, etc.

MERRYTHOUGHT opens the Door: Enter VENTUREWELL.

Mer. You are welcome, sir, you are welcome: you see your entertainment; pray you, be merry.

Vent. Oh, Master Merrythought, I'm come to ask you

Forgiveness for the wrongs I offered you,

And your most virtuous son! they're infinite;

Yet my contrition shall be more than they:

I do confess my hardness broke his heart,

For which just Heaven hath given me punishment

More than my age can carry; his wandering spirit,

Nor yet at rest, pursues me everywhere,

Crying, "I'll haunt thee for thy cruelty."

My daughter, she is gone, I know not how,
 Taken invisible, and whether living
 Or in the grave, 'tis yet uncertain to me.
 Oh, Master Merrythought, these are the weights
 Will sink me to my grave! forgive me, sir.

Mer. Why, sir, I do forgive you; and be merry;
 And if the wag in's lifetime played the knave,
 Can you forgive him too?

Vent. With all my heart, sir.

Mer. Speak it again, and heartily.

Vent. I do, sir;
 Now, by my soul, I do.

Re-enter LUCE and JASPER.

Mer. [Sings.]

With that came out his paramour;
 She was as white as the lily flower:
 Hey, trou, trol, loly!
 With that came out her own dear knight;
 He was as true as ever did fight, etc.

Sir, if you will forgive 'em, clap their hands together;
 there's no more to be said i' the matter.

Vent. I do, I do.

[Cit. I do not like this. Peace, boys! Hear me, one of you:
 everybody's part is come to an end but Ralph's, and he's left out.

Boy. 'Tis 'long of yourself, sir; we have nothing to do with his part.

Cit. Ralph, come away!—Make an end on him, as you have done of the rest, boys; come.

Wife. Now, good husband, let him come out and die.

Cit. He shall, Nell.—Ralph, come away quickly, and die, boy!

Boy. 'Twill be very unfit he should die, sir, upon no occasion
 —and in a comedy too.

Cit. Take you no care of that, sir boy; is not his part at an end, think you, when he's dead?—Come away, Ralph!]

Enter RALPH, with a forked Arrow through his Head.

Ralph. When I was mortal, this my costive corps
 Did lap up figs and raisins in the Strand;
 Where sitting, I espied a lovely dame,
 Whose master wrought with lingel and with awl,

And underground he vampèd many a boot.
 Straight did her love prick forth me, tender sprig,
 To follow feats of arms in warlike wise
 Through Waltham desert; where I did perform
 Many achievements, and did lay on ground
 Huge Barbarossa, that insulting giant,
 And all his captives soon set at liberty.
 Then honour pricked me from my native soil
 Into Moldavia, where I gained the love
 Of Pompiona, his belovèd daughter;
 But yet proved constant to the black thumbèd maid
 Susan, and scornèd Pompiona's love;
 Yet liberal I was, and gave her pins,
 And money for her father's officers.
 I then returnèd home, and thrust myself
 In action, and by all men chosen was
 Lord of the May, where I did flourish it,
 With scarfs and rings, and posy in my hand.
 After this action I preferèd was,
 And chosen city-captain at Mile End,
 With hat and feather, and with leading-staff,
 And trained my men, and brought them all off clear,
 Save one man that berayed him with the noise.
 But all these things I Ralph did undertake
 Only for my belovèd Susan's sake.
 Then coming home, and sitting in my shop
 With apron blue, Death came into my stall
 To cheapen aquavitæ; but ere I
 Could take the bottle down and fill a taste,
 Death caught a pound of pepper in his hand,
 And sprinkled all my face and body o'er
 And in an instant vanishèd away.

[Cit. 'Tis a pretty fiction, i'faith.]

Ralph. Then took I up my bow and shaft in hand,
 And walked into Moorfields to cool myself:
 But there grim cruel Death met me again,
 And shot this forkèd arrow through my head;
 And now I faint; therefore be warned by me,
 My fellows every one, of forkèd heads!
 Farewell, all you good boys in merry London!
 Ne'er shall we more upon Shrove Tuesday meet,
 And pluck down houses of iniquity;—
 My pain increaseth;—I shall never more

Hold open, whilst another pumps both legs,
 Nor daub a satin gown with rotten eggs;
 Set up a stake, oh, never more I shall!
 I die! fly, fly, my soul, to Grocers' Hall!
 Oh, oh, oh, etc.

[Wife. Well said, Ralph! do your obeisance to the gentlemen, and go your ways: well said, Ralph!]

[Ralph rises, makes obeisance, and exit.]

Mer. Methinks all we, thus kindly and unexpectedly reconciled, should not depart without a song.

Vent. A good motion.

Mer. Strike up, then!

SONG.

Better music ne'er was known
 Than a quire of hearts in one.
 Let each other, that hath been Troubled with the gall or spleen,
 Learn of us to keep his brow
 Smooth and plain, as ours are now:
 Sing, though before the hour of dying;
 He shall rise, and then be crying,
 "Hey, ho, 'tis nought but mirth
 That keeps the body from the earth!"

[Exeunt.]

Cit. Come, Nell, shall we go? the play's done.

Wife. Nay, by my faith, George, I have more manners than so; I'll speak to these gentlemen first.—I thank you all, gentlemen, for your patience and countenance to Ralph, a poor fatherless child; and if I might see you at my house, it should go hard but I would have a bottle of wine and a pipe of tobacco for you: for, truly, I hope you do like the youth, but I would be glad to know the truth; I refer it to your own discretions, whether you will applaud him or no; for I will wink, and whilst you shall do what you will. I thank you with all my heart. God give you good night!—Come, George. [Exeunt.]

SCENE.—THE CITY OF RHODES.

ACT I

SCENE I.—An Apartment in the Palace.

Enter CLEON, STRATO, LYSIPPUS, and DIPHILUS.

Cleon. The rest are making ready, sir.

Lys. So let them;

There's time enough.

Diph. You are the brother to the king, my lord;

We'll take your word.

Lys. Strato, thou hast some skill in poetry:

What think'st thou of the masque? will it be well?

Strat. As well as masque can be.

Lys. As masque can be?

Strat. Yes; they must commend their king, and speak in praise

Of the assembly; bless the bride and bridegroom

In person of some god. They are tied to rules

Of flattery.

Cle. See, good my lord, who is return'd!

Enter MELANTIUS.

Lys. Noble Melantius! the land, by me,
Welcomes thy virtues home to Rhodes.

Thou, that with blood abroad buy'st us our peace!
 The breath of kings is like the breath of gods;
 My brother wish'd thee here, and thou art here.
 He will be too kind, and weary thee
 With often welcomes. But the time doth give thee
 A welcome above his, or all the world's.

Mel. My lord, my thanks; but these scratch'd limbs of mine
 Have spoke my love and truth unto my friends,
 More than my tongue e'er could. My mind's the same
 It ever was to you: Where I find worth,
 I love the keeper till he let it go,
 And then I follow it.

Diph. Hail, worthy brother!
 He, that rejoices not at your return
 In safety, is mine enemy for ever.

Mel. I thank thee, Diphilus. But thou art faulty;
 I sent for thee to exercise thine arms
 With me at Patria: Thou camest not, Diphilus;
 'Twas ill.

Diph. My noble brother, my excuse
 Is my king's strict command; which you, my lord,
 Can witness with me.

Lys. 'Tis true, Melantius;
 He might not come, till the solemnity
 Of this great match was past.

Diph. Have you heard of it?

Mel. Yes. I have given cause to those that envy
 My deeds abroad, to call me gamesome:
 I have no other business here at Rhodes.

Lys. We have a masque to-night, and you must tread
 A soldier's measure.

Mel. These soft and silken wars are not for me:
 The music must be shrill, and all confused,
 That stirs my blood; and then I dance with arms.
 But is Amintor wed?

Diph. This day.

Mel. All joys upon him! for he is my friend.
 Wonder not that I call a man so young my friend:
 His worth is great; valiant he is, and temperate;
 And one that never thinks his life his own,
 If his friend need it. When he was a boy,
 As oft as I returned (as, without boast,
 I brought home conquest) he would gaze upon me,

And view me round, to find in what one limb
 The virtue lay to do those things he heard.
 Then would he wish to see my sword, and feel
 The quickness of the edge, and in his hand
 Weigh it: He oft would make me smile at this.
 His youth did promise much, and his ripe years
 Will see it all perform'd.

Enter ASPATIA.

Hail, maid and wife!
 Thou fair Aspatia, may the holy knot
 That thou hast tied to-day, last till the hand
 Of age undo it! may'st thou bring a race
 Unto Amintor, that may fill the world
 Successively with soldiers!

Asp. My hard fortunes
 Deserve not scorn; for I was never proud
 When they were good.

[Exit.

Mel. How's this?

Lys. You are mistaken,
 For she is not married.

Mel. You said Amintor was.

Diph. 'Tis true; but—

Mel. Pardon me, I did receive Letters at Patria from my Amintor,
 That he should marry her.

Diph. And so it stood
 In all opinion long; but your arrival
 Made me imagine you had heard the change.

Mel. Who hath he taken then?

Lys. A lady, sir,
 That bears the light about her, and strikes dead
 With flashes of her eye: the fair Evadne,
 Your virtuous sister.

Mel. Peace of heart betwixt them!
 But this is strange.

Lys. The king my brother did it
 To honour you; and these solemnities
 Are at his charge.

Mel. 'Tis royal, like himself. But I am sad
 My speech bears so unfortunate a sound
 To beautiful Aspatia. There is rage

Hid in her father's breast, Calianax,
 Bent long against me; and he should not think,
 If I could call it back, that I would take
 So base revenges, as to scorn the state
 Of his neglected daughter. Holds he still
 His greatness with the king?

Lys. Yes. But this lady
 Walks discontented, with her watery eyes
 Bent on the earth. The unfrequented woods
 Are her delight; and when she sees a bank
 Stuck full of flowers, she with a sigh will tell
 Her servants what a pretty place it were
 To bury lovers in; and make her maids
 Pluck 'em, and strew her over like a corpse.
 She carries with her an infectious grief,
 That strikes all her beholders; she will sing
 The mournful'st things that ever ear hath heard,
 And sigh, and sing again; and when the rest
 Of our young ladies, in their wanton blood,
 Tell mirthful tales in course, that fill the room
 With laughter, she will, with so sad a look,
 Bring forth a story of the silent death
 Of some forsaken virgin, which her grief
 Will put in such a phrase, that, ere she end,
 She'll send them weeping, one by one, away.

Mel. She has a brother under my command,
 Like her; a face as womanish as hers;
 But with a spirit that hath much outgrown
 The number of his years.

Enter AMINTOR.

Cle. My lord, the bridegroom!

Mel. I might run fiercely, not more hastily,
 Upon my foe. I love thee well, Amintor;
 My mouth is much too narrow for my heart;
 I joy to look upon those eyes of thine;
 Thou art my friend, but my disorder'd speech
 Cuts off my love.

Amin. Thou art Melantius;
 All love is spoke in that. A sacrifice,
 To thank the gods Melantius is return'd
 In safety! Victory sits on his sword,

As she was wont: May she build there and dwell;
 And may thy armour be, as it hath been,
 Only thy valour and thine innocence!
 What endless treasures would our enemies give,
 That I might hold thee still thus!

Mel. I am but poor

In words; but credit me, young man, thy mother
 Could do no more but weep for joy to see thee
 After long absence: All the wounds I have Fetch'd not so much away, nor all the cries
 Of widowed mothers. But this is peace,
 And that was war.

Amin. Pardon, thou holy god

Of marriage bed, and frown not, I am forced,
 In answer of such noble tears as those,
 To weep upon my wedding-day.

Mel. I fear thou'rt grown too fickle; for I hear
 A lady mourns for thee; men say, to death;
 Forsaken of thee; on what terms I know not.

Amin. She had my promise; but the king forbade it,
 And made me make this worthy change, thy sister,
 Accompanied with graces far above her;
 With whom I long to lose my lusty youth,
 And grow old in her arms.

Mel. Be prosperous!

Enter Messenger.

Mess. My lord, the masquers rage for you.

Lys. We are gone. Cleon, Strato, Diphilus—

[Exeunt Lysippus, Cleon, Strato, and Diphilus.]

Amin. We'll all attend you.—We shall trouble you
 With our solemnities.

Mel. Not so, Amintor:

But if you laugh at my rude carriage
 In peace, I'll do as much for you in war,
 When you come thither. Yet I have a mistress
 To bring to your delights; rough though I am,
 I have a mistress, and she has a heart
 She says; but, trust me, it is stone, no better;
 There is no place that I can challenge in't.
 But you stand still, and here my way lies.

[Exeunt severally.]

SCENE II.—A large Hall in the same, with a Gallery full of Spectators.

Enter CALIANAX, with DIAGORAS at the Door.

Cal. Diagoras, look to the doors better for shame; you let in all the world, and anon the king will rail at me—why, very well said—by Jove, the king will have the show i' th' court.

Diag. Why do you swear so, my lord? You know, he'll have it here.

Cal. By this light, if he be wise, he will not.

Diag. And if he will not be wise, you are forsworn.

Cal. One may wear out his heart with swearing, and get thanks on no side. I'll be gone—look to't who will.

Diag. My lord, I shall never keep them out. Pray, stay; your looks will terrify them.

Cal. My looks terrify them, you coxcomby ass, you! I'll be judged by all the company whether thou hast not a worse face than I.

Diag. I mean, because they know you and your office.

Cal. Office! I would I could put it off; I am sure I sweat quite through my office. I might have made room at my daughter's wedding: they have near kill'd her among them; and now I must do service for him that hath forsaken her. Serve that will. [Exit.

Diag. He's so humorous since his daughter was forsaken—Hark, hark! there, there! so, so! Codes, codes! [Knock within.] What now?

Mel. [within.] Open the door.

Diag. Who's there?

Mel. [within.] Melantius.

Diag. I hope your lordship brings no troop with you; for, if you do, I must return them.

[Opens the door. Persons endeavour to rush in.

Enter MELANTIUS and a Lady.

Mel. None but this lady, sir.

Diag. The ladies are all placed above, save those that come in the king's troop: The best of Rhodes sit there, and there's room.

Mel. I thank you, sir.—When I have seen you placed, madam, I must attend the king; but, the masque done,

I'll wait on you again.

[Exit with the Lady into the gallery.]

Diag. Stand back there!—Room for my lord Melantius!— pray, bear back—this is no place for such youths and their trulls—let the doors shut again.—No!—do your heads itch? I'll scratch them for you. [Shuts the door.]—So, now thrust and hang. [Knocking.] Again!
who is't now?—I cannot blame my lord Calianax for going away: 'Would he were here! he would run raging among them, and break a dozen wiser heads than his own, in the twinkling of an eye.—What's the news now?
[Within.] I pray you, can you help me to the speech of the master-cook?

Diag. If I open the door, I'll cook some of your calves-heads.
Peace, rogues! [Knocking.]—Again! who is't?

Mel. [within.] Melantius.

Enter CALIANAX.

Cal. Let him not in.

Diag. O, my lord, I must.—Make room there for my lord.

Enter MELANTIUS.

Is your lady placed?

[To Melantius.]

Mel. Yes, sir.

I thank you.—My Lord Calianax, well met.
Your causeless hate to me, I hope, is buried.

Cal. Yes, I do service for your sister here,
That brings my own poor child to timeless death;
She loves your friend Amintor; such another
False-hearted lord as you.

Mel. You do me wrong,
A most unmanly one, and I am slow
In taking vengeance! But be well advised.

Cal. It may be so.—Who placed the lady there,
So near the presence of the king?

Mel. I did.

Cal. My lord, she must not sit there.

Mel. Why?

Cal. The place is kept for women of more worth.

Mel. More worth than she? It misbecomes your age,
And place, to be thus womanish. Forbear!

What you have spoke, I am content to think
The palsy shook your tongue to.

Cal. Why, 'tis well.

If I stand here to place men's wenchers.

Mel. I shall forget this place, thy age, my safety,
And, thorough all, cut that poor sickly week,
Thou hast to live, away from thee.

Cal. Nay, I know you can fight for your whore.

Mel. Bate the king, and be he flesh and blood,
He lies, that says it! Thy mother at fifteen
Was black and sinful to her.

Diag. Good my lord!

Mel. Some god pluck threescore years from that fond man,
That I may kill him and not stain mine honour.
It is the curse of soldiers, that in peace
They shall be braved by such ignoble men,
As, if the land were troubled, would with tears
And knees beg succour from 'em. 'Would, that blood,
That sea of blood, that I have lost in fight,
Were running in thy veins, that it might make thee
Apt to say less, or able to maintain,
Should'st thou say more! This Rhodes, I see, is nought
But a place privileged to do men wrong.

Cal. Ay, you may say your pleasure.

Enter AMINTOR.

Amin. What vile injury
Has stirr'd my worthy friend, who is as slow
To fight with words as he is quick of hand?

Mel. That heap of age, which I should reverence
If it were temperate; but testy years
Are most contemptible.

Amin. Good sir, forbear.

Cal. There is just such another as yourself.

Amin. He will wrong you, or me, or any man,
And talk as if he had no life to lose,
Since this our match. The king is coming in:
I would not for more wealth than I enjoy,
He should perceive you raging. He did hear
You were at difference now, which hastened him.

Cal. Make room there! [Hautboys play within.]

Enter KING, EVADNE, ASPATIA, Lords, and Ladies.

King. Melantius, thou art welcome, and my love
Is with thee still: But this is not a place
To brabble in. Calianax, join hands.

Cal. He shall not have my hand.

King. This is no time
To force you to it. I do love you both:
Calianax, you look well to your office;
And you, Melantius, are welcome home.—
Begin the masque!

Mel. Sister, I joy to see you, and your choice.
You look'd with my eyes when you took that man:
Be happy in him! [Recorders play.]

Evad. O, my dearest brother!
Your presence is more joyful than this day
Can be unto me.

THE MASQUE.

NIGHT rises in mists.

Night. Our reign is come; for in the raging sea
The sun is drown'd, and with him fell the Day.
Bright Cynthia, hear my voice; I am the Night,
For whom thou bear'st about thy borrow'd light.
Appear; no longer thy pale visage shroud,
But strike thy silver horns quite through a cloud
And send a beam upon my swarthy face;
By which I may discover all the place
And persons, and how many longing eyes
Are come to wait on our solemnities.

Enter CYNTHIA.

How dull and black am I! I could not find
This beauty without thee, I am so blind.
Methinks, they show like to those eastern streaks
That warn us hence, before the morning breaks!
Back, my pale servant, for these eyes know how
To shoot far more and quicker rays than thou.

Cynth. Great queen, they be a troop for whom alone
One of my clearest moons I have put on;
A troop, that looks as if thyself and I

Had pluck'd our reins in, and our whips laid by,
To gaze upon these mortals, that appear
Brighter than we.

Night. Then let us keep 'em here;
And never more our chariots drive away,
But hold our places and outshine the day.

Cynth. Great queen of shadows, you are pleased to speak
Of more than may be done: We may not break
The gods' decrees; but, when our time is come,
Must drive away, and give the day our room.
Yet, while our reign lasts, let us stretch our power
To give our servants one contented hour,
With such unwonted solemn grace and state,
As may for ever after force them hate
Our brother's glorious beams; and wish the night
Crown'd with a thousand stars, and our cold light:
For almost all the world their service bend
To Phœbus, and in vain my light I lend;
Gazed on unto my setting from my rise
Almost of none, but of unquiet eyes.

Night. Then shine at full, fair queen, and by thy power
Produce a birth, to crown this happy hour,
Of nymphs and shepherds: Let their songs discover,
Easy and sweet, who is a happy lover.
Or, if thou woo't, then call thine own Endymion,
From the sweet flowery bed he lies upon,
On Latmus' top, thy pale beams drawn away,
And of this long night let him make a day.

Cynth. Thou dream'st, dark queen; that fair boy was not mine,
Nor went I down to kiss him. Ease and wine
Have bred these bold tales: Poets, when they rage,
Turn gods to men, and make an hour an age.
But I will give a greater state and glory,
And raise to time a noble memory
Of what these lovers are. Rise, rise, I say,
Thou power of deeps; thy surges laid away,
Neptune, great king of waters, and by me
Be proud to be commanded.

NEPTUNE rises.

Nept. Cynthia, see,
Thy word hath fetch'd me hither: Let me know

Why I ascend?

Cynth. Doth this majestic show
Give thee no knowledge yet?

Nept. Yes, now I see
Something intended, Cynthia, worthy thee.
Go on: I'll be a helper.

Cynth. Hie thee then,
And charge the wind fly from his rocky den.
Let loose thy subjects; only Boreas,
Too foul for our intention, as he was,
Still keep him fast chain'd: we must have none here
But vernal blasts, and gentle winds appear;
Such as blow flowers, and through the glad boughs sing
Many soft welcomes to the lusty spring:
These are our music. Next, thy watery race
Bring on in couples (we are pleased to grace
This noble night), each in their richest things
Your own deeps, or the broken vessel, brings.
Be prodigal, and I shall be as kind,
And shine at full upon you.

Nept. Ho! the wind-
Commanding Æolus!

Enter ÆOLUS out of a Rock.

Æol. Great Neptune?

Nept. He.

Æol. What is thy will?

Nept. We do command thee free
Favonius, and thy milder winds, to wait
Upon our Cynthia; but tie Boreas straight;
He's too rebellious.

Æol. I shall do it.

Nept. Do.— [Exit Æolus into the rock and re-enters.

Æol. Great master of the flood, and all below,
Thy full command has taken.—Ho! the Main!
Neptune!

Nept. Here.

Æol. Boreas has broke his chain,
And, struggling, with the rest has got away.

Nept. Let him alone, I'll take him up at sea;
He will not long be thence. Go once again,
And call out of the bottoms of the main

Blue Proteus, and the rest; charge them put on Their greatest pearls, and the most sparkling stone
 The beaten rock breeds; till this night is done
 By me a solemn honour to the moon.
 Fly, like a full sail.

Æol. I am gone.

Cynth. Dark Night,
 Strike a full silence; do a thorough right
 To this great chorus; that our music may Touch high as Heaven, and make the east break day
 At mid-night. [Music.]

SONG.

Cynthia, to thy power and thee,
 We obey.
 Joy to this great company!
 And no day
 Come to steal this night away,
 Till the rites of love are ended;
 And the lusty bridegroom say,
 Welcome, light, of all befriended.

Pace out, you watery powers below;
 Let your feet,
 Like the gallies when they row,
 Even beat.

Let your unknown measures, set
 To the still winds, tell to all,
 That gods are come, immortal, great,
 To honour this great nuptial.

[The Measure by the Sea-gods.]

SECOND SONG.

Hold back thy hours, dark Night, till we have done:
 The day will come too soon;
 Young maids will curse thee if thou steal'st away,
 And leav'st their losses open to the day;
 Stay, stay, and hide
 The blushes of the bride!
 Stay, gentle Night, and with thy darkness cover
 The kisses of her lover.
 Stay, and confound her tears, and her shrill cryings,
 Her weak denials, vows, and often dyings;
 Stay, and hide all:
 But help not, though she call.

Nept. Great queen of us and Heaven,
 Hear what I bring to make this hour a full one,
 If not o'ermeasure.

Cynth. Speak, sea's king.

Nept. The tunes my Amphitrite joys to have,

When they will dance upon the rising wave,
 And court me as she sails. My Tritons, play
 Music to lead a storm; I'll lead the way. [Measure.]

SONG.

To bed, to bed; come, Hymen, lead the bride,
 And lay her by her husband's side;
 Bring in the virgins every one,
 That grieve to lie alone;
 That they may kiss while they may say, a maid;
 To-morrow, 'twill be other, kiss'd, and said.
 Hesperus be long a-shining,
 Whilst these lovers are a-twining.

Æol. Ho! Neptune!

Nept. Æolus!

Æol. The sea goes high,
 Boreas hath raised a storm: Go and apply
 Thy trident; else, I prophesy, ere day
 Many a tall ship will be cast away.
 Descend with all the gods, and all their power,
 To strike a calm.

Cynth. A thanks to every one, and to gratulate
 So great a service, done at my desire,
 Ye shall have many floods, fuller and higher
 Than you have wished for; no ebb shall dare
 To let the day see where your dwellings are.
 Now back unto your government in haste,
 Lest your proud charge should swell above the waste,
 And win upon the island.

Nept. We obey. [Neptune descends, and the Sea-gods.]

Cynth. Hold up thy head, dead Night; see'st thou not Day?
 The east begins to lighten: I must down,
 And give my brother place.

Night. Oh, I could frown
 To see the Day, the Day that flings his light
 Upon my kingdom, and contemns old Night!
 Let him go on and flame! I hope to see
 Another wild-fire in his axletree;
 And all fall drench'd. But I forgot; speak, queen.
 The day grows on; I must no more be seen.

Cynth. Heave up thy drowsy head again, and see
 A greater light, a greater majesty,
 Between our set and us! Whip up thy team!
 The day-break's here, and yon sun-flaring beam:

Shot from the south. Say, which way wilt thou go?
Night. I'll vanish into mists.

Cynth. I into day.

[Exeunt.]

THE MASQUE ENDS.

King. Take lights there!—Ladies, get the bride to bed.—

We will not see you laid. Good-night, Amintor;

We'll ease you of that tedious ceremony.

Were it my case, I should think time run slow.

If thou be'st noble, youth, get me a boy,

That may defend my kingdom from my foes.

Amin. All happiness to you.

King. Good night, Melantius.

[Exeunt.]

ACT II

SCENE I.—Antechamber to Evadne's Bedroom in the Palace.

Enter EVADNE, ASPATIA, DULA, and other Ladies.

Dula. Madam, shall we undress you for this fight?

The wars are nak'd that you must make to-night.

Evad. You are very merry, Dula.

Dula. *I should be merrier far, if 'twere
With me as 'tis with you.*

Evad. How's that?

Dula. *That I might go to bed with him
With the credit that you do.*

Evad. Why, how now, wench?

Dula. Come, ladies, will you help?

Evad. I am soon undone.

Dula. And as soon done:

Good store of clothes will trouble you at both.

Evad. Art thou drunk, Dula?

Dula. Why, here's none but we.

Evad. Thou think'st belike, there is no modesty
When we're alone.

Dula. Ay, by my troth, you hit my thoughts aright.

Evad. You prick me, lady.

Dula. 'Tis against my will.

Anon you must endure more, and lie still;
You're best to practise.

Evad. Sure, this wench is mad.

Dula. No, 'faith, this is a trick that I have had Since I was fourteen.

Evad. 'Tis high time to leave it.

Dula. Nay, now I'll keep it, till the trick leave me.
A dozen wanton words, put in your head,
Will make you livelier in your husband's bed.

Evad. Nay, 'faith, then take it.

Dula. Take it, madam? where?

We all, I hope, will take it, that are here.

Evad. Nay, then, I'll give you o'er.

Dula. So will I make

The ablest man in Rhodes, or his heart ache.

Evad. Wilt take my place to-night?

Dula. I'll hold your cards 'gainst any two I know.

Evad. What wilt thou do?

Dula. Madam, we'll do't, and make 'em leave play too.

Evad. Aspatia, take her part.

Dula. I will refuse it.

She will pluck down a side; she does not use it.

Evad. Why, do.

Dula. You will find the play

Quickly, because your head lies well that way.

Evad. I thank thee, Dula. 'Would thou could'st instil
Some of thy mirth into Aspatia!

Nothing but sad thoughts in her breast do dwell:

Methinks, a mean betwixt you would do well.

Dula. She is in love: Hang me, if I were so,
But I could run my country. I love, too,
To do those things that people in love do.

Asp. It were a timeless smile should prove my cheek:

It were a fitter hour for me to laugh,

When at the altar the religious priest

Were pacifying the offended powers

With sacrifice, than now. This should have been

My night; and all your hands have been employed

In giving me a spotless offering

To young Amintor's bed, as we are now

For you. Pardon, Evadne; 'would my worth

Were great as yours, or that the king, or he,

Or both, thought so! Perhaps he found me worthless:

But, till he did so, in these ears of mine,

These credulous ears, he pour'd the sweetest words

That art or love could frame. If he were false,
Pardon it, Heaven! and if I did want
Virtue, you safely may forgive that too;
For I have lost none that I had from you.

Evad. Nay, leave this sad talk, madam.

Asp. Would I could!

Then should I leave the cause.

Evad. See, if you have not spoil'd all Dula's mirth.

Asp. Thou think'st thy heart hard; but if thou be'st caught,
Remember me; thou shalt perceive a fire
Shot suddenly into thee.

Dula. That's not so good; let 'em shoot anything
But fire, I fear 'em not.

Asp. Well, wench, thou may'st be taken.

Evad. Ladies, good-night: I'll do the rest myself.

Dula. Nay, let your lord do some.

Asp. [Sings.] *Lay a garland on my hearse,
Of the dismal yew.*

Evad. That's one of your sad songs, madam.

Asp. Believe me, 'tis a very pretty one.

Evad. How is it, madam?

SONG.

Asp. Lay a garland on my hearse,
Of the dismal yew;
Maidens, willow branches bear;
Say I died true:
My love was false, but I was firm
From my hour of birth.
Upon my buried body lie
Lightly, gentle earth!

Evad. Fie on't, madam! The words are so strange, they are able to make one dream of hobgoblins. "I could never have the power:" Sing that, Dula.

SONG.

Dula. I could never have the power
To love one above an hour,
But my heart would prompt mine eye
On some other man to fly;
Venus, fix mine eyes fast,
Or if not, give me all that I shall see at last.

Evad. So, leave me now.

Dula. Nay, we must see you laid.

Asp. Madam, good-night. May all the marriage joys

That longing maids imagine in their beds,
 Prove so unto you! May no discontent
 Grow 'twixt your love and you! But, if there do,
 Inquire of me, and I will guide your moan;
 Teach you an artificial way to grieve,
 To keep your sorrow waking. Love your lord
 No worse than I: but if you love so well,
 Alas, you may displease him; so did I.
 This is the last time you shall look on me.—
 Ladies, farewell. As soon as I am dead,
 Come all, and watch one night about my hearse;
 Bring each a mournful story, and a tear,
 To offer at it when I go to earth.
 With flatt'ring ivy clasp my coffin round;
 Write on my brow my fortune; let my bier
 Be borne by virgins that shall sing, by course,
 The truth of maids, and perjuries of men.

Evad. Alas, I pity thee. [Exit Evadne.]

All. Madam, good-night.

1 Lady. Come, we'll let in the bridegroom.

Dula. Where's my lord?

Enter AMINTOR.

1 Lady. Here, take this light.

Dula. You'll find her in the dark.

1 Lady. Your lady's scarce a-bed yet; you must help her.

Asp. Go, and be happy in your lady's love.

May all the wrongs, that you have done to me,
 Be utterly forgotten in my death!

I'll trouble you no more; yet I will take

A parting kiss, and will not be denied.

You'll come, my lord, and see the virgins weep

When I am laid in earth, though you yourself

Can know no pity. Thus I wind myself

Into this willow garland, and am prouder

That I was once your love, though now refused,

Than to have had another true to me.

So with my prayers I leave you, and must try

Some yet-unpractised way to grieve and die. [Exit.]

Dula. Come, ladies, will you go?

All. Good-night, my lord.

Amin. Much happiness unto you all!— [Exeunt Ladies.]

I did that lady wrong: Methinks, I feel
 Her grief shoot suddenly through all my veins.
 Mine eyes run: This is strange at such a time.
 It was the king first moved me to't;—but he Has not my will in keeping.—Why do I
 Perplex myself thus? Something whispers me, “Go not to bed.” My guilt is not so great
 As mine own conscience, too sensible,
 Would make me think: I only break a promise,
 And 'twas the king that forced me.—Timorous flesh,
 Why shak'st thou so?—Away, my idle fears!

Enter EVADNE.

Yonder she is, the lustre of whose eye
 Can blot away the sad remembrance
 Of all these things.—Oh, my Evadne, spare
 That tender body; let it not take cold.
 The vapours of the night will not fall here:
 To bed, my love. Hymen will punish us
 For being slack performers of his rites.
 Cam'st thou to call me?

Evad. No.

Amin. Come, come, my love,
 And let us lose ourselves to one another.
 Why art thou up so long?

Evad. I am not well.

Amin. To bed, then; let me wind thee in these arms,
 Till I have banish'd sickness.

Evad. Good my lord,
 I cannot sleep.

Amin. Evadne, we will watch;
 I mean no sleeping.

Evad. I'll not go to bed.

Amin. I pr'ythee do.

Evad. I will not for the world.

Amin. Why, my dear love?

Evad. Why? I have sworn I will not.

Amin. Sworn!

Evad. Ay.

Amin. How! sworn, Evadne?

Evad. Yes, sworn, Amintor; and will swear again,
 If you will wish to hear me.

Amin. To whom have you sworn this?

Evad. If I should name him, the matter were not great.

Amin. Come, this is but the coyness of a bride.

Evad. The coyness of a bride?

Amin. How prettily that frown becomes thee!

Evad. Do you like it so?

Amin. Thou canst not dress thy face in such a look,
But I shall like it.

Evad. What look likes you best?

Amin. Why do you ask?

Evad. That I may show you one less pleasing to you.

Amin. How's that?

Evad. That I may show you one less pleasing to you.

Amin. I pr'ythee, put thy jests in milder looks;
It shows as thou wert angry.

Evad. So, perhaps,
I am indeed.

Amin. Why, who has done thee wrong?

Name me the man, and by thyself I swear,
Thy yet-unconquer'd self, I will revenge thee.

Evad. Now I shall try thy truth. If thou dost love me,
Thou weigh'st not anything compared with me:
Life, honour, joys eternal, all delights
This world can yield, or hopeful people feign,
Or in the life to come, are light as air
To a true lover when his lady frowns,
And bids him do this. Wilt thou kill this man?
Swear, my Amintor, and I'll kiss the sin
Off from thy lips.

Amin. I will not swear, sweet love,
Till I do know the cause.

Evad. I would thou would'st.
Why, it is thou that wrong'st me; I hate thee;
Thou should'st have kill'd thyself.

Amin. If I should know that, I should quickly kill
The man you hated.

Evad. Know it then, and do't.

Amin. Oh, no; what look soe'er thou shalt put on
To try my faith, I shall not think thee false:
I cannot find one blemish in thy face,
Where falsehood should abide. Leave, and to bed.
If you have sworn to any of the virgins,
That were your old companions, to preserve

Your maidenhead a night, it may be done
Without this means.

Evad. A maidenhead, Amintor,
At my years?

Amin. Sure, she raves!—This cannot be Thy natural temper. Shall I call thy maids?
Either thy healthful sleep hath left thee long,
Or else some fever rages in thy blood.

Evad. Neither, Amintor: Think you I am mad,
Because I speak the truth?

Amin. Will you not lie with me to-night?

Evad. To-night! you talk as if I would hereafter.

Amin. Hereafter! yes, I do.

Evad. You are deceived.

Put off amazement, and with patience mark
What I shall utter; for the oracle
Knows nothing truer: 'tis not for a night,
Or two, that I forbear thy bed, but for ever.

Amin. I dream! Awake, Amintor!

Evad. You hear right.

I sooner will find out the beds of snakes,
And with my youthful blood warm their cold flesh,
Letting them curl themselves about my limbs,
Than sleep one night with thee. This is not feign'd,
Nor sounds it like the coyness of a bride.

Amin. Is flesh so earthly to endure all this?

Are these the joys of marriage? Hymen, keep
This story (that will make succeeding youth Neglect thy ceremonies) from all ears;
Let it not rise up, for thy shame and mine,
To after-ages: We will scorn thy laws,
If thou no better bless them. Touch the heart
Of her that thou hast sent me, or the world
Shall know, there's not an altar that will smoke
In praise of thee; we will adopt us sons;
Then virtue shall inherit, and not blood.
If we do lust, we'll take the next we meet,
Serving ourselves as other creatures do;
And never take note of the female more,
Nor of her issue.—I do rage in vain;
She can but jest. O, pardon me, my love!
So dear the thoughts are that I hold of thee,
That I must break forth. Satisfy my fear;

It is a pain, beyond the hand of death,
To be in doubt: Confirm it with an oath,
If this be true.

Evad. Do you invent the form:

Let there be in it all the binding words
Devils and conjurers can put together,
And I will take it. I have sworn before,
And here, by all things holy, do again,
Never to be acquainted with thy bed.
Is your doubt over now?

Amin. I know too much. Would I had doubted still!

Was ever such a marriage night as this!
Ye powers above, if you did ever mean
Man should be used thus, you have thought a way
How he may bear himself, and save his honour.
Instruct me in it; for to my dull eyes
There is no mean, no moderate course to run:
I must live scorn'd, or be a murderer.
Is there a third? Why is this night so calm?
Why does not Heaven speak in thunder to us,
And drown her voice?

Evad. This rage will do no good.

Amin. Evadne, hear me: Thou hast ta'en an oath,
But such a rash one, that, to keep it, were
Worse than to swear it: Call it back to thee;
Such vows as those never ascend the Heaven;
A tear or two will wash it quite away.
Have mercy on my youth, my hopeful youth,
If thou be pitiful; for, without boast,
This land was proud of me. What lady was there,
That men call'd fair and virtuous in this isle,
That would have shunn'd my love? It is in thee
To make me hold this worth. Oh! we vain men,
That trust out all our reputation,
To rest upon the weak and yielding hand
Of feeble woman! But thou art not stone;
Thy flesh is soft, and in thine eyes doth dwell
The spirit of love; thy heart cannot be hard.
Come, lead me from the bottom of despair,
To all the joys thou hast; I know thou wilt;
And make me careful, lest the sudden change
O'ercome my spirits.

Evad. When I call back this oath,

The pains of hell environ me!

Amin. I sleep, and am too temperate! Come to bed!
Or by those hairs, which, if thou hadst a soul
Like to thy locks, were threads for kings to wear
About their arms——

Evad. Why, so, perhaps, they are.

Amin. I'll drag thee to my bed, and make thy tongue
Undo this wicked oath, or on thy flesh
I'll print a thousand wounds to let out life!

Evad. I fear thee not. Do what thou dar'st to me!
Every ill-sounding word, or threat'ning look,
Thou show'st to me, will be revenged at full.

Amin. It will not, sure, Evadne?

Evad. Do not you hazard that.

Amin. Have you your champions?

Evad. Alas, Amintor, think'st thou I forbear
To sleep with thee, because I have put on
A maiden's strictness? Look upon these cheeks,
And thou shalt find the hot and rising blood
Unapt for such a vow. No; in this heart
There dwells as much desire, and as much will
To put that wish'd act in practice, as ever yet
Was known to woman; and they have been shown,
Both. But it was the folly of thy youth
To think this beauty, to what land soe'er
It shall be call'd, shall stoop to any second.
I do enjoy the best, and in that height
Have sworn to stand or die: You guess the man.

Amin. No: let me know the man that wrongs me so,
That I may cut his body into motes,
And scatter it before the northern wind.

Evad. You dare not strike him.

Amin. Do not wrong me so.

Yes, if his body were a poisonous plant,
That it were death to touch, I have a soul
Will throw me on him.

Evad. Why, it is the king.

Amin. The king!

Evad. What will you do now?

Amin. 'Tis not the king!

Evad. What did he make this match for, dull Amintor?

Amin. Oh, thou hast named a word, that wipes away
All thoughts revengeful! In that sacred name,

“The king,” there lies a terror. What frail man
Dares lift his hand against it? Let the gods
Speak to him when they please: till when let us
Suffer, and wait.

Evad. Why should you fill yourself so full of heat,
And haste so to my bed? I am no virgin.

Amin. What devil put it in thy fancy, then,
To marry me?

Evad. Alas, I must have one
To father children, and to bear the name
Of husband to me, that my sin may be More honourable.

Amin. What a strange thing am I!

Evad. A miserable one; one that myself
Am sorry for.

Amin. Why, show it then in this:
If thou hast pity, though thy love be none,
Kill me; and all true lovers, that shall live
In after-ages cross'd in their desires,
Shall bless thy memory, and call thee good;
Because such mercy in thy heart was found,
To rid a ling'ring wretch.

Evad. I must have one
To fill thy room again, if thou wert dead;
Else, by this night, I would: I pity thee.

Amin. These strange and sudden injuries have fallen
So thick upon me, that I lose all sense
Of what they are. Methinks I am not wrong'd:
Nor is it aught, if from the censuring world
I can but hide it. Reputation!
Thou art a word, no more.—But thou hast shown
An impudence so high, that to the world,
I fear, thou wilt betray or shame thyself.

Evad. To cover shame, I took thee; never fear
That I would blaze myself.

Amin. Nor let the king
Know I conceive he wrongs me; then mine honour
Will thrust me into action, though my flesh
Could bear with patience. And it is some ease
To me in these extremes, that I knew this Before I touch'd thee; else had all the sins
Of mankind stood betwixt me and the king,
I had gone through 'em to his heart and thine.

I have left one desire: 'tis not his crown
 Shall buy me to thy bed, now I resolve,
 He has dishonoured thee. Give me thy hand;
 Be careful of thy credit, and sin close;
 'Tis all I wish. Upon thy chamber-floor
 I'll rest to-night, that morning-visitors
 May think we did as married people use.
 And, pr'ythee, smile upon me when they come,
 And seem to toy, as if thou hadst been pleased
 With what we did.

Evad. Fear not; I will do this.

Amin. Come, let us practise: and as wantonly
 As ever loving bride and bridegroom met,
 Let's laugh and enter here.

Evad. I am content.

Amin. Down all the swellings of my troubled heart!
 When we walk thus intertwined, let all eyes see
 If ever lovers better did agree.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—An Apartment in the Citadel.

Enter ASPATIA, ANTIPHILA, and OLYMPIAS.

Asp. Away, you are not sad; force it no further.
 Good Gods, how well you look! Such a full colour
 Young bashful brides put on. Sure, you are new married!

Ant. Yes, madam, to your grief.

Asp. Alas, poor wenches!

Go learn to love first; learn to lose yourselves;
 Learn to be flatter'd, and believe, and bless
 The double tongue that did it. Make a faith
 Out of the miracles of ancient lovers,
 Such as speak truth, and died in't; and, like me,
 Believe all faithful, and be miserable.
 Did you ne'er love yet, wenches? Speak, Olympias;
 Thou hast an easy temper, fit for stamp.

Olym. Never.

Asp. Nor you, Antiphila?

Ant. Nor I.

Asp. Then, my good girls, be more than women, wise:
 At least be more than I was; and be sure
 You credit anything the light gives light to,
 Before a man. Rather believe the sea

Weeps for the ruin'd merchant, when he roars;
 Rather, the wind courts but the pregnant sails,
 When the strong cordage cracks; rather, the sun
 Comes but to kiss the fruit in wealthy autumn,
 When all falls blasted. If you needs must love,
 (Forced by ill fate) take to your maiden bosoms
 Two dead-cold aspicks, and of them make lovers:
 They cannot flatter, nor forswear; one kiss
 Makes a long peace for all. But man,
 Oh, that beast man! Come, let's be sad, my girls!
 That down-cast of thine eye, Olympias,
 Shows a fine sorrow. Mark, Antiphila;
 Just such another was the nymph CEnone,
 When Paris brought home Helen. Now, a tear;
 And then thou art a piece expressing fully
 The Carthage queen, when, from a cold sea-rock,
 Full with her sorrow, she tied fast her eyes
 To the fair Trojan ships; and, having lost them,
 Just as thine eyes do, down stole a tear. Antiphila,
 What would this wench do, if she were Aspatia?
 Here she would stand, till some more pitying god
 Turn'd her to marble! 'Tis enough, my wench!
 Show me the piece of needlework you wrought.

Ant. Of Ariadne, madam?

Asp. Yes, that piece.—

This should be Theseus; he has a cozening face:
 You meant him for a man?

Ant. He was so, madam.

Asp. Why, then, 'tis well enough. Never look back:
 You have a full wind, and a false heart, Theseus!
 Does not the story say, his keel was split,
 Or his masts spent, or some kind rock or other
 Met with his vessel?

Ant. Not as I remember.

Asp. It should have been so. Could the gods know this,
 And not, of all their number, raise a storm?
 But they are all as ill! This false smile
 Was well express'd; just such another caught me!
 You shall not go [on] so, Antiphila:
 In this place work a quicksand,
 And over it a shallow smiling water,
 And his ship ploughing it; and then a Fear:
 Do that Fear to the life, wench.

Ant. 'Twill wrong the story.

Asp. 'Twill make the story, wrong'd by wanton poets,
Live long, and be believed. But where's the lady?

Ant. There, madam.

Asp. Fie! you have miss'd it here, Antiphila;
You are much mistaken, wench:
These colours are not dull and pale enough
To show a soul so full of misery
As this sad lady's was. Do it by me;
Do it again, by me, the lost Aspatia,
And you shall find all true but the wild island.
Suppose I stand upon the sea-beach now,
Mine arms thus, and mine hair blown with the wind,
Wild as that desert; and let all about me
Be teachers of my story. Do my face
(If thou hadst ever feeling of a sorrow)
Thus, thus, Antiphila: Strive to make me look Like Sorrow's monument! And the trees about me,
Let them be dry and leafless; let the rocks
Groan with continual surges; and, behind me,
Make all a desolation. Look, look, wenches!
A miserable life of this poor picture!

Olym. Dear madam!

Asp. I have done. Sit down; and let us
Upon that point fix all our eyes; that point there.
Make a dull silence, till you feel a sudden sadness
Give us new souls.

Enter CALIANAX.

Cal. The king may do this, and he may not do it:
My child is wrong'd, disgraced.—Well, how now,
huswives!

What, at your ease? Is this a time to sit still?
Up, you young lazy whores, up, or I'll swinge you!

Olym. Nay, good my lord.

Cal. You'll lie down shortly. Get you in, and work!
What, are you grown so resty you want heats?
We shall have some of the court-boys heat you shortly.

Ant. My lord, we do no more than we are charged.
It is the lady's pleasure we be thus
In grief: she is forsaken.

Cal. There's a rogue too!

A young dissembling slave! Well, get you in!
 I'll have a bout with that boy. 'Tis high time
 Now to be valiant; I confess my youth
 Was never prone that way. What, made an ass?
 A court-stale? Well, I will be valiant,
 And beat some dozen of these whelps; I will!
 And there's another of 'em, a trim cheating soldier;
 I'll maul that rascal; he has out-braved me twice:
 But now, I thank the gods, I am valiant.—
 Go, get you in! I'll take a course with all. [Exeunt.]

ACT III

SCENE I.—Antechamber to Evadne's Bedroom in the Palace.

Enter CLEON, STRATA, and DIPHILUS.

Cle. Your sister is not up yet.

Diph. Oh, brides must take their morning's rest; the night is troublesome.

Stra. But not tedious.

Diph. What odds, he has not my sister's maidenhead to-night?

Stra. No; it's odds, against any bridegroom living, he ne'er gets it while he lives.

Diph. You're merry with my sister; you'll please to allow me the same freedom with your mother.

Stra. She's at your service.

Diph. Then she's merry enough of herself; she needs no tickling. Knock at the door.

Stra. We shall interrupt them.

Diph. No matter; they have the year before them.—Good-morrow, sister! Spare yourself to-day; the night will come again.

Enter AMINTOR.

Amin. Who's there? my brother! I'm no readier yet.

Your sister is but now up.

Diph. You look as you had lost your eyes to-night:

I think you have not slept.

Amin. I'faith I have not.

Diph. You have done better, then.

Amin. We ventured for a boy: When he is twelve,
He shall command against the foes of Rhodes.
Shall we be merry?

Stra. You cannot; you want sleep.

Amin. 'Tis true.—But she, [Aside.
As if she had drank Lethe, or had made
Even with Heaven, did fetch so still a sleep,
So sweet and sound——

Diph. What's that?

Amin. Your sister frets
This morning; and does turn her eyes upon me,
As people on their headsman. She does chafe,
And kiss, and chafe again, and clap my cheeks;
She's in another world.

Diph. Then I had lost: I was about to lay
You had not got her maidenhead to-night.

Amin. Ha! he does not mock me? [Aside.]
—You had lost,
indeed;

I do not use to bungle.

Cleo. You do deserve her.

Amin. I laid my lips to hers, and that wild breath,
That was so rude and rough to me last night,
Was sweet as April.—I'll be guilty too,
If these be the effects. [Aside.

Enter MELANTIUS.

Mel. Good day, Amintor! for, to me, the name
Of brother is too distant: We are friends.
And that is nearer.

Amin. Dear Melantius!
Let me behold thee. Is it possible?

Mel. What sudden gaze is this?

Amin. 'Tis wond'rous strange!

Mel. Why does thine eye desire so strict a view
Of that it knows so well? There's nothing here
That is not thine.

Amin. I wonder, much, Melantius,
To see those noble looks, that make me think
How virtuous thou art: And, on the sudden,
'Tis strange to me thou shouldst have worth and honour;
Or not be base, and false, and treacherous,
And every ill. But——

Mel. Stay, stay, my friend;
I fear this sound will not become our loves.
No more; embrace me.

Amin. Oh, mistake me not:
I know thee to be full of all those deeds
That we frail men call good; but, by the course
Of nature, thou shouldst be as quickly changed
As are the winds; dissembling as the sea,
That now wears brows as smooth as virgins' be,
Tempting the merchant to invade his face,
And in an hour calls his billows up,
And shoots 'em at the sun, destroying all
He carries on him.—Oh, how near am I
To utter my sick thoughts! [Aside.

Mel. But why, my friend, should I be so by nature?

Amin. I have wed thy sister, who hath virtuous thoughts
Enough for one whole family; and, 'tis strange
That you should feel no want.

Mel. Believe me, this compliment's too cunning for me.

Diph. What should I be then, by the course of nature,
They having both robb'd me of so much virtue?

Stra. Oh, call the bride, my lord Amintor,
That we may see her blush, and turn her eyes down:
'Tis the prettiest sport!

Amin. Evadne!

Evad. [within.] My lord!

Amin. Come forth, my love!
Your brothers do attend to wish you joy.

Evad. I am not ready yet.

Amin. Enough, enough.

Evad. They'll mock me.

Amin. 'Faith, thou shalt come in.

Enter EVADNE.

Mel. Good-morrow, sister! He that understands
Whom you have wed, need not to wish you joy;
You have enough: Take heed you be not proud.

Diph. Oh, sister, what have you done?

Evad. I done! why, what have I done?

Stra. My lord Amintor swears you are no maid now.

Evad. Pish!

Stra. I'faith, he does.

Evad. I knew I should be mock'd.

Diph. With a truth.

Evad. If 'twere to do again,
In faith, I would not marry.

Amin. Nor I, by heaven!

[Aside.

Diph. Sister, Dula swears
She heard you cry two rooms off.

Evad. Fie, how you talk!

Diph. Let's see you walk, Evadne. By my troth,
You are spoil'd.

Mel. Amintor!

Amin. Ha?

Mel. Thou art sad.

Amin. Who, I? I thank you for that.
Shall Diphilus, thou, and I, sing a catch?

Mel. How!

Amin. Pr'ythee, let's.

Mel. Nay, that's too much the other way.

Amin. I am so lightened with my happiness!
How dost thou, love? kiss me.

Evad. I cannot love you, you tell tales of me.

Amin. Nothing but what becomes us.—Gentlemen,
'Would you had all such wives, and all the world,
That I might be no wonder! You are all sad:
What, do you envy me? I walk, methinks,
On water, and ne'er sink, I am so light.

Mel. 'Tis well you are so.

Amin. Well? how can I be other,
When she looks thus?—Is there no music there?
Let's dance.

Mel. Why, this is strange, Amintor!

Amin. I do not know myself; yet I could wish
My joy were less.

Diph. I'll marry too, if it will make one thus.

Evad. Amintor, hark.

[Aside.

Amin. What says my love?—I must obey.

Evad. You do it scurvily, 'twill be perceived. [Apart to him.

Cleo. My lord, the king is here.

Enter KING and LYSIPPUS.

Amin. Where?

Stra. And his brother.

King. Good morrow, all!—

Amintor, joy on joy fall thick upon thee!

And, madam, you are alter'd since I saw you;
I must salute you; you are now another's.
How liked you your night's rest?

Evad. Ill, sir.

Amin. Ay, 'deed,
She took but little.

Lys. You'll let her take more,
And thank her too, shortly.

King. Amintor, wert
Thou truly honest till thou wert married.

Amin. Yes, sir.

King. Tell me, then, how shows the sport unto thee?

Amin. Why, well.

King. What did you do?

Amin. No more, nor less, than other couples use;
You know what 'tis; it has but a coarse name.

King. But, pr'ythee, I should think, by her black eye,
And her red cheek, she should be quick and stirring
In this same business; ha?

Amin. I cannot tell;
I ne'er try'd other, sir; but I perceive
She is as quick as you delivered.

King. Well, you will trust me then, Amintor,
To chuse a wife for you again?

Amin. No, never, sir.

King. Why? like you this so ill?

Amin. So well I like her.
For this I bow my knee in thanks to you,
And unto heaven will pay my grateful tribute
Hourly; and do hope we shall draw out
A long contented life together here,
And die both, full of grey hairs, in one day:
For which the thanks are yours. But if the powers
That rule us please to call her first away,
Without pride spoke, this world holds not a wife
Worthy to take her room.

King. I do not like this.—All forbear the room,
But you, Amintor, and your lady.

[Exeunt all but the King, Amintor, and Evadne.]

I have some speech with you, that may concern
Your after living well.

Amin. [aside.] He will not tell me that he lies with her?
If he do, something heavenly stay my heart,

For I shall be apt to thrust this arm of mine
To acts unlawful!

King. You will suffer me to talk with her,
Amintor, and not have a jealous pang?

Amin. Sir, I dare trust my wife with whom she dares
To talk, and not be jealous.

[Evadne and the King speak apart.]

King. How do you like Amintor?

Evad. As I did, sir.

King. How is that?

Evad. As one that, to fulfil your will and pleasure,
I have given leave to call me wife and love.

King. I see there is no lasting faith in sin;
They, that break word with heaven, will break again
With all the world, and so dost thou with me.

Evad. How, sir?

King. This subtle woman's ignorance
Will not excuse you: thou hast taken oaths,
So great, methought, they did not well become
A woman's mouth, that thou wouldst ne'er enjoy
A man but me.

Evad. I never did swear so;
You do me wrong.

King. Day and night have heard it.

Evad. I swore indeed, that I would never love
A man of lower place; but, if your fortune
Should throw you from this height, I bade you trust
I would forsake you, and would bend to him
That won your throne: I love with my ambition,
Not with my eyes. But, if I ever yet
Touch'd any other, leprosy light here
Upon my face; which for your royalty
I would not stain!

King. Why, thou dissemblest, and it is
In me to punish thee.

Evad. Why, 'tis in me,
Then, not to love you, which will more afflict
Your body than your punishment can mine.

King. But thou hast let Amintor lie with thee.

Evad. I have not.

King. Impudence! he says himself so.

Evad. He lies.

King. He does not.

Evad. By this light he does,
Strangely and basely! and I'll prove it so.
I did not shun him for a night; but told him,
I would never close with him.

King. Speak lower; 'tis false.

Evad. I am no man
To answer with a blow; or, if I were,
You are the king! But urge me not; 'tis most true.

King. Do not I know the uncontrolled thoughts
That youth brings with him, when his blood is high
With expectation, and desire of that
He long hath waited for? Is not his spirit,
Though he be temperate, of a valiant strain
As this our age hath known? What could he do,
If such a sudden speech had met his blood,
But ruin thee for ever, if he had not kill'd thee?
He could not bear it thus. He is as we,
Or any other wrong'd man.

Evad. 'Tis dissembling.

King. Take him! farewell! henceforth I am thy foe;
And what disgraces I can blot thee with look for.

Evad. Stay, sir!—Amintor!—You shall hear.—Amintor!

Amin. [coming forward.] What, my love?

Evad. Amintor, thou hast an ingenuous look,
And shouldst be virtuous: It amazeth me,
That thou canst make such base malicious lies!

Amin. What, my dear wife!

Evad. Dear wife! I do despise thee.
Why, nothing can be baser than to sow
Dissension amongst lovers.

Amin. Lovers! who?

Evad. The king and me.

Amin. O, God!

Evad. Who should live long, and love without distaste,
Were it not for such pickthanks as thyself.
Did you lie with me? Swear now, and be punish'd
In hell for this!

Amin. The faithless sin I made
To fair Aspatia, is not yet revenged;
It follows me.—I will not lose a word
To this vile woman: But to you, my king,
The anguish of my soul thrusts out this truth,

You are a tyrant! And not so much to wrong
An honest man thus, as to take a pride
In talking with him of it.

Evad. Now, sir, see
How loud this fellow lied.

Amin. You that can know to wrong, should know how men
Must right themselves: What punishment is due
From me to him that shall abuse my bed?
Is it not death? Nor can that satisfy,
Unless I send your limbs through all the land,
To show how nobly I have freed myself.

King. Draw not thy sword: thou know'st I cannot fear
A subject's hand; but thou shalt feel the weight
Of this, if thou dost rage.

Amin. The weight of that!
If you have any worth, for Heaven's sake, think
I fear not swords; for as you are mere man,
I dare as easily kill you for this deed,
As you dare think to do it. But there is Divinity about you, that strikes dead
My rising passions: As you are my king,
I fall before you, and present my sword
To cut mine own flesh, if it be your will.
Alas! I am nothing but a multitude
Of walking griefs! Yet, should I murder you,
I might before the world take the excuse
Of madness: For, compare my injuries,
And they will well appear too sad a weight
For reason to endure! But, fall I first
Amongst my sorrows, ere my treacherous hand Touch holy things! But why (I know not what I have to say) why did you chuse out me
To make thus wretched? There were thousand fools
Easy to work on, and of state enough,
Within the island.

Evad. I would not have a fool;
It were no credit for me.

Amin. Worse and worse!
Thou, that dar'st talk unto thy husband thus,
Profess thyself a whore, and, more than so,
Resolve to be so still——It is my fate
To bear and bow beneath a thousand griefs,
To keep that little credit with the world!

But there were wise ones too; you might have ta'en
Another.

King. No; for I believe thee honest,
As thou wert valiant.

Amin. All the happiness
Bestowed upon me turns into disgrace.
Gods, take your honesty again, for I
Am loaden with it!—Good my lord the king,
Be private in it.

King. Thou may'st live, Amintor,
Free as thy king, if thou wilt wink at this,
And be a means that we may meet in secret.

Amin. A bawd! Hold, hold, my breast! A bitter curse
Seize me, if I forget not all respects
That are religious, on another word
Sounded like that; and, through a sea of sins,
Will wade to my revenge, though I should call
Pains here, and after life, upon my soul!

King. Well, I am resolute you lay not with her;
And so I leave you. [Exit King.

Evad. You must needs be prating;
And see what follows.

Amin. Pr'ythee, vex me not!
Leave me: I am afraid some sudden start
Will pull a murder on me.

Evad. I am gone;
I love my life well. [Exit Evadne.

Amin. I hate mine as much.—
This 'tis to break a troth! I should be glad,
If all this tide of grief would make me mad. [Exit.

SCENE II.—A Room in the Palace.

Enter MELANTIUS.

Mel. I'll know the cause of all Amintor's griefs,
Or friendship shall be idle.

Enter CALIANAX.

Cal. O Melantius,
My daughter will die.

Mel. Trust me, I am sorry.
Would thou hadst ta'en her room!

Cal. Thou art a slave,

A cut-throat slave, a bloody treacherous slave!

Mel. Take heed, old man; thou wilt be heard to rave,
And lose thine offices.

Cal. I am valiant grown,

At all these years, and thou art but a slave!

Mel. Leave! Some company will come, and I respect
Thy years, not thee, so much, that I could wish
To laugh at thee alone.

Cal. I'll spoil your mirth:

I mean to fight with thee. There lie, my cloak!
This was my father's sword, and he durst fight.
Are you prepared?

Mel. Why wilt thou dote thyself

Out of thy life? Hence, get thee to bed!
Have careful looking-to, and eat warm things,
And trouble not me: My head is full of thoughts,
More weighty than thy life or death can be.

Cal. You have a name in war, where you stand safe
Amongst a multitude; but I will try
What you dare do unto a weak old man
In single fight. You will give ground, I fear.
Come, draw.

Mel. I will not draw, unless thou pull'st thy death
Upon thee with a stroke. There's no one blow,
That thou canst give, hath strength enough to kill me.
Tempt me not so far then: The power of earth
Shall not redeem thee.

Cal. [aside.] I must let him alone:

He's stout and able; and, to say the truth,
However I may set a face, and talk,
I am not valiant. When I was a youth,
I kept my credit with a testy trick
I had, 'mongst cowards, but durst never fight.

Mel. I will not promise to preserve your life,
If you do stay.

Cal. I would give half my land
That I durst fight with that proud man a little.
If I had men to hold him, I would beat him
Till he ask'd me mercy.

Mel. Sir, will you be gone?

Cal. I dare not stay; but I'll go home, and beat
My servants all over for this. [Exit Calianax.]

Mel. This old fellow haunts me!
 But the distracted carriage of my Amintor
 Takes deeply on me: I will find the cause.
 I fear his conscience cries, he wrong'd Aspatia.

Enter AMINTOR.

Amin. Men's eyes are not so subtle to perceive
 My inward misery: I bear my grief
 Hid from the world. How art thou wretched then?
 For aught I know, all husbands are like me;
 And every one I talk with of his wife,
 Is but a well dissembler of his woes,
 As I am. 'Would I knew it! for the rareness
 Afflicts me now.

Mel. Amintor, we have not enjoy'd our friendship of late,
 For we were wont to change our souls in talk.

Amin. Melantius, I can tell thee a good jest
 Of Strato and a lady the last day.

Mel. How was't?

Amin. Why, such an odd one!

Mel. I have long'd to speak with you;
 Not of an idle jest, that's forced, but of matter
 You are bound to utter to me.

Amin. What is that, my friend?

Mel. I have observed your words
 Fall from your tongue wildly; and all your carriage
 Like one that strove to show his merry mood,
 When he were ill disposed: You were not wont
 To put such scorn into your speech, or wear
 Upon your face ridiculous jollity.
 Some sadness sits here, which your cunning would Cover o'er with smiles, and 'twill not be.
 What is it?

Amin. A sadness here! what cause
 Can fate provide for me, to make me so?
 Am I not loved through all this isle? The king
 Rains greatness on me. Have I not received
 A lady to my bed, that in her eye
 Keeps mounting fire, and on her tender cheeks
 Inevitable colour, in her heart
 A prison for all virtue? Are not you,
 Which is above all joys, my constant friend?
 What sadness can I have? No; I am light,

And feel the courses of my blood more warm
 And stirring than they were. 'Faith, marry too:
 And you will feel so unexpress'd a joy
 In chaste embraces, that you will indeed
 Appear another.

Mel. You may shape, Amintor,
 Causes to cozen the whole world withal,
 And yourself too: but 'tis not like a friend,
 To hide your soul from me. 'Tis not your nature
 To be thus idle: I have seen you stand
 As you were blasted, 'midst of all your mirth;
 Call thrice aloud, and then start, feigning joy
 So coldly!—World, what do I hear? a friend
 Is nothing. Heaven, I would have told that man
 My secret sins! I'll search an unknown land,
 And there plant friendship; all is wither'd here.
 Come with a compliment! I would have fought,
 Or told my friend "he lied," ere sooth'd him so.
 Out of my bosom!

Amin. But there is nothing——

Mel. Worse and worse! farewell!

From this time have acquaintance, but no friend.

Amin. Melantius, stay: You shall know what it is.

Mel. See, how you play'd with friendship! Be advised
 How you give cause unto yourself to say,
 You have lost a friend.

Amin. Forgive what I have done;
 For I am so o'ergone with injuries
 Unheard of, that I lose consideration
 Of what I ought to do. Oh, oh!

Mel. Do not weep.

What is it? May I once but know the man
 Hath turn'd my friend thus!

Amin. I had spoke at first,
 But that——

Mel. But what?

Amin. I held it most unfit
 For you to know. 'Faith, do not know it yet.

Mel. Thou see'st my love, that will keep company
 With thee in tears! hide nothing, then, from me:
 For when I know the cause of thy distemper,
 With mine old armour I'll adorn myself,
 My resolution, and cut through my foes,

Unto thy quiet; till I place thy heart
As peaceable as spotless innocence.

What is it?

Amin. Why, 'tis this——It is too big
To get out——Let my tears make way awhile.

Mel. Punish me strangely, Heaven, if he 'scape
Of life or fame, that brought this youth to this!

Amin. Your sister——

Mel. Well said.

Amin. You will wish't unknown,
When you have heard it.

Mel. No.

Amin. Is much to blame,
And to the king has given her honour up,
And lives in whoredom with him.

Mel. How is this?

Thou art run mad with injury, indeed;
Thou couldst not utter this else. Speak again;
For I forgive it freely; tell thy griefs.

Amin. She's wanton: I am loth to say, "a whore,"
Though it be true.

Mel. Speak yet again, before mine anger grow
Up, beyond throwing down: What are thy griefs?

Amin. By all our friendship, these.

Mel. What, am I tame?

After mine actions, shall the name of friend
Blot all our family, and stick the brand
Of whore upon my sister, unrevenged?
My shaking flesh, be thou a witness for me,
With what unwillingness I go to scourge
This railer, whom my folly hath called friend!—
I will not take thee basely; thy sword
Hangs near thy hand; draw it, that I may whip
Thy rashness to repentance. Draw thy sword!

Amin. Not on thee, did thine anger swell as high
As the wild surges. Thou shouldst do me ease
Here, and eternally, if thy noble hand
Would cut me from my sorrows.

Mel. This is base

And fearful. They, that use to utter lies,
Provide not blows, but words, to qualify
The men they wrong'd. Thou hast a guilty cause.

Amin. Thou pleasest me; for so much more like this Will raise my anger up above my griefs,

(Which is a passion easier to be borne)
And I shall then be happy.

Mel. Take then more,
To raise thine anger: 'Tis mere cowardice
Makes thee not draw; and I will leave thee dead,
However. But if thou art so much press'd
With guilt and fear, as not to dare to fight,
I'll make thy memory loath'd, and fix a scandal
Upon thy name for ever.

Amin. Then I draw,
As justly as our magistrates their swords
To cut offenders off. I knew before,
'Twould grate your ears; but it was base in you
To urge a weighty secret from your friend,
And then rage at it. I shall be at ease,
If I be kill'd; and if you fall by me,
I shall not long out-live you.

Mel. Stay awhile.—
The name of friend is more than family,
Or all the world besides: I was a fool!
Thou searching human nature, that didst wake
To do me wrong, thou art inquisitive,
And thrust'st me upon questions that will take
My sleep away! 'Would I had died, ere known
This sad dishonour!—Pardon me, my friend!
If thou wilt strike, here is a faithful heart;
Pierce it, for I will never heave my hand
To thine. Behold the power thou hast in me!
I do believe my sister is a whore,
A leprous one! Put up thy sword, young man.

Amin. How shall I bear it then, she being so?
I fear, my friend, that you will lose me shortly;
And I shall do a foul act on myself,
Through these disgraces.

Mel. Better half the land
Were buried quick together. No, Amintor;
Thou shalt have ease. Oh, this adulterous king,
That drew her to it! Where got he the spirit
To wrong me so?

Amin. What is it then to me,
If it be wrong to you?

Mel. Why, not so much:

The credit of our house is thrown away.
But from his iron den I'll waken Death,
And hurl him on this king! My honesty
Shall steel my sword; and on its horrid point
I'll wear my cause, that shall amaze the eyes
Of this proud man, and be too glittering
For him to look on.

Amin. I have quite undone my fame.

Mel. Dry up thy watery eyes,
And cast a manly look upon my face;
For nothing is so wild as I, thy friend,
Till I have freed thee. Still this swelling breast!
I go thus from thee, and will never cease
My vengeance, till I find thy heart at peace.

Amin. It must not be so. Stay!—Mine eyes would tell
How loth I am to this; but, love and tears,
Leave me awhile; for I have hazarded
All that this world calls happy.—Thou hast wrought
A secret from me, under name of friend,
Which art could ne'er have found, nor torture wrung
From out my bosom: Give it me again,
For I will find it, wheresoe'er it lies,
Hid in the mortal'st part! Invent a way
To give it back.

Mel. Why would you have it back?
I will to death pursue him with revenge.

Amin. Therefore I call it back from thee; for I know
Thy blood so high, that thou wilt stir in this,
And shame me to posterity.
Take to thy weapon!

Mel. Hear thy friend, that bears
More years than thou.

Amin. I will not hear! but draw,
Or I——

Mel. Amintor!

Amin. Draw then; for I am full as resolute
As fame and honour can inforce me be!
I cannot linger. Draw!

Mel. I do. But is not
My share of credit equal with thine,
If I do stir?

Amin. No; for it will be call'd
Honour in thee to spill thy sister's blood,

If she her birth abuse; and, on the king,
A brave revenge: But on me, that have walk'd
With patience in it, it will fix the name
Of fearful cuckold. Oh, that word! Be quick.

Mel. Then join with me.

Amin. I dare not do a sin, or else I would.
Be speedy.

Mel. Then dare not fight with me; for that's a sin.—
His grief distracts him.—Call thy thoughts again,
And to thyself pronounce the name of friend,
And see what that will work. I will not fight.

Amin. You must.

Mel. I will be kill'd first. Though my passions
Offer'd the like to you, 'tis not this earth
Shall buy my reason to it. Think awhile,
For you are (I must weep when I speak that)
Almost besides yourself.

Amin. Oh, my soft temper!
So many sweet words from thy sister's mouth,
I am afraid, would make me take her
To embrace, and pardon her. I am mad indeed,
And know not what I do. Yet, have a care
Of me in what thou dost.

Mel. Why, thinks my friend
I will forget his honour? or, to save
The bravery of our house, will lose his fame,
And fear to touch the throne of majesty?

Amin. A curse will follow that; but rather live
And suffer with me.

Mel. I'll do what worth shall bid me, and no more.

Amin. Faith, I am sick, and desperately I hope;
Yet, leaning thus, I feel a kind of ease.

Mel. Come, take again your mirth about you.

Amin. I shall never do't.

Mel. I warrant you; look up; we'll walk together;
Put thine arm here; all shall be well again.

Amin. Thy love (oh, wretched!) ay, thy love, Melantius!
Why, I have nothing else.

Mel. Be merry then.

[Exeunt.]

Re-enter MELANTIUS.

Mel. This worthy young man may do violence
Upon himself; but I have cherish'd him

To my best power, and sent him smiling from me,
To counterfeit again. Sword, hold thine edge;
My heart will never fail me.

Enter DIPHILUS.

Diphilus! Thou com'st as sent.

Diph. Yonder has been such laughing.

Mel. Betwixt whom?

Diph. Why, our sister and the king;

I thought their spleens would break; they laugh'd us all
Out of the room.

Mel. They must weep, Diphilus.

Diph. Must they?

Mel. They must.

Thou art my brother; and if I did believe
Thou hadst a base thought, I would rip it out,
Lie where it durst.

Diph. You should not; I would first
Mangle myself and find it.

Mel. That was spoke

According to our strain. Come, join thy hands to mine,
And swear a firmness to what project I Shall lay before thee.

Diph. You do wrong us both:

People hereafter shall not say, there pass'd
A bond, more than our loves, to tie our lives
And deaths together.

Mel. It is as nobly said as I would wish.

Anon I'll tell you wonders: We are wrong'd.

Diph. But I will tell you now, we'll right ourselves.

Mel. Stay not: Prepare the armour in my house;
And what friends you can draw unto our side,
Not knowing of the cause, make ready too.
Haste, Diphilus, the time requires it, haste!—

[Exit Diphilus.]

I hope my cause is just; I know my blood
Tells me it is; and I will credit it.
To take revenge, and lose myself withal,
Were idle; and to 'scape impossible,
Without I had the fort, which (misery!)
Remaining in the hands of my old enemy
Calianax—But I must have it. See,

Enter CALIANAX.

Where he comes shaking by me.—Good my lord,
Forget your spleen to me; I never wrong'd you,
But would have peace with every man.

Cal. 'Tis well;

If I durst fight, your tongue would lie at quiet.

Mel. You are touchy without all cause.

Cal. Do, mock me.

Mel. By mine honour I speak truth.

Cal. Honour? where is it?

Mel. See, what starts

You make into your hatred, to my love
And freedom to you. I come with resolution
To obtain a suit of you.

Cal. A suit of me!

'Tis very like it should be granted, sir.

Mel. Nay, go not hence:

'Tis this; you have the keeping of the fort,
And I would wish you, by the love you ought
To bear unto me, to deliver it
Into my hands.

Cal. I am in hope thou'rt mad,
To talk to me thus.

Mel. But there is a reason

To move you to it: I would kill the king,
That wrong'd you and your daughter.

Cal. Out, traitor!

Mel. Nay,

But stay: I cannot 'scape, the deed once done,
Without I have this fort.

Cal. And should I help thee?

Now thy treacherous mind betrays itself.

Mel. Come, delay me not;

Give me a sudden answer, or already
Thy last is spoke! refuse not offer'd love,
When it comes clad in secrets.

Cal. If I say

I will not, he will kill me; I do see't
Writ in his looks; and should I say I will,
He'll run and tell the king.—I do not shun
Your friendship, dear Melantius, but this cause
Is weighty; give me but an hour to think.

[Aside.]

Mel. Take it.—I know this goes unto the king;
But I am arm'd. [Exit Melantius.]

Cal. Methinks I feel myself
But twenty now again! this fighting fool
Wants policy: I shall revenge my girl,
And make her red again. I pray, my legs
Will last that pace that I will carry them:
I shall want breath, before I find the king. [Exit.]

ACT IV

SCENE I.—The Apartment of Evadne in the Palace.

Enter MELANTIUS, EVADNE, and Ladies.

Mel. Save you!

Evad. Save you, sweet brother!

Mel. In my blunt eye, methinks, you look, Evadne——

Evad. Come, you will make me blush.

Mel. I would, Evadne;
I shall displease my ends else.

Evad. You shall, if you commend me; I am bashful.
Come, sir, how do I look?

Mel. I would not have your women hear me
Break into commendation of you; 'tis not seemly.

Evad. Go, wait in the gallery.—Now speak. [Exeunt Ladies.]

Mel. I'll lock the door first.

Evad. Why?

Mel. I will not have your gilded things, that dance
In visitation with their Milan skins,
Choke up my business.

Evad. You are strangely disposed, sir.

Mel. Good madam, not to make you merry.

Evad. No; if you praise me it will make me sad.

Mel. Such a sad commendation I have for you.

Evad. Brother, the court hath made you witty,
And learn to riddle.

Mel. I praise the court for't: Has it learnt you nothing?

Evad. Me?

Mel. Ay, Evadne; thou art young and handsome,
A lady of a sweet complexion,
And such a flowing carriage, that it cannot Chuse but inflame a kingdom.

Evad. Gentle brother!

Mel. 'Tis yet in thy repentance, foolish woman,
To make me gentle.

Evad. How is this?

Mel. 'Tis base;
And I could blush, at these years, thorough all
My honour'd scars, to come to such a parley.

Evad. I understand you not.

Mel. You dare not, fool!

They, that commit thy faults, fly the remembrance.

Evad. My faults, sir! I would have you know, I care not
If they were written here, here in my forehead.

Mel. Thy body is too little for the story;
The lusts of which would fill another woman,
Though she had twins within her.

Evad. This is saucy:

Look you intrude no more! There lies your way.

Mel. Thou art my way, and I will tread upon thee,
Till I find truth out.

Evad. What truth is that you look for?

Mel. Thy long-lost honour. 'Would the gods had set me
Rather to grapple with the plague, or stand
One of their loudest bolts! Come, tell me quickly,
Do it without enforcement, and take heed
You swell me not above my temper.

Evad. How, sir.

Where got you this report?

Mel. Where there were people,
In every place.

Evad. They, and the seconds of it are base people:
Believe them not, they lied.

Mel. Do not play with mine anger, do not, wretch!

[Seizes her.]

I come to know that desperate fool that drew thee
From thy fair life: Be wise and lay him open.

Evad. Unhand me, and learn manners! Such another
Forgetfulness forfeits your life.

Mel. Quench me this mighty humour, and then tell me
Whose whore you are; for you are one, I know it.
Let all mine honours perish, but I'll find him,
Though he lie lock'd up in thy blood! Be sudden;
There is no facing it, and be not flatter'd!
The burnt air, when the Dog reigns, is not fouler

Than thy contagious name, till thy repentance
(If the gods grant thee any) purge thy sickness.

Evad. Be gone! you are my brother; that's your safety.

Mel. I'll be a wolf first! 'Tis, to be thy brother,
An infamy below the sin of coward.
I am as far from being part of thee,
As thou art from thy virtue: Seek a kindred
'Mongst sensual beasts, and make a goat thy brother?
A goat is cooler. Will you tell me yet?

Evad. If you stay here and rail thus, I shall tell you,
I'll have you whipp'd! Get you to your command,
And there preach to your sentinels, and tell them
What a brave man you are: I shall laugh at you.

Mel. You are grown a glorious whore! Where be your fighters?

What mortal fool durst raise thee to this daring,
And I alive! By my just sword, he had safer
Bestride a billow, when the angry North
Plows up the sea, or made Heaven's fire his food!
Work me no higher. Will you discover yet?

Evad. The fellow's mad: Sleep, and speak sense.

Mel. Force my swoll'n heart no further: I would save thee.
Your great maintainers are not here, they dare not:
Would they were all, and arm'd! I would speak loud;
Here's one should thunder to 'em! will you tell me?
Thou hast no hope to 'scape: He that dares most,
And damns away his soul to do thee service,
Will sooner snatch meat from a hungry lion,
Than come to rescue thee; thou hast death about thee.
Who has undone thine honour, poison'd thy virtue,
And, of a lovely rose, left thee a canker?

Evad. Let me consider.

Mel. Do, whose child thou wert,
Whose honour thou hast murder'd, whose grave open'd,
And so pull'd on the gods, that in their justice
They must restore him flesh again, and life,
And raise his dry bones to revenge this scandal.

Evad. The gods are not of my mind; they had better
Let 'em lie sweet still in the earth; they'll stink here.

Mel. Do you raise mirth out of my easiness? [Draws.

Forsake me, then, all weaknesses of nature,
That make men women! Speak, you whore, speak truth!
Or, by the dear soul of thy sleeping father,

This sword shall be thy lover! Tell, or I'll kill thee;
And, when thou hast told all, thou wilt deserve it.

Evad. You will not murder me?

Mel. No; 'tis a justice, and a noble one,
To put the light out of such base offenders.

Evad. Help!

Mel. By thy foul self, no human help shall help thee,
If thou criest! When I have kill'd thee as I
Have vow'd to do if thou confess not, naked,
As thou hast left thine honour, will I leave thee;
That on thy branded flesh the world may read
Thy black shame, and my justice. Wilt thou bend yet?

Evad. Yes.

Mel. Up, and begin your story.

Evad. Oh, I am miserable!

Mel. 'Tis true, thou art. Speak truth still.

Evad. I have offended: Noble sir, forgive me.

Mel. With what secure slave?

Evad. Do not ask me, sir:
Mine own remembrance is a misery
Too mighty for me.

Mel. Do not fall back again:
My sword's unsheathed yet.

Evad. What shall I do?

Mel. Be true, and make your fault less.

Evad. I dare not tell.

Mel. Tell, or I'll be this day a-killing thee.

Evad. Will you forgive me then?

Mel. Stay; I must ask mine honour first.—
I have too much foolish nature in me: Speak.

Evad. Is there none else here?

Mel. None but a fearful conscience; that's too many.
Who is't?

Evad. Oh, hear me gently. It was the king.

Mel. No more. My worthy father's and my services
Are liberally rewarded.—King, I thank thee!
For all my dangers and my wounds, thou hast paid me
In my own metal: These are soldiers' thanks!—
How long have you lived thus, Evadne?

Evad. Too long.

Mel. Too late you find it. Can you be sorry?

Evad. Would I were half as blameless.

Mel. Evadne, thou wilt to thy trade again!

Evad. First to my grave.

Mel. 'Would gods thou hadst been so blest.

Dost thou not hate this king now? pr'ythee hate him.
Couldst thou not curse him? I command thee, curse him.

Curse till the gods hear, and deliver him
To thy just wishes! Yet, I fear, Evadne,
You had rather play your game out.

Evad. No; I feel

Too many sad confusions here, to let in Any loose flame hereafter.

Mel. Dost thou not feel, 'mongst all those, one brave anger
That breaks out nobly, and directs thine arm
To kill this base king?

Evad. All the gods forbid it!

Mel. No; all the gods require it:
They are dishonour'd in him.

Evad. 'Tis too fearful.

Mel. You are valiant in his bed, and bold enough
To be a stale whore, and have your madam's name
Discourse for grooms and pages; and, hereafter,
When his cool majesty hath laid you by,
To be at pension with some needy sir,
For meat and coarser clothes; Thus far you know
No fear. Come, you shall kill him.

Evad. Good sir!

Mel. An 'twere to kiss him dead, thou shouldst smother him.
Be wise, and kill him. Canst thou live, and know
What noble minds shall make thee, see thyself
Found out with every finger, made the shame
Of all successions, and in this great ruin
Thy brother and thy noble husband broken?
Thou shalt not live thus. Kneel, and swear to help me,
When I shall call thee to it; or, by all
Holy in Heaven and earth, thou shalt not live
To breathe a full hour longer; not a thought!
Come, 'tis a righteous oath. Give me thy hands,
And, both to Heaven held up, swear, by that wealth
This lustful thief stole from thee, when I say it,
To let his foul soul out.

Evad. Here I swear it;

And, all you spirits of abused ladies,
Help me in this performance!

Mel. Enough. This must be known to none
 But you and I, Evadne; not to your lord,
 Though he be wise and noble, and a fellow
 Dares step as far into a worthy action
 As the most daring: ay, as far as justice.
 Ask me not why. Farewell. [Exit Melantius.]

Evad. 'Would I could say so to my black disgrace!
 Oh, where have I been all this time? how 'friended,
 That I should lose myself thus desperately,
 And none for pity show me how I wandered?
 There is not in the compass of the light
 A more unhappy creature: Sure, I am monstrous!
 For I have done those follies, those mad mischiefs,
 Would dare a woman. Oh, my loaden soul,
 Be not so cruel to me; choke not up
 The way to my repentance! Oh, my lord!

Enter AMINTOR.

Amin. How now?

Evad. My much-abused lord! [Kneels.]

Amin. This cannot be!

Evad. I do not kneel to live; I dare not hope it;
 The wrongs I did are greater. Look upon me,
 Though I appear with all my faults.

Amin. Stand up.

This is a new way to beget more sorrow:
 Heaven knows I have too many! Do not mock me:
 Though I am tame, and bred up with my wrongs,
 Which are my foster-brothers, I may leap,
 Like a hand-wolf, into my natural wildness,
 And do an outrage. Pr'ythee, do not mock me.

Evad. My whole life is so leprous, it infects
 All my repentance. I would buy your pardon,
 Though at the highest set; even with my life.
 That slight contrition, that's no sacrifice
 For what I have committed.

Amin. Sure I dazzle:

There cannot be a faith in that foul woman,
 That knows no god more mighty than her mischiefs.
 Thou dost still worse, still number on thy faults,
 To press my poor heart thus. Can I believe
 There's any seed of virtue in that woman
 Left to shoot up, that dares go on in sin,

Known, and so known as thine is. Oh, Evadne!
 'Would there were any safety in thy sex,
 That I might put a thousand sorrows off,
 And credit thy repentance! But I must not:
 Thou hast brought me to that dull calamity,
 To that strange misbelief of all the world,
 And all things that are in it, that I fear
 I shall fall like a tree, and find my grave,
 Only remembering that I grieve.

Evad. My lord,

Give me your griefs: You are an innocent,
 A soul as white as heaven; let not my sins
 Perish your noble youth. I do not fall here
 To shadow, by dissembling with my tears,
 (As, all say, women can), or to make less,
 What my hot will hath done, which Heaven and you
 Know to be tougher than the hand of time
 Can cut from man's remembrance. No, I do not:
 I do appear the same, the same Evadne,
 Drest in the shames I lived in: the same monster!
 But these are names of honour, to what I am:
 I do present myself the foulest creature,
 Most poisonous, dangerous, and despised of men,
 Lerna e'er bred, or Nilus! I am hell,
 Till you, my dear lord, shoot your light into me,
 The beams of your forgiveness. I am soul-sick,
 And wither with the fear of one condemn'd,
 Till I have got your pardon.

Amin. Rise, Evadne.

Those heavenly powers that put this good into thee,
 Grant a continuance of it! I forgive thee:
 Make thyself worthy of it; and take heed,
 Take heed, Evadne, this be serious.
 Mock not the powers above, that can and dare
 Give thee a great example of their justice
 To all ensuing eyes, if thou playest
 With thy repentance, the best sacrifice.

Evad. I have done nothing good to win belief,
 My life hath been so faithless. All the creatures,
 Made for Heaven's honours, have their ends, and good ones,
 All but the cozening crocodiles, false women!
 They reign here like those plagues, those killing sores,

Men pray against; and when they die, like tales
 Ill told and unbeliev'd, they pass away
 And go to dust forgotten! But, my lord,
 Those short days I shall number to my rest
 (As many must not see me) shall, though too late,
 Though in my evening, yet perceive a will;
 Since I can do no good, because a woman,
 Reach constantly at something that is near it:
 I will redeem one minute of my age,
 Or, like another Niobe, I'll weep
 Till I am water.

Amin. I am now dissolved:

My frozen soul melts. May each sin thou hast
 Find a new mercy! Rise; I am at peace.
 Hadst thou been thus, thus excellently good,
 Before that devil king tempted thy frailty,
 Sure thou hadst made a star! Give me thy hand.
 From this time I will know thee; and, as far
 As honour gives me leave, be thy Amintor.
 When we meet next, I will salute thee fairly,
 And pray the gods to give thee happy days.
 My charity shall go along with thee,
 Though my embraces must be far from thee.
 I should have kill'd thee, but this sweet repentance
 Locks up my vengeance; for which thus I kiss thee—
 The last kiss we must take! And 'would to Heaven
 The holy priest, that gave our hands together,
 Had given us equal virtues! Go, Evadne;
 The Gods thus part our bodies. Have a care
 My honour falls no farther: I am well then.

Evad. All the dear joys here, and, above, hereafter,
 Crown thy fair soul! Thus I take leave, my lord;
 And never shall you see the foul Evadne,
 Till she have tried all honour'd means, that may Set her in rest, and wash her stains away. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—The Presence Chamber.

Banquet—Enter KING and CALIANAX—Hautboys play within.

King. I cannot tell how I should credit this
 From you, that are his enemy.

Cal. I am sure

He said it to me; and I'll justify it
What way he dares oppose—but with my sword.

King. But did he break, without all circumstance,
To you, his foe, that he would have the fort,
To kill me, and then 'scape?

Cal. If he deny it,
I'll make him blush.

King. It sounds incredibly.

Cal. Ay, so does everything I say of late.

King. Not so, Calianax.

Cal. Yes, I should sit
Mute, whilst a rogue with strong arms cuts your throat.

King. Well, I will try him; and, if this be true,
I'll pawn my life I'll find it. If't be false,
And that you clothe your hate in such a lie,
You shall hereafter dote in your own house,
Not in the court.

Cal. Why, if it be a lie,
Mine ears are false; for, I'll be sworn, I heard it.
Old men are good for nothing: You were best
Put me to death for hearing, and free him
For meaning it. You would have trusted me
Once, but the time is alter'd.

King. And will still,
Where I may do with justice to the world:
You have no witness?

Cal. Yes, myself.

King. No more,
I mean, there were that heard it.

Cal. How! no more?
Would you have more? why, am not I enough
To hang a thousand rogues?

King. But, so, you may
Hang honest men too, if you please.

Cal. I may!
'Tis like I will do so: There are a hundred
Will swear it for a need too, if I say it—

King. Such witnesses we need not.

Cal. And 'tis hard
If my word cannot hang a boisterous knave.

King. Enough.—Where's Strato?

Enter STRATO.

Stra. Sir!

King. Why, where's all the company? Call Amintor in;
Evadne. Where's my brother, and Melantius?
Bid him come too; and Diphilus. Call all
That are without there. [Exit Strato.]
If he should desire
The combat of you, 'tis not in the power
Of all our laws to hinder it, unless
We mean to quit 'em.

Cal. Why, if you do think
'Tis fit an old man, and a counsellor,
Do fight for what he says, then you may grant it.

Enter AMINTOR, EVADNE, MELANTIUS, DIPHILUS, LYSIPPUS, CLEON, STRATO, DIAGORAS.

King. Come, sirs!—Amintor, thou art yet a bridegroom,
And I will use thee so: Thou shalt sit down.—
Evadne, sit; and you, Amintor, too:
This banquet is for you, sir.—Who has brought
A merry tale about him, to raise laughter
Amongst our wine? Why, Strato, where art thou?
Thou wilt chop out with them unseasonably,
When I desire them not.

Stra. 'Tis my ill luck, sir, so to spend them then.

King. Reach me a bowl of wine.—Melantius, thou
Art sad.

Mel. I should be, sir, the merriest here,
But I have ne'er a story of my own
Worth telling at this time.

King. Give me the wine.
Melantius, I am now considering
How easy 'twere, for any man we trust,
To poison one of us in such a bowl.

Mel. I think it were not hard, sir, for a knave.

Cal. Such as you are. [Aside.]

King. I'faith, 'twere easy: It becomes us well
To get plain-dealing men about ourselves;
Such as you all are here.—Amintor, to thee;
And to thy fair Evadne.

Mel. Have you thought
Of this, Calianax? [Apart to him.]

Cal. Yes, marry, have I.

Mel. And what's your resolution?

Cal. You shall have it,—

Soundly, I warrant you.

King. Reach to Amintor, Strato.

Amin. Here, my love,

This wine will do thee wrong, for it will set
Blushes upon thy cheeks; and, till thou dost
A fault, 'twere pity.

King. Yet, I wonder much

At the strange desperation of these men,
That dare attempt such acts here in our state:
He could not 'scape, that did it.

Mel. Were he known,

Impossible.

King. It would be known, Melantius.

Mel. It ought to be: If he got then away,

He must wear all our lives upon his sword.
He need not fly the island; he must leave
No one alive.

King. No; I should think no man

Could kill me, and 'scape clear, but that old man.

Cal. But I! heaven bless me! I! should I, my liege?

King. I do not think thou would'st; but yet thou might'st;

For thou hast in thy hands the means to 'scape,
By keeping of the fort.—He has, Melantius,
And he has kept it well.

Mel. From cobwebs, sir,

'Tis clean swept: I can find no other art
In keeping of it now: 'Twas ne'er besieged
Since he commanded it.

Cal. I shall be sure

Of your good word: But I have kept it safe
From such as you.

Mel. Keep your ill temper in:

I speak no malice. Had my brother kept it,
I should have said as much.

King. You are not merry.

Brother, drink wine. Sit you all still:—Calianax,

[Apart to him.

I cannot trust thus: I have thrown out words,
That would have fetch'd warm blood upon the cheeks
Of guilty men, and he is never moved:

He knows no such thing.

Cal. Impudence may 'scape,
When feeble virtue is accused.

King. He must,
If he were guilty, feel an alteration
At this our whisper, whilst we point at him:
You see he does not.

Cal. Let him hang himself:
What care I what he does? This he did say.

King. Melantius, you can easily conceive
What I have meant; for men that are in fault
Can subtly apprehend, when others aim
At what they do amiss: But I forgive
Freely, before this man. Heaven do so too!
I will not touch thee, so much as with shame
Of telling it. Let it be so no more.

Cal. Why, this is very fine.

Mel. I cannot tell
What 'tis you mean; but I am apt enough
Rudely to thrust into an ignorant fault.
But let me know it: Happily, 'tis nought
But misconstruction; and, where I am clear,
I will not take forgiveness of the gods,
Much less of you.

King. Nay, if you stand so stiff,
I shall call back my mercy.

Mel. I want smoothness
To thank a man for pardoning of a crime
I never knew.

King. Not to instruct your knowledge, but to show you
My ears are everywhere, you meant to kill me,
And get the fort to 'scape.

Mel. Pardon me, sir;
My bluntness will be pardoned: You preserve
A race of idle people here about you,
Facers and talkers, to defame the worth
Of those that do things worthy. The man that utter'd this
Had perish'd without food, be't who it will,
But for this arm, that fenced him from the foe.
And if I thought you gave a faith to this,
The plainness of my nature would speak more.
Give me a pardon (for you ought to do't)

To kill him that spake this.

Cal. Ay, that will be
The end of all: Then I am fairly paid
For all my care and service.

Mel. That old man,
Who calls me enemy, and of whom I
(Though I will never match my hate so low)
Have no good thought, would yet, I think, excuse me,
And swear he thought me wrong'd in this.

Cal. Who—I?
Thou shameless fellow! Didst thou not speak to me
Of it thyself?

Mel. Oh, then it came from him?

Cal. From me! who should it come from, but from me?

Mel. Nay, I believe your malice is enough:
But I have lost my anger.—Sir, I hope
You are well satisfied.

King. Lysippus, cheer
Amintor and his lady; there's no sound
Comes from you; I will come and do't myself.

Amin. You have done already, sir, for me,
I thank you.

[Apart.

King. Melantius, I do credit this from him,
How slight soe'er you make't.

Mel. 'Tis strange you should.

Cal. 'Tis strange he should believe an old man's word
That never lied in's life.

Mel. I talk not to thee!—
Shall the wild words of this distemper'd man,
Frantic with age and sorrow, make a breach
Betwixt your majesty and me? 'Twas wrong
To hearken to him; but to credit him,
As much, at least, as I have power to bear.
But pardon me—whilst I speak only truth,
I may commend myself—I have bestow'd
My careless blood with you, and should be loth
To think an action that would make me lose
That, and my thanks too. When I was a boy,
I thrust myself into my country's cause,
And did a deed that pluck'd five years from time,
And styled me man then. And for you, my king,
Your subjects all have fed by virtue of
My arm. This sword of mine hath plough'd the ground,

And reapt the fruit in peace;
 And you yourself have lived at home in ease.
 So terrible I grew, that, without swords,
 My name hath fetch'd you conquest: And my heart
 And limbs are still the same: my will as great
 To do you service. Let me not be paid
 With such a strange distrust.

King. Melantius,
 I held it great injustice to believe
 Thine enemy, and did not; if I did,
 I do not; let that satisfy.—What, struck
 With sadness all? More wine!

Cal. A few fine words
 Have overthrown my truth. Ah, thou'rt a villain!

Mel. Why, thou wert better let me have the fort,
[Apart to him.

Dotard! I will disgrace thee thus for ever:
 There shall no credit lie upon thy words.
 Think better, and deliver it.

Cal. My liege,
 He's at me now again to do it.—Speak;
 Deny it, if thou canst.—Examine him
 While he is hot; for if he cool again,
 He will forswear it.

King. This is lunacy,
 I hope, Melantius.

Mel. He hath lost himself
 Much, since his daughter miss'd the happiness
 My sister gain'd; and, though he call me foe,
 I pity him.

Cal. Pity? a pox upon you!

Mel. Mark his disordered words! And, at the masque,
 Diagoras knows, he raged, and rail'd at me,
 And call'd a lady whore, so innocent
 She understood him not. But it becomes
 Both you and me too to forgive distraction:
 Pardon him, as I do.

Cal. I'll not speak for thee,
 For all thy cunning.—If you will be safe,
 Chop off his head; for there was never known
 So impudent a rascal.

King. Some, that love him,
 Get him to bed. Why, pity should not let

Age make itself contemptible; we must be
All old; have him away.

Mel. Calianax, [Apart to him.

The king believes you; come, you shall go home,
And rest; you have done well. You'll give it up
When I have used you thus a month, I hope.

Cal. Now, now, 'tis plain, sir; he does move me still.
He says, he knows I'll give him up the fort,
When he has used me thus a month. I am mad,
Am I not, still?

All. Ha, ha, ha!

Cal. I shall be mad indeed, if you do thus!
Why should you trust a sturdy fellow there
(That has no virtue in him; all's in his sword)
Before me? Do but take his weapons from him,
And he's an ass; and I'm a very fool,
Both with him, and without him, as you use me.

All. Ha, ha, ha!

King. 'Tis well, Calianax. But if you use
This once again, I shall entreat some other
To see your offices be well discharged.
Be merry, gentlemen; it grows somewhat late.—
Amintor, thou wouldst be a-bed again.

Amin. Yes, sir.

King. And you, Evadne.—Let me take Thee in my arms, Melantius, and believe
Thou art, as thou deserv'st to be, my friend
Still, and for ever.—Good Calianax,
Sleep soundly; it will bring thee to thyself.

[Exeunt all but Melantius and Calianax.

Cal. Sleep soundly! I sleep soundly now, I hope;
I could not be thus else.—How darest thou stay
Alone with me, knowing how thou hast used me?

Mel. You cannot blast me with your tongue, and that's
The strongest part you have about you.

Cal. I

Do look for some great punishment for this;
For I begin to forget all my hate,
And take't unkindly that mine enemy
Should use me so extraordinarily scurvily.

Mel. I shall melt too, if you begin to take Unkindnesses: I never meant you hurt.

Cal. Thou'lt anger me again. Thou wretched rogue,

Meant me no hurt! Disgrace me, with the king;
Lose all my offices! This is no hurt,
Is it? I pr'ythee, what dost thou call hurt?

Mel. To poison men, because they love me not;
To call the credit of men's wives in question;
To murder children betwixt me and land;
This is all hurt.

Cal. All this thou think'st is sport;
For mine is worse: But use thy will with me;
For, betwixt grief and anger, I could cry.

Mel. Be wise then, and be safe; thou may'st revenge.

Cal. Ay, o' the king? I would revenge o' thee.

Mel. That you must plot yourself.

Cal. I'm a fine plotter.

Mel. The short is, I will hold thee with the king
In this perplexity, till peevishness
And thy disgrace have laid thee in thy grave.
But if thou wilt deliver up the fort,
I'll take thy trembling body in my arms,
And bear thee over dangers: Thou shalt hold
Thy wonted state.

Cal. If I should tell the king,
Canst thou deny't again?

Mel. Try, and believe.

Cal. Nay, then, thou canst bring anything about.
Thou shalt have the fort.

Mel. Why, well;
Here let our hate be buried; and this hand
Shall right us both. Give me thy aged breast
To compass.

Cal. Nay, I do not love thee yet;
I cannot well endure to look on thee:
And, if I thought it were a courtesy,
Thou should'st not have it. But I am disgraced;
My offices are to be ta'en away;
And, if I did but hold this fort a day,
I do believe, the king would take it from me,
And give it thee, things are so strangely carried.
Ne'er thank me for't; but yet the king shall know
There was some such thing in't I told him of;
And that I was an honest man.

Mel. He'll buy
That knowledge very dearly.—Diphilus,

Enter DIPHILUS.

What news with thee?

Diph. This were a night indeed

To do it in: The king hath sent for her.

Mel. She shall perform it then.—Go, Diphilus,
And take from this good man, my worthy friend,
The fort; he'll give it thee.

Diph. Have you got that?

Cal. Art thou of the same breed? Canst thou deny
This to the king too?

Diph. With a confidence
As great as his.

Cal. 'Faith, like enough.

Mel. Away, and use him kindly.

Cal. Touch not me;
I hate the whole strain. If thou follow me,
A great way off, I'll give thee up the fort;
And hang yourselves.

Mel. Be gone.

Diph. He's finely wrought. [Exeunt Calianax and Diphilus.]

Mel. This is a night, 'spite of astronomers,
To do the deed in. I will wash the stain,
That rests upon our house, off with his blood.

Enter AMINTOR.

Amin. Melantius, now assist me: If thou be'st
That which thou say'st, assist me. I have lost
All my distempers, and have found a rage
So pleasing! Help me.

Mel. Who can see him thus,
And not swear vengeance?—What's the matter, friend?

Amin. Out with thy sword; and, hand in hand with me,
Rush to the chamber of this hated king:
And sink him, with the weight of all his sins,
To hell for ever.

Mel. 'Twere a rash attempt,
Not to be done with safety. Let your reason
Plot your revenge, and not your passion.

Amin. If thou refuseth me in these extremes,
Thou art no friend: He sent for her to me;
By Heaven, to me, myself! And, I must tell you,
I love her, as a stranger; there is worth

In that vile woman, worthy things, Melantius;
And she repents. I'll do't myself alone,
Though I be slain. Farewell.

Mel. He'll overthrow

My whole design with madness.—Amintor,
Think what thou dost: I dare as much as Valour;
But 'tis the king, the king, the king, Amintor,
With whom thou fightest!—I know he's honest,
And this will work with him. [Aside.

Amin. I cannot tell

What thou hast said; but thou hast charm'd my sword
Out of my hand, and left me shaking here, Defenceless.

Mel. I will take it up for thee.

Amin. What a wild beast is uncollected man!

The thing, that we call honour, bears us all
Headlong to sin, and yet itself is nothing.

Mel. Alas, how variable are thy thoughts!

Amin. Just like my fortunes: I was run to that

I purposed to have chid thee for. Some plot,
I did distrust, thou hadst against the king,
By that old fellow's carriage. But take heed;
There's not the least limb growing to a king,
But carries thunder in it.

Mel. I have none
Against him.

Amin. Why, come then; and still remember,
We may not think revenge.

Mel. I will remember. [Exeunt.

ACT V

SCENE I.—A Room in the Palace.

Enter EVADNE and a Gentleman.

Evad. Sir, is the king a-bed?

Gent. Madam, an hour ago.

Evad. Give me the key then, and let none be near;
'Tis the king's pleasure.

Gent. I understand you, madam; 'would 'twere mine.

I must not wish good rest unto your ladyship.

Evad. You talk, you talk.

Gent. 'Tis all I dare do, madam; but the king
Will wake, and then——

Evad. Saving your imagination, pray, good night, sir.

Gent. A good night be it then, and a long one, madam.

I am gone.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—The Bedchamber. The KING discovered in Bed, sleeping.

Enter EVADNE.

Evad. The night grows horrible; and all about me
Like my black purpose. Oh, the conscience
Of a lost virgin! whither wilt thou pull me?
To what things, dismal as the depth of hell,
Wilt thou provoke me? Let no woman dare
From this hour be disloyal, if her heart be flesh,
If she have blood, and can fear: 'Tis a daring
Above that desperate fool's that left his peace,
And went to sea to fight. 'Tis so many sins,
An age cannot repent 'em; and so great,
The gods want mercy for! Yet I must through 'em.
I have begun a slaughter on my honour,
And I must end it there.—He sleeps. Good Heavens!
Why give you peace to this untemperate beast,
That hath so long transgress'd you; I must kill him,
And I will do it bravely: The mere joy
Tells me, I merit in it. Yet I must not Thus tamely do it, as he sleeps; that were
To rock him to another world: My vengeance
Shall take him waking, and then lay before him
The number of his wrongs and punishments.
I'll shake his sins like furies, till I waken
His evil angel, his sick conscience;
And then I'll strike him dead. King, by your leave:
[Ties his arms to the bed.]
I dare not trust your strength. Your grace and I Must grapple upon even terms no more.
So. If he rail me not from my resolution,
I shall be strong enough.—My lord the king!!
My lord!—He sleeps, as if he meant to wake
No more.—My lord!—Is he not dead already?
Sir! My lord!

King. Who's that?

Evad. Oh, you sleep soundly, sir!

King. My dear Evadne,

I have been dreaming of thee. Come to bed.

Evad. I am come at length, sir; but how welcome?

King. What pretty new device is this, Evadne?

What, do you tie me to you? By my love,

This is a quaint one. Come, my dear, and kiss me.

I'll be thy Mars; to bed, my queen of love:

Let us be caught together, that the gods

May see, and envy our embraces.

Evad. Stay, sir, stay;

You are too hot, and I have brought you physic

To temper your high veins.

King. Pr'ythee, to bed then; let me take it warm;

There thou shalt know the state of my body better.

Evad. I know you have a surfeited foul body;

And you must bleed.

King. Bleed!

Evad. Ay, you shall bleed! Lie still; and, if the devil,

Your lust, will give you leave, repent. This steel

Comes to redeem the honour that you stole,

King, my fair name; which nothing but thy death

Can answer to the world.

King. How's this, Evadne?

Evad. I am not she; nor bear I in this breast

So much cold spirit to be call'd a woman.

I am a tiger; I am anything

That knows not pity. Stir not! If thou dost,

I'll take thee unprepared; thy fears upon thee,

That make thy sins look double; and so send thee

(By my revenge, I will) to look those torments

Prepared for such black souls.

King. Thou dost not mean this; 'tis impossible:

Thou art too sweet and gentle.

Evad. No, I am not.

I am as foul as thou art, and can number

As many such hells here. I was once fair,

Once I was lovely; not a blowing rose

More chastely sweet, till thou, thou, thou foul canker,

(Stir not) didst poison me. I was a world of virtue,

Till your curst court and you (Hell bless you for't!)

With your temptations on temptations,

Made me give up mine honour; for which, king,
I'm come to kill thee.

King. No!

Evad. I am.

King. Thou art not!

I pr'ythee speak not these things: Thou art gentle,
And wert not meant thus rugged.

Evad. Peace, and hear me.

Stir nothing but your tongue, and that for mercy
To those above us; by whose lights I vow,
Those blessed fires that shot to see our sin,
If thy hot soul had substance with thy blood,
I would kill that too; which, being past my steel,
My tongue shall reach. Thou art a shameless villain!
A thing out of the overcharge of nature;
Sent, like a thick cloud, to disperse a plague
Upon weak catching women! such a tyrant,
That for his lust would sell away his subjects!
Ay, all his Heaven hereafter!

King. Hear, Evadne,

Thou soul of sweetness, hear! I am thy king.

Evad. Thou art my shame! Lie still, there's none about you,
Within your cries: All promises of safety
Are but deluding dreams. Thus, thus, thou foul man,
Thus I begin my vengeance! [Stabs him.]

King. Hold, Evadne!

I do command thee, hold.

Evad. I do not mean, sir.

To part so fairly with you; we must change
More of these love-tricks yet.

King. What bloody villain
Provoked thee to this murder?

Evad. Thou, thou monster.

King. Oh!

Evad. Thou kept'st me brave at court, and whor'd'st me,
king;

Then married me to a young noble gentleman,
And whor'd'st me still.

King. Evadne, pity me.

Evad. Hell take me then! This for my lord Amintor!

This for my noble brother! and this stroke
For the most wrong'd of women! [Kills him.]

King. Oh! I die.

Evad. Die all our faults together! I forgive thee. [Exit.

Enter two Gentlemen of the Bedchamber.

1 Gent. Come, now she's gone, let's enter; the king expects it, and will be angry.

2 Gent. 'Tis a fine wench; we'll have a snap at her one of these nights, as she goes from him.

1 Gent. Content. How quickly he had done with her! I see, kings can do no more that way than other mortal people.

2 Gent. How fast he is! I cannot hear him breathe.

1 Gent. Either the tapers give a feeble light,
Or he looks very pale.

2 Gent. And so he does:

Pray Heaven he be well; let's look.—Alas!

He's stiff, wounded and dead: Treason, treason!

1 Gent. Run forth and call.

2 Gent. Treason, treason! [Exit.

1 Gent. This will be laid on us:

Who can believe a woman could do this?

Enter CLEON and LYSIPPUS.

Cleon. How now! Where's the traitor?

1 Gent. Fled, fled, away; but there her woful act lies still.

Cleon. Her act! a woman!

Lys. Where's the body?

1 Gent. There.

Lys. Farewell, thou worthy man! There were two bonds

That tied our loves, a brother and a king;

The least of which might fetch a flood of tears:

But such the misery of greatness is,

They have no time to mourn; then pardon me!—

Enter STRATO.

Sirs, which way went she?

Stra. Never follow her;

For she, alas! was but the instrument.

News is now brought in, that Melantius

Has got the fort, and stands upon the wall;

And with a loud voice calls those few, that pass

At this dead time of night, delivering
The innocence of this act.

Lys. Gentlemen,
I am your king.

Stra. We do acknowledge it.

Lys. I would I were not! Follow, all; for this Must have a sudden stop.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE III.—Before the Citadel.

Enter MELANTIUS, DIPHILUS, and CALIANAX, on the Walls.

Mel. If the dull people can believe I am arm'd,
(Be constant, Diphilus!) now we have time,
Either to bring our banish'd honours home,
Or create new ones in our ends.

Diph. I fear not;
My spirit lies not that way.—Courage, Calianax.

Cal. 'Would I had any! you should quickly know it.

Mel. Speak to the people: Thou art eloquent.

Cal. 'Tis a fine eloquence to come to the gallows!
You were born to be my end. The devil take you!
Now must I hang for company. 'Tis strange,
I should be old, and neither wise nor valiant.

Enter below, LYSIPPUS, DIAGORAS, CLEON, STRATO, and Guard.

Lys. See where he stands, as boldly confident
As if he had his full command about him.

Stra. He looks as if he had the better cause, sir;
Under your gracious pardon, let me speak it!
Though he be mighty-spirited, and forward
To all great things; to all things of that danger
Worse men shake at the telling of; yet, certainly,
I do believe him noble; and this action
Rather pull'd on, than sought: his mind was ever
As worthy as his hand

Lys. 'Tis my fear, too.
Heaven forgive all! Summon him, lord Cleon.

Cleon. Ho, from the walls there!

Mel. Worthy Cleon, welcome.
We could have wish'd you here, lord. You are honest.

Cal. Well, thou art as flattering a knave, though
I dare not tell thee so——

[Aside.

Lys. Melantius!

Mel. Sir?

Lys. I am sorry that we meet thus; our old love
Never required such distance. Pray Heaven,
You have not left yourself, and sought this safety
More out of fear than honour! You have lost
A noble master; which your faith, Melantius,
Some think, might have preserved: Yet you know best.

Cal. When time was, I was mad; some, that dares fight,
I hope will pay this rascal.

Mel. Royal young man, whose tears look lovely on thee;
Had they been shed for a deserving one,
They had been lasting monuments! Thy brother,
While he was good, I call'd him king; and served him
With that strong faith, that most unwearied valour,
Pull'd people from the farthest sun to seek him,
And beg his friendship. I was then his soldier.
But since his hot pride drew him to disgrace me,
And brand my noble actions with his lust
(That never-cured dishonour of my sister,
Base stain of whore! and, which is worse,
The joy to make it still so) like myself,
Thus I have flung him off with my allegiance;
And stand here mine own justice, to revenge
What I have suffered in him; and this old man,
Wronged almost to lunacy.

Cal. Who—I?

You would draw me in. I have had no wrong,
I do disclaim ye all.

Mel. The short is this:

'Tis no ambition to lift up myself
Urgeth me thus; I do desire again
To be a subject, so I may be free.
If not, I know my strength, and will unbuild
This goodly town. Be speedy and be wise,
In a reply.

Stra. Be sudden, sir, to tie

All up again: What's done is past recall,
And past you to revenge: and there are thousands,
That wait for such a troubled hour as this.
Throw him the blank.

- Lys.* Melantius, write in that Thy choice: My seal is at it. [Throws him a paper.]
- Mel.* It was our honours drew us to this act,
 Not gain; and we will only work our pardons.
- Cal.* Put my name in too.
- Diph.* You disclaim'd us all
 But now, Calianax.
- Cal.* That is all one:
 I'll not be hang'd hereafter by a trick:
 I'll have it in.
- Mel.* You shall, you shall.—
 Come to the back gate, and we'll call you king,
 And give you up the fort.
- Lys.* Away, away. [Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—Antechamber to Evadne's Apartments in the Palace.

Enter ASPATIA, in man's apparel.

- Asp.* This is my fatal hour. Heaven may forgive
 My rash attempt, that causelessly hath laid
 Grievs on me that will never let me rest;
 And put a woman's heart into my breast.
 It is more honour for you, that I die;
 For she, that can endure the misery
 That I have on me, and be patient too,
 May live and laugh at all that you can do.

Enter Servant.

- God save you, sir!
- Ser.* And you, sir. What's your business?
- Asp.* With you, sir, now; to do me the fair office
 To help me to your lord.
- Ser.* What, would you serve him?
- Asp.* I'll do him any service; but to haste,
 For my affairs are earnest, I desire
 To speak with him.
- Ser.* Sir, because you're in such haste, I would be loth
 Delay you any longer: You cannot.
- Asp.* It shall become you, though, to tell your lord.
- Ser.* Sir, he will speak with nobody; but, in particular,
 I have in charge, about no weighty matters.

Asp. This is most strange. Art thou gold-proof?
There's for thee; help me to him.

Ser. Pray be not angry, sir. I'll do my best.

[Exit.

Asp. How stubbornly this fellow answered me!
There is a vile dishonest trick in man,
More than in woman: All the men I meet
Appear thus to me, are all harsh and rude;
And have a subtilty in everything,
Which love could never know. But we fond women
Harbour the easiest and the smoothest thoughts,
And think, all shall go so! It is unjust,
That men and women should be match'd together.

Enter AMINTOR and his Man.

Amin. Where is he?

Ser. There, my lord.

Amin. What would you, sir?

Asp. Please it your lordship to command your man
Out of the room, I shall deliver things
Worthy your hearing.

Amin. Leave us.

[Exit Servant.

Asp. Oh, that that shape
Should bury falsehood in it!

[Aside.

Amin. Now your will, sir.

Asp. When you know me, my lord, you needs must guess
My business; and I am not hard to know;
For till the chance of war mark'd this smooth face
With these few blemishes, people would call me
My sister's picture, and her mine. In short,
I am the brother to the wrong'd Aspatia.

Amin. The wrong'd Aspatia! 'Would thou wert so too
Unto the wrong'd Amintor! Let me kiss
That hand of thine, in honour that I bear
Unto the wrong'd Aspatia. Here I stand,
That did it. 'Would he could not! Gentle youth,
Leave me; for there is something in thy looks,
That calls my sins, in a most hideous form,
Into my mind; and I have grief enough
Without thy help.

Asp. I would I could with credit.
Since I was twelve years old, I had not seen
My sister till this hour; I now arrived:

She sent for me to see her marriage ;
 A woful one ! But they, that are above,
 Have ends in everything. She used few words,
 But yet enough to make me understand
 The baseness of the injuries you did her.
 That little training I have had, is war :
 I may behave myself rudely in peace ;
 I would not, though. I shall not need to tell you,
 I am but young, and would be loth to lose
 Honour, that is not easily gained again.
 Fairly I mean to deal : The age is strict
 For single combats ; and we shall be stopp'd,
 If it be publish'd. If you like your sword,
 Use it ; if mine appear a better to you,
 Change : for the ground is this, and this the time,
 To end our difference.

Amin. Charitable youth,
 (If thou be'st such) think not I will maintain
 So strange a wrong : And, for thy sister's sake,
 Know, that I could not think that desperate thing
 I durst not do ; yet, to enjoy this world,
 I would not see her ; for, beholding thee,
 I am I know not what. If I have aught,
 That may content thee, take it, and begone ;
 For death is not so terrible as thou.
 Thine eyes shoot guilt into me.

Asp. Thus, she swore,
 Thou wouldst behave thyself ; and give me words
 That would fetch tears into mine eyes ; and so
 Thou dost indeed. But yet she bade me watch,
 Lest I were cozen'd ; and be sure to fight
 Ere I return'd.

Amin. That must not be with me.
 For her I'll die directly ; but against her
 Will never hazard it.

Asp. You must be urged.
 I do not deal uncivilly with those
 That dare to fight ; but such a one as you
 Must be used thus. [She strikes him.]

Amin. I pr'ythee, youth, take heed.
 Thy sister is a thing to me so much
 Above mine honour, that I can endure
 All this. Good gods ! a blow I can endure !

But stay not, lest thou draw a timeless death
Upon thyself.

Asp. Thou art some prating fellow;
One, that hath studied out a trick to talk,
And move soft-hearted people; to be kicked

[She kicks him.]

Thus, to be kick'd!—Why should he be so slow
In giving me my death?

[Aside.]

Amin. A man can bear

No more, and keep his flesh. Forgive me, then!

I would endure yet, if I could. Now show

[Draws.]

The spirit thou pretend'st, and understand,
Thou hast no hour to live.—

[They fight; Aspatia is wounded.]

What dost thou mean?

Thou canst not fight: the blows thou mak'st at me
Are quite besides; and those I offer at thee,
Thou spread'st thine arms, and tak'st upon thy breast,
Alas, defenceless!

Asp. I have got enough,
And my desire. There is no place so fit
For me to die as here.

Enter EVADNE, her Hands bloody, with a Knife.

Evad. Amintor, I am loaden with events,
That fly to make thee happy. I have joys,
That in a moment can call back thy wrongs,
And settle thee in thy free state again.
It is Evadne still that follows thee,
But not her mischiefs.

Amin. Thou canst not fool me to believe again;
But thou hast looks and things so full of news,
That I am stay'd.

Evad. Noble Amintor, put off thy amaze,
Let thine eyes loose, and speak: Am I not fair?
Looks not Evadne beauteous, with these rites now
Were those hours half so lovely in thine eyes,
When our hands met before the holy man?
I was too foul within to look fair then:
Since I knew ill, I was not free till now.

Amin. There is presage of some important thing
About thee, which, it seems, thy tongue hath lost.
Thy hands are bloody, and thou hast a knife!

Evad. In this consists thy happiness and mine.

Joy to Amintor! for the king is dead.

Amin. Those have most power to hurt us, that we love;

We lay our sleeping lives within their arms!

Why, thou hast raised up Mischief to his height,
And found out one, to out-name thy other faults.

Thou hast no intermission of thy sins,

But all thy life is a continued ill.

Black is thy colour now, disease thy nature.

Joy to Amintor! Thou hast touch'd a life,

The very name of which had power to chain

Up all my rage, and calm my wildest wrongs.

Evad. 'Tis done; and since I could not find a way

To meet thy love so clear as through his life,

I cannot now repent it.

Amin. Couldst thou procure the gods to speak to me,

To bid me love this woman, and forgive,

I think I should fall out with them. Behold,

Here lies a youth whose wounds bleed in my breast,

Sent by his violent fate, to fetch his death

From my slow hand: And, to augment my woe,

You now are present, stain'd with a king's blood,

Violently shed. This keeps night here,

And throws an unknown wilderness about me.

Asp. Oh, oh, oh!

Amin. No more; pursue me not.

Evad. Forgive me then,

And take me to thy bed. We may not part. [Kneels.

Amin. Forbear! Be wise, and let my rage go this way.

Evad. 'Tis you that I would stay, not it.

Amin. Take heed;

It will return with me.

Evad. If it must be,

I shall not fear to meet it: take me home.

Amin. Thou monster of cruelty, forbear!

Evad. For heaven's sake, look more calm: thine eyes are sharper

Than thou canst make thy sword.

Amin. Away, away!

Thy knees are more to me than violence.

I am worse than sick to see knees follow me,

For that I must not grant. For Heaven's sake stand.

Evad. Receive me, then.

Amin. I dare not stay thy language;
 In midst of all my anger and my grief,
 Thou dost awake something that troubles me,
 And says, "I loved thee once." I dare not stay;
 There is no end of woman's reasoning. [Leaves her.]

Evad. Amintor, thou shalt love me now again:
 Go; I am calm. Farewell, and peace for ever!
 Evadne, whom thou hat'st, will die for thee.
 [Kills herself.]

Amin. I have a little human nature yet,
 That's left for thee, that bids me stay thy hand.
 [Returns.]

Evad. Thy hand was welcome, but it came too late.
 Oh, I am lost! the heavy sleep makes haste. [She dies.]

Asp. Oh, oh, oh!

Amin. This earth of mine doth tremble, and I feel
 A stark affrighted motion in my blood:
 My soul grows weary of her house, and I
 All over am a trouble to myself.
 There is some hidden power in these dead things,
 That calls my flesh unto 'em: I am cold!
 Be resolute, and bear 'em company.
 There's something, yet, which I am loth to leave.
 There's man enough in me to meet the fears
 That death can bring; and yet, 'would it were done!
 I can find nothing in the whole discourse
 Of death, I durst not meet the boldest way;
 Yet still, betwixt the reason and the act,
 The wrong I to Aspatia did stands up:
 I have not such another fault to answer.
 Though she may justly arm herself with scorn
 And hate of me, my soul will part less troubled,
 When I have paid to her in tears my sorrow.
 I will not leave this act unsatisfied,
 If all that's left in me can answer it.

Asp. Was it a dream? There stands Amintor still;
 Or I dream still.

Amin. How dost thou? Speak! receive my love and help.
 Thy blood climbs up to his old place again:
 There's hope of thy recovery.

Asp. Did you not name Aspatia?

Amin. I did.

Asp. And talk'd of tears and sorrow unto her?

Amin. 'Tis true; and till these happy signs in thee
Did stay my course, 'twas thither I was going.

Asp. Thou art there already, and these wounds are hers:
Those threats I brought with me sought not revenge;
But came to fetch this blessing from thy hand.
I am Aspatia yet.

Amin. Dare my soul ever look abroad again?

Asp. I shall surely live, Amintor; I am well:
A kind of healthful joy wanders within me.

Amin. The world wants lives to excuse thy loss!
Come, let me bear thee to some place of help.

Asp. Amintor, thou must stay; I must rest here;
My strength begins to disobey my will.
How dost thou, my best soul? I would fain live
Now, if I could: Wouldst thou have loved me then?

Amin. Alas?

All that I am's not worth a hair from thee.

Asp. Give me thy hand; my hands grope up and down,
And cannot find thee: I am wondrous sick:
Have I thy hand, Amintor?

Amin. Thou greatest blessing of the world, thou hast.

Asp. I do believe thee better than my sense.

Oh! I must go. Farewell!

[Dies.

Amin. She swoons! Aspatia!—Help! for Heaven's sake, water!

Such as may chain life ever to this frame.—
Aspatia, speak!—What, no help yet? I fool!
I'll chafe her temples: Yet there's nothing stirs;
Some hidden power tell her, Amintor calls,
And let her answer me!—Aspatia, speak!—
I have heard, if there be any life, but bow
The body thus, and it will show itself.
Oh, she is gone! I will not leave her yet.
Since out of justice we must challenge nothing,
I'll call it mercy, if you'll pity me,
Ye heavenly powers! and lend, for some few years,
The blessed soul to this fair seat again.
No comfort comes; the gods deny me too!
I'll bow the body once again.—Aspatia!—
The soul is fled for ever; and I wrong
Myself, so long to lose her company.
Must I talk now? Here's to be with thee, love!

[Stabs himself.

Enter Servant.

Serv. This is a great grace to my lord, to have the new king come to him: I must tell him he is entering.—Oh, God! Help! help!

Enter LYSIPPUS, MELANTIUS, CALIANAX, CLEON, DIPHILUS, and STRATO.

Lys. Where's Amintor?

Serv. Oh, there, there.

Lys. How strange is this!

Cal. What should we do here?

Mel. These deaths are such acquainted things with me,
That yet my heart dissolves not. May I stand
Stiff here for ever! Eyes, call up your tears!
This is Amintor: Heart! he was my friend;
Melt; now it flows.—Amintor, give a word
To call me to thee.

Amin. Oh!

Mel. Melantius calls his friend Amintor. Oh!
Thy arms are kinder to me than thy tongue!
Speak, speak!

Amin. What?

Mel. That little word was worth all the sounds
That ever I shall hear again.

Diph. Oh, brother!

Here lies your sister slain; you lose yourself
In sorrow there.

Mel. Why, Diphilus, it is
A thing to laugh at, in respect of this:
Here was my sister, father, brother, son;
All that I had!—Speak once again: What youth
Lies slain there by thee?

Amin. 'Tis Aspatia.

My last is said. Let me give up my soul
Into thy bosom.

[Dies.

Cal. What's that? what's that? Aspatia!

Mel. I never did
Repent the greatness of my heart till now;
It will not burst at need.

Cal. My daughter dead here too! And you have all fine new tricks to grieve; but I ne'er knew any but direct crying.

Mel. I am a prattler; but no more. [Offers to kill himself.]

Diph. Hold, brother.

Lys. Stop him.

Diph. Fie! how unmanly was this offer in you;

Does this become our strain?

Cal. I know not what the matter is, but I am grown very kind, and am friends with you. You have given me that among you will kill me quickly; but I'll go home, and live as long as I can.

Mel. His spirit is but poor that can be kept
From death for want of weapons.
Is not my hand a weapon sharp enough
To stop my breath? or, if you tie down those,
I vow, Amintor, I will never eat,
Or drink, or sleep, or have to do with that
That may preserve life! This I swear to keep.

Lys. Look to him though, and bear those bodies in.
May this a fair example be to me,
To rule with temper: For, on lustful kings,
Unlook'd-for, sudden deaths from heaven are sent;
But curst is he that is their instrument. [Exeunt.]

SCENE.—DURING THE FIRST ACT, ON THE FRONTIERS OF ARMENIA; AFTERWARDS IN THE METROPOLIS OF IBERIA.

ACT I

SCENE I.—The Camp of Arbaces, on the Frontiers of Armenia.

Enter MARDONIUS and BESSUS.

Mar. Bessus, the king has made a fair hand on't; he has ended the wars at a blow. 'Would my sword had a close basket hilt, to hold wine, and the blade would make knives; for we shall have nothing but eating and drinking.

Bes. We, that are commanders, shall do well enough.

Mar. 'Faith, Bessus, such commanders as thou may: I had as lieve set thee perdue for a pudding i' th' dark, as Alexander the Great.

Bes. I love these jests exceedingly.

Mar. I think thou lov'st 'em better than quarrelling, Bessus; I'll say so much in thy behalf. And yet thou'rt valiant enough upon a retreat: I think thou would'st kill any man that stopp'd thee, an thou couldst.

Bes. But was not this a brave combat, Mardonius?

Mar. Why, didst thou see it?

Bes. You stood with me.

Mar. I did so; but methought thou wink'd'st every blow they strake.

Bes. Well, I believe there are better soldiers than I, that never saw two princes fight in lists.

Mar. By my troth, I think so too, Bessus; many a thousand: But, certainly, all that are worse than thou have seen as much.

Bes. 'Twas bravely done of our king.

Mar. Yes, if he had not ended the wars. I'm glad thou dar'st talk of such dangerous businesses.

Bes. To take a prince prisoner in the heart of his own country, in single combat!

Mar. See how thy blood cruddles at this! I think thou couldst be contented to be beaten i' this passion.

Bes. Shall I tell you truly?

Mar. Ay.

Bes. I could willingly venture for it.

Mar. Hum! no venture neither, good Bessus.

Bes. Let me not live, if I do not think it is a braver piece of service than that I'm so famed for.

Mar. Why, art thou famed for any valour?

Bes. I famed? Ay, I warrant you.

Mar. I am very heartily glad on't: I have been with thee ever since thou cam'st to the wars, and this is the first word that ever I heard on't. Pr'ythee, who fames thee?

Bes. The Christian world.

Mar. 'Tis heathenishly done of 'em; in my conscience, thou deserv'st it not.

Bes. I ha' done good service.

Mar. I do not know how thou may'st wait of a man in's chamber, or thy agility in shifting a trencher; but otherwise no service, good Bessus.

Bes. You saw me do the service yourself.

Mar. Not so hasty, sweet Bessus! Where was it? is the place vanish'd?

Bes. At Bessus' Desperate Redemption.

Mar. At Bessus' Desperate Redemption! where's that?

Bes. There, where I redeem'd the day; the place bears my name.

Mar. Pr'ythee who christen'd it?

Bes. The soldier.

Mar. If I were not a very merrily disposed man, what would become of thee? One that had but a grain of choler in the whole composition of his body, would send thee of an errand to the worms, for putting thy name upon that field: Did not I beat thee there, i' th' head o' th' troops, with a truncheon, because thou wouldst needs run away with thy company, when we should charge the enemy?

Bes. True; but I did not run.

Mar. Right, Bessus: I beat thee out on't.

Bes. But came not I up when the day was gone, and redeem'd all?

Mar. Thou knowest, and so do I, thou meant'st to fly, and thy fear making thee mistake, thou ran'st upon the enemy; and a hot charge thou gavest; as, I'll do thee right, thou art furious in running away; and, I think, we owe thy fear for our victory. If I were the king, and were sure thou wouldst mistake always, and run away upon the enemy, thou shouldst be general, by this light.

Bes. You'll never leave this till I fall foul.

Mar. No more such words, dear Bessus; for though I have ever known thee a coward, and therefore durst never strike thee, yet if thou proceed'st, I will allow thee valiant, and beat thee.

Bes. Come, our king's a brave fellow.

Mar. He is so, Bessus; I wonder how thou com'st to know it. But, if thou wert a man of understanding, I would tell thee, he is vain-glorious and humble, and angry and patient, and merry and dull, and joyful and sorrowful, in extremities, in an hour. Do not think me thy friend, for this; for if I cared who knew it, thou shouldst not hear it, Bessus. Here he is, with the prey in his foot.

Enter ARBACES, TIGRANES, two Gentlemen, and Attendants.

Arb. Thy sadness, brave Tigranes, takes away
From my full victory: Am I become
Of so small fame, that any man should grieve
When I o'ercome him? They that placed me here,
Intended it an honour, large enough
For the most valiant living, but to dare
Oppose me single, though he lost the day.
What should afflict you? You are as free as I.
To be my prisoner, is to be more free
Than you were formerly. And never think,
The man, I held worthy to combat me,

Shall be used servilely. Thy ransom is,
 To take my only sister to thy wife:
 A heavy one, Tigranes; for she is
 A lady, that the neighbour princes send Blanks to fetch home. I have been too unkind
 To her, Tigranes: She, but nine years old,
 I left her, and ne'er saw her since: Your wars
 Have held me long, and taught me, though a youth,
 The way to victory. She was a pretty child;
 Then, I was little better; but now fame
 Cries loudly on her, and my messengers
 Make me believe she is a miracle.
 She'll make you shrink, as I did, with a stroke
 But of her eye, Tigranes.

Tigr. Is it the course of Iberia to use her prisoners thus?
 Had fortune thrown my name above Arbaces',
 I should not thus have talk'd; for in Armenia,
 We hold it base. You should have kept your temper
 Till you saw home again, where 'tis the fashion,
 Perhaps, to brag.

Arb. Be you my witness, earth,
 Need I to brag? Doth not this captive prince
 Speak me sufficiently, and all the acts
 That I have wrought upon his suffering land?
 Should I then boast? Where lies that foot of ground,
 Within his whole realm, that I have not past,
 Fighting and conquering: Far then from me
 Be ostentation. I could tell the world,
 How I have laid his kingdom desolate,
 By this sole arm, propp'd by divinity;
 Stript him out of his glories; and have sent
 The pride of all his youth to people graves;
 And made his virgins languish for their loves;
 If I would brag. Should I, that have the power
 To teach the neighbour world humility,
 Mix with vain-glory?

Mar. Indeed, this is none!

[Aside.

Arb. Tigranes, no; did I but take delight
 To stretch my deeds as others do, on words,
 I could amaze my hearers.

Mar. So you do.

[Aside.

Arb. But he shall wrong his and my modesty,

That thinks me apt to boast: After an act
Fit for a god to do upon his foe,
A little glory in a soldier's mouth
Is well-becoming; be it far from vain.

Mar. 'Tis pity, that valour should be thus drunk. [Aside.

Arb. I offer you my sister, and you answer,
I do insult: A lady that no suit,
Nor treasure, nor thy crown, could purchase thee,
But that thou fought'st with me.

Tigr. Though this be worse
Than that you spoke before, it strikes not me;
But, that you think to over-grace me with
The marriage of your sister, troubles me.
I would give worlds for ransoms, were they mine,
Rather than have her.

Arb. See, if I insult,
That am the conqueror, and for a ransom
Offer rich treasure to the conquered,
Which he refuses, and I bear his scorn!
It cannot be self-flattery to say,
The daughters of your country, set by her,
Would see their shame, run home, and blush to death
At their own foulness. Yet she is not fair,
Nor beautiful, those words express her not:
They say, her looks have something excellent,
That wants a name yet. Were she odious,
Her birth deserves the empire of the world:
Sister to such a brother; that hath ta'en
Victory prisoner, and throughout the earth
Carries her bound, and should he let her loose,
She durst not leave him. Nature did her wrong,
To print continual conquest on her cheeks,
And make no man worthy for her to take,
But me, that am too near her; and as strangely
She did for me: But you will think I brag.

Mar. I do, I'll be sworn. Thy valour and thy passions severed, would have made two excellent fellows in their kinds. I know not, whether I should be sorry thou art so valiant, or so passionate: 'Would one of 'em were away! [Aside.

Tigr. Do I refuse her, that I doubt her worth?
Were she as virtuous as she would be thought;
So perfect, that no one of her own sex

Could find a want she had; so tempting fair,
That she could wish it off, for damning souls;
I would pay any ransom, twenty lives,
Rather than meet her married in my bed.
Perhaps, I have a love, where I have fix'd
Mine eyes, not to be moved, and she on me;
I am not fickle.

Arb. Is that all the cause?

Think you, you can so knit yourself in love
To any other, that her searching sight
Cannot dissolve it? So, before you tried,
You thought yourself a match for me in fight.
Trust me, Tigranes, she can do as much
In peace, as I in war; she'll conquer too.
You shall see, if you have the power to stand
The force of her swift looks. If you dislike,
I'll send you home with love, and name your ransom
Some other way; but if she be your choice,
She frees you. To Iberia you must.

Tigr. Sir, I have learn'd a prisoner's sufferance,
And will obey. But give me leave to talk
In private with some friends before I go.

Arb. Some do await him forth, and see him safe;
But let him freely send for whom he please,
And none dare to disturb his conference;
I will not have him know what bondage is,
Till he be free from me. [Exit Tigranes with Attendants.]

This, prince, Mardonius,
Is full of wisdom, valour, all the graces
Man can receive.

Mar. And yet you conquer'd him.

Arb. And yet I conquer'd him, and could have done,
Hadst thou joined with him, though thy name in arms
Be great. Must all men, that are virtuous,
Think suddenly to match themselves with me?
I conquer'd him, and bravely; did I not?

Bes. An please your majesty, I was afraid at first——

Mar. When wert thou other?

Arb. Of what?

Bes. That you would not have spied your best advantages;
for your majesty, in my opinion, lay too high; methinks, under favour, you should have lain thus.

Mar. Like a tailor at a wake.

Bes. And then, if't please your majesty to remember, at one time——by my troth, I wish'd myself wi' you.

Mar. By my troth, thou wouldst ha' stunk 'em both out o' th' lists.

Arb. What to do?

Bes. To put your majesty in mind of an occasion: you lay thus, and Tigranes falsified a blow at your leg, which you, by doing thus, avoided; but, if you had whipped up your leg thus, and reach'd him on the ear, you had made the blood-royal run about his head.

Mar. What country fence-school didst thou learn that at?

Arb. Puff! did not I take him nobly?

Mar. Why, you did, and you have talk'd enough on't.

Arb. Talk enough!

Will you confine my words? By Heav'n and earth,
I were much better be a king of beasts
Than such a people! If I had not patience
Above a god, I should be call'd a tyrant,
Throughout the world! They will offend to death
Each minute: Let me hear thee speak again,
And thou art earth again. Why, this is like
Tigranes' speech, that needs would say I bragg'd.
Bessus, he said I bragg'd.

Bes. Ha, ha, ha!

Arb. Why dost thou laugh?

By all the world, I'm grown ridiculous
To my own subjects. Tie me to a chair,
And jest at me! But I shall make a start,
And punish some, that others may take heed
How they are haughty. Who will answer me?
He said I boasted: speak, Mardonius,
Did I?—He will not answer. Oh, my temper!
I give you thanks above, that taught my heart
Patience; I can endure his silence? What, will none
Vouchsafe to give me audience? Am I grown
To such a poor respect? or do you mean
To break my wind? Speak, speak, some one of you
Or else, by Heaven——

Gent. So please your——

Arb. Monstrous!

I cannot be heard out; they cut me off,
As if I were too saucy. I will live
In woods, and talk to trees; they will allow me

To end what I begin. The meanest subject
Can find a freedom to discharge his soul,
And not I. Now it is a time to speak;
I hearken.

1 Gent. May it please——

Arb. I mean not you;

Did not I stop you once? But I am grown
To balk! But I desire let another speak.

2 Gent. I hope your majesty——

Arb. Thou draw'st thy words,

That I must wait an hour, where other men
Can hear in instants: Throw your words away
Quick, and to purpose; I have told you this.

Bes. An't please your majesty——

Arb. Wilt thou devour me? This is such a rudeness
As yet you never show'd me: and I want
Power to command ye; else, Mardonius
Would speak at my request. Were you my king,
I would have answer'd at your word, Mardonius.
I pray you speak, and truly, did I boast?

Mar. Truth will offend you.

Arb. You take all great care what will offend me,
When you dare to utter such things as these.

Mar. You told Tigranes, you had won his land
With that sole arm, propp'd by divinity:
Was not that bragging, and a wrong to us
That daily ventured lives?

Arb. O, that thy name

Were great as mine! 'would I had paid my wealth
It were as great, as I might combat thee!
I would, through all the regions habitable,
Search thee, and, having found thee, with my sword
Drive thee about the world, 'till I had met
Some place that yet man's curiosity
Hath miss'd of: There, there would I strike thee dead:
Forgotten of mankind, such funeral rites
As beasts would give thee, thou shouldst have.

Bes. The king rages extremely: shall we slink away?
He'll strike us.

2 Gent. Content.

Arb. There I would make you know, 'twas this sole arm.
I grant, you were my instruments, and did
As I commanded you; but 'twas this arm

Moved you like wheels; it moved you as it pleased.
 Whither slip you now? What, are you too good
 To wait on me? I had need have temper,
 That rule such people: I have nothing left
 At my own choice! I would I might be private:
 Mean men enjoy themselves; but 'tis our curse
 To have a tumult, that, out of their loves,
 Will wait on us, whether we will or no.
 Go, get you gone! Why, here they stand like death:
 My words move nothing.

i Gent. Must we go?

Bes. I know not.

Arb. I pray you, leave me, sirs. I'm proud of this
 That you will be entreated from my sight.

[Exeunt all but Arbaces and Mardonius.]

Why, now they leave me all. Mardonius!

Mar. Sir.

Arb. Will you leave me quite alone? Methinks,
 Civility should teach you more than this,
 If I were but your friend. Stay here, and wait.

Mar. Sir, shall I speak?

Arb. Why, you would now think much
 To be denied; but I can scarce intreat
 What I would have. Do, speak.

Mar. But will you hear me out?

Arb. With me you article, to talk thus: Well,
 I will hear you out.

Mar. [Kneels.] Sir, that I have ever loved you, my sword hath spoken for me; that I do, if it be doubted, I dare call an oath, a great one, to my witness; and were you not my king, from amongst men I should have chose you out, to love above the rest: Nor can this challenge thanks; for my own sake I should have doted, because I would have loved the most deserving man; for so you are.

Arb. Alas, Mardonius, rise! you shall not kneel:
 We all are soldiers, and all venture lives;
 And where there is no difference in men's worths,
 Titles are jests. Who can outvalue thee?
 Mardonius, thou hast loved me, and hast wrong;
 Thy love is not rewarded; but, believe
 It shall be better. More than friend in arms,
 My father, and my tutor, good Mardonius!

Mar. Sir, you did promise you would hear me out.

Arb. And so I will: Speak freely, for from thee
Nothing can come, but worthy things and true.

Mar. Though you have all this worth, you hold some qualities that do eclipse your virtues.

Arb. Eclipse my virtues?

Mar. Yes; your passions; which are so manifold, that they appear even in this: When I commend you, you hug me for that truth; when I speak your faults, you make a start, and fly the hearing: But——

Arb. When you commend me? Oh, that I should live
To need such commendations! If my deeds
Blew not my praise themselves about the earth,
I were most wretched! Spare your idle praise:
If thou didst mean to flatter, and shouldst utter Words in my praise, that thou thought'st impudence,
My deeds should make 'em modest. When you praise,
I hug you? 'Tis so false, that, wert thou worthy,
Thou shouldst receive a death, a glorious death,
From me! But thou shalt understand thy lies;
For shouldst thou praise me into Heaven, and there
Leave me enthroned, I would despise thee though
As much as now, which is as much as dust,
Because I see thy envy.

Mar. However you will use me after, yet, for your own promise sake, hear me the rest.

Arb. I will, and after call unto the winds;
For they shall lend as large an ear as I
To what you utter. Speak!

Mar. Would you but leave these hasty tempers, which I do not say take from you all your worths, but darken 'em, then you will shine indeed.

Arb. Well.

Mar. Yet I would have you keep some passions, lest men should take you for a god, your virtues are such.

Arb. Why, now you flatter.

Mar. I never understood the word. Were you no king, and free from these wild moods, should I chuse a companion for wit and pleasure, it should be you; or for honesty to interchange my bosom with, it should be you; or wisdom to give me counsel, I would pick out you; or valour to defend my reputation, still I would find you out; for you are fit to fight for all the world, if it could come in question. Now I have spoke: Consider to yourself; find out a use; if so, then what shall fall to me is not material.

Arb. Is not material? more than ten such lives
As mine, Mardonius! It was nobly said;
Thou hast spoke truth, and boldly such a truth
As might offend another. I have been Too passionate and idle; thou shalt see
A swift amendment. But I want those parts
You praise me for: I fight for all the world!
Give thee a sword, and thou wilt go as far
Beyond me, as thou art beyond in years;
I know thou dar'st and wilt. It troubles me
That I should use so rough a phrase to thee:
Impute it to my folly, what thou wilt,
So thou wilt pardon me. That thou and I Should differ thus!

Mar. Why, 'tis no matter, sir.

Arb. 'Faith, but it is: But thou dost ever take
All things I do thus patiently; for which
I never can requite thee, but with love;
And that thou shalt be sure of. Thou and I
Have not been merry lately: Pr'ythee tell me,
Where hadst thou that same jewel in thine ear?

Mar. Why, at the taking of a town.

Arb. A wench, upon my life, a wench, Mardonius,
Gave thee that jewel.

Mar. Wench! They respect not me; I'm old and rough, and every limb about me, but that which should, grows stiffer. I' those businesses, I may swear I am truly honest; for I pay justly for what I take, and would be glad to be at a certainty.

Arb. Why, do the wenches encroach upon thee?

Mar. Ay, by this light, do they.

Arb. Didst thou sit at an old rent with 'em?

Mar. Yes, 'faith.

Arb. And do they improve themselves?

Mar. Ay, ten shillings to me, every new young fellow they come acquainted with.

Arb. How canst live on't?

Mar. Why, I think, I must petition to you.

Arb. Thou shalt take 'em up at my price.

Enter two Gentlemen and Bessus.

Mar. Your price?

Arb. Ay, at the king's price.

Mar. That may be more than I'm worth.

2 Gent. Is he not merry now?

1 Gent. I think not.

Bes. He is, he is: We'll show ourselves.

Arb. Bessus! I thought you had been in Iberia by this; I bade you haste; Gobrias will want entertainment for me.

Bes. An't please your majesty, I have a suit.

Arb. Is't not lousy, Bessus? what is't?

Bes. I am to carry a lady with me.

Arb. Then thou hast two suits.

Bes. And if I can prefer her to the lady Panthea, your majesty's sister, to learn fashions, as her friends term it, it will be worth something to me.

Arb. So many nights' lodgings as 'tis thither; will't not?

Bes. I know not that; but gold I shall be sure of.

Arb. Why, thou shalt bid her entertain her from me, so thou wilt resolve me one thing.

Bes. If I can.

Arb. 'Faith, 'tis a very disputable question; and yet, I think, thou canst decide it.

Bes. Your majesty has a good opinion of my understanding.

Arb. I have so good an opinion of it: 'Tis whether thou be valiant.

Bes. Somebody has traduced me to you: Do you see this sword, sir? [Draws.]

Arb. Yes.

Bes. If I do not make my back-biters eat it to a knife within this week, say I am not valiant.

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. Health to your majesty!

[Delivers a letter.]

Arb. From Gobrias?

Mes. Yes, Sir.

Arb. How does he? is he well?

Mes. In perfect health.

Arb. Take that for thy good news.

[Gives money.]

A trustier servant to his prince there lives not,

Than is good Gobrias.

[Reads.]

1 Gent. The king starts back.

Mar. His blood goes back as fast.

2 Gent. And now it comes again.

Mar. He alters strangely.

Arb. The hand of Heaven is on me: Be it far
From me to struggle! If my secret sins
Have pull'd this curse upon me, lend me tears
Enow to wash me white, that I may feel
A child-like innocence within my breast!
Which, once perform'd, oh, give me leave to stand
As fix'd as constancy herself; my eyes
Set here unmoved, regardless of the world,
Though thousand miseries encompass me!

Mar. This is strange!—Sir, how do you?

Arb. Mardonius! my mother—

Mar. Is she dead?

Arb. Alas, she's not so happy! Thou dost know
How she hath labour'd, since my father died,
To take by treason hence this loathed life,
That would but be to serve her. I have pardon'd,
And pardon'd, and by that have made her fit
To practise new sins, not repent the old.
She now had hired a slave to come from thence,
And strike me here; whom Gobrias, sifting out,
Took, and condemn'd, and executed there.
The careful'st servant! Heaven, let me but live
To pay that man! Nature is poor to me,
That will not let me have as many deaths
As are the times that he hath saved my life,
That I might die 'em over all for him.

Mar. Sir, let her bear her sins on her own head;
Vex not yourself.

Arb. What will the world,
Conceive of me? with what unnatural sins
Will they suppose me laden, when my life
Is sought by her, that gave it to the world?
But yet he writes me comfort here: My sister,
He says, is grown in beauty and in grace;
In all the innocent virtues that become
A tender spotless maid: She stains her cheeks
With mourning tears, to purge her mother's ill;
And 'mongst that sacred dew she mingles prayers,
Her pure oblations, for my safe return.—
If I have lost the duty of a son;

If any pomp or vanity of state
 Made me forget my natural offices;
 Nay, further, if I have not every night
 Expostulated with my wand'r'ing thoughts,
 If aught unto my parent they have err'd,
 And call'd 'em back; do you direct her arm
 Unto this foul dissembling heart of mine.
 But if I have been just to her, send out
 Your power to compass me, and hold me safe
 From searching treason; I will use no means
 But prayer: For, rather suffer me to see
 From mine own veins issue a deadly flood,
 Than wash my dangers off with mother's blood.

Mar. I ne'er saw such sudden extremities. [Exeunt.

SCENE II.—Another part of the same.

Enter TIGRANES and SPACONIA.

Tigr. Why, wilt thou have me fly, Spaconia?
 What should I do?

Spa. Nay, let me stay alone;
 And when you see Armenia again,
 You shall behold a tomb more worth than I.
 Some friend, that ever loves me or my cause,
 Will build me something to distinguish me
 From other women; many a weeping verse
 He will lay on, and much lament those maids
 That placed their loves unfortunately too high,
 As I have done, where they can never reach.
 But why should you go to Iberia?

Tigr. Alas, that thou wilt ask me! Ask the man
 That rages in a fever, why he lies
 Distemper'd there, when all the other youths
 Are coursing o'er the meadows with their loves?
 Can I resist it? am I not a slave
 To him that conquer'd me?

Spa. That conquer'd thee,
 Tigranes! He has won but half of thee,
 Thy body; but thy mind may be as free
 As his: His will did never combat thine,
 And take it prisoner.

Tigr. But if he by force
 Convey my body hence, what helps it me,

Or thee, to be unwilling?

Spa. O, Tigranes!

I know you are to see a lady there;
To see, and like, I fear: Perhaps, the hope
Of her makes you forget me, ere we part.
Be happier than you know to wish! farewell!

Tigr. Spaconia, stay, and hear me what I say
In short, destruction meet me that I may See it, and not avoid it, when I leave
To be thy faithful lover! Part with me
Thou shalt not! there are none that know our love;
And I have given gold unto a captain,
That goes unto Iberia from the king,
That he would place a lady of our land
With the king's sister that is offered me:
Thither shall you, and, being once got in,
Persuade her, by what subtle means you can,
To be as backward in her love as I.

pa. Can you imagine that a longing maid,
When she beholds you, can be pull'd away
With words from loving you?

Tigr. Dispraise my health,
My honesty, and tell her I am jealous.

Spa. Why, I had rather lose you: Can my heart
Consent to let my tongue throw out such words?
And I, that ever yet spoke what I thought,
Shall find it such a thing at first to lie!

Tigr. Yet, do thy best.

Enter BESSUS.

Bes. What, is your majesty ready?

Tigr. There is the lady, captain.

Bes. Sweet lady, by your leave. I could wish myself more full of courtship for your fair sake.

Spa. Sir, I shall feel no want of that.

Bes. Lady, you must haste; I have received new letters from the king, that require more haste than I expected; he will follow me suddenly himself; and begins to call for your majesty already.

Tigr. He shall not do so long.

Bes. Sweet lady, shall I call you my charge hereafter?

Spa. I will not take upon me to govern your tongue, sir:
You shall call me what you please. [Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE I.—The Capital of Iberia. An Apartment in the Palace.

Enter GOBRIAS, BACURIUS, ARANE, PANTHEA, and MENDANE,
Waiting-women and Attendants.

Gob. My Lord Bacurius, you must have regard
Unto the queen; she is your prisoner;
'Tis at your peril, if she make escape.

Bac. My Lord, I know't; she is my prisoner,
From you committed: Yet she is a woman;
And, so I keep her safe, you will not urge me
To keep her close. I shall not shame to say,
I sorrow for her.

Gob. So do I, my lord:
I sorrow for her, that so little grace
Doth govern her, that she should stretch her arm
Against her king; so little womanhood
And natural goodness, as to think the death
Of her own son.

Ara. Thou know'st the reason why,
Dissembling as thou art, and wilt not speak.

Gob. There is a lady takes not after you;
Her father is within her; that good man,
Whose tears paid down his sins. Mark, how she weeps;
How well it does become her! And if you
Can find no disposition in yourself
To sorrow, yet, by gracefulness in her,
Find out the way, and by your reason weep.
All this she does for you, and more she needs,
When for yourself you will not lose a tear.
Think, how this want of grief discredits you;
And you will weep, because you cannot weep.

Ara. You talk to me, as having got a time
Fit for your purpose; but you know, I know
You speak not what you think.

Pan. I would my heart
Were stone, before my softness should be urged
Against my mother! A more troubled thought
No virgin bears about her! Should I excuse

My mother's fault, I should set light a life,
In losing which a brother and a king
Were taken from me: If I seek to save
That life so loved, I lose another life,
That gave me being; I should lose a mother;
A word of such a sound in a child's ear,
That it strikes reverence through it. May the will
Of Heaven be done, and if one needs must fall,
Take a poor virgin's life to answer all!

Ara. But, Gobrias, let us talk. You know, this fault
Is not in me as in another woman. [They walk apart.]

Gob. I know it is not.

Ara. Yet you make it so.

Gob. Why, is not all that's past beyond your help?

Ara. I know it is.

Gob. Nay, should you publish it
Before the world, think you 'twould be believed?

Ara. I know, it would not.

Gob. Nay, should I join with you,
Should we not both be torn, and yet both die
Uncredited?

Ara. I think we should.

Gob. Why, then,
Take you such violent courses? As for me,
I do but right in saving of the king
From all your plots.

Ara. The king!

Gob. I bade you rest
With patience, and a time would come for me
To reconcile all to your own content:
But, by this way, you take away my power.
And what was done, unknown, was not by me,
But you; your urging. Being done,
I must preserve mine own; but time may bring
All this to light, and happily for all.

Ara. Accursed be this over-curious brain,
That gave that plot a birth! Accurs'd this womb,
That after did conceive, to my disgrace!

Bac. My lord-protector, they say, there are divers letters come from Armenia, that Bessus has done good service, and brought again a day by his particular valour:
Received you any to that effect?

Gob. Yes; 'tis most certain.

Bac. I'm sorry for't; not that the day was won, but that 'twas won by him. We held him here a coward: He did me wrong once, at which I laughed, and so did all the world; for nor I, nor any other, held him worth my sword.

Enter BESSUS and SPACONIA.

Bes. Health to my lord-protector? From the king these letters; and to your grace, madam, these.

Gob. How does his majesty?

Bes. As well as conquest, by his own means and his valiant commanders, can make him: Your letters will tell you all.

Pan. I will not open mine, till I do know
My brother's health: Good captain, is he well?

Bes. As the rest of us that fought are.

Pan. But how's that? is he hurt?

Bes. He's a strange soldier that gets not a knock.

Pan. I do not ask how strange that soldier is That gets no hurt, but whether he have one.

Bes. He had divers.

Pan. And is he well again?

Bes. Well again, an't please your grace? Why, I was run twice through the body, and shot i' th' head with a cross arrow, and yet am well again.

Pan. I do not care how thou do'st: is he well?

Bes. Not care how I do? Let a man, out of the mightiness of his spirit, fructify foreign countries with his blood, for the good of his own, and thus he shall be answered. Why, I may live to relieve, with spear and shield, such a lady distressed.

Pan. Why, I will care: I'm glad that thou art well;
I pr'ythee, is he so?

Gob. The king is well, and will be here to-morrow.

Pan. My prayer is heard. Now will I open mine. [Reads.

Gob. Bacurius, I must ease you of your charge.—
Madam, the wonted mercy of the king,
That overtakes your faults, has met with this,
And struck it out; he has forgiven you freely.
Your own will is your law; be where you please.

Ara. I thank him.

Gob. You will be ready
To wait upon his majesty to-morrow?

Ara. I will.

Bac. Madam, be wise, hereafter. I am glad
I have lost this office.

[Exit Arane.]

Gob. Good captain Bessus, tell us the discourse
Betwixt Tigranes and our king, and how
We got the victory.

Pan. I pr'ythee do;
And if my brother were in any danger,
Let not thy tale make him abide there long,
Before thou bring him off; for all that while
My heart will beat.

Bes. Madam, let what will beat, I must tell truth, and thus it was: They fought single in lists, but one to one.
As for my own part, I was dangerously hurt but three days before; else, perhaps, we had been two to two;
I cannot tell, some thought we had. And the occasion of my hurt was this: the enemy had made trenches——

Gob. Captain, without the manner of your hurt
Be much material to this business,
We'll hear't some other time.

Pan. I pr'ythee, leave it, and go on with my brother.

Bes. I will; but 'twould be worth your hearing. To the lists they came, and single sword and gauntlet was their fight.

Pan. Alas!

Bes. Without the lists there stood some dozen captains of either side mingled, all which were sworn, and one of those was I; And 'twas my chance to stand next a captain of the enemies' side, call'd Tiribasus; valiant, they said, he was. Whilst these two kings were stretching themselves, this Tiribasus cast something a scornful look on me, and ask'd me, whom I thought would overcome? I smiled, and told him, if he would fight with me, he should perceive by the event of that whose king would win. Something he answer'd, and a scuffle was like to grow, when one Zipetus offered to help him: I——

Pan. All this of is thyself: I pr'ythee, Bessus,
Tell something of my brother; did he nothing?

Bes. Why, yes; I'll tell your grace. They were not to fight till the word given; which for my own part, by my troth, I was not to give.

Pan. See, for his own part!

Bac. I fear, yet, this fellow's abused with a good report.

Bes. Ay, but I——

Pan. Still of himself!

Bes. Cried, "Give the word;" when, as some of them say, Tigranes was stooping; but the word was not given then: yet one Cosroes, of the enemies' part, held up his finger to me, which is as much with us martialists, as, "I will fight with you:" I said not a word, nor made sign during the combat; but that once done——

Pan. He slips over all the fight.

Bes. I call'd him to me; "Cosroes," said I——

Pan. I will hear no more.

Bes. No, no, I lie.

Bac. I dare be sworn thou dost.

Bes. "Captain," said I; so 'twas.

Pan. I tell thee, I will hear no further.

Bes. No? Your grace will wish you had.

Pan. I will not wish it. What, is this the lady
My brother writes to me to take?

Bes. An't please your grace this is she.—Charge, will you come near the princess?

Pan. You are welcome from your country; and this land
Shall show unto you all the kindnesses
That I can make it. What's your name?

Spa. Thalestris.

Pan. You're very welcome: You have got a letter
To put you to me, that has power enough
To place mine enemy here; then much more you,
That are so far from being so to me,
That you ne'er saw me.

Bes. Madam, I dare pass my word for her truth.

Spa. My truth?

Pan. Why, captain, do you think I am afraid she'll steal?

Bes. I cannot tell; servants are slippery; but I dare give my word for her, and for honesty: she came along with me, and many favours she did me by the way; but, by this light, none but what she might do with modesty, to a man of my rank.

Pan. Why, captain, here's nobody thinks otherwise.

Bes. Nay, if you should, your grace may think your pleasure;
but I am sure I brought her from Armenia, and in all that way, if ever I touched any bare of her above her knee, I pray God I may sink where I stand.

Spa. Above my knee?

Bes. No, you know I did not; and if any man will say I did, this sword shall answer. Nay, I'll defend the reputation of my charge whilst I live. Your grace shall understand, I am secret in these businesses, and know how to defend a lady's honour.

Spa. I hope your grace knows him so well already, I shall not need to tell you he's vain and foolish.

Bes. Ay, you may call me what you please, but I'll defend your good name against the world. And so I take my leave of your grace, and of you, my lord-protector.— I am likewise glad to see your lordship well.

Bac. Oh, captain Bessus, I thank you. I would speak with you anon.

Bes. When you please, I will attend your lordship.

[Exit Bessus.]

Bac. Madam, I'll take my leave too.

Pan. Good Bacurius!

[Exit Bacurius.]

Gob. Madam, what writes his majesty to you?

Pan. Oh, my lord,

The kindest words! I'll keep 'em while I live,
Here in my bosom; there's no art in 'em;
They lie disorder'd in this paper, just
As hearty nature speaks 'em.

Gob. And to me

He writes, what tears of joy he shed, to hear
How you were grown in every virtuous way;
And yields all thanks to me, for that dear care
Which I was bound to have in training you.
There is no princess living that enjoys
A brother of that worth.

Pan. My lord, no maid

Longs more for anything, and feels more heat
And cold within her breast, than I do now,
In hope to see him.

Gob. Yet I wonder much

At this: He writes, he brings along with him
A husband for you, that same captive prince;
And if he love you, as he makes a show,
He will allow you freedom in your choice.

Pan. And so he will, my lord, I warrant you;
He will but offer, and give me the power
To take or leave.

Gob. Trust me, were I a lady,

I could not like that man were bargain'd with,
Before I chose him.

Pan. But I am not built

On such wild humours; if I find him worthy,
He is not less because he's offered.

Spa. 'Tis true he is not; 'would, he would seem less! [Apart.

Gob. I think there is no lady can affect Another prince, your brother standing by;
He doth eclipse men's virtues so with his.

Spa. I know a lady may, and, more I fear,
Another lady will. [Apart.

Pan. 'Would I might see him!

Gob. Why so you shall. My businesses are great:
I will attend you when it is his pleasure
To see you, madam.

Pan. I thank you, good my lord.

Gob. You will be ready, madam?

Pan. Yes.

[Exit Gobrias.

Spa. I do beseech you, madam, send away
Your other women, and receive from me
A few sad words, which, set against your joys,
May make 'em shine the more.

Pan. Sirs, leave me all.

[Exeunt Women.

Spa. I kneel a stranger here, to beg a thing
Unfit for me to ask, and you to grant.
'Tis such another strange ill-laid request,
As if a beggar should entreat a king
To leave his sceptre and his throne to him,
And take his rags to wander o'er the world,
Hungry and cold.

[Kneels.

Pan. That were a strange request.

Spa. As ill is mine.

Pan. Then do not utter it.

Spa. Alas, 'tis of that nature, that it must Be utter'd, ay, and granted, or I die!
I am ashamed to speak it; but where life
Lies at the stake, I cannot think her woman,
That will not talk something unreasonably
To hazard saving of it. I shall seem
A strange petitioner, that wish all ill
To them I beg of, ere they give me aught;
Yet so I must: I would you were not fair,
Nor wise, for in your ill consists my good:

If you were foolish, you would hear my prayer;
If foul, you had not power to hinder me;
He would not love you.

Pan. What's the meaning of it?

Spa. Nay, my request is more without the bounds
Of reason yet: for 'tis not in the power
Of you to do, what I would have you grant.

Pan. Why, then, 'tis idle. Pr'ythee speak it out.

Spa. Your brother brings a prince into this land,
Of such a noble shape, so sweet a grace,
So full of worth withal, that every maid
That looks upon him gives away herself
To him for ever; and for you to have
He brings him: And so mad is my demand,
That I desire you not to have this man,
This excellent man; for whom you needs must die,
If you should miss him. I do now expect
You should laugh at me.

Pan. Trust me, I could weep
Rather; for I have found in all thy words
A strange disjointed sorrow.

Spa. 'Tis by me
His own desire so, that you would not love him.

Pan. His own desire! Why, credit me, Thalestris,
I am no common wooer: If he shall woo me,
His worth may be such, that I dare not swear
I will not love him; but if he will stay
To have me woo him, I will promise thee
He may keep all his graces to himself,
And fear no ravishing from me.

Spa. 'Tis yet
His own desire; but when he sees your face,
I fear, it will not be: therefore I charge you,
As you have pity, stop those tender ears
From his enchanting voice; close up those eyes:
That you may neither catch a dart from him,
Nor he from you. I charge you, as you hope
To live in quiet; for when I am dead,
For certain I shall walk to visit him,
If he break promise with me. For as fast
As oaths, without a formal ceremony,
Can make me, I am to him.

Pan. Then be fearless;

For if he were a thing 'twixt God and man,
 I could gaze on him (if I knew it sin
 To love him) without passion. Dry your eyes:
 I swear, you shall enjoy him still for me;
 I will not hinder you. But I perceive,
 You are not what you seem: Rise, rise, Thalestris,
 If your right name be so.

Spa. Indeed, it is not:

Spaconia is my name; but I desire
 Not to be known to others.

Pan. Why, by me

You shall not; I will never do you wrong;
 What good I can, I will: Think not my birth
 Or education such, that I should injure
 A stranger virgin. You are welcome hither.
 In company you wish to be commanded:
 But, when we are alone, I shall be ready
 To be your servant.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—An open Place before the City. A great Crowd.

Enter three Men and a Woman.

1 Man. Come, come, run, run, run.

2 Man. We shall out-go her.

3 Man. One were better be hang'd than carry women out
 fiddling to these shows.

Wom. Is the king hard by?

1 Man. You heard he with the bottles said, he thought we should come too late. What abundance of people here is!

Wom. But what had he in those bottles?

3 Man. I know not.

2 Man. Why, ink, goodman fool.

3 Man. Ink, what to do?

1 Man. Why, the king, look you, will many times call for those bottles, and break his mind to his friends.

Wom. Let's take our places; we shall have no room else.

2 Man. The man told us, he would walk o'foot through the people.

3 Man. Ay, marry, did he.

1 Man. Our shops are well look'd to now.

2 Man. 'Slife, yonder's my master, I think.

1 Man. No, 'tis not he.

Enter PHILIP with two Citizens' Wives.

1 Cit. W. Lord, how fine the fields be! What sweet living 'tis in the country!

2 Cit. W. Ay, poor souls, God help 'em, they live as contentedly as one of us.

1 Cit. W. My husband's cousin would have had me gone into the country last year. Wert thou ever there?

2 Cit. W. Ay, poor souls, I was amongst 'em once.

1 Cit. W. And what kind of creatures are they, for love of God?

2 Cit. W. Very good people, God help 'em.

1 Cit. W. Wilt thou go with me down this summer, when I am brought to bed?

2 Cit. W. Alas, 'tis no place for us.

1 Cit. W. Why, pr'ythee?

2 Cit. W. Why, you can have nothing there; there's nobody cries brooms.

1 Cit. W. No?

2 Cit. W. No truly, nor milk.

1 Cit. W. Nor milk, how do they?

2 Cit. W. They are fain to milk themselves i' the country.

1 Cit. W. Good lord! But the people there, I think, will be very dutiful to one of us.

2 Cit. W. Ay, God knows will they; and yet they do not greatly care for our husbands.

1 Cit. W. Do they not? alas! i' good faith, I cannot blame them: For we do not greatly care for them ourselves. Philip, I pray, chuse us a place.

Phil. There's the best, forsooth.

1 Cit. W. By your leave, good people, a little.

1 Man. What's the matter?

Phil. I pray you, my friends, do not thrust my mistress so; she's with child.

2 Man. Let her look to herself then; has she not had thrusting enough yet? If she stay shouldering here, she may hap to go home with a cake in her belly.

3 Man. How now, goodman Squitter-breech! why do you lean on me?

Phil. Because I will.

3 Man. Will you, Sir Sauce-box?

[Strikes him.]

1 Cit. W. Look, if one ha' not struck Philip.—Come hither, Philip; why did he strike thee?

Phil. For leaning on him.

1 Cit. W. Why didst thou lean on him?

Phil. I did not think he would have struck me.

1 Cit. W. As God save me, la, thou art as wild as a buck; there's no quarrel, but thou art at one end or other on't.

3 Man. It's at the first end then, for he'll ne'er stay the last.

1 Cit. W. Well, stripling, I shall meet with you.

3 Man. When you will.

1 Cit. W. I'll give a crown to meet with you.

3 Man. At a bawdy-house.

1 Cit. W. Ay, you're full of your roguery; but if I do meet you, it shall cost me a fall.

Flourish. Enter one running.

4 Man. The king, the king, the king, the king! Now, now, now, now!

Flourish. Enter ARBACES, TIGRANES, MARDONIUS, and Soldiers.

All. God preserve your majesty!

Arb. I thank you all. Now are my joys at full,
When I behold you safe, my loving subjects.
By you I grow; 'tis your united love
That lifts me to this height.
All the account that I can render you
For all the love you have bestow'd on me,
All your expenses to maintain my war,
Is but a little word: You will imagine
'Tis slender payment; yet 'tis such a word
As is not to be bought without our bloods:
'Tis peace!

All. God preserve your majesty!

Arb. Now you may live securely in your towns,
Your children round about you; you may sit
Under your vines, and make the miseries
Of other kingdoms a discourse for you,
And lend them sorrows. For yourselves, you may Safely forget there are such things as tears;

And you may all, whose good thoughts I have gain'd,
Hold me unworthy, when I think my life
A sacrifice too great to keep you thus
In such a calm estate!

All. God bless your majesty!

Arb. See, all good people, I have brought the man,
Whose very name you fear'd, a captive home.
Behold him; 'tis Tigranes! In your hearts
Sing songs of gladness and deliverance.

1 Cit. W. Out upon him!

2 Cit. W. How he looks!

3 Wom. Hang him, hang him!

Mar. These are sweet people.

Tigr. Sir, you do me wrong,
To render me a scorned spectacle
To common people.

Arb. It was far from me
To mean it so. If I have aught deserved,
My loving subjects, let me beg of you
Not to revile this prince, in whom there dwells
All worth, of which the nature of a man
Is capable; valour beyond compare:
The terror of his name has stretch'd itself
Wherever there is sun: And yet for you
I fought with him single, and won him too.
I made his valour stoop, and brought that name,
Soar'd to so unbeliev'd a height, to fall
Beneath mine. This, inspired with all your loves,
I did perform; and will, for your content,
Be ever ready for a greater work.

All. The Lord bless your majesty!

Tig. So, he has made me
Amends now with a speech in commendation
Of himself; I would not be so vain-glorious.

Arb. If there be anything in which I may
Do good to any creature here, speak out;
For I must leave you: And it troubles me,
That my occasions, for the good of you,
Are such as call me from you: Else, my joy
Would be to spend my days amongst you all.
You show your loves in these large multitudes
That come to meet me. I will pray for you.
Heaven prosper you, that you may know old years,

And live to see your children's children
 Sit at your boards with plenty! When there is A want of anything, let it be known
 To me, and I will be a father to you.
 God keep you all!

[Flourish. Exeunt Kings and their Train.]

All. God bless your majesty, God bless your majesty!

1 Man. Come, shall we go? all's done.

Wom. Ay, for God's sake: I have not made a fire yet.

2 Man. Away, away! all's done.

3 Man. Content. Farewell, Philip.

1 Cit. W. Away, you halter-sack, you!

2 Man. Philip will not fight; he's afraid on's face.

Phil. Ay, marry; am I afraid of my face?

3 Man. Thou wouldst be, Philip, if thou saw'st it in a glass;
 it looks so like a visor.

[Exeunt the three Men and Woman.]

1 Cit. W. You'll be hang'd, sirrah. Come Philip, walk before us homewards. Did not his majesty say he had brought us home peas for all our money?

2 Cit. W. Yes, marry, did he.

1 Cit. W. They're the first I heard on this year, by my troth.
 I long'd for some of 'em. Did he not say, we should have some?

2 Cit. W. Yes, and so we shall anon, I warrant you, have every one a peck brought home to our houses. [Exeunt.]

ACT III

SCENE I.—Iberia. A Room in the Palace.

Enter ARBACES and GOBRIAS.

Arb. My sister take it ill?

Gob. Not very ill:

Something unkindly she does take it, sir,
 To have her husband chosen to her hands.

Arb. Why, Gobrias, let her: I must have her know,
 My will, and not her own, must govern her.
 What, will she marry with some slave at home?

Gob. Oh, she is far from any stubbornness;
 You much mistake her; and, no doubt, will like
 Where you will have her. But, when you behold her,

You will be loth to part with such a jewel.

Arb. To part with her? Why, Gobrias, art thou mad?

She is my sister.

Gob. Sir, I know she is:

But it were a pity to make poor our land,
With such a beauty to enrich another.

Arb. Pish! Will she have him?

Gob. I do hope she will not.—

[Aside.

I think she will, sir.

Arb. Were she my father, and my mother too,
And all the names for which we think folks friends,
She should be forced to have him, when I know
'Tis fit. I will not hear her say, she's loth.

Gob. Heaven, bring my purpose luckily to pass! [Aside.

You know 'tis just.—She will not need constraint,
She loves you so.

Arb. How does she love me? Speak.

Gob. She loves you more than people love their health,
That live by labour; more than I could love
A man that died for me, if he could live
Again.

Arb. She is not like her mother, then.

Gob. Oh, no! When you were in Armenia,
I durst not let her know when you were hurt:
For at the first, on every little scratch,
She kept her chamber, wept, and could not eat,
Till you were well; and many times the news
Was so long coming, that, before we heard,
She was as near her death, as you your health.

Arb. Alas, poor soul! But yet she must be ruled.

I know not how I shall requite her well.
I long to see her: Have you sent for her,
To tell her I am ready?

Gob. Sir, I have.

Enter I Gentleman and TIGRANES.

I Gent. Sir, here is the Armenian king.

Arb. He's welcome.

I Gent. And the queen-mother and the princess wait Without.

Arb. Good Gobrias, bring 'em in.— [Exit Gobrias.

Tigranes, you will think you are arrived
In a strange land, where mothers cast to poison

Their only sons: Think you, you shall be safe?

Tig. Too safe I am, sir.

Enter GOBRIAS, ARANE, PANTHEA, SPACONIA, BACURIUS,
MARDONIUS, BESSUS, and two Gentlemen.

Ara. [Kneels.] As low as this I bow to you; and would
As low as is my grave, to show a mind
Thankful for all your mercies.

Arb. Oh, stand up,
And let me kneel! the light will be ashamed
To see observance done to me by you.

Ara. You are my king.

Arb. You are my mother. Rise!
As far be all your faults from your own soul,
As from my memory; then you shall be
As white as Innocence herself.

Ara. I came
Only to show my duty and acknowledge
My sorrows for my sins: Longer to stay,
Were but to draw eyes more attentively
Upon my shame. That power, that kept you safe
From me, preserve you still!

Arb. Your own desires
Shall be your guide. [Exit Arane]

Pan. Now let me die!
Since I have seen my lord the king return
In safety, I have seen all good that life
Can show me. I have ne'er another wish
For Heaven to grant; nor were it fit I should;
For I am bound to spend my age to come,
In giving thanks that this was granted me.

Gob. Why does not your majesty speak?

Arb. To whom?

Gob. To the princess.

Pan. Alas, sir, I am fearful! You do look
On me, as if I were some loathed thing,
That you were finding out a way to shun.

Gob. Sir, you should speak to her.

Arb. Ha?

Pan. I know I am unworthy, yet not ill.
Arm'd with which innocence, here I will kneel
Till I am one with earth, but I will gain
Some words and kindness from you.

[Kneels.]

Tigr. Will you speak, sir?

Arb. Speak! am I what I was?

What art thou, that dost creep into my breast,
And dar'st not see my face? Show forth thyself.
I feel a pair of fiery wings display'd
Hither, from thence. You shall not tarry there!
Up, and begone; if you be'st love, be gone!
Or I will tear thee from my wounded breast,
Pull thy lov'd down away, and with a quill,
By this right arm drawn from thy wanton wing,
Write to thy laughing mother in thy blood,
That you are powers belied, and all your darts
Are to be blown away, by men resolved,
Like dust. I know thou fear'st my words; away!

Tigr. Oh, misery; why should he be so slow? [Apart.

There can no falsehood come of loving her.
Though I have given my faith, she is a thing
Both to be loved and served beyond my faith.
I would, he would present me to her quickly.

Pan. Will you not speak at all? Are you so far
From kind words? Yet, to save my modesty,
That must talk till you answer, do not stand
As you were dumb; say something, though it be Poison'd with anger that it may strike me dead.

Mar. Have you no life at all? For manhood sake,
Let her not kneel, and talk neglected thus.
A tree would find a tongue to answer her,
Did she but give it such a lov'd respect.

Arb. You mean this lady. Lift her from the earth:
Why do you let her kneel so long?—Alas!
Madam, your beauty uses to command,
And not to beg. What is your suit to me?
It shall be granted; yet the time is short,
And my affairs are great. But where's my sister?
I bade, she should be brought.

Mar. What, is he mad?

Arb. Gobrias, where is she?

Gob. Sir!

Arb. Where is she, man?

Gob. Who, sir?

Arb. Who? hast thou forgot my sister?

Gob. Your sister, sir?

Arb. Your sister, sir! Some one that hath a wit,

Answer, where is she?

Gob. Do you not see her there?

Arb. Where?

Gob. There.

Arb. There? where?

Mar. 'Slight, there! are you blind?

Arb. Which do you mean? That little one?

Gob. No, sir.

Arb. No, sir? Why, do you mock me? I can see
No other here, but that petitioning lady.

Gob. That's she.

Arb. Away!

Gob. Sir, it is she.

Arb. 'Tis false.

Gob. Is it?

Arb. As hell! By heaven, as false as hell!
My sister!—Is she dead? If it be so,
Speak boldly to me, for I am a man,
And dare not quarrel with Divinity;
And do not think to cozen me with this.
I see, you all are mute and stand amazed,
Fearful to answer me. It is too true;
A decreed instant cuts off every life,
For which to mourn is to repine. She died
A virgin though, more innocent than sleep,
As clear as her own eyes; and blessedness
Eternal waits upon her where she is.
I know she could not make a wish to change
Her state for new; and you shall see me bear
My crosses like a man. We all must die,
And she has taught us how.

Gob. Do not mistake,
And vex yourself for nothing; for her death
Is a long life off yet, I hope. 'Tis she;
And if my speech deserve not faith, lay death
Upon me, and my latest words shall force
A credit from you.

Arb. Which, good Gobrias?
That lady, dost thou mean?

Gob. That lady, sir:
She is your sister; and she is your sister
That loves you so; 'tis she for whom I weep,
To see you use her thus.

Arb. It cannot be.

Tigr. Pish! this is tedious:

[Apart.

I cannot hold; I must present myself.
And yet the sight of my Spaconia
Touches me, as a sudden thunder clap
Does one that is about to sin.

Arb. Away!

No more of this! Here I pronounce him traitor,
The direct plotter of my death, that names
Or thinks her for my sister: 'Tis a lie,
The most malicious of the world, invented
To mad your king. He that will say so next,
Let him draw out his sword and sheathe it here;
It is a sin fully as pardonable.
She is no kin to me, nor shall she be:
If she were ever, I create her none.
And which of you can question this? My power
Is like the sea, that is to be obey'd,
And not disputed with. I have decreed her
As far from having part of blood with me,
As the naked Indians. Come and answer me,
He that is boldest now: Is that my sister?

Mar. Oh, this is fine!

Bes. No, marry, she is not, an't please your majesty.
I never thought she was; she's nothing like you.

Arb. No; 'tis true, she is not.

Mar. Thou shouldst be hang'd.

[To Bessus.

Pan. Sir, I will speak but once: By the same power
You make my blood a stranger unto yours,
You may command me dead; and so much love
A stranger may importune; pray you, do.
If this request appear too much to grant,
Adopt me of some other family,
By your unquestion'd word; else I shall live
Like sinful issues, that are left in streets
By their regardless mothers, and no name
Will be found for me.

Arb. I will hear no more.—

Why should there be such music in a voice,
And sin for me to hear it? All the world
May take delight in this; and 'tis damnation
For me to do so.—You are fair, and wise,
And virtuous, I think; and he is blessed

That is so near you as a brother is;
 But you are naught to me but a disease;
 Continual torment without hope of ease.
 Such an ungodly sickness I have got,
 That he, that undertakes my cure, must first
 O'erthrow divinity, all moral laws,
 And leave mankind as unconfin'd as beasts;
 Allowing 'em to do all actions,
 As freely as they drink when they desire.
 Let me not hear you speak again; yet so
 I shall but languish for the want of that,
 The having which would kill me.—No man here
 Offer to speak for her; for I consider
 As much as you can say; I will not toil
 My body and my mind too; rest thou there;
 Here's one within will labour for you both.

Pan. I would I were past speaking.

Gob. Fear not, madam;

The king will alter: 'Tis some sudden rage,
 And you shall see it end some other way.

Pan. Pray Heaven it do!

Tigr. [Aside.] Though she to whom I swore be here, I cannot Stifle my passion longer; if my father
 Should rise again, disquieted with this,
 And charge me to forbear, yet it would out—

[Comes forward.]

Madam, a stranger, and a prisoner begs
 To be bid welcome.

Pan. You are welcome, sir,

I think; but if you be not, 'tis past me
 To make you so; for I am here a stranger
 Greater than you: We know from whence you come;
 But I appear a lost thing, and by whom
 Is yet uncertain; found here i' the court,
 And only suffer'd to walk up and down,
 As one not worth the owning.

Spa. Oh, I fear

Tigranes will be caught; he looks, methinks,
 As he would change his eyes with her. Some help
 There is above for me, I hope!

Tigr. Why do you turn away, and weep so fast,
 And utter things that misbecome your looks?
 Can you want owning?

Spa. Oh, 'tis certain so.

Tigr. Acknowledge yourself mine.

Arb. How now?

Tigr. And then

See if you want an owner.

Arb. They are talking!

Tigr. Nations shall own you for their queen.

Arb. Tigranes! art not thou my prisoner?

Tigr. I am.

Arb. And who is this?

Tigr. She is your sister.

Arb. She is so.

Mar. Is she so again? that's well.

Arb. And how, then, dare you offer to change words with her?

Tigr. Dare do it? Why, you brought me hither, sir,
To that intent.

Arb. Perhaps, I told you so:

If I had sworn it, had you so much folly
To credit it? The least word that she speaks
Is worth a life. Rule your disorder'd tongue,
Or I will temper it!

Spa. Blest be that breath!

Tigr. Temper my tongue! Such incivilities
As these no barbarous people ever knew:
You break the laws of nature, and of nations;
You talk to me as if I were a prisoner
For theft. My tongue be temper'd! I must speak,
If thunder check me, and I will.

Arb. You will?

Spa. Alas, my fortune!

Tigr. Do not fear his frown.

Dear madam, hear me.

Arb. Fear not my frown? But that 'twere base in me
To fight with one I know I can o'ercome,
Again thou shouldst be conquered by me.

Mar. He has one ransom with him already; methinks,
'twere good to fight double or quit.

Arb. Away with him to prison!—Now, sir, see
If my frown be regardless.—Why delay you?
Seize him, Bacurius!—You shall know my word
Sweeps like a wind; and all it grapples with
Are as the chaff before it.

Tigr. Touch me not.

Arb. Help there!

Tigr. Away!

1 Gent. It is in vain to struggle.

2 Gent. You must be forced.

Bac. Sir, you must pardon us;
We must obey.

Arb. Why do you dally there?
Drag him away by anything.

Bac. Come, sir.

Tigr. Justice, thou ought'st to give me strength enough
To shake all these off.—This is tyranny,
Arbaces, subtler than the burning bull's,
Or that famed tyrant's bed. Thou might'st as well
Search i' the deep of winter through the snow
For half-starved people, to bring home with thee
To show 'em fire and send 'em back again,
As use me thus.

Arb. Let him be close, Bacurius.

[Exit Tigranes, led off by Bacurius and Gentlemen.]

Spa. I ne'er rejoiced at any ill to him,
But this imprisonment: What shall become
Of me forsaken?

Gob. You will not let your sister
Depart thus discontented from you, sir?

Arb. By no means, Gobrias: I have done her wrong,
And made myself believe much of myself,
That is not in me.—You did kneel to me,
Whilst I stood stubborn and regardless by,
And, like a god incensed, gave no ear
To all your prayers. [Kneels.] Behold, I kneel to you:
Show a contempt as large as was my own,
And I will suffer it; yet, at the last,
Forgive me.

Pan. Oh, you wrong me more in this
Than in your rage you did: You mock me now.

Arb. Never forgive me, then; which is the worst
Can happen to me.

Pan. If you be in earnest,
Stand up, and give me but a gentle look,
And two kind words, and I shall be in Heaven.

Arb. Rise you then too: Here I acknowledge thee,
My hope, the only jewel of my life,
The best of sisters, dearer than my breath,

A happiness as high as I could think;
And when my actions call thee otherwise,
Perdition light upon me!

Pan. This is better

Than if you had not frowned; it comes to me
Like mercy at the block; And when I leave
To serve you with my life, your curse be with me.

Arb. Then thus I do salute thee; and again,
To make this knot the stronger. Paradise
Is there! It may be, you are yet in doubt;
This third kiss blots it out.—I wade in sin,
And foolishly entice myself along!—
Take her away; see her a prisoner
In her own chamber, closely, Gobrias!

[Aside.

Pan. Alas, sir, why?

Arb. I must not stay the answer. Do it.

Gob. Good sir!

Arb. No more! Do it, I say!

Mar. This is better and better.

Pan. Yet, hear me speak.

Arb. I will not hear you speak.—

Away with her! Let no man think to speak
For such a creature; for she is a witch,
A poisoner, and a traitor!

Gob. Madam, this office grieves me.

Pan. Nay, 'tis well;

The king is pleased with it.

Arb. Bessus, go you along too with her. I will prove
All this that I have said, if I may live
So long. But I am desperately sick;
For she has given me poison in a kiss:
She had it 'twixt her lips; and with her eyes
She witches people. Go, without a word!

[Exeunt Gobrias, Panthea, Bessus, and Spaconia.

Why should You, that have made me stand in war
Like Fate itself, cutting what threads I pleased,
Decree such an unworthy end of me,
And all my glories? What am I, alas,
That you oppose me! If my secret thoughts
Have ever harboured swellings against you,
They could not hurt you; and it is in you
To give me sorrow, that will render me
Apt to receive your mercy: Rather so,

Let it be rather so, than punish me
 With such unmanly sins. Incest is in me
 Dwelling already; and it must be holy,
 That pulls it thence.—Where art, Mardonius!

Mar. Here, sir.

Arb. I pray thee, bear me, if thou canst.
 Am I not grown a strange weight?

Mar. As you were.

Arb. No heavier?

Mar. No, sir.

Arb. Why, my legs
 Refuse to bear my body! Oh, Mardonius,
 Thou hast in field beheld me, when thou know'st
 I could have gone, though I could never run.

Mar. And so I shall again.

Arb. Oh, no, 'tis past.

Mar. Pray you, go rest yourself.

Arb. Wilt thou, hereafter, when they talk of me,
 As thou shalt hear nothing but infamy,
 Remember some of those things?

Mar. Yes, I will.

Arb. I pray thee, do; for thou shalt never see Me so again.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—A Room in the House of Bessus.

Enter BESSUS.

Bes. They talk of fame; I have gotten it in the wars, and will afford any man a reasonable pennyworth. Some will say, they could be content to have it, but that it is to be atchieved with danger; but my opinion is otherwise: For if I might stand still in cannon-proof, and have fame fall upon me, I would refuse it. My reputation came principally by thinking to run away, which nobody knows but Mardonius; and, I think, he conceals it to anger me. Before I went to the wars, I came to the town a young fellow, without means or parts to deserve friends; and my empty guts persuaded me to lie, and abuse people, for my meat; which I did, and they beat me. Then would I fast two days, till my hunger cried out on me, "Rail still:" Then, methought, I had a monstrous stomach to abuse 'em again, and did it.

In this state I continued, till they hung me up by the heels, and beat me with hasle-sticks, as if they would have baked me, and have cozen'd somebody with me for venison. After this I rail'd; and eat quietly: For the whole kingdom took notice of me for a baffled whipp'd fellow, and what I said was remembered in mirth, but never in anger, of which I was glad. I would it were at that pass again! After this, Heaven call'd an aunt of mine, that left two hundred pounds in a cousin's hand for me; who, taking me to be a gallant young spirit, raised a company for me with the money, and sent me into Armenia with 'em. Away I would have run from them, but that I could get no company: and alone I durst not run. I was never at battle but once, and there I was running, but Mardonius cudgell'd me: Yet I got loose at last, but was so afraid that I saw no more than my shoulders do; but fled with my whole company amongst mine enemies, and overthrew 'em: Now the report of my valour is come over before me, and they say I was a raw young fellow, but now I am improved: A plague on their eloquence! 'twill cost me many a beating; and Mardonius might help this too, if he would; for now they think to get honour on me, and all the men I have abused call me freshly to account (worthily as they call it) by the way of challenge.

Enter the third Gentleman.

3 Gent. Good-morrow, Captain Bessus.

Bes. Good-morrow, sir.

3 Gent. I come to speak with you——

Bes. You're very welcome.

3 Gent. From one that holds himself wrong'd by you some three years since. Your worth, he says, is famed, and he doth nothing doubt but you will do him right, as beseems a soldier.

Bes. A pox on 'em, so they cry all!

3 Gent. And a slight note I have about me for you, for the delivery of which you must excuse me: It is an office that friendship calls upon me to do, and no way offensive to you; since I desire but right on both sides.

[Gives him a letter.]

Bes. 'Tis a challenge, sir, is it not?

3 Gent. 'Tis an inviting to the field.

Bes. An inviting? Oh, cry you mercy!—What a compliment he delivers it with! he might, as agreeably to my nature, present me poison with such a speech. [Reads]. Um, um, um—Reputation—um, um, um—call you to account—um um, um—forced to this—um, um, um—with my sword—um, um, um—like a gentleman—um, um, um—dear to me—um, um, um—satisfaction.—'Tis very well, sir; I do accept it; but he must wait an answer this thirteen weeks.

3 Gent. Why, sir, he would be glad to wipe off this stain as soon as he could.

Bes. Sir, upon my credit, I am already engaged to two hundred and twelve; all which must have their stains wiped off, if that be the word, before him.

3 Gent. Sir, if you be truly engaged but to one, he shall stay a competent time.

Bes. Upon my faith, sir, to two hundred and twelve: And I have a spent body, too much bruised in battle; so that I cannot fight, I must be plain, above three combats a-day. All the kindness I can show him, is to set him resolvedly in my roll, the two hundred and thirteenth man, which is something; for, I tell you, I think there will be more after him than before him; I think so. Pray you commend me to him, and tell him this.

3 Gent. I will, sir. Good-morrow to you. [Exit Gentleman.]

Bes. Good-morrow, good sir.—Certainly, my safest way were to print myself a coward, with a discovery how I came by my credit, and clap it upon every post. I have received above thirty challenges within this two hours: Marry, all but the first I put off with engagement; and, by good fortune, the first is no madder of fighting than I; so that that's referred. The place where it must be ended is four days' journey off, and our arbitrators are these; he has chosen a gentleman in travel, and I have a special friend with a quartain ague, like to hold him this five years, for mine; and when his man comes home, we are to expect my friend's health. If they would send me challenges thus thick, as long as I lived, I would have no other living: I can make seven shillings a-day o' th' paper to the grocers. Yet I learn nothing by all these, but a little skill in comparing of styles: I do find evidently, that there is some one scrivener in this town, that has a great hand in writing of challenges, for they are all of a cut, and six of 'em in a hand; and they all end, "My reputation is dear to me, and I must require satisfaction."—Who's there? more paper, I hope. No; 'tis my lord Bacurius. I fear, all is not well betwixt us.

Enter BACURIUS.

Bac. Now, Captain Bessus! I come about a frivolous matter, caused by as idle a report: You know, you were a coward.

Bes. Very right.

Bac. And wrong'd me.

Bes. True, my lord.

Bac. But now, people will call you valiant; desertlessly, I think; yet, for their satisfaction, I will have you fight me.

Bes. Oh, my good lord, my deep engagements——

Bac. Tell not me of your engagements, Captain Bessus! It is not to be put off with an excuse. For my own part, I am none of the multitude that believe your conversion from coward.

Bes. My lord, I seek not quarrels, and this belongs not to me; I am not to maintain it.

Bac. Who then, pray?

Bes. Bessus the coward wrong'd you.

Bac. Right.

Bes. And shall Bessus the valiant maintain what Bessus the coward did?

Bac. I pr'ythee leave these cheating tricks! I swear thou shalt fight with me, or thou shalt be beaten extremely, and kick'd.

Bes. Since you provoke me thus far, my lord, I will fight with you; and, by my sword, it shall cost me twenty pounds, but I will have my leg well a week sooner purposely.

Bac. Your leg! why, what ail's your leg? I'll do a cure on you. Stand up!

Bes. My lord, this is not noble in you.

Bac. What dost thou with such a phrase in thy mouth? I will kick thee out of all good words before I leave thee.

[Kicks him.]

Bes. My lord, I take this as a punishment for the offence I did when I was a coward.

Bac. When thou wert? confess thyself a coward still, or, by this light, I'll beat thee into sponge.

Bes. Why, I am one.

Bac. Are you so, sir? and why do you wear a sword then? Come, unbuckle! quick!

Bes. My lord?

Bac. Unbuckle, I say, and give it me; or, as I live, thy head will ache extremely.

Bes. It is a pretty hilt; and if your lordship take an affection to it, with all my heart I present it to you, for a new-year's gift.

[Gives him his sword, with a knife in the scabbard.]

Bac. I thank you very heartily, sweet captain! Farewell.

Bes. One word more: I beseech your lordship to render me my knife again.

Bac. Marry, by all means, captain. [Gives him back the knife.] Cherish yourself with it, and eat hard, good captain! we cannot tell whether we shall have any more such. Adieu, dear captain! [Exit Bacurius.]

Bes. I will make better use of this, than of my sword. A base spirit has this 'vantage of a brave one; it keeps always at a stay, nothing brings it down, not beating. I remember I promised the king, in a great audience, that I would make my back-biters eat my sword to a knife: How to get another sword I know not; nor know any means left for me to maintain my credit, but impudence: Therefore I will outswear him and all his followers, that this is all that's left uneaten of my sword. [Exit Bessus.]

SCENE III.—An Apartment in the Palace.

Enter MARDONIUS.

Mar. I'll move the king; he is most strangely alter'd: I guess the cause, I fear, too right. Heaven has some secret end in't, and 'tis a scourge, no question, justly laid upon him. He has follow'd me through twenty rooms; and ever, when I stay to wait his command, he blushes like a girl, and looks upon me as if modesty kept in his business; so turns away from me; but, if I go on, he follows me again.

Enter ARBACES.

See, here he is. I do not use this, yet, I know not how, I cannot choose but weep to see him: his very enemies, I think, whose wounds have bred his fame, if they should see him now, would find tears i' their eyes.

Arb. I cannot utter it! Why should I keep
A breast to harbour thoughts I dare not speak?
Darkness is in my bosom; and there lie
A thousand thoughts that cannot brook the light.
How wilt thou vex me, when this deed is done,
Conscience, that art afraid to let me name it!

Mar. How do you, sir?

Arb. Why, very well, Mardonius.
How dost thou do?

Mar. Better than you, I fear.

Arb. I hope thou art; for, to be plain with thee,
Thou art in hell else! Secret scorching flames,
That far transcend earthly material fires,
Are crept into me, and there is no cure:
Is it not strange, Mardonius, there's no cure?

Mar. Sir, either I mistake, or there is something hid, that you would utter to me.

Arb. So there is: but yet I cannot do it.

Mar. Out with it, sir. If it be dangerous, I will not shrink to do you service: I shall not esteem my life a weightier matter than indeed it is. I know 'tis subject to more chances than it has hours; and I were better lose it in my king's cause, than with an ague, or a fall, or (sleeping) to a thief; as all these are probable enough. Let me but know what I shall do for you.

Arb. It will not out! Were you with Gobrias,
And bade him give my sister all content
The place affords, and give her leave to send
And speak to whom she please?

Mar. Yes, sir, I was.

Arb. And did you to Bacurius say as much
About Tigranes?

Mar. Yes.

Arb. That's all my business.

Mar. Oh, say not so; you had an answer of this before:
Besides, I think this business might be utter'd more carelessly.

Arb. Come, thou shalt have it out. I do beseech thee,
By all the love thou hast profess'd to me,
To see my sister from me.

Mar. Well; and what?

Arb. That's all.

Mar. That's strange! Shall I say nothing to her?

Arb. Not a word:

But, if thou lov'st me, find some subtle way
To make her understand by signs.

Mar. But what shall I make her understand?

Arb. Oh, Mardonius, for that I must be pardon'd.

Mar. You may; but I can only see her then.

Arb. 'Tis true! [Gives him a ring.]

Bear her this ring, then; and, on more advice, Thou shalt speak to her: Tell her I do love
My kindred all; wilt thou?

Mar. Is there no more?

Arb. Oh, yes! And her the best;
Better than any brother loves his sister:
That is all.

Mar. Methinks, this need not have been delivered with such a caution. I'll do it.

Arb. There is more yet: Wilt thou be faithful to me?

Mar. Sir, if I take upon me to deliver it, after I hear it, I'll pass through fire to do it.

Arb. I love her better than a brother ought.
Dost thou conceive me?

Mar. I hope you do not, sir.

Arb. No! thou art dull. Kneel down before her,
And never rise again, till she will love me.

Mar. Why, I think she does.

Arb. But, better than she does; another way;
As wives love husbands.

Mar. Why, I think there are few wives that love their husbands better than she does you.

Arb. Thou wilt not understand me! Is it fit
This should be utter'd plainly? Take it, then,
Naked as 'tis; I would desire her love
Lasciviously, lewdly, incestuously,
To do a sin that needs must damn us both;
And thee too. Dost thou understand me now?

Mar. Yes; there's your ring, again. What have I done
Dishonestly, in my whole life, name it,

That you should put so base a business to me?

Arb. Didst thou not tell me, thou wouldst do it?

Mar. Yes, if I undertook it: But if all
My hairs were lives, I would not be engaged
In such a cause to save my last life.

Arb. Oh, guilt, how poor and weak a thing art thou!
This man, that is my servant, whom my breath
Might blow about the world, might beat me here
Having this cause; whilst I, press'd down with sin,
Could not resist him.—Hear, Mardonius!
It was a motion mis-beseeming man,
And I am sorry for it.

Mar. Heaven grant you may be so! You must understand, nothing that you can utter can remove my love and service from my prince: but, otherwise, I think, I shall not love you more: For you are sinful, and, if you do this crime, you ought to have no laws; for, after this,
it will be great injustice in you to punish any offender, for any crime. For myself, I find my heart too big;
I feel, I have not patience to look on, whilst you run these forbidden courses. Means I have none but your favour; and I am rather glad that I shall lose 'em both together, than keep 'em with such conditions. I shall find a dwelling amongst some people, where, though our garments perhaps be coarser, we shall be richer far within, and harbour no such vices in 'em. The gods preserve you, and mend—

Arb. Mardonius! Stay, Mardonius! for, though
My present state requires nothing but knaves
To be about me, such as are prepared
For every wicked act, yet who does know,
But that my loathed fate may turn about,
And I have use for honest men again?
I hope, I may; I pr'ythee leave me not.

Enter BESSUS.

Bes. Where is the king?

Mar. There.

Bes. An't please your majesty, there's the knife.

Arb. What knife?

Bes. The sword is eaten.

Mar. Away, you fool! the king is serious,
And cannot now admit your vanities.

Bes. Vanities! I'm no honest man, if my enemies have not brought it to this. What, do you think I lie?

Arb. No, no; 'tis well, Bessus; tis very well.
I'm glad on't.

Mar. If your enemies brought it to this, your enemies are cutlers. Come, leave the king.

Bes. Why, may not valour approach him?

Mar. Yes; but he has affairs. Depart, or I shall be something unmannerly with you!

Arb. No; let him stay, Mardonius; let him stay;
I have occasion with him very weighty,
And I can spare you now.

Mar. Sir?

Arb. Why, I can spare you now.

Bes. Mardonius, give way to the state affairs.

Mar. Indeed, you are fitter for his present purpose.

[Exit Mardonius.]

Arb. Bessus, I should employ thee: Wilt thou do't?

Bes. Do't for you? By this air, I will do anything, without exception, be it a good, bad, or indifferent thing.

Arb. Do not swear.

Bes. By this light, but I will; anything whatsoever.

Arb. But I shall name the thing

Thy conscience will not suffer thee to do.

Bes. I would fain hear that thing.

Arb. Why, I would have thee get my sister for me,—
Thou understand'st me,—in a wicked manner.

Bes. Oh, you would have a bout with her? I'll do't, I'll do't, i'faith.

Arb. Wilt thou? dost thou make no more on't?

Bes. More? No. Why, is there anything else?
If there be, trust me, it shall be done too.

Arb. Hast thou no greater sense of such a sin?
Thou art too wicked for my company,
Though I have hell within me, and may'st yet
Corrupt me further! Pr'ythee answer me,
How do I show to thee after this motion?

Bes. Why, your majesty looks as well, in my opinion, as ever you did since you were born.

Arb. But thou appear'st to me, after thy grant,
The ugliest, loathed, detestable thing,
That I have ever met with. Thou hast eyes
Like flames of sulphur, which, methinks, do dart

Infection on me; and thou hast a mouth
Enough to take me in, where there do stand
Four rows of iron teeth.

Bes. I feel no such thing: But 'tis no matter how I look;
I'll do your business as well as they that look better.
And when this is dispatch'd, if you have a mind to your mother, tell me, and you shall see I'll set it hard.

Arb. My mother?—Heaven forgive me, to hear this!
I am inspired with horror.—Now I hate thee
Worse than my sin; which, if I could come by,
Should suffer death eternal, ne'er to rise
In any breast again. Know, I will die
Languishing mad, as I resolve I shall,
Ere I will deal by such an instrument:
Thou art too sinful to employ in this.
Out of the world, away!

[Beats him.]

Bes. What do you mean, sir?

Arb. Hung round with curses, take thy fearful flight
Into the desarts; where, 'mongst all the monsters,
If thou find'st one so beastly as thyself,
Thou shalt be held as innocent!

Bes. Good sir—

Arb. If there were no such instruments as thou,
We kings could never act such wicked deeds!
Seek out a man that mocks divinity,
That breaks each precept both of God and man,
And nature too, and does it without lust,
Merely because it is a law, and good,
And live with him; for him thou can'st not spoil.
Away, I say!—

[Exit Bessus.]

I will not do this sin.

I'll press it here, till it do break my breast:
It heaves to get out; but thou art a sin,
And, spite of torture, I will keep thee in.

[Exit.]

ACT IV

SCENE I.—The Apartment of the Princess in the Palace.

Enter GOBRIAS, PANTHEA, and SPACONIA.

Gob. Have you written, madam?

Pan. Yes, good Gobrias.

Gob. And with a kindness and such winning words
As may provoke him, at one instant, feel
His double fault, your wrong, and his own rashness?

Pan. I have sent words enough, if words may win him
From his displeasure; and such words, I hope,
As shall gain much upon his goodness, Gobrias.
Yet fearing, since they are many, and a woman's,
A poor belief may follow, I have woven
As many truths within 'em to speak for me,
That if he be but gracious and receive 'em——

Gob. Good lady, be not fearful: Though he should not Give you your present end in this, believe it,
You shall feel, if your virtue can induce you
To labour out this tempest (which, I know,
Is but a poor proof 'gainst your patience)
All those contents, your spirit will arrive at,
Newer and sweeter to you. Your royal brother,
When he shall once collect himself, and see
How far he has been asunder from himself,
What a mere stranger to his golden temper,
Must, from those roots of virtue, never dying,
Though somewhat stopt with humour, shoot again
Into a thousand glories, bearing his fair branches
High as our hopes can look at, strait as justice,
Loaden with ripe contents. He loves you dearly,
I know it, and, I hope, I need not further
Win you to understand it.

Pan. I believe it;
But, howsoever, I am sure I love him dearly;
So dearly, that if anything I write
For my enlarging should beget his anger,
Heaven be a witness with me, and my faith,
I had rather live entombed here.

Gob. You shall not feel a worse stroke than your grief;
I am sorry 'tis so sharp. I kiss your hand,
And this night will deliver this true story,
With this hand to your brother.

Pan. Peace go with you!
You are a good man.—

[Exit Gobrias.

My Spaconia,
Why are you ever sad thus?

Spa. Oh, dear lady!

Pan. Pr'ythee discover not a way to sadness,
Nearer than I have in me. Our two sorrows
Work, like two eager hawks, who shall get highest.
How shall I lessen thine? for mine, I fear,
Is easier known than cured.

Spa. Heaven comfort both,
And give yours happy ends, however I
Fall in my stubborn fortunes.

Pan. This but teaches
How to be more familiar with our sorrows,
That are too much our masters. Good Spaconia,
How shall I do you service?

Spa. Noblest lady,
You make me more a slave still to your goodness,
And only live to purchase thanks to pay you;
For that is all the business of my life now.
I will be bold, since you will have it so,
To ask a noble favour of you.

Pan. Speak it; 'tis yours; for, from so sweet a virtue,
No ill demand has issue.

Spa. Then, ever-virtuous, let me beg your will
In helping me to see the prince Tigranes;
With whom I am equal prisoner, if not more.

Pan. Reserve me to a greater end, Spaconia;
Bacurius cannot want so much good manners
As to deny your gentle visitation,
Though you came only with your own command.

Spa. I know they will deny me, gracious madam,
Being a stranger, and so little famed,
So utter empty of those excellencies
That tame authority: But in you, sweet lady,
All these are natural; beside, a power
Derived immediate from your royal brother,
Whose least word in you may command the kingdom.

Pan. More than my word, Spaconia, you shall carry,
For fear it fail you.

Spa. Dare you trust a token?

Madam, I fear I am grown too bold a beggar.

Pan. You are a pretty one; and, trust me, lady,
It joys me I shall do a good to you,
Though to myself I never shall be happy.
Here, take this ring, and from me as a token
Deliver it: I think they will not stay you.
So, all your own desires go with you, lady!

Spa. And sweet peace to your grace!

Pan, Pray Heaven, I find it!

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—A Prison.

TIGRANES is discovered.

Tigr. Fool that I am! I have undone myself,
And with my own hand turn'd my fortune round,
That was a fair one. I have childishly
Play'd with my hope so long, till I have broke it,
And now too late I mourn for't. Oh, Spaconia!
Thou hast found an even way to thy revenge now.
Why didst thou follow me, like a faint shadow,
To wither my desires? But, wretched fool,
Why did I plant thee 'twixt the sun and me,
To make me freeze thus! why did I prefer her
To the fair princess? Oh, thou fool, thou fool,
Thou family of fools, live like a slave still!
And in thee bear thine own hell and thy torment;
Thou hast deserved it. Couldst thou find no lady,
But she that has thy hopes, to put her to,
And hazard all thy peace? none to abuse,
But she that loved thee ever, poor Spaconia?
And so much loved thee, that, in honesty
And honour, thou art bound to meet her virtues!
She, that forgot the greatness of her grief
And miseries, that must follow such mad passions,
Endless and wild in women! she, that for thee,
And with thee, left her liberty, her name,
And country! You have paid me equal, heavens,
And sent my own rod to correct me with,
A woman! For inconstancy I'll suffer;

Lay it on, justice, till my soul melt in me,
 For my unmanly, beastly, sudden doting,
 Upon a new face; after all my oaths,
 Many, and strange ones.
 I feel my old fire flame again and burn
 So strong and violent, that, should I see her
 Again, the grief, and that, would kill me.

Enter BACURIUS and SPACONIA.

Bac. Lady,

Your token I acknowledge; you may pass;
 There is the king.

Spa. I thank your lordship for it. [Exit Bacurius.]

Tigr. She comes, she comes! Shame hide me ever from her!

'Would I were buried, or so far removed Light might not find me out! I dare not see her.

Spa. Nay, never hide yourself! Or, were you hid
 Where earth hides all her riches, near her centre,
 My wrongs, without more day, would light me to you:
 I must speak ere I die. Were all your greatness
 Doubled upon you, you're a perjured man,
 And only mighty in your wickedness
 Of wronging women! Thou art false, false, prince.
 I live to see it: poor Spaconia lives
 To tell thee thou art false; and then no more!
 She lives to tell thee, thou art more inconstant
 Than all ill women ever were together.
 Thy faith is firm as raging overflows,
 That no bank can command; as lasting
 As boys' gay bubbles, blown i' th' air and broken.
 The wind is fix'd to thee; and sooner shall
 The beaten mariner, with his shrill whistle,
 Calm the loud murmur of the troubled main,
 And strike it smooth again, than thy soul fall
 To have peace in love with any: Thou art all
 That all good men must hate; and if thy story
 Shall tell succeeding ages what thou wert,
 Oh, let it spare me in it, lest true lovers,
 In pity of my wrongs, burn thy black legend,
 And with their curses shake thy sleeping ashes.

Tigr. Oh! oh!

Spa. The destinies, I hope, have pointed out
 Our ends alike, that thou may'st die for love,

Though not for me; for, this assure thyself,
 The princess hates thee deadly, and will sooner
 Be won to marry with a bull, and safer,
 Than such a beast as thou art.—I have struck,
 I fear, too deep; beshrew me for it!—Sir,
 This sorrow works me, like a cunning friendship,
 Into the same piece with it.—He's ashamed!
 Alas, I have been too rugged.—Dear my lord,
 I am sorry I have spoken anything,
 Indeed I am, that may add more restraint
 To that too much you have. Good sir, be pleased
 To think it was a fault of love, not malice;
 And do as I will do, forgive it, prince.
 I do and can forgive the greatest sins
 To me you can repent of. Pray believe.

Tig. Oh, my Spaconia! Oh, thou virtuous woman!

Spa. No more; the king, sir.

Enter ARBACES, BACURIUS, and MARDONIUS.

Arb. Have you been careful of our noble prisoner,
 That he want nothing fitting for his greatness?

Bac. I hope his grace will quit me for my care, sir.

Arb. 'Tis well.—Royal Tigranes, health!

Tigr. More than the strictness of this place can give, sir,
 I offer back again to great Arbaces.

Arb. We thank you, worthy prince; and pray excuse us,
 We have not seen you since your being here.
 I hope your noble usage has been equal
 With your own person: Your imprisonment,
 If it be any, I dare say, is easy;
 And shall not out-last two days.

Tigr. I thank you.
 My usage here has been the same it was,
 Worthy a royal conqueror. For my restraint,
 It came unkindly, because much unlook'd for;
 But I must bear it.

Arb. What lady's that, Bacurius?

Bac. One of the princess' women, sir.

Arb. I fear'd it.

Why comes she hither?

Bac. To speak with the prince Tigranes.

Arb. From whom, Bacurius?

Bac. From the princess, sir.

Arb. I knew I had seen her.

Mar. His fit begins to take him now again. 'Tis a strange fever, and 'twill shake us all anon, I fear. 'Would he were well cured of this raging folly: Give me the wars, where men are mad, and may talk what they list, and held the bravest fellows; this pelting prating peace is good for nothing: Drinking's a virtue to't.

Arb. I see there's truth in no man, nor obedience,
But for his own ends: Why did you let her in?

Bac. It was your own command to bar none from him:
Besides, the princess sent her ring, sir, for my warrant.

Arb. A token to Tigranes, did she not?
Sir, tell truth.

Bac. I do not use to lie, sir.
'Tis no way I eat, or live by; and I think
This is no token, sir.

Mar. This combat has undone him: If he had been well beaten, he had been temperate. I shall never see him handsome again, till he have a horseman's staff yoked through his shoulders, or an arm broke with a bullet.

Arb. I am trifled with.

Bac. Sir?

Arb. I know it, as I know thee to be false.

Mar. Now the clap comes.

Bac. You never knew me so, sir, I dare speak it;
And, durst a worse man tell me, though my better——

Mar. 'Tis well said, by my soul.

Arb. Sirrah, you answer as you had no life.

Bac. That I fear, sir, to lose nobly.

Arb. I say, sir, once again——

Bac. You may say what you please, sir:
'Would I might do so.

Arb. I will, sir; and say openly,
This woman carries letters: By my life,
I know she carries letters; this woman does it.

Mar. 'Would Bessus were here, to take her aside and search her; he would quickly tell you what she carried, sir.

Arb. I have found it out, this woman carries letters.

Mar. If this hold, 'twill be an ill world for bawds, chambermaids, and post-boys. I thank Heaven, I have none but his letters-patents, things of his own inditing.

Arb. Prince, this cunning cannot do't.

Tigr. Do what, sir? I reach you not.

Arb. It shall not serve your turn, prince.

Tigr. Serve my turn, sir?

Arb. Ay, sir, it shall not serve your turn.

Tigr. Be plainer, good sir.

Arb. This woman shall carry no more letters back to your love Panthea; by Heaven she shall not; I say she shall not.

Mar. This would make a saint swear like a soldier, and a soldier like Termagant.

Tigr. This beats me more, king, than the blows you gave me.

Arb. Take 'em away both, and together let them prisoners be, strictly and closely kept; or, sirrah, your life shall answer it; and let nobody speak with 'em hereafter.

Tigr. Well, I am subject to you,
And must endure these passions.

Spa. This is th' imprisonment I have look'd for always,
And the dear place I would choose.

[Exeunt Tigranes, Spaconia, Bacurius.]

Mar. Sir, have you done well now?

Arb. Dare you reprove it?

Mar. No.

Arb. You must be crossing me.

Mar. I have no letters, sir, to anger you,
But a dry sonnet of my corporal's,
To an old sutler's wife; and that I'll burn, sir.
'Tis like to prove a fine age for the ignorant.

Arb. How dar'st thou so often forfeit thy life?
Thou know'st 'tis in my power to take it.

Mar. Yes, and I know you wo' not; or, if you do, you'll miss it quickly.

Arb. Why?

Mar. Who shall tell you of these childish follies, when I am dead? who shall put-to his power to draw those virtues out of a flood of humours, when they are drown'd, and make 'em shine again? No, cut my head off: Then you may talk, and be believed, and grow worse, and have your too self-glorious temper rock'd into a dead sleep, and the kingdom with you; till foreign swords be in your throats, and slaughter be everywhere about you, like your flatterers. Do, kill me!

Arb. Pr'ythee, be tamer, good Mardonius.

Thou know'st I love thee; nay, I honour thee;

Believe it, good old soldier, I am thine:
But I am rack'd clean from myself! Bear with me,
Woo't thou bear with me, my Mardonius?

Enter GOBRIAS.

Mar. There comes a good man; love him too; he's temperate; you may live to have need of such a virtue: Rage is not still in fashion.

Arb. Welcome, good Gobrias.

Gob. My service, and this letter, to your grace.

Arb. From whom?

Gob. From the rich mine of virtue and beauty,
Your mournful sister.

Arb. She is in prison, Gobrias, is she not?

Gob. [Kneels.] She is, sir, till your pleasure do enlarge her,
Which on my knees I beg. Oh, 'tis not fit,
That all the sweetness of the world in one,
The youth and virtue that would tame wild tigers,
And wilder people, that have known no manners,
Should live thus cloister'd up! For your love's sake,
If there be any in that noble heart
To her, a wretched lady, and forlorn;
Or for her love to you, which is as much
As Nature and Obedience ever gave,
Have pity on her beauties.

Arb. Praythee, stand up: 'Tis true, she is too fair,
And all these commendations but her own:
'Would thou hadst never so commended her,
Or I ne'er lived to have heard it, Gobrias!
If thou but knew'st the wrong her beauty does her,
Thou wouldst, in pity of her, be a liar.
Thy ignorance has drawn me, wretched man,
Whither myself, nor thou, canst well tell. Oh, my fate!
I think she loves me, but I fear another
Is deeper in her heart: How think'st thou, Gobrias?

Gob. I do beseech your grace, believe it not;
For, let me perish, if it be not false!
Good sir, read her letter.

[Arbaces reads.

Mar. This love, or what a devil it is, I know not, begets more mischief than a wake. I had rather be well beaten, starved, or lousy, than live within the air on't. He, that had seen this brave fellow charge through a grove of pikes but t'other day, and look upon him now, will ne'er believe his eyes again. If he continue thus but two days more, a tailor may beat him with one hand tied behind him.

Arb. Alas, she would be at liberty;
And there be thousand reasons, Gobrias,
Thousands, that will deny it;
Which, if she knew, she would contentedly
Be where she is, and bless her virtues for it,
And me, though she were closer: She would, Gobrias;
Good man, indeed, she would.

Gob. Then, good sir, for her satisfaction,
Send for her, and, with reason, make her know
Why she must live thus from you.

Arb. I will. Go bring her to me. [Exeunt.

SCENE III.—A Room in the House of Bessus.

Enter BESSUS, two Swordmen, and a Boy.

Bes. You're very welcome, both! Some stools there, boy;
And reach a table. Gentlemen o' th' sword,
Pray sit, without more compliment. Begone, child!
I have been curious in the searching of you,
Because I understand you wise and valiant persons.

1 Sw. We understand ourselves, sir.

Bes. Nay, gentlemen, and dear friends o' the sword,
No compliment, I pray; but to the cause
I hang upon, which, in few, is my honour.

2 Sw. You cannot hang too much, sir, for your honour.
But to your cause.

Bes. Be wise, and speak truth.
My first doubt is, my beating by my prince.

1 Sw. Stay there a little, sir; Do you doubt a beating?
Or, have you had a beating by your prince?

Bes. Gentlemen o' th' sword, my prince has beaten me.

2 Sw. Brother, what think you of this case?

1 Sw. If he has beaten him, the case is clear.

2 Sw. If he have beaten him, I grant the case.
But how? we cannot be too subtle in this business.
I say, but how?

Bes. Even with his royal hand.

1 Sw. Was it a blow of love, or indignation?

Bes. 'Twas twenty blows of indignation, gentlemen;
Besides two blows o' th' face.

- 2 Sw. Those blows o' th' face have made a new cause on't;
The rest were but an honourable rudeness.
- 1 Sw. Two blows o' th' face, and given by a worse man,
I must confess, as the swordmen say, had turn'd
The business: Mark me, brother, by a worse man:
But, being by his prince, had they been ten,
And those ten drawn ten teeth, besides the hazard
Of his nose for ever, all this had been but favours.
This is my flat opinion, which I'll die in.
- 2 Sw. The king may do much, captain, believe it;
For had he crack'd your skull through, like a bottle,
Or broke a rib or two with tossing of you,
Yet you had lost no honour. This is strange,
You may imagine, but this is truth now, captain.
- Bes.* I will be glad to embrace it, gentlemen.
But how far may he strike me?
- 1 Sw. There's another;
A new cause rising from the time and distance,
In which I will deliver my opinion.
He may strike, beat, or cause to be beaten;
For these are natural to man:
Your prince, I say, may beat you so far forth
As his dominion reaches; that's for the distance;
The time, ten miles a-day, I take it.
- 2 Sw. Brother, you err, 'tis fifteen miles a-day;
His stage is ten, his beatings are fifteen.
- Bes.* 'Tis of the longest, but we subjects must——
- 1 Sw. Be subject to it: You are wise and virtuous.
- Bes.* Obedience ever makes that noble use on't,
To which I dedicate my beaten body.
I must trouble you a little further, gentlemen o' th' sword.
- 2 Sw. No trouble at all to us, sir, if we may Profit your understanding: We are bound,
By virtue of our calling, to utter our opinion
Shortly, and discretely.
- Bes.* My sorest business is, I have been kick'd.
- 2 Sw. How far, sir?
- Bes.* Not to flatter myself in it, all over:
My sword lost, but not forced; for discretely
I render'd, it, to save that imputation.
- 1 Sw. It show'd discretion, the best part of valour.
- 2 Sw. Brother, this is a pretty cause; pray ponder on't:

Our friend here has been kick'd.

1 Sw. He has so, brother.

2 Sw. Sorely, he says. Now, had he set down here,
Upon the mere kick, 't had been cowardly.

1 Sw. I think, it had been cowardly, indeed.

2 Sw. But our friend has redeem'd it, in delivering
His sword without compulsion; and that man
That took it of him, I pronounce a weak one,
And his kicks nullities.

He should have kick'd him after the delivering,
Which is the confirmation of a coward.

1 Sw. Brother, I take it you mistake the question;
For, say, that I were kick'd.

2 Sw. I must not say so;
Nor I must not hear it spoke by th' tongue of man.
You kick'd, dear brother! You are merry.

1 Sw. But put the case, I were kick'd.

2 Sw. Let them put it,
That are things weary of their lives, and know
Not honour! Put the case, you were kick'd!

1 Sw. I do not say I was kick'd.

2 Sw. Nor no silly creature that wears his head
Without a case, his soul in a skin-coat.
You kick'd, dear brother!

Bes. Nay, gentlemen, let us do what we shall do,
Truly and honestly. Good sirs, to the question.

1 Sw. Why, then, I say, suppose your boy kick'd, captain.

2 Sw. The boy, may be supposed, is liable.
But, kick my brother!

1 Sw. A foolish forward zeal, sir, in my friend.

But to the boy: Suppose, the boy were kick'd.

Bes. I do suppose it.

1 Sw. Has your boy a sword?

Bes. Surely, no; I pray, suppose a sword too.

1 Sw. I do suppose it. You grant, your boy was kick'd then.

2 Sw. By no means, captain; let it be supposed still;
The word "grant" makes not for us.

1 Sw. I say, this must be granted.

2 Sw. This must be granted, brother?

1 Sw. Ay, this must be granted.

2 Sw. Still, this must?

1 Sw. I say, this must be granted.

2 Sw. Ay! give me the must again! Brother, you palter.

1 Sw. I will not hear you, wasp.

2 Sw. Brother,

I say you palter; the must three times together!

I wear as sharp steel as another man,

And my fox bites as deep. Musted, my dear brother!

But to the cause again.

Bes. Nay, look you, gentlemen!

2 Sw. In a word, I ha' done.

1 Sw. A tall man, but intemperate; 'tis great pity.

Once more, suppose the boy kick'd.

2 Sw. Forward.

1 Sw. And, being thoroughly kick'd, laughs at the kicker.

2 Sw. So much for us. Proceed.

1 Sw. And in this beaten scorn, as I may call it,

Delivers up his weapon; where lies the error?

Bes. It lies i' the beating, sir: I found it four days since.

2 Sw. The error, and a sore one, as I take it,

Lies in the thing kicking.

Bes. I understand that well; 'tis sore indeed, sir.

1 Sw. That is according to the man that did it.

2 Sw. There springs a new branch: Whose was the foot?

Bes. A lord's.

1 Sw. The cause is mighty; but, had it been two lords,

And both had kick'd you, if you laugh'd, 'tis clear.

Bes. I did laugh; but how will that help me, gentlemen?

2 Sw. Yes, it shall help you, if you laugh'd aloud.

Bes. As loud as a kick'd man could laugh, I laugh'd, sir.

1 Sw. My reason now: The valiant man is known

By suffering and contemning; you have Enough of both, and you are valiant.

2 Sw. If he be sure he has been kick'd enough:

For that brave sufferance you speak of, brother,

Consists not in a beating and away,

But in a cudgell'd body, from eighteen

To eight and thirty; in a head rebuked

With pots of all size, daggers, stools, and bedstaves:

This shows a valiant man.

Bes. Then I am valiant, as valiant as the proudest;

For these are all familiar things to me;

Familiar as my sleep, or want of money;

All my whole body's but one bruise, with beating.

I think I have been cudgell'd with all nations,

And almost all religions.

2 Sw. Embrace him, brother! this man is valiant;
I know it by myself, he's valiant.

1 Sw. Captain, thou art a valiant gentleman,
To bide upon, a very valiant man.

Bes. My equal friends o' th' sword, I must request
Your hands to this.

2 Sw. 'Tis fit it should be.

Bes. Boy,
Get me some wine, and pen and ink, within.—
Am I clear, gentlemen?

1 Sw. Sir, when the world has taken notice what we have done,

Make much of your body; for I'll pawn my steel,
Men will be cov'ers of their legs hereafter.

Bes. I must request you go along, and testify
To the lord Bacurius, whose foot has struck me,
How you find my cause.

2 Sw. We will; and tell that lord he must be ruled;
Or there be those abroad, will rule his lordship. [Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—An Apartment in the Palace.

Enter ARBACES at one door, and GOBRIAS with PANTHEA at another.

Gob. Sir, here's the princess.

Arb. Leave us, then, alone;
For the main cause of her imprisonment
Must not be heard by any but herself.— [Exit Gobrias.]
You're welcome, sister; and I would to Heaven
I could so bid you by another name.—
If you above love not such sins as these,
Circle my heart with thoughts as cold as snow,
To quench these rising flames that harbour here.

Pan. Sir, does it please you I shall speak?

Arb. Please me?
Ay, more than all the art of music can,
Thy speech doth please me; for it ever sounds
As thou brought'st joyful unexpected news:
And yet it is not fit thou shouldst be heard;
I pray thee, think so.

Pan. Be it so; I will.
Am I the first that ever had a wrong

So far from being fit to have redress,
That 'twas unfit to hear it? I will back
To prison, rather than disquiet you,
And wait till it be fit.

Arb. No, do not go;
For I will hear thee with a serious thought:
I have collected all that's man about me
Together strongly, and I am resolved
To hear thee largely: But I do beseech thee,
Do not come nearer to me; for there is Something in that, that will undo us both.

Pan. Alas, sir, am I venom?

Arb. Yes, to me;
Though, of thyself, I think thee to be in
As equal a degree of heat or cold,
As Nature can make: Yet, as unsound men
Convert the sweetness and the nourishing'st meats
Into diseases, so shall I, distemper'd,
Do thee: I pray thee, draw no nearer to me.

Pan. Sir, this is that I would: I am of late
Shut from the world, and why it should be thus
Is all I wish to know.

Arb. Why, credit me,
Panthea, credit me, that am thy brother,
Thy loving brother, that there is a cause
Sufficient, yet unfit for thee to know,
That might undo thee everlastingly,
Only to hear. Wilt thou but credit this?
By heaven, 'tis true; believe it, if thou canst.

Pan. Children and fools are very credulous,
And I am both, I think, for I believe,
If you dissemble, be it on your head!
I'll back unto my prison. Yet, methinks,
I might be kept in some place where you are;
For in myself I find, I know not what
To call it, but it is a great desire
To see you often.

Arb. Fy, you come in a step; what do you mean?
Dear sister, do not so! Alas, Panthea,
Where I am would you be? why, that's the cause
You are imprison'd, that you may not be
Where I am.

Pan. Then I must endure it, sir.

Heaven keep you!

Arb. Nay, you shall hear the cause in short, Panthea;
And, when thou hear'st it, thou wilt blush for me,
And hang thy head down like a violet
Full of the morning's dew. There is a way
To gain thy freedom; but 'tis such a one
As puts thee in worse bondage, and I know
Thou wouldst encounter fire, and make a proof
Whether the gods have care of innocence,
Rather than follow it: Know, that I have lost,
The only difference betwixt man and beast,
My reason.

Pan. Heaven forbid!

Arb. Nay, it is gone;
And I am left as far without a bound
As the wild ocean that obeys the winds;
Each sudden passion throws me where it lists,
And overwhelms all that oppose my will.
I have beheld thee with a lustful eye;
My heart is set on wickedness, to act
Such sins with thee, as I have been afraid
To think of. If thou dar'st consent to this,
Which, I beseech thee, do not, thou may'st gain
Thy liberty, and yield me a content;
If not, thy dwelling must be dark and close,
Where I may never see thee: For Heaven knows,
That laid this punishment upon my pride,
Thy sight at some time will enforce my madness
To make a start e'en to thy ravishing.
Now spit upon me, and call all reproaches
Thou can'st devise together, and at once
Hurl 'em against me; for I am a sickness
As killing as the plague, ready to seize thee.

Pan. Far be it from me to revile the king!
But it is true, that I shall rather choose
To search out death, that else would search out me,
And in a grave sleep with my innocence,
Than welcome such a sin. It is my fate;
To these cross accidents I was ordain'd,
And must have patience; and, but that my eyes
Have more of woman in 'em than my heart,
I would not weep. Peace enter you again!

Arb. Farewell; and, good Panthea, pray for me,

(Thy prayers are pure) that I may find a death,
 However soon, before my passions grow,
 That they forget what I desire is sin;
 For thither they are tending: If that happen,
 Then I shall force thee, though thou wert a virgin
 By vow to Heaven, and shall pull a heap
 Of strange, yet uninvented, sin upon me.

Pan. Sir, I will pray for you! yet you shall know
 It is a sullen fate that governs us:
 For I could wish, as heartily as you,
 I were no sister to you; I should then
 Embrace your lawful love, sooner than health.

Arb. Couldst thou affect me then?

Pan. So perfectly,
 That, as it is, I ne'er shall sway my heart
 To like another.

Arb. Then I curse my birth!
 Must this be added to my miseries,
 That thou art willing too? Is there no stop
 To our full happiness, but these mere sounds,
 Brother and sister?

Pan. There is nothing else:
 But these, alas! will separate us more
 Than twenty worlds betwixt us.

Arb. I have lived
 To conquer men, and now am overthrown
 Only by words, brother and sister. Where Have those words dwelling? I will find 'em out,
 And utterly destroy 'em; but they are
 Not to be grasp'd: Let them be men or beasts,
 And I will cut 'em from the earth; or towns,
 And I will raze 'em, and then blow 'em up:
 Let 'em be seas, and I will drink 'em off,
 And yet have unquench'd fire left in my breast:
 Let 'em be anything but merely voice.

Pan. But 'tis not in the power of any force,
 Or policy, to conquer them.

Arb. Panthea,
 What shall we do? Shall we stand firmly here,
 And gaze our eyes out?

Pan. 'Would I could do so!
 But I shall weep out mine.

Arb. Accursed man,

Thou bought'st thy reason at too dear a rate;
For thou hast all thy actions bounded in
With curious rules, when every beast is free:
What is there that acknowledges a kindred,
But wretched man? Who ever saw the bull
Fearfully leave the heifer that he liked,
Because they had one dam?

Pan. Sir, I disturb you

And myself too; 'twere better I were gone.

Arb. I will not be so foolish as I was;

Stay, we will love just as becomes our births,
No otherwise: Brothers and sisters may Walk hand in hand together; so shall we.
Come nearer: Is there any hurt in this?

Pan. I hope not.

Arb. 'Faith, there is none at all:

And tell me truly now, is there not one
You love above me?

Pan. No, by Heaven.

Arb. Why, yet

You sent unto Tigranes, sister.

Pan. True,

But for another: For the truth——

Arb. No more.

I'll credit thee; I know thou canst not lie.
Thou art all truth.

Pan. But is there nothing else

That we may do, but only walk? Methinks,
Brothers and sisters lawfully may kiss.

Arb. And so they may, Panthea; so will we;

And kiss again too; we were too scrupulous
And foolish, but we will be so no more.

Pan. If you have any mercy, let me go

To prison, to my death, to anything;

I feel a sin growing upon my blood,

Worse than all these, hotter, I fear, than yours.

Arb. That is impossible: what should we do?

Pan. Fly, sir, for Heaven's sake.

Arb. So we must; away!

Sin grows upon us more by this delay.

[Exeunt several ways.]

ACT V

SCENE I.—Before the Palace.Enter MARDONIUS and LYGONES.

Mar. Sir, the king has seen your commission, and believes it; and freely by this warrant gives you power to visit prince Tigranes, your noble master.

Lyg. I thank his grace, and kiss his hand.

Mar. But is the main of all your business ended in this?

Lyg. I have another, but a worse; I am ashamed! It is a business——

Mar. You serve a worthy person; and a stranger, I am sure you are: You may employ me, if you please, without your purse; such offices should ever be their own rewards.

Lyg. I am bound to your nobleness.

Mar. I may have need of you, and then this courtesy, If it be any, is not ill bestow'd.

But may I civilly desire the rest?

I shall not be a hurter, if no helper.

Lyg. Sir, you shall know: I have lost a foolish daughter, And with her all my patience: pilfer'd away By a mean captain of your king's.

Mar. Stay there, sir:

If he have reach'd the noble worth of captain,
He may well claim a worthy gentlewoman,
Though she were yours, and noble.

Lyg. I grant all that too: But this wretched fellow
Reaches no further than the empty name,
That serves to feed him. Were he valiant,
Or had but in him any noble nature,
That might hereafter promise him a good man,
My cares were so much lighter, and my grave
A span yet from me.

Mar. I confess, such fellows

Be in all royal camps, and have and must be,
To make the sin of coward more detested
In the mean soldier, that with such a foil
Sets off much valour. By description,
I should now guess him to you; it was Bessus,
I dare almost with confidence pronounce it.

Lyg. 'Tis such a scurvy name as Bessus;

And, now I think, 'tis he.

Mar. Captain do you call him?

Believe me, sir, you have a misery
Too mighty for your age: A pox upon him!
For that must be an end of all his service.
Your daughter was not mad, sir?

Lyg. No; 'would she had been!

The fault had had more credit. I would do something.

Mar. I would fain counsel you; but to what I know not.

He's so below a beating, that the women
Find him not worthy of their distaves, and
To hang him were to cast away a rope.
He's such an airy, thin, unbodied coward,
That no revenge can catch him.
I'll tell you, sir, and tell you truth; this rascal
Fears neither God nor man; has been so beaten,
Sufferance has made him wainscot; he has had,
Since he was first a slave,
At least three hundred daggers set in's head,
As little boys do new knives in hot meat.
There's not a rib in's body, o' my conscience,
That has not been thrice broken with dry beating!
And now his sides look like two wicker targets,
Every way bended;
Children will shortly take him for a wall,
And set their stone-bows in his forehead.
He is of so base a sense,
I cannot in a week imagine what
Shall be done to him.

Lyg. Sure, I have committed some great sin,
That this base fellow should be made my rod.
I would see him; but I shall have no patience.

Mar. 'Tis no great matter, if you have not: If a laming of him, or such a toy, may do you pleasure, sir, he has it for you; and I'll help you to him. 'Tis no news to him to have a leg broken, or a shoulder out, with being turn'd o' th' stones like a tansy. Draw not your sword, if you love it; for, on my conscience, his head will break it;
We use him i' th' wars like a ram, to shake a wall withal.
Here comes the very person of him; do as you shall find your temper; I must leave you: But if you do not break him like a biscuit, you're much to blame, sir.

[Exit Mardonius.]

Enter BESSUS and the Swordmen.

Lyg. Is your name Bessus?

Bes. Men call me Captain Bessus.

Lyg. Then, Captain Bessus, you are a rank rascal, without more exordiums; a dirty frozen slave! and, with the favour of your friends here, I will beat you.

2 Sw. Pray use your pleasure, sir; you seem to be a gentleman.

Lyg. [Beats him.] Thus, Captain Bessus, thus!

Thus twinge your nose, thus kick, thus tread upon you.

Bes. I do beseech you, yield your cause, sir, quickly.

Lyg. Indeed, I should have told you that first.

Bes. I take it so.

1 Sw. Captain, he should, indeed; he is mistaken.

Lyg. Sir, you shall have it quickly, and more beating:

You have stolen away a lady, Captain Coward,

And such a one——

[Beats him.]

Bes. Hold, I beseech you, hold, sir;

I never yet stole any living thing

That had a tooth about it.

Lyg. I know you dare lie.

Bes. With none but summer-whores, upon my life, sir:

My means and manners never could attempt

Above a hedge or haycock.

Lyg. Sirrah, that quits not me: Where is this lady?

Do that you do not use to do, tell truth,

Or, by my hand, I'll beat your captain's brains out,

Wash 'em, and put 'em in again, that will I.

Bes. There was a lady, sir, I must confess,

Once in my charge: The prince Tigranes gave her

To my guard, for her safety. How I used her

She may herself report; she's with the prince now.

I did but wait upon her like a groom,

Which she will testify, I am sure: If not,

My brains are at your service, when you please, sir,

And glad I have 'em for you.

Lyg. This is most likely. Sir, I ask your pardon and am sorry I was so intemperate.

Bes. Well, I can ask no more. You would think it strange now, to have me beat you at first sight.

Lyg. Indeed, I would; but, I know, your goodness can forget twenty beatings: You must forgive me.

Bes. Yes; there's my hand. Go where you will, I shall think you a valiant fellow for all this.

Lyg. My daughter is a whore. [Aside.

I feel it now too sensible; yet I will see her;
Discharge myself from being father to her,
And then back to my country, and there die.—
Farewell, captain.

Bes. Farewell, sir, farewell! Commend me to the gentlewoman, I pray. [Exit Lygones.

1 Sw. How now, captain? bear up, man.

Bes. Gentlemen o' th' sword, your hands once more; I have been kick'd again; but the foolish fellow is penitent, has ask'd me mercy, and my honour's safe.

2 Sw. We knew that, or the foolish fellow had better have kick'd his grandsire.

Bes. Confirm, confirm, I pray.

1 Sw. There be our hands again! Now let him come, and say he was not sorry, and he sleeps for it.

Bes. Alas! good ignorant old man, let him go, let him go; these courses will undo him. [Exeunt.

SCENE II.—The Prison.

Enter LYGONES and BACURIUS.

Bac. My lord, your authority is good, and I am glad it is so; for my consent would never hinder you from seeing your own king: I am a minister, but not a governor of this state. Yonder is your king; I'll leave you. [Exit.

Enter TIGRANES and SPACONIA.

Lyg. There he is,
Indeed, and with him my disloyal child.

Tigr. I do perceive my fault so much, that yet,
Methinks, thou shouldst not have forgiven me.

Lyg. Health to your majesty!

Tigr. What, good Lygones! welcome!
What business brought thee hither?

Lyg. Several businesses: [Gives a paper.
My public business will appear by this;
I have a message to deliver, which,
If it pleases you so to authorise, is
An embassy from the Armenian state

Unto Arbaces for your liberty.

The offer's there set down; please you to read it.

Tigr. There is no alteration happen'd since
I came thence?

Lyg. None, sir; all is as it was.

Tigr. And all our friends are well?

[Reads.

Lyg. All very well.

Spa. Though I have done nothing but what was good,
I dare not see my father: It was fault
Enough not to acquaint him with that good.

Lyg. Madam, I should have seen you.

Spa. Oh, good sir, forgive me.

Lyg. Forgive you! why, I am no kin to you, am I?

Spa. Should it be measured by my mean deserts,
Indeed you are not.

Lyg. Thou couldst prate unhappily
Ere thou couldst go; 'would thou couldst do as well,
And how does your custom hold out here?

Spa. Sir?

Lyg. Are you in private still, or how?

Spa. What do you mean?

Lyg. Do you take money? Are you come to sell sin yet?
Perhaps, I can help you to liberal clients: Or has not the king cast you off yet? Oh, thou vile creature, whose best commendation is, that thou art a young whore! I would thy mother had lived to see this; or, rather, that I had died ere I had seen it! Why didst not make me acquainted
When thou wert first resolved to be a whore?
I would have seen thy hot lust satisfied
More privately; I would have kept a dancer,
And a whole consort of musicians,
In my own house, only to fiddle thee.

Spa. Sir, I was never whore.

Lyg. If thou couldst not say so much for thyself thou shouldst be carted.

Tigr. Lygones, I have read it, and I like it;
You shall deliver it.

Lyg. Well, sir, I will:

But I have private business with you.

Tigr. Speak; what is't?

Lyg. How has my age deserved so ill of you,
That you can pick no strumpets i' the land,

But out of my breed?

Tigr. Strumpets, good Lygones?

Lyg. Yes; and I wish to have you know, I scorn
To get a whore for any prince alive:
And yet scorn will not help! Methinks, my daughter
Might have been spared; there were enow besides.

Tigr. May I not prosper but she's innocent
As morning light, for me; and, I dare swear,
For all the world.

Lyg. Why is she with you, then?
Can she wait on you better than your man?
Has she a gift in plucking off your stockings?
Can she make caudles well, or cut your corns?
Why do you keep her with you? For a queen,
I know, you do contemn her; so should I;
And every subject else think much at it.

Tigr. Let 'em think much; but 'tis more firm than earth,
Thou seest thy queen there.

Lyg. Then have I made a fair hand: I call'd her whore. If I shall speak now as her father, I cannot choose but greatly rejoice that she shall be a queen: But if I should speak to you as a statesman, she were more fit to be your whore.

Tigr. Get you about your business to Arbaces;
Now you talk idly.

Lyg. Yes, sir, I will go.
And shall she be a queen? She had more wit
Than her old father, when she ran away.
Shall she be queen? Now, by my troth, 'tis fine!
I'll dance out of all measure at her wedding:
Shall I not, sir?

Tigr. Yes, marry, shalt thou.

Lyg. I'll make these wither'd kexes bear my body
Two hours together above ground.

Tigr. Nay, go;
My business requires haste.

Lyg. Good Heav'n preserve you!
You are an excellent king.

Spa. Farewell, good father.

Lyg. Farewell, sweet virtuous daughter.
I never was so joyful in my life,
That I remember! Shall she be a queen?
Now I perceive a man may weep for joy;

I had thought they had lied that said so.

[Exit Lygones.]

Tigr. Come, my dear love.

Spa. But you may see another,

May alter that again.

Tigr. Urge it no more:

I have made up a new strong constancy,
Not to be shook with eyes. I know I have
The passions of a man; but if I meet
With any subject that should hold my eyes
More firmly than is fit, I'll think of thee,
And run away from it: Let that suffice.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE III.—The house of Bacurius.

Enter BACURIUS and a Servant.

Bac. Three gentlemen without, to speak with me?

Serv. Yes, sir.

Bac. Let them come in.

Enter BESSUS, with the two Swordmen.

Serv. They are enter'd, sir, already.

Bac. Now, fellows, your business? Are these the gentlemen?

Bes. My lord, I have made bold to bring these gentlemen,
My friends o' th' sword, along with me.

Bac. I am

Afraid you'll fight, then.

Bes. My good lord, I will not;

Your lordship is mistaken; fear not, lord.

Bac. Sir, I am sorry for't.

Bes. I ask no more in honour.—Gentlemen,
You hear my lord is sorry.

Bac. Not that I have beaten you,

But beaten one that will be beaten;

One whose dull body will require a lamming,
As surfeits do the diet, spring and fall.

Now, to your swordmen:

What come they for, good captain Stockfish?

Bes. It seems your lordship has forgot my name.

Bac. No, nor your nature neither; though they are Things fitter, I must confess, for anything
Than my remembrance, or any honest man's:

What shall these billets do? be piled up in my wood-yard?

Bes. Your lordship holds your mirth still, heaven continue it!
But, for these gentlemen, they come——

Bac. To swear you are a coward? Spare your book;
I do believe it.

Bes. Your lordship still draws wide;
They come to vouch, under their valiant hands,
I am no coward.

Bac. That would be a show, indeed, worth seeing. Sirs,
Be wise and take money for this motion, travel with't;
And where the name of Bessus has been known,
Or a good coward stirring, 'twill yield more than
A tilting. This will prove more beneficial to you,
If you be thrifty, than your captainship,
And more natural. Men of most valiant hands,
Is this true?

2 Sw. It is so, most renowned.

Bac. 'Tis somewhat strange.

1 Sw. Lord, it is strange, yet true.

We have examined, from your lordship's foot there
To this man's head, the nature of the beatings;
And we do find his honour is come off
Clean and sufficient: This, as our swords shall help us.

Bac. You are much bound to your bilbo-men;
I am glad you're straight again, captain. 'Twere good
You would think some way how to gratify them;
They have undergone a labour for you, Bessus,
Would have puzzled Hercules with all his valour.

2 Sw. Your lordship must understand we are no men
Of the law, that take pay for our opinions;
It is sufficient we have cleared our friend.

Bac. Yet there is something due, which I, as touch'd
In conscience, will discharge.—Captain, I'll pay
This rent for you.

Bes. Spare yourself, my good lord;
My brave friends aim at nothing but the virtue.

Bac. That's but a cold discharge, sir, for the pains.

2 Sw. Oh, lord! my good lord!

Bac. Be not so modest; I will give you something.

Bes. They shall dine with your lordship; that's sufficient.

Bac. Something in hand the while. You rogues, you applesquires,

Do you come hither, with your bottled valour,
Your windy froth, to limit out my beatings?

[Kicks them.]

1 Sw. I do beseech your lordship.

2 Sw. Oh, good lord!

Bac. 'Sfoot, what a bevy of beaten slaves are here!—
Get me a cudgel, sirrah, and a tough one.

[Exit Servant.]

2 Sw. More of your foot, I do beseech your lordship.

Bac. You shall, you shall, dog, and your fellow beagle.

1 Sw. O' this side, good my lord.

Bac. Off with your swords;
For if you hurt my foot, I'll have you flead,
You rascals.

1 Sw. Mine's off, my lord. [They take off their swords.]

2 Sw. I beseech your lordship, stay a little; my strap's
Tied to my cod-piece point: Now, when you please.

Bac. Captain, these are your valiant friends;
You long for a little too?

Bes. I am very well, I humbly thank your lordship.

Bac. What's that in your pocket hurts my toe, you mungrel?
Thy buttocks cannot be so hard; out with't quickly.

2 Sw. [Takes out a pistol.] Here 'tis, sir; a small piece of artillery,

That a gentleman, a dear friend of your lordship's,
Sent me with, to get it mended, sir; for, if you mark,
The nose is somewhat loose.

Bac. A friend of mine, you rascal?
I was never wearier of doing nothing,
Than kicking these two foot-balls.

Enter Servant.

Serv. Here's a good cudgel, sir.

Bac. It comes too late; I am weary; pr'ythee,
Do thou beat them.

2 Sw. My lord, this is foul play,
I'faith, to put a fresh man upon us:
Men are but men, sir.

Bac. That jest shall save your bones.—Captain, rally up your rotten regiment, and begone.—I had rather thresh than be bound to kick these rascals, till they cried, “ho!” Bessus, you may put your hand to them now, and then you are quit.—Farewell! as you like this, pray visit me again; 'twill keep me in good health. [Exit.]

2 Sw. He has a devilish hard foot; I never felt the like.

1 Sw. Nor I; and yet, I am sure, I have felt a hundred.

2 Sw. If he kick thus i' the dog-days, he will be dry-foundred.

What cure now, captain, besides oil of bays?

Bes. Why, well enough, I warrant you; you can go?

2 Sw. Yes, Heaven be thank'd! but I feel a shrewd ache;
Sure, he's sprang my huckle-bone.

1 Sw. I ha' lost a haunch.

Bes. A little butter, friend, a little butter;
Butter and parsley is a sovereign matter:
Probatum est.

2 Sw. Captain, we must request
Your hand now to our honours.

Bes. Yes, marry, shall ye;
And then let all the world come, we are valiant
To ourselves, and there's an end.

1 Sw. Nay, then, we must be valiant. Oh, my ribs!

2 Sw. Oh, my small guts!
A plague upon these sharp-toed shoes; they are murderers. [Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—A Room in the Palace.

Enter ARBACES with his sword drawn.

Arb. It is resolved: I bore it whilst I could;
I can no more. Hell, open all thy gates,
And I will thorough them: If they be shut,
I'll batter 'em, but I will find the place
Where the most damn'd have dwelling! Ere I end,
Amongst them all they shall not have a sin,
But I may call it mine; I must begin
With murder of my friend, and so go on
To that incestuous ravishing, and end
My life and sins with a forbidden blow
Upon myself!

Enter MARDONIUS.

Mar. What tragedy is near?
That hand was never wont to draw a sword,
But it cried "dead" to something.

Arb. Mardonius,

Have you bid Gobrias come?

Mar. How do you, sir?

Arb. Well. Is he coming?

Mar. Why, sir, are you thus?

Why do your hands proclaim a lawless war
Against yourself?

Arb. Thou answer'st me one question with another:
Is Gobrias coming?

Mar. Sir, he is.

Arb. 'Tis well:

I can forbear your questions then. Begone!

Mar. Sir, I have mark'd——

Arb. Mark less! it troubles you and me.

Mar. You are more variable than you were.

Arb. It may be so.

Mar. To-day no hermit could be humbler
Than you were to us all.

Arb. And what of this?

Mar. And now you take new rage into your eyes,
As you would look us all out of the land.

Arb. I do confess it; will that satisfy?
I pr'ythee, get thee gone.

Mar. Sir, I will speak.

Arb. Will ye?

Mar. It is my duty.

I fear you'll kill yourself: I am a subject,
And you shall do me wrong in't; 'tis my cause,
And I may speak.

Arb. Thou art not train'd in sin,
It seems, Mardonius: kill myself! by Heaven,
I will not do it yet; and, when I will,
I'll tell thee, then I shall be such a creature
That thou wilt give me leave without a word.
There is a method in man's wickedness;
It grows up by degrees: I am not come
So high as killing of myself; there are
A hundred thousand sins 'twixt me and it,
Which I must do; and I shall come to't at last,
But, take my oath, not now. Be satisfied,
And get thee hence.

Mar. I am sorry 'tis so ill.

Arb. Be sorry, then:

True sorrow is alone; grieve by thyself.

Mar. I pray you let me see your sword put up
Before I go: I'll leave you then.

Arb. [Puts up.] Why, so.

What folly is this in thee? is it not
As apt to mischief as it was before?
Can I not reach it, think'st thou? These are toys
For children to be pleased with, and not men.
Now I am safe, you think: I would the book
Of Fate were here: my sword is not so sure
But I would get it out, and mangle that,
That all the destinies should quite forget
Their fix'd decrees, and haste to make us new,
For other fortunes; mine could not be worse.
Wilt thou now leave me?

Mar. Heaven put into your bosom temperate thoughts!
I'll leave you, though I fear. [Exit Mardonius.]

Arb. Go; thou art honest.

Why should the hasty errors of my youth
Be so unpardonable to draw a sin,
Helpless, upon me?

Enter GOBRIAS.

Gob. There is the king;
Now it is ripe.

Arb. Draw near, thou guilty man,
That art the author of the loathed'st crime
Five ages have brought forth, and hear me speak.
Curses incurable, and all the evils
Man's body or his spirit can receive,
Be with thee!

Gob. Why, sir, do you curse me thus?

Arb. Why do I curse thee? If there be a man
Subtle in curses, that exceeds the rest,
His worst wish on thee! Thou hast broke my heart.

Gob. How, sir! Have I preserved you, from a child,
From all the arrows malice or ambition
Could shoot at you, and have I this for pay?

Arb. 'Tis true, thou didst preserve me, and in that
Wert crueller than hardened murderers
Of infants and their mothers! Thou didst save me,
Only till thou hadst studied out a way.

How to destroy me cunningly thyself:
This was a curious way of torturing.

Gob. What do you mean?

Arb. Thou know'st the evils thou hast done to me!
Dost thou remember all those witching letters
Thou sent'st unto me to Armenia,
Fill'd with the praise of my beloved sister,
Where thou extol'dst her beauty? What had I
To do with that? what could her beauty be
To me? And thou didst write how well she loved me!
Dost thou remember this? so that I doted
Something before I saw^hher.

Gob. This is true.

Arb. Is it? and, when I was return'd, thou know'st,
Thou didst pursue it, till thou wound'st me in
To such a strange and unbelieved affection,
As good men cannot think on.

Gob. This I grant;
I think, I was the cause.

Arb. Wert thou? Nay, more.
I think, thou meant'st it.

Gob. Sir, I hate a lie:
As I love Heaven and honesty, I did;
It was my meaning.

Arb. Be thine own sad judge;
A further condemnation will not need:
Prepare thyself to die.

Gob. Why, sir, to die?

Arb. Why shouldst thou live? was ever yet offender
So impudent, that had a thought of mercy,
After confession of a crime like this?
Get out I cannot where thou hurl'st me in;
But I can take revenge; that's all the sweetness
Left for me.

Gob. Now is the time.—Hear me but speak.

Arb. No! Yet I will be far more merciful
Than thou wert to me; thou didst steal ~~into~~ me,
And never gavest me warning: So much time
As I give thee now, had prevented me
For ever. Notwithstanding all thy sins,
If thou hast hope that there is yet a prayer
To save thee, turn and speak it to thyself.

Gob. Sir, you shall know your sins, before you do 'em:

If you kill me——

Arb. I will not stay then.

Gob. Know——

You kill your father.

Arb. How?

Gob. You kill your father.

Arb. My father? Though I know it for a lie,
Made out of fear, to save thy stained life,
The very reverence of the word comes 'cross me,
And ties mine arm down.

Gob. I will tell you that Shall heighten you again; I am thy father;
I charge thee hear me.

Arb. If it should be so,
As 'tis most false, and that I should be found
A bastard issue, the despised fruit
Of lawless lust, I should no more admire
All my wild passions! But another truth
Shall be wrung from thee: If I could come by
The spirit of pain, it should be pour'd on thee,
'Till thou allow'st thyself more full of lies
Than he that teaches thee.

Enter ARANE.

Ara. Turn thee about;
I come to speak to thee, thou wicked man!
Hear me, thou tyrant!

Arb. I will turn to thee;
Hear me, thou strumpet! I have blotted out
The name of mother, as thou hast thy shame.

Ara. My shame! Thou hast less shame than anything!
Why dost thou keep my daughter in a prison?
Why dost thou call her sister, and do this?

Arb. Cease, thou strange impudence, and answer quickly!
[Draws.
If thou contemn'st me, this will ask an answer,
And have it.

Ara. Help me, gentle Gobrias.

Arb. Guilt dare not help guilt! though they grow together
In doing ill, yet at the punishment
They sever, and each flies the noise of other.
Think not of help; answer!

Ara. I will; to what?

Arb. To such a thing, as, if it be a truth,
Think what a creature thou hast made thyself,
That didst not shame to do what I must blush
Only to ask thee. Tell me who I am,
Whose son I am, without all circumstance;
Be thou as hasty as my sword will be,
If thou refuseth.

Ara. Why, you are his son.

Arb. His son? Swear, swear, thou worse than woman damn'd!

Ara. By all that's good, you are.

Arb. Then art thou all
That ever was known bad! Now is the cause
Of all my strange misfortunes come to light.
What reverence expect'st thou from a child,
To bring forth which thou hast offended Heaven,
Thy husband, and the land? Adulterous witch!
I know now why thou wouldst have poison'd me:
I was thy lust, which thou wouldst have forgot!
Then, wicked mother of my sins, and me,
Show me the way to the inheritance
I have by thee, which is a spacious world
Of impious acts, that I may soon possess it.
Plagues rot thee, as thou liv'st, and such diseases
As use to pay lust, recompense thy deed!

Gob. You do not know why you curse thus.

Arb. Too well.

You are a pair of vipers; and behold
The serpent you have got! There is no beast,
But, if he knew it, has a pedigree
As brave as mine, for they have more descents;
And I am every way as beastly got,
As far without the compass of a law,
As they.

Ara. You spend your rage and words in vain,
And rail upon a guess; hear us a little.

Arb. No, I will never hear, but talk away
My breath, and die.

Gob. Why, but you are no bastard.

Arb. How's that?

Ara. Nor child of mine.

Arb. Still you go on
In wonders to me.

Gob. Pray you, be more patient:
I may bring comfort to you.

Arb. I will kneel, [Kneels.
And hear with the obedience of a child.
Good father, speak! I do acknowledge you,
So you bring comfort.

Gob. First know, our last king, your supposed father,
Was old and feeble when he married her,
And almost all the land, as she, past hope
Of issue from him.

Arb. Therefore she took leave
To play the whore, because the king was old;
Is this the comfort?

Ara. What will you find out
To give me satisfaction, when you find
How you have injured me? Let fire consume me
If ever I were whore!

Gob. Forbear these starts,
Or I will leave you wedded to despair,
As you are now: If you can find a temper,
My breath shall be a pleasant western wind,
That cools and blasts not.

Arb. Bring it out, good father. [Lies down.
I'll lie, and listen here as reverently
As to an angel: If I breathe too loud,
Tell me; for I would be as still as night.

Gob. Our king, I say, was old, and this our queen
Desired to bring an heir, but her yet husband,
She thought, was past it; and to be dishonest,
I think, she would not: If she would have been,
The truth is, she was watch'd so narrowly,
And had so slender opportunities,
She hardly could have been: But yet her cunning
Found out this way; she feign'd herself with child,
And posts were sent in haste throughout the land,
And God was humbly thank'd in every church,
That so had bless'd the queen; and prayers were made
For her safe going and delivery.
She feign'd now to grow bigger; and perceived
This hope of issue made her fear'd, and brought
A far more large respect from every man,
And saw her power increase, and was resolved,
Since she believed she could not have't indeed,

At least she would be thought to have a child.

Arb. Do I not hear it well? Nay, I will make
No noise at all; but, pray you, to the point,
Quick as you can!

Gob. Now when the time was full
She should be brought to bed, I had a son
Born, which was you: This, the queen hearing of,
Moved me to let her have you; and such reasons
She showed me, as she knew well would tie
My secrecy: She swore you should be king;
And, to be short, I did deliver you
Unto her, and pretended you were dead,
And in mine own house kept a funeral,
And had an empty coffin put in earth.
That night this queen feign'd hastily to labour,
And by a pair of women of her own,
Which she had charm'd, she made the world believe
She was deliver'd of you. You grew up,
As the king's son, till you were six years old;
Then did the king die, and did leave to me
Protection of the realm; and, contrary
To his own expectation, left this queen
Truly with child, indeed, of the fair princess
Panthea. Then she could have torn her hair,
And did alone to me, yet durst not speak
In public, for she knew she should be found
A traitor; and her tale would have been thought
Madness, or anything rather than truth.
This was the only cause why she did seek
To poison you, and I to keep you safe;
And this the reason why I sought to kindle
Some sparks of love in you to fair Panthea,
That she might get part of her right again.

Arb. And have you made an end now? Is this all?
If not, I will be still till I be aged,
Till all my hairs be silver.

Gob. This is all.

Arb. And is it true, say you too, madam?

Ara. Yes.

Heaven knows, it is most true.

Arb. Panthea, then, is not my sister?

Gob. No.

Arb. But can you prove this?

Gob. If you will give consent,
Else who dares go about it?

Arb. Give consent?

Why, I will have 'em all that know it rack'd
To get this from 'em.—All that wait without,
Come in, whate'er you be, come in, and be Partakers of my joy!—Oh, you are welcome!

Enter BESSUS, Gentlemen, MARDONIUS, and other
Attendants.

Mardonius, the best news! Nay, draw no nearer;
They all shall hear it: I am found No King.

Mar. Is that so good news?

Arb. Yes, the happiest news
That e'er was heard.

Mar. Indeed, 'twere well for you
If you might be a little less obey'd.

Arb. One call the queen.

Mar. Why she is there.

Arb. The queen,

Mardonius? Panthea is the queen,
And I am plain Arbaces.—Go some one.
She is in Gobrias' house.—

[Exit a Gentleman.

Since I saw you,

There are a thousand things deliver'd to me,
You little dream of.

Mar. So it should seem.—My lord,
What fury's this?

Gob. Believe me, 'tis no fury;
All that he says is truth.

Mar. 'Tis very strange.

Arb. Why do you keep your hats off, gentlemen?
Is it to me? I swear, it must not be;
Nay, trust me, in good faith, it must not be!
I cannot now command you; but I pray you,
For the respect you bare me when you took Me for your king, each man clap on his hat
At my desire.

Mar. We will. You are not found
So mean a man, but that you may be cover'd
As well as we; may you not?

Arb. Oh, not here!

You may, but not I, for here is my father

In presence.

Mar. Where?

Arb. Why, there. Oh, the whole story
Would be a wilderness, to lose thyself
For ever.—Oh, pardon me, dear father,
For all the idle and unreverend words
That I have spoke in idle moods to you!—
I am Arbaces; we all fellow subjects;
Nor is the queen Panthea now my sister.

Bes. Why, if you remember, fellow-subject Arbaces, I told you once she was not your sister: Ay, and she look'd nothing like you.

Arb. I think you did, good captain Bessus.

Bes. Here will arise another question now amongst the sword-men, whether I be to call him to account for beating me, now he is proved No King.

Enter LYGONES.

Mar. Sir, here's Lygones, the agent for the Armenian state.

Arb. Where is he?—I know your business, good Lygones.

Lyg. We must have our king again, and will.

Arb. I knew that was your business: You shall have
Your king again; and have him so again,
As never king was had.—Go, one of you,
And bid Bacurius bring Tigranes hither;
And bring the lady with him, that Panthea,
The queen Panthea, sent me word this morning
Was brave Tigranes' mistress. [Exeunt two Gentlemen.]

Lyg. 'Tis Spaconia.

Arb. Ay, ay, Spaconia.

Lyg. She is my daughter.

Arb. She is so. I could now tell anything
I never heard. Your king shall go so home,
As never man went.

Mar. Shall he go on's head?

Arb. He shall have chariots easier than air,
That I will have invented; and ne'er think
He shall pay any ransom! And thyself,
That art the messenger, shall ride before him
On a horse cut out of an entire diamond,
That shall be made to go with golden wheels,
I know not how yet.

Lyg. Why, I shall be made
For ever! They belied this king with us,
And said he was unkind.

Arb. And then thy daughter;
She shall have some strange thing; we'll have the kingdom
Sold utterly and put into a toy,
Which she shall wear about her carelessly,
Somewhere or other.—See, the virtuous queen!—

Enter PANTHEA and 1 Gentleman.

Behold the humblest subject that you have,
Kneel here before you.

[Kneels.

Pan. Why kneel you to me,
That am your vassal?

Arb. Grant me one request.

Pan. Alas! what can I grant you? what I can I will.

Arb. That you will please to marry me,
If I can prove it lawful.

Pan. Is that all?
More willingly than I would draw this air.

Arb. I'll kiss this hand in earnest.

2 Gent. Sir, Tigranes
Is coming; though he made it strange, at first,
To see the princess any more.

Enter TIGRANES and SPACONIA.

Arb. The queen,
Thou mean'st.—Oh, my Tigranes, pardon me!
Tread on my neck: I freely offer it;
And, if thou be'st so given, take revenge,
For I have injured thee.

Tigr. No; I forgive,
And rejoice more that you have found repentance,
Than I my liberty.

Arb. May'st thou be happy
In thy fair choice, for thou art temperate!
You owe no ransom to the state! Know, that I have a thousand joys to tell you of,
Which yet I dare not utter, till I pay
My thanks to Heaven for 'em. Will you go

With me, and help me? pray you, do.

Tigr. I will.

Arb. Take then your fair one with you:—And you, queen
Of goodness and of us, oh, give me leave
To take your arm in mine!—Come, every one
That takes delight in goodness, help to sing
Loud thanks for me, that I am proved No King.

[Exeunt.

THE FAITHFUL SHEPHERDESS

TO THAT NOBLE AND TRUE LOVER OF LEARNING

SIR WALTER ASTON

KNIGHT OF THE BATH

SIR, I must ask your patience and be true;
This play was never liked, unless by few
That brought their judgments with 'em; for, of late,
First the infection, then the common prate
Of common people, have such customs got,
Either to silence plays or like them not:
Under the last of which this interlude
Had fallen for ever, pressed down by the rude,
That like a torrent, which the moist south feeds,
Drowns both before him the ripe corn and weeds,
Had not the saving sense of better men
Redeemed it from corruption. Dear sir, then,
Among the better souls, be you the best,
In whom, as in a centre, I take rest
And proper being; from whose equal eye
And judgment nothing grows but purity.
Nor do I flatter, for, by all those dead,
Great in the Muses, by Apollo's head,
He that adds anything to you, 'tis done
Like his that lights a candle to the sun:
Then be, as you were ever, yourself still,
Moved by your judgment, not by love or will;
And when I sing again (as who can tell
My next devotion to that holy well?)
Your goodness to the Muses shall be all
Able to make a work heroical.

Given to your service,

JOHN FLETCHER.

The Faithful Shepherdess

TO THE INHERITOR OF ALL WORTHINESS

SIR WILLIAM SKIPWITH

ODE

IF, from servile hope or love,
 I may prove
 But so happy to be thought for
 Such a one, whose greatest ease
 Is to please,
 Worthy sir, I've all I sought for:

For no itch of greater name,
 Which some claim
 By their verses, do I show it
 To the world; nor to protest
 'Tis the best;—
 These are lean faults in a poet;—

Nor to make it serve to feed
 At my need,
 Nor to gain acquaintance by it,
 Nor to ravish kind attornies
 In their journies
 Nor to read it after diet.

Far from me are all these aims,
 Fittest frames
 To build weakness on and pity.
 Only to yourself, and such
 Whose true touch
 Makes all good, let me seem witty.

The admirer of your virtues,

JOHN FLETCHER.

TO THE PERFECT GENTLEMAN
SIR ROBERT TOWNSHEND

IF the greatest faults may crave
Pardon where contrition is,
Noble sir, I needs must have
A long one for a long amiss.
If you ask me, how is this?
Upon my faith, I'll tell you frankly,
You love above my means to thank ye.

Yet, according to my talent,
As sour fortune loves to use me,
A poor shepherd I have sent
In home-spun gray for to excuse me;
And may all my hopes refuse me,
But when better comes ashore,
You shall have better, newer, more!

Till when, like our desperate debtors,
Or our three-piled sweet protestors,
I must please you in bare letters,
And so pay my debts, like jesters;
Yet I oft have seen good feasters,
Only for to please the pallet,
Leave great meat and choose a sallet.

All yours,

JOHN FLETCHER.

TO THE READER

IF you be not reasonably assured of your knowledge in this kind of poem, lay down the book, or read this, which I would wish had been the prologue. It is a pastoral tragi-comedy, which the people seeing when it was played, having ever had a singular gift in defining, concluded to be a play of country hired shepherds in gray cloaks, with curtailed dogs in strings, sometimes laughing together, and sometimes killing one another; and, missing Whitsun-ales, cream, wassail, and morris-dances, began to be angry. In their error I would not have you fall, lest you incur their censure. Understand, therefore, a pastoral to be a representation of shepherds and shepherdesses with their actions and passions, which must be such as may agree with their natures, at least not exceeding former fictions and vulgar traditions; they are not to be adorned with any art, but such improper ones as nature is said to bestow, as singing and poetry; or such as experience may teach them, as the virtues of herbs and fountains, the ordinary course of the sun, moon, and stars, and such like. But you are ever to remember shepherds to be such as all the ancient poets, and modern, of understanding, have received them; that is, the owners of flocks, and not hirelings. A tragi-comedy is not so called in respect of mirth and killing, but in respect it wants deaths, which is enough to make it no tragedy, yet brings some near it, which is enough to make it no comedy, which must be a representation of familiar people, with such kind of trouble as no life be questioned; so that a god is as lawful in this as in a tragedy, and mean people as in a comedy. Thus much I hope will serve to justify my poem, and make you understand it; to teach you more for nothing, I do not know that I am in conscience bound.

ACT I

SCENE I.—The Wood before Clorin's Bower.

Enter CLORIN.

Clorin. Hail, holy earth, whose cold arms do embrace
The truest man that ever fed his flocks
By the fat plains of fruitful Thessaly!
Thus I salute thy grave; thus do I pay
My early vows and tribute of mine eyes
To thy still-lovèd ashes; thus I free
Myself from all ensuing heats and fires
Of love; all sports, delights, and jolly games,
That shepherds hold full dear, thus put I off:
Now no more shall these smooth brows be begirt
With youthful coronals, and lead the dance;
No more the company of fresh fair maids
And wanton shepherds be to me delightful,
Nor the shrill pleasing sound of merry pipes
Under some shady dell, when the cool wind
Plays on the leaves: all be far away,
Since thou art far away, by whose dear side
How often have I sat crowned with fresh flowers
For summer's queen, whilst every shepherd's boy
Puts on his lusty green, with gaudy hook,
And hanging scrip of finest cordevan.

But thou art gone, and these are gone with thee,
 And all are dead but thy dear memory;
 That shall outlive thee, and shall ever spring,
 Whilst there are pipes or jolly shepherds sing.
 And here will I, in honour of thy love,
 Dwell by thy grave, forgetting all those joys
 That former times made precious to mine eyes;
 Only remembering what my youth did gain
 In the dark, hidden virtuous use of herbs:
 That will I practise, and as freely give
 All my endeavours as I gained them free.
 Of all green wounds I know the remedies
 In men or cattle, be they stung with snakes,
 Or charmed with powerful words of wicked art,
 Or be they love-sick, or through too much heat
 Grown wild or lunatic, their eyes or ears
 Thickened with misty film of dulling rheum;
 These I can cure, such secret virtue lies
 In herbs applièd by a virgin's hand.
 My meat shall be what these wild woods afford,
 Berries and chestnuts, plantains, on whose cheeks
 The sun sits smiling, and the lofty fruit
 Pulled from the fair head of the straight-grown pine;
 On these I'll feed with free content, and rest,
 When night shall blind the world, by thy side blest.

Enter Satyr with a Basket of Fruit.

Sat. Through yon same bending plain,
 That flings his arms down to the main,
 And through these thick woods, have I run,
 Whose bottom never kissed the sun
 Since the lusty spring began;
 All to please my master Pan,
 Have I trotted without rest
 To get him fruit; for at a feast
 He entertains, this coming night,
 His paramour, the Syrinx bright.—
 But, behold, a fairer sight!

[Seeing Clorin he stands amazed.]

By that heavenly form of thine,
 Brightest fair, thou art divine,
 Sprung from great immortal race
 Of the gods; for in thy face

Shines more awful majesty
Than dull weak mortality
Dare with misty eyes behold,
And live: therefore on this mould
Lowly do I bend my knee
In worship of thy deity.
Deign it, goddess, from my hand
To receive whate'er this land
From her fertile womb doth send
Of her choice fruits; and but lend
Belief to that the Satyr tells:
Fairer by the famous wells
To this present day ne'er grew,
Never better nor more true.
Here be grapes, whose lusty blood
Is the learnèd poets' good,
Sweeter yet did never crown
The head of Bacchus; nuts more brown
Than the squirrel's teeth that crack them;
Deign, O fairest fair, to take them!
For these black-eyèd Dryope
Hath oftentimes commanded me
With my claspèd knee to climb:
See how well the lusty time
Hath decked their rising cheeks in red
Such as on your lips is spread!
Here be berries for a queen,
Some be red, some be green;
These are of that luscious meat,
The great god Pan himself doth eat:
All these, and what the woods can yield,
The hanging mountain or the field,
I freely offer, and ere long
Will bring you more, more sweet and strong;
Till when, humbly leave I take,
Lest the great Pan do awake,
That sleeping lies in a deep glade,
Under a broad beech's shade.
I must go, I must run
Swifter than the fiery sun.

[Exit.

Clo. And all my fears go with thee!
What greatness, or what private hidden power,
Is there in me, to draw submission

From this rude man and beast? Sure I am mortal,
 The daughter of a shepherd; he was mortal,
 And she that bore me mortal: prick my hand,
 And it will bleed; a fever shakes me, and
 The self-same wind that makes the young lambs shrink
 Makes me a-cold: my fear says I am mortal,
 Yet I have heard (my mother told it me,
 And now I do believe it), if I keep
 My virgin-flower uncropt, pure, chaste, and fair,
 No goblin, wood-god, fairy, elf, or fiend,
 Satyr, or other power that haunts the groves,
 Shall hurt my body, or by vain illusion
 Draw me to wander after idle fires;
 Or voices calling me in dead of night,
 To make me follow, and so tole me on,
 Through mire and standing pools, to find my ruin.
 Else why should this rough thing, who never knew
 Manners nor smooth humanity, whose heats
 Are rougher than himself and more mis-shapen,
 Thus mildly kneel to me? Sure there is a power
 In that great name of virgin, that binds fast
 All rude uncivil bloods, all appetites
 That break their confines: then, strong chastity,
 Be thou my strongest guard, for here I'll dwell
 In opposition against fate and hell!

[Retires into the bower.]

SCENE II.—In the Neighbourhood of a Village.

Enter Old Shepherd, with four couples of Shepherds and Shepherdesses, among whom are PERIGOT and AMORET.

Old Shep. Now we have done this holy festival
 In honour of our great god, and his rites
 Performed, prepare yourselves for chaste
 And uncorrupted fires; that as the priest
 With powerful hand shall sprinkle on your brows
 His pure and holy water, ye may be
 From all hot flames of lust and loose thoughts free.
 Kneel, shepherds, kneel; here comes the priest of Pan.

Enter Priest of Pan.

Priest. Shepherds, thus I purge away
 [Sprinkling them with water.]

Whatsoever this great day,
 Or the past hours, gave not good,
 To corrupt your maiden blood.
 From the high rebellious heat
 Of the grapes, and strength of meat,
 From the wanton quick desires
 They do kindle by their fires
 I do wash you with this water;
 Be you pure and fair hereafter!
 From your livers and your veins
 Thus I take away the stains;
 All your thoughts be smooth and fair:
 Be ye fresh and free as air!
 Never more let lustful heat
 Through your purgèd conduits beat,
 Or a plighted troth be broken,
 Or a wanton verse be spoken
 In a shepherdess's ear:
 Go your ways, ye are all clear. [They rise and sing.]

Sing his praises that doth keep
 Our flocks from harm,
 Pan, the father of our sheep;
 And arm in arm
 Tread we softly in a round,
 Whilst the hollow neighbouring ground
 Fills the music with her sound.

Pan, O great god Pan, to thee
 Thus do we sing!
 Thou that keep'st us chaste and free
 As the young spring;
 Ever be thy honour spoke,
 From that place the Morn is broke
 To that place Day doth unyoke!
 [Exeunt all except Perigot and Amoret.]

Peri. [Detaining her.] Stay, gentle Amoret, thou fair-browed maid;

Thy shepherd prays thee stay, that holds thee dear,
 Equal with his soul's good.

Amo. Speak; I give
Thee freedom, shepherd; and thy tongue be still
The same it ever was, as free from ill
As he whose conversation never knew
The court or city; be thou ever true!

Peri. When I fall off from my affection,
Or mingle my clean thoughts with foul desires,

First, let our great god cease to keep my flocks,
That, being left alone without a guard,
The wolf, or winter's rage, summer's great heat
And want of water, rots, or what to us
Of ill is yet unknown, fall speedily,
And in their general ruin let me go!

Amo. I pray thee, gentle shepherd, wish not so:
I do believe thee; 'tis as hard for me
To think thee false, and harder, than for thee
To hold me foul.

Peri. Oh, you are fairer far
Than the chaste blushing morn, or that fair star
That guides the wandering seaman through the deep;
Straighter than straightest pine upon the steep
Head of an aged mountain; and more white
Than the new milk we strip before day-light
From the full-freighted bags of our fair flocks;
Your hair more beauteous than those hanging locks
Of young Apollo!

Amo. Shepherd, be not lost;
You are sailed too far already from the coast
Of your discourse.

Peri. Did you not tell me once
I should not love alone, I should not lose
Those many passions, vows, and holy oaths,
I have sent to heaven? did you not give your hand,
Even that fair hand, in hostage? Do not, then,
Give back again those sweets to other men,
You yourself vowed were mine.

Amo. Shepherd, so far as maiden's modesty
May give assurance, I am once more thine,
Once more I give my hand: be ever free
From that great foe to faith, foul jealousy!

Peri. I take it as my best good; and desire,
For stronger confirmation of our love,
To meet this happy night in that fair grove,
Where all true shepherds have rewarded been
For their long service: say, sweet, shall it hold?

Amo. Dear friend, you must not blame me, if I make
A doubt of what the silent night may do,
Coupled with this day's heat, to move your blood:
Maids must be fearful. Sure you have not been Washed white enough, for yet I see a stain

Stick in your liver: go and purge again.

Peri. Oh, do not wrong my honest simple truth!

Myself and my affections are as pure
As those chaste flames that burn before the shrine
Of the great Dian: only my intent
To draw you thither was to plight our troths,
With interchange of mutual chaste embraces
And ceremonious tying of our souls.

For to that holy wood is consecrate
A virtuous well, about whose flowery banks
The nimble-footed fairies dance their rounds
By the pale moonshine, dipping oftentimes
Their stolen children, so to make them free
From dying flesh and dull mortality:
By this fair fount hath many a shepherd sworn,
And given away his freedom, many a troth
Been plight, which neither envy nor old time
Could ever break, with many a chaste kiss given,
In hope of coming happiness;
By this fresh fountain many a blushing maid
Hath crowned the head of her long-lovèd shepherd
With gaudy flowers, whilst he happy sung
Lays of his love and dear captivity;
There grow all herbs fit to cool looser flames
Our sensual parts provoke, chiding our bloods,
And quenching by their power those hidden sparks
That else would break out, and provoke our sense
To open fires; so virtuous is that place.
Then, gentle shepherdess, believe, and grant:
In troth, it fits not with that face to scant
Your faithful shepherd of those chaste desires
He ever aimed at, and——

Amo. Thou hast prevailed: farewell. This coming night
Shall crown thy chaste hopes with long-wished delight.

Peri. Our great god Pan reward thee for that good
Thou hast given thy poor shepherd! Fairest bud
Of maiden virtues, when I leave to be
The true admirer of thy chastity,
Let me deserve the hot polluted name
Of a wild woodman, or affect some dame
Whose often prostitution hath begot
More foul diseases than e'er yet the hot
Sun bred thorough his burnings, whilst the Dog

Pursues the raging Lion, throwing fog
 And deadly vapour from his angry breath,
 Filling the lower world with plague and death!

[Exit Amoret.]

Enter AMARILLIS.

Amar. Shepherd, may I desire to be believed,
 What I shall blushing tell?

Peri. Fair maid, you may.

Amar. Then, softly thus: I love thee, Perigot;
 And would be gladder to be loved again
 Than the cold earth is in his frozen arms
 To clip the wanton spring. Nay, do not start,
 Nor wonder that I woo thee; thou that art
 The prime of our young grooms, even the top
 Of all our lusty shepherds. What dull eye,
 That never was acquainted with desire,
 Hath seen thee wrestle, run, or cast the stone
 With nimble strength and fair delivery,
 And hath not sparkled fire, and speedily
 Sent secret heat to all the neighbouring veins?
 Who ever heard thee sing, that brought again
 That freedom back was lent unto thy voice?
 Then, do not blame me, shepherd, if I be
 One to be numbered in this company,
 Since none that ever saw thee yet were free.

Peri. Fair shepherdess, much pity I can lend
 To your complaints; but sure I shall not love:
 All that is mine, myself and my best hopes,
 Are given already. Do not love him, then,
 That cannot love again; on other men
 Bestow those heats, more free, that may return
 You fire for fire, and in one flame equal burn.

Amar. Shall I rewarded be so slenderly
 For my affection, most unkind of men?
 If I were old, or had agreed with art
 To give another nature to my cheeks,
 Or were I common Mistress to the love
 Of every swain, or could I with such ease
 Call back my love as many a wanton doth,
 Thou mightst refuse me, shepherd; but to thee
 I am only fixed and set; let it not be
 A sport, thou gentle shepherd, to abuse

The love of silly maid.

Peri. Fair soul, you use
These words to little end: for, know, I may Better call back that time was yesterday,
Or stay the coming night, than bring my love
Home to myself again, or recreant prove.
I will no longer hold you with delays:
This present night I have appointed been
To meet that chaste fair that enjoys my soul,
In yonder grove, there to make up our loves.
Be not deceived no longer, choose again:
These neighbouring plains have many a comely swain,
Fresher and freer far than I e'er was;
Bestow that love on them, and let me pass.
Farewell: be happy in a better choice! [Exit.

Amar. Cruel, thou hast struck me deader with thy voice
Than if the angry heavens with their quick flames
Had shot me through. I must not leave to love,
I cannot; no, I must enjoy thee, boy,
Though the great dangers 'twixt my hopes and that
Be infinite. There is a shepherd dwells
Down by the moor, whose life hath ever shown
More sullen discontent than Saturn's brow
When he sits frowning on the births of men;
One that doth wear himself away in loneness,
And never joys, unless it be in breaking
The holy plighted troths of mutual souls;
One that lusts after every several beauty,
But never yet was known to love or like,
Were the face fairer or more full of truth
Than Phœbe in her fulness, or the youth
Of smooth Lyæus; whose nigh-starvèd flocks
Are always scabby, and infect all sheep
They feed withal; whose lambs are ever last,
And die before their weaning; and whose dog
Looks, like his master, lean and full of scurf,
Not caring for the pipe or whistle. This man may,
If he be well wrought, do a need of wonder,
Forcing me passage to my long desires:
And here he comes, as fitly to my purpose
As my quick thoughts could wish for.

Enter Sullen Shepherd.

Sull. Shep. Fresh beauty, let me not be thought uncivil,
Thus to be partner of your loneness: 'twas
My love (that ever-working passion) drew
Me to this place, to seek some remedy
For my sick soul. Be not unkind and fair,
For such the mighty Cupid in his doom
Hath sworn to be avenged on; then, give room
To my consuming fires, that so I may Enjoy my long desires, and so allay
Those flames that else would burn my life away.

Amar. Shepherd, were I but sure thy heart were sound
As thy words seem to be, means might be found
To cure thee of thy long pains; for to me
That heavy youth-consuming misery
The love-sick soul endures never was pleasing:
I could be well content with the quick easing
Of thee and thy hot fires, might it procure
Thy faith and farther service to be sure.

Sull. Shep. Name but that work, danger, or what can Be compassed by the wit or art of man.
And, if I fail in my performance, may
I never more kneel to the rising day!

Amar. Then, thus I try thee, shepherd. This same night
That now comes stealing on, a gentle pair
Have promised equal love, and do appoint
To make yon wood the place where hands and hearts
Are to be tied for ever: break their meeting
And their strong faith, and I am ever thine.

Sull. Shep. Tell me their names, and if I do not move
By my great power, the centre of their love
From his fixed being, let me never more
Warm me by those fair eyes I thus adore.

Amar. Come; as we go, I'll tell thee what they are,
And give thee fit directions for thy work. [Exeunt.]

SCENE III.—Another part of the Wood.

Enter CLOE.

Cloe. How have I wronged the times or men, that thus,
After this holy feast, I pass unknown
And unsaluted? 'Twas not wont to be

Thus frozen with the younger company
Of jolly shepherds; 'twas not then held good
For lusty grooms to mix their quicker blood
With that dull humour, most unfit to be
The friend of man, cold and dull chastity.
Sure I am held not fair, or am too old,
Or else not free enough, or from my fold
Drive not a flock sufficient great to gain
The greedy eyes of wealth-alluring swain.
Yet, if I may believe what others say,
My face has foil enough; nor can they lay
Justly too strict a coyness to my charge;
My flocks are many, and the downs as large
They feed upon: then, let it ever be
Their coldness, not my virgin-modesty
Makes me complain.

Enter THENOT.

The. Was ever man but I
Thus truly taken with uncertainty;
Where shall that man be found that loves a mind
Made up in constancy, and dares not find
His love rewarded? Here, let all men know,
A wretch that lives to love his mistress so.

Cloe. Shepherd, I pray thee stay. Where hast thou been?
Or whither goest thou? Here be woods as green
As any; air likewise as fresh and sweet
As where smooth Zephyrus plays on the fleet
Face of the curlèd streams; with flowers as many
As the young spring gives, and as choice as any;
Here be all new delights, cool streams and wells,
Arbours o'ergrown with woodbines, caves, and dells;
Choose where thou wilt, whilst I sit by and sing,
Or gather rushes, to make many a ring
For thy long fingers; tell thee tales of love,—
How the pale Phœbe, hunting in a grove,
First saw the boy Endymion, from whose eyes
She took eternal fire that never dies;
How she conveyed him softly in a sleep,
His temples bound with poppy, to the steep
Head of old Latmus, where she stoops each night,
Gilding the mountain with her brother's light,
To kiss her sweetest.

The.

Far from me are these
 Hot flashes, bred from wanton heat and ease;
 I have forgot what love and loving meant;
 Rhymes, songs, and merry rounds, that oft are sent
 To the soft ear of maid, are strange to me:
 Only I live to admire a chastity,
 That neither pleasing age, smooth tongue, nor gold,
 Could ever break upon, so sure the mould
 Is that her mind was cast in; 'tis to her
 I only am reserved; she is my form I stir
 By, breathe and move; 'tis she, and only she,
 Can make me happy, or give misery.

Cloe. Good Shepherd, may a stranger crave to know
 To whom this dear observance you do owe?

The. You may, and by her virtue learn to square
 And level out your life; for to be fair,
 And nothing virtuous, only fits the eye
 Of gaudy youth and swelling vanity.
 Then, know, she's called the Virgin of the Grove,
 She that hath long since buried her chaste love,
 And now lives by his grave, for whose dear soul
 She hath vowed herself into the holy roll
 Of strict virginity: 'tis her I so admire,
 Not any looser blood or new desire.

[Exit.

Cloe. Farewell, poor swain! thou are not for my bend;
 I must have quicker souls, whose words may tend
 To some free action: give me him dare love
 At first encounter, and as soon dare prove!

Sings. Come, shepherds, come!
 Come away
 Without delay,
 Whilst the gentle time doth stay.
 Green woods are dumb,
 And will never tell to any
 Those dear kisses, and those many
 Sweet embraces that are given;
 Dainty pleasures, that would even
 Raise in coldest age a fire,
 And give virgin-blood desire.
 Then, if ever,
 Now or never,
 Come and have it:
 Think not I
 Dare deny,
 If you crave it.

Enter DAPHNIS.

Here comes another. Better be my speed,
Thou god of blood! But certain, if I read
Not false, this is that modest shepherd, he
That only dare salute, but ne'er could be Brought to kiss any, hold discourse, or sing,
Whisper, or boldly ask that wishèd thing
We all are born for; one that makes loving faces,
And could be well content to covet graces,
Were they not got by boldness. In this thing
My hopes are frozen; and, but fate doth bring Him hither, I would sooner choose
A man made out of snow, and freer use
An eunuch to my ends; but since he's here,
Thus I attempt him.—[Aside.] Thou, of men most dear;
Welcome to her that only for thy sake
Hath been content to live! Here, boldly take
My hand in pledge, this hand, that never yet
Was given away to any; and but sit Down on this rushy bank, whilst I go pull
Fresh blossoms from the boughs, or quickly cull
The choicest delicats from yonder mead,
To make thee chains or chaplets, or to spread
Under our fainting bodies, when delight
Shall lock up all our senses. How the sight
Of those smooth rising cheeks renew the story
Of young Adonis, when in pride and glory
He lay infolded 'twixt the beating arms
Of willing Venus! Methinks stronger charms
Dwell in those speaking eyes, and on that brow
More sweetness than the painters can allow
To their best pieces. Not Narcissus, he
That wept himself away in memory
Of his own beauty, nor Silvanus' boy,
Nor the twice-ravished maid, for whom old Troy
Fell by the hand of Pyrrhus, may to thee
Be otherwise compared, than some dead tree
To a young fruitful olive.

Daph. I can love,
But I am loath to say so, lest I prove Too soon unhappy.

Cloe. Happy, thou wouldst say.

My dearest Daphnis, blush not; if the day
 To thee and thy soft heats be enemy,
 Then take the coming night; fair youth, 'tis free
 To all the world. Shepherd, I'll meet thee then
 When darkness hath shut up the eyes of men,
 In yonder grove: speak, shall our meeting hold?
 Indeed you are too bashful; be more bold,
 And tell me ay.

Daph. I am content to say so,
 And would be glad to meet, might I but pray so
 Much from your fairness, that you would be true.

Cloe. Shepherd, thou hast thy wish.

Daph. Fresh maid, adieu.

Yet one word more: since you have drawn me on
 To come this night, fear not to meet alone
 That man that will not offer to be ill,
 Though your bright self would ask it, for his fill
 Of this world's goodness; do not fear him, then,
 But keep your 'pointed time. Let other men
 Set up their bloods to sale, mine shall be ever
 Fair as the soul it carries, and unchaste never. [Exit.

Cloe. Yet am I poorer than I was before.

Is it not strange, among so many a score
 Of lusty bloods, I should pick out these things,
 Whose veins, like a dull river far from springs,
 Is still the same, slow, heavy, and unfit
 For stream or motion, though the strong winds hit
 With their continual power upon his sides?
 Oh, happy be your names that have been brides,
 And tasted those rare sweets for which I pine!
 And far more heavy be thy grief and tine,
 Thou lazy swain, that mayst relieve my needs,
 Than his, upon whose liver always feeds
 A hungry vulture!

Enter ALEXIS.

Alex. Can such beauty be Safe in his own guard, and not draw the eye
 Of him that passeth on, to greedy gaze
 Or covetous desire, whilst in a maze
 The better part contemplates, giving rein,
 And wish'd freedom to the labouring vein?
 Fairest and whitest, may I crave to know

The cause of your retirement, why you go
Thus all alone? Methinks the downs are sweeter,
And the young company of swains more meeter,
Than these forsaken and untrodden places.
Give not yourself to liveness, and those graces
Hide from the eyes of men, that were intended
To live amongst us swains.

Cloe. Thou art befriended,
Shepherd: in all my life I have not seen
A man, in whom greater contents have been,
Than thou thyself art. I could tell thee more,
Were there but any hope left to restore
My freedom lost. Oh, lend me all thy red,
Thou shame-faced Morning, when from Tithon's bed
Thou risest ever-maiden!

Alex. If for me,
Thou sweetest of all sweets, these flashes be,
Speak, and be satisfied. Oh, guide her tongue,
My better angel; force my name among
Her modest thoughts, that the first word may be——

Cloe. Alexis, when the sun shall kiss the sea,
Taking his rest by the white Thetis' side,
Meet me in the holy wood, where I'll abide Thy coming, shepherd.

Alex. If I stay behind,
An everlasting dulness, and the wind,
That as he passeth by shuts up the stream
Of Rhine or Volga, whilst the sun's hot beam
Beats back again, seize me, and let me turn
To coldness more than ice! Oh, how I burn
And rise in youth and fire! I dare not stay.

Cloe. My name shall be your word.

Alex. Fly, fly, thou day!

[Exit.

Cloe. My grief is great, if both these boys should fail:
He that will use all winds must shift his sail.

[Exit.

ACT II

SCENE I.—A Pasture.

Enter Old Shepherd ringing a bell, and Priest of Pan following.

Priest. Shepherds all, and maidens fair,
Fold your flocks up, for the air
'Gins to thicken, and the sun
Already his great course hath run.
See the dew-drops how they kiss
Every little flower that is;
Hanging on their velvet heads,
Like a rope of crystal beads;
See the heavy clouds low falling,
And bright Hesperus down calling
The dead Night from under ground;
At whose rising mists unsound,
Damps and vapours fly apace,
Hovering o'er the wanton face
Of these pastures, where they come,
Striking dead both bud and bloom:
Therefore, from such danger lock
Every one his lovèd flock;
And let your dogs lie loose without,
Lest the wolf come as a scout
From the mountain, and, ere day,
Bear a lamb or kid away;
Or the crafty thievish fox
Break upon your simple flocks.
To secure yourselves from these,
Be not too secure in ease;
Let one eye his watches keep,
Whilst the other eye doth sleep;
So you shall good shepherds prove,
And for ever hold the love
Of our great god. Sweetest slumbers,
And soft silence, fall in numbers
On your eyelids! So, farewell:
Thus I end my evening's knell.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—The Wood before Clorin's bower.

Enter CLORIN, sorting herbs.

Clo. Now let me know what my best art hath done,
Helped by the great power of the virtuous moon
In her full light. Oh, you sons of earth,
You only brood, unto whose happy birth
Virtue was given, holding more of nature
Than man, her first-born and most perfect creature,
Let me adore you! you, that only can Help or kill nature, drawing out that span
Of life and breath even to the end of time;
You, that these hands did crop long before prime
Of day, give me your names, and, next, your hidden power.

This is the clote, bearing a yellow flower;
And this, black horehound; both are very good
For sheep or shepherd bitten by a wood
Dog's venom'd tooth: these rhamnus' branches are,
Which, stuck in entries, or about the bar
That holds the door, kill all enchantments, charms
(Were they Medea's verses), that do harms
To men or cattle: these for frenzy be
A speedy and a sovereign remedy,
The bitter wormwood, sage, and marigold;
Such sympathy with man's good they do hold:
This tormentil, whose virtue is to part
All deadly killing poison from the heart:
And, here, narcissus root, for swellings best:
Yellow lysimachus, to give sweet rest
To the faint shepherd, killing, where it comes,
All busy gnats, and every fly that hums:
For leprosy, darnel and celandine,
With calamint, whose virtues do refine
The blood of man, making it free and fair
As the first hour it breathed, or the best air:
Here, other two; but your rebellious use
Is not for me, whose goodness is abuse;
Therefore, foul standergrass, from me and mine
I banish thee, with lustful turpentine;
You that entice the veins and stir the heat
To civil mutiny, scaling the seat

Our reason moves in, and deluding it
 With dreams and wanton fancies, till the fit
 Of burning lust be quenched, by appetite
 Robbing the soul of blessedness and light:
 And thou, light vervain, too, thou must go after,
 Provoking easy souls to mirth and laughter;
 No more shall I dip thee in water now,
 And sprinkle every post and every bough
 With thy well-pleasing juice, to make the grooms
 Swell with high mirth, and with joy all the rooms.

Enter THENOT.

- The.* This is the cabin where the best of all
 Her sex that ever breathed, or ever shall Give heat or happiness to the shepherd's side,
 Doth only to her worthy self abide.
 Thou blessèd star, I thank thee for thy light,
 Thou by whose power the darkness of sad night
 Is banished from the earth, in whose dull place
 Thy chaster beams play on the heavy face
 Of all the world, making the blue sea smile,
 To see how cunningly thou dost beguile
 Thy brother of his brightness, giving day
 Again from chaos; whiter than the way
 That leads to Jove's high court, and chaster far
 Than chastity itself, you blessèd star
 That nightly shines! thou, all the constancy
 That in all women was or e'er shall be;
 From whose fair eye-balls flies that holy fire
 That poets style the mother of desire,
 Infusing into every gentle breast
 A soul of greater price, and far more blest,
 Than that quick power which gives a difference
 'Twixt man and creatures of a lower sense!
- Clo.* Shepherd, how cam'st thou hither to this place?
 No way is trodden; all the verdant grass
 The spring shot up stands yet unbruised here
 Of any foot; only the dappled deer,
 Far from the fearèd sound of crookèd horn,
 Dwells in this fastness.
- The.* Chaster than the morn,
 I have not wandered, or by strong illusion
 Into this virtuous place have made intrusion:

But hither am I come (believe me, fair),
 To seek you out, of whose great good the air
 Is full, and strongly labours, whilst the sound
 Breaks against heaven, and drives into a stound
 Th'amazèd shepherd, that such virtue can
 Be resident in lesser than a man.

Clo. If any art I have, or hidden skill,
 May cure thee of disease or festered ill
 Whose grief or greenness to another's eye
 May seem impossible of remedy,
 I dare yet undertake it.

The. 'Tis no pain
 I suffer through disease, no beating vein
 Conveys infection dangerous to the heart,
 No part imposthomed, to be cured by art,
 This body holds; and yet a fuller grief
 Than ever skilful hand did give relief
 Dwells on my soul, and may be healed by you,
 Fair, beauteous virgin.

Clo. Then, shepherd, let me sue
 To know thy grief: that man yet never knew
 The way to health that durst not show his sore.

The. Then, fairest, know, I love you.

Clo. Swain, no more!
 Thou hast abused the strictness of this place,
 And offered sacrilegious foul disgrace
 To the sweet rest of these interrèd bones;
 For fear of whose ascending, fly at once,
 Thou and thy idle passions, that the sight
 Of death and speedy vengeance may not fright
 Thy very soul with horror.

The. Let me not,
 Thou all perfection, merit such a blot
 For my true zealous faith.

Clo. Dar'st thou abide
 To see this holy earth at once divide,
 And give her body up? for sure it will,
 If thou pursu'st with wanton flames to fill
 This hallowed place: therefore repent and go,
 Whilst I with prayers appease his ghost below,
 That else would tell thee what it were to be
 A rival in that virtuous love that he Embraces yet.

The. 'Tis not the white or red
 Inhabits in your cheek that thus can wed
 My mind to adoration; nor your eye,
 Though it be full and fair, your forehead high
 And smooth as Pelops' shoulder; not the smile
 Lies watching in those dimples to beguile
 The easy soul; your hands and fingers long,
 With veins enamelled richly; nor your tongue,
 Though it spoke sweeter than Arion's harp;
 Your hair woven into many a curious warp,
 Able in endless error to enfold
 The wandering soul; not the true perfect mould
 Of all your body, which as pure doth show
 In maiden-whiteness as the Alpen-snow:
 All these, were but your constancy away,
 Would please me less than a black stormy day
 The wretched seaman toiling through the deep.
 But, whilst this honoured strictness you dare keep,
 Though all the plagues that e'er begotten were
 In the great womb of air were settled here,
 In opposition, I would, like the tree,
 Shake off those drops of weakness, and be free
 Even in the arm of danger.

Clo. Wouldst thou have Me raise again, fond man, from silent grave
 Those sparks, that long ago were buried here
 With my dear friend's cold ashes?

The. Dearest dear,
 I dare not ask it, nor you must not grant:
 Stand strongly to your vow, and do not faint.
 Remember how he loved you, and be still
 The same opinion speaks you: let not will,
 And that great god of women, appetite,
 Set up your blood again; do not invite
 Desire and fancy from their long exile,
 To seat them once more in a pleasing smile:
 Be, like a rock, made firmly up 'gainst all
 The power of angry heaven, or the strong fall
 Of Neptune's battery. If you yield, I die
 To all affection; 'tis that loyalty
 You tie unto this grave I so admire:
 And yet there's something else I would desire,
 If you would hear me, but withal deny.

Oh, Pan, what an uncertain destiny
Hangs over all my hopes! I will retire;
For, if I longer stay, this double fire
Will lick my life up.

Clo. Do; and let time wear out
What art and nature cannot bring about.

The. Farewell, thou soul of virtue, and be blest
For ever, whilst that here I wretched rest
Thus to myself! Yet grant me leave to dwell
In kenning of this arbour: yon same dell,
O'ertopped with mourning cypress and sad yew,
Shall be my cabin, where I'll early rue,
Before the sun hath kissed this dew away,
The hard uncertain chance which faith doth lay
Upon this head.

Clo. The gods give quick release
And happy cure unto thy hard disease!

[Exit Thenot, Clorin retiring into the Bower.]

SCENE III.—Another part of the Wood.

Enter Sullen Shepherd.

Sull. Shep. I do not love this wench that I should meet;
For ne'er did my unconstant eye yet greet
That beauty, were it sweeter or more fair
Than the new blossoms when the morning-air
Blows gently on them, or the breaking light,
When many maiden-blushes to our sight
Shoot from his early face: were all these set
In some neat form before me, 'twould not get
The least love from me; some desire it might,
Or present burning. All to me in sight
Are equal; be they fair, or black, or brown,
Virgin, or careless wanton, I can crown
My appetite with any; swear as oft,
And weep, as any; melt my words as soft
Into a maiden's ears, and tell how long
My heart has been her servant, and how strong
My passions are; call her unkind and cruel;
Offer her all I have to gain the jewel
Maidens so highly prize; then loathe, and fly:
This do I hold a blessed destiny.

Enter AMARILLIS.

Amar. Hail, shepherd! Pan bless both thy flock and thee,
For being mindful of thy word to me!

Sull. Shep. Welcome, fair shepherdess! Thy loving swain
Gives thee the self-same wishes back again;
Who till this present hour ne'er knew that eye
Could make me cross mine arms, or daily die
With fresh consumings. Boldly tell me, then,
How shall we part their faithful loves, and when?
Shall I belie him to her? shall I swear
His faith is false and he loves every where?
I'll say he mocked her th' other day to you;
Which will by your confirming show as true,
For she is of so pure an honesty,
To think, because she will not, none will lie.
Or else to him I'll slander Amoret,
And say, she but seems chaste; I'll swear she met
Me 'mongst the shady sycamores last night,
And loosely offered up her flame and sprite
Into my bosom; made a wanton bed
Of leaves and many flowers, where she spread
Her willing body to be pressed by me;
There have I carved her name on many a tree,
Together with mine own. To make this show
More full of seeming,—Hobinal, you know,
Son to the agèd shepherd of the glen,
Him I have sorted out of many men,
To say he found us at our private sport,
And roused us 'fore our time by his resort:
This to confirm, I've promised to the boy
Many a pretty knack and many a toy;
As gins to catch him birds, with bow and bolt
To shoot at nimble squirrels in the holt;
A pair of painted buskins, and a lamb
Soft as his own locks or the down of swan.
This I have done to win you; which doth give Me double pleasure: discord makes me live.

Amar. Loved swain, I thank you. These tricks might prevail

With other rustic shepherds, but will fail
Even once to stir, much more to overthrow,
His fixèd love from judgment, who doth know

Your nature, my end, and his chosen's merit;
 Therefore some stronger way must force his spirit,
 Which I have found: give second, and my love
 Is everlasting thine.

Sull. Shep. Try me, and prove.

Amar. These happy pair of lovers meet straightway
 Soon as they fold their flocks up with the day,
 In the thick grove bordering upon yon hill,
 In whose hard side nature hath carved a well,
 And, but that matchless spring which poets know,
 Was ne'er the like to this: by it doth grow,
 About the sides, all herbs which witches use,
 All simples good for medicine or abuse,
 All sweets that crown the happy nuptial day,
 With all their colours; there the month of May
 Is ever dwelling, all is young and green;
 There's not a grass on which was ever seen
 The falling autumn or cold winter's hand;
 So full of heat and virtue is the land
 About this fountain, which doth slowly break,
 Below yon mountain's foot, into a creek
 That waters all the valley, giving fish
 Of many sorts to fill the shepherd's dish.
 This holy well, my grandame that is dead,
 Right wise in charms, hath often to me said,
 Hath power to change the form of any creature,
 Being thrice dipped o'er the head, into what feature
 Or shape 'twould please the letter-down to crave,
 Who must pronounce this charm too, which she gave [Showing a scroll.

Me on her death-bed; told me what, and how,
 I should apply unto the patient's brow
 That would be changed, casting them thrice asleep,
 Before I trusted them into this deep:
 All this she showed me, and did charge me prove
 This secret of her art, if crost in love.
 I'll this attempt now, shepherd; I have here
 All her prescriptions, and I will not fear
 To be myself dipped. Come, my temples bind
 With these sad herbs, and when I sleep you find,
 As you do speak your charm, thrice down me let,
 And bid the water raise me Amoret;
 Which being done, leave me to my affair,

And ere the day shall quite itself outwear,
I will return unto my shepherd's arm;
Dip me again, and then repeat this charm,
And pluck me up myself, whom freely take,
And the hott'st fire of thine affection slake.

Sull. Shep. And if I fit thee not, then fit not me.
I long the truth of this well's power to see.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—Another part of the Wood.

Enter DAPHNIS.

Daph. Here will I stay, for this the covert is Where I appointed Cloe. Do not miss,
Thou bright-eyed virgin; come, oh come, my fair!
Be not abused with fear, nor let cold care
Of honour stay thee from thy shepherd's arm,
Who would as hard be won to offer harm
To thy chaste thoughts, as whiteness from the day,
Or yon great round to move another way:
My language shall be honest, full of truth,
My flames as smooth and spotless as my youth;
I will not entertain that wandering thought,
Whose easy current may at length be brought
To a loose vastness.

Alexis. [Within.] Cloe!

Daph. 'Tis her voice,
And I must answer.—Cloe!—Oh, the choice
Of dear embraces, chaste and holy strains
Our hands shall give! I charge you, all my veins,
Through which the blood and spirit take their way,
Lock up your disobedient heats, and stay
Those mutinous desires that else would grow
To strong rebellion; do not wilder show
That blushing modesty may entertain.

Alexis. [Within.] Cloe!

Daph. There sounds that blessèd name again,
And I will meet it. Let me not mistake;

Enter ALEXIS.

This is some shepherd. Sure, I am awake:
What may this riddle mean? I will retire,
To give myself more knowledge.

[Retires.]

Alexis.

Oh, my fire,

How thou consum'st me!—Cloe, answer me!
 Alexis, strong Alexis, high and free,
 Calls upon Cloe. See, mine arms are full
 Of entertainment, ready for to pull
 That golden fruit which too, too long hath hung
 Tempting the greedy eye. Thou stay'st too long;
 I am impatient of these mad delays:
 I must not leave unsought those many ways
 That lead into this centre, till I find
 Quench for my burning lust. I come, unkind! [Exit.

Daph. [Coming forward.] Can my imagination work me so much ill,

That I may credit this for truth, and still Believe mine eyes? or shall I firmly hold
 Her yet untainted, and these sights but bold
 Illusion? Sure, such fancies oft have been Sent to abuse true love, and yet are seen
 Daring to blind the virtuous thought with error;
 But be they far from me with their fond terror!
 I am resolved my Cloe yet is true.

Cloe. [Within.] Cloe!

Daph. Hark! Cloe! Sure, this voice is new,
 Whose shrillness, like the sounding of a bell,
 Tells me it is a woman.—Cloe, tell
 Thy blessèd name again.

Cloe. [Within.] Cloe! here!

Daph. Oh, what a grief is this, to be so near,
 And not encounter!

Enter CLOE.

Cloe. Shepherd, we are met:
 Draw close into the covert, lest the wet,
 Which falls like the lazy mist upon the ground,
 Soak through your startups.

Daph. Fairest, are you found?
 How have we wandered, that the better part
 Of this good night is perished? Oh, my heart!
 How have I longed to meet you, how to kiss
 Those lily hands, how to receive the bliss
 That charming tongue gives to the happy ear
 Of him that drinks your language! But I fear
 I am too much unmannered, far too rude,
 And almost grown lascivious, to intrude

These hot behaviours; where regard of fame,
 Honour and modesty, a virtuous name,
 And such discourse as one fair sister may
 Without offence unto the brother say,
 Should rather have been tendered. But, believe,
 Here dwells a better temper: do not grieve,
 Then, ever kindest, that my first salute
 Seasons so much of fancy; I am mute
 Henceforth to all discourses but shall be
 Suiting to your sweet thoughts and modesty.
 Indeed, I will not ask a kiss of you,
 No, not to wring your fingers, nor to sue
 To those blest pair of fixèd stars for smiles;
 All a young lover's cunning, all his wiles,
 And pretty wanton dyings, shall to me
 Be strangers; only to your chastity
 I am devoted ever.

Cloe.

Honest swain,

First let me thank you, then return again
 As much of my love.—No, thou art too cold,
 Unhappy boy, not tempered to my mould;
 Thy blood falls heavy downward. 'Tis not fear
 To offend in boldness wins; they never wear
 Deservèd favours that deny to take
 When they are offered freely. Do I wake,
 To see a man of his youth, years, and feature,
 And such a one as we call goodly creature,
 Thus backward? What a world of precious art
 Were merely lost, to make him do his part!
 But I will shake him off, that dares not hold:
 Let men that hope to be beloved be bold.
 Daphnis, I do desire, since we are met
 So happily, our lives and fortunes set
 Upon one stake, to give assurance now,
 By interchange of hands and holy vow,
 Never to break again. Walk you that way,
 Whilst I in zealous meditation stray
 A little this way: when we both have ended
 These rites and duties, by the woods befriended
 And secrecy of night, retire and find
 An agèd oak, whose hollowness may bind
 Us both within his body; thither go;
 It stands within yon bottom.

[Aside.]

Truth, that hath but one face,
 Thus I charm thee from this place.
 Snakes that cast your coats for new,
 Chameleons that alter hue,
 Hares that yearly sexes change,
 Proteus altering oft and strange,
 Hecatè with shapes three,
 Let this maiden changèd be,
 With this holy water wet,
 To the shape of Amoret!
 Cynthia, work thou with my charm!—
 Thus I draw thee, free from harm,
 [Draws her out of the well, in the shape of Amoret.]
 Up out of this blessèd lake:
 Rise both like her and awake!

Amar. Speak, shepherd, am I Amoret to sight?
 Or hast thou missed in any magic rite,
 For want of which any defect in me
 May make our practices discovered be?

Sull. Shep. By yonder moon, but that I here do stand, Whose breath hath thus transformed thee, and whose hand
 Let thee down dry, and plucked thee up thus wet,
 I should myself take thee for Amoret!
 Thou art, in clothes, in feature, voice and hue,
 So like, that sense can not distinguish you.

Amar. Then, this deceit, which cannot crossèd be,
 At once shall lose her him, and gain thee me.
 Hither she needs must come, by promise made;
 And, sure, his nature never was so bad,
 To bid a virgin meet him in the wood,
 When night and fear are up, but understood
 'Twas his part to come first. Being come, I'll say,
 My constant love made me come first and stay;
 Then will I lead him further to the grove:
 But stay you here, and, if his own true love
 Shall seek him here, set her in some wrong path,
 Which say her lover lately trodden hath;
 I'll not be far from hence. If need there be,
 Here is another charm, whose power will free

[Gives a scroll.]

The dazzled sense, read by the moonbeams clear,
 And in my own true shape make me appear.

Enter PERIGOT.

Sull. Shep. Stand close: here's Perigot; whose constant heart

Longs to behold her in whose shape thou art.

[Retires with Amarillis.]

Peri. This is the place.—Fair Amoret!—The hour
Is yet scarce come. Here every sylvan power
Delights to be, about yon sacred well,
Which they have blessed with many a powerful spell;
For never traveller in dead of night,
Nor strayed beasts have fall'n in; but when sight
Hath failed them, then their right way they have found
By help of them, so holy is the ground.
But I will farther seek, lest Amoret
Should be first come, and so stray long unmet.—
My Amoret, Amoret! [Exit.]

Amar. [Coming forward.] Perigot!

Peri. [Within.] My love!

Amar. I come, my love! [Exit.]

Sull. Shep. Now she hath got

Her own desires, and I shall gainer be
Of my long-looked-for hopes, as well as she.
How bright the moon shines here, as if she strove
To show her glory in this little grove

Enter AMORET.

To some new-lovèd shepherd! Yonder is Another Amoret. Where differs this
From that? but that she Perigot hath met,
I should have ta'en this for the counterfeit.
Herbs, woods, and springs, the power that in you lies,
If mortal men could know your properties! [Aside.]

Amo. Methinks it is not night; I have no fear,
Walking this wood, of lion or of bear,
Whose names at other times have made me quake,
When any shepherdess in her tale spake
Of some of them, that underneath a wood
Have torn true lovers that together stood;
Methinks there are no goblins, and men's talk,
That in these woods the nimble fairies walk,
Are fables: such a strong heart I have got,

Because I come to meet with Perigot.—

My Perigot! Who's that? my Perigot?

Sull. Shep. [Coming forward.] Fair maid!

Amo.

Aye me, thou art not Perigot?

Sull. Shep. But I can tell you news of Perigot:

An hour together under yonder tree

He sat with wreathèd arms, and called on thee,

And said, "Why, Amoret, stay'st thou so long?"

Then starting up, down yonder path he flung,

Lest thou hadst missed thy way. Were it daylight,

He could not yet have borne him out of sight.

Amo. Thanks, gentle shepherd; and beshrew my stay,

That made me fearful I had lost my way

As fast as my weak legs (that cannot be Weary with seeking him) will carry me,

I'll follow; and, for this thy care of me,

Pray Pan thy love may ever follow thee!

[Exit.]

Sull. Shep. How bright she was, how lovely did she show!

Was it not pity to deceive her so?

She plucked her garments up, and tripped away,

And with a virgin-innocence did pray

For me that perjured her. Whilst she was here,

Methought the beams of light that did appear

Were shot from her; methought the moon gave none

But what it had from her. She was alone

With me; if then her presence did so move,

Why did I not assay to win her love?

She would not sure have yielded unto me;

Women love only opportunity,

And not the man; or if she had denied,

Alone, I might have forced her to have tried

Who had been stronger: oh, vain fool, to let

Such blessed occasion pass! I'll follow yet;

My blood is up; I cannot now forbear.

Enter ALEXIS and CLOE.

I come, sweet Amoret!—Soft, who is here?

A pair of lovers? He shall yield her me:

Now lust is up, alike all women be. [Aside and retires.]

Alexis. Where shall we rest? But for the love of me,

Cloe, I know, ere this would weary be.

Cloe. Alexis, let us rest here, if the place

Be private, and out of the common trace

Of every shepherd; for, I understood,
This night a number are about the wood:
Then, let us choose some place, where, out of sight,
We freely may enjoy our stol'n delight.

Alexis. Then, boldly here, where we shall ne'er be found:
No shepherd's way lies here, 'tis hallowed ground;
No maid seeks here her strayèd cow or sheep;
Fairies and fawns and satyrs do it keep.
Then, carelessly rest here, and clip and kiss,
And let no fear make us our pleasures miss.

Cloe. Then, lie by me: the sooner we begin,
The longer ere the day descry our sin. [They lie down.]

Sull. Shep. [Coming forward.] Forbear to touch my love; or, by yon flame,
The greatest power that shepherds dare to name,
Here where thou sit'st, under this holy tree,
Her to dishonour, thou shalt buried be!

Alexis. If Pan himself should come out of the lawns,
With all his troops of satyrs and of fawns,
And bid me leave, I swear by her two eyes
(A greater oath than thine), I would not rise!

Sull. Shep. Then, from the cold earth never thou shalt move,
But lose at one stroke both thy life and love.
[Wounds him with his spear.]

Cloe. Hold, gentle shepherd!

Sull. Shep. Fairest shepherdess,
Come you with me; I do not love you less
Than that fond man, that would have kept you there
From me of more desert.

Alexis. Oh, yet forbear
To take her from me! Give me leave to die
By her!

Enter Satyr; Sullen Shepherd runs one way, and CLOE another.

Sat. Now, whilst the moon doth rule the sky,
And the stars, whose feeble light
Gives a pale shadow to the night,
Are up, great Pan commanded me
To walk this grove about, whilst he,
In a corner of the wood,
Where never mortal foot hath stood,
Keeps dancing, music, and a feast,

To entertain a lovely guest;
 Where he gives her many a rose,
 Sweeter than the breath that blows
 The leaves, grapes, berries of the best;
 I never saw so great a feast.
 But, to my charge. Here must I stay,
 To see what mortals lose their way,
 And by a false fire, seeming bright,
 Train them in and leave them right,
 Then must I watch if any be Forcing of a chastity;
 If I find it, then in haste
 Give my wreathèd horn a blast,
 And the fairies all will run,
 Wildly dancing by the moon,
 And will pinch him to the bone,
 Till his lustful thoughts be gone.

Alexis. Oh, death!

Sat. Back again about this ground;
 Sure, I hear a mortal sound.—
 I bind thee by this powerful spell,
 By the waters of this well,
 By the glimmering moonbeams bright,
 Speak again, thou mortal wight!

Alexis. Oh!

Sat. Here the foolish mortal lies,
 Sleeping on the ground.—Arise!—
 The poor wight is almost dead;
 On the ground his wounds have bled,
 And his clothes fouled with his blood:
 To my goddess in the wood
 Will I lead him, whose hands pure
 Will help this mortal wight to cure.

[Exit carrying Alexis.]

Re-enter CLOE.

Cloe. Since I beheld yon shaggy man, my breast
 Doth pant; each bush, methinks, should hide a beast.
 Yet my desire keeps still above my fear:
 I would fain meet some shepherd, knew I where;
 For from one cause of fear I am most free,
 It is impossible to ravish me,
 I am so willing. Here upon this ground

I left my love, all bloody with his wounds;
 Yet, till that fearful shape made me begone,
 Though he were hurt, I furnished was of one;
 But now both lost.—Alexis, speak or move,
 If thou hast any life; thou art yet my love!—
 He's dead, or else is with his little might Crept from the bank for fear of that ill sprite.—
 Then, where art thou that struck'st my love? Oh, stay!
 Bring me thyself in change, and then I'll say
 Thou hast some justice: I will make thee trim
 With flowers and garlands that were meant for him;
 I'll clip thee round with both mine arms, as fast
 As I did mean he should have been embraced.
 But thou art fled.—What hope is left for me?
 I'll run to Daphnis in the hollow tree,
 Whom I did mean to mock; though hope be small
 To make him bold, rather than none at all,
 I'll try him; his heart, and my behaviour too,
 Perhaps may teach him what he ought to do. [Exit.

Re-enter Sullen Shepherd.

Sull. Shep. This was the place. 'Twas but my feeble sight,
 Mixed with the horror of my deed, and night,
 That shaped these fears, and made me run away,
 And lose my beauteous hardly-gotten prey.—
 Speak, gentle shepherdess! I am alone,
 And tender love for love.—But she is gone
 From me, that, having struck her lover dead,
 For silly fear left her alone, and fled.
 And see, the wounded body is removed
 By her of whom it was so well beloved.
 But all these fancies must be quite forgot.
 I must lie close; here comes young Perigot,
 With subtle Amarillis in the shape
 Of Amoret. Pray, love, he may not 'scape! [Retires.

Enter PERIGOT, and AMARILLIS in the shape of AMORET.

Amar. Belovèd Perigot, show me some place,
 Where I may rest my limbs, weak with the chase
 Of thee, an hour before thou cam'st at least.

Peri. Beshrew my tardy steps! Here shalt thou rest
 Upon this holy bank: no deadly snake

Upon this turf herself in folds doth make;
 Here is no poison for the toad to feed;
 Here boldly spread thy hands; no venom'd weed
 Dares blister them; no slimy snail dare creep
 Over thy face when thou art fast asleep;
 Here never durst the dabbling cuckoo spit;
 No slough of falling star did ever hit
 Upon this bank: let this thy cabin be;
 This other, set with violets, for me. [They lie down.]

Amar. Thou dost not love me, Perigot.

Peri. Fair maid,
 You only love to hear it often said;
 You do not doubt.

Amar. Believe me, but I do.

Peri. What, shall we now begin again to woo?
 'Tis the best way to make your lover last,
 To play with him when you have caught him fast.

Amar. By Pan I swear, belovèd Perigot,
 And by yon moon, I think thou lov'st me not.

Peri. By Pan I swear,—and, if I falsely swear,
 Let him not guard my flock; let foxes tear
 My earliest lambs, and wolves, whilst I do sleep,
 Fall on the rest; a rot among my sheep,—
 I love thee better than the careful ewe
 The new-yeaned lamb that is of her own hue;
 I dote upon thee more than that young lamb
 Doth on the bag that feeds him from his dam!
 Were there a sort of wolves got in my fold,
 And one ran after thee, both young and old
 Should be devoured, and it should be my strife
 To save thee, whom I love above my life.

Amar. How should I trust thee, when I see thee choose
 Another bed, and dost my side refuse?

Peri. 'Twas only that the chaste thoughts might be shown
 'Twixt thee and me, although we were alone.

Amar. Come, Perigot will show his power, that he Can make his Amoret, though she weary be,
 Rise nimbly from her couch, and come to his.
 Here, take thy Amoret; embrace and kiss.

[Lies down beside him.]

Peri. What means my love?

Amar. To do as lovers should,
 That are to be enjoyed, not to be wooed.

There's ne'er a shepherdess in all the plain
Can kiss thee with more art; there's none can feign
More wanton tricks.

Peri. Forbear, dear soul, to try
Whether my heart be pure; I'll rather die
Than nourish one thought to dishonour thee.

Amar. Still think'st thou such a thing as chastity
Is amongst women? Perigot, there's none
That with her love is in a wood alone,
And would come home a maid: be not abused
With thy fond first belief; let time be used.

[Perigot rises.]

Why dost thou rise?

Peri. My true heart thou hast slain!

Amar. Faith, Perigot, I'll pluck thee down again.

Peri. Let go, thou serpent, that into my breast
Hast with thy cunning dived!—Art not in jest?

Amar. Sweet love, lie down.

Peri. Since this I live to see,
Some bitter north wind blast my flocks and me!

Amar. You swore you loved, yet will not do my will.

Peri. Oh, be as thou wert once, I'll love thee still!

Amar. I am as still I was, and all my kind;
Though other shows we have, poor men to blind.

Peri. Then, here I end all love; and, lest my vain
Belief should ever draw me in again,
Before thy face, that hast my youth misled,
I end my life! my blood be on thy head!

[Offers to kill himself with his spear.]

Amar. [Rising.] Oh, hold thy hands, thy Amoret doth cry!

Peri. Thou counsel'st well; first, Amoret shall die,
That is the cause of my eternal smart!

Amar. Oh, hold! [Exit.]

Peri. This steel shall pierce thy lustful heart!
[Exit, running after her.]

Sull. Shep. [Coming forward.] Up and down, every where,
I strew the herbs, to purge the air:
Let your odour drive hence
All mists that dazzle sense.
Herbs and springs, whose hidden might Alters shapes, and mocks the sight,
Thus I charge ye to undo
All before I brought ye to!

Let her fly, let her 'scape;
Give again her own shape!

[Retires.

Re-enter AMARILLIS in her own shape, and PERIGOT following with his spear.

Amar. Forbear, thou gentle swain! thou dost mistake;
She whom thou follow'dst fled into the brake,
And as I crossed thy way, I met thy wrath;
The only fear of which near slain me hath.

Peri. Pardon, fair shepherdess: my rage and night
Were both upon me, and beguiled my sight:
But far be it from me to spill the blood
Of harmless maids that wander in the wood!

[Exit Amarillis.

Enter AMORET.

Amo. Many a weary step, in yonder path,
Poor hopeless Amoret twice trodden hath,
To seek her Perigot; yet cannot hear
His voice.—My Perigot! She loves thee dear
That calls.

Peri. See yonder where she is! how fair
She shows! and yet her breath infects the air.

Amo. My Perigot!

Peri. Here.

Amo. Happy!

Peri. Hapless! first
It lights on thee: the next blow is the worst.

[Wounds her.

Amo. Stay, Perigot! my love, thou art unjust. [Falls.

Peri. Death is the best reward that's due to lust. [Exit.

Sull. Shep. Now shall their love be crossed; for, being struck,
I'll throw her in the fount, lest being took
By some night-traveller, whose honest care
May help to cure her. [Aside, and then comes forward.
Shepherdess, prepare

Yourself to die!

Amo. No mercy do I crave;
Thou canst not give a worse blow than I have.
Tell him that gave me this; who loved him too,
He struck my soul, and not my body through;
Tell him, when I am dead, my soul shall be
At peace, if he but think he injured me.

Sull. Shep. In this fount be thy grave. Thou wert not meant
Sure for a woman, thou art so innocent.—

[Flings her into the well.]

She cannot 'scape, for, underneath the ground,
In a long hollow the clear spring is bound,
Till on yon side, where the morn's sun doth look,
The struggling water breaks out in a brook. [Exit.]

The God of the River rises with AMORET in his arms.

God of the R. What powerful charms my streams do bring Back again unto their spring,
With such force that I their god,
Three times striking with my rod,
Could not keep them in their ranks?
My fishes shoot into the banks;
There's not one that stays and feeds,
All have hid them in the weeds.
Here's a mortal almost dead,
Fall'n into my river-head,
Hallowed so with many a spell,
That till now none ever fell.
'Tis a female young and clear,
Cast in by some ravisher:
See, upon her breast a wound,
On which there is no plaster bound.
Yet, she's warm, her pulses beat,
'Tis a sign of life and heat.—
If thou be'st a virgin pure,
I can give a present cure:
Take a drop into thy wound,
From my watery locks, more round
Than orient pearl, and far more pure
Than unchaste flesh may endure.—
See, she pants, and from her flesh
The warm blood gusheth out afresh.
She is an unpolluted maid;
I must have this bleeding stayed.
From my banks I pluck this flower
With holy hand, whose virtuous power
Is at once to heal and draw.
The blood returns. I never saw
A fairer mortal. Now doth break
Her deadly slumber.—Virgin, speak.

Amo. Who hath restored my sense, given me new breath,
And brought me back out of the arms of death?

God of the R. I have healed thy wounds.

Amo. Aye, me!

God of the R. Fear-not him that succoured thee.

I am this fountain's god: below,
My waters to a river grow,
And 'twixt two banks with osiers set,
That only prosper in the wet,
Through the meadows do they glide,
Wheeling still on every side,
Sometimes winding round about,
To find the evenest channel out.
And if thou wilt go with me,
Leaving mortal company,
In the cool streams shalt thou lie,
Free from harm as well as I:
I will give thee for thy food
No fish that useth in the mud;
But trout and pike, that love to swim
Where the gravel from the brim
Through the pure streams may be seen;
Orient pearl fit for a queen,
Will I give, thy love to win,
And a shell to keep them in;
Not a fish in all my brook
That shall disobey thy look,
But, when thou wilt, come sliding by,
And from thy white hand take a fly:
And, to make thee understand
How I can my waves command,
They shall bubble, whilst I sing,
Sweeter than the silver string.

[Sings.]

Do not fear to put thy feet
Naked in the river sweet;
Think not leech, or newt, or toad,
Will bite thy foot, when thou hast trod;
Nor let the water rising high,
As thou wad'st in, make thee cry
And sob; but ever live with me,
And not a wave shall trouble thee.

Amo. Immortal power, that rul'st this holy flood,
I know myself unworthy to be wooed

By thee, a god; for ere this, but for thee,
I should have shown my weak mortality:
Besides, by holy oath betwixt us twain,
I am betrothed unto a shepherd-swain,
Whose comely face, I know, the gods above
May make me leave to see, but not to love.

God of the R. May he prove to thee as true!

Fairest virgin, now adieu:
I must make my waters fly,
Lest they leave their channels dry,
And beasts that come unto the spring
Miss their morning's watering;
Which I would not; for of late
All the neighbour-people sate
On my banks, and from the fold
Two white lambs of three weeks old
Offered to my deity;
For which this year they shall be free
From raging floods, that as they pass
Leave their gravel in the grass;
Nor shall their meads be overflown
When their grass is newly mown.

Amo. For thy kindness to me shown,
Never from thy banks be blown
Any tree, with windy force,
Cross thy streams, to stop thy course;
May no beast that comes to drink,
With his horns cast down thy brink;
May none that for thy fish do look,
Cut thy banks to dam thy brook;
Barefoot may no neighbour wade
In thy cool streams, wife nor maid,
When the spawns on stones do lie,
To wash their hemp, and spoil the fry!

God of the R. Thanks, virgin. I must down again.

Thy wound will put thee to no pain:
Wonder not so soon 'tis gone;
A holy hand was laid upon.

[Descends.

Amo. And I, unhappy born to be,
Must follow him that flies from me.

[Exit.

ACT IV

SCENE I.—Part of the Wood.Enter PERIGOT.

Peri. She is untrue, unconstant, and unkind;
 She's gone, she's gone! Blow high, thou north-west wind,
 And raise the sea to mountains; let the trees
 That dare oppose thy raging fury leese
 Their firm foundation; creep into the earth,
 And shake the world, as at the monstrous birth
 Of some new prodigy; whilst I constant stand,
 Holding this trusty boar-spear in my hand,
 And falling thus upon it. [Offers to fall on his spear.]

Enter AMARILLIS running.

Amar. Stay thy dead-doing hand! thou art too hot
 Against thyself. Believe me, comely swain,
 If that thou diest, not all the showers of rain
 The heavy clouds send down can wash away
 That foul unmanly guilt the world will lay
 Upon thee. Yet thy love untainted stands:
 Believe me, she is constant; not the sands
 Can be so hardly numbered as she won.
 I do not trifle, shepherd; by the moon,
 And all those lesser lights our eyes do view,
 All that I told thee, Perigot, is true:
 Then, be a free man; put away despair
 And will to die; smooth gently up that fair,
 Dejected forehead; be as when those eyes
 Took the first heat.

Peri. Alas, he double dies
 That would believe, but cannot! 'Tis not well
 You keep me thus from dying, here to dwell
 With many worse companions. But, oh, death!
 I am not yet enamoured of this breath
 So much but I dare leave it; 'tis not pain
 In forcing of a wound, nor after-gain
 Of many days, can hold me from my will:
 'Tis not myself but Amoret, bids kill.

Amar. Stay but a little, little; but one hour;
And if I do not show thee, through the power
Of herbs and words I have, as dark as night,
Myself turned to thy Amoret, in sight,
Her very figure, and the robe she wears,
With tawny buskins, and the hook she bears
Of thine own carving, where your names are set,
Wrought underneath with many a curious fret,
The primrose-chaplet, tawdry-lace, and ring,
Thou gav'st her for her singing, with each thing
Else that she wears about her, let me feel
The first fell stroke of that revenging steel!

Peri. I am contented, if there be a hope,
To give it entertainment for the scope
Of one poor hour. Go; you shall find me next
Under yon shady beech, even thus perplexed,
And thus believing.

Amar. Bind, before I go,
Thy soul by Pan unto me, not to do
Harm or outrageous wrong upon thy life,
Till my return.

Peri. By Pan, and by the strife
He had with Phœbus for the mastery,
When golden Midas judged their minstrelsy,
I will not! [Exeunt severally.]

—SCENE II.—The Wood before Clorin's Bower.

CLORIN discovered in the Bower.

Enter Satyr carrying ALEXIS.

Sat. Softly gliding as I go,
With this burthen full of woe,
Through still silence of the night,
Guided by the glow-worm's light,
Hither am I come at last.
Many a thicket have I past;
Not a twig that durst deny me,
Not a bush that durst descry me
To the little bird that sleeps
On the tender spray; nor creeps
That hardy worm with pointed tail,
But if I be under sail,

Flying faster than the wind,
 Leaving all the clouds behind,
 But doth hide her tender head
 In some hollow tree, or bed
 Of seeded nettles; not a hare
 Can be started from his fare
 By my footing; nor a wish
 Is more sudden, nor a fish
 Can be found with greater ease
 Cut the vast unbounded seas,
 Leaving neither print nor sound,
 Than I, when nimbly on the ground
 I measure many a league an hour.
 But, behold, the happy power
 That must ease me of my charge,
 And by holy hand enlarge
 The soul of this sad man, that yet
 Lies fast bound in deadly fit:
 Heaven and great Pan succour it!—
 Hail, thou beauty of the bower,
 Whiter than the paramour
 Of my master! Let me crave
 Thy virtuous help, to keep from grave
 This poor mortal, that here lies,
 Waiting when the Destinies
 Will undo his thread of life:
 View the wound, by cruel knife
 Trenched into him.

Clo. [Coming from the bower.] What art thou call'st me from my holy rites,
 And with the feared name of death affrights
 My tender ears? speak me thy name and will.

Sat. I am the Satyr that did fill
 Your lap with early fruit; and will,
 When I hap to gather more,
 Bring you better and more store.
 Yet I come not empty now:
 See, a blossom from the bough;
 But beshrew his heart that pulled it,
 And his perfect sight that culled it
 From the other springing blooms!
 For a sweeter youth the grooms
 Cannot show me, nor the downs,

Nor the many neighbouring towns.
Low in yonder glade I found him ;
Softly in mine arms I bound him ;
Hither have I brought him sleeping
In a trance, his wounds fresh weeping,
In remembrance such youth may
Spring and perish in a day.

Clo. Satyr, they wrong thee that do term thee rude ;
Though thou be'st outward-rough and tawny-hued,
Thy manners are as gentle and as fair
As his who brags himself born only heir
To all humanity. Let me see the wound :
This herb will stay the current, being bound
Fast to the orifice, and this restrain
Ulcers and swellings, and such inward pain
As the cold air hath forced into the sore ;
This to draw out such putrefying gore
As inward falls.

Sat. Heaven grant it may do good !

Clo. Fairly wipe away the blood :
Hold him gently, till I fling
Water of a virtuous spring
On his temples ; turn him twice
To the moonbeams ; pinch him thrice ;
That the labouring soul may draw
From his great eclipse.

Sat. I saw
His eyelids moving.

Clo. Give him breath ;
All the danger of cold death
Now is vanished ! with this plaster,
And this unction do I master
All the festered ill that may
Give him grief another day.

Sat. See, he gathers up his sprite,
And begins to hunt for light ;
Now he gapes and breathes again :
How the blood runs to the vein
That erst was empty !

Alexis. O my heart !
My dearest, dearest Cloe ! Oh, the smart
Runs through my side ! I feel some pointed thing
Pass through my bowels, sharper than the sting

Of scorpion.—

Pan, preserve me!—What are you?

Do not hurt me: I am true

To my Cloe, though she fly,

And leave me to this destiny:

There she stands, and will not lend

Her smooth white hand to help her friend.

But I am much mistaken, for that face

Bears more austerity and modest grace,

More reproving and more awe,

Than these eyes yet ever saw

In my Cloe. Oh, my pain

Eagerly renews again!

Give me your help for his sake you love best.

Clo. Shepherd, thou canst not possibly take rest,
Till thou hast laid aside all heats, desires,
Provoking thoughts that stir up lusty fires,
Commerce with wanton eyes, strong blood, and will
To execute; these must be purged until
The vein grow whiter; then repent, and pray
Great Pan to keep you from the like decay,
And I shall undertake your care with ease;
Till when, this virtuous plaster will displease
Your tender sides. Give me your hand, and rise!
Help him a little, Satyr; for his thighs
Yet are feeble.

Alexis. [Rising.] Sure, I have lost much blood.

Sat. 'Tis no matter; 'twas not good.

Mortal, you must leave your wooing:

Though there be a joy in doing,

Yet it brings much grief behind it;

They best feel it, that do find it.

Clo. Come, bring him in; I will attend his sore.—

When you are well, take heed you lust no more.

[Alexis is led into the bower.]

Sat. Shepherd, see, what comes of kissing;

By my head, 'twere better missing.

Brightest, if there be remaining

Any service, without feigning

I will do it; were I set

To catch the nimble wind, or get

Shadows gliding on the green,

Or to steal from the great queen

Of fairies all her beauty ;
I would do it, so much duty
Do I owe those precious eyes.

Clo. I thank thee, honest Satyr. If the cries
Of any other, that be hurt or ill,
Draw thee unto them, prithee, do thy will
To bring them hither.

Sat. I will ; and when the weather
Serves to angle in the brook,
I will bring a silver hook,
With a line of finest silk,
And a rod as white as milk,
To deceive the little fish :
So I take my leave, and wish
On this bower may ever dwell
Spring and summer !

Clo. Friend, farewell. [Exit Satyr. Scene closes.]

SCENE III.—Part of the Wood with the Holy Well.

Enter AMORET.

Amo. This place is ominous ; for here I lost
My love and almost life, and since have crost
All these woods over ; ne'er a nook or dell,
Where any little bird or beast doth dwell,
But I have sought it ; ne'er a bending brow
Of any hill, or glade the wind sings through,
Nor a green bank, nor shade where shepherds use
To sit and riddle, sweetly pipe, or choose
Their valentines, that I have missed, to find
My love in. Perigot ! Oh, too unkind,
Why hast thou fled me ? whither art thou gone ?
How have I wronged thee ? was my love alone
To thee worthy this scorned recompense ? 'Tis well ;
I am content to feel it. But I tell
Thee, shepherd, and these lusty woods shall hear,
Forsaken Amoret is yet as clear
Of any stranger fire, as heaven is
From foul corruption, or the deep abyss
From light and happiness ; and thou mayst know
All this for truth, and how that fatal blow
Thou gav'st me, never from desert of mine
Fell on my life, but from suspect of thine,

Or fury more than madness: therefore here,
 Since I have lost my life, my love, my dear,
 Upon this cursèd place, and on this green
 That first divorced us, shortly shall be seen
 A sight of so great pity, that each eye
 Shall daily spend his spring in memory
 Of my untimely fall.

Enter AMARILLIS.

Amar. I am not blind,
 Nor is it through the working of my mind
 That this shows Amoret. Forsake me, all
 That dwell upon the soul, but what men call
 Wonder, or, more than wonder, miracle!
 For, sure, so strange as this, the oracle
 Never gave answer of; it passeth dreams,
 Or madmen's fancy, when the many streams
 Of new imaginations rise and fall:
 'Tis but an hour since these ears heard her call
 For pity to young Perigot; whilst he Directed by his fury, bloodily
 Lanced up her breast, which bloodless fell and cold;
 And, if belief may credit what was told,
 After all this, the Melancholy Swain
 Took her into his arms, being almost slain,
 And to the bottom of the holy well
 Flung her, for ever with the waves to dwell.
 'Tis she, the very same; 'tis Amoret,
 And living yet; the great powers will not let Their virtuous love be crossed. [Aside.—Maid, wipe away
 Those heavy drops of sorrow, and allay
 The storm that yet goes high, which, not deprest,
 Breaks heart and life and all before it rest.
 Thy Perigot—

Amo. Where, which is Perigot?

Amar. Sits there below, lamenting much, God wot,
 Thee and thy fortune. Go, and comfort him;
 And thou shalt find him underneath a brim
 Of sailing pines, that edge yon mountain in.

Amo. I go, I run. Heaven grant me I may win
 His soul again!

[Exit.

Enter Sullen Shepherd.

Sull. Shep. Stay, Amarillis, stay!
You are too fleet; 'tis two hours yet to day.
I have performed my promise; let us sit
And warm our bloods together, till the fit
Come lively on us.

Amar. Friend, you are too keen;
The morning riseth, and we shall be seen;
Forbear a little.

Sull. Shep. I can stay no longer.

Amar. Hold, shepherd, hold! learn not to be a wronger
Of your word. Was not your promise laid,
To break their loves first?

Sull. Shep. I have done it, maid.

Amar. No; they are yet unbroken, met again,
And are as hard to part yet as the stain
Is from the finest lawn.

Sull. Shep. I say, they are Now at this present parted, and so far
That they shall never meet.

Amar. Swain, 'tis not so;
For do but to yon hanging mountain go,
And there believe your eyes.

Sull. Shep. You do but hold
Off with delays and trifles.—Farewell, cold
And frozen bashfulness, unfit for men!—
Thus I salute thee, virgin! [Attempts to seize her.]

Amar. And thus, then,
I bid you follow: catch me if you can! [Exit running.]

Sull. Shep. And, if I stay behind, I am no man!
[Exit, running after her.]

SCENE IV.—A Dale in the Wood.

Enter PERIGOT.

Peri. Night, do not steal away; I woo thee yet
To hold a hard hand o'er the rusty bit
That guides thy lazy team. Go back again,
Boötes, thou that driv'st thy frozen wain
Round as a ring, and bring a second night,
To hide my sorrows from the coming light;
Let not the eyes of men stare on my face,

And read my falling; give me some black place,
 Where never sunbeam shot his wholesome light,
 That I may sit and pour out my sad sprite
 Like running water, never to be known
 After the forcèd fall and sound is gone.

Enter AMORET.

Amo. This is the bottom.—Speak, if thou be here,
 My Perigot! Thy Amoret, thy dear,
 Calls on thy lovèd name.

Peri. What art thou dare
 Tread these forbidden paths, where death and care
 Dwell on the face of darkness?

Amo. 'Tis thy friend,
 Thy Amoret, come hither, to give end
 To these consumings. Look up, gentle boy:
 I have forgot those pains and dear annoy
 I suffered for thy sake, and am content
 To be thy love again. Why hast thou rent
 Those curlèd locks, where I have often hung
 Ribbons and damask-roses, and have flung
 Waters distilled, to make thee fresh and gay,
 Sweeter than nosegays on a bridal day?
 Why dost thou cross thine arms, and hang thy face
 Down to thy bosom, letting fall apace
 From those two little heavens, upon the ground,
 Showers of more price, more orient, and more round,
 Than those that hang upon the moon's pale brow?
 Cease these complainings, shepherd: I am now
 The same I ever was, as kind and free,
 And can forgive before you ask of me;
 Indeed, I can and will.

Peri. So spoke my fair!
 Oh, you great working powers of earth and air,
 Water and forming fire, why have you lent
 Your hidden virtues of so ill intent?
 Even such a face, so fair, so bright of hue,
 Had Amoret; such words, so smooth and new,
 Came flowing from her tongue; such was her eye,
 And such the pointed sparkle that did fly
 Forth like a bleeding shaft; all is the same,
 The robe and buskins, painted hook, and frame
 Of all her body. Oh me, Amoret!

Amo. Shepherd, what means this riddle? who hath set
So strong a difference 'twixt myself and me,
That I am grown another? Look, and see
The ring thou gav'st me, and about my wrist
That curious bracelet thou thyself didst twist
From those fair tresses. Know'st thou Amoret?
Hath not some newer love forced thee forget
Thy ancient faith?

Peri. Still nearer to my love!
These be the very words she oft did prove Upon my temper; so she still would take Wonder into her face, and silent make
Signs with her head and hand, as who would say,
"Shepherd, remember this another day."

Amo. Am I not Amoret? where was I lost?
Can there be heaven, and time, and men, and most Of these inconstant? Faith, where art thou fled?
Are all the vows and protestations dead,
The hands held up, the wishes and the heart?
Is there not one remaining, not a part
Of all these to be found? Why, then, I see
Men never knew that virtue, constancy.

Peri. Men ever were most blessèd, till cross fate
Brought love and woman forth, unfortunate
To all that ever tasted of their smiles;
Whose actions are all double, full of wiles;
Like to the subtle hare, that 'fore the hounds
Makes many turnings, leaps and many rounds,
This way and that way, to deceive the scent
Of her pursuers.

Amo. 'Tis but to prevent
Their speedy coming on, that seek her fall;
The hands of cruel men, more bestial,
And of a nature more refusing good
Than beasts themselves or fishes of the flood.

Peri. Thou art all these, and more than nature meant.
When she created all; frowns, joys, content;
Extreme fire for an hour, and presently
Colder than sleepy poison, or the sea
Upon whose face sits a continual frost;
Your actions ever driven to the most,
Then down again as low, that none can find
The rise or falling of a woman's mind.

Amo. Can there be any age, or days, or time,
Or tongues of men, guilty so great a crime
As wronging simple maid? Oh, Perigot,
Thou that wast yesterday without a blot;
Thou that wast every good and everything
That men call blessèd; thou that wast the spring
From whence our looser grooms drew all their best;
Thou that wast always just and always blest
In faith and promise; thou that hadst the name
Of virtuous given thee, and made good the same
Even from thy cradle; thou that wast that all
That men delighted in! Oh, what a fall
Is this, to have been so, and now to be
The only best in wrong and infamy!
And I to live to know this! and by me,
That loved thee dearer than mine eyes, or that
Which we esteemed our honour, virgin-state!
Dearer than swallows love the early morn,
Or dogs of chase the sound of merry horn;
Dearer than thou canst love thy new love, if thou hast
Another, and far dearer than the last;
Dearer than thou canst love thyself, though all
The self-love were within thee that did fall
With that coy swain that now is made a flower,
For whose dear sake Echo weeps many a shower!
And am I thus rewarded for my flame?
Loved worthily to get a wanton's name?
Come, thou forsaken willow, wind my head,
And noise it to the world, my love is dead!
I am forsaken, I am cast away,
And left for every lazy groom to say
I was unconstant, light, and sooner lost
Than the quick clouds we see, or the chill frost
When the hot sun beats on it! Tell me yet,
Canst thou not love again thy Amoret?

Peri. Thou art not worthy of that blessed name:
I must not know thee: fling thy wanton flame
Upon some lighter blood that may be hot
With words and feignèd passions; Perigot
Was ever yet unstained, and shall not now
Stoop to the meltings of a borrowed brow.

Amo. Then hear me, Heaven, to whom I call for right,
And you, fair twinkling stars, that crown the night;

And hear me, woods, and silence of this place,
 And ye, sad hours, that move a sullen pace;
 Hear me, ye shadows, that delight to dwell
 In horrid darkness, and ye powers of hell,
 Whilst I breathe out my last! I am that maid,
 That yet-untainted Amoret, that played
 The careless prodigal, and gave away
 My soul to this young man that now dares say
 I am a stranger, not the same, more vild;
 And thus with much belief I was beguiled:
 I am that maid, that have delayed, denied,
 And almost scorned the loves of all that tried
 To win me, but this swain; and yet confess
 I have been wooed by many with no less
 Soul of affection; and have often had Rings, belts, and cracknels, sent me from the lad
 That feeds his flocks down westward; lambs and doves
 By young Alexis; Daphnis sent me gloves;
 All which I gave to thee: nor these nor they
 That sent them did I smile on, or e'er lay
 Up to my after-memory. But why
 Do I resolve to grieve, and not to die?
 Happy had been the stroke thou gav'st, if home;
 By this time had I found a quiet room,
 Where every slave is free, and every breast,
 That living bred new care, now lies at rest;
 And thither will poor Amoret.

Peri. Thou must.

Was ever any man so loath to trust
 His eyes as I? or was there ever yet
 Any so like as this to Amoret?
 For whose dear sake I promise, if there be
 A living soul within thee, thus to free
 Thy body from it! [Wounds her with his spear.]

Amo. [Falling.] So, this work hath end.
 Farewell, and live; be constant to thy friend
 That loves thee next.

Enter Satyr; PERIGOT runs off.

Sat. See, the day begins to break,
 And the light shoots like a streak
 Of subtle fire; the wind blows cold,

Whilst the morning doth unfold;
 Now the birds begin to rouse,
 And the squirrel from the boughs
 Leaps, to get him nuts and fruit:
 The early lark, that erst was mute,
 Carols to the rising day
 Many a note and many a lay:
 Therefore here I end my watch,
 Lest the wandering swain should catch
 Harm, or lose himself.

Amo. Ah me!

Sat. Speak again, whate'er thou be;
 I am ready; speak, I say;
 By the dawning of the day,
 By the power of night and Pan,
 I enforce thee speak again!

Amo. Oh, I am most unhappy!

Sat. Yet more blood!
 Sure, these wanton swains are wood.
 Can there be a hand or heart
 Dare commit so vild a part
 As this murder? By the moon,
 That hid herself when this was done,
 Never was a sweeter face:
 I will bear her to the place
 Where my goddess keeps, and crave
 Her to give her life or grave. [Exit, carrying Amoret.]

SCENE V.—The Wood before CLORIN'S Bower.

Enter CLORIN.

Clo. Here whilst one patient takes his rest secure,
 I steal abroad to do another cure.—
 Pardon, thou buried body of my love,
 That from thy side I dare so soon remove;
 I will not prove unconstant, nor will leave
 Thee for an hour alone: when I deceive
 My first-made vow, the wildest of the wood
 Tear me, and o'er thy grave let out my blood!
 I go by wit to cure a lover's pain,
 Which no herb can; being done, I'll come again. [Exit.]

A constant woman is above the rest!

Clo. And offer up myself, here on this ground,
To be disposed by thee.

The. Why dost thou wound
His heart with malice against women more,
That hated all the sex but thee before?
How much more pleasant had it been to me
To die than to behold this change in thee!
Yet, yet return; let not the woman sway!

Clo. Insult not on her now, nor use delay,
Who for thy sake hath ventured all her fame.

The. Thou hast not ventured, but bought certain shame:
Your sex's curse, foul falsehood, must and shall,
I see, once in your lives, light on you all.
I hate thee now. Yet turn!

Clo. Be just to me:
Shall I at once lose both my fame and thee?

The. Thou hadst no fame; that which thou didst like good
Was but thy appetite that swayed thy blood
For that time to the best: for as a blast
That through a house comes, usually doth cast
Things out of order, yet by chance may come,
And blow some one thing to his proper room,
So did thy appetite, and not thy zeal,
Sway thee by chance to do some one thing well.
Yet turn!

Clo. Thou dost but try me, if I would
Forsake thy dear embraces for my old
Love's, though he were alive: but do not fear.

The. I do contemn thee now, and dare come near,
And gaze upon thee; for methinks that grace,
Austerity, which sate upon that face,
Is gone, and thou like others. False maid, see,
This is the gain of foul inconstancy!

Clo. 'Tis done:—great Pan, I give thee thanks for it!—
What art could not have cured is healed by wit.

[Exit.

Re-enter THENOT.

The. Will you be constant yet? will you remove
Into the cabin to your buried love?

Clo. No, let me die, but by thy side remain.

The. There's none shall know but thou didst ever stain

Thy worthy strictness, but shalt honoured be,
And I will lie again under this tree,
And pine and die for thee with more delight
Than I have sorrow now to know thee light.

Clo. Let me have thee, and I'll be where thou wilt.

The. Thou art of women's race, and full of guilt.

Farewell all hope of that sex! Whilst I thought
There was one good, I feared to find one naught:
But since their minds I all alike espy,
Henceforth I'll choose, as others, by mine eye. [Exit.

Clo. Blest be ye powers that gave such quick redress,
And for my labours sent so good success!
I rather choose, though I a woman be,
He should speak ill of all than die for me.

[Exit into the bower.

ACT V

SCENE I.—A Village.

Enter Priest of Pan and Old Shepherd.

Priest. Shepherds, rise, and shake off sleep!

See, the blushing morn doth peep
Through the windows, whilst the sun
To the mountain-tops is run,
Gilding all the vales below
With his rising flames, which grow
Greater by his climbing still.
Up, ye lazy grooms, and fill
Bag and bottle for the field!
Clasp your cloaks fast, lest they yield
To the bitter north-east wind.
Call the maidens up, and find
Who lay longest, that she may Go without a friend all day;
Then reward your dogs, and pray
Pan to keep you from decay:
So unfold, and then away!
What, not a shepherd stirring? Sure, the grooms
Have found their beds too easy, or the rooms
Filled with such new delight and heat, that they Have both forgot their hungry sheep and day.

Knock, that they may remember what a shame
Sloth and neglect lays on a shepherd's name.

Old Shep. [After knocking at several doors.] It is to little purpose; not a swain

This night hath known his lodging here, or lain
Within these cotes; the woods, or some near town
That is a neighbour to the bordering down,
Hath drawn them thither, 'bout some lusty sport,
Or spiced wassail bowl, to which resort
All the young men and maids of many a cote,
Whilst the trim minstrel strikes his merry note.

Priest. God pardon sin!—Show me the way that leads
To any of their haunts.

Old Shep. This to the meads,
And that down to the woods.

Priest. Then, this for me.
Come, shepherd, let me crave your company. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—The Wood before Clorin's Bower.

CLOPIN and ALEXIS discovered in the bower; at the side of the stage, a hollow tree, in which are CLOE and DAPHNIS.

Clo. Now your thoughts are almost pure,
And your wound begins to cure;
Strive to banish all that's vain,
Lest it should break out again.

Alex. Eternal thanks to thee, thou holy maid!
I find my former wandering thoughts well staid
Through thy wise precepts; and my outward pain
By thy choice herbs is almost gone again:
Thy sex's vice and virtue are revealed
At once; for what one hurt another healed.

Clo. May thy grief more appease!
Relapses are the worst disease.
Take heed how you in thought offend;
So mind and body both will mend.

Enter Satyr, carrying AMORET.

Amo. Be'st thou the wildest creature of the wood,
That bear'st me thus away, drowned in my blood,
And dying, know I cannot injured be;
I am a maid; let that name fight for me.

Sat. Fairest virgin, do not fear
 Me, that doth thy body bear,
 Not to hurt, but healed to be;
 Men are ruder far than we.—
 See, fair goddess, in the wood
 They have let out yet more blood:
 Some savage man hath struck her breast,
 So soft and white, that no wild beast
 Durst have touched, asleep or 'wake;
 So sweet, that adder, newt, or snake,
 Would have lain, from arm to arm,
 On her bosom to be warm
 All a night, and, being hot,
 Gone away, and stung her not.
 Quickly clap herbs to her breast.
 A man, sure, is a kind of beast.

Clo. With spotless hand on spotless breast
 I put these herbs, to give thee rest:
 Which till I heal thee, there will bide,
 If both be pure; if not, off slide.—
 See, it falls off from the wound!
 Shepherdess, thou art not sound,
 Full of lust.

Sat. Who would have thought it?
 So fair a face!

Clo. Why, that hath brought it.

Amo. For aught I know or think, these words my last,
 Yet, Pan so help me as my thoughts are chaste!

Clo. And so may Pan bless this my cure,
 As all my thoughts are just and pure!
 Some uncleanness nigh doth lurk,
 That will not let my medicines work.—
 Satyr, search if thou canst find it.

Sat. Here away methinks I wind it:
 Stronger yet.—Oh, here they be;
 Here, here, in a hollow tree,
 Two fond mortals have I found.

Clo. Bring them out; they are unsound.

Sat. [Bringing out Cloe and Daphnis.] By the fingers thus I wring ye,
 To my goddess thus I bring ye;
 Strife is vain, come gently in.—
 I scented them; they're full of sin.

Clo. Hold, Satyr; take this glass,
Sprinkle over all the place,
Purge the air from lustful breath,
To save this shepherdess from death:
And stand you still whilst I do dress
Her wound, for fear the pain increase.

Sat. From this glass I throw a drop
Of crystal water on the top
Of every grass, on flowers a pair:
Send a fume, and keep the air
Pure and wholesome, sweet and blest,
Till this virgin's wound be drest.

Clo. Satyr, help to bring her in.

Sat. By Pan, I think she hath no sin, [Carrying Amoret into the bower.

She is so light.—Lie on these leaves.
Sleep, that mortal sense deceives,
Crown thine eyes and ease thy pain;
May'st thou soon be well again!

Clo. Satyr, bring the shepherd near;
Try him, if his mind be clear.

Sat. Shepherd, come.

Daph. My thoughts are pure.

Sat. The better trial to endure.

Clo. In this flame his finger thrust,
Which will burn him if he lust;
But if not, away will turn,
As loath unspotted flesh to burn.—

[Satyr applies Daphnis's finger to the taper.

See, it gives back; let him go.

Sat. Farewell, mortal: keep thee so. [Exit Daphnis.

Stay, fair nymph; fly not so fast;
We must try if you be chaste.—
Here's a hand that quakes for fear;
Sure, she will not prove so clear.

Clo. Hold her finger to the flame;
That will yield her praise or shame.

Sat. To her doom she dares not stand,
[Applies Cloe's finger to the taper.

But plucks away her tender hand;
And the taper darting sends
His hot beams at her fingers' ends.—
Oh, thou art foul within, and hast

A mind, if nothing else, unchaste!

Alex. Is not that Cloe? 'Tis my love, 'tis she!

Cloe, fair Cloe!

Cloe. My Alexis!

Alex. He.

Cloe. Let me embrace thee.

Clo. Take her hence,
Lest her sight disturb his sense.

Alex. Take not her; take my life first!

Clo. See, his wound again is burst:
Keep her near, here in the wood,
Till I have stopt these streams of blood.

[Satyr leads off Cloe.]

Soon again he ease shall find,
If I can but still his mind.
This curtain thus I do display,
To keep the piercing air away.

[Draws a curtain before the bower. Scene closes.]

SCENE III.—A Pasture.

Enter Old Shepherd and Priest of Pan.

Priest. Sure, they are lost for ever: 'tis in vain
To find them out with trouble and much pain,
That have a ripe desire and forward will
To fly the company of all but ill.
What shall be counselled now? shall we retire,
Or constant follow still that first desire
We had to find them?

Old Shep. Stay a little while;
For, if the morning's mist do not beguile
My sight with shadows, sure I see a swain;
One of this jolly troop's come back again.

Enter THENOT.

Priest. Dost thou not blush, young shepherd, to be known
Thus without care leaving thy flocks alone,
And following what desire and present blood
Shapes out before thy burning sense for good;
Having forgot what tongue hereafter may
Tell to the world thy falling off, and say
Thou art regardless both of good and shame.

Spurning at virtue and a virtuous name?
 And like a glorious desperate man, that buys
 A poison of much price, by which he dies,
 Dost thou lay out for lust, whose only gain
 Is foul disease, with present age and pain,
 And then a grave? These be the fruits that grow
 In such hot veins, that only beat to know
 Where they may take most ease, and grow ambitious
 Through their own wanton fire and pride delicious.

The. Right holy sir, I have not known this night
 What the smooth face of mirth was, or the sight
 Of any looseness; music, joy, and ease,
 Have been to me as bitter drugs to please
 A stomach lost with weakness, not a game
 That I am skilled at thoroughly: nor a dame,
 Went her tongue smoother than the feet of time,
 Her beauty ever-living like the rhyme
 Our blessèd Tityrus did sing of yore;
 No, were she more enticing than the store
 Of fruitful summer, when the loaden tree
 Bids the faint traveller be bold and free;
 'Twere but to me like thunder 'gainst the bay,
 Whose lightning may enclose, but never stay
 Upon his charmèd branches; such am I
 Against the catching flames of woman's eye.

Priest. Then, wherefore hast thou wandered?

The. 'Twas a vow
 That drew me out last night, which I have now
 Strictly performed, and homewards go to give
 Fresh pasture to my sheep, that they may live.

Priest. 'Tis good to hear you, shepherd, if the heart
 In this well-sounding music bear his part.
 Where have you left the rest?

The. I have not seen,
 Since yesternight we met upon this green
 To fold our flocks up, any of that train;
 Yet have I walked those woods round, and have lain
 All this long night under an agèd tree;
 Yet neither wandering shepherd did I see,
 Or shepherdess; or drew into mine ear
 The sound of living thing, unless it were
 The nightingale, among the thick-leaved spring
 That sits alone in sorrow, and doth sing

Whole nights away in mourning; or the owl,
Or our great enemy, that still doth howl
Against the moon's cold beams.

Priest. Go, and beware
Of after-falling.

The. Father, 'tis my care. [Exit.]

Enter DAPHNIS.

Old Shep. Here comes another straggler; sure I see
A shame in this young shepherd.—Daphnis?

Daph. He.

Priest. Where hast thou left the rest, that should have been Long before this grazing upon the green
Their yet-imprisoned flocks?

Daph. Thou holy man,
Give me a little breathing, till I can
Be able to unfold what I have seen;
Such horror, that the like hath never been Known to the ear of shepherd. Oh, my heart
Labours a double motion to impart
So heavy tidings! You all know the bower
Where the chaste Clorin lives, by whose great power
Sick men and cattle have been often cured;
There lovely Amoret, that was assured
To lusty Perigot, bleeds out her life,
Forced by some iron hand and fatal knife;
And, by her, young Alexis.

Enter AMARILLIS, running.

Amar. If there be
Ever a neighbour-brook or hollow tree,
Receive my body, close me up from lust
That follows at my heels! Be ever just,
Thou god of shepherds, Pan, for her dear sake
That loves the rivers' brinks, and still doth shake
In cold remembrance of thy quick pursuit;
Let me be made a reed, and, ever mute,
Nod to the waters' fall, whilst every blast
Sings through my slender leaves that I was chaste!

Priest. This is a night of wonder.—Amarill,
Be comforted: the holy gods are still Revengeurs of these wrongs.

Amar. Thou blessèd man,
 Honoured upon these plains, and loved of Pan,
 Hear me, and save from endless infamy
 My yet-unblasted flower, virginity!
 By all the garlands that have crowned that head,
 By thy chaste office, and the marriage-bed
 That still is blessed by thee; by a'l the rites
 Due to our god, and by those virgin-lights
 That burn before his altar; let me not Fall from my former state, to gain the blot
 That never shall be purged! I am not now
 That wanton Amarillis: here I vow
 To Heaven, and thee, grave father, if I may
 Scape this unhappy night, to know the day
 A virgin, never after to endure
 The tongues or company of men unpure!
 I hear him come; save me!

Priest. Retire a while
 Behind this bush, till we have known that vile
 Abuser of young maidens. [They retire.]

Enter Sullen Shepherd.

Sull. Shep. Stay thy pace,
 Most lovèd Amarillis; let the chase
 Grow calm and milder; fly me not so fast:
 I fear the pointed brambles have unlaced
 Thy golden buskins. Turn again, and see
 Thy shepherd follow, that is strong and free,
 Able to give thee all content and ease:
 I am not bashful, virgin; I can please
 At first encounter, hug thee in mine arm,
 And give thee many kisses, soft and warm
 As those the sun prints on the smiling cheek
 Of plums or mellow peaches; I am sleek
 And smooth as Neptune when stern Æolus
 Locks up his surly winds, and nimbly thus
 Can show my active youth. Why dost thou fly?
 Remember, Amarillis, it was I
 That killed Alexis for thy sake, and set
 An everlasting hate 'twixt Amoret
 And her belovèd Perigot; 'twas I
 That drowned her in the well, where she must lie

Till time shall leave to be. Then, turn again,
Turn with thy open arms, and clip the swain
That hath performed all this; turn, turn, I say;
I must not be deluded.

Priest. [Coming forward.] Monster, stay!
Thou that art like a canker to the state
Thou liv'st and breath'st in, eating with debate
Through every honest bosom, forcing still
The veins of any that may serve thy will;
Thou that hast offered with a sinful hand
To seize upon this virgin, that doth stand
Yet trembling here!

Sull. Shep. Good holiness, declare
What had the danger been, if being bare
I had embraced her; tell me, by your art,
What coming wonders would that sight impart.

Priest. Lust and a branded soul.

Sull. Shep. Yet, tell me more;
Hath not our mother Nature, for her store
And great encrease, said it is good and just,
And willed that every living creature must Beget his like?

Priest. You're better read than I,
I must confess, in blood and lechery.—
Now to the bower, and bring this beast along,
Where he may suffer penance for his wrong. [Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—Part of the Wood.

Enter PERIGOT, with his hand bloody.

Peri. Here will I wash it in the morning's dew,
Which she on every little grass doth strew
In silver drops against the sun's appear:
'Tis holy water, and will make me clear.
My hand will not be cleansed.—My wrongèd love,
If thy chaste spirit in the air yet move,
Look mildly down on him that yet doth stand
All full of guilt, thy blood upon his hand;
And though I struck thee undeservedly,
Let my revenge on her that injured thee
Make less a fault which I intended not,
And let these dew-drops wash away my spot!—

It will not cleanse. Oh, to what sacred flood
 Shall I resort, to wash away this blood?
 Amidst these trees the holy Clorin dwells,
 In a low cabin of cut boughs, and heals
 All wounds: to her I will myself address,
 And my rash faults repentantly confess;
 Perhaps she'll find a means, by art or prayer,
 To make my hand, with chaste blood stained, fair.
 That done, not far hence, underneath some tree
 I'll have a little cabin built, since she Whom I adored is dead; there will I give Myself to strictness, and, like Clorin, live.

[Exit.

SCENE V.—The Wood before Clorin's Bower.

CLORIN discovered sitting in the Bower, AMORET sitting on one side of her, ALEXIS and CLOE on the other; the Satyr standing by.

Clo. Shepherd, once more your blood is staid:
 Take example by this maid,
 Who is healed ere you be pure;
 So hard it is lewd lust to cure.
 Take heed, then, how you turn your eye
 On this other lustfully.—
 And, shepherdess, take heed lest you
 Move his willing eye thereto:
 Let no wring, nor pinch, nor smile,
 Of yours, his weaker sense beguile.—
 Is your love yet true and chaste,
 And for ever so to last?

Alex. I have forgot all vain desires,
 All looser thoughts, ill-tempered fires:
 True love I find a pleasant fume,
 Whose moderate heat can ne'er consume.

Cloe. And I a new fire feel in me,
 Whose chaste flame is not quenched to be.

Clo. Join your hands with modest touch,
 And for ever keep you such.

Enter PERIGOT.

Peri. Yon is her cabin: thus far off I'll stand,
 And call her forth; for my unhallowed hand

I dare not bring so near yon sacred place.— [Aside.
Clorin, come forth, and do a timely grace
To a poor swain.

Clo. What art thou that dost call?
Clorin is ready to do good to all:
Come near.

Peri. I dare not.

Clo. Satyr, see
Who it is that calls on me.

Sat. [Coming from the bower.] There, at hand, some swain
doth stand,
Stretching out a bloody hand.

Peri. Come, Clorin, bring thy holy waters clear,
To wash my hand.

Clo. [Coming out.] What wonders have been here
To-night! Stretch forth thy hand, young swain;
Wash and rub it, whilst I rain
Holy water.

Peri. Still you pour,
But my hand will never scour.

Clo. Satyr, bring him to the bower:
We will try the sovereign power
Of other waters.

Sat. Mortal, sure,
'Tis the blood of maiden pure
That stains thee so.

The Satyr leads him to the Bower, where, seeing AMORET, he kneels down before her.

Peri. Whate'er thou be,
Be'st thou her sprite, or some divinity,
That in her shape thinks good to walk this grove,
Pardon poor Perigot!

Amo. I am thy love,
Thy Amoret, for evermore thy love:
Strike once more on my naked breast, I'll prove
As constant still. Oh, couldst thou love me yet,
How soon could I my former griefs forget!

Peri. So over-great with joy that you live, now
I am, that no desire of knowing how Doth seize me. Hast thou still power to forgive?

Amo. Whilst thou hast power to love, or I to live:

More welcome now than hadst thou never gone
Astray from me!

Peri. And when thou lov'st alone,
And not I thee, death, or some lingering pain
That's worse, light on me!

Clo. Now your stain
Perhaps will cleanse thee; once again.
See, the blood that erst did stay,
With the water drops away.
All the powers again are pleased,
And with this new knot are appeased.
Join your hands, and rise together:
Pan be blessed that brought you hither!

Enter Priest of Pan and Old Shepherd.

Go back again, whate'er thou art; unless
Smooth maiden-thoughts possess thee, do not press
This hallowed ground.—Go, Satyr, take his hand,
And give him present trial.

Sat. Mortal, stand,
Till by fire I have made known
Whether thou be such a one
That mayst freely tread this place.
Hold thy hand up.—Never was [Applying the Priest's hand to the taper.]
More untainted flesh than this.
Fairest, he is full of bliss.

Clo. Then boldly speak, why dost thou seek this place?

Priest. First, honoured virgin, to behold thy face,
Where all good dwells that is; next, for to try
The truth of late report was given to me,—
Those shepherds that have met with foul mischance
Through much neglect and more ill governance,
Whether the wounds they have may yet endure
The open air, or stay a longer cure;
And lastly, what the doom may be shall light
Upon those guilty wretches, through whose spite
All this confusion fell; for to this place,
Thou holy maiden, have I brought the race
Of these offenders, who have freely told
Both why and by what means they gave this bold
Attempt upon their lives.

Clo. Fume all the ground,

And sprinkle holy water, for unsound
 And foul infection 'gins to fill the air:
 It gathers yet more strongly; take a pair
 [The Satyr fumes the ground, etc.]
 Of censers filled with frankincense and myrrh,
 Together with cold camphire: quickly stir
 Thee, gentle Satyr, for the place begins
 To sweat and labour with th' abhorrèd sins
 Of those offenders: let them not come nigh,
 For full of itching flame and leprosy
 Their very souls are, that the ground goes back,
 And shrinks to feel the sullen weight of black
 And so unheard-of venom.—Hie thee fast,
 Thou holy man, and banish from the chaste
 These manlike monsters; let them never more
 Be known upon these downs, but, long before
 The next sun's rising, put them from the sight
 And memory of every honest wight:
 Be quick in expedition, lest the sores
 Of these weak patients break into new gores.

[Exit Priest of Pan.]

Peri. My dear, dear Amoret, how happy are Those blessèd pairs, in whom a little jar
 Hath bred an everlasting love, too strong
 For time, or steel, or envy to do wrong!
 How do you feel your hurts? Alas, poor heart,
 How much I was abused! Give me the smart,
 For it is justly mine.

Amo. I do believe:
 It is enough, dear friend; leave off to grieve,
 And let us once more, in despite of ill,
 Give hands and hearts again.

Peri. With better will
 Than e'er I went to find in hottest day
 Cool crystal of the fountain, to allay
 My eager thirst. May this band never break!
 Hear us, oh, Heaven!

Amo. Be constant.

Peri. Else Pan wreak

With double vengeance my disloyalty!
 Let me not dare to know the company
 Of men, or any more behold those eyes!

Amo. Thus, shepherd, with a kiss all envy dies.

Re-enter Priest of Pan.

Priest. Bright maid, I have performed your will. The swain
In whom such heat and black rebellions reign
Hath undergone your sentence and disgrace:
Only the maid I have reserved, whose face
Shows much amendment; many a tear doth fall
In sorrow of her fault: great fair, recall
Your heavy doom, in hope of better days,
Which I dare promise; once again upraise
Her heavy spirit, that near drownèd lies
In self-consuming care that never dies.

Clo. I am content to pardon; call her in.—

[Priest of Pan brings in Amarillis.]

The air grows cool again, and doth begin
To purge itself: how bright the day doth show
After this stormy cloud!—Go, Satyr, go,
And with this taper boldly try her hand:
If she be pure and good, and firmly stand
To be so still, we have performed a work
Worthy the gods themselves.

Sat. Come forward, maiden; do not lurk,
Nor hide your face with grief and shame;
Now or never get a name
That may raise thee, and re-cure
All thy life that was impure.
Hold your hand unto the flame;
If thou be'st a perfect dame,
Or hast truly vowed to mend,
This pale fire will be thy friend.—

[Applies her hand to the taper.]

See, the taper hurts her not!
Go thy ways; let never spot
Henceforth seize upon thy blood:
Thank the gods, and still be good.

Clo. Young shepherdess, now you are brought again
To virgin-state, be so, and so remain
To thy last day, unless the faithful love
Of some good shepherd force thee to remove;
Then labour to be true to him, and live
As such a one that ever strives to give
A blessèd memory to after-time;
Be famous for your good, not for your crime.—

Now, holy man, I offer up again
These patients, full of health and free from pain:
Keep them from after-ills; be ever near Unto their actions; teach them how to clear
The tedious way they pass through from suspect;
Keep them from wronging others, or neglect
Of duty in themselves; correct the blood
With thrifty bits and labour: let the flood,
Or the next neighbouring spring, give remedy
To greedy thirst and travail, not the tree
That hangs with wanton clusters; let not wine,
Unless in sacrifice or rites divine,
Be ever known of shepherds; have a care,
Thou man of holy life! Now do not spare
Their faults through much remissness, nor forget
To cherish him whose many pains and sweat
Hath given increase and added to the downs;
Sort all your shepherds from the lazy clowns
That feed their heifers in the budded brooms;
Teach the young maidens strictness, that the grooms
May ever fear to tempt their blowing youth;
Banish all compliment, but single truth,
From every tongue and every shepherd's heart;
Let them still use persuading, but no art.
Thus, holy priest, I wish to thee and these
All the best goods and comforts that may please.

All. And all those blessings Heaven did ever give,
We pray upon this bower may ever live.

Priest. Kneel, every shepherd, while with powerful hand
I bless your after-labours, and the land
You feed your flocks upon. Great Pan defend you
From misfortune, and amend you;
Keep you from those dangers still
That are followed by your will;
Give ye means to know at length,
All your riches, all your strength,
Cannot keep your foot from falling
To lewd lust, that still is calling
At your cottage, till his power
Bring again that golden hour
Of peace and rest to every soul;
May his care of you controul
All diseases, sores, or pain,

That in after-time may reign
 Either in your flocks or you;
 Give ye all affections new,
 New desires, and tempers new,
 That ye may be ever true!
 Now rise, and go; and, as ye pass away,
 Sing to the God of Sheep that happy lay
 That honest Dorus taught ye,—Dorus, he
 That was the soul and god of melody.

[They sing and strew the ground with flowers]

All ye woods, and trees, and bowers,
 All ye virtues and ye powers
 That inhabit in the lakes,
 In the pleasant springs or brakes,
 Move your feet
 To our sound,
 Whilst we greet
 All this ground
 With his honour and his name
 That defends our flocks from blame.
 He is great, and he is just,
 He is ever good, and must
 Thus be honoured. Daffadillies,
 Roses, pinks, and lovèd lilies,
 Let us fling,
 Whilst we sing,
 Ever holy,
 Ever holy,
 Ever honoured, ever young!
 Thus great Pan is ever sung!

[Exeunt all except Clorin and Satyr.]

Sat. Thou divinest, fairest, brightest,
 Thou most powerful maid and whitest,
 Thou most virtuous and most blessèd,
 Eyes of stars, and golden-tressèd
 Like Apollo; tell me, sweetest,
 What new service now is meetest
 For the Satyr? Shall I stray
 In the middle air, and stay
 The sailing rack, or nimbly take Hold by the moon, and gently make Suit to the pale queen of night
 For a beam to give thee light?
 Shall I dive into the sea,
 And bring thee coral, making way
 Through the rising waves that fall
 In snowy fleeces? Dearest, shall

I catch thee wanton fawns, or flies
 Whose woven wings the summer dyes
 Of many colours? get thee fruit,
 Or steal from Heaven old Orpheus' lute?
 All these I'll venture for, and more,
 To do her service all these woods adore.

Clo. No other service, Satyr, but thy watch
 About these thicks, lest harmless people catch
 Mischief or sad mischance.

Sat. Holy virgin, I will dance
 Round about these woods as quick
 As the breaking light, and prick
 Down the lawns and down the vales
 Faster than the windmill-sails.
 So I take my leave, and pray
 All the comforts of the day,
 Such as Phœbus' heat doth send
 On the earth, may still befriend
 Thee and this arbour!

Clo. And to thee
 All my master's love be free!

[Exeunt.]

SCENE.—PARIS.

ACT I

SCENE I.—A Room in La Castre's House.

Enter DE GARD, and a Footboy.

De Ga. Sirrah, you know I have rid hard; stir my horse well,
And let him want no litter.

Boy. I am sure I have run hard;
'Would somebody would walk me, and see me litter'd,
For I think my fellow horse cannot in reason
Desire more rest, nor take up his chamber before me:
But we are the beasts now, and the beasts are our masters.

De Ga. When you have done, step to the ten-crown ordinary——

Boy. With all my heart, sir; for I have a twenty-crown stomach.

De Ga. And there bespeak a dinner.

Boy. [Going.] Yes, sir, presently.

De Ga. For whom, I beseech you, sir?

Boy. For myself, I take it, sir.

De Ga. In truth, you shall not take it; 'tis not meant for you;

There's for your provender. Bespeak a dinner

For Monsieur Mirabel, and his companions;

They'll be in town within this hour. When you have done, sirrah,

Make ready all things at my lodgings, for me,

And wait me there.

Boy. The ten-crown ordinary?

De Ga. Yes, sir, if you have not forgot it.

Boy. I'll forget my feet first:

'Tis the best part of a footman's faith. [Exit Boy.]

De Ga. These youths,

For all they have been in Italy to learn thrift,

And seem to wonder at men's lavish ways,

Yet they cannot rub off old friends, their French itches;

They must meet sometimes to disport their bodies

With good wine, and good women; and good store too.

Let 'em be what they will, they are arm'd at all points,

And then hang saving, let the sea grow high!

This ordinary can fit 'em of all sizes.

They must salute their country with old customs.

Enter LA CASTRE and ORIANA.

Ori. Brother!

De Ga. My dearest sister!

Ori. Welcome, welcome!

Indeed, you are welcome home, most welcome!

De Ga. Thank ye!

You're grown a handsome woman, Oriana:

Blush at your faults. I am wond'rous glad to see you!—

Monsieur La Castre, let not my affection

To my fair sister make me held unmannerly:

I am glad to see you well, to see you lusty,

Good health about you, and in fair company;

Believe me, I am proud—

La Ca. Fair sir, I thank you.

Monsieur De Gard, you are welcome from your journey!

Good men have still good welcome: Give me your hand,
sir.

Once more, you are welcome home! You look still younger.

De Ga. Time has no leisure to look after us;
We wander everywhere; age cannot find us.

La Ca. And how does all?

De Ga. All well, sir, and all lusty.

La Ca. I hope my son be so: I doubt not, sir,
But you have often seen him in your journeys,
And bring me some fair news.

De Ga. Your son is well, sir,
And grown a proper gentleman; he's well, and lusty.
Within this eight hours I took leave of him,
And over-hied him, having some slight business
That forced me out o' th' way: I can assure you,
He will be here to-night.

La Ca. You make me glad, sir,
For, o' my faith, I almost long to see him!
Methinks he has been away——

De Ga. 'Tis but your tenderness;
What are three years? a love-sick wench will allow it.
His friends, that went out with him, are come back
too,
Belleur, and young Pinac: He bid me say little,
Because he means to be his own glad messenger.

La Ca. I thank you for this news, sir. He shall be welcome,
And his friends too: Indeed, I thank you heartily!
And how (for I dare say you will not flatter him)
Has Italy wrought on him? has he mew'd yet
His wild fantastic toys? They say, that climate
Is a great purger of those humorous fluxes.
How is he improved, I pray you?

De Ga. No doubt, sir, well.
He has borne himself a full and noble gentleman;
To speak him further is beyond my charter.

La Ca. I am glad to hear so much good. Come, I see
You long to enjoy your sister; yet I must entreat you,
Before I go, to sup with me to-night,
And must not be denied.

De Ga. I am your servant.

La Ca. Where you shall meet fair, merry, and noble company;
My neighbour Nantolet; and his two fair daughters.

De Ga. Your supper's season'd well, sir: I shall wait upon you.

La Ca. Till then I'll leave ye: And you are once more welcome! [Exit.

De Ga. I thank you, noble sir!—Now, Oriana,
How have ye done since I went? have ye had your health well?

And your mind free?

Ori. You see, I am not bated;
Merry, and eat my meat.

De Ga. A good preservative.
And how have you been used? You know, Oriana,
Upon my going out, at your request,
I left your portion in La Castre's hands,
The main means you must stick to: For that reason,
And 'tis no little one, I ask you, sister,
With what humanity he entertains you,
And how you find his courtesy?

Ori. Most ready:
I can assure you, sir, I am used most nobly.

De Ga. I am glad to hear it: But, I pr'ythee tell me,
And tell me true, what end had you, Oriana,
In trusting your money here? He is no kinsman,
Nor any tie upon him of a guardian;
Nor dare I think you doubt my prodigality.

Ori. No, certain, sir; none of all this provoked me;
Another private reason.

De Ga. 'Tis not private,
Nor carried so; 'tis common, my fair sister;
Your love to Mirabel: Your blushes tell it.
'Tis too much known, and spoken of too largely;
And with no little shame I wonder at it.

Ori. Is it a shame to love?

De Ga. To love indiscreetly:
A virgin should be tender of her honour,
Close, and secure.

Ori. I am as close as can be,
And stand upon as strong and honest guards too;
Unless this warlike age need a portcullis.
Yet, I confess, I love him.

De Ga. Hear the people.

Ori. Now I say, hang the people! he that dares Believe what they say, dares be mad, and give
His mother, nay, his own wife, up to rumour.
All grounds of truth, they build on, is a tavern;

And their best censure's sack, sack in abundance;
For as they drink, they think: They ne'er speak
modestly,

Unless the wine be poor, or they want money.
Believe them? Believe Amadis de Gaul,
The Knight o' th' Sun, or Palmerin of England;
For these, to them, are modest and true stories!
Pray understand me; if their tongues be truth,
As if in vino veritas be an oracle,
What woman is, or has been ever, honest?
Give 'em but ten round cups, they'll swear Lucretia
Died not for want of power to resist Tarquin,
But want of pleasure that he stay'd no longer:
And Portia, that was famous for her piety
To her loved lord, they'll face ye out, died o' th' pox.

De Ga. Well, there is something, sister.

Ori. If there be, brother,
'Tis none of their things; 'tis not yet so monstrous:
My thing is marriage; and, at his return,
I hope to put their squint eyes right again.

De Ga. Marriage? 'Tis true, his father is a rich man,
Rich both in land and money; he his heir,
A young and handsome man, I must confess too;
But of such qualities, and such wild flings,
Such admirable imperfections, sister,
(For all his travel, and bought experience)
I should be loth to own him for my brother.
Methinks, a rich mind in a state indifferent
Would prove the better fortune.

Ori. If he be wild.
The reclaiming him to good and honest, brother,
Will make much for my honour; which, if I prosper,
Shall be the study of my love, and life too.

De Ga. You say well; 'would he thought as well, and loved too!

He marry? he'll be hang'd first; he knows no more
What the conditions and the ties of love are,
The honest purposes and grounds of marriage,
Nor will know, nor be ever brought to endeavour,
Than I do how to build a church: He was ever
A loose and strong defier of all order;
His loves are wanderers, they knock at each door,
And taste each dish, but are no residents.

Or say, he may be brought to think of marriage,
 (As 'twill be no small labour) thy hopes are strangers:
 I know, there is a labour'd match now follow'd,
 Now at this time, for which he was sent for home too:
 Be not abused; Nantolet has two fair daughters,
 And he must take his choice.

Ori. Let him take freely:

For all this I despair not; my mind tells me
 That I, and only I, must make him perfect;
 And in that hope I rest.

De Ga. Since you're so confident,

Prosper your hope! I'll be no adversary;
 Keep yourself fair and right, he shall not wrong you.

Ori. When I forget my virtue, no man know me! [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—A Street before the same House.

Enter MIRABEL, PINAC, BELLEUR, and Servants.

Mir. Welcome to Paris, once more, gentlemen!

We have had a merry and a lusty ordinary,
 And wine, and good meat, and a bouncing reckoning!
 And let it go for once; 'tis a good physic:
 Only the wenches are not for my diet;
 They are too lean and thin, their embraces brawn-
 fallen.

Give me the plump Venetian, fat, and lusty,
 That meets me soft and supple; smiles upon me,
 As if a cup of full wine leap'd to kiss me;
 These slight things I affect not.

Pinac. They are ill-built;

Pin-buttock'd, like your dainty Barbaries,
 And weak i' th' pasterns; they'll endure no hardness.

Mir. There's nothing good or handsome bred amongst us:

Till we are travell'd, and live abroad, we are coxcombs.
 You talk of France; a slight unseason'd country,
 Abundance of gross food, which makes us blockheads!
 We are fair set out indeed, and so are fore-horses:
 Men say, we are great courtiers; men abuse us!
 We are wise, and valiant too; non credo, signor!
 Our women the best linguists; they are parrots;
 O' this side the Alps they're nothing but mere drolleries.
 Ha! Roma la Santa, Italy for my money!
 Their policies, their customs, their frugalities,

Their courtesies so open, yet so reserved too,
As, when you think you are known best, you're a stranger;

Their very pick-teeth speak more man than we do,
And season of more salt!

Pinac. 'Tis a brave country;

Not pester'd with your stubborn precise puppies,
That turn all useful and allow'd contentments
To scabs and scruples: Hang 'em, capon-worshippers!

Bel. I like that freedom well, and like their women too,
And would fain do as others do; but I'm so bashful,
So naturally an ass——Look ye, I can look upon 'em,
And very willingly I go to see 'em,
(There's no man willinger) and I can kiss 'em,
And make a shift——

Mir. But if they chance to flout you,
Or say, "You are too bold! fy, sir, remember!
I pray, sit further off——"

Bel. 'Tis true—I am humbled,
I am gone; I confess ingenuously, I am silenced;
The spirit of amber cannot force me answer.

Pinac. Then would I sing and dance——

Bel. You have wherewithal, sir.

Pinac. And charge her up again.

Bel. I can be hang'd first;
Yet, where I fasten well, I am a tyrant.

Mir. Why, thou dar'st fight?

Bel. Yes, certainly I dare fight,
And fight with any man at any weapon;
'Would the other were no more! but a pox on't!
When I am sometimes in my height of hope,
And reasonable valiant that way, my heart harden'd,
Some scornful jest or other chops between me
And my desire: What would you have me to do then, gentlemen?

Mir. Belleur, you must be bolder: Travel three years,
And bring home such a baby to betray you
As bashfulness? a great fellow, and a soldier?

Bel. You have the gift of impudence; be thankful;
Every man has not the like talent. I will study,
And if it may be reveal'd to me——

Mir. Learn of me,
And of Pinac: No doubt, you'll find employment;

Ladies will look for courtship.

Pinac. 'Tis but fleshing,

But standing one good brunt or two. Hast thou any mind to marriage?

We'll provide thee some soft-natur'd wench, that's dumb too.

Mir. Or an old woman that cannot refuse thee in charity.

Bel. A dumb woman, or an old woman, that were eager,
And cared not for discourse, I were excellent at.

Mir. You must now put on boldness (there's no avoiding it)
And stand all hazards, fly at all games bravely;
They'll say, you went out like an ox, and return'd like an ass else.

Bel. I shall make danger, sure.

Mir. I am sent for home now,
I know it is to marry; but my father shall pardon me:
Although it be a weighty ceremony,
And may concern me hereafter in my gravity,
I will not lose the freedom of a traveller;
A new strong lusty bark cannot ride at one anchor.
Shall I make divers suits to show to the same eyes?
'Tis dull and home-spun! study several pleasures,
And want employments for 'em? I'll be hang'd first!
Tie me to one smock? make my travels fruitless?
I'll none of that; for every fresh behaviour,
By your leave, father, I must have a fresh mistress,
And a fresh favour too.

Bel. I like that passingly;
As many as you will, so they be willing,
Willing, and gentle, gentle.

Pinac. There's no reason
A gentleman, and a traveller, should be clapt up,
(For 'tis a kind of bilboes to be married)
Before he manifest to the world his good parts:
Tug ever, like a rascal, at one oar?
Give me the Italian liberty!

Mir. That I study,
And that I will enjoy. Come, go in, gentlemen;
There mark how I behave myself, and follow.

[Exeunt.

SCENE III.—A Room in La Castre's House.

Enter LA CASTRE, NANTOLET, LUGIER, ROSALURA, and LILLIA BIANCA.

La Ca. You and your beauteous daughters are most welcome!
Beshrew my blood they are fair ones!—Welcome,
beauties,
Welcome, sweet birds!

Nant. They are bound much to your courtesies.

La Ca. I hope we shall be nearer acquainted.

Nant. That's my hope too;

For, certain, sir, I much desire your alliance.
You see 'em; they are no gypsies; for their breeding,
It has not been so coarse, but they are able
To rank themselves with women of fair fashion.
Indeed, they have been trained well.

Lug. Thank me!

Nant. Fit for the heirs of that state I shall leave 'em;
To say more, is to sell 'em. They say, your son,
Now he has travell'd, must be wond'rous curious
And choice in what he takes; these are no coarse ones.
Sir, here's a merry wench—let him look to himself;
All heart, i'faith!—may chance to startle him;
For all his care and travell'd caution,
May creep into his eye: If he love gravity,
Affect a solemn face, there's one will fit him.

La Ca. So young and so demure?

Nant. She is my daughter,
Else I would tell you, sir, she is a mistress
Both of those manners, and that modesty,
You would wonder at: She is no often-speaker,
But, when she does, she speaks well; nor no reveller,
Yet she can dance, and has studied the court elements,
And sings, as some say, handsomely; if a woman,
With the decency of her sex, may be a scholar,
I can assure you, sir, she understands too.

La Ca. These are fit garments, sir.

Lug. Thank them that cut 'em!

Yes, they are handsome women, they have handsome parts too,

Pretty becoming parts.

La Ca. 'Tis like they have, sir.

Lug. Yes, yes, and handsome education they have had too,
Had it abundantly; they need not blush at it:
I taught it, I'll avouch it.

La Ca. You say well, sir.

Lug. I know what I say, sir, and I say but right, sir:
I am no trumpet of their commendations
Before their father; else I should say farther.

La Ca. 'Pray you, what's this gentleman?

Nant. One that lives with me, sir;
A man well bred and learn'd, but blunt and bitter;
Yet it offends no wise man; I take pleasure in't:
Many fair gifts he has, in some of which,
That lie most easy to their understandings,
He has handsomely bred up my girls, I thank him.

Lug. I have put it to 'em, that's my part, I have urged it;
It seems, they are of years now to take hold on't.

Nant. He's wond'rous blunt.

La Ca. By my faith, I was afraid of him;
Does he not fall out with the gentlewomen sometimes?

Nant. No, no; he's that way moderate and discreet, sir.

Ros. If he did, we should be too hard for him.

Lug. Well said, sulphur!

Too hard for thy husband's head, if he wear not armour.

Nant. Many of these bickerings, sir.

La Ca. I am glad, they are no oracles!
Sure as I live, he beats them, he's so puissant.

Enter MIRABEL, PINAC, BELLEUR, DE GARD, and ORIANA.

Ori. Well, if you do forget——

Mir. Pr'ythee, hold thy peace!

I know thou art a pretty wench; I know thou lov'st me;
Preserve it till we have a fit time to discourse on't,
And a fit place; I'll ease my heart, I warrant thee;
Thou seest, I have much to do now.

Ori. I am answer'd, sir:

With me you shall have nothing on these conditions.

De Ga. Your father and your friends.

La Ca. You are welcome home, sir!

'Bless you, you are very welcome! 'Pray know this gentleman,
And these fair ladies.

Nant. Monsieur Mirabel,

I am much affected with your fair return, sir;
You bring a general joy.

Mir. I bring you service,

And these bright beauties, sir.

Nant. Welcome home, gentlemen!

Welcome with all my heart!

Bel. Pinac. We thank you, sir.

La Ca. Your friends will have their share too.

Bel. Sir, we hope

They'll look upon us, though we show like strangers.

Nant. Monsieur De Gard, I must salute you also,

And this fair gentlewoman: you are welcome from your travel too!

All welcome, all! [La Castre and Mirabel speak apart.]

De Ga. We render you our loves, sir,

The best wealth we bring home. By your favours,
beauties!—

One of these two. You know my meaning.

Ori. Well, sir;

They are fair and handsome, I must needs confess it,

And, let it prove the worst, I shall live after it:

Whilst I have meat and drink, love cannot starve me;

For, if I die o' th' first fit, I am unhappy,

And worthy to be buried with my heels upward.

Mir. To marry, sir?

La Ca. You know, I am an old man,

And every hour declining to my grave,

One foot already in; more sons I have not,

Nor more I dare not seek whilst you are worthy;

In you lies all my hope, and all my name,

The making good or wretched of my memory;

The safety of my state.

Mir. And you have provided,

Out of this tenderness, these handsome gentlewomen,

Daughters to this rich man, to take my choice of?

La Ca. I have, dear son.

Mir. 'Tis true, you are old, and feeble;

'Would you were young again, and in full vigour!

I love a bounteous father's life, a long one;

I am none of those, that, when they shoot to ripeness,

Do what they can to break the boughs they grew on;

I wish you many years, and many riches,

And pleasures to enjoy 'em: But for marriage,
I neither yet believe in't, nor affect it,
Nor think it fit.

La Ca. You'll render me your reasons?

Mir. Yes, sir, both short and pithy, and these they are:
You would have me marry a maid?

La Ca. A maid? what else?

Mir. Yes, there be things called widows, dead men's wills,
I never loved to prove those; nor never long'd yet
To be buried alive in another man's cold monument.
And there be maids appearing, and maids being:
The appearing are fantastic things, mere shadows;
And, if you mark 'em well, they want their heads too;
Only the world, to cozen misty eyes,
Has clapt 'em on new faces. The maids being
A man may venture on, if he be so mad to marry,
If he have neither fear before his eyes, nor fortune;
And let him take heed how he gather these too;
For look you, father, they are just like melons,
Musk-melons are the emblems of these maids;
Now they are ripe, now cut 'em they taste pleasantly,
And are a dainty fruit, digested easily;
Neglect this present time, and come to-morrow,
They are so ripe, they are rotten—gone! their sweetness
Run into humour, and their taste to surfeit!

La Ca. Why, these are now ripe, son.

Mir. I'll try them presently,
And, if I like their taste——

La Ca. 'Pray you please yourself, sir.

Mir. That liberty is my due, and I'll maintain it.—
Lady, what think you of a handsome man now?

Ros. A wholesome too, sir?

Mir. That's as you make your bargain.
A handsome, wholesome man then, and a kind man,
To cheer your heart up, to rejoice you, lady?

Ros. Yes, sir, I love rejoicing.

Mir. To lie close to you?
Close as a cockle? keep the cold nights from you?

Ros. That will be look'd for too; our bodies ask it.

Mir. And get two boys at every birth?

Ros. That's nothing;
I have known a cobbler do it, a poor thin cobbler,
A cobbler out of mouldy cheese perform it,

Cabbage, and coarse black thread; methinks, a gentleman

Should take foul scorn to have an awl out-name him.

Two at a birth? Why, every house-dove has it:

That man that feeds well, promises as well too,

I should expect indeed something of worth from.

You talk of two?

Mir. She would have me get two dozen,
Like buttons at a birth.

Ros. You love to brag, sir;
If you proclaim these offers at your marriage,
(You are a pretty-timber'd man; take heed!)
They may be taken hold of, and expected,
Yes, if not hoped for at a higher rate too.

Mir. I will take heed, and thank you for your counsel.—
Father, what think you?

La Ca. 'Tis a merry gentlewoman;
Will make, no doubt, a good wife.

Mir. Not for me:
I marry her, and, happily, get nothing;
In what a state am I then, father? I shall suffer,
For anything I hear to th' contrary, more majorum;
I were as sure to be a cuckold, father,
A gentleman of antler——

La Ca. Away, away, fool!

Mir. As I am sure to fail her expectation.
I had rather get the pox than get her babies!

La Ca. You are much to blame! If this do not affect you,
Pray try the other; she's of a more demure way.

Bel. That I had but the audacity to talk thus! [Aside.
I love that plain-spoken gentlewoman admirably;
And, certain, I could go as near to please her,
If down-right doing——She has a perilous countenance!
If I could meet one that would believe me,
And take my honest meaning without circumstance——

Mir. You shall have your will, sir; I will try the other;
But 'twill be to small use.—I hope, fair lady
(For, methinks, in your eyes, I see more mercy),
You will enjoin your lover a less penance;
And though I'll promise much, as men are liberal,
And vow an ample sacrifice of service,
Yet your discretion, and your tenderness,
And thriftiness in love, good huswife's carefulness

To keep the stock entire——

Lil. Good sir, speak louder,
That these may witness too, you talk of nothing:
I should be loth to bear the burthen
Of so much indiscretion.

Mir. Hark ye, hark ye!
Ods-bobs, you are angry, lady!

Lil. Angry? no, sir;
I never own'd an anger to lose poorly.

Mir. But you can love, for all this; and delight too,
For all your set austerity, to hear
Of a good husband, lady?

Lil. You say true, sir;
For, by my troth, I have heard of none these ten years,
They are so rare; and there are so many, sir,
So many longing women on their knees too,
That pray the dropping-down of these good husbands—
The dropping-down from Heaven; for they are not bred
here——

That you may guess at all my hope, but hearing——

Mir. Why may not I be one?

Lil. You were near 'em once, sir,
When ye came o'er the Alps; those are near Heaven:
But since you miss'd that happiness, there's no hope of you.

Mir. Can ye love a man?

Lil. Yes, if the man be lovely;
That is, be honest, modest. I would have him valiant,
His anger slow, but certain for his honour;
Travell'd he should be, but through himself exactly,
For 'tis fairer to know manners well than countries;
He must be no vain talker, nor no lover
To hear himself talk; they are brags of a wanderer,
Of one finds no retreat for fair behaviour.
Would you learn more?

Mir. Yes.

Lil. Learn to hold your peace, then:
Fond girls are got with tongues, women with tempers.

Mir. Women, with I know what; but let that vanish:
Go thy way, good wife Bias! Sure thy husband
Must have a strong philosopher's stone, he will ne'er
please thee else.
Here's a starcht piece of austerity!—Do you hear, father?

Do you hear this moral lecture?

La Ca. Yes, and like it.

Mir. Why, there's your judgment now; there's an old bolt shot!

This thing must have the strangest observation
(Do you mark me, father?) when she is married once,
The strangest custom, too, of admiration
On all she does and speaks, 'twill be past sufferance;
I must not lie with her in common language,
Nor cry, "Have at thee, Kate!" I shall be hiss'd then;
Nor eat my meat without the sauce of sentences,
Your powder'd beef and problems, a rare diet!
My first son monsieur Aristotle, I know it,
Great master of the metaphysicks, or so;
The second, Solon, and the best law-setter;
And I must look Egyptian god-fathers,
Which will be no small trouble: My eldest daughter
Sappho, or such a fiddling kind of poetess,
And brought up, invitâ Minerva, at her needle;
My dogs must look their names too, and all Spartan,
Lelaps, Melampus; no more Fox and Baudiface.
I married to a sullen set of sentences?
To one that weighs her words and her behaviours
In the gold weights of discretion! I'll be hang'd first.

La Ca. Pr'ythee reclaim thyself.

Mir. Pray ye, give me time then:

If they can set me anything to play at,
That seems fit for a gamester, have at the fairest!
Till then, see more and try more!

La Ca. Take your time then;

I'll bar you no fair liberty.—Come, gentlemen;
And, ladies, come; to all, once more, a welcome!
And now let's in to supper. [Exit.]

Mir. How dost like 'em?

Pinac. They are fair enough, but of so strange behaviours——

Mir. Too strange for me: I must have those have mettle,
And mettle to my mind. Come, let's be merry.

Bel. Bless me from this woman! I would stand the cannon,
Before ten words of hers.

De Ga. Do you find him now?

Do you think he will be ever firm?

Ori. I fear not. [Exeunt.]

ACT II

SCENE I.—A Street.

Enter MIRABEL, PINAC, and BELLEUR.

Mir. Ne'er tell me of this happiness; 'tis nothing;
The state they bring with being sought-to, scurvy!
I had rather make mine own play, and I will do.
My happiness is in mine own content,
And the despising of such glorious trifles,
As I have done a thousand more. For my humour,
Give me a good free fellow, that sticks to me,
A jovial fair companion; there's a beauty!
For women, I can have too many of them;
Good women too, as the age reckons 'em,
More than I have employment for.

Pinac. You're happy.

Mir. My only fear is that I must be forced,
Against my nature, to conceal myself:
Health and an able body are two jewels.

Pinac. If either of these two women were offer'd to me now,
I would think otherwise, and do accordingly;
Yes, and recant my heresies, I would, sir,
And be more tender of opinion,
And put a little of my travell'd liberty
Out of the way, and look upon 'em seriously.
Methinks, this grave-carried wench——

Bel. Methinks, the other,
The home-spoken gentlewoman, that desires to be fruitful,
That treats of the full manage of the matter
(For there lies all my aim), that wench, methinks,
If I were but well set on, for she is affable,
If I were but hounded right, and one to teach me:
She speaks to th' matter, and comes home to th' point!
Now do I know I have such a body to please her,
As all the kingdom cannot fit her with, I am sure on't,
If I could but talk myself into her favour.

Mir. That's easily done.

Bel. That's easily said; 'would 'twere done!
You should see then how I would lay about me.
If I were virtuous, it would never grieve me,

Or anything that might justify my modesty ;
 But when my nature is prone to do a charity,
 And my calf's tongue will not help me——

Mir. Will you go to 'em?

They cannot but take it courteously.

Pinac. I'll do my part,

Though I am sure 'twill be the hardest I e'er play'd yet ;
 A way I never tried too, which will stagger me ;
 And, if it do not shame me, I am happy.

Mir. Win 'em, and wear 'em ; I give up my interest.

Pinac. What say you, monsieur Belleur?

Bel. 'Would I could say,

Or sing, or anything that were but handsome !
 I would be with her presently !

Pinac. Yours is no venture ;

A merry, ready wench.

Bel. A vengeance squibber !

She'll fleer me out of faith too.

Mir. I'll be near thee ;

Pluck up thy heart ; I'll second thee at all brunts.
 Be angry, if she abuse thee, and beat her a little ;
 Some women are won that way.

Bel. Pray be quiet,

And let me think : I am resolved to go on ;
 But how I shall get off again——

Mir. I am persuaded

Thou wilt so please her, she'll go near to ravish thee.

Bel. I would 'twere come to that once ! Let me pray a little.

Mir. Now for thine honour, Pinac ! Board me this modesty,
 Warm but this frozen snow-ball, 'twill be a conquest
 (Although I know thou art a fortunate wencher,
 And hast done rarely in thy days) above all thy ventures.

Bel. You will be ever near ?

Mir. At all necessities ;

And take thee off, and set thee on again, boy,
 And cherish thee, and stroke thee.

Bel. Help me out too ;

For I know I shall stick i' th' mire. If ye see us close
 once,

Be gone, and leave me to my fortune, suddenly,
 For I am then determined to do wonders.

Farewell, and fling an old shoe. How my heart throbs !
 Would I were drunk ! Farewell, Pinac ! Heaven send us

A joyful and a merry meeting, man!

Pinac. Farewell,

And cheer thy heart up! and remember, Belleur,
They are but women.

Bel. I had rather they were lions.

Mir. About it; I'll be with you instantly.—

[Exeunt Belleur and Pinac.]

Enter ORIANA.

Shall I ne'er be at rest? no peace of conscience?
No quiet for these creatures? am I ordain'd
To be devour'd quick by these she-cannibals?
Here's another they call handsome; I care not for her,
I ne'er look after her: When I am half tipp'd,
It may be I should turn her, and peruse her;
Or, in my want of women, I might call for her;
But to be haunted when I have no fancy,
No maw to th' matter——Now! why do you follow me?

Ori. I hope, sir, 'tis no blemish to my virtue:
Nor need you, out of scruple, ask that question,
If you remember you, before you travel,
The contract you tied to me: 'Tis my love, sir,
That makes me seek you, to confirm your memory;
And that being fair and good, I cannot suffer.
I come to give you thanks too.

Mir. For what, pr'ythee?

Ori. For that fair piece of honesty you show'd, sir,
That constant nobleness.

Mir. How? for I am short-headed.

Ori. I'll tell ye then; for refusing that free offer
Of monsieur Nantolet's, those handsome beauties,
Those two prime ladies, that might well have prest ye
If not to have broken, yet to have bow'd your promise.
I know it was for my sake, for your faith sake,
You slipt 'em off; your honesty compell'd ye;
And let me tell ye, sir, it show'd most handsomely.

Mir. And let me tell thee, there was no such matter;
Nothing intended that way, of that nature:
I have more to do with my honesty than to fool it,
Or venture it in such leak barks as women.
I put 'em off because I loved 'em not,
Because they are too queasy for my temper,
And not for thy sake, nor the contract sake,

Nor vows nor oaths; I have made a thousand of 'em;
They are things indifferent, whether kept or broken;
Mere venial slips, that grows not near the conscience;
Nothing concerns those tender parts; they are trifles:
For, as I think, there was never man yet hoped for Either constancy or secrecy from a woman,
Unless it were an ass ordain'd for sufferance;
Nor to contract with such can be a tial!
So let them know again; for 'tis a justice,
And a main point of civil policy,
Whate'er we say or swear, they being reprobates,
Out of the state of faith, we are clear of all sides,
And 'tis a curious blindness to believe us.

Ori. You do not mean this, sure?

Mir. Yes, sure, and certain;
And hold it positively, as a principle,
As ye are strange things, and made of strange fires and fluxes,
So we are allow'd as strange ways to obtain ye,
But not to hold; we are all created errant.

Ori. You told me other tales.

Mir. I not deny it;
I have tales of all sorts for all sorts of women,
And protestations likewise of all sizes,
As they have vanities to make us coxcombs:
If I obtain a good turn, so it is;
I am thankful for it; if I be made an ass,
The 'mends are in mine own hands, or the surgeon's,
And there's an end on't.

Ori. Do not you love me then?

Mir. As I love others; heartily I love thee;
When I am high and lusty, I love thee cruelly:
After I have made a plenteous meal, and satisfied
My senses with all delicates, come to me,
And thou shalt see how I love thee.

Ori. Will not you marry me?

Mir. No, certain, no, for anything I know yet:
I must not lose my liberty, dear lady,
And, like a wanton slave, cry for more shackles.
What should I marry for? do I want anything?
Am I an inch the farther from my pleasure?
Why should I be at charge to keep a wife of mine own,
When other honest married men's will ease me,

And thank me too, and be beholding to me?
Thou think'st I am mad for a maidenhead; thou art
cozen'd:

Or, if I were addicted to that diet,
Can you tell me where I should have one? Thou art eighteen now,
And if thou hast thy maidenhead yet extant,
Sure, 'tis as big as cods-head; and those grave dishes
I never love to deal withal. Dost thou see this book here?

Look over all these ranks; all these are women,
Maids, and pretenders to maidenheads; these are my conquests;

All these I swore to marry, as I swore to thee,
With the same reservation, and most righteously:
Which I need not have done neither; for, alas, they made no scruple,

And I enjoyed 'em at my will, and left 'em:
Some of 'em are married since, and were as pure maids
again,

Nay, o' my conscience, better than they were bred for;
The rest, fine sober women.

Ori. Are you not ashamed, sir?

Mir. No, by my troth, sir; there's no shame belongs to it;
I hold it as commendable to be wealthy in pleasure,
As others do in rotten sheep and pasture.

Enter DE GARD.

Ori. Are all my hopes come to this? Is there no faith,
No troth, nor modesty, in men? [Weeps.]

De Ga. How now, sister?
Why weeping thus? Did I not prophesy?
Come, tell me why——

Ori. I am not well; pray ye pardon me. [Exit.]

De Ga. Now, monsieur Mirabel, what ails my sister?
You have been playing the wag with her.

Mir. As I take it,
She is crying for a cod-piece. Is she gone?
Lord, what an age is this! I was calling for ye;
For, as I live, I thought she would have ravish'd me.

De Ga. You are merry, sir.

Mir. Thou know'st this book, De Gard, this inventory?

De Ga. The debt-book of your mistresses; I remember it.

Mir. Why, this was it that anger'd her; she was stark mad
She found not her name here; and cried down-right,
Because I would not pity her immediately,
And put her in my list.

De Ga. Sure she had more modesty.

Mir. Their modesty is anger to be over-done;
They'll quarrel sooner for precedence here,
And take it in more dudgeon to be slighted,
Than they will in public meetings; 'tis their natures:
And, alas, I have so many to dispatch yet,
And to provide myself for my affairs too,
That, in good faith——

De Ga. Be not too glorious foolish;
Sum not your travels up with vanities;
It ill becomes your expectation!
Temper your speech, sir! Whether your loose story
Be true or false (for you are so free, I fear it)
Name not my sister in't, I must not hear it;
Upon your danger, name her not! I hold her
A gentlewoman of those happy parts and carriage,
A good man's tongue may be right proud to speak her.

Mir. Your sister, sir? do ye blench at that? do ye cavil?
Do ye hold her such a piece she may not be play'd withal?

I have had an hundred handsomer and nobler,
Have sued to me too, for such a courtesy;
Your sister comes i' th' rear. Since ye are so angry,
And hold your sister such a strong Recusant,
I tell ye, I may do it; and, it may be, will too;
It may be, have too; there's my free confession:
Work upon that now!

De Ga. If I thought ye had, I would work,
And work such stubborn work should make your heart ache!

But I believe ye, as I ever knew ye,
A glorious talker, and a legend-maker
Of idle tales, and trifles; a depraver
Of your own truth: their honours fly about ye!
And so I take my leave; but with this caution,
Your sword be surer than your tongue; you'll smart else.

Mir. I laugh at thee, so little I respect thee!
And I'll talk louder, and despise thy sister;
Set up a chamber-maid that shall out-shine her,

And carry her in my coach too, and that will kill her.

Go, get thy rents up, go!

De Ga. You are a fine gentleman! [Exit.]

Mir. Now, have at my two youths! I'll see how they do;
How they behave themselves; and then I'll study
What wench shall love me next, and when I'll lose her.
[Exit.]

SCENE II.—A Hall in La Castre's House.

Enter PINAC and a Servant.

Pinac. Art thou her servant, say'st thou?

Serv. Her poor creature;
But servant to her horse, sir.

Pinac. Canst thou show me
The way to her chamber, or where I may conveniently
See her, or come to talk to her?

Serv. That I can, sir;
But the question is, whether I will or no.

Pinac. Why, I'll content thee.

Serv. Why, I'll content thee then; now you come to me.

Pinac. There's for your diligence. [Gives money.]

Serv. There's her chamber, sir,
And this way she comes out; stand you but here, sir,
You have her at your prospect, or your pleasure.

Pinac. Is she not very angry?

Serv. You'll find that quickly:
May be she'll call you saucy, scurvy fellow,
Or some such familiar name; may be she knows you,
And will fling a piss-pot at you, or a pantofle,
According as you are in acquaintance: If she like you,
May be she'll look upon you; may be no;
And two months hence call for you.

Pinac. This is fine.
She is monstrous proud then?

Serv. She is a little haughty;
Of a small body, she has a mind well mounted.
Can you speak Greek?

Pinac. No, certain.

Serv. Get you gone then!—
And talk of stars, and firmaments, and fire-drakes?
Do you remember who was Adam's schoolmaster,

And who taught Eve to spin? She knows all these,
And will run you over the beginning o' th' world
As familiar as a fiddler.

Can you sit seven hours together, and say nothing?
Which she will do, and, when she speaks, speak oracles,
Speak things that no man understands, nor herself neither.

Pinac. Thou mak'st me wonder!

Serv. Can you smile?

Pinac. Yes, willingly;

For naturally I bear a mirth about me.

Serv. She'll ne'er endure you then; she's never merry;

If she see one laugh, she'll swoon past aquæ vitæ.

Never come near her, sir; if you chance to venture,

And talk not like a doctor, you are damn'd too.

I have told you enough for your crown, and so good speed you! [Exit.

Pinac. I have a pretty task if she be thus curious,

As, sure, it seems she is! If I fall off now,

I shall be laugh'd at fearfully; if I go forward,

I can but be abused, and that I look for;

And yet I may hit right, but 'tis unlikely.

Stay! in what mood and figure shall I attempt her?

A careless way? No, no, that will not waken her;

Besides, her gravity will give me line still,

And let me lose myself; yet this way often

Has hit, and handsomely. A wanton method?

Ay, if she give it leave to sink into her consideration:

But there's the doubt: If it but stir her blood once,

And creep into the crannies of her fancy,

Set her a-gog—But if she chance to slight it,

And by the power of her modesty fling it back,

I shall appear the arrant'st rascal to her,

The most licentious knave—for I shall talk lewdly.

To bear myself austerely? rate my words?

And fling a general gravity about me,

As if I meant to give laws? But this I cannot do,

This is a way above my understanding:

Or, if I could, 'tis odds she'll think I mock her;

For serious and sad things are ever still

Suspicious. Well, I'll say something:

But learning I have none, and less good manners,

Especially for ladies. Well; I'll set my best face.

I hear some coming. This is the first woman
I ever fear'd yet, the first face that shakes me.

[Stands apart.]

Enter LILLIA and PETELLA.

Lit. Give me my hat, Petella; take this veil off,
This sullen cloud; it darkens my delights.
Come, wench, be free, and let the music warble;
Play me some lusty measure. [Music.]

Pinac. This is she, sure,
The very same I saw, the very woman,
The gravity I wonder'd at. Stay, stay;
Let me be sure. Ne'er trust me, but she danceth!
Summer is in her face now, and she skippeth.
I'll go a little nearer.

Lil. Quicker time, fellows!
I cannot find my legs yet. Now, Petella!

Enter MIRABEL.

Pinac. I am amazed! I am founder'd in my fancy!

Mir. Ha! say you so? Is this your gravity?
This the austerity you put upon you?
I'll see more o' this sport. [Stands apart.]

Lil. A song now!
Call in for a merry, and a light song;
And sing it with a liberal spirit.

Enter a Singing Boy.

Boy. Yes, madam.

Lil. And be not amazed, sirrah, but take us for your own company.

Let's walk ourselves: Come, wench. 'Would we had a man or two!

Pinac. Sure, she has spied me, and will abuse me dreadfully;
She has put on this for the purpose; yet I will try her.—
Madam, I would be loth my rude intrusion,
Which I must crave a pardon for——

Lil. Oh, you are welcome,
You are very welcome, sir! we want such a one.
Strike up again. I dare presume you dance well.
Quick, quick, sir, quick! the time steals on.

Pinac. I would talk with you.

Lil. Talk as you dance.

[They dance.]

Mir. She'll beat him off his legs first.

This is the finest masque!

Lil. Now, how do you, sir?

Pinac. You have given me a shrewd heat.

Lil. I'll give you a hundred.

Come, sing now, sing; for I know you sing well;

I see you have a singing face.

Pinac. A fine modesty!

If I could, she'd never give me breath.—Madam, 'would

I might sit and recover.

Lil. Sit here, and sing now;

Let's do things quickly, sir, and handsomely.—

Sit close, wench, close.—Begin, begin!

Pinac. I am lesson'd.

[Song.]

Lil. 'Tis very pretty, i' faith. Give me some wine now.

Pinac. I would fain speak to you.

Lil. You shall drink first, believe me.

Here's to you a lusty health.

Pinac. I thank you, lady.—

'Would I were off again! I smell my misery;

I was never put to this rack! I shall be drunk too.

Mir. If thou be'st not a right one, I have lost mine aim much:

I thank Heaven, that I have 'scaped thee! To her,

Pinac;

For thou art as sure to have her, and to groan for her—

I'll see how my other youth does; this speeds trimly.

A fine grave gentlewoman, and worth much honour!

[Exit.]

Lil. How do you like me, sir?

Pinac. I like you rarely.

Lil. You see, sir, though sometimes we are grave and silent,

And put on sadder dispositions,

Yet we're compounded of free parts, and sometimes too

Our lighter, airy, and our fiery metals

Break out, and show themselves: And what think you of that, sir?

Pinac. Good lady, sit (for I am very weary)

And then I'll tell you.

Lil. Fy! a young man idle?

Up, and walk; be still in action;

The motions of the body are fair beauties:

Besides, 'tis cold. Odds-me, sir, let's walk faster!

What think you now of the lady Felicia?
 And Bella-Fronte, the duke's fair daughter? ha?
 Are they not handsome things? There is Duarta,
 And brown Olivia——

Pinac. I know none of 'em.

Lil. But brown must not be cast away, sir. If young Lelia
 Had kept herself till this day from a husband,
 Why, what a beauty, sir! You know Ismena,
 The fair gem of Saint-Germains?

Pinac. By my troth, I do not.

Lil. And then, I know, you must hear of Brisac,
 How unlike a gentleman——

Pinac. As I live, I heard nothing.

Lil. Strike me another galliard!

Pinac. By this light, I cannot!

In troth, I have sprain'd my leg, madam.

Lil. Now sit you down, sir,
 And tell me why you came hither? why you chose me out?
 What is your business? your errand? Dispatch, dispatch!
 May be you are some gentleman's man (and I mistook
 you)
 That have brought me a letter, or a haunch of venison,
 Sent me from some friend of mine.

Pinac. Do I look like a carrier?

You might allow me, what I am, a gentleman.

Lil. 'Cry you mercy, sir! I saw you yesterday:
 You are new come out of travel; I mistook you.
 And how do all our impudent friends in Italy?

Pinac. Madam, I came with duty, and fair courtesy,
 Service, and honour to you.

Lil. You came to jeer me!
 You see I am merry, sir; I have changed my copy:
 None of the sages now, and pray you proclaim it;
 Fling on me what aspersion you shall please, sir,
 Of wantonness, or wildness; I look for it;
 And tell the world, I am an hypocrite,
 Mask in a forc'd and borrow'd shape, I expect it;
 But not to have you believed: For, mark you, sir,
 I have won a nobler estimation,
 A stronger tie by my discretion
 Upon opinion (howe'er you think I forc'd it)

Than either tongue or art of yours can slubber,
 And, when I please, I will be what I please, sir,
 So I exceed not mean; and none shall brand it,
 Either with scorn or shame, but shall be slighted.

Pinac. Lady, I come to love you.

Lil. Love yourself, sir;

And when I want observers, I'll send for you.
 Heigh-ho! my fit's almost off; for we do all by fits, sir.
 If you be weary, sit till I come again to you.

[Exit with Petella.]

Pinac. This is a wench of a dainty spirit; but Hang me if I know yet either what to think
 Or make of her; she had her will of me,
 And baited me abundantly, I thank her;
 And, I confess, I never was so blurted,
 Nor ever so abused: I must bear mine own sins.
 You talk of travels; here's a curious country!
 Yet I will find her out, or forswear my faculty.

[Exit.]

SCENE III.—Another Room in the same.

Enter ROSALURA and ORIANA.

Ros. Ne'er vex yourself, nor grieve; you are a fool then.

Ori. I am sure I am made so: Yet, before I suffer
 Thus like a girl, and give him leave to triumph——

Ros. You say right; for as long as he perceives you
 Sink under his proud scornings, he'll laugh at you:
 For me, secure yourself; and for my sister,
 I partly know her mind too: Howsoever,
 To obey my father, we have made a tender
 Of our poor beauties to the travell'd monsieur,
 Yet two words to a bargain! He slights us
 As skittish things, and we shun him as curious.
 May be, my free behaviour turns his stomach,
 And makes him seem to doubt a loose opinion:
 I must be so sometimes, though all the world saw it.

Ori. Why should not you? Are not minds only measured?
 As long as here you stand secure——

Ros. You say true;
 As long as mine own conscience makes no question,
 What care I for report? that woman's miserable,
 That's good or bad for their tongue's sake. Come, let's retire,

And get my veil, wench; by my troth, your sorrow,
And the consideration of men's humorous maddings,
Have put me into a serious contemplation.

Enter MIRABEL and BELLEUR, and stand apart.

Ori. Come, 'faith, let's sit and think.

Ros. That's all my business.

Mir. Why stand'st thou peeping here? Thou great slug, forward!

Bel. She is there; peace!

Mir. Why stand'st thou here then,
Sneaking, and peaking, as thou wouldst steal linen?
Hast thou not place and time?

Bel. I had a rare speech
Studied, and almost ready; and your violence
Has beat it out of my brains.

Mir. Hang your rare speeches!
Go me on like a man.

Bel. Let me set my beard up.
How has Pinac perform'd?

Mir. He has won already:
He stands not thrumming of caps thus.

Bel. Lord, what should I ail!
What a cold I have over my stomach; 'would I had some hum!

Certain I have a great mind to be at her,
A mighty mind.

Mir. On, fool!

Bel. Good words, I beseech you;
For I will not be abused by both.

Mir. Adieu, then
(I will not trouble you; I see you are valiant),
And work your own way.

Bel. Hist, hist! I will be ruled;
I will, i' faith; I will go presently:
Will you forsake me now, and leave me i' th' suds?
You know, I am false-hearted this way; I beseech you,
Good sweet Mirabel (I'll cut your throat if you leave me, Indeed I will!) sweet-heart!

Mir. I will be ready,
Still at thine elbow; take a man's heart to thee,
And speak thy mind; the plainer still the better.
She is a woman of that free behaviour,

Indeed, that common courtesy, she cannot deny thee:
Go bravely on.

Bel. Madam—keep close about me.

Still at my back.—Madam, sweet madam——

Ros. Ha!

What noise is that? what saucy sound to trouble me?

Mir. What said she?

Bel. I am saucy.

Mir. 'Tis the better.

Bel. She comes; must I be saucy still?

Mir. More saucy.

Ros. Still troubled with these vanities? Heaven bless us!

What are we born to?—Would you speak with any of my people?

Go in, sir; I am busy.

Bel. This is not she, sure:

Is this two children at a birth? I'll be hang'd then

Mine was a merry gentlewoman, talk'd daintily,

Talk'd of those matters that befitted women;

This is a parcel-prayer-book; I'm served sweetly!

And now I am to look too; I was prepared for th' other way.

Ros. Do you know that man?

Ori. Sure, I have seen him, lady.

Ros. Methinks 'tis pity such a lusty fellow

Should wander up and down, and want employment.

Bel. She takes me for a rogue!—You may do well, madam,

To stay this wanderer, and set him at work, forsooth;

He can do something that may please your ladyship;

I have heard of women that desire good breedings,

Two at a birth, or so.

Ros. The fellow's impudent.

Ori. Sure, he is crazed.

Ros. I have heard of men too that have had good manners;

Sure, this is want of grace; Indeed, 'tis great pity

The young man has been bred so ill; but this lewd age

Is full of such examples.

Bel. I am founder'd,

And some shall rue the setting of me on!

Mir. Ha! so bookish, lady? is it possible?

Turn'd holy at the heart too? I'll be hang'd then.

Why, this is such a feat, such an activity.

Such fast and loose——

Enter Servant, with a veil.

A veil too for your knavery?

O Dio, Dio!

Ros. What do you take me for, sir?

Mir. An hypocrite, a wanton, a dissembler,
Howe'er you seem, and thus you are to be handled;
(Mark me, Belleur) and this you love, I know it.

Ros. Stand off, bold sir!

Mir. You wear good clothes to this end,
Jewels; love feasts, and masques.

Ros. Ye are monstrous saucy!

Mir. All this to draw on fools; and thus, thus, lady, [Takes hold of her.

Ye are to be lull'd.

Bel. Let her alone, I'll swinge ye else,
I will, i' faith! for though I cannot skill o' this matter
Myself, I will not see another do it before me,
And do it worse.

Ros. Away! you are a vain thing!
You have travell'd far, sir, to return again
A windy and poor bladder! You talk of women,
That are not worth the favour of a common one,
The grace of her grew in an hospital!
Against a thousand such blown fooleries,
I am able to maintain good women's honours,
Their freedoms, and their fames, and I will do it——

Mir. She has almost struck me dumb too.

Ros. And declaim
Against your base malicious tongues, your noises,
For they are nothing else. You teach behaviours?
Or touch us for our freedoms? Teach yourselves manners,
Truth and sobriety, and live so clearly
That our lives may shine in ye; and then task us.
It seems, ye are hot; the suburbs will supply ye:
Good women scorn such gamesters; so I'll leave ye!
I am sorry to see this: 'Faith, sir, live fairly. [Exit.

Mir. This woman, if she hold on, may be virtuous;
'Tis almost possible: We'll have a new day.

Bel. Ye brought me on, ye forced me to this foolery;
I am shamed, I am scorn'd, I am flurtd! yes, I am so!
Though I cannot talk to a woman like your worship,

And use my phrases, and my learned figures,
Yet I can fight with any man.

Mir. Fy!

Bel. I can, sir;
And I will fight.

Mir. With whom?

Bel. With you; with any man;
For all men now will laugh at me.

Mir. Pr'thee be moderate.

Bel. And I'll beat all men. Come!

Mir. I love thee dearly.

Bel. I will beat all that love; love has undone me!
Never tell me! I will not be a history.

Mir. Thou art not.

Bel. 'Sfoot, I will not! Give me room,
And let me see the proudest of ye jeer me;
And I'll begin with you first.

Mir. Pr'ythee, Belleur!
If I do not satisfy thee——

Bel. Well, look you do.
But, now I think on't better, 'tis impossible!
I must beat somebody; I am maul'd myself,
And I ought in justice——

Mir. No, no, no, ye are cozen'd:
But walk, and let me talk to thee.

Bel. Talk wisely,
And see that no man laugh, upon no occasion;
For I shall think then 'tis at me.

Mir. I warrant thee.

Bel. Nor no more talk of this.

Mir. Dost think I am maddish?

Bel. I must needs fight yet; for I find it concerns me:
A pox on't: I must fight.

Mir. I' faith, thou shalt not.

[Exeunt.]

ACT III

SCENE I.—The Garden of the same House.Enter DE GARD and LUGIER.De Ga. I know you are a scholar, and can do wonders.Lug. There's no great scholarship belongs to this, sir;
What I am, I am: I pity your poor sister,
And heartily I hate these travellers,
These gim-cracks, made of mops and motions:
There's nothing in their houses here but hummings;
A bee has more brains. I grieve and vex too
The insolent licentious carriage
Of this out-facing fellow Mirabel;
And I am mad to see him prick his plumes up.De Ga. His wrongs you partly know.Lug. Do not you stir, sir;
Since he has begun with wit, let wit revenge it:
Keep your sword close; we'll cut his throat a new way.
I am ashamed the gentlewoman should suffer
Such base, lewd wrongs.De Ga. I will be ruled; he shall live,
And left to your revenge.Lug. Ay, ay, I'll fit him:
He makes a common scorn of handsome women;
Modesty and good manners are his may-games;
He takes up maidenheads with a new commission;
The church-warrant's out of date. Follow my counsel,
For I am zealous in the cause.De Ga. I will, sir,
And will be still directed; for the truth is,
My sword will make my sister seem more monstrous:
Besides, there is no honour won on reprobates.Lug. You are i' th' right. The slight he has show'd my pupils
Sets me a-fire too. Go; I'll prepare your sister,
And, as I told you——De Ga. Yes; all shall be fit, sir.Lug. And seriously and handsomely.De Ga. I warrant you.Lug. A little counsel more.[Whispers.]De Ga. 'Tis well.

Lug. Most stately!

See that observed; and then!

De Ga. I have you every way.

Lug. Away then, and be ready.

De Ga. With all speed, sir.

[Exit.

Lug. We'll learn to travel too, may be, beyond him.

Enter LILLIA, ROSALURA, and ORIANA.

Good day, fair beauties!

Lil. You have beautified us,

We thank you, sir; you have set us off most gallantly

With your grave precepts.

Ros. We expected husbands

Out of your documents and taught behaviours,

Excellent husbands; thought men would run stark mad
on us,

Men of all ages, and all states; we expected

An inundation of desires and offers,

A torrent of trim suitors; all we did,

Or said, or purposed, to be spells about us,

Spells to provoke.

Lil. You have provoked us finely!

We follow'd your directions, we did rarely,

We were stately, coy, demure, careless, light, giddy,

And play'd at all points: This, you swore, would carry.

Ros. We made love, and contemn'd love; now seem'd holy,

With such a reverend put-on reservation

Which could not miss, according to your principles;

Now gave more hope again; now close, now public,

Still up and down we beat it like a billow;

And ever those behaviours you read to us,

Subtle, and new: But all this will not help us!

Lil. They help to hinder us of all acquaintance,

They have frighted off all friends! What am I better

For all my learning, if I love a dunce,

A handsome dunce? to what use serves my reading?

You should have taught me what belongs to horses,

Dogs, dice, hawks, banquets, masques, free and fair meetings,

To have studied gowns and dressings,

Lug. Ye are not mad, sure!

Ros. We shall be, if we follow your encouragements:

I'll take mine own way now!

Lil. And I my fortune;

We may live maids else till the moon drop millstones.

I see, your modest women are taken for monsters;

A dowry of good breeding is worth nothing.

Lug. Since ye take it so to th' heart, pray ye give me leave yet,

And you shall see how I'll convert this heretic:

Mark how this Mirabel——

Lil. Name him no more;

For, though I long for a husband, I hate him,

And would be married sooner to a monkey,

Or to a Jack of Straw, than such a juggler.

Ros. I am of that mind too; he is too nimble,

And plays at fast and loose too learnedly,

For a plain-meaning woman; that's the truth on't.

Here's one too, that we love well, would be angry;

[Pointing to Oriana.

And reason why. No, no, we will not trouble you

Nor him at this time: May he make you happy!

We'll turn ourselves loose now, to our fair fortunes;

And the down-right way——

Lil. The winning way we'll follow;

We'll bait that men may bite fair, and not be frightened;

Yet we'll not be carried so cheap neither; we'll have some sport,

Some mad-morris or other for our money, tutor.

Lug. 'Tis like enough: Prosper your own devices!

Ye are old enough to chuse: But, for this gentlewoman,

So please her give me leave——

Ori. I shall be glad, sir,

To find a friend whose pity may direct me.

Lug. I'll do my best, and faithfully deal for ye;

But then ye must be ruled.

Ori. In all, I vow to you.

Ros. Do, do: He has a lucky hand sometimes, I'll assure you;

And hunts the recovery of a lost lover deadly.

Lug. You must away straight.

Ori. Yes.

Lug. And I'll instruct you:

Here you can know no more.

Ori. By your leave, sweet ladies;

And all our fortunes arrive at our own wishes!

Lil. Amen, amen!

Lug. I must borrow your man.

Lil. Pray take him;

He is within: To do her good, take anything,
Take us and all.

Lug. No doubt, ye may find takers;

And so we'll leave ye to your own disposes.

[Exeunt Lugier and Oriana.]

Lil. Now, which way, wench?

Ros. We'll go a brave way, fear not;

A safe and sure way too; and yet a bye-way.

I must confess, I have a great mind to be married.

Lil. So have I too a grudging of good-will that way;

And would as fain be dispatch'd. But this monsieur
Quicksilver——

Ros. No, no; we'll bar him, bye and main: Let him trample:

There is no safety in his surquedry:

An army-royal of women are too few for him;

He keeps a journal of his gentleness,

And will go near to print his fair dispatches,

And call it his triumph over time and women:

Let him pass out of memory! What think you

Of his two companions?

Lil. Pinac, methinks, is reasonable;

A little modesty he has brought home with him,

And might be taught, in time, some handsome duty.

Ros. They say, he is a wench too.

Lil. I like him better;

A free light touch or two becomes a gentleman,

And sets him seemly off: So he exceed not,

But keep his compass clear, he may be look'd at.

I would not marry a man that must be taught,

And conjured up with kisses; the best game

Is play'd still by the best gamesters.

Ros. Fy upon thee!

What talk hast thou?

Lil. Are not we alone, and merry?

Why should we be ashamed to speak what we think?

Thy gentleman,

The tall fat fellow, he that came to see thee——

Ros. Is't not a goodly man?

Lil. A wondrous goodly!

He has weight enough, I warrant thee: Mercy upon me,

What a serpent wilt thou seem under such a St. George!

Ros. Thou art a fool! Give me a man brings mettle,
Brings substance with him, needs no broths to lare him.
These little fellows show like fleas in boxes,
Hop up and down, and keep a stir to vex us:
Give me the puissant pike; take you the small shot.

Lil. Of a great thing, I have not seen a duller:
Therefore, methinks, sweet sister——

Ros. Peace, he's modest;
A bashfulness; which is a point of grace, wench:
But, when these fellows come to moulding, sister,
To heat, and handling.—As I live, I like him;
And, methinks, I could form him.

Enter MIRABEL.

Lil. Peace! the fire-drake.

Mir. Bless ye, sweet beauties, sweet incomparable ladies,
Sweet wits, sweet humours! Bless you, learned lady!
And you, most holy nun! Bless your devotions!

Lil. And bless your brains, sir, your most pregnant brains,
sir!

They are in travail; may they be deliver'd
Of a most hopeful Wild-Goose!

Ros. Bless your manhood!
They say you are a gentleman of action,
A fair accomplish'd man, and a rare engineer;
You have a trick to blow up maidenheads,
A subtle trick, they say abroad.

Mir. I have, lady.

Ros. And often glory in their ruins.

Mir. Yes, forsooth;
I have a speedy trick, please you to try it:
My engine will dispatch you instantly.

Ros. I would I were a woman, sir, fit for you,
As there be such, no doubt, may engine you too;
May, with a counter-mine, blow up your valour.
But, in good faith, sir, we are both too honest;
And, the plague is, we cannot be persuaded:
For, look you, if we thought it were a glory
To be the last of all your lovely ladies——

Mir. Come, come; leave prating: This has spoil'd your market!

This pride and puffed-up heart will make ye fast, ladies,

Fast, when ye are hungry too.

Ros. The more our pain, sir.

Lil. The more our health, I hope too.

Mir. Your behaviours

Have made men stand amazed; those men that loved ye;
Men of fair states and parts. Your strange conversions
Into I know not what, nor how, nor wherefore;
Your scorns of those that came to visit ye;
Your studied whim-whams, and your fine set faces:
What have these got ye? Proud and harsh opinions!
A travell'd monsieur was the strangest creature,
The wildest monster to be wonder'd at;
His person made a public scoff, his knowledge
(As if he had been bred 'mongst bears or bandogs)
Shunn'd and avoided; his conversation snuff'd at:
What harvest brings all this?

Ros. I pray you proceed, sir.

Mir. Now ye shall see in what esteem a traveller,
An understanding gentleman, and a monsieur,
Is to be held; and to your griefs confess it,
Both to your griefs and galls!

Lil. In what, I pray ye, sir?

We would be glad to understand your excellence.

Mir. Go on, sweet ladies; it becomes ye rarely!
For me, I have blest me from ye; scoff on seriously,
And note the man ye mock'd. You, lady Learning,
Note the poor traveller that came to visit ye,
That flat unfurnish'd fellow; note him throughly!
You may chance to see him anon.

Lil. 'Tis very likely.

Mir. And see him courted by a travell'd lady,
Held dear, and honour'd by a virtuous virgin;
May be a beauty not far short of yours neither;
It may be, clearer.

Lil. Not unlikely.

Mir. Younger:

As killing eyes as yours, a wit as poignant;
May be, a state too that may top your fortune:
Inquire how she thinks of him, how she holds him;
His good parts, in what precious price already;
Being a stranger to him, how she courts him;
A stranger to his nation too, how she dotes on him;
Inquire of this; be sick to know: Curse, lady,

And keep your chamber; cry, and curse! A sweet one,
A thousand in yearly land, well bred, well friended,
Travell'd, and highly follow'd for her fashions!

Lil. Bless his good fortune, sir.

Mir. This scurvy fellow,
I think they call his name Pinac, this serving-man
That brought you venison, as I take it, madam,
Note but this scab! 'Tis strange, that this coarse creature,
That has no more set-off but his jugglings,
His travell'd tricks——

Lil. Good sir, I grieve not at him,
Nor envy not his fortune: Yet I wonder!
He's handsome, yet I see no such perfection.

Mir. 'Would I had his fortune! for it is a woman
Of that sweet-temper'd nature, and that judgment,
Besides her state, that care, clear understanding,
And such a wife to bless him——

Ros. Pray you whence is she?

Mir. Of England, and a most accomplish'd lady;
So modest that men's eyes are frighted at her,
And such a noble carriage—How now, sirrah?

Enter a Boy.

Boy. Sir, the great English lady——

Mir. What of her, sir?

Boy. Has newly left her coach, and coming this way,
Where you may see her plain: Monsieur Pinac
The only man that leads her.

Enter PINAC, MARIANA, and Attendants.

Mir. He is much honour'd;
'Would I had such a favour!—Now vex, ladies,
Envy, and vex, and rail!

Ros. You are short of us, sir.

Mir. Bless your fair fortune, sir!

Pinac. I nobly thank you.

Mir. Is she married, friend?

Pinac. No, no.

Mir. A goodly lady;
A sweet and delicate aspect!—Mark, mark, and wonder!
Hast thou any hope of her?

Pinac. A little.

Mir. Follow close then;
Lose not that hope.

Pinac. To you, sir.

[Mariana courtesies to him.]

Mir. Gentle lady!

Ros. She is fair, indeed.

Lil. I have seen a fairer; yet
She is well.

Ros. Her clothes sit handsome too.

Lil. She dresses prettily.

Ros. And, by my faith, she's rich; she looks still sweeter.
A well-bred woman, I warrant her.

Lil. Do you hear, sir?
May I crave this gentlewoman's name?

Pinac. Mariana, lady.

Lil. I will not say I owe you a quarrel, monsieur,
For making me your stale! A noble gentleman
Would have had more courtesy, at least more faith,
Than to turn off his mistress at first trial:
You know not what respect I might have show'd you;
I find you have worth.

Pinac. I cannot stay to answer you;
You see my charge. I am beholding to you
For all your merry tricks you put upon me,
Your bobbs, and base accounts: I came to love you,
To woo you, and to serve you; I am much indebted to you
For dancing me off my legs, and then for walking me,
For telling me strange tales I never heard of,
More to abuse me; for mistaking me,
When you both knew I was a gentleman,
And one deserved as rich a match as you are!

Lil. Be not so bitter, sir.

Pinac. You see this lady:
She is young enough, and fair enough, to please me;
A woman of a loving mind, a quiet,
And one that weighs the worth of him that loves her;
I am content with this, and bless my fortune:
Your curious wits, and beauties——

Lil. 'Faith, see me once more.

Pinac. I dare not trouble you.

Lil. May I speak to your lady?

Pinac. I pray you content yourself: I know you are bitter,

And, in your bitterness, you may abuse her;
Which, if she comes to know (for she understands you not)

It may breed such a quarrel to your kindred,
And such an indiscretion fling on you too
(For she is nobly friended)—

Lil. I could eat her! [Aside.

Pinac. Rest as ye are, a modest noble gentlewoman,
And afford your honest neighbours some of your prayers.
[Exeunt Pinac, Mariana, and Attendants.

Mir. What think you now?

Lil. 'Faith, she's a pretty whiting;
She has got a pretty catch too!

Mir. You are angry,
Monstrous angry now, grievously angry;
And the pretty heart does swell now!

Lil. No, in troth, sir.

Mir. And it will cry anon, "A pox upon it!"
And it will curse itself, and eat no meat, lady;
And it will sigh!

Lil. Indeed you are mistaken;
It will be very merry.

Ros. Why, sir, do you think
There are no more men living, nor no handsomer,
Than he, or you? By this light, there be ten thousand,
Ten thousand thousand! Comfort yourself, dear monsieur!
Faces, and bodies, wits, and all abiliments:
There are so many we regard 'em not.

Mir. That such a noble lady—I could burst now!
So far above such trifles—

Enter BELLEUR, and two Gentlemen.

Bel. You did laugh at me;
And I know why ye laugh'd!

1 Gent. I pray ye be satisfied
If we did laugh, we had some private reason,
And not at you.

2 Gent. Alas, we know you not, sir.

Bel. I'll make you know me! Set your faces soberly;
Stand this way, and look sad; I'll be no may-game!
Sadder, demurer yet!

Ros. What is the matter?

What ails this gentleman?

Bel. Go off now backward, that I may behold ye;
And not a simper, on your lives! [Exeunt Gentlemen.]

Lil. He's mad, sure.

Bel. Do you observe me too?

Mir. I may look on you.

Bel. Why do you grin? I know your mind.

Mir. You do not.

You are strangely humorous: Is there no mirth nor pleasure

But you must be the object?

Bel. Mark, and observe me: Wherever I am named,
The very word shall raise a general sadness,
For the disgrace this scurvy woman did me,
This proud pert thing! Take heed you laugh not at me:
Provoke me not; take heed!

Ros. I would fain please you;
Do anything to keep you quiet.

Bel. Hear me:

Till I receive a satisfaction
Equal to the disgrace and scorn you gave me,
You are a wretched woman; till thou woo'st me,
And I scorn thee as much, as seriously
Jeer and abuse thee; ask, what Gill thou art,
Or any baser name; I will proclaim thee,
I will so sing thy virtue, so be-paint thee——

Ros. Nay, good sir, be more modest.

Bel. Do you laugh again?

Because you are a woman, you are lawless,
And out of compass of an honest anger.

Ros. Good sir, have a better belief of me.

Lil. Away, dear sister. [Exeunt Rosalura and Lillia.]

Mir. Is not this better now, this seeming madness,
Than falling out with your friends?

Bel. Have I not frightened her?

Mir. Into her right wits, I warrant thee: Follow this humour,

And thou shalt see how prosperously 'twill guide thee.

Bel. I am glad I have found a way to woo yet; I was afraid
once

I never should have made a civil suitor.
Well, I'll about it still.

Mir. Do, do, and prosper.— [Exit Belleur.
 What sport do I make with these fools! what pleasure
 Feeds me, and fats my sides at their poor innocence!
 Wooing and wiving! hang it! give me mirth,
 Witty and dainty mirth! I shall grow in love, sure,
 With mine own happy head.

Enter LUGIER.

Who's this?—To me, sir?

What youth is this?

Lug. Yes, sir, I would speak with you,
 If your name be monsieur Mirabel.

Mir. You have hit it:
 Your business, I beseech you?

Lug. This it is, sir;
 There is a gentlewoman hath long time affected you,
 And loved you dearly.

Mir. Turn over, and end that story;
 'Tis long enough: I have no faith in women, sir.

Lug. It seems so, sir: I do not come to woo for her,
 Or sing her praises, though she well deserve 'em;
 I come to tell you, you have been cruel to her,
 Unkind and cruel, false of faith, and careless;
 Taking more pleasure in abusing her,
 Wrestling her honour to your wild disposes,
 Than noble in requiting her affection:
 Which, as you are a man, I must desire you
 (A gentleman of rank) not to persist in,
 No more to load her fair name with your injuries.

Mir. Why, I beseech you, sir?

Lug. Good sir, I'll tell you.
 And I'll be short; I'll tell you, because I love you;
 Because I would have you shun the shame may follow.
 There is a nobleman, new come to town, sir,
 A noble and a great man, that affects her,
 (A countryman of mine, a brave Savoyan,
 Nephew to th' duke) and so much honours her,
 That 'twill be dangerous to pursue your old way,
 To touch at anything concerns her honour,
 Believe, most dangerous: Her name is Oriana,
 And this great man will marry her. Take heed, sir;
 For howsoe'er her brother, a staid gentleman,

Lets things pass upon better hopes, this lord, sir,
Is of that fiery and that poignant metal
(Especially provoked on by affection)
That 'twill be hard—But you are wise.

Mir. A lord, sir?

Lug. Yes, and a noble lord.

Mir. 'Send her good fortune!

This will not stir her lord?—A baroness?

Say you so? say you so? By'r lady, a brave title!

Top, and top-gallant now! Save her great ladyship!

I was a poor servant of hers, I must confess, sir,

And in those days I thought I might be jovy,

And make a little bold to call in to her;

But, basta! now, I know my rules and distance;

Yet, if she want an usher, such an implement,

One that is throughly paced, a clean-made gentleman,

Can hold a hanging up with approbation,

Plant his hat formally, and wait with patience,

I do beseech you, sir——

Lug. Sir, leave your scoffing,

And, as you are a gentleman, deal fairly:

I have given you a friend's counsel; so I'll leave you.

Mir. But, hark ye, hark ye, sir! Is't possible

I may believe what you say?

Lug. You may choose, sir.

Mir. No baits? no fish-hooks, sir? no gins? no nooses?

No pitfalls to catch puppies?

Lug. I tell you certain:

You may believe; if not, stand to the danger! [Exit.

Mir. A lord of Savoy, says he? the duke's nephew?

A man so mighty? By'r lady, a fair marriage!

By my faith a handsome fortune! I must leave prating:

For, to confess the truth, I have abused her,

For which I should be sorry, but that will seem scurvy.

I must confess she was, ever since I knew her,

As modest as she was fair; I am sure she loved me;

Her means good, and her breeding excellent;

And for my sake she has refused fair matches:

I may play the fool finely.—Stay! who are these?

Enter DE GARD disguised, ORIANA, and Attendants.

'Tis she, I am sure; and that the lord, it should seem;

He carries a fair port, is a handsome man too.

I do begin to feel I am a coxcomb.

Ori. Good my lord, chuse a nobler; for I know
I am so far below your rank and honour,
That what you can say this way, I must credit
But spoken to beget yourself sport. Alas, sir,
I am so far off from deserving you,
My beauty so unfit for your affection,
That I am grown the scorn of common railers,
Of such injurious things, that, when they cannot Reach at my person, lie with my reputation.
I am poor, besides.

De Ga. You are all wealth and goodness;
And none but such as are the scum of men,
The ulcers of an honest state, spite-weavers,
That live on poison only, like swoln spiders,
Dare once profane such excellence, such sweetness.

Mir. This man speaks loud indeed.

De Ga. Name but the men, lady;
Let me but know these poor and base depravers,
Lay but to my revenge their persons open,
And you shall see how suddenly, how fully,
For your most beauteous sake, how direfully,
I'll handle their despites. Is this thing one?
Be what he will——

Mir. Sir!

De Ga. Dare your malicious tongue, sir——

Mir. I know you not, nor what you mean.

Ori. Good my lord!

De Ga. If he, or any he——

Ori. I beseech your honour!

This gentleman's a stranger to my knowledge;
And, no doubt, sir, a worthy man.

De Ga. Your mercy!

But, had he been a tainter of your honour,
A blaster of those beauties reign within you——
But we shall find a fitter time. Dear lady,
As soon as I have freed you from your guardian,
And done some honour'd offices unto you,
I'll take you, with those faults the world flings on you,
And dearer than the whole world I'll esteem you!

[Exeunt.

Mir. This is a thundering lord: I am glad I 'scaped him.
How lovingly the wench disclaim'd my villainy!

I am vex'd now heartily that he shall have her;
 Not that I care to marry, or to lose her,
 But that this bilbo-lord shall reap that maidenhead
 That was my due; that he shall rig and top her!
 I'd give a thousand crowns now, he might miss her.

Enter a Servant.

Serv. Nay, if I bear your blows, and keep your counsel,
 You have good luck, sir: I'll teach you to strike lighter.

Mir. Come hither, honest fellow: Canst thou tell me Where this great lord lies? this Savoy lord? Thou met'st him;
 He now went by thee, certain.

Serv. Yes, he did, sir;
 I know him, and I know you are fool'd.

Mir. Come hither; [Gives money.]
 Here's all this, give me truth.

Serv. Not for your money
 (And yet that may do much), but I have been beaten,
 And by the worshipful contrivers beaten, and I'll tell you.
 This is no lord, no Savoy lord.

Mir. Go forward.

Serv. This is a trick, and put upon you grossly
 By one Lugier: The lord is monsieur De Gard, sir,
 An honest gentleman, and a neighbour here:
 Their ends you understand better than I, sure.

Mir. Now I know him;
 Know him now plain!

Serv. I have discharged my choler; so God be wi' you, sir!
[Exit.]

Mir. What a purblind puppy was I! Now I remember him;
 All the whole cast on's face, though it were umber'd,
 And mask'd with patches. What a dunder-whelp,
 To let him domineer thus! How he strutted,
 And what a load of lord he clapt upon him!
 'Would I had him here again! I would so bounce him,
 I would so thank his lordship for his lewd plot—
 Do they think to carry it away, with a great band made of bird-pots,
 And a pair of pin-buttock'd breeches?—Ha!

Enter DE GARD, ORIANA, and Attendants.

'Tis he again; he comes, he comes, he comes! have at him.— [Sings.

My Savoy lord, why dost thou frown on me?

And will that favour never sweeter be?

Wilt thou, I say, for ever play the fool?

De Gard, be wise, and, Savoy, go to school!

My lord De Gard, I thank you for your antick;

My lady bright, that will be sometimes frantic;

You worthy train that wait upon this pair,

—'Send you more wit, and them a bouncing bair!

And so I take my humble leave of your honours! [Exit.

De Ga. We are discover'd, there's no remedy.

Lillia Bianca's man, upon my life.

In stubbornness, because Lugier corrected him—

A shameless slave! plague on him for a rascal!

Ori. I was in perfect hope. The bane on't is now,

He will make mirth on mirth, to persecute us.

De Ga. We must be patient; I am vex'd to th' proof too.

I'll try once more; then if I fail, here's one speaks.

Ori. Let me be lost, and scorn'd first!

De Ga. Well, we'll consider.

Away, and let me shift; I shall be hooted else. [Exeunt.

ACT IV

SCENE I.—A Street before the House of Pinac.

Enter LUGIER, LILLIA, and Servant, with a willow garland.

Lug. Faint not, but do as I direct ye; trust me.

Believe me too, for what I have told you, lady,

As true as you are Lillia, is authentic;

I know it, I have found it: 'Tis a poor courage

Flies off for one repulse. These travellers

Shall find, before we have done, a home-spun wit,

A plain French understanding, may cope with 'em.

They have had the better yet, thank your sweet squire
here!

And let 'em brag. You would be revenged?

Lil. Yes, surely.

Lug. And married too?

Lil. I think so.

Lug. Then be counsell'd;

You know how to proceed. I have other irons
Heating as well as yours, and I will strike
Three blows with one stone home. Be ruled, and happy;
And so I leave you. Now's the time. [Exit.

Lil. I am ready,
If he do come to do me.

Serv. Will you stand here,
And let the people think you are God knows what,
mistress?

Let boys and prentices presume upon you?

Lil. Pr'ythee hold thy peace.

Serv. Stand at his door that hates you?

Lil. Pr'ythee leave prating.

Serv. Pray you go to th' tavern: I'll give you a pint of wine there.

If any of the mad-cap gentlemen should come by,
That take up women upon special warrant,
You were in a wise case now.

Lil. Give me the garland;
And wait you here.

Enter MIRABEL, PINAC, MARIANA, Priest, and Attendants.

Mir. She is here to seek thee, sirrah:

I told thee what would follow; she is mad for thee!
Show, and advance. So early stirring, lady?
It shows a busy mind, a fancy troubled.
A willow garland too? Is't possible?
'Tis pity so much beauty should lie musty;
But 'tis not to be help'd now.

Lil. The more's my misery.

Good fortune to you, lady, you deserve it;
To me, too-late repentance, I have sought it.
I do not envy, though I grieve a little,
You are mistress of that happiness, those joys,
That might have been, had I been wise.—But fortune—

Pinac. She understands you not; pray you do not trouble her!

And do not cross me like a hare thus; 'tis as ominous.

Lil. I come not to upbraid your levity,
 (Though you made show of love, and though I liked you)
 To claim an interest (we are yet both strangers;
 But what we might have been, had you persévered, sir!)
 To be an eye-sore to your loving lady:
 This garland shows, I give myself forsaken,
 (Yet, she must pardon me, 'tis most unwillingly!)
 And all the power and interest I had in you
 (As I persuade myself, somewhat you loved me!)
 Thus patiently I render up, I offer
 To her that must enjoy you, and so bless you!
 Only, I heartily desire this courtesy,
 And would not be denied, to wait upon you
 This day, to see you tied, then no more trouble you.

Pinac. It needs not, lady.

Lil. Good sir, grant me so much.

Pinac. 'Tis private, and we make no invitation.

Lil. My presence, sir, shall not proclaim it public.

Pinac. May be, 'tis not in town.

Lil. I have a coach, sir,

And a most ready will to do you service.

Mir. Strike, now or never! make it sure! I tell thee,

[Aside to Pinac.

She will hang herself, if she have thee not.

Pinac. Pray you, sir,

Entertain my noble mistress: Only a word or two
 With this importunate woman, and I'll relieve you.—
 Now you see what your flings are, and your fancies,
 Your states, and your wild stubbornness; now you find
 What 'tis to gird and kick at men's fair services,
 To raise your pride to such a pitch and glory,
 That goodness shows like gnats, scorn'd under you,
 'Tis ugly, naught; a self-will in a woman,
 Chain'd to an overweening thought, is pestilent,
 Murders fair Fortune first, then fair Opinion:
 There stands a pattern, a true patient pattern,
 Humble, and sweet.

Lil. I can but grieve my ignorance.

Repentance, some say too, is the best sacrifice;

For sure, sir, if my chance had been so happy

(As I confess I was mine own destroyer)

As to have arrived at you (I will not prophesy,

But certain, as I think), I should have pleased you;

Have made you as much wonder at my courtesy,
 My love, and duty, as I have dishearten'd you.
 Some hours we have of youth, and some of folly;
 And being free-born maids, we take a liberty,
 And to maintain that, sometimes we strain highly.

Pinac. Now you talk reason.

Lil. But being yoak'd and govern'd,
 Married, and those light vanities purged from us,
 How fair we grow! how gentle, and how tender,
 We twine about those loves that shoot up with us!
 A sullen woman fear, that talks not to you;
 She has a sad and darken'd soul, loves dully:
 A merry and a free wench, give her liberty,
 Believe her, in the lightest form she appears to you,
 Believe her excellent, though she despise you;
 Let but these fits and flashes pass, she'll show to you
 As jewels rubb'd from dust, or gold new burnish'd:
 Such had I been, had you believed!

Pinac. Is't possible?

Lil. And to your happiness I dare assure you,
 If true love be accounted so. Your pleasure,
 Your will, and your command, had tied my motions:
 But that hope's gone. I know you are young and giddy,
 And, till you have a wife can govern with you,
 You sail upon this world's sea, light and empty;
 Your bark in danger daily. 'Tis not the name neither
 Of wife can steer you, but the noble nature,
 The diligence, the care, the love, the patience;
 She makes the pilot, and preserves the husband,
 That knows and reckons every rib he is built on.
 But this I tell you to my shame.

Pinac. I admire you;

And now am sorry that I aim beyond you.—

Mir. So, so, so! fair and softly! She is thine own, boy;

She comes now without lure.— [Apart to him.

Pinac. But that it must needs

Be reckon'd to me as a wantonness,
 Or worse, a madness, to forsake a blessing,
 A blessing of that hope——

Lil. I dare not urge you:

And yet, dear sir——

Pinac. 'Tis most certain, I had rather,

If 'twere in my own choice—for you're my country-
woman,

A neighbour, here born by me; she a stranger,
And who knows how her friends——

Lil. Do as you please, sir;

If you be fast, not all the world—I love you.
It is most true, and clear, I would persuade you;
And I shall love you still.

Pinac. Go, get before me:

So much you have won upon me—do it presently:
Here's a priest ready—I'll have you.

Lil. Not now, sir;

No, you shall pardon me!—Advance your lady;
I dare not hinder your most high preferment:
'Tis honour enough for me I have unmask'd you.

Pinac. How's that?

Lil. I have caught you, sir! Alas, I am no stateswoman,
Nor no great traveller, yet I have found you:
I have found your lady too, your beauteous lady;
I have found her birth and breeding too, her discipline,
Who brought her over, and who kept your lady,
And, when he laid her by, what virtuous nunnery Received her in; I have found all these! Are you blank now?

Methinks, such travell'd wisdoms should not fool thus;
Such excellent indiscretions——

Mir. How could she know this?

Lil. 'Tis true, she is English born, but most part French now,
And so I hope you will find her to your comfort.
Alas, I am ignorant of what she cost you!
The price of these hired clothes I do not know, gentlemen!
Those jewels are the broker's, how you stand bound for 'em!

Pinac. Will you make this good?

Lil. Yes, yes; and to her face, sir,
That she's an English whore! a kind of fling-dust,
One of your London light o' loves, a right one!
Came over in thin pumps, and half a petticoat,
One faith, and one smock, with a broken haberdasher:
I know all this without a conjurer.

Her name is Jumping-Joan, an ancient sin-weaver:
She was first a lady's chambermaid, there slipp'd,
And broke her leg above the knee; departed,

And set up shop herself; stood the fierce conflicts
Of many a furious term; there lost her colours,
And last shipp'd over hither.

Mir. We are betray'd!

Lil. Do you come to fright me with this mystery?
To stir me with a stink none can endure, sir?
I pray you proceed; the wedding will become you!
Who gives the lady? you? An excellent father!
A careful man, and one that knows a beauty!
Send you fair shipping, sir! and so I'll leave you.
Be wise and manly, then I may chance to love you!

[Exit.]

Mir. As I live, I am ashamed this wench has reach'd me,
Monstrous ashamed; but there's no remedy.
This skew'd-eyed carrion——

Pinac. This I suspected ever.

Come, come, uncase; we have no more use of you;
Your clothes must back again.

Mariana. Sir, you shall pardon me;
'Tis not our English use to be degraded.
If you will visit me, and take your venture,
You shall have pleasure for your properties;
And so, sweetheart——

[Exit.]

Mir. Let her go, and the devil go with her!
We have never better luck with these preludiums.
Come, be not daunted; think she's but a woman,
And let her have the devil's wit, we'll reach her!

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—A Grove near Nantolet's House.

Enter ROSALURA and LUGIER.

Ros. You have now redeem'd my good opinion, tutor,
And you stand fair again.

Lug. I can but labour,
And sweat in your affairs. I am sure Belleur
Will be here instantly, and use his anger,
His wonted harshness.

Ros. I hope he will not beat me.

Lug. No, sure, he has more manners. Be you ready!

Ros. Yes, yes, I am; and am resolved to fit him,
With patience to out-do all he can offer.
But how does Oriana?

Lug. Worse, and worse still;
There is a sad house for her; she is now,
Poor lady, utterly distracted.

Ros. Pity!
Infinite pity! 'Tis a handsome lady.
That Mirabel's a beast, worse than a monster,
If this affliction work not.

Enter LILLIA BIANCA.

Lil. Are you ready?
Belleur is coming on, here, hard behind me:
I have no leisure to relate my fortune;
Only I wish you may come off as handsomely.
Upon the sign you know what. [Exit.

Ros. Well, well; leave me!

Enter BELLEUR.

Bel. How now?

Ros. You are welcome, sir.

Bel. 'Tis well ye have manners!
That court'sy again, and hold your countenance staidly!
That look's too light; take heed! so, sit ye down now;
And to confirm me that your gall is gone,
Your bitterness dispersed (for so I'll have it)
Look on me steadfastly, and, whatsoe'er I say to you,
Move not, nor alter in your face; you are gone then!
For if you do express the least distaste,
Or show an angry wrinkle (mark me, woman!
We are now alone) I will so conjure thee,
The third part of my execution
Cannot be spoke.

Ros. I am at your dispose, sir.

Bel. Now rise, and woo me a little; let me hear that faculty:
But touch me not; nor do not lie, I charge you!
Begin now.

Ros. If so mean and poor a beauty
May ever hope the grace——

Bel. You cog, you flatter!
Like a lewd thing, you lie! "May hope that grace?"
Why, what grace canst thou hope for? Answer not;
For if thou dost, and liest again, I'll swinge thee!
Do not I know thee for a pestilent woman?
A proud at both ends? Be not angry,

Nor stir not o' your life!

Ros. I am counsell'd, sir.

Bel. Art thou not now (confess, for I'll have the truth out)
As much unworthy of a man of merit,
Or any of ye all, nay, of mere man,
Though he were crooked, cold, all wants upon him,
Nay, of any dishonest thing that bears that figure,
As devils are of mercy?

Ros. We are unworthy.

Bel. Stick to that truth, and it may chance to save thee.
And is it not our bounty that we take ye?
That we are troubled, vex'd, or tortured with ye,
Our mere and special bounty?

Ros. Yes.

Bel. Our pity,
That for your wickedness we swinge ye soundly;
Your stubbornness, and your stout hearts, we belabour
ye?

Answer to that!

Ros. I do confess your pity.

Bel. And dost not thou deserve in thine own person,
Thou impudent, thou pert—Do not change countenance!

Ros. I dare not, sir.

Bel. For if you do——

Ros. I am settled.

Bel. Thou wagtail, peacock, puppy, look on me:
I am a gentleman.

Ros. It seems no less, sir.

Bel. And darest thou in thy surquedry——

Ros. I beseech you!

It was my weakness, sir, I did not view you,
I took not notice of your noble parts,
Nor culled your person, nor your proper fashion.

Bel. This is some amends yet.

Ros. I shall mend, sir, daily,
And study to deserve.

Bel. Come a little nearer!
Canst thou repent thy villainy?

Ros. Most seriously.

Bel. And be ashamed!

Ros. I am ashamed.

Bel. Cry!

Ros. It will be hard to do, sir.

Bel. Cry now instantly;
 Cry monstrously, that all the town may hear thee;
 Cry seriously, as if thou hadst lost thy monkey;
 And, as I like thy tears——

Ros. Now!

Enter LILLIA, and four Women laughing.

Bel. How! how! do you jeer me?
 Have you broke your bounds again, dame?

Ros. Yes, and laugh at you,
 And laugh most heartily.

Bel. What are these? whirlwinds?
 Is hell broke loose, and all the furies flutter'd?
 Am I greased once again?

Ros. Yes, indeed are you;
 And once again you shall be, if you quarrel!
 Do you come to vent your fury on a virgin?
 Is this your manhood, sir?

1 Wom. Let him do his best;
 Let's see the utmost of his indignation;
 I long to see him angry. Come; proceed, sir.
 Hang him, he dares not stir; a man of timber!

2 Wom. Come hither to fright maids with thy bull-faces?
 To threaten gentlewomen! Thou a man? a maypole!
 A great dry pudding!

3 Wom. Come, come, do your worst, sir;
 Be angry if thou darest.

Bel. The Lord deliver me!

4 Wom. Do but look scurvily upon this lady,
 Or give us one foul word—We are all mistaken;
 This is some mighty dairy-maid in man's clothes.

Lil. I am of that mind too.

Bel. What will they do to me?

Lil. And hired to come and abuse us: A man has manners;
 A gentleman, civility and breeding.
 Some tinker's trull, with a beard glew'd on.

1 Wom. Let's search him,
 And as we find him——

Bel. Let me but depart from ye,
 Sweet Christian women!

Lil. Hear the thing speak, neighbours.

Bel. 'Tis but a small request: If e'er I trouble ye,
 If e'er I talk again of beating women,

Or beating anything that can but turn to me;
 Of ever thinking of a handsome lady
 But virtuously and well, of ever speaking
 But to her honour—This I'll promise ye,
 I will take rhubarb, and purge choler mainly.
 Abundantly I'll purge.

Lil. I'll send you broths, sir.

Bel. I will be laugh'd at, and endure it patiently;
 I will do anything!

Ros. I'll be your bail then.

When you come next to woo, pray you come not boisterously,
 And furnish'd like a bear-ward.

Bel. No, in truth, forsooth.

Ros. I scented you long since.

Bel. I was to blame, sure;
 I will appear a gentleman.

Ros. 'Tis the best for you,
 For a true noble gentleman's a brave thing.

Upon that hope, we quit you. You fear seriously?

Bel. Yes, truly do I; I confess I fear you,
 And honour you, and anything!

Ros. Farewell then!

Wom. And when you come to woo next, bring more mercy!
 [Exeunt Rosalura and Women.]

Enter two Gentlemen.

Bel. A dairy-maid! a tinker's trull! Heaven bless me!
 Sure, if I had provoked 'em, they had quarter'd me.
 I am a most ridiculous ass, now I perceive it;
 A coward, and a knave too.

1 Gent. 'Tis the mad gentleman;
 Let's set our faces right.

Bel. No, no; laugh at me,
 And laugh aloud.

2 Gent. We are better manner'd, sir.

Bel. I do deserve it; call me patch, and puppy,
 And beat me, if you please.

1 Gent. No, indeed; we know you.

Bel. 'Death, do as I would have ye!

2 Gent. You are an ass then,
 A coxcomb, and a calf!

Bel. I am a great calf,

Kick me a little now: Why, when? Sufficient.

[They kick him.]

Now laugh aloud, and scorn me; so God b' wi' ye!
And ever when ye meet me, laugh.

I Gent. We will, sir.

[Exeunt.]

‡ SCENE III.—A Room in La Castre's House.

Enter NANTOLET, LA CASTRE, DE GARD, LUGIER, and MIRABEL.

Mir. Your patience, gentlemen! Why do ye bait me?

Nant. Is't not a shame you are so stubborn-hearted,
So stony and so dull, to such a lady,
Of her perfections and her misery?

Lug. Does she not love you? Does not her distraction
For your sake only, her most pitied lunacy
Of all but you, show ye? Does it not compel ye?

Mir. Soft and fair, gentlemen; pray ye proceed temperately.

Lug. If you have any feeling, any sense in you,
The least touch of a noble heart——

La Ca. Let him alone:

It is his glory that he can kill beauty.
You bear my stamp, but not my tenderness;
Your wild unsavoury courses set that in you!
For shame, be sorry, though you cannot cure her;
Show something of a man, of a fair nature.

Mir. You make me mad!

De Ga. Let me pronounce this to you;
You take a strange felicity in slighting
And wronging women, which my poor sister feels now;
Heaven's hand be gentle on her! Mark me, sir,
That very hour she dies (there's small hope otherwise)
That minute, you and I must grapple for it;
Either your life or mine!

Mir. Be not so hot, sir;

I am not to be wrought on by these policies,
In truth, I am not! nor do I fear the tricks,
Or the high-sounding threats, of a Savoyan.
I glory not in cruelty (ye wrong me)
Nor grow up water'd with the tears of women.
This let me tell ye, howso'er I show to ye,
Wild, as ye please to call it, or self-will'd,

When I see cause I can both do and suffer,
Freely, and feelingly, as a true gentleman.

Enter ROSALURA and LILLIA.

Ros. Oh, pity, pity! thousand, thousand pities!

Lil. Alas, poor soul! she will die! she is grown senseless;
She will not know, nor speak now.

Ros. Die for love?

And love of such a youth? I would die for a dog first!
He that kills me, I'll give him leave to eat me!

I'll know men better, ere I sigh for any of 'em.

Lil. Ye have done a worthy act, sir, a most famous;

You have kill'd a maid the wrong way; ye're a conqueror!

Ros. A conqueror? a cobbler! Hang him, sowter!

Go hide thyself, for shame! go lose thy memory!

Live not 'mongst men; thou art a beast, a monster,
A blatant beast!

Lil. If you have yet any honesty,

Or ever heard of any, take my counsel;

Off with your garters, and seek out a bough,

A handsome bough; for I would have you hang like a
gentleman;

And write some doleful matter to the world,

A warning to hard-hearted men.

Mir. Out, kittlings!

What catterwauling's here! what gibing!

Do you think my heart is soften'd with a black santis?

Show me some reason.

ORIANA is brought in, lying on a bed.

Ros. Here then, here is a reason.

Nant. Now, if ye be a man, let this sight shake ye!

La Ca. Alas, poor gentlewoman! Do you know me, lady?

Lug. How she looks up, and stares!

Ori. I know you very well;

You are my godfather: and that's the monsieur.

De Ga. And who am I?

Ori. You are Amadis de Gaul, sir.

Oh, oh, my heart! Were ye never in love, sweet lady?

And do you never dream of flowers and gardens?

I dream of walking fires: Take heed! It comes now.

Who's that? Pray stand away. I have seen that face sure.

How light my head is!

Ros. Take some rest.

Ori. I cannot;

For I must be up to-morrow to go to church,
And I must dress me, put my new gown on,
And be as fine to meet my love! Heigh-ho!

Will not you tell we where my love lies buried?

Mir. He is not dead.—Beshrew my heart, she stirs me!

[Aside.

Ori. He is dead to me.

Mir. Is't possible my nature
Should be so damnable, to let her suffer?—
Give me your hand.

Ori. How soft you feel, how gentle!
I'll tell you your fortune, friend.

Mir. How she stares on me!

Ori. You have a flattering face, but 'tis a fine one;
I warrant you may have a hundred sweethearts.
Will ye pray for me? I shall die to-morrow;
And will ye ring the bells?

Mir. I am most unworthy,
I do confess, unhappy. Do you know me?

Ori. I would I did!

Mir. Oh, fair tears, how ye take me!

Ori. Do ye weep too? You have not lost your lover?
You mock me; I'll go home and pray.

Mir. Pray you pardon me;
Or, if it please you to consider justly,
Scorn me, for I deserve it; scorn and shame me,
Sweet Oriana!

Lil. Let her alone; she trembles:
Her fits will grow more strong, if ye provoke her.

La Ca. Certain she knows you not, yet loves to see you.
How she smiles now!

Enter BELLEUR.

Bel. Where are ye? Oh, why do not you laugh? Come, laugh at me!

Why 'a devil art thou sad, and such a subject,
Such a ridiculous subject, as I am,
Before thy face?

Mir. Pr'ythee put off this lightness;

This is no time for mirth, nor place; I have used too much on't:

I have undone myself, and a sweet lady,
By being too indulgent to my foolery,
Which truly I repent. Look here!

Bel. What ails she?

Mir. Alas, she is mad.

Bel. Mad?

Mir. Yes, too sure; for me too.

Bel. Dost thou wonder at that? By this good light, they are all so;

They are cozening mad, they are brawling mad, they are proud mad;

They are all, all mad. I came from a world of mad women,

Mad as March hares: Get 'em in chains, then deal with 'em.

There's one that's mad; she seems well, but she is dog-mad.

Is she dead, dost think?

Mir. Dead? Heaven forbid!

Bel. Heaven further it!

For, till they be key-cold dead, there's no trusting of 'em.
Whate'er they seem, or howsoe'er they carry it,
Till they be chap-fall'n, and their tongues at peace,
Nail'd in their coffins sure, I'll ne'er believe 'em.
Shall I talk with her?

Mir. No, dear friend, be quiet,
And be at peace a while.

Bel. I'll walk aside,
And come again anon. But take heed to her:
You say she is a woman?

Mir. Yes.

Bel. Take great heed;
For if she do not cozen thee, then hang me.
Let her be mad, or what she will, she'll cheat thee!

[Exit.

Mir. Away, wild fool!—How vile this shows in him now!
Now take my faith (before ye all I speak it)
And with it my repentant love.

La Ca. This seems well.

Mir. Were but this lady clear again, whose sorrows
My very heart melts for, were she but perfect

(For thus to marry her would be two miseries),
 Before the richest and the noblest beauty,
 France, or the world could show me, I would take her:
 As she now is, my tears and prayers shall wed her.

De Ga. This makes some small amends.

Ros. She beckons to you:

To us too, to go off.

Nant. Let's draw aside all.

[Exeunt all but Oriana and Mirabel.]

Ori. Oh, my best friend! I would fain——

Mir. What! She speaks well,

And with another voice.

Ori. But I am fearful,

And shame a little stops my tongue——

Mir. Speak boldly.

Ori. Tell you, I am well, I am perfect well (pray you mock
 not);

And that I did this to provoke your nature;

Out of my infinite and restless love,

To win your pity. Pardon me!

Mir. Go forward:

Who set you on?

Ori. None, as I live, no creature;

Not any knew, or ever dream'd what I meant.

Will you be mine?

Mir. 'Tis true, I pity you;

But when I marry you, you must be wiser.

Nothing but tricks? devices?

Ori. Will you shame me?

Mir. Yes, marry, will I.—Come near, come near! a miracle!

The woman's well; she was only mad for marriage,

Stark mad to be stoned to death; give her good counsel.—

Will this world never mend?—Are you caught, damsel?

Enter BELLEUR, LA CASTRE, LUGIER, NANTOLET, DE GARD, ROSALURA, and LILLIA.

Bel. How goes it now?

Mir. Thou art a kind of prophet;

The woman's well again, and would have gull'd me;

Well, excellent well, and not a taint upon her.

Bel. Did not I tell you? Let 'em be what can be,

Saints, devils, anything, they will abuse us.

Thou wert an ass to believe her so long, a coxcomb;
Give 'em a minute, they'll abuse whole millions.

Mir. And am not I a rare physician, gentlemen,
That can cure desperate mad minds?

De Ga. Be not insolent.

Mir. Well, go thy ways: From this hour I disclaim thee,
Unless thou hast a trick above this; then I'll love thee.
You owe me for your cure.—Pray have a care of her,
For fear she fall into a relapse.—Come, Belleur;
We'll set up bills to cure diseased virgins.

Bel. Shall we be merry?

Mir. Yes.

Bel. But I'll no more projects:
If we could make 'em mad, it were some mastery!

[Exeunt.]

Lil. I am glad she is well again.

Ros. So am I, certain.—
Be not ashamed.

Ori. I shall never see a man more.

De Ga. Come, you're a fool! had you but told me this trick,
He should not have gloried thus.

Lug. He shall not long, neither.

La Ca. Be ruled, and be at peace: You have my consent,
And what power I can work with.

Nant. Come, leave blushing;
We are your friends: An honest way compell'd you.
Heaven will not see so true a love unrecompensed.
Come in, and slight him too.

Lug. The next shall hit him.

[Exeunt.]

ACT V

SCENE I.—A Street.

Enter DE GARD and LUGIER.

De Ga. 'Twill be discover'd.

Lug. That's the worst can happen:
If there be any way to reach, and work upon him,
Upon his nature suddenly, and catch him—That he loves,
Though he dissemble it and would show contrary,
And will at length relent, I'll lay my fortune;
Nay, more, my life.

De Ga. Is she won?

Lug. Yes, and ready,
And my designments set.

De Ga. They are now for travel;
All for that game again; they have forgot wooing.

Lug. Let 'em; we'll travel with 'em.

De Ga. Where's his father?

Lug. Within; he knows my mind too, and allows it,
Pities your sister's fortune most sincerely;
And has appointed, for our more assistance,
Some of his secret friends.

De Ga. 'Speed the plough!

Lug. Well said:
And be you serious too.

De Ga. I shall be diligent.

Lug. Let's break the ice for one, the rest will drink too
(Believe me, sir) of the same cup: My young gentlewomen Wait but who sets the game a-foot; though they seem stubborn,
Reserv'd, and proud now, yet I know their hearts,
Their pulses how they beat, and for what cause, sir,
And how they long to venture their abilities
In a true quarrel. Husbands they must and will have,
Or nunneries, and thin collations
To cool their bloods. Let's all about our business;
And, if this fail, let Nature work!

De Ga. You have armed me.

[Exeunt.

SCENE II.—Before La Castre's House.

Enter MIRABEL, NANTOLET, and LA CASTRE.

La Ca. Will you be wilful then?

Mir. Pray, sir, your pardon;
For I must travel. Lie lazy here,
Bound to a wife? chain'd to her subtleties,
Her humours, and her wills, which are mere fetters?
To have her to-day pleased, to-morrow peevish,
The third day mad, the fourth rebellious?
You see, before they are married, what moriscoes,
What masques and mummeries they put upon us:
To be tied here, and suffer their lavoltas!

Nant. 'Tis your own seeking.

Mir. Yes, to get my freedom.

Were they as I could wish 'em——

La Ca. Fools and meacocks,

To endure what you think fit to put upon 'em!

Come, change your mind.

Mir. Not before I have changed air, father.

When I know women worthy of my company,

I will return again and wait upon 'em;

Till then, dear sir, I'll amble all the world over,

And run all hazards, misery, and poverty,

So I escape the dangerous bay of matrimony!

Enter BELLEUR and PINAC.

Pinac. Are you resolved?

Mir. Yes, certain; I will out again.

Pinac. We are for you, sir; we are your servants once more:

Once more we'll seek our fortune in strange countries:

Ours is too scornful for us.

Bel. Is there ne'er a land

That you have read, or heard of (for I care not how far it be,

Nor under what pestiferous star it lies),

A happy kingdom, where there are no women?

Nor have been ever? nor no mention

Of any such lewd things, with lewder qualities?

For thither would I travel; where 'tis felony

To confess he had a mother; a mistress, treason.

La Ca. Are you for travel too?

Bel. For anything,

For living in the moon, and stopping hedges,

Ere I stay here to be abused, and baffled.

Nant. Why did you not break your minds to me? they are my daughters;

And sure I think I should have that command over 'em,

To see 'em well bestow'd. I know ye are gentlemen,

Men of fair parts and states; I know your parents;

And had ye told me of your fair affections——

Make but one trial more, and let me second ye.

Bel. No; I'll make hob-nails first, and mend old kettles!

Can you lend me an armour of high proof, to appear in,

And two or three field-pieces to defend me?

The king's guard are mere pigmies.

Nant. They'll not eat you.

Bel. Yes, and you too, and twenty fatter monsieurs,
If their high stomachs hold: They came with choppingknives,

To cut me into rands and sirloins, and so powder me.—
Come, shall we go?

Nant. You cannot be so discourteous,
If ye intend to go, as not to visit 'em,
And take your leaves.

Mir. That we dare do, and civilly,
And thank 'em too.

Pinac. Yes, sir, we know that honesty.

Bel. I'll come i' th' rear, forty foot off, I'll assure you,
With a good gun in my hand; I'll no more Amazons,
I mean no more of their frights: I'll make my three legs,
Kiss my hand twice, and if I smell no danger,
If the interview be clear, may be I'll speak to her;
I'll wear a privy coat too, and behind me,
To make those parts secure, a bandog.

La Ca. You are a merry gentleman.

Bel. A wary gentleman, I do assure you;
I have been warn'd, and must be arm'd.

La Ca. Well, son,
These are your hasty thoughts; when I see you are bent
to it,
Then I'll believe, and join with you; so we'll leave ye.
There is a trick will make ye stay. [Exit.

Nant. I hope so. [Exit.

Mir. We have won immortal fame now, if we leave 'em.

Pinac. You have, but we have lost.

Mir. Pinac, thou art cozen'd;
I know they love you; and to gain you handsomely,
Not to be thought to yield, they would give millions:
Their father's willingness, that must needs show you.

Pinac. If I thought so——

Mir. You shall be hang'd, you recreant!
Would you turn renegado now?

Bel. No; let's away, boys,
Out of the air and tumult of their villainies.
Though I were married to that grasshopper,
And had her fast by th' legs, I should think she would cozen me.

Enter a young Man, disguised as a Factor.

Fac. Monsieur Mirabel, I take it?

Mir. You are i' th' right, sir.

Fac. I am come to seek you, sir; I have been at your father's,
And understanding you were here——

Mir. You are welcome.

May I crave your name?

Fac. Fosse, sir, and your servant.

That you may know me better, I am factor
To your old merchant, Leverdure.

Mir. How does he?

Fac. Well, sir, I hope; he is now at Orleans,
About some business.

Mir. You are once more welcome.

Your master's a right honest man, and one
I am much beholding to, and must very shortly
Trouble his love again.

Fac. You may be bold, sir.

Mir. Your business, if you please now?

Fac. This it is, sir.

I know you well remember, in your travel,
A Genoa merchant——

Mir. I remember many.

Fac. But this man, sir, particularly; your own benefit
Must needs imprint him in you; one Alberto,
A gentleman you saved from being murder'd
A little from Bologna:
I was then myself in Italy, and supplied you;
Though happily you have forgot me now.

Mir. No, I remember you,

And that Alberto too; a noble gentleman.

More to remember were to thank myself, sir.

What of that gentleman?

Fac. He's dead.

Mir. I am sorry.

Fac. But on his death-bed, leaving to his sister
All that he had, beside some certain jewels
(Which, with a ceremony, he bequeathed to you,
In grateful memory), he commanded strictly
His sister, as she loved him and his peace,
To see those jewels safe and true deliver'd,
And, with them, his last love. She, as tender to Observe this will, not trusting friend nor servant

With such a weight, is come herself to Paris,
And at my master's house.

Mir. You tell me a wonder.

Fac. I tell you a truth, sir. She is young and handsome,
And well attended; of much state and riches;
So loving and obedient to her brother,
That, on my conscience, if he had given her also,
She would most willingly have made her tender.

Mir. May not I see her?

Fac. She desires it heartily.

Mir. And presently?

Fac. She is now about some business,
Passing accounts of some few debts here owing,
And buying jewels of a merchant.

Mir. Is she wealthy?

Fac. I would you had her, sir, at all adventure:
Her brother had a main state.

Mir. And fair too?

Fac. The prime of all those parts of Italy,
For beauty and for courtesy.

Mir. I must needs see her.

Fac. 'Tis all her business, sir. You may now see her;
But to-morrow will be fitter for your visitation,
For she's not yet prepared.

Mir. Only her sight, sir:

And, when you shall think fit, for further visit.

Fac. Sir, you may see her, and I'll wait your coming.

Mir. And I'll be with ye instantly. I know the house;
Meantime, my love, and thanks, sir!

Fac. Your poor servant.

[Exit.

Pinac. Thou hast the strangest luck! What was that Alberto?

Mir. An honest noble merchant, 'twas my chance
To rescue from some rogues had almost slain him;
And he in kindness to remember this!

Bel. Now we shall have you
(For all your protestations, and your forwardness)
Find out strange fortunes in this lady's eyes,
And new enticements to put off your journey;
And who shall have honour then?

Mir. No, no, never fear it:
I must needs see her, to receive my legacy.

Bel. If it be tied up in her smock, Heaven help thee!
May not we see too?

Mir. Yes, afore we go:
I must be known myself ere I be able
To make thee welcome. Wouldst thou see more women?
I thought you had been out of love with all.

Bel. I may be,
(I find that) with the least encouragement;
Yet I desire to see whether all countries
Are naturally possess'd with the same spirits,
For if they be, I'll take a monastery,
And never travel; for I had rather be a friar,
And live mew'd up, than be a fool, and flouted.

Mir. Well, well, I'll meet you anon, then tell you more, boys;
However, stand prepared, prest for our journey;
For certain, we shall go, I think, when I have seen her,
And view'd her well.

Pinac. Go, go, and we'll wait for ye;
Your fortune directs ours.

Bel. You shall find us i' th' tavern,
Lamenting in sack and sugar for our losses.
If she be right Italian, and want servants,
You may prefer the properest man: How I could Worry a woman now!

Pinac. Come, come, leave prating:
You may have enough to do, without this boasting.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE III.—A Room in La Castre's House.

Enter LUGIER, DE GARD, ROSALURA, and LILLIA BIANCA.

Lug. This is the last adventure.

De Ga. And the happiest,
As we hope, too.

Ros. We should be glad to find it.

Lil. Who shall conduct us thither?

Lug. Your man is ready,
For I must not be seen; no, nor this gentleman;
That may beget suspicion; all the rest
Are people of no doubt. I would have ye, ladies,
Keep your old liberties, and do as we instruct ye.
Come, look not pale, ye shall not lose your wishes,
Nor beg 'em neither, but be yourselves and happy.

Fac. Of a fair size, sir. My master not being at home,
I have been so out of my wits to get her company!
I mean, sir, of her own fair sex and fashion——

Mir. Afar off, she's most fair too.

Fac. Near, most excellent.—

At length, I have entreated two fair ladies
(And happily you know 'em), the young daughters
Of monsieur Nantolet——

Mir. I know 'em well, sir.

What are those? jewels?

Fac. All.

Mir. They make a rich show.

Fac. There is a matter of ten thousand pounds too
Was owing here: You see those merchants with her;
They have brought it in now.

Mir. How handsomely her shape shows!

Fac. Those are still neat; your Italians are most curious.
Now she looks this way.

Mir. She has a goodly presence!

How full of courtesy! Well, sir, I'll leave you;
And if I may be bold to bring a friend or two,
Good noble gentlemen——

Fac. No doubt, you may, sir;
For you have most command.

Mir. I have seen a wonder!

[Exit.

Ori. Is he gone?

Fac. Yes.

Ori. How?

Fac. Taken to the utmost:
A wonder dwells about him.

Ori. He did not guess at me?

Fac. No; be secure, you show another woman.
He is gone to fetch his friends.

Ori. Where are the gentlewomen?

Enter below ROSALURA, LILLIA, and Servant.

Fac. Here, here; now they are come,
Sit still, and let them see you.

Ros. Pray you, where's my friend, sir?

Fac. She is within, ladies; but here's another gentlewoman,
A stranger to this town: So please you visit her,
'Twill be well taken.

Lil. Where is she?

Fac. There, above, ladies.

Enter ROSALURA, LILLIA, and Servant.

Serv. Bless me! what thing is this? Two pinnacles
Upon her pate! Is't not a glade to catch woodcocks?

Ros. Peace, you rude knave!

Serv. What a bouncing bum she has too!
There's sail enough for a carrack.

Ros. What is this lady?

For, as I live, she is a goodly woman.

Fac. Guess, guess.

Lil. I have not seen a nobler presence.

Serv. 'Tis a lusty wench! Now could I spend my forty-pence,
With all my heart, to have but one fling at her,
To give her but a swashing blow.

Lil. You rascal!

Serv. Ay, that's all a man has for's good will: 'Twill be long enough

Before you cry, "Come, Anthony, and kiss me."

Lil. I'll have you whipt.

Ros. Has my friend seen this lady?

Fac. Yes, yes, and is well known to her.

Ros. I much admire her presence.

Lil. So do I too;

For, I protest, she is the handsomest,
The rarest, and the newest to mine eye,
That ever I saw yet.

Ros. I long to know her;
My friend shall do that kindness.

Ori. So she shall, ladies:

Come, pray you come up.

Ros. Oh me!

Lil. Hang me, if I knew her!
Were I a man myself, I should now love you;
Nay, I should dote.

Ros. I dare not trust mine eyes;
For, as I live, you are the strangest alter'd——
I must come up to know the truth.

Serv. So must I, lady;
For I'm a kind of unbeliever too.

Lil. Get you gone, sirrah;
And what you have seen be secret in; you are paid else!
No more of your long tongue.

Fac. Will ye go in, ladies,
And talk with her? These ventures will come straight.
Away with this fellow.

Lil. There, sirrah; go, disport you.

Serv. I would the trunk-hosed woman would go with me.

[Exit.]

SCENE V.—The Street before the same House.

Enter MIRABEL, PINAC, and BELLEUR.

Pinac. Is she so glorious handsome?

Mir. You would wonder;
Our women look like gipsies, like Gills to her;
Their clothes and fashions beggerly, and bankrupt,
Base, old, and scurvy.

Bel. How looks her face?

Mir. Most heavenly;
And the becoming motion of her body
So sets her off!

Bel. Why, then we shall stay.

Mir. Pardon me,
That's more than I know; if she be that woman
She appears to be——

Bel. As 'tis impossible.

Mir. I shall then tell you more.

Pinac. Did you speak to her?

Mir. No, no, I only saw her, she was busy:
Now I go for that end; and mark her, gentlemen,
If she appear not to you one of the sweetest,
The handsomest, the fairest, in behaviour——
We shall meet the two wenches there too; they come to visit her,
To wonder, as we do.

Pinac. Then we shall meet 'em.

Bel. I had rather meet two bears.

Mir. There you may take your leaves, dispatch that business,
And, as ye find their humours——

Pinac. Is your love there too?

Mir. No, certain; she has no great heart to set out again.
This is the house; I'll usher you.

Bel. I'll bless me,
And take a good heart, if I can.

Mir. Come, nobly.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE VI.—A Room in the same House.

Enter Factor, ROSALURA, LILLIA, and ORIANA.

Fac. They are come in. Sit you two off, as strangers.

Enter Boy.

There, lady.—Where's the boy? Be ready, sirrah,
And clear your pipes; the music now; they enter.

[Music.]

Enter MIRABEL, PINAC, and BELLEUR.

Pinac. What a state she keeps! How far off they sit from her!

How rich she is! Ay, marry, this shows bravely!

Bel. She is a lusty wench, and may allure a good man;
But if she have a tongue, I'll not give two-pence for her.
There sits my fury; how I shake to see her!

Fac. Madam, this is the gentleman.

Mir. How sweet she kisses!

She has a spring dwells on her lips, a Paradise!
This is the legacy.

SONG.

From the honour'd dead I bring
Thus his love and last off'ring.
Take it nobly, 'tis your due,
From a friendship ever true.
From a faith, etc.

Ori. Most noble sir,
This from my now-dead brother, as his love,
And grateful memory of your great benefit;
From me my thanks, my wishes, and my service.
Till I am more acquainted, I am silent;
Only I dare say this, you are truly noble.

Mir. What should I think?

Pinac. Think you've a handsome fortune:
'Would I had such another!

Ros. Ye are well met, gentlemen;

We hear ye are for travel?

Pinac. You hear true, lady;
And come to take our leaves.

Lil. We'll along with ye:
We see you're grown so witty by your journey,
We cannot chuse but step out too. This lady
We mean to wait upon as far as Italy.

Bel. I'll travel into Wales, amongst the mountains,
In hope they cannot find me.

Ros. If you go further,
So good and free society we hold ye,
We'll jog along too.

Pinac. Are you so valiant, lady?

Lil. And we'll be merry, sir, and laugh.

Pinac. It may be
We'll go by sea.

Lil. Why, 'tis the only voyage;
I love a sea-voyage, and a blustering tempest;
And let all split!

Pinac. This is a dainty damosel!
I think 'twill tame you.—Can you ride post?

Lil. Oh, excellently! I am never weary that way:
A hundred mile a-day is nothing with me.

Bel. I'll travel under ground. Do you hear, sweet lady?
I find it will be dangerous for a woman.

Ros. No danger, sir; I warrant; I love to be under.

Bel. I see she will abuse me all the world over!—
But say we pass through Germany, and drink hard?

Ros. We'll learn to drink and swagger too.

Bel. She'll beat me!—
Lady, I'll live at home.

Ros. And I'll live with thee;
And we'll keep house together.

Bel. I'll keep hounds first;
And those I hate right heartily.

Pinac. I go for Turkey!
And so it may be up into Persia.

Lil. We cannot know too much; I'll travel with you.

Pinac. And you'll abuse me?

Lil. Like enough.

Pinac. 'Tis dainty!

Bel. I will live in a bawdy-house.

Ros. I dare come to you.

Bel. Say I'm disposed to hang myself?

Ros. There I'll leave you.

Bel. I am glad I know how to avoid you.—

Mir. May I speak yet?

Fac. She beckons to you.

Mir. Lady, I could wish I knew to recompense,
Even with the service of my life, those pains,
And those high favours you have thrown upon me:
Till I be more desertful in your eye,
And till my duty shall make known I honour you,
Noblest of women, do me but this favour,
To accept this back again, as a poor testimony.

Ori. I must have you too with 'em; else the will,
That says they must rest with you, is infringed, sir;
Which, pardon me, I dare not do.

Mir. Take me then,
And take me with the truest love.

Ori. 'Tis certain,
My brother loved you dearly, and I ought
As dearly to preserve that love: But, sir,
Though I were willing, these are but your ceremonies.

Mir. As I have life, I speak my soul!

Ori. I like you:
But how you can like me, without I have testimony,
A stranger to you —

Mir. I'll marry you immediately;
A fair state I dare promise you.

Bel. Yet she'll cozen thee.

Ori. 'Would some fair gentleman durst promise for you!

Mir. By all that's good—

Enter LA CASTRE, NANTOLET, LUGIER, and DE GARD.

All. And we'll make up the rest, lady.

Ori. Then, Oriana takes you. Nay she has caught you!
If you start now, let all the world cry shame on you!
I have out-travell'd you.

Bel. Did not I say she would cheat thee?

Mir. I thank you! I am pleased you have deceived me,
And willingly I swallow it, and joy in't:
And yet, perhaps, I knew you. Whose plot was this?

Lug. He's not ashamed that cast it: He that executed,
Follow'd your father's will.

Mir. What a world's this!

Nothing but craft and cozenage?

Ori. Who begun, sir?

Mir. Well; I do take thee upon mere compassion;
And I do think I shall love thee. As a testimony,
I'll burn my book, and turn a new leaf over.
But these fine clothes you shall wear still.

Ori. I obey you, sir, in all.

Nant. And how, how, daughters? What say you to these gentlemen?

What say ye, gentlemen, to the girls?

Pinac. By my troth—if she can love me—

Lil. How long?

Pinac. Nay, if once you love—

Lil. Then take me,
And take your chance.

Pinac. Most willingly! You are mine, lady;
And if I use you not, that you may love me—

Lil. A match, i' faith.

Pinac. Why, now you travel with me.

Ros. How that thing stands!

Bel. It will, if you urge it.
Bless your five wits!

Ros. Nay, pr'ythee, stay; I'll have thee.

Bel. You must ask me leave first.

Ros. Wilt thou use me kindly,
And beat me but once a week?

Bel. If you deserve no more.

Ros. And wilt thou get me with child?

Bel. Dost thou ask me seriously?

Ros. Yes, indeed do I.

Bel. Yes, I will get thee with child. Come presently,
An't be but in revenge, I'll do thee that courtesy.
Well, if thou wilt fear God, and me, have at thee!

Ros. I'll love you, and I'll honour you.

Bel. I am pleased then.

Mir. This Wild-Goose Chase is done; we have won o' both sides.

Brother, your love, and now to church of all hands;
Let's lose no time.

Pinac. Our travelling lay by.

Bel. No more for Italy; for the Low Countries, I. [Exeunt.]

SCENE.—BRITAIN.

ACT I

SCENE I.—The British Camp.

Enter BONDUCA, Daughters, HENGO, NENNIUS, and Soldiers.

Bond. The hardy Romans? Oh, ye gods of Britain,
The rust of arms, the blushing shame of soldiers!

Enter CARATACH.

Are these the men that conquer by inheritance?
The fortune-makers? these the Julians,
That with the sun measure the end of nature,
Making the world but one Rome, and one Cæsar?
Shame, how they flee! Cæsar's soft soul dwells in 'em,
Their mothers got 'em sleeping, Pleasure nursed 'em;
Their bodies sweat with sweet oils, love's allurements,
Not lusty arms. Dare they send these to seek us,
These Roman girls? Is Britain grown so wanton?
Twice we have beat 'em, Nennius, scatter'd 'em:
And through their big-boned Germans, on whose pikes

The honour of their actions sits in triumph,
 Made themes for songs to shame 'em: And a woman,
 A woman beat 'em, Nennius; a weak woman,
 A woman, beat these Romans!

Car. So it seems;

A man would shame to talk so.

Bond. Who's that?

Car. I.

Bond. Cousin, do you grieve my fortunes?

Car. No, Bonduca;

If I grieve, 'tis the bearing of your fortunes:
 You put too much wind to your sail; discretion
 And hardy valour are the twins of honour,
 And, nursed together, make a conqueror;
 Divided, but a talker. 'Tis a truth,
 That Rome has fled before us twice, and routed;
 A truth we ought to crown the gods for, lady,
 And not our tongues; a truth is none of ours,
 Nor in our ends, more than the noble bearing;
 For then it leaves to be a virtue, lady,
 And we, that have been victors, beat ourselves,
 When we insult upon our honour's subject.

Bond. My valiant cousin, is it foul to say
 What liberty and honour bid us do,
 And what the gods allow us?

Car. No, Bonduca;

So what we say exceed not what we do.
 You call the Romans "fearful, fleeing Romans,
 And Roman girls, the lees of tainted pleasures:"
 Does this become a doer? are they such?

Bond. They are no more.

Car. Where is your conquest then?

Why are your altars crown'd with wreaths of flowers?
 The beasts with gilt horns waiting for the fire?
 The holy Druides composing songs
 Of everlasting life to victory?
 Why are these triumphs, lady? for a May-game?
 For hunting a poor herd of wretched Romans?
 Is it no more? Shut up your temples, Britons,
 And let the husbandman redeem his heifers,
 Put out your holy fires, no timbrel ring,
 Let's home and sleep; for such great overthrows,
 A candle burns too bright a sacrifice,

A glow-worm's tail too full of flame.—Oh, Nennius,
Thou hadst a noble uncle knew a Roman,
And how to speak him, how to give him weight
In both his fortunes.

Bond. By the gods, I think

You dote upon these Romans, Caratach!

Car. Witness these wounds, I do; they were fairly given:

I love an enemy; I was born a soldier;
And he that in the head on's troop defies me,
Bending my manly body with his sword,
I make a mistress. Yellow-tressed Hymen
Ne'er tied a longing virgin with more joy,
Than I am married to that man that wounds me:
And are not all these Roman? Ten struck battles
I suck'd these honour'd scars from, and all Roman;
Ten years of bitter nights and heavy marches,
(When many a frozen storm sung through my cuirass,
And made it doubtful whether that or I
Were the more stubborn metal) have I wrought through,
And all to try these Romans. Ten times a-night
I have swam the rivers, when the stars of Rome
Shot at me as I floated, and the billows
Tumbled their watry ruins on my shoulders,
Charging my batter'd sides with troops of agues;
And still to try these Romans, whom I found
(And, if I lie, my wounds be henceforth backward,
And be you witness, gods, and all my dangers)
As ready, and as full of that I brought,
(Which was not fear, nor flight) as valiant,
As vigilant, as wise, to do and suffer,
Ever advanced as forward as the Britons,
Their sleeps as short, their hopes as high as ours,
Ay, and as subtle, lady. 'Tis dishonour,
And, follow'd, will be impudence, Bonduca,
And grow to no belief, to taint these Romans.
Have not I seen the Britons——

Bond. What?

Car. Dishearten'd,

Run, run, Bonduca! not the quick rack swifter!
The virgin from the hated ravisher
Not half so fearful; not a flight drawn home,
A round stone from a sling, a lover's wish,
E'er made that haste that they have. By the gods,

I have seen these Britons, that you magnify,
Run as they would have out-run time, and roaring,
Basely for mercy roaring; the light shadows,
That in a thought scur o'er the fields of corn,
Halted on crutches to 'em.

Bond. Oh, ye powers,
What scandals do I suffer!

Car. Yes, Bonduca,
I have seen thee run too; and thee, Nennius;
Yea, run apace, both; then, when Penius
(The Roman girl!) cut through your armed carts,
And drove 'em headlong on ye, down the hill;
Then, when he hunted ye like Britain foxes,
More by the scent than sight; then did I see
These valiant and approved men of Britain,
Like boding owls, creep into tods of ivy,
And hoot their fears to one another nightly.

Nen. And what did you then, Caratach?

Car. I fled too,
But not so fast; your jewel had been lost then,
Young Hengo there; he trasht me, Nennius:
For, when your fears out-run him, then stept I,
And in the head of all the Roman fury
Took him, and, with my tough belt, to my back
I buckled him; behind him my sure shield;
And then I follow'd. If I say I fought
Five times in bringing off this bud of Britain,
I lie not, Nennius. Neither had you heard
Me speak this, or ever seen the child more,
But that the sun of virtue, Penius,
Seeing me steer through all these storms of danger,
My helm still in my hand (my sword), my prow
Turn'd to my foe (my face), he cried out nobly,
"Go, Briton, bear thy lion's whelp off safely;
Thy manly sword has ransom'd thee; grow strong,
And let me meet thee once again in arms;
Then, if thou stand'st, thou'rt mine." I took his offer,
And here I am to honour him.

Bond. Oh, cousin,
From what a flight of honour hast thou check'd me!
What wouldst thou make me, Caratach?

Car. See, lady,
The noble use of others in our losses.

Does this afflict you? Had the Romans cried this,
 And, as we have done theirs, sung out these fortunes,
 Rail'd on our base condition, hooted at us,
 Made marks as far as th' earth was ours, to show us
 Nothing but sea could stop our flights, despised us,
 And held it equal whether banqueting
 Or beating of the Britons were more business,
 It would have gall'd you.

Bond. Let me think we conquer'd.

Car. Do; but so think, as we may be conquer'd;
 And where we have found virtue, though in those
 That came to make us slaves, let's cherish it.
 There's not a blow we gave since Julius landed,
 That was of strength and worth, but, like records,
 They file to after-ages. Our registers
 The Romans are, for noble deeds of honour;
 And shall we burn their mentions with upbraidings?

Bond. No more; I see myself. Thou hast made me, cousin,
 More than my fortunes durst, for they abused me,
 And wound me up so high, I swell'd with glory:
 Thy temperance has cured that tympany,
 And given me health again, nay, more, discretion.
 Shall we have peace? for now I love these Romans.

Car. Thy love and hate are both unwise ones, lady.

Bond. Your reason?

Nen. Is not peace the end of arms?

Car. Not where the cause implies a general conquest:
 Had we a difference with some petty isle,
 Or with our neighbours, lady, for our land-marks,
 The taking in of some rebellious lord,
 Or making head against commotions,
 After a day of blood, peace might be argued;
 But where we grapple for the ground we live on,
 The liberty we hold as dear as life,
 The gods we worship, and, next those, our honours,
 And with those swords that know no end of battle:
 Those men, beside themselves, allow no neighbour;
 Those minds that where the day is, claim inheritance,
 And where the sun makes ripe the fruits, their harvest,
 And where they march, but measure out more ground
 To add to Rome, and here i' th' bowels on us;
 It must not be. No, as they are our foes,
 And those that must be so until we tire 'em,

Let's use the peace of honour, that's fair dealing,
But in our hands our swords. That hardy Roman
That hopes to graft himself into my stock,
Must first begin his kindred under-ground,
And be allied in ashes.

Bond. Caratach,
As thou hast nobly spoken, shall be done;
And Hengo to thy charge I here deliver:
The Romans shall have worthy wars.

Car. They shall:
And, little sir, when your young bones grow stiffer,
And when I see you able in a morning
To beat a dozen boys, and then to breakfast,
I'll tie you to a sword.

Hengo. And what then, uncle?

Car. Then you must kill, sir, the next valiant Roman
That calls you knave.

Hengo. And must I kill but one?

Car. An hundred, boy, I hope.

Hengo. I hope five hundred.

Car. That is a noble boy!—Come, worthy lady,
Let's to our several charges, and henceforth
Allow an enemy both weight and worth. [Exeunt.

SCENE II.—The Roman Camp.

Enter JUNIUS and PETILLIUS.

Pet. What ail'st thou, man? dost thou want meat?

Jun. No.

Pet. Clothes?

Jun. Neither. For Heaven's love, leave me!

Pet. Drink?

Jun. You tire me.

Pet. Come, it is drink; I know 'tis drink.

Jun. 'Tis no drink.

Pet. I say 'tis drink; for what affliction
Can light so heavy on a soldier,
To dry him up as thou art, but no drink?
Thou shalt have drink.

Jun. Pr'ythee, Petillius—

Pet. And, by mine honour, much drink, valiant drink:
Never tell me, thou shalt have drink. I see,

Like a true friend, into thy wants; 'tis drink;
And when I leave thee to a desolation,
Especially of that dry nature, hang me.

Jun. Why do you do this to me?

Pet. For I see,
Although your modesty would fain conceal it,
Which sits as sweetly on a soldier
As an old side-saddle——

Jun. What do you see?

Pet. I see as fair as day, that thou want'st drink.
Did I not find thee gaping like an oyster
For a new tide? Thy very thoughts lie bare,
Like a low ebb; thy soul, that rid in sack,
Lies moor'd for want of liquor. Do but see
Into thyself; for, by the gods, I do;
For all thy body's chapt and crack'd like timber,
For want of moisture: What is't thou want'st there,
Junius,
An if it be not drink?

Jun. You have too much on't.

Pet. It may be a whore too; say it be; come, meecher,
Thou shalt have both; a pretty valiant fellow,
Die for a little lap and lechery?
No, it shall ne'er be said in our country,
Thou diedst o' th' chin-cough. Hear, thou noble Roman,
The son of her that loves a soldier,
Hear what I promised for thee! thus I said:
“Lady, I take thy son to my companion;
Lady, I love thy son, thy son loves war,
The war loves danger, danger drink, drink discipline,
Which is society and lechery;
These two beget commanders: Fear not, lady;
Thy son shall lead.”

Jun. 'Tis a strange thing, Petillius,
That so ridiculous and loose a mirth
Can master your affections.

Pet. Any mirth,
And any way, of any subject, Junius,
Is better than unmanly mustiness.
What harm's in drink? in a good wholesome wench?
I do beseech you, sir, what error? Yet
It cannot out of my head handsomely,
But thou wouldst fain be drunk; come, no more fooling;

The general has new wine, new come over.

Jun. He must have new acquaintance for it too,
For I will none, I thank ye.

Pet. "None, I thank you?"

A short and touchy answer! "None, I thank you?"
You do not scorn it, do you?

Jun. Gods defend, sir!
I owe him still more honour.

Pet. "None, I thank you?"

No company, no drink, no wench, "I thank you?"
You shall be worse entreated, sir.

Jun. Petilius,
As thou art honest, leave me!

Pet. "None, I thank you?"

A modest and a decent resolution,
And well put on. Yes; I will leave you, Junius,
And leave you to the boys, that very shortly
Shall all salute you, by your new surname
Of "Junius None-I-thank-you." I would starve now,
Hang, drown, despair, deserve the forks, lie open
To all the dangerous passes of a wench,
Bound to believe her tears, and wed her aches,
Ere I would own thy follies. I have found you,
Your lays, and out-leaps, Junius, haunts, and lodges;
I have viewed you, and I have found you by my skill
To be a fool o' th' first head, Junius,
And I will hunt you: You are in love, I know it;
You are an ass, and all the camp shall know it;
A peevish idle boy, your dame shall know it;
A wronger of my care, yourself shall know it.

Enter JUDAS and four Soldiers.

Judas. A bean? a princely diet, a full banquet,
To what we compass.

1 Sold. Fight like hogs for acorns?

2 Sold. Venture our lives for pig-nuts?

Pet. What ail these rascals?

3 Sold. If this hold we are starved.

Judas. For my part, friends,
Which is but twenty beans a-day (a hard world
For officers, and men of action!)
And those so clipt by Master Mouse, and rotten—
(For understand 'em French beans, where the fruits

Are ripen'd like the people, in old tubs)
 For mine own part, I say, I am starved already,
 Not worth another bean, consumed to nothing,
 Nothing but flesh and bones left, miserable:
 Now if this musty provender can prick me
 To honourable matters of atchievement, gentlemen,
 Why, there's the point.

4 Sold. I'll fight no more.

Pet. You'll hang then!

A sovereign help for hunger. Ye eating rascals,
 Whose gods are beef and brewis! whose brave angers
 Do execution upon these, and chibbals!
 Ye dog's head in the porridge-pot! ye fight no more?
 Does Rome depend upon your resolution
 For eating mouldy pie-crust?

3 Sold. 'Would we had it!

Judas. I may do service, captain.

Pet. In a fish-market.

You, corporal Curry-comb, what will your fighting
 Profit the commonwealth? Do you hope to triumph?
 Or dare your vamping valour, goodman Cobler,
 Clap a new sole to th' kingdom? 'Sdeath, ye dog-
 whelps,
 You fight, or not fight!

Judas. Captain!

Pet. Out, ye flesh-flies!

Nothing but noise and nastiness!

Judas. Give us meat,

Whereby we may do.

Pet. Whereby hangs your valour?

Judas. Good bits afford good blows.

Pet. A good position:

How long is't since thou eat'st last? Wipe thy mouth,
 And then tell truth.

Judas. I have not eat to th' purpose——

Pet. "To th' purpose?" what's that? half a cow and garlick?

Ye rogues, my company eat turf, and talk not;
 Timber they can digest, and fight upon't;
 Old mats, and mud with spoons, rare meats. Your shoes, slaves;

Dare ye cry out for hunger, and those extant?

Suck your sword-hilts, ye slaves; if ye be valiant,

Honour will make 'em marchpane. "To the purpose?"

A grievous penance! Dost thou see that gentleman,
That melancholy monsieur?

Jun. Pray you, Petillius!

Pet. He has not eat these three weeks.

2 Sold. He has drunk the more then.

3 Sold. And that's all one.

Pet. Nor drunk nor slept these two months.

Judas. Captain, we do beseech you, as poor soldiers,
Men that have seen good days, whose mortal stomachs
May sometimes feel afflictions—— [To Junius.

Jun. This, Petillius,
Is not so nobly done.

Pet. 'Tis common profit;
Urge him to th' point, he'll find you out a food
That needs no teeth nor stomach; a strange furmity
Will feed you up as fat as hens i' th' foreheads,
And make ye fight like fichoks; to him.

Judas. Captain——

Jun. Do you long to have your throats cut?

Pet. See what mettle
It makes in him: Two meals more of this melancholy,
And there lies Caratach.

Judas. We do beseech you——

2 Sold. Humbly beseech your valour——

Jun. Am I only
Become your sport, Petillius?

Judas. But to render
In way of general good, in preservation——

Jun. Out of my thoughts, ye slaves!

4 Sold. Or rather pity——

3 Sold. Your warlike remedy against the maw-worms.

Judas. Or notable receipt to live by nothing.

Pet. Out with your table-books!

Jun. Is this true friendship?
And must my killing griefs make others' May-games?

[Draws.
Stand from my sword's point, slaves! your poor starved spirits

Can make me no oblations; else, oh, Love,
Thou proudly-blind destruction, I would send thee
Whole hecatombs of hearts, to bleed my sorrows.

[Exit Junius.

Judas. Alas, he lives by love, sir.

Pet. So he does, sir;
 And cannot you do so too? All my company
 Are now in love; ne'er think of meat, nor talk
 Of what provant is: Ay-mes, and hearty hey-hoes
 Are sallads fit for soldiers. Live by meat?
 By larding up your bodies? 'tis lewd, and lazy,
 And shows ye merely mortal, dull, and drives ye
 To fight, like camels, with baskets at your noses.
 Get ye in love! Ye can whore well enough,
 That all the world knows; fast ye into famine,
 Yet ye can crawl like crabs to wenches; handsomely
 Fall but in love now, as ye see example,
 And follow it but with all your thoughts, probatum,
 There's so much charge saved, and your hunger's ended.
[Drum afar off.]
 Away! I hear the general. Get ye in love all,
 Up to the ears in love, that I may hear
 No more of these rude murmurings; and discretely
 Carry your stomachs, or I prophesy
 A pickled rope will choke ye. Jog, and talk not!
[Exeunt.]

Enter SÜETONIUS, DEMETRIUS, DECIUS, Drum and Colours.

Suet. Demetrius, is the messenger dispatch'd
 To Penius, to command him to bring up
 The Volans regiment!

Dem. He's there by this time.

Suet. And are the horse well view'd we brought from Mona?

Dec. The troops are full and lusty.

Suet. Good Petillius,
 Look to those eating rogues, that bawl for victuals,
 And stop their throats a day or two: Provision
 Waits but the wind to reach us.

Pet. Sir, already
 I have been tampering with their stomachs, which I find
 As deaf as adders to delays: Your clemency
 Hath made their murmurs, mutinies; nay, rebellions;
 Now, an they want but mustard, they are in uproars!
 No oil but Candy, Lusitanian figs,
 And wine from Lesbos, now can satisfy 'em;
 The British waters are grown dull and muddy,
 The fruit disgustful; Orontes must be sought for,

And apples from the Happy Isles; the truth is,
 They are more curious now in having nothing,
 Than if the sea and land turned up their treasures.
 This lost the colonies, and gave Bonduca
 (With shame we must record it) time and strength
 To look into our fortunes; great discretion
 To follow offer'd victory; and last, full pride
 To brave us to our teeth, and scorn our ruins.

Suet. Nay, chide not, good Petillius! I confess
 My will to conquer Mona, and long stay
 To execute that will, let in these losses;
 All shall be right again, and, as a pine,
 Rent from Oëta by a sweeping tempest,
 Jointed again, and made a mast, defies
 Those angry winds that split him; so will I,
 Pieced to my never-failing strength and fortune,
 Steer through these swelling dangers, plough their prides up,
 And bear like thunder through their loudest tempests.
 They keep the field still?

Dem. Confident and full.

Pet. In such a number, one would swear they grew:
 The hills are wooded with their partizans,
 And all the vallies overgrown with darts,
 As moors are with rank rushes; no ground left us
 To charge upon, no room to strike. Say fortune
 And our endeavours bring us into 'em,
 They are so infinite, so ever-springing,
 We shall be kill'd with killing; of desperate women,
 That neither fear or shame e'er found, the devil
 Has rank'd amongst 'em multitudes; say the men fail,
 They'll poison us with their petticoats; say they fail,
 They have priests enough to pray us into nothing.

Suet. These are imaginations, dreams of nothings;
 The man that doubts or fears——

Dec. I am free of both.

Dem. The self-same I.

Pet. And I as free as any;
 As careless of my flesh, of that we call life,
 So I may lose it nobly, as indifferent
 As if it were my diet. Yet, noble general,
 It was a wisdom learn'd from you, I learn'd it,
 And worthy of a soldier's care, most worthy,

To weigh with most deliberate circumstance
 The ends of accidents, above their offers;
 How to go on, and yet to save a Roman,
 Whose one life is more worth in way of doing,
 Than millions of these painted wasps; how, viewing,
 To find advantage out; how, found, to follow it
 With counsel and discretion, lest mere fortune
 Should claim the victory.

Suet. 'Tis true, Petillius,
 And worthily remember'd: The rule is certain,
 The uses no less excellent; but where time
 Cuts off occasions, danger, time and all
 Tend to a present peril, 'tis required
 Our swords and manhoods be best counsellors,
 Our expeditions, precedents. To win is nothing,
 Where Reason, Time, and Counsel are our camp-masters:
 But there to bear the field, then to be conquerors,
 Where pale Destruction takes us, takes us beaten,
 In wants and mutinies, ourselves but handfuls,
 And to ourselves our own fears, needs a new way,
 A sudden and a desperate execution:
 Here, how to save, is loss; to be wise, dangerous;
 Only a present well-united strength,
 And minds made up for all attempts, dispatch it:
 Disputing and delay here cool the courage;
 Necessity gives [no] time for doubts; things infinite,
 According to the spirit they are preached to;
 Rewards like them, and names for after-ages,
 Must steel the soldier, his own shame help to arm
 him:

And having forced his spirit, ere he cools,
 Fling him upon his enemies; sudden and swift,
 Like tigers amongst foxes, we must fight for't:
 Fury must be our fortune; shame we have lost,
 Spurs ever in our sides to prick us forward:
 There is no other wisdom nor discretion
 Due to this day of ruin, but destruction;
 The soldier's order first, and then his anger.

Dem. No doubt they dare redeem all.

Suet. Then no doubt
 The day must needs be ours. That the proud woman
 Is infinite in number better likes me,
 Than if we dealt with squadrons; half her army

Shall choke themselves, their own swords dig their graves.

I'll tell ye all my fears; one single valour,
The virtues of the valiant Caratach,
More doubts me than all Britain. He's a soldier
So forged out, and so temper'd for great fortunes,
So much man thrust into him, so old in dangers,
So fortunate in all attempts, that his mere name
Fights in a thousand men, himself in millions,
To make him Roman: But no more.—Petillius,
How stands your charge?

Pet. Ready for all employments,
To be commanded too, sir.

Suet. 'Tis well govern'd;
To-morrow we'll draw out, and view the cohorts:
I' th' mean time, all apply their offices.
Where's Junius?

Pet. In's cabin, sick o' th' mumps, sir.

Suet. How?

Pet. In love, indeed in love, most lamentably loving,
To the tune of Queen Dido.

Dec. Alas poor gentleman!

Suet. 'Twill make him fight the nobler. With what lady?
I'll be a spokesman for him.

Pet. You'll scant speed, sir.

Suet. Who is't?

Pet. The devil's dam, Bonduca's daughter,
Her youngest, crack'd i' th' ring.

Suet. I am sorry for him:
But sure his own discretion will reclaim him;
He must deserve our anger else. Good captains,
Apply yourselves in all the pleasing forms
Ye can, unto the soldiers; fire their spirits,
And set 'em fit to run this action;
Mine own provisions shall be shared amongst 'em,
Till more come in; tell 'em, if now they conquer,
The fat of all the kingdom lies before 'em.
Their shames forgot, their honours infinite,
And want for ever banish'd. Two days hence,
Our fortunes, and our swords, and gods be for us!

[Exeunt.]

ACT II

SCENE I.—The same. The Tent of Penius.Enter PENIUS, REGULUS, MACER, and DRUSIUS.Pen. I must come?Macer. So the general commands, sir.Pen. I must bring up my regiment?Macer. Believe, sir,
I bring no lie.Pen. But did he say, I must come?Macer. So delivered.Pen. How long is't, Regulus, since I commanded
In Britain here?Reg. About five years, great Penius.Pen. The general some five months. Are all my actions
So poor and lost, my services so barren,
That I am remember'd in no nobler language
But must come up?Macer. I do beseech you, sir,
Weigh but the time's estate.Pen. Yes, good lieutenant,
I do, and his that sways it. Must come up?
Am I turn'd bare centurion? Must and shall,
Fit embassies to court my honour?Macer. Sir——Pen. Set me to lead a handful of my men
Against an hundred thousand barbarous slaves,
That have march'd name by name with Rome's best doers?
Serve 'em up some other meat; I'll bring no food
To stop the jaws of all those hungry wolves:
My regiment's mine own. I must, my language?Enter CURIUS.Cur. Penius, where lies the host?Pen. Where Fate may find 'em.Cur. Are they ingirt?Pen. The battle's lost.Cur. So soon?Pen. No; but 'tis lost, because it must be won;
The Britons must be victors. Whoe'er saw

A troop of bloody vultures hovering
 About a few corrupted carcasses,
 Let him behold the silly Roman host,
 Girded with millions of fierce Britain swains,
 With deaths as many as they have had hopes;
 And then go thither, he that loves his shame!
 I scorn my life, yet dare not lose my name.

Cur. Do not you hold it a most famous end,
 When both our names and lives are sacrificed
 For Rome's increase?

Pen. Yes, Curius; but mark this too:
 What glory is there, or what lasting fame
 Can be to Rome or us, what full example,
 When one is smother'd with a multitude,
 And crowded in amongst a nameless press?
 Honour got out of flint, and on their heads
 Whose virtues, like the sun, exhaled all valours,
 Must not be lost in mists and fogs of people,
 Noteless and not of name, but rude and naked:
 Nor can Rome task us with impossibilities,
 Or bid us fight against a flood; we serve her,
 That she may proudly say she has good soldiers,
 Not slaves, to choke all hazards. Who but fools,
 That make no difference betwixt certain dying,
 And dying well, would fling their fames and fortunes
 Into this Britain gulf, this quicksand ruin,
 That, sinking, swallows us? what noble hand
 Can find a subject fit for blood there? or what sword
 Room for his execution? what air to cool us,
 But poison'd with their blasting breaths and curses,
 Where we lie buried quick above the ground,
 And are with labouring sweat, and breathless pain,
 Kill'd like to slaves, and cannot kill again?

Drus. Penius, mark ancient wars, and know that then
 A captain weigh'd an hundred thousand men.

Pen. Drusius, mark ancient wisdom, and you'll find then,
 He gave the overthrow that saved his men.
 I must not go.

Reg. The soldiers are desirous,
 Their eagles all drawn out, sir.

Pen. Who drew up, Regulus?
 Ha? speak! did you? whose bold will durst attempt
 this?

Drawn out? why, who commands, sir? on whose warrant

Durst they advance?

Reg. I keep mine own obedience.

Drus. 'Tis like the general cause, their love of honour,
Relieving of their wants——

Pen. Without my knowledge?

Am I no more? my place but at their pleasures?

Come, who did this?

Drus. By Heaven, sir, I am ignorant.

[Drum softly within, then enter Soldiers, with drum and colours.]

Pen. What! am I grown a shadow?—Hark! they march.

I'll know, and will be myself.—Stand! Disobedience?

He that advances one foot higher, dies for't.

Run through the regiment, upon your duties,

And charge 'em on command, beat back again;

By Heaven, I'll tithe 'em all else!

Reg. We'll do our best. [Exeunt Drusius and Regulus.]

Pen. Back! cease your bawling drums there,

I'll beat the tubs about your brains else. Back!

Do I speak with less fear than thunder to ye?

Must I stand to beseech ye? Home, home!—Ha!

Do ye stare upon me? Are those minds I moulded,

Those honest valiant tempers I was proud

To be a fellow to, those great discretions

Made your names fear'd and honour'd, turn'd to wild-fires?

Oh, gods, to disobedience? Command, farewell!

And be ye witness with me, all things sacred,

I have no share in these men's shames! March, soldiers,

And seek your own sad ruins; your old Penius

Dares not behold your murders.

1 Sold. Captain!

2 Sold. Captain!

3 Sold. Dear, honour'd captain!

Pen. Too, too dear-loved soldiers,

Which made ye weary of me, and Heaven yet knows,

Though in your mutinies, I dare not hate you;

Take your own wills! 'tis fit your long experience

Should now know how to rule yourselves; I wrong ye,

In wishing ye to save your lives and credits,

To keep your necks whole from the axe hangs o'er ye:

Alas, I much dishonour'd ye; go, seek the Britons,
 And say ye come to glut their sacrifices;
 But do not say I sent ye. What ye have been,
 How excellent in all parts, good and govern'd,
 Is only left of my command, for story;
 What now ye are, for pity. Fare ye well! [Going.]

Enter DRUSIUS and REGULUS.

Drus. Oh, turn again, great Penius! see the soldier
 In all points apt for duty.

Reg. See his sorrow
 For his disobedience, which he says was haste,
 And haste, he thought, to please you with. See, captain,
 The toughness of his courage turn'd to water;
 See how his manly heart melts.

Pen. Go; beat homeward;
 There learn to eat your little with obedience;
 And henceforth strive to do as I direct ye.

[Exeunt Soldiers.]

Macer. My answer, sir.

Pen. Tell the great general,
 My companies are no faggots to fill breaches:
 Myself no man that must, or shall, can carry:
 Bid him be wise, and where he is, he's safe then;
 And when he finds out possibilities,
 He may command me. Commend me to the captains.

Macer. All this I shall deliver.

Pen. Farewell, Macer! [Exit.]

Cur. Pray gods this breed no mischief!

Reg. It must needs,
 If stout Suetonius win; for then his anger,
 Besides the soldiers' loss of due and honour,
 Will break together on him.

Drus. He's a brave fellow;
 And but a little hide his haughtiness,
 (Which is but sometimes neither, on some causes)
 He shows the worthiest Roman this day living.
 You may, good Curius, to the general
 Make all things seem the best.

Cur. I shall endeavour.
 Pray for our fortunes, gentlemen; if we fall,
 This one farewell serves for a funeral.

The gods make sharp our swords, and steel our hearts!
Reg. We dare, alas, but cannot fight our parts. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—The Tent of Junius.

Enter JUNIUS, PETILLIUS, and a Herald.

Pet. Let him go on. Stay; now he talks.

Jun. Why,
 Why should I love mine enemy? what is beauty?
 Of what strange violence, that, like the plague,
 It works upon our spirits? Blind they feign him;
 I am sure, I find it so——

Pet. A dog shall lead you.

Jun. His fond affections blinder——

Pet. Hold you there still!

Jun. It takes away my sleep——

Pet. Alas, poor chicken!

Jun. My company, content, almost my fashion——

Pet. Yes, and your weight too, if you follow it.

Jun. 'Tis sure the plague, for no man dare come near me
 Without an antidote; 'tis far worse, hell.

Pet. Thou art damn'd without redemption then.

Jun. The way to't
 Strew'd with fair western smiles, and April blushes,
 Led by the brightest constellations; eyes,
 And sweet proportions, envying Heaven; but from thence

No way to guide, no path, no wisdom brings us.

Pet. Yes, a smart water, Junius.

Jun. Do I fool?
 Know all this, and fool still? Do I know further,
 That when we have enjoy'd our ends we lose 'em,
 And all our appetites are but as dreams
 We laugh at in our ages?—

Pet. Sweet philosopher!

Jun. Do I know on still, and yet know nothing? Mercy, gods!

Why am I thus ridiculous?

Pet. Motley on thee,
 Thou art an arrant ass.

Jun. Can red and white,
 An eye, a nose, a cheek——

Pet. But one cheek, Junius?
An half-faced mistress?

Jun. With a little trim,
That wanton fools call fashion, thus abuse me?
Take me beyond my reason? Why should not I
Dote on my horse well trapt, my sword well hatch'd?
They are as handsome things, to me more useful,
And possible to rule too. Did I but love,
Yet 'twere excusable, my youth would bear it:
But to love there, and that no time can give me,
Mine honour dare not ask (she has been ravish'd),
My nature must not know (she hates our nation),
Thus to dispose my spirit!

Pet. Stay a little; he will declaim again.

Jun. I will not love! I am a man, have reason,
And I will use it; I'll no more tormenting,
Nor whining for a wench; there are a thousand——

Pet. Hold thee there, boy!

Jun. A thousand will entreat me.

Pet. Ten thousand, Junius.

Jun. I am young and lusty,
And to my fashion valiant; can please nightly.

Pet. I'll swear thy back's probatum, for I have known thee
Leap at sixteen like a strong stallion.

Jun. I will be man again.

Pet. Now mark the working!
The devil and the spirit tug for't: Twenty pound
Upon the devil's head!

Jun. I must be wretched!

Pet. I knew I had won.

Jun. Nor have I so much power
To shun my fortune.

Pet. I will hunt thy fortune
With all the shapes imagination breeds,
But I will fright thy devil. Stay, he sings now.

[Song by Junius, and Petillius after him in mockage.]

Jun. Must I be thus abused?

Pet. Yes, marry must you.

Let's follow him close: Oh, there he is; now read it.

Herald. [Reads.] It is the general's command, that all sick persons, old and unable, retire within the trenches; he that fears, has liberty to leave the field: Fools, boys, and cowards, must not come near the regiments, for fear of their infections; especially those cowards they call lovers.

Jun. Ha?

Pet. Read on.

Herald. [Reads.] If any common soldier love an enemy, he's whipp'd and made a slave: If any captain, cast, with loss of honours, flung out o' th' army, and made unable ever after to bear the name of a soldier.

Jun. The pox consume ye all, rogues! [Exit.

Pet. Let this work;
He has something now to chew upon. He's gone;
Come, shake no more.

Herald. Well, sir, you may command me,
But not to do the like again for Europe;
I would have given my life for a bent two-pence,
If I e'er read to lovers whilst I live again,
Or come within their confines——

Pet. There's your payment,
And keep this private.

Herald. I am school'd for talking. [Exit.

Enter DEMETRIUS.

Pet. Now now, Demetrius? are we drawn?

Dem. 'Tis doing:

Your company stands fair. But pray you, where's Junius?

Half his command are wanting, with some forty That Decius leads.

Pet. Hunting for victuals.

Upon my life, free-booting rogues! their stomachs
Are like a widow's lust, ne'er satisfied.

Dem. I wonder how they dare stir, knowing the enemy
Master of all the country.

Pet. Resolute hungers

Know neither fears nor faiths; they tread on ladders,
Ropes, gallows, and overdo all dangers.

Dem. They may be hang'd though.

Pet. There's their joyful supper;
And no doubt they are at it.

Dem. But, for Heaven's sake,
How does young Junius?

Pet. Drawing on, poor gentleman.

Dem. What, to his end?

Pet. To the end of all flesh, woman.

Dem. This love has made him a stout soldier.

- Pet.* Oh, a great one,
Fit to command young goslings. But what news?
- Dem.* I think the messenger's come back from Penius
By this time; let's go know.
- Pet.* What will you say now
If he deny to come, and take exceptions
At some half syllable, or sound deliver'd
With an ill accent, or some style left out?
- Dem.* I cannot think he dare.
- Pet.* He dare speak treason,
Dare say what no man dares believe, dares do——
But that's all one; I'll lay you my black armour
To twenty crowns, he comes not.
- Dem.* Done.
- Pet.* You'll pay?
- Dem.* I will.
- Pet.* Then keep thine old use, Penius!
Be stubborn and vain-glorious, and I thank thee.
Come, let's go pray for six hours; most of us
I fear will trouble Heaven no more: Two good blows
Struck home at two commanders of the Britons,
And my part's done.
- Dem.* I do not think of dying.
- Pet.* 'Tis possible we may live; but, Demetrius,
With what strange legs, and arms, and eyes, and noses,
Let carpenters and copper-smiths consider.
If I can keep my heart whole, and my windpipe,
That I may drink yet like a soldier——
- Dem.* Come, let's have better thoughts; mine's on your armour.
- Pet.* Mine's in your purse, sir; let's go try the wager!
[Exeunt.]

SCENE III.—The British Camp. In the background, the Tent of Bonduca, with a raised Platform.

Enter Soldiers, bringing in JUDAS and his four companions (halters about their necks), BONDUCA, her Daughters, and NENNIUS following.

Bond. Come, hang 'em presently.

Nen. What made your rogueships
Harrying for victuals here? are we your friends?
Or do you come for spies? Tell me directly,

Would you not willingly be hang'd now? Don't ye long for't?

Judas. What say ye? shall we hang in this vein? Hang we must,

And 'tis as good to dispatch it merrily,
As pull an arse like dogs to't.

1 Sold. Any way,
So it be handsome.

3 Sold. I had as lieve 'twere toothsome too:
But all agree, and I'll not [stick] out, boys.

4 Sold. Let us hang pleasantly.

Judas. Then pleasantly be it:
Captain, the truth is,
We had as lieve hang with meat in our mouths,
As ask your pardon empty.

Bond. These are brave hungers.—
What say you to a leg of beef now, sirrah?

Judas. Bring me acquainted with it, and I'll tell ye.

Bond. Torment 'em, wenches (I must back), then hang 'em.
[Exit.]

Judas. We humbly thank your grace!

1 Daugh. The rogues laugh at us.

2 Daugh. Sirrah, what think you of a wench now?

Judas. A wench, lady?
I do beseech your ladyship, retire;
I'll tell you presently: You see the time's short;
One crash, even to the settling of my conscience.

Nen. Why, is't no more but up, boys?

Judas. Yes, ride too, captain;
Will you but see my seat?

1 Daugh. Ye shall be set, sir,
Upon a jade shall shake ye.

Judas. Sheets, good madam,
Will do it ten times better.

1 Daugh. Whips, good soldier,
Which you shall taste before you hang, to mortify you;
'Tis pity you should die thus desperate.

2 Daugh. These are the merry Romans, the brave madcaps:
'Tis ten to one we'll cool your resolutions.
Bring out the whips.

Judas. 'Would your good ladyships
Would exercise 'em too!

4 Sold. Surely, ladies,

We'll show you a strange patience.

Nen. Hang 'em, rascals!

They'll talk thus on the wheel.

Enter CARATACH.

Car. Now, what's the matter?

What are these fellows? what's the crime committed,
That they wear necklaces?

Nen. They are Roman rogues,
Taken a-foraging.

Car. Is that all, Nennius?

Judas. 'Would I were fairly hang'd! This is the devil,
The kill-cow Caratach.

Car. And you would hang 'em?

Nen. Are they not enemies?

1 Sold. My breech makes buttons.

1 Daugh. Are they not our tormentors?

Car. Tormentors? flea-traps!—

Pluck off your halters, fellows.

Nen. Take heed, Caratach;

Taint not your wisdom.

Car. Wisdom, Nennius?

Why, who shall fight against us, make our honours,
And give a glorious day into our hands,
If we dispatch our foes thus? What's their offence?
Stealing a loaf or two to keep out hunger?
A piece of greasy bacon, or a pudding?
Do these deserve the gallows? They are hungry,
Poor hungry knaves, no meat at home left, starved:
Art thou not hungry?

Judas. Monstrous hungry.

Car. He looks like Hunger's self. Get 'em some victuals,
And wine to cheer their hearts; quick! Hang up poor pilchers?

2 Sold. This is the bravest captain——

Nen. Caratach,

I'll leave you to your will.

Car. I'll answer all, sir.

2 Daugh. Let's up and view his entertainment of 'em!

I am glad they are shifted anyway; their tongues else
Would still have murder'd us.

1 Daugh. Let's up and see it!

[Exeunt.]

Enter HENGO.

Car. Sit down, poor knaves! Why, where's this wine and victuals?

Who waits there?

Serv. [Within.] Sir, 'tis coming.

Hengo. Who are these, uncle?

Car. They are Romans, boy.

Hengo. Are these they

That vex mine aunt so? can these fight? they look
Like empty scabbards all, no mettle in 'em;
Like men of clouts, set to keep crows from orchards:
Why, I dare fight with these.

Enter Servants with victuals and wine, and set out a table.

Car. That's my good chicken!—And how do ye?
How do ye feel your stomachs?

Judas. Wond'rous apt, sir;
As shall appear when time calls.

Car. That's well; down with't.
A little grace will serve your turns. Eat softly!
You'll choke, ye knaves, else.—Give 'em wine!

Judas. Not yet, sir;
We are even a little busy.

Hengo. Can that fellow
Do anything but eat?—Thou fellow!

Judas. Away, boy;
Away; this is no boy's play.

Hengo. By Heaven, uncle,
If his valour lie in's teeth, he's the most valiant.

Car. I am glad to hear you talk, sir.

Hengo. Good uncle, tell me,
What's the price of a couple of cramm'd Romans?

Car. Some twenty Britons, boy; these are good soldiers.

Hengo. Do not the cowards eat hard too?

Car. No more, boy.—

Come, I'll sit with you too.—Sit down by me, boy.

Judas. Pray bring your dish then.

Car. Hearty knaves!—More meat there.

1 Sold. That's a good hearing.

Car. Stay now, and pledge me.

Judas. This little piece, sir.

Car. By Heaven, square eaters!—
 More meat, I say!—Upon my conscience,
 The poor rogues have not eat this month! how terribly
 They charge upon their victuals!—Dare ye fight thus?

Judas. Believe it, sir, like devils.

Car. Well said, Famine!

Here's to thy general.

[Drinks.

Judas. Most excellent captain,
 I will now pledge thee.

Car. And to-morrow night, say to him,
 His head is mine.

Judas. I can assure you, captain,
 He will not give it for this washing.

Car. Well said.

Enter the Daughters on the Platform.

1 Daugh. Here's a strange entertainment: How the thieves drink!

2 Daugh. Danger is dry; they look'd for colder liquor.

Car. Fill 'em more wine; give 'em full bowls.—Which of you all now,

In recompence of this good, dare but give me
 A sound knock in the battle?

Judas. Delicate captain,
 To do thee a sufficient recompense,
 I'll knock thy brains out.

Car. Do it.

Hengo. Thou darest as well be damn'd! Thou knock his brains out?

Thou skin of man?—Uncle, I will not hear this.

Judas. Tie up your whelp.

Hengo. Thou kill my uncle? Would I
 Had but a sword for thy sake, thou dried dog!

Car. What a mettle
 This little vermin carries!

Hengo. Kill mine uncle?

Car. He shall not, child.

Hengo. He cannot; he's a rogue,
 An only eating rogue! kill my sweet uncle?
 Oh, that I were a man!

Judas. By this wine, which I
 Will drink to Captain Junius, who loves
 The queen's most excellent majesty's little daughter

Most sweetly, and most fearfully, I will do it.

Hengo. Uncle, I'll kill him with a great pin.

Car. No more, boy!

I'll pledge thy captain. To ye all, good fellows!

[Drinks.

2 Daugh. In love with me? that love shall cost your lives all.—

Come, sister, and advise me; I have here

A way to make an easy conquest of 'em,

If fortune favour me.

[Exeunt Daughters.

Car. Let's see you sweat

To-morrow blood and spirit, boys, this wine

Turn'd to stern valour.

1 Sold. Hark you, Judas;

If he should hang us after all this?

Judas. Let him:

I'll hang like a gentleman, and a Roman.

Car. Take away there;

They have enough.

[The table removed.

Judas. Captain, we thank you heartily

For your good cheer: and if we meet to-morrow,

One of us pays for't.

Car. Get 'em guides; their wine

Has over-master'd 'em.

Enter second Daughter with a letter, and a Servant.

2 Daugh. That hungry fellow

With the red beard there, give it him, and this,

To see it well deliver'd.

Car. Farewell, knaves!

Speak nobly of us; keep your words to-morrow,

And do something worthy your meat.—

Enter a Guide.

Go, guide 'em,

And see 'em fairly onward.

Judas. Meaning me, sir?

Serv. The same.

The youngest daughter to the queen entreats you

To give this privately to Captain Junius;

This for your pains!

Judas. I rest her humble servant;

Commend me to thy lady.—Keep your files, boys.

Serv. I must instruct you further.

Judas. Keep your files there!

Order, sweet friends; faces about now.

Guide. Here, sir;

Here lies your way.

Judas. Bless the founders, I say!

Fairly, good soldiers, fairly march now; close, boys!

[Exeunt.]

SCENE IV.—The Roman Camp.

Enter SÜETONIUS, PETILLIUS, DEMETRIUS, DECIUS, and MACER.

Suet. Bid me be wise, and keep me where I am,
And so be safe? not come, because commanded?
Was it not thus?

Macer. It was, sir.

Pet. What now think you?

Suet. Must come so heinous to him, so distasteful?

Pet. Give me my money.

Dem. I confess 'tis due, sir,
And presently I'll pay it.

Suet. His obedience
So blind at his years and experience,
It cannot find where to be tender'd?

Macer. Sir,
The regiment was willing, and advanced too,
The captains at all points steel'd up; their preparations
Full of resolve and confidence; youth and fire,
Like the fair breaking of a glorious day,
Gilded their phalanx; when the angry Penius
Stept like a stormy cloud 'twixt them and hopes.

Suet. And stopt their resolutions?

Macer. True; his reason
To them was odds, and odds so infinite,
Discretion durst not look upon.

Suet. Well, Penius,
I cannot think thee coward yet; and treacherous
I dare not think: thou hast lopt a limb off from me;
And let it be thy glory, thou wast stubborn,
Thy wisdom, that thou left'st thy general naked!
Yet, ere the sun set, I shall make thee see
All valour dwells not in thee, all command

In one experience. Thou wilt too late repent this,
And wish " I must come up " had been thy blessing.

Pet. Let's force him.

Suet. No, by no means; he's a torrent
We cannot easily stem.

Pet. I think, a traitor.

Suet. No ill words! let his own shame first revile him.—
That wine I have, see it, Demetrius,
Distributed amongst the soldiers,
To make 'em high and lusty; when that's done,
Petillius, give the word through, that the eagles
May presently advance; no man discover
Upon his life, the enemies' full strength,
But make it of no value. Decius,
Are your starved people yet come home?

Dec. I hope so.

Suet. Keep 'em in more obedience: This is no time
To chide, I could be angry else, and say more to you;
But come, let's order all. Whose sword is sharpest,
And valour equal to his sword this day,
Shall be my saint.

Pet. We shall be holy all then. [Exeunt all but Decius.]

Enter JUDAS and his Company.

Judas. Captain, captain, I have brought 'em off again;
The drunkenest slaves!

Dec. Pox confound your rogueships!
I'll call the general, and have ye hang'd all.

Judas. Pray who will you command then?

Dec. For you, sirrah,
That are the ringleader to these devices,
Whose maw is never cramm'd, I'll have an engine—

Judas. A wench, sweet captain.

Dec. Sweet Judas, even the forks,
Where you shall have two lictors with two whips
Hammer your hide.

Judas. Captain, good words, fair words,
Sweet words, good captain; if you like not us,
Farewell! we have employment.

Dec. Where hast thou been?

Judas. There where you dare not be, with all your valour.

Dec. Where's that!

Judas. With the best good fellow living.

i Sold. The king of all good fellows.

Dec. Who's that?

Judas. Caratach.

Shake now, and say, we have done something worthy!

Mark me, with Caratach; by this light, Caratach!

Do you as much now, an you dare.—Sweet Caratach!

You talk of a good fellow, of true drinking;

Well, go thy ways, old Caratach!—Besides the drink,
captain,

The bravest running banquet of black puddings,

Pieces of glorious beef——

Dec. How 'scaped ye hanging?

Judas. Hanging's a dog's death, we are gentlemen;

And I say still, old Caratach!

Dec. Belike then,

You are turn'd rebels all.

Judas. We are Roman boys all,

And boys of mettle. I must do that, captain,

This day, this very day——

Dec. Away, ye rascal!

Judas. Fair words, I say again!

Dec. What must you do, sir?

Judas. I must do that my heart-strings yearn to do;

But my word's past.

Dec. What is it?

Judas. Why, kill Caratach,

That's all he ask'd us for our entertainment.

Dec. More than you'll pay.

Judas. 'Would I had sold myself

Unto the skin I had not promised it!

For such another Caratach——

Dec. Come, fool,

Have you done your country service?

Judas. I have brought that

To captain Junius——

Dec. How?

Judas. I think will do all;

I cannot tell; I think so.

Dec. How! to Junius?

I'll more inquire of this.—You'll fight now?

Judas. Promise,

Take heed of promise, captain!

Dec. Away, and rank then.

Judas. But, hark you, captain; there is wine distributing;
I would fain know what share I have.

Dec. Be gone;
You have too much.

Judas. Captain, no wine, no fighting:
There's one called Caratach that has wine.

Dec. Well, sir,
If you'll be ruled now, and do well——

Judas. Do excellent.

Dec. You shall have wine, or anything. Go file;
I'll see you have your share. Drag out your dormice,
And stow 'em somewhere, where they may sleep handsomely;
They'll hear a hunts-up shortly.

Judas. Now I love thee;
But no more forks nor whips!

Dec. Deserve 'em not then.
Up with your men; I'll meet you presently;
And get 'em sober quickly.

[Exit.

Judas. Arm, arm, bullies!
All's right again and straight; and which is more,
More wine, more wine. Awake, ye men of Memphis,
Be sober and discreet; we have much to do, boys.

[Exeunt.

ACT III

SCENE I.—A Temple of the Druids.

Enter a Messenger.

Mess. Prepare there for the sacrifice! the queen comes.

Music. Enter in solemnity the Druids singing: the second Daughter strewing flowers; then BONDUCA, CARATACH, NENNIUS, and others.

Bond. Ye powerful gods of Britain, hear our prayers;
Hear us, ye great revengers; and this day
Take pity from our swords, doubt from our valours;
Double the sad remembrance of our wrongs
In every breast; the vengeance due to those
Make infinite and endless! On our pikes

This day pale Terror sit, horrors and ruins
 Upon our executions; claps of thunder
 Hang on our armed carts; and 'fore our troops
 Despair and Death; Shame beyond these attend 'em!
 Rise from the dust, ye relics of the dead,
 Whose noble deeds our holy Druids sing;
 Oh, rise, ye valiant bones! let not base earth
 Oppress your honours, whilst the pride of Rome
 Treads on your stocks, and wipes out all your stories!

Nen. Thou great Tiranes, whom our sacred priests,
 Armed with dreadful thunder, place on high
 Above the rest of the immortal gods,
 Send thy consuming fires and deadly bolts,
 And shoot 'em home; stick in each Roman heart
 A fear fit for confusion; blast their spirits,
 Dwell in 'em to destruction; through their phalanx
 Strike, as thou strikest a proud tree; shake their bodies,
 Make their strengths totter, and their topless fortunes
 Unroot, and reel to ruin!

1 Daugh. Oh, thou god,
 Thou feared god, if ever to thy justice
 Insulting wrongs, and ravishments of women,
 (Women derived from thee) their shames, the sufferings
 Of those that daily fill'd thy sacrifice
 With virgin incense, have access, now hear me!
 Now snatch thy thunder up, now on these Romans,
 Despisers of thy power, of us defacers,
 Revenge thyself; take to thy killing anger,
 To make thy great work full, thy justice spoken,
 An utter rooting from this blessed isle
 Of what Rome is or has been!

Bond. Give me more incense!
 The gods are deaf and drowsy, no happy flame
 Rises to raise our thoughts. Pour on.

2 Daugh. See, Heaven,
 And all you powers that guide us, see and shame,
 We kneel so long for pity. O'er your altars,
 Since 'tis no light oblation that you look for,
 No incense-offering, will I hang mine eyes;
 And as I wear these stones with hourly weeping,
 So will I melt your powers into compassion.
 This tear for Prosutagus my brave father;
 (Ye gods, now think on Rome!) this for my mother,

And all her miseries; yet see, and save us!
 But now ye must be open-eyed. See, Heaven,
 Oh, see thy showers stolen from thee; our dishonours,
 Oh, sister, our dishonours! Can ye be gods,
 And these sins smother'd? [A smoke from the altar.]

Bond. The fire takes.

Car. It does so,
 But no flame rises. Cease your fretful prayers,
 Your whinings, and your tame petitions;
 The gods love courage arm'd with confidence,
 And prayers fit to pull them down: Weak tears
 And troubled hearts, the dull twins of cold spirits,
 They sit and smile at. Hear how I salute 'em:—

[Kneels.]

Divine Andate, thou who hold'st the reins
 Of furious battles, and disorder'd war,
 And proudly roll'st thy swarty chariot wheels
 Over the heaps of wounds and carcasses,
 Sailing through seas of blood; thou sure-steel'd sternness,
 Give us this day good hearts, good enemies,
 Good blows o' both sides, wounds that fear or flight
 Can claim no share in; steel us both with angers
 And warlike executions fit thy viewing;
 Let Rome put on her best strength, and thy Britain,
 Thy little Britain, but as great in fortune,
 Meet her as strong as she, as proud, as daring!
 And then look on, thou red-eyed god; who does best
 Reward with honour; who despair makes fly,
 Unarm for ever, and brand with infamy!
 Grant this, divine Andate! 'tis but justice;
 And my first blow thus on thy holy altar
 I sacrifice unto thee. [A flame arises.]

Bond. It flames out. [Music.]

Car. Now sing, ye Druides. [Song.]

Bond. 'Tis out again.

Car. He has given us leave to fight yet; we ask no more;
 The rest hangs in our resolutions:
 Tempt him no more.

Bond. I would know further, cousin.

Car. His hidden meaning dwells in our endeavours,
 Our valours are our best gods. Cheer the soldier,
 And let him eat.

Mess. He's at it, sir.

Car. Away then ;

When he has done, let's march.—Come, fear not, lady ;
This day the Roman gains no more ground here,
But what his body lies in.

Bond. Now I'm confident. [Exeunt. Recorders playing.]

SCENE II.—The Roman Camp.

Enter JUNIUS, CURIUS, and DECIUS.

Dec. We dare not hazard it; besides our lives,
It forfeits all our understandings.

Jun. Gentlemen,
Can ye forsake me in so just a service,
A service for the commonwealth, for honour?
Read but the letter; you may love too.

Dec. Read it.
If there be any safety in the circumstance,
Or likelihood 'tis love, we will not fail you:
Read it, good Curius.

Cur. Willingly.

Jun. Now mark it.

Cur. [Reading.] "Health to thy heart, my honour'd Junius,
And all thy love requited! I am thine,
Thine everlastingly; thy love has won me;
And let it breed no doubt, our new acquaintance
Compels this; 'tis the gods' decree to bless us.
The times are dangerous to meet, yet fail not;
By all the love thou bear'st me I conjure thee,
Without distrust of danger, to come to me!
For I have purposed a delivery
Both of myself and fortune this bless'd day
Into thy hands, if thou think'st good. To show thee
How infinite my love is, even my mother
Shall be thy prisoner, the day yours without hazard;
For I beheld your danger like a lover,
A just affecter of thy faith: Thy goodness,
I know, will use us nobly; and our marriage,
If not redeem, yet lessen Rome's ambition:
I am weary of these miseries. Use my mother
(If you intend to take her) with all honour;
And let this disobedience to my parent
Be laid on love, not me. Bring with thee, Junius,
Spirits resolved to fetch me off, the noblest,
Forty will serve the turn, just at the joining
Of both the battles; we will be weakly guarded,
And for a guide, within this hour, shall reach thee
A faithful friend of mine. The gods, my Junius,
Keep thee, and me to serve thee! Young Bonvica"—

This letter carries much belief, and most objections
Answer'd, we must have doubted.

Dec. Is that fellow
Come to you for a guide yet?

Jun. Yes.

Dec. And examined?

Jun. Far more than that; he has felt tortures, yet
He vows he knows no more than this truth.

Dec. Strange!

Cur. If she mean what she writes, as it may be probable,
'Twill be the happiest vantage we can lean to.

Jun. I'll pawn my soul she means truth.

Dec. Think an hour more;
Then, if your confidence grow stronger on you,
We'll set in with you.

Jun. Nobly done! I thank ye.
Ye know the time.

Cur. We will be either ready
To give you present counsel, or join with you.

Enter SÜETONIUS, PETILLIUS, DEMETRIUS, and MACER.

Jun. No more, as ye are gentlemen. The general!

Suet. Draw out apace; the enemy waits for us.
Are ye all ready?

Jun. All our troops attend, sir.

Suet. I am glad to hear you say so, Junius:
I hope you are dispossess'd.

Jun. I hope so too, sir.

Suet. Continue so. And, gentlemen, to you now!
To bid you fight is needless; ye are Romans,
The name will fight itself: To tell ye who
You go to fight against, his power, and nature,
But loss of time; ye know it, know it poor,
And oft have made it so: To tell ye further,
His body shows more dreadful than it has done,
To him that fears less possible to deal with,
Is but to stick more honour on your actions,
Load ye with virtuous names, and to your memories
Tie never-dying Time and Fortune constant.
Go on in full assurance! draw your swords
As daring and as confident as justice;
The gods of Rome fight for ye; loud Fame calls ye,

Pitch'd on the topless Apennine, and blows
 To all the under-world, all nations,
 The seas and unfrequented deserts, where the snow
 dwells;
 Wakens the ruin'd monuments; and there,
 Where nothing but eternal death and sleep is,
 Informs again the dead bones with your virtues.
 Go on, I say: Valiant and wise rule Heaven,
 And all the great aspects attend 'em; Do but blow
 Upon this enemy, who, but that we want foes,
 Cannot deserve that name; and like a mist,
 A lazy fog, before your burning valours
 You'll find him fly to nothing. This is all,
 We have swords, and are the sons of ancient Romans,
 Heirs to their endless valours; fight and conquer!

Dec. Dem. 'Tis done.

Pet. That man that loves not this day,
 And hugs not in his arms the noble danger,
 May he die fameless and forgot!

Suet. Sufficient!

Up to your troops, and let your drums beat thunder;
 March close and sudden, like a tempest: All executions

[March.

Done without sparkling of the body; keep your phalanx
 Sure lined, and pieced together, your pikes forward,
 And so march like a moving fort. Ere this day run,
 We shall have ground to add to Rome, well won.

[Exeunt.

SCENE III.—The open Country between the Camps.

Enter CARATACH and NENNIUS.

Nen. The Roman is advanced; from yond' hill's brow
 We may behold him, Caratach.

Car. Let's thither; [Drums within at one place afar off.
 I see the dust fly. Now I see the body.
 Observe 'em, Nennius; by Heaven, a handsome body,
 And, of a few, strongly and wisely jointed!
 Suetonius is a soldier.

Nen. As I take it,
 That's he that gallops by the regiments,
 Viewing their preparations.

Car. Very likely;

He shows no less than general. See how bravely
 The body moves, and in the head how proudly
 The captains stick like plumes; he comes apace on.
 Good Nennius, go, and bid my stout lieutenant
 Bring on the first square body to oppose 'em,
 And, as he charges, open to enclose 'em;
 The queen move next with hers, and wheel about,
 To gain their backs, in which I'll lead the vanguard.
 We shall have bloody crowns this day, I see by't.
 Haste thee, good Nennius; I'll follow instantly.

[Exit Nennius.]

How close they march, as if they grew together.

[March.]

No place but lined alike, sure from oppression!
 They will not charge this figure; we must charge 'em,
 And charge 'em home at both ends, van and rear;
 [Drums in another place afar off.]
 They never totter else. I hear our music,
 And must attend it. Hold, good sword, but this day,
 And bite hard where I hound thee! and hereafter
 I'll make a relic of thee, for young soldiers
 To come like pilgrims to, and kiss for conquests. [Exit.]

SCENE IV.—In front of the Roman Camp.

Enter JUNIUS, CURIUS, and DECIUS.

Jun. Now is the time; the fellow stays.

Dec. What think ye?

Cur. I think 'tis true.

Jun. Alas, if 'twere a question,
 If any doubt or hazard fell into't,
 Do ye think mine own discretion so self-blind,
 My care of ye so naked, to run headlong?

Dec. Let's take Petillius with us!

Jun. By no means;
 He's never wise but to himself, nor courteous,
 But where the end's his own: We are strong enough,
 If not too many. Behind yonder hill,
 The fellow tells me, she attends, weak guarded,
 Her mother and her sister.

Cur. I would venture.

Jun. We shall not strike five blows for't. Weigh the good,

The general good may come.

Dec. Away! I'll with ye;
But with what doubt——

Jun. Fear not! my soul for all!

[Exeunt. Alarms, drums and trumpets in several places afar off, as at a main battle.]

SCENE V.—Near the Field of Battle. In the Back-ground the Tent of Penius, with a Platform.

Enter DRUSIUS and PENIUS above.

Drus. Here you may see them all, sir; from this hill
The country shows off level.

Pen. Gods defend me,
What multitudes they are, what infinites!
The Roman power shows like a little star
Hedged with a double halo.—Now the knell rings :
[Loud shouts.]

Hark, how they shout to the battle! how the air
Totters and reels, and rends a-pieces, Drusius,
With the huge-vollied clamours!

Drus. Now they charge
(Oh, gods!) of all sides, fearfully.

Pen. Little Rome,
Stand but this growing Hydra one short hour,
And thou hast out-done Hercules!

Drus. The dust hides 'em;
We cannot see what follows.

Pen. They are gone,
Gone, swallow'd, Drusius; this eternal sun
Shall never see 'em march more.

Drus. Oh, turn this way,
And see a model of the field! some forty,
Against four hundred!

Pen. Well fought, bravely followed!
Oh, nobly charged again, charged home too! Drusius,
They seem to carry it. Now they charge all;
[Loud shouts.]

Close, close, I say! they follow it. Ye gods,
Can there be more in men? more daring spirits?
Still they make good their fortunes. Now they are gone
too,

For ever gone! see, Drusius, at their backs
A fearful ambush rises. Farewell, valours,
Excellent valours! oh, Rome, where's thy wisdom?

Drus. They are gone indeed, sir.

Pen. Look out toward the army,
I am heavy with these slaughters.

Drus. 'Tis the same still,
Cover'd with dust and fury.

Enter the two Daughters, with JUNIUS, CURIUS, DECIUS, Soldiers, and Servants.

2 Daugh. Bring 'em in;
Tie 'em, and then unarm 'em.

1 Daugh. Valiant Romans,
Ye are welcome to your loves!

2 Daugh. Your death, fools!

Dec. We deserve 'em;
And, women, do your worst.

1 Daugh. Ye need not beg it.

2 Daugh. Which is kind Junius?

Serv. This.

2 Daugh. Are you my sweetheart?
It looks ill on't! How long is't, pretty soul,
Since you and I first loved? Had we not reason
To dote extremely upon one another?
How does my love? This is not he; my chicken
Could prate finely, sing a love-song.

Jun. Monster——

2 Daugh. Oh, now it courts!

Jun. Arm'd with more malice
Than he that got thee has, the devil.

2 Daugh. Good!
Proceed, sweet chick.

Jun. I hate thee; that's my last.

2 Daugh. Nay, an you love me, forward!—No?—Come, sister,
Let's prick our answers on our arrows' points,
And make 'em laugh a little. Ye damn'd lechers,
Ye proud improvident fools, have we now caught ye?
Are ye i' th' noose? Since ye are such loving creatures,
We'll be your Cupids: Do ye see these arrows?
We'll send 'em to your wanton livers, goats.

1 Daugh. Oh, how I'll trample on your hearts, ye villains,

Ambitious salt-itch'd slaves, Rome's master-sins!
The mountain-rams tupt your hot mothers.

2 Daugh. Dogs,
To whose brave founders a salt whore gave suck!
Thieves, honour's hangmen, do ye grin? Perdition
Take me for ever, if in my fell anger,
I do not out-do all example.

Enter CARATACH.

Car. Where,
Where are these ladies?—Ye keep noble quarter!
Your mother thinks you dead or taken, upon which
She will not move her battle.—Sure these faces
I have beheld and known; they are Roman leaders!
How came they here?

2 Daugh. A trick, sir, that we used;
A certain policy conducted 'em
Unto our snare: We have done you no small service.
These used as we intend, we are for the battle.

Car. As you intend? Taken by treachery?

1 Daugh. Is't not allow'd?

Car. Those that should gild our conquest,
Make up a battle worthy of our winning,
Catch'd up by craft?

2 Daugh. By any means that's lawful.

Car. A woman's wisdom in our triumphs? Out!
Out, [out,] ye sluts, ye follies! From our swords
Filch our revenges basely?—Arm again, gentlemen!—
Soldiers, I charge ye help 'em.

2 Daugh. By Heaven, uncle,
We will have vengeance for our rapes!

Car. By Heaven,
Ye should have kept your legs close then.—Dispatch
there!

1 Daugh. I will not off thus!

Car. He that stirs to execute,
Or she, though it be yourselves, by him that got me,
Shall quickly feel mine anger! One great day given us,
Not to be snatch'd out of our hands but basely,
And must we shame the gods from whence we have it,
With setting snares for soldiers? I'll run away first,
Be hooted at, and children call me coward,
Before I set up stales for victories.

Give 'em their swords.

2 Daugh. Oh, gods!

Car. Bear off the women
Unto their mother!

2 Daugh. One shot, gentle uncle!

Car. One cut her fiddle-string!—Bear 'em off, I say.

1 Daugh. The devil take this fortune!

Car. Learn to spin, [Exeunt Daughters.
And curse your knotted hemp!—Go, gentlemen,
Safely go off, up to your troops; be wiser;
There thank me like tall soldiers: I shall seek ye.
[Exit with Soldiers, etc.

Cur. A noble worth!

Dec. Well, Junius?

Jun. Pray ye, no more!

Cur. He blushes; do not load him.

Dec. Where's your love now? [Drums loud again.

Jun. Puff! there it flies. Come, let's redeem our follies.

[Exeunt Junius, Curius, and Decius.]

Drus. Awake, sir; yet the Roman body's whole;
I see 'em clear again.

Pen. Whole? 'tis not possible;
Drusius, they must be lost.

Drus. By Heaven, they are whole, sir,
And in brave doing; see, they wheel about
To gain more ground.

Pen. But see there, Drusius, see,
See that huge battle moving from the mountains!
Their gilt coats shine like dragons' scales, their march
Like a rough tumbling storm; see 'em, and view 'em,
And then see Rome no more. Say they fail, look,
Look where the armed carts stand; a new army!
Look how they hang like falling rocks, as murdering!
Death rides in triumph, Drusius, fell Destruction
Lashes his fiery horse, and round about him
His many thousand ways to let out souls.
Move me again when they charge, when the mountain
Melts under their hot wheels, and from their ax'trees
Huge claps of thunder plough the ground before 'em!
Till then, I'll dream what Rome was.

Enter Suetonius, Petillius, Demetrius, Macer, and Soldiers.

Suet. Oh, bravely fought!

Honour 'till now ne'er show'd her golden face
I' the field: Like lions, gentlemen, you have held
Your heads up this day. Where's young Junius, Curius, and Decius?

Pet. Gone to heaven, I think, sir.

Suet. Their worths go with 'em! Breathe a while. How do
ye?

Pet. Well; some few scurvy wounds; my heart's whole yet.

Dem. 'Would they would give us more ground!

Suet. Give? we'll have it.

Pet. Have it? and hold it too, despite the devil.

Enter Junius, Decius, and Curius.

Jun. Lead up to th' head, and line sure! The queen's battle Begins to charge like wildfire. Where's the general?

Suet. Oh, they are living yet.—Come, my brave soldiers,
Come, let me pour Rome's blessing on ye; Live,
Live, and lead armies all! Ye bleed hard.

Jun. Best;

We shall appear the sterner to the foe.

Dec. More wounds, more honour.

Pet. Lose no time.

Suet. Away then;

And stand this shock, ye have stood the world.

Pet. We'll grow to't.

Is not this better now than lousy loving?

Jun. I am myself, Petillius.

Pet. 'Tis I love thee.

[Exeunt Romans.]

Enter Bonduca, Caratach, Daughters, Nennius, and Soldiers.

Car. Charge 'em i' th' flanks! Oh, you have play'd the fool,
The fool extremely, the mad fool!

Bond. Why, cousin?

Car. The woman fool! Why did you give the word
Unto the carts to charge down, and our people,
In gross before the enemy? We pay for't;

Our own swords cut our throats! Why, pox on't!
 Why do you offer to command? The devil,
 The devil, and his dam too! who bid you
 Meddle in men's affairs?

Bond. I'll help all. [Exeunt all but Caratach.]

Car. Home,
 Home and spin, woman, spin, go spin! you trifle.
 Open before there, or all's ruin'd—How?

[Shouts within.]

Now comes the tempest on ourselves, by Heaven!

Within. Victoria!

Car. Oh, woman, scurvy woman, beastly woman! [Exit.]

Drus. Victoria, victoria!

Pen. How's that, Drusius?

Drus. They win, they win, they win! Oh, look, look, look,
 sir,
 For Heaven's sake, look! The Britons fly, the Britons fly! Victoria!

Enter SÜETONIUS, Soldiers, and Captains.

Suet. Soft, soft, pursue it soft, excellent soldiers!
 Close, my brave fellows, honourable Romans!
 Oh, cool thy mettle, Junius; they are ours,
 The world cannot redeem 'em: Stern Petillius,
 Govern the conquest nobly. Soft, good soldiers!

[Exeunt.]

Enter BONDUCA, Daughters, and Britons flying.

Bond. Shame! whither fly ye, ye unlucky Britons?
 Will ye creep into your mothers' wombs again? Back, cowards!
 Hares, fearful hares, doves in your angers! leave me?
 Leave your queen desolate? her hapless children
 To Roman rape again, and fury?

Enter CARATACH and HENGO.

Car. Fly, ye buzzards!
 Ye have wings enough, ye fear! Get thee gone, woman, [Loud shout within.]
 Shame tread upon thy heels! All's lost, all's lost! Hark,

Hark, how the Romans ring our knells!

[Exeunt Bonduca, Daughters, etc.]

Hengo. Good uncle,
Let me go too.

Car. No, boy; thy fortune's mine;
I must not leave thee. Get behind me; shake not;
I'll breech you, if you do, boy.—

Enter PETILLIUS, JUNIUS, and DECIUS.

Come, brave Romans!
All is not lost yet.

Jun. Now I'll thank thee, Caratach. [Fight. Drums.]

Car. Thou art a soldier; strike home, home! Have at you!

Pen. His blows fall like huge sledges on an anvil.

Dec. I am weary.

Pet. So am I.

Car. Send more swords to me.

[Exeunt Britons.]

Jun. Let's sit and rest.

[They sit down.]

Drus. What think you now?

Pen. Oh, Drusius,

I have lost mine honour, lost my name,
Lost all that was my light: These are true Romans,
And I a Briton coward, a base coward!
Guide me where nothing is but desolation,
That I may never more behold the face
Of man, or mankind know me! Oh, blind Fortune,
Hast thou abused me thus?

Drus. Good sir, be comforted;

It was your wisdom ruled you. Pray you go home;
Your day is yet to come, when this great fortune
Shall be but foil unto it.

[Retreat.]

Pen. Fool, fool, coward!

[Exeunt Penius and Drusius into the tent.]

Enter SÜETONIUS, DEMETRIUS, Soldiers, Drum and Colours.

Suet. Draw in, draw in!—Well have you fought, and worthy
Rome's noble recompense. Look to your wounds;
The ground is cold and hurtful. The proud queen
Has got a fort, and there she and her daughters
Defy us once again: To-morrow morning
We'll seek her out, and make her know our fortunes

Stop at no stubborn walls.—Come, sons of Honour,
 True Virtue's heirs, thus hatch'd with Britain blood,
 Let's march to rest, and set in gules like suns.
 Beat a soft march, and each one ease his neighbours!

[Exeunt.]

ACT IV

SCENE I.—The Roman Camp. The Tent of Junius.

Enter PETILLIUS, JUNIUS, DECIUS, and DEMETRIUS, singing.

Pet. Smooth was his cheek,

Dec. And his chin it was sleek,

Jun. With, whoop, he has done wooing!

Dem. Junius was this captain's name,

A lad for a lass's viewing.

Pet. Full black his eye, and plump his thigh,

Dec. Made up for love's pursuing.

Dem. Smooth was his cheek,

Pet. And his chin it was sleek,

Jun. With, whoop, he has done wooing!

Pet. O my vex'd thief, art thou come home again?
 Are thy brains perfect?

Jun. Sound as bells.

Pet. Thy back-worm

Quiet, and cast his sting, boy?

Jun. Dead, Petillius,

Dead to all folly, and now my anger only——

Pet. Why, that's well said; hang Cupid and his quiver,
 A drunken brawling boy! Thy honour'd saint
 Be thy ten shillings, Junius; there's the money,
 And there's the ware; square dealing: This but sweats
 thee

Like a nesh nag, and makes thee look pin-buttock'd;

The other runs thee whining up and down

Like a pig in a storm, fills thy brains full of ballads,

And shows thee like a long Lent, thy brave body

Turn'd to a tail of green fish without butter.

Dec. When thou lovest next, love a good cup of wine,
 A mistress for a king! she leaps to kiss thee,
 Her red and white's her own, she makes good blood,
 Takes none away; what she heats sleep can help,
 Without a groping surgeon.

Jun. I am counsel'd;
 And henceforth, when I dote again——

Dem. Take heed;

Ye had almost paid for't.

Pet. Love no more great ladies;

Thou canst not step amiss then; there's no delight in 'em:

All's in the whistling of their snatcht-up silks;

They're only made for handsome view, not handling;

Their bodies of so weak and wash a temper,

A rough-paced bed will shake them all to pieces;

A tough hen pulls their teeth out, tires their souls;

Plenæ rimarum sunt, they are full of rinnet,

And take the skin off where they're tasted: Shun 'em;

They live in cullisses, like rotten cocks,

Stew'd to a tenderness that holds no tack;

Give me a thing I may crush.

Jun. Thou speak'st truly:

The wars shall be my mistress now.

Pet. Well chosen!

For she's a bouncing lass; she'll kiss thee at night, boy,

And break thy pate i' th' morning.

Jun. Yesterday

I found those favours infinite.

Dem. Wench good enough,

But that she talks too loud.

Pet. She talks to the purpose.

Which never woman did yet. She'll hold grappling,

And he that lays on best is her best servant;

All other loves are mere catching of dottrels,

Stretching of legs out only, and trim laziness.

Here comes the general.

Enter SÜETONIUS, CURIUS, and MACER.

Suet. I'm glad I have found ye:

Are those come in yet that pursued bold Caratach?

Pet. Not yet, sir, for I think they mean to lodge him;

Take him I know they dare not, 'twill be dangerous.

Suet. Then haste, Petillius, haste to Penius:

I fear the strong conceit of what disgrace

He has pull'd upon himself, will be his ruin;

I fear his soldiers' fury too; Haste presently;

I would not lose him for all Britain. Give him, Petillius—

Pet. That that shall choke him.

[Aside.

Suet. All the noble counsel,

His fault forgiven too, his place, his honour——

Pet. For me, I think, as handsome—— [Aside.

Suet. All the comfort;
And tell the soldier, 'twas on our command
He drew not to the battle.

Pet. I conceive, sir,
And will do that shall cure all.

Suet. Bring him with you
Before the queen's fort, and his forces with him;
There you shall find us following of our conquest.
Make haste!

Pet. The best I may. [Exit.

Suet. And, noble gentlemen,
Up to your companies! we'll presently
Upon the queen's pursuit. There's nothing done
Till she be seiz'd; without her, nothing won.
[Exeunt. Short flourish.

SCENE II.—Open Country between the Camps.

Enter CARATACH and HENGO.

Car. How does my boy?

Hengo. I would do well; my heart's well;
I do not fear.

Car. My good boy!

Hengo. I know, uncle,
We must all die; my little brother died,
I saw him die, and he died smiling; sure
There's no great pain in't, uncle. But pray tell me,
Whither must we go when we are dead?

Car. Strange questions!—
Why, to the blessedest place, boy—Ever sweetness
And happiness dwells there.

Hengo. Will you come to me?

Car. Yes, my sweet boy.

Hengo. Mine aunt too, and my cousins?

Car. All, my good child.

Hengo. No Romans, uncle?

Car. No, boy.

Hengo. I should be loth to meet them there.

Car. No ill men,
That live by violence, and strong oppression,

Come thither; 'tis for those the gods love, good men.

Hengo. Why, then, I care not when I go, for surely
I am persuaded they love me: I never Blasphemed 'em, uncle, nor transgressed my parents;
I always said my prayers.

Car. Thou shalt go then,
Indeed thou shalt.

Hengo. When they please.

Car. That's my good boy!
Art thou not weary, Hengo?

Hengo. Weary, uncle?
I have heard you say you have march'd all day in armour.

Car. I have, boy.

Hengo. Am not I your kinsman?

Car. Yes.

Hengo. And am not I as fully allied unto you
In those brave things as blood?

Car. Thou art too tender.

Hengo. To go upon my legs? they were made to bear me.
I can play twenty mile a-day; I see no reason,
But to preserve my country and myself,
I should march forty.

Car. What wouldst thou be, living
To wear a man's strength!

Hengo. Why, a Caratach,
A Roman-hater, a scourge sent from Heaven
To whip these proud thieves from our kingdom. Hark,
Hark, uncle, hark! I hear a drum. [Drum.

Enter JUDAS and his Soldiers, and stand on one side of the stage.

Judas. Beat softly,
Softly, I say: they are here. Who dare charge?

1 Sold. He
That dares be knock'd o' th' head: I'll not come near him.

Judas. Retire again, and watch then. How he stares!
He has eyes would kill a dragon. Mark the boy well;
If we could take or kill him—A pox on ye,
How fierce ye look! See, how he broods the boy!
The devil dwells in's scabbard. Back, I say!
Apace, apace! he has found us. [They retire.

Car. Do ye hunt us?

Hengo. Uncle, good uncle, see! the thin starved rascal,
The eating Roman, see where he thrids the thickets:
Kill him, dear uncle, kill him! one good blow
To knock his brains into his breech; strike's head off
That I may piss in's face.

Car. Do ye make us foxes?—

Here, hold my charging-staff, and keep the place, boy!
I am at bay, and like a bull I'll bear me.—
Stand, stand, ye rogues, ye squirrels! [Exit.

Hengo. Now he pays 'em;
Oh, that I had a man's strength!

Enter JUDAS.

Judas. Here's the boy;
Mine own, I thank my fortune.

Hengo. Uncle, uncle!
Famine is fallen upon me, uncle.

Judas. Come, sir,
Yield willingly (your uncle's out of hearing),
I'll tickle your young tail else.

Hengo. I defy thee,
Thou mock-made man of mat! Charge home, sirrah!
Hang thee, base slave, thou shakest.

Judas. Upon my conscience,
The boy will beat me! how it looks, how bravely,
How confident the worm is! a scabb'd boy
To handle me thus!—Yield, or I cut thy head off.

Hengo. Thou darrest not cut my finger; here 'tis, touch it.

Judas. The boy speaks sword and buckler! Pr'ythee yield,
boy;

Come, here's an apple, yield.

Hengo. By Heaven, he fears me!
I'll give you sharper language:—When, ye coward,
When come ye up?

Judas. If he should beat me——

Hengo. When, sir?
I long to kill thee! Come, thou canst not 'scape me;
I have twenty ways to charge thee, twenty deaths
Attend my bloody staff.

Judas. Sure 'tis the devil,
A dwarf devil in a doublet!

Hengo. I have killed

A captain, sirrah, a brave captain, and when I have done,
I have kicked him thus. Look here; see how I charge
This staff!

[Kicks and beats him with the truncheon of Caratach.]

Judas. Most certain this boy will cut my throat yet.

Enter two Soldiers running.

1 Sold. Flee, flee! he kills us.

2 Sold. He comes, he comes!

Judas. The devil take the hindmost!

[Exeunt Judas and Soldiers.]

Hengo. Run, run, ye rogues, ye precious rogues, ye rank rogues!

'A comes, 'a comes, 'a comes, 'a comes! that's he, boys!
What a brave cry they make!

Enter CARATACH with a Head.

Car. How does my chicken?

Hengo. 'Faith, uncle, grown a soldier, a great soldier;
For, by the virtue of your charging-staff,
And a strange fighting face I put upon't,
I have out-brav'd Hunger.

Car. That's my boy, my sweet boy!
Here, here's a Roman's head for thee.

Hengo. Good provision!
Before I starve, my sweet-faced gentleman,
I'll try your favour.

Car. A right complete soldier!
Come, chicken, let's go seek some place of strength
(The country's full of scouts) to rest a while in;
Thou wilt not else be able to endure
The journey to my country. Fruits and water
Must be your food a while, boy.

Hengo. Anything;
I can eat moss, nay, I can live on anger,
To vex these Romans. Let's be wary, uncle.

Car. I warrant thee; come cheerfully.

Hengo. And boldly!

[Exeunt.]

SCENE III.—The Tent of PENIUS.Enter PENIUS, DRUSIUS, and REGULUS.Reg. The soldier shall not grieve you.Pen. Pray ye forsake me ;

Look not upon me, as ye love your honours !

I am so cold a coward, my infection

Will choke your virtues like a damp else.

Drus. Dear captain !Reg. Most honoured sir !Pen. Most hated, most abhorred !

Say so, and then ye know me, nay, ye please me.

Oh, my dear credit, my dear credit !

Reg. Sure

His mind is dangerous.

Drus. The good gods cure it !Pen. My honour, got through fire, through stubborn breaches,

Through battles that have been as hard to win as heaven,

Through Death himself, in all his horrid trims,

Is gone for ever, ever, ever, gentlemen !

And now I am left to scornful tales and laughters,

To hootings at, pointing with fingers, " That's he,

That's the brave gentleman forsook the battle,

The most wise Penius, the disputing coward."

Oh, my good sword, break from my side, and kill me ;

Cut out the coward from my heart !

Reg. You are none.Pen. He lies that says so ; by Heaven, he lies, lies basely, Baser than I have done ! Come, soldiers, seek me ;

I have robb'd ye of your virtues ! Justice seek me,

I have broke my fair obedience ! lost ! Shame take me,

Take me, and swallow me, make ballads of me,

Shame, endless shame ! and pray do you forsake me !

Drus. What shall we do ?Pen. Good gentlemen, forsake me ;You were not wont to be commanded. Friends, pray do it,

And do not fear ; for, as I am a coward,

I will not hurt myself (when that mind takes me,

I'll call to you, and ask your help), I dare not.

[Throws himself upon the ground.]

Enter PETILLIUS.

Pet. Good-morrow, gentlemen! Where's the tribune?

Reg. There.

Drus. Whence come you, good Petillius?

Pet. From the general.

Drus. With what, for Heaven's sake?

Pet. With good counsel, Drusius,
And love, to comfort him.

Drus. Good Regulus,
Step to the soldier and allay his anger;
For he is wild as winter. [Exeunt Drusius and Regulus.

Pet. Oh, are you there? have at you!—Sure he's dead, [Half aside.

It cannot be he dare out-live this fortune;
He must die, 'tis most necessary; men expect it,
And thought of life in him goes beyond coward.
Forsake the field so basely? Fy upon't!
So poorly to betray his worth? So coldly
To cut all credit from the soldier? Sure
If this man mean to live (as I should think it Beyond belief), he must retire where never
The name of Rome, the voice of arms, or honour,
Was known or heard of yet. He's certain dead,
Or strongly means it; he's no soldier else,
No Roman in him; all he has done but outside,
Fought either drunk or desperate. Now he rises.—
How does lord Penius?

Pen. As you see.

Pet. I am glad on't;
Continue so still. The lord general,
The valiant general, great Suetonius——

Pen. No more of me is spoken; my name's perished.

Pet. He that commanded fortune and the day,
By his own valour and discretion
(When, as some say, Penius refused to come,
But I believe 'em not), sent me to see you.

Pen. Ye are welcome; and pray see me, see me well;
You shall not see me long.

Pet. I hope so, Penius.— [Aside.

Pen. See me and understand me: This is he,
Left to fill up your triumph; he that basely

Whistled his honour off to th' wind, that coldly
 Shrunk in his politic head, when Rome, like reapers,
 Sweat blood and spirit for a glorious harvest,
 And bound it up, and brought it off; that fool,
 That having gold and copper offered him,
 Refused the wealth, and took the waste; that soldier,
 That being courted by loud Fame and Fortune,
 Labour in one hand that propounds us gods,
 And in the other Glory that creates us,
 Yet durst doubt and be damned!

Pet. It was an error.

Pen. A foul one, and a black one.

Pet. Yet the blackest
 May be washed white again.

Pen. Never.

Pet. Your leave, sir;
 And I beseech you note me, for I love you,
 And bring along all comfort: Are we gods,
 Allied to no infirmities? are our natures
 More than men's natures? When we slip a little
 Out of the way of virtue, are we lost?
 Is there no medicine called sweet mercy?

Pen. None, Petillius;
 There is no mercy in mankind can reach me,
 Nor is it fit it should; I have sinned beyond it.

Pet. Forgiveness meets with all faults.

Pen. 'Tis all faults,
 All sins I can commit, to be forgiven;
 'Tis loss of whole man in me, my discretion,
 To be so stupid, to arrive at pardon!

Pet. Oh, but the general——

Pen. He is a brave gentleman,
 A valiant, and a loving; and I dare say
 He would, as far as honour durst direct him,
 Make even with my fault; but 'tis not honest
 Nor in his power: Examples that may nourish
 Neglect and disobedience in whole bodies,
 And totter the estates and faiths of armies,
 Must not be played withal; nor out of pity
 Make a general forget his duty;
 Nor dare I hope more from him than is worthy.

Pet. What would you do?

Pen. Die.

Pet. So would sullen children,
 Women that want their wills, slaves disobedient,
 That fear the law. Die? Fy, great captain! you
 A man to rule men, to have thousand lives
 Under your regiment, and let your passion
 Betray your reason? I bring you all forgiveness,
 The noblest kind commends, your place, your honour—

Pen. Pr'ythee no more; 'tis foolish. Didst not thou
 (By Heaven, thou didst; I overheard thee, there,
 There where thou stand'st now) deliver me for rascal,
 Poor, dead, cold, coward, miserable, wretched,
 If I out-lived this ruin?

Pet. I?

Pen. And thou didst it nobly,
 Like a true man, a soldier; and I thank thee,
 I thank thee, good Petillius, thus I thank thee!

Pet. Since you are so justly made up, let me tell you,
 'Tis fit you die indeed.

Pen. Oh, how thou lovest me!

Pet. For say he had forgiven you, say the people's whispers
 Were tame again, the time run out for wonder,
 What must your own command think, from whose swords

You have taken off the edges, from whose valours
 The due and recompense of arms; nay, made it doubtful
 Whether they knew obedience? must not these kill you?
 Say they are won to pardon you, by mere miracle
 Brought to forgive you, what old valiant soldier,
 What man that loves to fight, and fight for Rome,
 Will ever follow you more? Dare you know these ventures?

If so, I bring you comfort; dare you take it?

Pen. No, no, Petillius, no.

Pet. If your mind serve you,
 You may live still; but how?—yet pardon me:
 You may out-wear all too;—but when?—and certain
 There is a mercy for each fault, if tamely
 A man will take't upon conditions.

Pen. No, by no means: I am only thinking now, sir
 (For I am resolved to go), of a most base death,
 Fitting the baseness of my fault. I'll hang.

Pet. You shall not: you are a gentleman I honour,
 I would else flatter you, and force you live,

Which is far baser. Hanging? 'tis a dog's death,
And end for slaves.

Pen. The fitter for my baseness.

Pet. Besides, the man that's hanged preaches his end,
And sits a sign for all the world to gape at.

Pen. That's true; I'll take a fitter; poison.

Pet. No,
'Tis equal ill; the death of rats and women,
Lovers, and lazy boys, that fear correction;
Die like a man.

Pen. Why, my sword, then.

Pet. Ay, if your sword be sharp, sir.
There's nothing under Heaven that's like your sword;
Your sword's a death indeed!

Pen. It shall be sharp, sir.

Pet. Why, Mithridates was an arrant ass
To die by poison, if all Bosphorus
Could lend him swords: Your sword must do the deed:
'Tis shame to die chok'd, fame to die and bleed.

Pen. Thou hast confirm'd me; and, my good Petillius,
Tell me no more I may live.

Pet. 'Twas my commission;
But now I see you in a nobler way,
A way to make all even.

Pen. Farewell, captain!
Be a good man, and fight well: be obedient;
Command thyself, and then thy men. Why shakest thou?

Pet. I do not, sir.

Pen. I would thou hadst, Petillius!
I would find something to forsake the world with,
Worthy the man that dies: A kind of earthquake
Through all stern valours but mine own.

Pet. I feel now
A kind of trembling in me.

Pen. Keep it still;
As thou lovest virtue, keep it.

Pet. And, brave captain,
The great and honour'd Penius!—

Pen. That again!
Oh, how it heightens me! again, Petillius!

Pet. Most excellent commander—

Pen. Those were mine!

Mine, only mine!

Pet. They are still.

Pen. Then, to keep 'em

For ever falling more, have at ye!—Heavens,

Ye everlasting powers, I am yours:

The work is done, [Falls upon his sword.]

That neither fire, nor age, nor melting envy,

Shall ever conquer. Carry my last words

To the great general: Kiss his hands, and say,

My soul I give to Heaven, my fault to justice,

Which I have done upon myself; my virtue,

If ever there was any in poor Penius,

Made more, and happier, light on him!—I faint—

And where there is a foe, I wish him fortune.

I die: Lie lightly on my ashes, gentle earth! [Dies.]

Pet. And on my sin! Farewell, great Penius!—

The soldier is in fury; now I am glad [Noise within.]

'Tis done before he comes. This way for me,

The way of toil;—for thee, the way of honour! [Exit.]

DRUSIUS, REGULUS, and Soldiers, are heard without.

Sold. Kill him, kill him, kill him!

Drus. What will ye do?

Reg. Good soldiers, honest soldiers——

Sold. Kill him, kill him, kill him!

Drus. Kill us first: we command too.

Reg. Valiant soldiers,

Consider but whose life ye seek.—Oh, Drusius,

Bid him be gone; he dies else.—[Drusius enters.]—

Shall Rome say,

Ye most approved soldiers, her dear children

Devoured the fathers of the fights? shall rage

And stubborn fury guide those swords to slaughter,

To slaughter of their own, to civil ruin?

Drus. Oh, let 'em in; all's done, all's ended, Regulus;

Penius has found his last eclipse. Come, soldiers,

Come and behold your miseries; come bravely,

Full of your mutinous and bloody angers,

And here bestow your darts.—Oh, only Roman,

Oh, father of the wars!

Enter REGULUS and Soldiers.

Reg. Why stand ye stupid?

Where be your killing furies? whose sword now
 Shall first be sheathed in Penius? Do ye weep?
 Howl out, ye wretches, ye have cause; howl ever!
 Who shall now lead ye fortunate? whose valour
 Preserve ye to the glory of your country?
 Who shall march out before ye, coyed and courted,
 By all the mistresses of war, care, counsel,
 Quick-eyed experience, and victory twined to him?
 Who shall beget ye deeds beyond inheritance
 To speak your names, and keep your honours living,
 When children fail, and Time, that takes all with him,
 Build houses for ye to oblivion?

Drus. Oh, ye poor desperate fools, no more now soldiers.

Go home, and hang your arms up; let rust rot 'em;
 And humble your stern valours to soft prayers!
 For ye have sunk the frame of all your virtues;
 The sun that warmed your bloods is set for ever.—
 I'll kiss thy honoured cheek. Farewell, great Penius,
 Thou thunderbolt, farewell!—Take up the body:
 To-morrow morning to the camp convey it,
 There to receive due ceremonies. That eye,
 That blinds himself with weeping, gets most glory.

[Exeunt, bearing out the body. A dead march.]

SCENE IV.—Before the Fort of Bonduca.

Enter SÜETONIUS, JUNIUS, DECIUS, DEMETRIUS, CURIUS, and Soldiers; BONDUCA, two Daughters, and NENNIUS, on the ramparts. Drums and colours.

Suet. Bring up the catapults, and shake the wall;
 We will not be out-braved thus.

Nen. Shake the earth,
 Ye cannot shake our souls. Bring up your rams,
 And with their armed heads make the fort totter,
 Ye do but rock us into death. [Exit.]

Jun. See, sir,
 See the Icenian queen in all her glory,
 From the strong battlements proudly appearing,
 As if she meant to give us lashes!

Dec. Yield, queen.

Bond. I am unacquainted with that language, Roman.

Suet. Yield, honour'd lady, and expect our mercy,
We love thy nobleness. [Exit Decius.]

Bond. I thank ye! ye say well;
But mercy and love are sins in Rome and hell.

Suet. You cannot 'scape our strength; you must yield, lady:
You must adore and fear the power of Rome.

Bond. If Rome be earthly, why should any knee
With bending adoration worship her?
She's vicious; and, your partial selves confess,
Aspires, the height of all impiety;
Therefore 'tis fitter I should reverence
The thatched houses where the Britons dwell
In careless mirth; where the bless'd household gods
See nought but chaste and simple purity.
'Tis not high power that makes a place divine,
Nor that the men from gods derive their line;
But sacred thoughts, in holy bosoms stored,
Make people noble, and the place adored.

Suet. Beat the wall deeper!

Bond. Beat it to the centre,
We will not sink one thought.

Suet. I'll make ye.

Bond. No.

Enter PETILLIUS, who whispers SÜETONIUS.

2 Daugh. O mother, these are fearful hours; speak gently
To these fierce men, they will afford ye pity.

Bond. Pity? Thou fearful girl, 'tis for those wretches
That misery makes tame. Wouldst thou live less?
Wast not thou born a princess? Can my blood,
And thy brave father's spirit, suffer in thee
So base a separation from thyself,
As mercy from these tyrants? Thou lovest lust sure,
And long'st to prostitute thy youth and beauty
To common slaves for bread. Say they had mercy,
The devil a relenting conscience,
The lives of kings rest in their diadems,
Which to their bodies lively souls do give
And, ceasing to be kings, they cease to live.
Shew such another fear, and, by the Gods,
I'll fling thee to their fury.—

Suet. He is dead then?

Pet. I think so certainly; yet all my means, sir,
Even to the hazard of my life——

Suet. No more:

We must not seem to mourn here.

Enter DECIUS.

Dec. There is a breach made;
Is it your will we charge, sir!

Suet. Once more, mercy,
Mercy to all that yield!

Bond. I scorn to answer:—

Speak to him, girl—and hear thy sister.

Daugh. General,

Hear me, and mark me well, and look upon me,
Directly in my face, my woman's face,
Whose only beauty is the hate it bears ye;
See with thy narrowest eyes, thy sharpest wishes,
Into my soul, and see what there inhabits;
See if one fear, one shadow of a terror,
One paleness dare appear but from my anger,
To lay hold on your mercies. No, ye fools,
Poor fortune's fools, we were not born for triumphs,
To follow your gay sports, and fill your slaves
With hoots and acclamations.

Pet. Brave behaviour!

Daugh. The children of as great as Rome, as noble,
Our names before her, and our deeds her envy,
Must we gild o'er your conquest, make your state,
That is not fairly strong, but fortunate?
No, no, ye Romans, we have ways to 'scape ye,
To make ye poor again, indeed our prisoners,
And stick our triumphs full.

Pet. S'death, I shall love her!

Daugh. To torture ye with suffering, like our slaves;
To make ye curse our patience, wish the world
Were lost again, to win us only, and esteem [it]
The end of all ambitions.

Bond. Do ye wonder?

We'll make our monuments in spite of fortune;
In spite of all your eagles' wings, we'll work
A pitch above you; and from our height we'll stoop

As fearless of your bloody soars, and fortunate,
As if we pray'd on heartless doves.

Suet. Strange stiffness !

Decius, go charge the breach.

[Exit Decius.]

Bond. Charge it home, Roman ;

We shall deceive thee else.—Where's Nennius !

Enter NENNIUS.

Nen. They have made a mighty breach.

Bond. Stick in thy body,

And make it good but half an hour.

Nen. I'll do it.

1 Daugh. And then be sure to die.

Nen. It shall go hard else.

Bond. Farewell, with all my heart ! We shall meet yonder

Where few of these must come.

Nen. Gods take thee, lady !

[Exit.]

Bond. Bring up the swords and poison.

Enter one with Swords and a great Cup of Poison.

2 Daugh. Oh, my fortune !

Bond. How, how, ye whore ?

2 Daugh. Good mother, nothing to offend you.

Bond. Here, wench.—

Behold us, Romans !

Suet. Mercy yet.

Bond. No talking !

Puff ! there goes all your pity.—Come, short prayers,

And let's dispatch the business ! You begin ;

Shrink not, I'll see you do't.

2 Daugh. Oh, gentle mother !

Oh, Romans ! oh, my heart ! I dare not.

Suet. Woman, woman,

Unnatural woman !

2 Daugh. Oh, persuade her, Romans !

Alas, I am young, and would live.—Noble mother,

Can ye kill that ye gave life ? Are my years

Fit for destruction ?

Suet. Yield, and be a queen still,

A mother, and a friend.

Bond. Ye talk !—Come, hold it,

And put it home.

1 Daugh. Fy, sister, fy!

What would you live to be?

Bond. A whore still?

2 Daugh. Mercy!

Suet. Hear her, thou wretched woman!

2 Daugh. Mercy, mother!

[Kneels.

Oh, whither will you send me? I was once
Your darling, your delight.

Bond. Oh, gods! fear in my family?—Do it, and nobly.

2 Daugh. Oh, do not frown then.

1 Daugh. Do it, worthy sister;

'Tis nothing; 'tis a pleasure: We'll go with you.

2 Daugh. Oh, if I knew but whither!

1 Daugh. To the blessed:

Where we shall meet our father—

Suet. Woman!

Bond. Talk not.

1 Daugh. Where nothing but true joy is—

Bond. That's a good wench!

[2 Daugh. drinks.

Mine own sweet girl! put it close to thee.

2 Daugh. Oh,

Comfort me still, for Heaven's sake.

1 Daugh. Where eternal

Our youths are, and our beauties; where no wars come,
Nor lustful slaves to ravish us.

2 Daugh. That steels me;

A long farewell to this world!

[Dies.

Bond. Good; I'll help thee.

1 Daugh. The next is mine.—

Show me a Roman lady in all your stories,
Dare do this for her honour; they are cowards,
Eat coals like compell'd cats: your great saint, Lucrece,
Died not for honour; Tarquin tupt her well,
And, mad she could not hold him, bled.

Pet. By Heaven.

I am in love! I would give an hundred pound now
But to lie with this woman's behaviour. Oh, the devil!

1 Daugh. Ye shall see me example: All your Rome,

If I were proud and loved ambition,

If I were lustful, all your ways of pleasure,

If I were greedy, all the wealth ye conquer—

Bond. Make haste.

1 Daugh. I will.—[Drinks.]—Could not entice to live,

But two short hours, this frailty. Would ye learn
 How to die bravely, Romans, to fling off
 This case of flesh, lose all your cares for ever?
 Live, as we have done, well, and fear the gods;
 Hunt honour, and not nations, with your swords;
 Keep your minds humble, your devotions high;
 So shall ye learn the noblest part, to die. [Dies.]

Bond. I come, wench.—To ye all, Fate's hangmen, you
 That ease the aged Destinies, and cut
 The threads of kingdoms as they draw 'em! here,
 Here is a draught would ask no less than Cæsar
 To pledge it for the glory's sake!

Cur. Great lady!

Suet. Make up your own conditions.

Bond. So we will.

Suet. Stay!

Dem. Stay!

Suet. Be anything.

Bond. A saint, Suetonius, [Drinks.]
 When thou shalt fear, and die like a slave. Ye fools,
 Ye should have tied up Death first, when ye conquer'd;
 Ye sweat for us in vain else: See him here!
 He is ours still, and our friend; laughs at your pities;
 And we command him with as easy reins
 As do our enemies.—I feel the poison.—
 Poor vanquish'd Romans, with what matchless tortures
 Could I now rack ye! But I pity ye,
 Desiring to die quiet: Nay, so much
 I hate to prosecute my victory,
 That I will give ye counsel ere I die:
 If you will keep your laws and empire whole,
 Place in your Roman flesh a Briton soul. [Dies.]

Suet. Desperate and strange!

Enter DECIUS.

Dec. 'Tis won, sir, and the Britons
 All put to th' sword.

Suet. Give her fair funeral;
 She was truly noble, and a queen.

Pet. Pox take it,
 A love-mange grown upon me! What a spirit!

Jun. I am glad of this! I have found you.

Pet. In my belly,
Oh, how it tumbles!

Jun. Ye good gods, I thank ye!

[Exeunt.]

ACT V

SCENE I.—A mountainous Country.

CARATACH discovered upon the Rock in the Back-ground, and HENGO by him sleeping.

Car. Thus we afflicted Britons climb for safeties,
And, to avoid our dangers, seek destructions;
Thus we awake to sorrows.—Oh, thou woman,
Thou agent for adversities, what curses
This day belong to thy improvidence!
To Britanie, by thy means, what sad millions
Of widows' weeping eyes! The strong man's valour
Thou hast betrayed to fury, the child's fortune
To fear, and want of friends; whose pieties
Might wipe his mournings off, and build his sorrows
A house of rest by his bless'd ancestors:
The virgins thou hast robb'd of all their wishes,
Blasted their blowing hopes, turned their songs,
Their mirthful marriage-songs, to funerals;
The land thou hast left a wilderness of wretches.—
The boy begins to stir; thy safety made,
'Would my soul were in heaven!

Hengo. Oh, noble uncle,
Look out; I dreamed we were betray'd.

Car. No harm, boy;
'Tis but thy emptiness that breeds these fancies:
Thou shalt have meat anon.

[A soft dead march within.]

Hengo. A little, uncle.
And I shall hold out bravely.—What are those,
(Look, uncle, look!) those multitudes that march there?
They come upon us stealing by.

Car. I see 'em;
And pr'ythee be not fearful.

Hengo. Now you hate me;—
'Would I were dead!

Car. Thou knowest I love thee dearly.

Hengo. Did I e'er shrink yet, uncle? Were I a man now
I should be angry with you.

Enter DRUSIUS, REGULUS, and Soldiers, with PENIUS's Hearse, Drums, and Colours.

Car. My sweet chicken!—

See, they have reached us; and, as it seems, they bear
Some soldier's body, by their solemn gestures,
And sad solemnities; it well appears, too,
To be of eminence.—Most worthy soldiers,
Let me entreat your knowledge to inform me
What noble body that is, which you bear
With such a sad and ceremonious grief,
As if ye meant to woo the world and nature
To be in love with death? Most honourable
Excellent Romans, by your ancient valours,
As ye love fame, resolve me!

Sold. 'Tis the body

Of the great captain Penius, by himself
Made cold and spiritless.

Car. Oh, stay, ye Romans,

By the religion which ye owe those gods
That lead ye on to victories! by those glories
Which made even pride a virtue in ye!

Drus. Stay.—

What's thy will, Caratach?

Car. Set down the body,

The body of the noblest of all Romans;
As ye expect an offering at your graves
From your friends' sorrows, set it down a-while,
That with your griefs an enemy may mingle,
(A noble enemy, that loves a soldier)
And lend a tear to virtue! Even your foes,
Your wild foes, as you called us, are yet stored
With fair affections, our hearts fresh, our spirits,
Though sometime stubborn, yet, when Virtue dies,
Soft and relenting as a virgin's prayers:
Oh, set it down!

Drus. Set down the body, soldiers.

Car. Thou hallowed relic, thou rich diamond,
Cut with thine own dust; thou, for whose wide fame
The world appears too narrow, man's all thoughts,

Had they all tongues, too silent; thus I bow
 To thy most honour'd ashes! Though an enemy,
 Yet friend to all thy worths, sleep peaceably;
 Happiness crown thy soul, and in thy earth
 Some laurel fix his seat, there grow and flourish,
 And make thy grave an everlasting triumph!
 Farewell all glorious wars, now thou art gone,
 And honest arms adieu! All noble battles,
 Maintain'd in thirst of honour, not of blood,
 Farewell for ever!

Hengo. Was this Roman, uncle,
 So good a man?

Car. Thou never knewest thy father.

Hengo. He died before I was born.

Car. This worthy Roman
 Was such another piece of endless honour,
 Such a brave soul dwelt in him; their proportions
 And faces were not much unlike, boy.—Excellent nature!
 See how it works into his eyes!—mine own boy!

Hengo. The multitudes of these men, and their fortunes,
 Could never make me fear yet; one man's goodness—

Car. Oh, now thou pleasest me; weep still, my child,
 As if thou saw'st me dead! with such a flux
 Or flood of sorrow, still thou pleasest me.—
 And, worthy soldiers, pray receive these pledges,
 These hatchments of our griefs, and grace us so much
 To place 'em on his hearse. Now, if ye please,
 Bear off the noble burden; raise his pile
 High as Olympus, making Heaven to wonder
 To see a star upon earth out-shining theirs:
 And ever-loved, ever-living be
 Thy honour'd and most sacred memory!

Drus. Thou hast done honestly, good Caratach;
 And when thou diest, a thousand virtuous Romans
 Shall sing thy soul to Heaven.—Now march on, soldiers.

[Exeunt Romans. A dead march.]

Car. Now dry thine eyes, my boy.

Hengo. Are they all gone?
 I could have wept this hour yet.

Car. Come, take cheer,
 And raise thy spirit, child; if but this day
 Thou canst bear out thy faintness, the night coming
 I'll fashion our escape.

Hengo. Pray fear not me;
Indeed I am very hearty.

Car. Be so still;
His mischiefs lessen, that controls his ill. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II.—The Roman Camp.

Enter PETILLIUS.

Pet. What do I ail, i' th' name of Heaven? I did but see her,
And see her die; she stinks by this time strongly,
Abominably stinks. She was a woman,
A thing I never cared for; but to die so,
So confidently, bravely, strongly—Oh, the devil,
I have the bots!—By Heaven, she scorned us strangely,
All we could do, or durst do; threaten'd us
With such a noble anger, and so govern'd
With such a fiery spirit—The plain bots!
A pox upon the bots, the love-bots! Hang me.
Hang me even out o' th' way, directly hang me!
Oh, penny pipers, and most painful panners
Of bountiful new ballads, what a subject,
What a sweet subject for your silver sounds,
Is crept upon ye!

Enter JUNIUS.

Jun. Here he is; have at him! [Sings.]

She set the sword unto her breast,
Great pity it was to see,
That three drops of her life-warm blood,
Run trickling down her knee.

Art thou there, bonny boy? And i'faith how dost thou?

Pet. Well, gramercy; how dost thou?—He has found me,
Scented me out; the shame the devil owed me,
He has kept his day with.—And what news, Junius?

Jun. It was an old tale ten thousand times told,
Of a young lady was turn'd into mould,
Her life was lovely, her death it was bold.

Pet. A cruel rogue! now he has drawn pursuit on me,
He hunts me like a devil.—No more singing!
Thou hast got a cold: Come, let's go drink some sack,
boy.

Jun. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!

Pet. Why dost thou laugh?

What mare's nest hast thou found?

Jun. Ha, ha, ha!

I cannot laugh alone:—Decius! Demetrius!

Curius!—oh, my sides! ha, ha, ha, ha!

The strangest jest!

Pet. Pr'ythee no more.

Jun. The admirablest fooling!

Pet. Thou art the prettiest fellow!

Jun. Sirs!

Pet. Why, Junius,

Pr'ythee, away, sweet Junius?

Jun. Let me sing then.

Pet. Whoa, here's a stir, now! Sing a song of sixpence!

By Heaven, if—pr'ythee—pox on't, Junius!

Jun. I must either sing or laugh.

Pet. And what's your reason?

Jun. What's that to you?

Pet. And I must whistle

Jun. Do so.

Oh, I hear 'em coming.

Pet. I have a little business.

Jun. Thou shalt not go, believe it: What! a gentleman

Of thy sweet conversation?

Pet. Captain Junius,

Sweet captain, let me go with all celerity!

Things are not always one; and do not question,

Nor jeer, nor gibe: None of your doleful ditties,

Nor your sweet conversation; you will find then

I may be angered.

Jun. By no means, Petillius;

Anger a man that never knew passion?

'Tis most impossible: A noble captain,

A wise and generous gentleman?

Pet. Tom Puppy,

Leave this way to abuse me! I have found you,

But, for your mother's sake, I will forgive you.

Your subtile understanding may discover,

As you think, some trim toy to make you merry,

Some straw to tickle you; but do not trust to't;

You are a young man, and may do well; be sober,

Carry yourself discreetly.

Enter DECIUS, DEMETRIUS, and CURIUS.

Jun. Yes, forsooth.

Dem. How does the brave Petillius?

Jun. Monstrous merry.

We two were talking what a kind of thing
I was when I was in love; what a strange monster
For little boys and girls to wonder at;
How like a fool I looked!

Dec. So they do all,
Like great dull slaving fools.

Jun. Petillius saw too.

Pet. No more of this; 'tis scurvy; peace!

Jun. How nastily,
Indeed how beastly, all I did became me!
How I forgot to blow my nose! There he stands,
An honest and a wise man; if himself
(I dare avouch it boldly, for I know it)
Should find himself in love——

Pet. I am angry.

Jun. Surely his wise self would hang his beastly self;
His understanding self so mawl his ass self——

Dec. He's bound to do it; for he knows the follies,
The poverties, and baseness, that belongs to't;
He has read upon the reformations long.

Pet. He has so.

Jun. 'Tis true, and he must do't: Nor is it fit indeed
Any such coward——

Pet. You'll leave prating?

Jun. Should dare come near the regiments, especially Those curious puppies (for believe there are such)
That only love behaviours: Those are dog-whelps,
Dwindle away because a woman dies well;
Commit with passions only; fornicate
With the free spirit merely. You, Petillius,
For you have long observed the world——

Pet. Dost thou hear?

I'll beat thee damnably within these three hours!
Go pray; may be I'll kill thee. Farewell, Jackdaws!

[Exit Petillius.]

Dec. What a strange thing he's grown!

Jun. I am glad he is so;
And stranger he shall be before I leave him.

Cur. Is't possible her mere death—

Jun. I observed him,
 And found him taken, infinitely taken,
 With her bravery; I have followed him,
 And seen him kiss his sword since, court his scabbard,
 Call dying dainty dear, her brave mind mistress;
 Casting a thousand ways to give those forms,
 That he might lie with 'em, and get old armours.
 He had got me o' the hip once; it shall go hard, friends.
 But he shall find his own coin.

Enter MACER.

Dec. How now, Macer?
 Is Judas yet come in?

Enter JUDAS.

Macer. Yes, and has lost
 Most of his men too. Here he is.

Cur. What news?

Judas. I have lodged him; rouse him, he that dares!

Dem. Where, Judas?

Judas On a steep rock i' th' woods, the boy too with him;
 And there he swears he'll keep his Christmas, gentlemen,
 But he will come away with full conditions,
 Bravely, and like a Briton. He paid part of us;
 Yet I think we fought bravely: For mine own part,
 I was four several times at half-sword with him,
 Twice stood his partizan; but the plain truth is,
 He's a mere devil, and no man. I' th' end, he swunged us,
 And swunged us soundly too: He fights by witchcraft;
 Yet for all that I saw him lodged.

Jun. Take more men,
 And scout him round. Macer, march you along.
 What victuals has he?

Judas. Not a piece of biscuit,
 Not so much as will stop a tooth, nor water
 More than they make themselves: They lie
 Just like a brace of bear-whelps, close, and crafty,
 Sucking their fingers for their food.

Dec. Cut off then
 All hope of that way; take sufficient forces.

Jun. But use no foul play, on your lives! that man
That does him mischief by deceit, I'll kill him.

Macer. He shall have fair play; he deserves it.

Judas. Hark ye!

What should I do there then? You are brave captains,
Most valiant men: Go up yourselves; use virtue;
See what will come on't; pray the gentleman
To come down, and be taken. Ye all know him,
I think ye have felt him too: There ye shall find him,
His sword by his side, plums of a pound weight by him,
Will make your chops ache: You'll find it a more labour
To win him living, than climbing of a crow's nest.

Dec. Away, and compass him; we shall come up,
I am sure, within these two hours. Watch him close.

Macer. He shall flee through the air, if he escape us.

Jun. What's this loud lamentation? [A sad noise within.]

Macer. The dead body

Of the great Penius is new come to th' camp, sir.

Dem. Dead?

Macer. By himself, they say.

Jun. I fear'd that fortune.

Cur. Peace guide him up to Heaven!

Jun. Away, good Macer. [Exeunt Macer and Judas.]

Enter Suetonius, Drusius, Regulus, and Petillius.

Suet. If thou be'st guilty,
Some sullen plague, thou hat'st most, light upon thee!
The regiment return on Junius;
He well deserves it.

Pet. So!

Suet. Draw out three companies,
(Yours, Decius, Junius, and thou, Petillius),
And make up instantly to Caratach;
He's in the wood before ye: We shall follow,
After due ceremony done to th' dead,
The noble dead. Come, let's go burn the body.
[Exeunt all but Petillius.]

Pet. The regiment given from me? disgraced openly?
In love too with a trifle to abuse me?
A merry world, a fine world! served seven years
To be an ass o' both sides? sweet Petillius,

You have brought your hogs to a fine market! You are wise, sir,
 Your honourable brain-pan full of crotchets,
 An understanding gentleman; your projects
 Cast with assurance ever! Wouldst not thou now
 Be bang'd about the pate, Petillius?
 Answer to that, sweet soldier! surely, surely,
 I think you would; pull'd by the nose, kick'd? Hang thee,
 Thou art the arrant'st rascal! Trust thy wisdom
 With anything of weight? the wind with feathers!
 Out, you blind puppy! you command? you govern?
 Dig for a groat a-day, or serve a swine herd,
 Too noble for thy nature too!—I must up;
 But what I shall do there, let time discover. [Exit.

SCENE III.—The mountainous Country, with the Rock in the Back-ground.

Enter MACER and JUDAS, with meat and a bottle.

Macer. Hang it o' th' side o' th' rock, as though the Britons
 Stole hither to relieve him: Who first ventures
 To fetch it off is ours. I cannot see him.

Judas. He lies close in a hole above, I know it,
 Gnawing upon his anger.—Ha! no; 'tis not he.

Macer. 'Tis but the shaking of the boughs.

Judas. Pox shake 'em!
 I am sure they shake me soundly.—There!

Macer. 'Tis nothing.

Judas. Make no noise; if he stir, a deadly tempest
 Of huge stones falls upon us. 'Tis done! away, close!
 [Exeunt.

CARATACH appears on the rock.

Car. Sleep still, sleep sweetly, child; 'tis all thou feed'st on!
 No gentle Briton near, no valiant charity,
 To bring thee food? Poor knave, thou art sick, extreme sick,
 Almost grown wild for meat; and yet thy goodness
 Will not confess, nor show it. All the woods
 Are double lined with soldiers; no way left us
 To make a noble 'scape. I'll sit down by thee,

And, when thou wak'st, either get meat to save thee,
Or lose my life i' th' purchase; good Gods comfort thee!
[Exit.]

Enter below JUNIUS, DECIUS, PETILLIUS, and Guide.

Guide. You are not far off now, sir.

Jun. Draw the companies
The closest way through the woods; we'll keep on this way.

Guide. I will, sir: Half a furlong more you'll come Within the sight o' th' rock. Keep on the left side,
You'll be discover'd else: I'll lodge your companies
In the wild vines beyond ye.

Dec. Do you mark him? [Pointing to Petillius.]

Jun. Yes, and am sorry for him.

Pet. Junius,
Pray let me speak two words with you.

Jun. Walk afore;
I'll overtake you straight.

Dec. I will. [Exit.]

Jun. Now, captain?

Pet. You have oft told me, you have loved me, Junius.

Jun. Most sure I told you truth then.

Pet. And that love
Should not deny me any honest thing.

Jun. It shall not.

Pet. Dare you swear it?
I have forgot all passages between us
That have been ill, forgiven too, forgot.

Jun. What would this man have?—By the gods, I do, sir,
So it be fit to grant you.

Pet. 'Tis most honest.

Jun. Why, then I'll do it.

Pet. Kill me.

Jun. How!

Pet. Pray kill me.

Jun. Kill you?

Pet. Ay, kill me quickly, suddenly;
Now kill me.

Jun. On what reason? You amaze me!

Pet. If you do love me, kill me; ask me not why:
I would be kill'd, and by you.

Jun. Mercy on me!

What ails this man? Petillius!

Pet. Pray you dispatch me:

You are not safe whilst I live: I am dangerous,
 Troubled extremely, even to mischief, Junius,
 An enemy to all good men. Fear not; 'tis justice;
 I shall kill you else.

Jun. Tell me but the cause,
 And I will do it,

Pet. I am disgraced, my service
 Slighted and unrewarded by the general,
 My hopes left wild and naked; besides these,
 I am grown ridiculous, an ass, a folly,
 I dare not trust myself with: Pr'ythee, kill me!

Jun. All these may be redeem'd as easily
 As you would heal your finger.

Pet. Nay——

Jun. Stay, I'll do it;
 You shall not need your anger. But first, Petillius.
 You shall unarm yourself; I dare not trust
 A man so bent to mischief.

Pet. There's my sword, [Gives up his sword.]
 And do it handsomely.

Jun. Yes, I will kill you,
 Believe that certain; but first I'll lay before you
 The most extreme fool you have play'd in this,
 The honour purposed for you, the great honour
 The general intended you.

Pet. How?

Jun. And then I'll kill you,
 Because you shall die miserable. Know, sir,
 The regiment was given me, but till time
 Call'd you to do some worthy deed, might stop
 The people's ill thoughts of you for lord Penius,
 I mean his death. How soon this time's come to you,
 And hasted by Suetonius! "Go," says he,
 "Junius and Decius, and go thou, Petillius," (Distinctly, thou, Petillius), "and draw up,
 To take stout Caratach:" There's the deed purposed,
 A deed to take off all faults, of all natures:
 "And thou, Petillius," mark it! there's the honour;
 And that done, all made even.

Pet. Stay!

Jun. No, I'll kill you.

He knew thee absolute, and full in soldier,
Daring beyond all dangers, found thee out,
According to the boldness of thy spirit,
A subject, such a subject——

Pet. Hark you, Junius!
I will live now.

Jun. By no means.—Woo'd thy worth,
Held thee by the chin up, as thou sunk'st, and showed thee

How Honour held her arms out. Come, make ready,
Since you will die an ass.

Pet. Thou wilt not kill me?

Jun. By Heaven, but I will, sir. I'll have no man dangerous Live to destroy me afterward. Besides, you have gotten Honour enough; let young men rise now. Nay,
I do perceive too by the general (which is One main cause you shall die, howe'er he carry it)
Such a strong doting on you, that I fear
You shall command in chief: how are we paid then?
Come, if you'll pray, dispatch it.

Pet. Is there no way?

Jun. Not any way to live.

Pet. I will do anything,
Redeem myself at any price: Good Junius,
Let me but die upon the rock, but offer
My life up like a soldier!

Jun. You will seek then
To outdo every man.

Pet. Believe it, Junius,
You shall go stroke by stroke with me.

Jun. You'll leave off too,
As you are noble, and a soldier,
For ever these mad fancies?

Pet. Dare you trust me?
By all that's good and honest——

Jun. There's your sword then;
And now, come on a new man: Virtue guide thee!

[Exeunt.]

Enter CARATACH and HENGO, on the rock.

Car. Courage, my boy! I have found meat: Look, Hengo,
Look where some blessed Briton, to preserve thee,

Has hung a little food and drink: Cheer up, boy;
Do not forsake me now!

Hengo. Oh, uncle, uncle.

I feel I cannot stay long: yet I'll fetch it,
To keep your noble life. Uncle, I am heart-whole,
And would live.

Car. Thou shalt, long I hope.

Hengo. But my head, uncle!
Methinks the rock goes round.

Enter MACER and JUDAS below, and stand apart.

Macer. Mark 'em well, Judas.

Judas. Peace, as you love your life!

Hengo. Do not you hear
The noise of bells!

Car. Of bells, boy? 'Tis thy fancy;
Alas, thy body's full of wind.

Hengo. Methinks, sir,
They ring a strange sad knell, a preparation
To some near funeral of state: Nay, weep not,
Mine own sweet uncle! you will kill me sooner.

Car. Oh, my poor chicken!

Hengo. Fy, faint hearted uncle!
Come, tie me in your belt, and let me down.

Car. I'll go myself, boy.

Hengo. No, as you love me, uncle!
I will not eat it, if I do not fetch it;
The danger only I desire; pray tie me!

Car. I will, and all my care hang o'er thee! Come, child,
My valiant child! [Lets Hengo down by his belt.]

Hengo. Let me down apace, uncle,
And you shall see how like a daw I'll whip it
From all their policies; for 'tis most certain
A Roman train: And you must hold me sure too,
You'll spoil all else. When I have brought it, uncle,
We'll be as merry——

Car. Go, i' th' name of Heaven, boy!

Hengo. Quick, quick, uncle! I have it.—Oh!
[Judas shoots Hengo.]

Car. What ail'st thou?

Hengo. Oh, my best uncle, I am slain!

Car. I see you,
[Caratach kills Judas with a stone, and draws up Hengo.]

And Heaven direct my hand!—Destruction
Go with thy coward soul!—How dost thou, boy?—
Oh, villain, pocky villain!

Hengo. Oh, uncle, uncle,
Oh, how it pricks me (am I preserved for this?)
Extremely pricks me!

Car. Coward, rascal coward!
Dogs eat thy flesh!

Hengo. Oh, I bleed hard; I faint too; out upon't
How sick I am!—The lean rogue, uncle!

Car. Look, boy;
I have laid him sure enough.

Hengo. Have you knock'd his brains out?

Car. I warrant thee for stirring more: Cheer up, child.

Hengo. Hold my sides hard; stop, stop; oh, wretched fortune,
Must we part thus? Still I grow sicker, uncle.

Car. Heaven look upon this noble child!

Hengo. I once hoped
I should have lived to have met these bloody Romans
At my sword's point, to have revenged my father,
To have beaten 'em. Oh, hold me hard! But, uncle——

Car. Thou shalt live still, I hope, boy. Shall I draw it?

Hengo. You draw away my soul then: I would live
A little longer (spare me, Heavens!) but only
To thank you for your tender love! Good uncle,
Good noble uncle, weep not!

Car. Oh, my chicken,
My dear boy, what shall I lose?

Hengo. Why, a child,
That must have died however; had this 'scaped me,
Fever or famine——I was born to die, sir.

Car. But this unblown, my boy?

Hengo. I go the straighter
My journey to the gods. Sure I shall know you
When you come, uncle?

Car. Yes, boy.

Hengo. And I hope
We shall enjoy together that great blessedness
You told me of.

Car. Most certain, child.

Hengo. I grow cold;
Mine eyes are going.

Car. Lift 'em up!

Hengo. Pray for me;
And, noble uncle, when my bones are ashes,
Think of your little nephew! Mercy!

Car. Mercy!
You blessed angels, take him!

Hengo. Kiss me! so.
Farewell, farewell! [Dies.

Car. Farewell the hopes of Britain!
Thou royal graft, farewell for ever!—Time and Death,
Ye have done your worst. Fortune, now see, now proudly
Pluck off thy veil, and veiw thy triumph: Look,
Look what thou hast brought this land to.—Oh, fair flower,
How lovely yet thy ruins show, how sweetly
Even death embraces thee! The peace of Heaven,
The fellowship of all great souls, be with thee!

Enter PETILLIUS and JUNIUS, on the rock.

Ha! Dare ye, Romans? Ye shall win me bravely.
Thou'rt mine! [Fight.

Jun. Not yet, sir.

Car. Breathe ye, ye poor Romans,
And come up all, with all your ancient valours;
Like a rough wind I'll shake your souls, and send 'em——

Enter SÜETONIUS, and all the Roman Captains.

Suet. Yield thee, bold Caratach! By all the gods,
As I am soldier, as I envy thee,
I'll use thee like thyself, the valiant Briton.

Pet. Brave soldier, yield, thou stock of arms and honour,
Thou filler of the world with fame and glory!

Jun. Most worthy man, we'll woo thee, be thy prisoners.

Suet. Excellent Briton, do me but that honour,
That more to me than conquests, that true happiness,
To be my friend!

Car. Oh, Romans, see what here is!
Had this boy lived——

Suet. For fame's sake, for thy sword's sake,
As thou desirest to build thy virtues greater!
By all that's excellent in man, and honest——

Car. I do believe. Ye have had me a brave foe;

Make me a noble friend, and from your goodness,
Give this boy honourable earth to lie in!

Suet. He shall have fitting funeral.

Car. I yield then;

Not to your blows, but your brave courtesies.

Pet. Thus we conduct then to the arms of peace
The wonder of the world!

Suet. Thus I embrace thee!

[Flourish.

And let it be no flattery that I tell thee,
Thou art the only soldier!

Car. How to thank ye,

I must hereafter find upon your usage.
I am for Rome?

Suet. You must.

Car. Then Rome shall know

The man that makes her spring of glory grow.

Suet. Petillius, you have shown much worth this day,
Redeem'd much error; you have my love again;
Preserve it.—Junius, with you I make him
Equal in the regiment.

Jun. The elder and the nobler;
I will give place, sir.

Suet. You show a friend's soul.

March on, and through the camp, in every tongue,

The virtues of great Caratach be sung! [Exeunt,
