TO THE
RIGHT HONOURABLE
Sir SPENCER COMPTON.

S I R,

THE Author of the following P O E M begs Leave to inscribe this his first Performance to your Name, and Patronage, unknown himself, and only introduced by the Muse, He yet ventures to approach You, with a modest deft Chearfulness: For, whoever attempts to excel in any Generous Art, tho' he comes alone, and unregarded by the World, may hope for your Notice, and Esteem. Happy! if I can, in any Degree, merit this Good Fortune: As every Ornament, and Grace, of Polite Learning is Yours, Your single Approbation will be my Fame.

I DARE not indulge my Heart, by dwelling on your Public Character; on that exalted Honour, and Integrity, which distinguish You, in that August Assembly, where You persevere; that unshaken Loyalty to Your Sovereign, that disinterested Concern for his People, which shine out, united, in all your Behaviour, and finish the Patriot. I am conscious of my Want of Strength, and Skill for so delicate an Undertaking: And yet, as the Shepherd, in his Cottage, may feel and acknowledge the Influence of the Sun with as lively a Gratitude, as the Great Man, in his Palace, even I may be allowed to publish my Sense of those Blessings, which, from so many powerful Vertues, are derived to the Nation they adorn.

8 DEDICATION.

I conclude with saying, that your fine Discernment and Humanity, in your Private Capacity, are so conspicuous, that, if this Address is not received with some Indulgence, it will be a severe Conviction, that what I have written has not the least Share of Merit.

I am,

With the profoundest Respect,

S I R,

Your most devoted,

and most faithful,

Humble Servant ;

T H E
P R E F A C E.

I AM neither ignorant, nor concern'd, how much one may suffer in the Opinion of several Persons of great Gravity, and Character, by the Study, and Pursuit of P O E T R Y.

Altho' there may seem to be some Appearance of Reason for the present Contempt of it, as managed by the most part of our modern Writers ;
yet,

yet that any Man should, seriously, declare against that DIVINE ART is, really, amazing. It is declaring against the most charming Power of Imagination, the most exalting Force of Thought, the most affecting Touch of Sentiment; in a Word, against the very Soul of all Learning, and Politeness. It is affronting the universal Taste of Mankind, and declaring against what has charmed the listening World from Moses down to Milton. In fine, it is, even, declaring against the sublimest Passages of the inspired Writings themselves, and what seems to be the peculiar Language of Heaven.

The Truth of the Case is this: These weak-sighted Gentlemen cannot bear the strong Light of P O E T R Y, and the finer, and more amusing, Scene of Things it displays; but must Those, therefore, whom Heaven has blessed with with the discerning Eye shut it, to keep them Company.

It is pleasant enough, however, to observe, frequently, in these Enemies of POETRY, an aukward Imitation of it. They sometimes, have their little Brightnesses, when the opening Glooms will permit. Nay, I have seen their Heaviness, on some Occasions, deign to turn friskish, and witty, in which they make just such another Figure as Æsop's Ass, when he began to fawn. To compleat the Absurdity They would, even, in their Efforts against POETRY, fain be poetical; like those Gentlemen that reason with a great deal of Zeal, and Severity, against Reason.

That there are frequent, and notorious, Abuses of POETRY is as true as that the best Things are most liable to that Misfortune; but is there no End of that clamorous Argument against the Use of Things from the Abuse of them?
And

12 The P R E F A C E.

And yet I hope, that no Man, who has the least Sense of Shame in him, will fall into it after the present, sulphureous Attacker of the Stage.

To insist no further on this Head, let P O E T R Y, once more, be restored to her antient Truth, and Purity; let Her be inspired from Heaven, and, in Return, her Incense ascend thither: Let Her exchange Her low, venal, trifling, Subjects for such as are fair, useful, and magnificent; and, let Her execute these so as, at once, to please, instruct, surprize, and astonish; and then, of Necessity, the most inveterate Ignorance, and Prejudice, shall be struck Dumb; and P O E T S yet become the Delight and Wonder of Mankind.

But this happy Period is not to be expected, till some long-wished, illustrious Man, of equal Power, and Beneficence, rise on the wintry World of Letters ters: One of a genuine, and unbounded, Greatness, and Generosity, of Mind; who, far, above all the Pomp, and Pride, of Fortune, scorns the little addressful, Flatterer; peirces thro' the disguised, designing, Villain; discourtenances all the reigning Fopperies of a tasteless Age: and who, stretching his Views into late Futurity, has the true Interest of Virtue, Learning, and Mankind, intirely, at Heart — A Character so nobly desirable! that to an honest Heart, it is, almost, incredible so few should have the Ambition to deserve it.

Nothing can have a better Influence towards the Revival of P O E T R Y than the chusing of great, and serious, Subjects; such as, at once, amuse the Fancy, enlighten the Head, and warm the Heart. These give a Weight, and Dignity, to the Poem: Nor is the Pleasure, I should say Rapture, both the Writer, and the Reader, feels, unwarranted by Reason, or followed by repentant Disgust. To be able to write on a dry, barren, Theme, is looked upon, by some, as the Sign of a happy, fruitful, Genius——fruitful indeed ; — like one of the pendant Gardens in Cheapside, water'd, every Morning, by the Hand of the Alderman, Himself. And what are we commonly entertain'd with, on these Occasions, save forced, unaffecting, Fancies; little, glittering Prettinesses; mixed Turns of Wit, and Expression ; which are as widely different from Native POETRY, as Buffoonery is from the Perfection of human Thinking? A Genius fired with the Charms of Truth, and Nature, is tuned to a sublimer Pitch, and scorns to associate with such Subjects.

I cannot more emphatically recommend this Poetical Ambition than by the four following Lines from Mr. Hill's Poem, called, The Judgment Day, which is so singular an Instance of it.

For

The P R E F A C E. 15

*For Me, suffice it to have taught my Muse,
The tuneful Triflings of her Tribe to shun;
And rais'd her Warmth such Heavenly Themes to chuse,*

As, in past Ages, the best Garlands won.

I know no Subject more elevating, more amusing; more ready to awake the poetical Enthusiasm, the philosophical Reflection, and the moral Sentiment, than the Works of Nature. Where can we meet with such Variety, such Beauty, such Magnificence? All that enlarges, and transports, the Soul? What more inspiring than a calm, wide, Survey of Them? In every Dress Nature is greatly charming! whether she puts on the Crimson Robes of the Morning! the strong Effulgence of Noon! the sober Suit of the Evening! or the deep Sables of Blackness, and Tempest! How gay looks the Spring! how glorious the Summer! how pleasing the Autumn! and how venerable the Winter! — But there is no thinking of these Things without breaking out into POE-

TRY; which is, by the bye, a plain, and undeniable, Argument of their superior Excellence.

For this Reason the best, both Antient, and Modern, POETS have been passionately fond of Retirement, and Solitude. The wild romantic Country was their Delight. And they seem never to have been more happy, than when lost in unfrequented Fields, far from the little, busy, World, they were at Leisure, to meditate, and sing the Works of Nature.

The Book of Job, that noble, and antient, Poem, which, even, strikes so forcibly thro' a mangling Translation, is crowned with a Description of the grand Works of Nature; and that, too, from the Mouth of their ALMIGHTY AUTHOR.

It was this Devotion to the Works of Nature that, in his Georgicks, inspired the rural Virgil to write so inimitably; and who can forbear joining with which has been the Rapture of Ages.

18 The PREFACE.

*If the cold Current freezes round my Heart,
The Country Me, the brooky Vales may please
Mid Woods, and Streams, unknown.—*

I cannot put an End to this Preface, without taking the Freedom to offer my most sincere, and grateful, Acknowledgments to all those Gentlemen who have given my first Performance so favourable a Reception.

It is with the best Pleasure, and a rising Ambition, that I reflect on the Honour Mr. Hill has done me, in recommending my Poem to the World, after a manner so peculiar to Himself; than whom, none approves, and obliges, with a nobler, and more unreserving, Promptitude of Soul. His Favours are the very smiles of Humanity; graceful, and easy; flowing from, and to, the Heart. This agreeable Train of Thought awakens naturally in my Mind all the other Parts of his great, and amiable, Character, which I know not well how to quit, and yet dare not here pursue.

Every

The P R E F A C E. 19

Every Reader, who has a Heart to be moved, must feel the most gentle Power of P O E T R Y, in the Lines, with which Mira has graced my Poem.

It perhaps, might be reckoned Vanity, in me, to say how richly I value the Approbation of a Gentleman of Mr. Malloch's fine, and exact Taste, so justly dear, and valuable, to all those that have the Happiness of knowing Him; and who, to say no more of Him, will abundantly make good, to the World, the early Promise, his admired Piece of William and Margaret has given.

I only wish my Description of the various Appearance of Nature in Winter, and, as I purpose, in the other Seasons, may have the good Fortune, to give the Reader some of that true Pleasure, which They, in their agreeable Succession, are, always, sure to inspire into my Heart.

To

To Mr. THOMSON,
Doubtful to what Patron he should address
his Poem, call'd, WINTER.

SOME Peers, perhaps, have Skill to judge, 'tis true:
Yet no mean Prospect bounds the Muse's View.
Firm in your native Strength, thus nobly shewn,
Slight such delusive Props, and stand alone.
Fruitless Dependance oft has found too late,
That Greatness rarely dwells among the Great.
Patrons are Nature's Nobles, not the State's,
And Wit's, a Title no Broad Seal creates:
Even Kings, from whose high Source all Honours flow,
Are poor in Power, when they wou'd Souls bestow.

Heedless of Fortune, then look down on State,
Balanc'd, within, by Reason's conscious Weight:
Divinely proud of independant Will,
Prince of your Passions, live their Sovereign still.
He who stoops, safe beneath a Patron's Shade,
Shines like the Moon, but by another's Aid:
Free Truth shou'd, open, and unbyas'd steer,
Strong, as Heaven's Heat, and as its Brightness clear.

O, swell not then, the Bosoms of the Vain,
With false Conceit that you Protection gain:
Poets, like you, their own Protectors stand,
Plac'd above Aid from Pride's inferior Hand.

Time,

Time, that devours the Lord's unlasting Name,
Shall lend Her soundless Depth, to float your Fame.

On Verse like yours no Smiles, from Power, expect,
Born with a Worth that doom'd you to Neglect:--
Yet, wou'd your Wit, be nois'd, reflect no more;
Let the smooth Veil of Flattery silk you o'er:
Aptly attach'd, the Court's soft Climate try,
Learn your Pen's Duty from your Patron's Eye.
Ductile of Soul, each pliant Purpose wind,
And tracing Interest close, leave Doubt behind;
Then shall your Name strike loud, the Publick Ear;
For through Good-fortune, Virtue's self shines clear.

But, in defiance of our Taste, to charm!
And Fancy's Force with Judgment's Caution arm!
Disturb, with busy Thought, so lull'd an Age!
And plant strong Meanings o'er the peaceful Page!
Impregnate Sound, with Sense! teach Nature Art!
And warm even WINTER, till it thaws the Heart!
How cou'd you thus, your Country's Rules transgress,
Yet think of Patrons, and presume Success?

A. HILL.

C

To

To Mr. THOMSON,
On his Blooming WINTER.

O H gaudy Summer, veil thy blushing Head,
Dull is thy Sun, and all thy Beauties dead:
From thy short Nights, and noisy, mirthful, Day,
My kindling Thoughts, disdainful, turn away.

Majestic Winter with his Floods appears,
And o'er the World his awful Terrors rears;
From North to South, his Train dispreading, flow,
Blue Frost, bleak Rain, and fleecy-footed Snow.

In Thee, sad Winter, I a Kindred find,
Far more related to poor human Kind;
To Thee my gently-drooping Head I bend,
Thy Sigh my Sister, and thy Tear my Friend:
On Thee I muse, and in thy hastening Sun,
See Life expiring e'er 'tis well begun.

Thy sickening Ray, and venerable Gloom,
Show Life's last Scene, the solitary Tomb;
But thou art safe, so shaded by the Bays,
Immortal in the noblest Poet's Praise;
From Time and Death, He will thy Beauties save;
Oh may such Numbers weep o'er Mira's Grave!
Secure, and glorious, would her Ashes lie,
Till Nature fade — and all the Seasons die.

MIRA.

To Mr. THOMSON,

On his publishing the Second Edition of his Poem, call'd, WINTER.

C Harm'd, and instructed, by thy powerful Song,
I have, unjust, with-held my Thanks too long:
This Debt of Gratitude, at length, receive,
Warmly sincere, 'tis all thy Friend can give.

Thy Worth new lights the Poet's darken'd Name,
And shews it, blazing, in the brightest Fame.
Thro' all thy various Winter, full are found
Magnificence of Thought, and Pomp of Sound,
Clear Depth of Sense, Expression's hightening Grace,
And Goodness, eminent in Power, and Place!
For this, the Wise, the Knowing Few, commend
With zealous Joy — for Thou art Vertue's Friend:
Even Age, and Truth severe, in reading Thee,
That Heaven inspires the Muse, convinc'd, agree.

Thus I dare sing of Merit, faintly known,
Friendless — supported by its self alone:
For Those, whose aided Will could lift thee high,
In Fortune, see not with Discernment's Eye.
Nor Place, nor Power, bestows the Sight refin'd;
And Wealth enlarges not the narrow Mind.

How couldst thou think of such, and write so well?
Or hope Reward, by daring to excell?

Un-

Unskilful of the Age ! untaught to gain,
Those Favours, which the fawning Base obtain!
A thousand, shameful, Arts, to thee unknown,
Falshood, and Flattery, must be first thy own.
If thy lov'd Country lingers in thy Breast,
Thou must drive out th' unprofitable Guest :
Extinguish each bright Aim, that kindles there,
And center in thy self thy every Care.

(kind,

But hence that Vileness — pleas'd to charm Man-
Cast each low Thought of Interest far behind :
Neglected into noble Scorn — away
From that worn Path, where vulgar Poets stray :
Inglorious Herd ; profuse of venal Lays ;
And by the Pride despis'd, they stoop to praise ;
Thou, careless of the Statesman's Smile, or Frown,
Tread that strait Way, that leads to fair Renown.
By Vertue guided, and by Glory fir'd,
And, by reluctant Envy, slow admir'd,
Dare to do well ; and in thy boundless Mind,
Embrace the general Welfare of thy Kind :
Enrich them with the Treasures of thy Thought,
What Heaven approves, and what the Muse has Where thy Power fails, unable to go on, (taught.
Ambitious, greatly will the Good undone.
So shall thy Name, thro' Ages, brightening shine,
And distant Praise, from Worth unborn, be thine :
So shalt thou, happy ! merit Heaven's Regard,
And find a glorious, tho' a late Reward.

D. MALLOCH.

W I N T E R .

P O E M .

SEE! WINTER comes, to rule
the varied Year,
Sullen, and sad ; with all his rising
Train,

Vapours, and Clouds, and Storms : Be these my Theme,

D

These,

These, that exalt the Soul to solemn Thought,
 And heavenly musing. Welcome kindred Grooms!
 With'd, wint'ry, Horrors, hail!-- With frequent Foot,
 Pleas'd, have I, in my chearful Morn of Life,
 When, nurs'd by careless Solitude, I liv'd,
 And sung of Nature with unceasing Joy,
 Pleas'd, have I wander'd thro' your rough Domains;
 Trod the pure virgin Snows, my self, as pure:
 Heard the Winds roar, and the big Torrent burst:
 Or seen the deep, fermenting Tempest brew'd,
 In the red evening, Sky.— Thus pass'd the Time,
 Till, thro' the opening Chambers of the South,
 Look'd out the joyous Spring, look'd out, and smil'd.

Thee too, Inspirer of the toiling Swain!

Fair AUTUMN, yellow-rob'd! I'll sing of thee,

Of

Of thy last, equal, Days, and clouded Calms ;
When all the golden Hours are on the Wing,
Attending thy Retreat, and round thy Wain,
Slow-rolling, onward to the Southern Sky.

Mark, how the well pois'd Hornet hovering, hangs,

With quivering Pinions, in the genial Blaze ;
Flies off, in airy Circles : then returns,
And hums, and dances to the beating Ray ;
Nor shall the Man, that, musing, walks alone,
And, heedless, strays within his radiant Lifts,
Go unchastis'd away — Sometimes a Fleece
Of Clouds, wide-scattering, with a lucid Veil,
Light, shadow o'er th' unruffled Face of Heaven ;
And thro' their dewy Sluices, shed the Sun,

With temper'd Influence down. Then is the Time
 For those, whom Wisdom, and whom Nature charm,
 To steal themselves from the degenerate Croud,
 And soar above this little Scene of Things :
 To tread low-thoughted Vice beneath their Feet :
 To sooth the throbbing Passions into Peace,
 And woo lone Quiet, in her silent Walks.

Now, solitary, and in pensive Guise,
 Oft let me wander o'er the ruffet Mead,
 Or thro' the pining Grove ; where scarce is heard
 One dying Strain, to cheer the Woodman's Toil :
 Haply, some widdow'd Songster pours his Plaint,
 Far, thro' the withering Copse. Mean while the Leaves,

That, late, the Forest clad with lively Green,

Nipt

Nipt by the drizzly Night, and Sallow-hu'd,
Fall wavering thro' the Air ; or shower amain,
Urg'd by the Breeze, that fobs amid the Boughs.
Then listening Hares forsake the rustling Woods,
And, starting at the frequent Noise, escape
To the rough Stubble, and the rushy Fen.
Then Woodcocks, o'er the fluctuating Main,
That glimmers to the Glimpses of the Moon,
Stretch their long Voyage to the woodland Glade:
Where, wheeling with uncertain Flight, they mock
The nimble Fowler's Aim.— Now Nature droops ; Languish the living Herbs, with pale Decay :
And all the various Family of Flowers
Their sunny Robes resign. The falling Fruits,
Thro' the still Night, forsake the Parent-Bough,
That, in the first, grey, Glances of the Dawn,

Looks

Looks wild, and wonders at the wintry Waste.

The Tear, yet pleasing, but declining fast,
Soft, o'er the secret Soul in gentle Gales,
A Philofophic Melancholly breathes,
And bears the swelling Thought aloft to Heaven.
Then forming Fancy rouses to conceive,
What never mingled with the Vulgar's Dream :
Then wake the tender Pang, the pitying Tear,
The Sigh for suffering Worth, the Wish prefer'd
For Humankind, the Joy to see them blest'd,
And all the Social Off-spring of the Heart !

Oh ! bear me then to high, embowering Shades ;
To twilight Groves, and visionary Vales ;
To weeping Grottos, and prophetick Gloom ;

Where

Where Angel-Forms are seen, and Voices heard,
Sigh'd in low Whispers, that abstract the Soul,
From outward Sense, far into Worlds remote.

Now, when the Western Sun withdraws the Day,
And humid Evening, gliding o'er the Sky,
In her chill Progress, checks the straggling Beams,
And their moist Captives frees; where Waters ooze,
Where Marshes stagnate, and where Rivers wind,
Cluster the rolling Fogs, and swim along
The dusky mantled Lawn: then flow descend,
Once more to mingle with their Watry Friends.

The vivid Stars shine out, in brightening Files;
And boundless Ether glows, till the fair Moon
Shows her broad Visage, in the crimson'd East;

Now,

Now, stooping, seems to kiss the passing Cloud :

Now, o'er the pure Cerulean, rides sublime.

Wide, the pale Deluge floats, with silver Waves,

O'er the sky'd Mountain, to the low-laid Vale ;

From the white Rocks, with dim Reflection, gleams,

And faintly glitters thro' the waving Shades.

All Night, abundant Dews, unnoted, fall,

That, lighted by the Morning's Ray, impearl

The Face of Mother-Earth ; from every Branch

Depending, tremble the translucent Gems,

And, twinkling, seem to fall away, yet cling,

And sparkle in the Sun, whose rising Eye,

With Fogs bedim'd, portends a beautiful Day.

Now, roving Youth, whom headlong Passions fire,

Rouse

Rouse the wild Game, and stain the guiltless Grove,
 With Violence, and Death; yet call it Sport,
 To scatter Ruin thro' the Realms of Love,
 And Peace that thinks no Ill: But these, the Muse,
 Whose Charity, unlimited, extends
 As wide as Nature works, disdains to sing,
 Returning to her nobler Theme in view,

W I N T E R ! who rides along the darken'd Air,
 Striding the gloomy Blast. First Rains obscure
 Drive thro' the mingling Skies, with Tempest foul;
 Beat on the Mountain's Brow, and shake the Woods,
 That founding, wave below. Th' unfightly Plain
 Lies overwhelm'd, and lost. The bellying Clouds
 Combine, and deepening into Night, shut up
 The Day's fair Face. The Wanderers of Heaven,

E

Each

Each to his Home, retire ; save those that love
To take their Pastime in the troubled Air,
Or, skimming, flutter round the dimply Flood.
The Cattle, from the untasted Fields, return,
And ask, with meaning Low, their wonted Stalls ;
Or ruminatè in the contiguous Shade :
Thither, the household, feathery, People croud,
The crested Cock, with all his Female Train,
Pensive, and wet. Mean while, the Cottage-Swain
Hangs o'er the enlivening Blaze, and, taleful, there,
Recounts his simple Frolick : Much he talks,
And much he laughs, nor recks the Storm that blows
Without, and rattles on his humble Roof.

At last, the muddy Deluge pours along,
Resistless, roaring ; dreadful down it comes

From

From the chapt Mountain, and the mossy Wild,
Tumbling thro' Rocks abrupt, and founding far:
Then o'er the fanded Valley, floating, spreads,
Calm, sluggish, silent; till again constrain'd,
Betwixt two meeting Hills, it bursts away,
Where Rocks, and Woods, o'erhang the turbid Stream.
There gathering triple Force, rapid, and deep,
It boils, and wheels, and foams, and thunders thro'.

Nature! great Parent! whose directing Hand
Rolls round the Seasons of the changeful Year,
How mighty! how majestick are thy Works!
With what a pleasing Dread they swell the Soul,
That sees, astonish'd! and, astonish'd sings!
You too, ye Winds! that now begin to blow,
With boisterous Sweep, I raise my Voice to you.

Where are your Stores, ye viewless Beings ! say ?

Where your aerial Magazines reserv'd,

Against the Day of Tempest perilous ?

In what untravel'd Country of the Air,

Hush'd in still Silence, sleep you, when 'tis calm ?

Late, in the louring Sky, red, fiery, Streaks

Begin to flush about ; the reeling Clouds

Stagger with dizzy Aim, as doubting yet

Which Master to obey: while rising, flow,

Blank, in the Leaden-colour'd East, the Moon

Wears a wan Circle round her fully'd Orb.

Then issues forth the Storm, with mad Controul,

And the thin Fabrick of the pillar'd Air

O'erturns, at once. Prone, on the passive Main,

Descends th' Etherial Force, and plows its Waves,

In

In frightful Furrows : From the brawling deep,
Heav'd to the Clouds, the watty Tumult comes.
Rumbling, the Wind-swoln Billows, rowl, immense,
And, on th' evanish'd Vessel, bursting fierce,
Their Terrors thunder, thro' the prostrate Soul
Of feeble Man, amidst their Fury caught,
And, dash'd upon his Fate : Then, o'er the Cliff,
Where dwells the Sea-Mew, unconfin'd, they fly,
And, hurrying, swallow up the steril Shore.

The Mountain growls ; and all its sturdy Sons
Stoop to the Bottom of the Rocks they shade :
Lone, on its Midnight-Side, and all aghast,
The dark, way-faring, Stranger, breathless, toils,
And climbs against the Blast —
Low, waves the rooted Forest, vex'd, and sheds

What

What of its leafy Honours yet remains.

Thus, struggling thro' the dissipated Grove,

The whirling Tempest raves along the Plain;

And, on the Cottage thacht, or lordly Dome,

Keen-fastening, shakes 'em to the solid Base.

Sleep, frightened, flies; the hollow Chimney howls,

The Windows rattle, and the Hinges creak.

Then, too, they say, thro' all the burthen'd Air,
Long Groans are heard, shrill Sounds, and distant

Sighs,

That, murmur'd by the Demon of the Night,

Warn the devoted Wretch of Woe, and Death!

Huge Uproar lords it wide: the Clouds commixt,

With Stars, swift-gliding, sweep along the Sky.

All Nature reels — Till Nature's KING, who oft,

Amid

Amid tempestuous Darknefs dwells, alone,
And, on the Wings of the careering Wind,
Walks dreadfully serene, commands a Calm ;
And, strait, Earth, Sea, and Air, are hush'd, at once.

As yet, 'tis Midnight's Reign ; the weary Clouds,
Slow-meeting, mingle into solid Gloom :
Now, while the drousy World lies lost in Sleep,
Let me associate with the low-brow'd Night,
And Contemplation, her sedate Compeer ;
Let me shake off th' intrusive Cares of Day,
And lay the meddling Senses all aside.

And now, ye lying Vanities of Life !
You ever-tempting, ever-cheating Train !
Where are you now ? and what is your Amount ?

Vexation,

Vexation, Disappointment, and Remorse.

Sad, sickening, Thought ! and yet, deluded Man,

A Scene of crude, disjointed, Visions past,

And broken Slumbers, rises, still resolv'd,

With new-flush'd Hopes, to run your giddy Round.

Father of Light, and Life ! Thou Good Supreme !

O ! teach me what is Good ! teach me thy self !

Save me from Folly, Vanity and Vice,

From every low Pursuit ! and feed my Soul,

With Knowledge, conscious Peace, and Vertue pure,

Sacred, substantial, never-fading Blifs !

Dun, from the livid East, or piercing North,

Thick Clouds ascend, in whose capacious Womb,

A vapoury Deluge lies, to Snow congeal'd :

Heavy

Heavy, they roll their fleecy World along ;
And the Sky faddens with th' impending Storm.
Thro' the hush'd Air, the whitening Shower descends,
At first, thin-wavering ; till, at last, the Flakes
Fall broad, and wide, and fast, dimming the Day,
With a continual Flow. Blackening, they melt,
Along the mazy Stream. The leafless Woods
Bow their hoar' Heads. And e'er the languid Sun,
Faint, from the West, emit his evening Ray,
Earth's universal Face, deep-hid, and chill,
Is all one, dazzling, Waste. The Labourer-Ox
Stands cover'd o'er with Snow, and then demands
The Fruit of all his Toil. The Fowls of Heaven,
Tam'd by the cruel Season, croud around
The winnowing Store, and claim the little Boon
That Providence allows. The Red-Breast, sole,

Wifely

Wifely regardful of th' embroiling Sky,
In joyless Fields, and thorny Thickets, leaves
His shivering Fellows, and to trusted Man
His annual Visit pays : New to the Dome,
Against the Window beats ; then, brisk, alights
On the warm Hearth, and, hopping o'er the Floor,
Eyes all the smiling Family, askance,
And pecks, and starts, and wonders where he is :
Till, more familiar grown, the Table-Crums
Attract his slender Feet. The foodless Wilds
Pour forth their brown Inhabitants ; the Hare,
Tho' timorous of Heart, and hard beset
By Death, in various Forms, dark Snares and Dogs,
And more unpitying Men, the Garden seeks,
Urg'd on by fearless Want. The bleating Kind
Eye the bleak Heavens, and next, the glistening Earth,
With

With Looks of dumb Despair; then sad, dispers'd,
Dig, for the wither'd Herb, thro' Heaps of Snow.

Now Shepherds, to your helpless Charge be kind;
Baffle the raging Year, and fill their Pens
With Food, at will: Lodge them below the Storm,
And watch them strict; for, from the bellowing East,
In this dire Season, oft the Whirlwind's Wing
Sweeps up the Burthen of whole wintry Plains
In one fierce Blast, and o'er th' unhappy Flocks,
Hid in the Hollow of two neighbouring Hills,
The billowy Tempest whelms; till, upwards urg'd,
The Valley to a shining Mountain swells,
That curls its Wreaths amid the freezing Sky.

In Russia's wide, immeasurable, Moors,
 Where W I N T E R keeps his unrejoicing Court,
 And in his airy Hall, the loud Misrule
 Of driving Tempest is for ever heard :
 Seen, by the wilder'd Traveller, who roams,
 Guideless, the Yew-clad, stony, Wastes, the Bear,
 Rough Tenant of these Shades ! shaggy with Ice,
 And dangling Snow, stalks thro' the Woods, forlorn :
 Slow-pac'd, and sower, as the Storms increase,
 He makes his Bed beneath th' inclement Wreath,
 And scorning the Complainings of Distress,
 Hardens his Heart against assailing Want.

Or from the cloudy Alps, and Appenine,
 Capt with grey Mists, and everlasting Snows,
 Where Nature in stupendous Ruin lyes ;

And

And from the leaning Rock, on either Side,
Gush out those Streams that classic Song renowns :
Cruel as Death ! and hungry as the Grave!
Burning for Blood ! bony, and ghaunt, and grim !
Assembling Wolves, in torrent Troops, descend,
And spread wide-wasting Desolation round.
Nought may their Course withstand. They bear along,
Keen, as the North-Wind sweeps the glossy Snow.
All is their Prize. They fasten on the Steed,
Press him to Earth, and pierce his mighty Heart.
Nor can the Bull his awful Front defend,
Or shake the murdering Savages away.
Rapacious, at the Mother's Throat they fly,
And tear th' screaming Infant from her Breast.
The God-like Face of Man avails him Nought.

Even

Even Beauty, Force Divine! at whose bright Glance,
 The generous Lyon stands in soften'd Gaze,
 Here bleeds a hapless, undistinguish'd, Prey.
 But if, appriz'd of the severe Attack,
 The Country be shut up; lur'd by the Scent,
 On Church-Yards drear (Inhuman to relate!)
 The disappointed Prowlers fall, and dig
 The shrowded Body from the Tomb, o'er which, Mix'd with foul Shades, and frighted Ghosts, they howl.

Now, all amid the Rigours of the Year,
 In the wild Depth of Winter, while Without
 The ceaseless Winds blow keen, be my Retreat
 A rural, shelter'd, solitary, Scene;
 Where ruddy Fire, and beaming Tapers join

To

To chase the cheerless Gloom : There let me sit,
 And hold high Converse with the mighty Dead,
Sages of ancient Time, as Gods rever'd,
 As Gods beneficent, who blest Mankind
 With Arts, and Arms, and humaniz'd a World.
 Rous'd at th' inspiring Thought——I throw aside
 The long-liv'd Volume, and deep-musing, hail
 The sacred Shades, that slowly-rising, pass
 Before my wondering Eyes —— First, Socrates,
 Truth's early Champion, Martyr for his God :
Solon, the next, who built his Commonweal
 On Equity's firm Base : Lycurgus, then,
 Severely good ; And him of rugged Rome,
Numa, who soften'd her rapacious Sons :
Cimon, sweet-foul'd, and Aristides just ;
 With that attemper'd * Heroe, mild, and firm,

* Timoleon.

Who

Who wept the Brother while the Tyrant bled :
Unconquer'd Cato, virtuous in Extreme :
Scipio, the humane Warriour, gently brave,
Fair Learning's Friend ; who early fought the Shade,
To dwell, with Innocence, and Truth, retir'd :
And, equal to the best, the Theban, He
Who, single, rais'd his Country into Fame.
Thousands behind, the Boast of Greece and Rome,
Whom Vertue owns, the Tribu of a Verse
Demand : But who can count the Stars of Heaven ?
Who sing their Influence on this lower World ?
But see who yonder comes ! nor comes alone,
With sober State, and of majestic Mien,
The Sister Muses in his Train — 'Tis He !
Maro ! the Glory of the Poet's Art !
Great Homer too appears, of daring Wing !

Parent

Parent of Song! and, equal, by his Side,
 The British Muse, join'd Hand in Hand, they walk,
Darkling, nor miss their Way to Fame's Ascent.

Society divine! Immortal Minds!

Still visit thus my Nights, for you reserv'd,
 And mount my soaring Soul to Deeds like yours:
Silence! thou lonely Power! the Door be thine:
 See, on the hallow'd Hour, that none intrude,
 Save Lycidas, the Friend, with Sense refin'd,
 Learning digested well, exalted Faith,
 Unstudy'd Wit, and Humour ever gay.

Clear Frost succeeds, and thro' the Blue Serene,
 For Sight too fine, th' Ætherial Nitre flies,

To bake the Glebe, and bind the slipry Flood.
This of the wintry Season is the Prime ;
Pure are the Days, and lustrous are the Nights,
Radiant with starry Worlds, till then unseen.
Mean while, the Orient, darkly red, breathes forth
An Icy Gale, that in its mid Career,
Arrests the bickering Stream. The nightly Sky,
And all her glowing Constellations pour
Their rigid Influence down : It freezes on,
Till Morn, late-rising, o'er the drooping World,
Lifts her pale Eye, unjoyous : Then appears
The various Labour of the silent Night ;
The pendant Isicle, the Frost-Work fair,
Where fancy'd Figures rise ; the crufted Snow,
Tho' white, made whiter, by the fining North,
And Gem-besprinkled in the Mid-Day Beam.

On blithsome Frolicks bent, the youthful Swains,
While every Work of Man is laid at Rest,
Rush o'er the watry Plains, and, shuddering, view
The fearful Deeps below : Or, with the Gun,
And faithful Spaniel, range the ravag'd Fields ;
And, adding to the Ruins of the Year,
Distress the Feathery, or the Footed Game.

Muttering, the Winds, at Eve, with hoarser Voice,
Blow, blustering, from the South—the Frost subdu'd,
Gradual, resolves, into a trickling Thaw.
Spotted, the Mountains shine: Loose Sleet descends,
And floods the Country round : The Rivers swell,
Impatient for the Day. Broke from the Hills,
O'er Rocks and Woods, in broad, brown, Cataracts

A thousand, Snow-fed, Torrents shoot, at once ;
 And, where they rush, the wide-resounding Plain
 Is left one slimy Waste. Those fullen Seas,
 That wash th' ungenial Pole, will rest no more
 Beneath the Shackles of the mighty North ;
 But, rousing all their Waves, resistless heave, —
 And hark !—the lengthening Roar, continuous, runs
 Athwart the rifted Main ; at once, it bursts,
 And piles a thousand Mountains to the Clouds !
 Ill fares the Bark, the Wretches' last Resort,
 That, lost amid the floating Fragments, moors
 Beneath the Shelter of an Icy Isle ;
 While Night o'erwhelms the Sea, and Horror looks
 More horrible. Can human Hearts endure
 Th' assembled Mischiefs that besiege them round :
 Unlistening Hunger, fainting Weariness,

The

The Roar of Winds, and Waves, the Crush of Ice,
Now, ceasing, now, renew'd, with louder Rage,
And bellowing round the Main: Nations remote,
Shook from their Midnight-Slumbers, deem they hear
Portentous Thunder in the gelid Sky .

More to embroil the Deep, Leviathan,
And his unweildy Train, in horrid Sport,
Tempest the loofen'd Brine ; while, thro' the Gloom,
Far, from the dire, unhoſpitable Shore,
At once, is heard th' united, hungry, Howl,
Of all the fell Society of Night.

Yet, Providence, that ever-waking Eye,
Looks down, with Pity, on the fruitless Toil
Of Mortals, loſt to Hope, and lights them ſafe,
Thro' all this dreary Labyrinth of Fate,

'Tis

'Tis done!--Dread WINTER has subdu'd the Year,
 And reigns, tremendous, o'er the defart Plains!
 How dead the Vegetable Kingdom lies!
 How dumb the Tuneful! Horror wide extends
 His solitary Empire— Now, fond Man!
 Behold thy pictur'd Life: Pafs some few Years,
 Thy flowering Spring, thy short-liv'd Summer's [Strength,
 Thy sober Autumn, fading into Age,
 And pale, concluding Winter shuts thy Scene,
 And shrouds Thee in the Grave-- Where now, are fled
 Those Dreams of Greatness? those unfolid Hopes
 Of Happiness? those Longings after Fame?
 Those restless Cares? those busy, bustling Days?
 Those Nights of fecret Guilt? those veering Thoughts,
 Fluttering 'twixt Good, and Ill, that shar'd thy Life?
 All, now, are vanish'd! Vertue, fole, furvives,
 Immortal,

Immortal, Mankind's never-failing Friend,
His Guide to Happiness on high—— and see!
'Tis come, the Glorious Morn! the second Birth
Of Heaven, and Earth! — awakening Nature hears
Th' Almighty Trumpet's Voice, and starts to Life,
Renew'd, unfading. Now, th' Eternal Scheme,
That Dark Perplexity, that Mystic Maze,
Which Sight cou'd never trace, nor Heart conceive,
To Reason's Eye, refin'd, clears up apace.
Angels, and Men, astonish'd, pause —— and dread
To travel thro' the Depths of Providence,
Untry'd, unbounded. Ye vain Learned! see,
And, prostrate in the Dust, adore that Power,
And Goodness, oft arraign'd. See now the Cause,
Why conscious Worth, oppress'd, in secret, long,
Mourn'd, unregarded: Why the Good Man's Share

In

In Life, was Gall, and Bitterness of Soul:
Why the lone Widow, and her Orphans, pin'd,
In starving Solitude; while Luxury,
In Palaces, lay prompting her low Thought
To form unreal Wants: Why Heaven-born Faith,
And Charity, prime Grace! wore the red Marks
Of Persecution's Scourge: Why licens'd Pain,
That cruel Spoiler, that embosom'd Foe,
Imbitter'd all our Blifs. Ye Good Distrest!
Ye Noble Few! that here, unbending, stand
Beneath Life's Pressures — yet a little while,
And all your Woes are past. Time swiftly fleets,
And wish'd Eternity, approaching, brings
Life undecaying, Love without Allay,
Pure-flowing Joy, and Happiness sincere.
