THE following pages consist of a verbatim copy of all the Monuments and Gravestones in Ripon Cathedral and its Burial-ground on the South and East of that edifice. They were first copied without any intention of publishing them ; but merely for the sake of preserving them from that oblivion to which these memorials of our forefathers are fast hastening. Finding, however, that there was a strong inclination on the part of those whose relatives "sleep their long last sleep," in and around the "Old Minstre" of Ripon, and the public generally, to possess a copy of its numerous sepulchral memorials, the copyist, after ascertaining that such an undertaking would at all events pay the expenses of the printing, at once decided to lay his labours before the public. This sufficiently explains the why and the wherefore of the publication.

T. WILSON.

Ripon, March 1st, 1847.

THE MONUMENTS

IN THE CATHEDRAL.

In the Nave.

No. 1. To the memory of William Reynard, late of Hobgreen, near Ripon, who departed this life, March the 29th, 1810, in the 85th year of his age; also, of Mary, wife of the above named William Reynard, and only daughter of the late George Horner, of Woodale, in Nidderdale. She died 25th of October, 1817, aged 80 years.

No. 2. To the memory of Marmaduke Hodgson, Esquire, of Breckamore, who died April 5th, 1834, aged 60 years.

No. 3. Sacred to the memory of Charles Floyer, Esqr., who died Sep. 7th, 1766, aged 51.

No. 4. Sacred to the memory of William Finney, Esqr., of Ripon, who departed this life the 19th day of February, 1813, aged 103 years; and, of Easter, his wife, who departed this life at Whitworth, in the county of Lancaster, the 13th day of October, 1813, aged 74 years; also, of Grace, their daughter, who departed this life, the 19th day of August, 1827, aged 51 years.

No. 5. Sacred to the memory of Margaret, the wife of Charles Oxley, Esqr., youngest daughter of Edmund Lodge, Esqr., of Willow Hall, in this county. She departed this life, the sixth day of February, in the year of our Lord 1819, aged 39 years, leaving issue three sons and one daughter.

No. 6. Here lieth intombed the bodio of Hvgh Ripley, late of this towne, Mercheant, who was the last Wakeman, & thrice Maior, by whose good endeavours this towne first became a Maioralite, & lived to the age of 84 yeeres, & died in the yeere of our Lord 1637.

Others seeke titles to their tombes,
 Thy deeds to thy name prove new wombes,
 And 'scvtcheons to deck their herse,
 Which thou need'st not take teares and veres.
 If I should praise thy thriving witt,
 Or thy weigh'd jvdgement seasoning it,
 Thy eaven & thy like straight ends,
 Thy pietie to God and friends,
 Thy last wovld still the greatest be
 And yet all ioyntly less then the.
 Thov stvdiest conscience more than fame,
 Still to thy gathred self the same.
 Thy gold was not thy saint, nor wealth
 Pvrchas'd by rapine worse than stealth,
 Nor did'st thov brooding o'er it sit
 Not doeing good till death with it.
 This men may blvsh at when they see,
 What thy deeds were, what theirs should be.
 Thov'rt gone before, and I waite now,
 T' expect my when and make my how,
 Which if my Jesus grant like thine,
 Who wets my grave 's noe friend of mine.

The former monument having been defaced in the time of the time of the civil wars, this was erected by the Corporation, A. D. 1730.

South Aisle of the Body.

No. 7. Sacred to the memory of George Coates, Esq., of Bishopton, who died on the 6th of March, 1821, aged 61 ; and to his son, George Coates, B. A., of University College, Oxford, who died April 24th, 1824, aged 24 years. Thus early he closed a life remarkable for dutiful affection to a widow'd mother, and for the faithful practice of every christian virtue, while his death-bed exemplified the peace and humility of those who, like him, gloried "in the cross of Our Lord Jesus Christ."

No. 8. To the memory of the late John Elliott, Esq., of Elliott House, near Ripon, Commander R. N., having entered the naval service of his country early in life, he circumnavigated the globe as a Midshipman in the Resolution, under the command of the celebrated Capt. Cook ; he subsequently served as a Lieut. of the Ajax of 74 guns, and was present in Lord Rodney's glorious action of the 12th of April, 1782, in which he was severely wounded ; he resided at Elliott House many years, greatly respected for his strict integrity and uprightness in all the relations of life ; he was born Jany. 11th, 1759, and died September 17th, 1834 : also to the memory of Isabella Elliott, his beloved wife, who was born Nov. 22nd, 1762, and died July 9th, 1841, generally respected for her amiability and domestic virtues : likewise to the memory of the following children of the above, Charles Frederick Elliott, born May 17th, 1790, and died January 4th, 1791 ; Gilbert Elliott, born February 13th, 1795, and died May 17th, 1795 ; Maria Elliott, born Novr. 14th, 1797, and died Sept. 3rd, 1800 ; Charles Bowes Elliott, born July 25th, 1791, and died at Durham, Nov. 2, 1801 ; Charlotte Eleanor Elliott, born Oct. 4th, 1803, and died April 17th, 1812 : Frederick Edmund Elliott, born Novr. 1st, 1808, and died June 18th, 1821 ; Anna Maria, the beloved wife of the Revd. "We know that our Redeemer liveth."

No. 16. Near this place is interr'd the body of Helen, the truly affectionate and most deservedly beloved wife of Roger Bayne, Gent, by whom she had nine children, whereof Hellen, Ann, Richard, and Roger yet survive; she was the only child of Mr. George Pickersgill, of this town by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Mr. Christopher Walker, of Grewelthorp, and departed this life, March the 24th, (being Easter day), 1694-5 in the 34th year of her age.

Qualis erat, lector, vis scire? erat undiq. virtus. Hinc et chara viro, charaq. facta Deo. Fœmineu' accedat genus hoc ad marmor, ut inde discat quid conjux, quidq. sit esse Parens. Hoc ejus pietas posuit nè Dolor vè mariti? Ne quæras Causam hæc, Materiam ille dedit.—C. W., D. D., D. R.

[TRANSLATION.—Wouldst thou know the excellency of this person? She was virtue itself, which made her to be beloved by her husband, and dear to her God. Let womankind repair to this monument, that from thence they may learn the duty of a wife and the tenderness of a mother. Do not enquire whether it was erected in memory of her piety or the grief of her spouse? Her death was the occasion of it being placed here.—Supposed to be written by Chr. Wyvill, D. D., Dean of Ripon.

No. 17. To the memory of George Stevenson, of this town, who died December 30th, 1817, aged 33 years; and of Isabella, his wife, who died April the 12th, 1825, aged 31 years; also, of John, their son, who died in his infancy.

Firmior ad patriæ nullus, vel fortior armis
Ad sacra regalis jurâ tuenda domus.
Sæpe rebellantis media inter prælia gentis,

Intrepidum exposuit Regis amore latus.
 Nemo magè in bello tonuit, magè pace quievit,
 Terribilis galeâ, mitis et ille toga.
 Integer is vitæ, famâ, charumq. perenni
 Illustris decorat mortis honore rogam.

[No. 88. TRANSLATION.—To the best and greatest God. Jordan Crossland, of Nubie, Constable of Scarborough and Governor of the said Castle, was Colonel in the reigns of Charles the First and Second, lived in great praise and died with equal glory, on the 20th day of August, in the year of our Redemption 1670, and the 53rd year of his age. To his God pious, to his King faithful, and to his country trusty; none more ready to preserve its laws, or more valiant in arms in defending the rights of the Royal Family; he often exposed his person in the midst of rebels for the sake of his King; none was more fierce in war, more calm in peace, terrible in arms, and as meek in council; his life was unstained by fame, and his honourable name adorns this monument with eternal glory.]

The Monuments in the Chapter House.

No. 89. In memory of the Very Revd. Robt. Darley Waddilove, Dean of Ripon, and Archdeacon of the East Riding of Yorkshire. The dean was nominated in the year 1791, and held the Deanery for the term of nearly Forty years. He died August 18th, 1828, æt. 92. During this long space of time, his attention and assiduity in the duties of his station were as remarkable as they were constant and sincere. His private life was equally marked by the firmness of his friendship, and by the upright discharge of all the social charities which become a man and a christian. May those who follow him, follow also his example!

No. 90. M. S. Rev. R. D. Waddilove, B. A., late of St. John's Coll., Camb., died at Penzance, July 3rd, 1813, in the 24th year of his age, and is buried in the church of Gulval, Cornwall.

No. 91. The memory of the just is blessed. Sacred to those virtues which adorn a christian. This marble perpetuates the memory of Ann Hope Darley Waddilove, wife of the Reverend the Dean of this Coll. Church, and daughter of Sir Lud. Grant, of Grant, Bt. After a long and painful illness supported with singular patience and resignation, she departed this life the 21st of May, 1797, in the 51st year of her age, with the fullest hope of a joyful resurrection. Her gentle and amiable manners, with every domestic virtue, the genuine offspring of a benevolent and religious mind, procured her, whilst living, universal attachment and regard, and excited, at her death, not less universal regret. Thomas, their eldest son, died 2nd March, 1799, aged 17, and lies entombed beside his mother, whose amiable dispositions he inherited, whose virtues he imitated and equalled. Mary Catherine, their daughter, died in her infancy and is buried at Topcliffe.

Constancy, beauty, manners, piety,
Here, (O Priscilla) lie interr'd with thee.
Why say I thus? Thy virtues did thee move,
From earth below unto the blest above.

No. 103. This monument is defaced, but the following is a copy of the original inscription: M. S. Moysis Fowler, sacræ theologiæ Baccalaurei, hugus Ecclesiæ Collegiatæ Sancti Wilfridi de Ripon, ac serenissimo Principe Jacobo restauratæ, Decani primi; necnon Danielis Fowler in artibus Magistri, Moysis filii, ac suæ uxoris Janæ Fowler. Danielis officium sacernum esse hoc monumentum testamento suo voluit refici.

[TRANSLATION.—Sacred to the memory of Moses Fowler, Batchelor of Divinity, first Dean of this Collegiate Church of St. Wilfrid, of Ripon, re-founded by his most sacred Majesty King James; and also of Daniel Fowler, Master of Arts, son of the aforesaid Mosea, and Jane Fowler, his wife. The aforesaid Daniel, through a pious inclination, ordered this monument to be repaired by his last will and testament.

Below the monument on a black stone was the following inscription:

Cœlum, terra, homines, de re rixantur eadem;
Fowlerium quisquis vendicat esse suum.

Nuncius é cælo, tandem componere lites,
 Fati, descendens, ultima jussa refert.
 Tum moriens animam cælo, corpusque sepulchro,
 Nobis ingenii clara trophæa dedit.

[TRANSLATION.]

Heaven, earth, and men, for one thing do contend,
 Each one doth Fowler challenge as his own ;
 God's messenger from heaven, the strife to end,
 Descends; and thus his will performs, and's gone !
 His soul to heaven ; his body to the grave ;
 To us the trophies of his wit he gave.

No. 104. No. 151. Here rest the mortal remains of Henry William Strickland, eldest son of Henry Eustatius Strickland, of Boynton, Esqre., and of Mary, the daughter of Edmund Cartwright, D.D., of Marnham, Notts. He had been but eight days at the Grammar School at this place, when the illness of a few hours removed him to the presence of his God, on the 12th day of February, 1818, aged 9 years and 5 months. The tender recollection of his amiable qualities and early intelligence, no time can efface from the minds of his afflicted parents; but they bow to the stroke which chastens them, and derive consolation from reflecting that he is taken from the world before he had known its sin, or felt its sorrow. "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away: blessed be the name of the Lord."

No. 152. To the memories of William Norton, of Sawley, Esqr., who died May 21st, 1721, aged 44; and of Margaret, his wife, daughter of Ralph Lowther, of Ackworth Park, Esqr., she died Novr. 26th, 1717, aged 39; they had issue, William, Margaret, and Dorothy ; William died in the second year of his age, and lies here interr'd with his parents ; Dorothy died in the twelfth year of her age, and was buried at Ackworth. Bold infidelity, turn pale and die!

Near to this stone six infants' ashes lie,
Say, are they lost or saved.
If death's by sin, they sinn'd because they're here,
If heaven's by works, in heaven they can't appear;
Reason, ah how depriv'd.
Revere the Bible's sacred page, the knot's unty'd,
They dy'd for Adamsinn'd, they live for Jesus dy'd.

Farewell young man in youthful bloom,
We yield thee to the silent tomb;
What heaven ordains is just and fit,
'Tis heaven's decree and we submit.
But when the dead in Christ shall rise,
Thy form more bright shall bless our eyes,
And now tho' hidden from our view,
Thy much lov'd image we renew,
Thy native charms unstain'd by art,
Thy temper sweet, thy candid heart,
Thy soft affection, friendship kind,
And all the virtues of thy mind,
Shall still a pensive pleasure give,
And in our fond remembrance live.

Write henceforth blessed are the dead
That in the Lord shall die,
Their weary flesh, as on a bed,
Soft in the grave shall lie,
Whilst their glad souls to heaven ascend,
And bid farewell to woe,
Their labour with their lives shall end,
Their rest no period know.

Within, the relics of a christian lie,
The good man's friend, and no man's enemy,
Learned, humble, pious, cheerful, mild his breast,

A mansion pure, by charity possess'd.
 Benevolent to all, and less inclin'd
 To serve himself than benefit mankind ;
 To that he sacrificed each worldly view,
 For what his heart condemn'd, he durst not do ;
 Tho' scant of wealth, rich in the truest sense,
 Rich in a conscience void of all offence.
 And to man's natural rights a friend sincere,
 Or in a civil or religious sphere,
 In him as in a glass the world might see,
 What teacher, husband, father, man, should be.
 To truth a constant friend he liv'd and died,
 Truth in return this epitaph supplied.

In the Body.

Moodie, Mrs. Elizabeth, 1617, July 6th, who died in the Lord.

Weep not for she was born unto a grave,
 Yet like a well-bred child she came and went,
 When her celestial father would it have,
 As if she had been on an errand sent.
 The life she lived was honest, plain, and good,
 With confidence of her Redeemer's power,
 And for her death neighbours deploring stood,
 And all her friends bewail'd her fatal hour,
 But she bade cease for death was but a door,
 To a more happy life which they should see,
 When their turns came altho' she went before,
 And only did to nature's course agree ;

Therefore, ye lookers on be sure of this,
 She that dies well lives in eternal bliss.
 A loving wife and mother dear,
 Such a' one she was who now lies here.
