PREFACE TO THE READER.

HOW useful and well design'd an Undertaking this present Work, (begun at first by Dr. John Bulloker) was, in its Original Foundation, will sufficiently appear to those that have but well and judiciously perused the first Edition: For in that Collection, there was great Variety of Words deriv'd from Foreign Languages, such as the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Italian, French, Spanish, &c. Also several Terms of Art used in Theology, Logick, Physick, Philosophy, Law, Navigation, &c.

However, The Bookseller, being very desirous that this Impression should be as perfect, as was possible for such a Volume, put it into my hands to be diligently perus'd, corrected and augmented, where-ever there was need: And therefore upon a serious Scrutiny having observ'd its Deficiency in Abundance of Words, and Terms of Art, especially in Rhetorick, and others borrowed from the Latin, &c. Care is now taken to supply such necessary Defects; (that is, as I said, so far as such a Volume would permit.) So that now, we hope, the Reader will be highly satisfied with this Edition, it being very useful to every particular Person, that has not had the happiness of a Liberal and Learned Education.

And since that Book, Entituled, The English School Reform'd, is mention'd in the Title-Page; Give me leave to say (for the sake of the Publick) that That Book is very Methodical, Easy and Profitable, if judiciously Taught by our English Masters and Dames, to whom in particular both That and This are heartily recommended: For, indeed, the most illiterate Teacher cannot well miss of making any Docible Child a good English Scholar, if the Rules of that Book are but carefully apply'd; the which may be done with the greatest Facility, since they are writ interrogatively, that is, by way of Question and Answer. So that every English School now, may be furnished with two very useful and necessary Companions, at a very easy Charge; and that is, That for Spelling, and This for Explaining of the English Tongue.

A Brief Nomenclator,

Containing a Summary of the most memorable Things, and famous Persons, whether Inventors and Improvers of rare Arts and Ingenuities, or others.

A N

A Chates, a Trojan of the Noblest, that accompanied Aeneas into Italy; he is reported by Virgil to be the first that found out the way to strike Fire out of Flint.

Egyptians, A People of the greatest, and anciently most renowned Nation of Africa; they boast themselves to have been the first Inventors of the most famous Arts and Sciences, especially Letters, Astrology, Astronomy, Geometry, and the use of the Lamp: And among them Menon is the Person, to whom, by some, these things are principally attributed: However Josephus ascribes the Invention of Astronomy, to the Hebrews, and particularly to Seth and Abraham.

Aeolus, the Son of Jupiter and Acesta; he first made observation of the Winds, and is thence feigned to have been the God of the Winds. Diodorus Siculus makes him to have been the first Inventor of Sails for Ships.

Aesculapius, the Son of Apollo, and the Nymph Coronis, he is famous for improving the Art of Physick, the Invention whereof is chiefly ascribed to Apollo, though by some to Mercury, by others to Apis a King of the Egyptians; yet by some the Invention of the Art of Chirurgery is referred to Aesculapius.

Agriculture or Husbandry, by whom invented. See Ceres, Osiris, and Triptolemus.

Alexamenes, a Philosopher of Scyrus, some say of Tejus: the first, as saith Aristotle, that framed Dialogues of imagined Discourses of two Persons speaking together.

The Alphabet of Letters, by whom invented. See Cadmus.

Amphion, the Son of Jupiter and Antiope, and twin Brother of Zethus; he is mentioned by Pliny, as the Inventor of Musick; others say he learned of Mercury the skill of the Lute, which he improved to that height, that by the sound he is feigned to have built the Walls of Thebes.

Ana, a River of Spain, which runneth under ground for the space of Fifteen Miles, which gave Occasion to the Spanish

Spanish to beaft of a Bridge, by whom she is faid to have contended for the Maftery.

Anacharfis, a famous Scythian, who Strabo writes to have been the firft Inventor of Bellows; he is alfo by Ephorus affirmed to be the Inventor of the Potter's Wheel.

Anaxagoras, an Ancient Greek Philofopher, fpoken of by Diogenes Laertius for the firft Publisher of Books.

Anaximander, an Ancient Greek Philofopher, mentioned by Pliny as the Inventor of the ufe of the Sphere.

Apis, a King of the Egyptians, to whom fome have attributed the Invention of Phyfick.

Apollo, the Son of Jupiter and Latona, and Brother of Diana born at the fame Birth with him, according to the belief of the ancient Ethnicks, by whom he was worfhipped as the God of Day and Guider of the Chariot of Light, called the Sun: As alfo the Patron, or firft Inftitutor of Mufick, Poetry, Phyfick, and Archery. He hath alfo other Appellations among the Poets; as Phoebus, Delius, Cynthius, Patareus: He is likewife faid to have been the Inventor of the Lyre, or Harp.

Arachne, a Virgin of Lydia, (the Daughter of Idmon) whom Pliny mentions to have been the firft Inventrefs of Flax: And by fome the Art of Spinning, Weaving, and ordering of Wool, is afcribed to her Invention, though by others more right-Archery, by whom invented. See Apollo.

Architefture, by whom invented. See Doxius.

Arbore de Rays, or the Tree of Roots: A Tree in India, out of whose spreading Branches arife Strings like bempen Cords, which extending themfelves down to the Ground, there faften and take root, till at length one ftill croffing within another, the Tree takes up a large piece of Ground.

Arbore Trifte, or the forrowful Tree. A Tree growing in India, fo called becaufe, bearing no Bloffoms in the day time, half an hour after Sun-fetting, it becomes full of Bloffoms, which by that time the Sun begins to rife, fall all immediately off again: If a Branch of this Tree be broken and fet into the Ground, it prefently takes Root, and within a few Days bloffometh.

Ardices, a famous Corinthian, numbred among the Inventors of Picture drawing.

Ariftans, an Arcadian, the Son of Apollo, and the Nymph Cyrene, he was Inventor of the ufe of Bees, and of making of Honey; Oyl likewife, according to Juftin, was his Invention, which however is generally concluded to have been Minerva's due.

Arithmetick, by whom invented. See Phanicians and Pythagoras.

Arma

Armadillo, a sort of Beast in Brasil, of a white Colour, long snouted, and about the bigness of a Pig, armed all over the Body with hard Shells like Plates, not to be pierced by any Arrow, except about the Flanks: It lieth in holes, which it digs in the Earth with its Snout.

Arms of War, by whom invented. See Mars.

Artemon, a Native of Clazomenae, he was the Inventor of a certain warlike Engine called Testudo.

Astrology, by whom first invented. See Egyptians, and Chaldeans.

Astronomy, See Egyptians, Chaldeans, and Atlas.

Athenians, a People of Greece, anciently very famous; they are given out by Justin to have been the first Inventors of the use of Oyl, and Wool, and the sowing of Corn, though the two first, it may probably be concluded, that they learn'd of Minerva, the Patroness of that City, the last of Ceres; they are also mentioned by Gallius as the first Erectors of Libraries.

Atlantides, The Fourteen Daughters of Atlas, whereof the first Seven Eudoxa, Pasithoe, Crone, Plexatris, Pytho, Tyche, called the Hyades, or Sucula, by his Wife Electra; the other Seven Electra, Acyone, Colene, Maja, Asterope, Taygete, Merops, called the Pleiades, or Vergilia, by Pleione; they were by the Poets Fictions turned into Constellations, the first being the Seven Stars in the Head of Taurus, the others the Seven Stars between Taurus and the Tail of Aries.

Atlas, a King of Mauritania, the Son of Japetus and the Nymph Libya, (some say Clymene;) and Brother to Promethus; he was famed for the Inventor of Astrology, and the use of the Sphere, which Invention however is generally referred to the Egyptians, and Chaldeans; but by Josephus to the Hebrews, and particularly Seth.

Attalus, a King of Pergamus, whom some imagine to have been the first Inventor of Tapistry, and the richest sort of woven Hangings or Garments, which are thence called Vestes Attalica.

Augias, a King of Elis, the Son of Sol and the Nymph Naupidame, the Story of whose Stable being cleansed by Hercules, gives occasion to Pliny to conclude him the first that raised Dunghills, and taught the way of dunging and manuring the Earth.

The Ax, by whom invented. See Penthesilea.

B.

Bacchus, the Son of Jupiter and Semele, he was worshipped by the Ancient Greeks as the God of Wine, because he is said to have been the first that taught the planting of Vineyards, and the use of Wine; tho' some will will have this Invention to belong to Janus, an ancient King of Italy; others to Neah, and that with more probability, unless Noah and Janus were (as it is judged by divers) one and the same Person. He is often called Liber Pater, and by the Egyptians, Osiris and Dionysius; Cappella affirms, that among the Greeks, Mercury found out the use of Wine; among the Latines, Saturn, the Crown of Ivy which he wore, Pliny will have to be in Imitation of the wearing of Crowns in that kind; but Eusebius from Moses his Example, proves the Crown to be of more Antiquity.

The art of Baking by whom invented. See Pilumnus.

Basilisco, a certain Herb growing in Italy, which being hid under a Stone, in the space of about two days produceth a Scorpion.

Bellerophon, the Son of King Glaucus, and the Nymph Ephyra, whom (from the flying Horse Pegasus, which he bestrid in his fight against Chimera) Pliny makes to have been the first who taught the art of Riding and the managing of Horses; but Neptune deserves to be accounted the first beginner of this Art, as Diodorus testifieth: Since he not only produced the first Horse by striking with his Trident upon the Earth, in his contest with Minerva, for the finding of the thing that should prove most profitable and useful to Mankind: But also taught Horsemanship and the skill of Riding: Nor was this Invention complet till the Saddle and Bridle were found out; which, as Virgil testifies in his Georgicks, was first done by the Pelethronians Lapitha, an ancient People of Thessaly, who likewise, as some affirm, were they that first shod Horses: However some there be who attribute Riding and the way of fighting on Horseback to the Centaur, a People also of Thessaly; who riding their Horses to the Water, appeared to People that saw them afar off (while their Horses held down their Heads to drink) as if they had been a sort of Creature half Men and half Horses.

Bellows, by whom first invented. See Anacharsis.

Bereguaezeval, a Mountain in the Kingdom of Fesse, in Africa, having on the top thereof a Cave which continually casteth out Fire.

Books, by whom first published, publicly read, or erected into a publick Library. See Anaxagoras and Pisistratus.

Bow and Arrows, by whom invented. See Apollo and Sythos.

Brass, and the working therein, by whom invented. See Cyclopes, Lydus, and Vulcan.

C.

Cadmus, the Son of Agenor King of the Phoenicians. He is reported by Pliny

to have brought these Sixteen Letters of the Alphabet, $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \eta, \iota, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon$, out of Phœnicia, into Groæce, the Phœnicians having first learned them of the Muses: To these Palamedes, he saith, in the Trojan War, added θ, ξ, ϕ, χ , and afterwards Simonides Melicus three more, ζ, ψ, ω : Yet Hermolans delivers that θ and ψ were added by Epicarmus. Diodorus Siculus writes that Mercurius first invented Letters in Egypt: Some will have the *Aethiopi*ans to be the first finders of them, others the Syrians, which best agrees with what Eupolemus asserts, viz. that Moses first taught them to the Hebrews. Cadmus also is said to have been the first Discoverer of Gold in the Mountain Pangaus, though others say Thoas and Eacelis in Panchaia.

Caacus, See Mercury and Erychthonius.

Callias, an Athenian, the first finder out of Minium or red Oker, as Pliny testifieth.

Cantharides, a sort of Fly in Italy, appearing in the day-time of a green shining Colour, but in the Night they appear like flying Glow-worms with sparks of Fire in their Tails.

Capaneus, a Nobleman of Argos, whom Vegetius reports to have been the first Inventor of scaling Ladders, which he made first use of in attempting to scale the walls of Thebes, but was struck back with stones, which gave occasion to the Fable, of his being struck with thunder by Jupiter.

Carbuncle, a strange sort of Beast in Africa seen only in the Night, he hath a Stone in his Forehead resembling the precious Stone of that Name, and shining clearly enough to give him light to feed by, over which Stone, when he hears any noise, he lets fall a skin, ordained by Nature to cover or hide the splendour thereof, and keep himself from being discovered.

Cardinals, their Order, by whom instituted. See Marcellus.

The Carpenter's Art, by whom first invented. See Dadalus.

Celandine herb, the use thereof by whom invented. See Chiron.

Centaury Herb, the use thereof by whom invented. Ibid.

Ceres, the Daughter of Saturn and Ops, the first that taught Men the use of Husbandry, and to plow and sow the Earth, according to the testimony of Virgil and Ovid: And probably Triptolemus hath this Invention ascribed to him by Justin, because receiving Instructions from Ceres, he taught it to the Athenians, who for the same reason have from some the glory thereof given them: but the Agyptians, as Diodorus Siculus writes, claim it for their Osyris, otherwise called Dionysius. Isis also might be mentioned in this Affair, if Ceres were not the same Goddess whom the Aegyptians call Isis. Saturn likewise is to be reckoned among the Inventors here concerned, as being the Person, who, by the Testimony of Macrobius and Enropius, taught Husbandry to the Ancient People of Italy, but by the Authority of Josephus, and the Scripture, Cain for Antiquity, may claim Precedency above all for this Invention: Wherein nevertheless there are others that challenge their several Parts. Pitumnus, otherwise called Sterquilinus, is the First that shewed the way of dunging and manuring the Ground, according to Servius; yet Pliny writes that Angeas found it out in Greece, and Hercules Recarnus divulged it in Italy: The Invention and Use of the Plough was found, as Diodorus saith, by Dionysius, the Son of Jupiter and Proserpina, others by Triptolemus; Pliny saith by Briges an Athenian. Trogus Pompeius delivers, that Habis, an ancient King of Spain, taught the Use of the Plough to his Subjects.

Chalcus, the Son of Athamos: He is reported to have been the First Inventor of the Shield and Buckler.

Chaldeans, a People of Asia of very ancient Renown, and especially famous for their Skill in Astrology.

Chalybes, an ancient People of Spain, skilful in the Use of Iron and Steel.

Charandes, an ancient Philosopher among the Tyrrians, and the First that gave Laws to that Nation.

Chiron, the Centaur, Son of Saturn and the Nymph Philyra; Saturn, to avoid the Jealousie of his wife Ops, turning himself into a Horse. He is numbered among the Inventors of Physick, as he was Tutor to Asculapius and Achilles, and the Discoverer of the Vertues of divers Herbs and Plants, especially of the Herb Centauris, or Centauris: So the Vertue of the Herb Chelidonia, or Celandine, was learnt from the Observation of the Swallow, who by Instinct of Nature useth it for the Healing of her young One's Eyes.

Chirurgery, by whom invented. See Asculapius.

Choræbus, an Athenian, he is delivered by Pliny to have been the Inventor of Plastick, or the Potter's Art, though by the same Author Dibutades the Sicyonian is mentioned to the same Effect; however there are others who are reckoned among the Inventors of this Art; as Rhacus and Theodorus.

Native of the Isle of Samos, as also Euchiras, and Eugrammus, Corinthians, who accompanied Demaratus the Father of Tarquinius Priscus into Italy; Anacharsis is reputed by Ephorus the Inventor of the Potter's Wheel.

C O

To these may be added pleasant Drink, and with the Lysistratus the Sicyonian, Gum that distills from the Brother of Lysippus, for inventing the Art of casting in Mould.

Clark Geese, a certain sort of Fowl, or rather Zoophytes or Plant animals, breeding in certain Logs, which are found in the North-Seas of Scotland, they hang by the Beak till they are grown to Maturity, and have received Life, and then they fall off.

Cleanthes, a Corinthian, reckoned among the first Inventors of Delineation, or making the rough Draughts of Pictures.

Cleophantus, a famous Corinthian, whom Pliny makes to be the first that invented Colours to paint with.

Closter, the Son of Arachne, he is thought to have been the first Inventor of the Spindle.

Coco, a sort of a Tree growing in the West Indies, whose every part is profitable in some kind or other: It is straight, and spreads it self into Branches like Pjumes, only at the very Top; the Body of the Tree serves for Timber, for Canes, Planks and Masts of Ships, the Leaves are fit to make Sails of, as also Tents and Thatching for Houses, with the Rind they make Mattresses, Cordage, Linnen, and Sails also: The Meat of the Nut serves for Food, the Shells for Cups and Vessels, the Shell of the Nur is also full of rich Liquor, which makes a pleasant Drink, and with the Lysistratus the Sicyonian, Gum that distills from the Tree they caulk their Ships-Comedies, by whom invented. See Muses and Thalia.

Compasses, by whom first invented. See Dadalus and Perdix.

Corn, the use thereof, by whom found out. See Ceres. Corybantus. See Idai Dactyli.

Crowns and Garlands, by whom first Invented. See Bacchus and Glycera.

Ctesibius, a famous Artist of Alexandria, whose Invention, as Visnuvius writes, was the Cresydra or Water; hour glass.

Cyclopes, the three Sons of Neptune and Amphitrite, their Names Brontes, Storopes, and Pyracmon. Pliny mentions them as the Inventors of the Forge, and Smith's Work, of finding the use of Brass, Iron and other Metals, and forming them into all manner of useful Instruments; which Invention nevertheless is more proper to Vulcan, whose Servants they are said to be, and his Assistants in the making of Jupiter's Thunderbolts: They are also accounted the first Builders of Towers and Steeples.

DAbuck, a sort of Animal in Africa, resembling a Wolf, except in the Feet,

Feet, which are like those of a Man: It takes dead Men's Carcases out of their Graves and eats them: The way to take it is by singing, and the Sound of a Taber, by which when it is drawn out of its Den they use to throw a Rope about its Legs, Dadalus, the Son of Micilon, an Athenian. He is affirmed by Pliny to have been the first that was famous for working in Wood, and the Inventor of all manner of Carpenter's Tools, as the Hammer, Hatcher, Saw, Level, &c. But the Ruler, Turner's Wheel, Lock, and Key, are thought to have been found out by Theodorus a Samian. Ovid gives the Invention of the Compasses to Perdix, who was Sister's Son to Dadalus; and according to Diodorus Siculus, Talaus, Nephew also of Dadalus, found out the use of the Saw from his Observation of a Serpent's reech: He is also Competitor with Anacharsis for the Invention of the Potter's Wheel; though by the Testimony of Laertius, the use of the Ruler was taught by Pythagoras, as the Hatcher is thought to have been found out by Penthesilea, a Queen of the Amazons; and the Tub or Gibbons Vessel, by Speusippus: But if the Authority of Jesephus and Eusebius may prevail, the Tyrrians are to have the first Suffrage in all that belongs to this Art, and next them the Hebrews.

Dancing the Pyrrhica, or armed Dance, by whom first invented. See Pyrrhus.

Danaus, an ancient King of Argos, and Brother of Egyptus, the Story of whose fifty Daughters may be seen in Ancient Histories: He is famed by Pliny for the first that taught Navigation to the Greeks: To whom he brought their first Ship out of Egypt; but the Antiquity of his Invention in that kind, is far outdone by Noah's Ark, as the Examples of Abraham and Isaac frustrate his Pretension to be the first Digger of Wells.

Darts, by whom first invented. See Echolus.

Dela, a Phrygian, who is said to have first found out the use of Iron.

Destinies, the three fatal Sisters, feigned to have been the Daughters of Erebus and Night, and the Spinners of the Thread of Humane Life, their Names, according to the Greeks, are Clotho, Lachesis, and Atropos; according to the Latine, Nona, Decima, and Morta.

The Art of Dialect, by whom found. See Zeno.

Dialogues, by whom first contrived. See Aleximeneus.

Diana, the Daughter of Jupiter and Latona, brought forth at one Birth with Apollo; as she was thought to be the Guider of the Chariot of the Night, or the Moon, she was called Cynthia, Delia and Luna; as she reigned in the World below she was called Hecate, Proserpina, and Didymna; as she lived on the Earth, and frequented the Woods, she is properly called Diana, being the first that exercised Hunting and Chasing of wild Beasts with Bows and Arrows, according to the Ethnick Account (though according to the Scripture, Nimrod is the ancientest Hunter) and the Patroness of Huntsmen, and of all Forests, Woods and Chaces: As she was reputed Assistant at Nativities, and the Birth of Humane Creatures, she was called Lucina and Eilithyia; but in this last Affair Juno stands in Competition with her.

of whose thrusting her crooked Beak into her Tail, was first learned the Use of Glysters.

Icarus, the Father of Penelope, he is reckoned among the Inventors of the use of Wine. See Janus.

Idæi Dactyli, a certain People, who being anciently of Phrygia, removed themselves into Crete, where (as Poets feign,) they by a Stratagem preserved Jupiter from the Cruelty of his Father Saturn, while in a kind of Antick Dance they made a rude sort of Musick by the hitting together of brazen Shields: They are feigned to have been the Sons of Sol and Minerva, or as others say, of Saturn and Alciopé, and (as Herodotus testifies) the first that made known the use of Brass and Iron: They are also termed Corybantés.

Johannes Guttenburgus, a German Knight, who was the first Inventor of the Art of Printing at Mentz.

Iphitus, the Son of Hercules, or (as others say) of Praxonides. Strabo mentions him to have been the first Institutor of the Olympick Games: Which nevertheless others affirm of Hercules himself, others of a People called the Epei.

Iron, the use thereof by whom first made known. See Cyclopes, Idæi Dactyli, and Vulcan.

Juno, the Daughter of Saturn and Ops, Sister and Wife of Jupiter, to whom she brought forth Mars and Vulcan: She was feigned by the Ancient Ethnicks to be the Goddess of Empire and Riches: And as she was accounted the Patroness of Marriage, she was called Pronuba, as the Queen of Midwives, and an Helper of Women in Labour, Lucina: Those that allegorize Fables in a way of Philosophy, take her for the Air.

Jupiter, the Son of Saturn and Ops, born at one Birth with Juno in the Island of Crete: He is taken in a Philosophical Allegory for the Element of Fire or the Sky: His Story more at large, see in the Comments upon Hesiod, Ovid, and other Writers of Ethnick Mythology. Cicero also makes mention of two other Jupiters, which see in his Book De Natura Deorum: But that which is most strange is, that this Jupiter which by the Poets and old Ethnicks was esteemed the Supreme and King of the Gods, should at length condescend to be one of the seven Planets.

Marsyas, an Ancient Musician of Phrygia, who presuming to contend with Apollo for the Mastery in Musick, and being overcome, was for his Presumption flayed alive: He is reported by Diodorus Siculus and Ensebius to have been the first Inventor of the Musical Pipe called Tibia from the likeness it hath to the Shinbone, it being anciently made of the Shinbone of a Crane, and afterwards of an Oaten Stalk, which Trezenius the Dardan first found out; and perhaps differs only in respect of its Smallness from the Fistula, which being denominated from a hollow Tube, or long Pipe, comprehends I suppose the bigger sort of Musical Pipes, as the Cornet, Recorder, and bigger sort of a Flute. Some allow the Invention of this Tibia to Midas a Phrygian also, but others deduce not only the Lyre or Harp from Apollo, but also the Tibia and Fistula both, though the Invention of this last is doubtless most properly to be given to Pan for the sake of his Mistress Syrinx.

by which the Years were computed : By Diodorus Siculus she is mentioned as the first that taught Architecture, or the Art of Building : Also the Invention of Chariots, whereof Erichthonius to be Author, is attributed not to this but another Minerva [(for Cicero makes mention of Four) the Daughter of Jupiter and the Nymph Coryphe, one of the Daughters of Oceanus ; she is otherwise called Pallas, Tritonis, and among the Greeks Αθήνη, but Pallas more especially, in respect of her being a war-like Goddess.

Minos, an Ancient King of Crete, the Son of Jupiter (some say Xanthus) and Europa : He is celebrated in Poetical Fables and old Stories for that famous Labyrinth, which at his Appointment was made by Dadalu, who in was inclosed the Monster Minotaurus : He is delivered by Sirabo to have been the first that set forth a Fleet to command the Sea, and by Pliny the first that gave Laws to the Cretans ; which is the more probable, in regard both he and his two Brothers (Aacus and Rhadamanthus) were so esteemed for Justice and Impartiality, that they were thought worthy to be constituted the three Judges of Hell, to sit in Judgment and give Sentence upon all notorious Sinners and Malefactors condemned thither.

Mirus, An Ancient King

of Egypt, who, as Pliny writes, was the first Erector of Obelisks.

Misfaus, an old famous Greek Poet, contemporary with Orpheus, if not his Son as some are of Opinion, under whose Name goes that so well known Poem of the Loves of Hero and Leander : He was the first, as Digenes Laertius delivers, that writ the Genealogy of the Gods, and the first that found out the Use of the Sphere, though this last Cicero affirms of Archimedes the Syracusan, Pliny of Atlas, and also of Anaximander.

Muses, the nine Daughters of Jupiter, and Mnemosyne ; they are celebrated by Poets for the Goddesses and Patroneses of all Learning, Arts and Ingenuities. Their Names are Clio, Melpomene, Thalia, Euterpe, Terpsichore, Erato, Calliope, Urania, Polybymnia. Clio is said to have been the Inventress of History, Melpomene of Tragedies, Thalia of Comedies, Euterpe of the Musick of the Flute and Pipe, Terpsichore of the Psaltery, Erato of Heroick Poem, Urania of Astrology, Polybymnia of Rhetorick.

ner, from whole composing its Body and Fins into the Likeness of a Ship under Sail, it is supposed the first Intimation was taken for the Framing of Ships.

Nemesis, the Daughter of Jupiter and Necessitas: She was worshipped by the ancient Ethnioks, as a Goddess that took upon her to revenge and punish all wrongs and impious Actions committed by mortal Men, having her Seat above the Moon, from whence she viewed all things here below: She was also called Adrastea, and Rhamnusia.

pire of the Sea: he is not only held to have been the first that taught Men Horsemanship, the Art of Riding and of managing of Horses
as Diodorus Siculus writes;
But also is imagined by some to have been the first that produced that Animal, by striking with his Trident upon the Earth when the Contention was between him and Minerva, who should produce the thing that would prove most profitable to humane kind, as is particularly observed by the Poets Virgil and Lucan: And especially, as he was God of the Sea, he is in all Right to be accounted the first that taught Navigation, and the Use of Shipping, which is also affirmed by Diodorus Si- culus: Yet several others

there are, that are allowed by ancient Writers a Claim to this Invention; as the Cre- tans, by the same Author;
by Strabo, Minos King of Crete; by Pliny, one Erythras a King of certain Islands about the red Sea; by others the Mysians and Tejans in Orpheus, a famous ancient Muſician of Thrace, the Son of Oeagrus (ſome ſay Apollo) and the Muſe Calliope: He is ranked among thoſe that ſtand in Competion for the firſt Invention of Muſick (together with Linus the Son alſo of Apollo;) Likewiſe he and Zamolxis are thought to have been the firſt that taught

Philoſophy among the Thracians: He wonderfully improved the Art of Playing upon the Harp or Lute which he learned of Mercury, inſomuch that Fables have reported of him, that he was able by the Power of his Harmony to make wild Beaſts tame, and Trees and Rocks to dance after the Sound of his Lyre: The Story alſo of his playing Esuridice out of Hell, is no leſs ſolemnized among Poets.

Oſiris, the Son of Jupiter and Niobe. He ſucceeded Phoronæus in the Kingdom of Argos: But leaving his own Kingdom, he ſailed into Egypt, where he grew ſo renowned for the many profitable Arts and Inventions, which he taught that People, that after his Death he was deified by them, and adored, eſpecially for his Propagation of the neceſſary Art of Husbandry among them:

He is otherwiſe called Dionysius, which is the ſame with Bacchus, and by ſome ac-

Palat-

Palamedes, the Son of Nauplius King of Eubœa, who provoking Ulysses by some injurious Carriage in the Trojan War, was by a Stratagem of his accused of Treachery, and stoned to Death by the Greeks; he is delivered by Aulus Gellius to be the first Inventor of the Use of Weights and Measures, as also of using the Calculi, or Counters, both in Computations and in the giving of Suffrages or Votes: Pliny likewise makes him the Contributor of four Letters to the Greek Alphabet, name δ , ξ , ϕ and ψ .

Pallas. See Minerva.

Palmeta, a certain Tree in Africa, from whence, out of certain Holes bored into the Body of the Tree, into which they put hollow Canes in fashion of a Tap, there is drawn a pleasant Liquor or Drink, in taste somewhat resembling White-wine.

Pan, the Son of Demogorgon, worshipped by the ancient Ethnicks, but most especially in Arcadia, as the God of Woods and Shepherds; and by Allegory taken for Nature or the Universe, which is implied in the Word which signifieth All: The Story of his loving Syrinx, who flying from him, was transformed into a Reed, and by him cut up and made a Musical Pipe to play on, thereby making Harmony of her dead, who while leaving proved so harsh and untunable to his Will, is to be read in Quintus's Metamorphosis neatly and elegantly described; however he is generally believed to be the first Deviser of the Fistula, or Musical Pipe, both single and several joyned together in one; as the Tibia, another sort of Musical Pipe, is laid claim to both by Mercury, Marsias, and Midas: But the double or joyned Tibia, by Terpander which I suppose gave the first Intimation to the Framing of an Organ, by an orderly Series of Pipes, one under another: Whereas to the single Tibia and Fistula must be referred those several sorts of Musical Wind-Pipes among us at present, as the Corner, Flute, Fife, Recorder, and Flagelet.

Paulus Secundus, a certain Bishop or Pope of Rome, who was the first that instituted the Habit of Cardinals used at this Day, namely the Scarlet Gown and Hood.

Paulus Venetus, the first (as Gilbertus, an ancient English Philosopher, delivers) that brought the use of the Magnet or Loadstone, and by Consequence of the Mariner's Compass into Italy, having first learned it of the Coineses, who are thought to have had both that and the Art of Printing anciently known among them: But he that is most generally famed for the first Inventor of the Mariner's Compass, and Use of the Loadstone, at least in these parts of the World, in one Flavius Gaius a Native of Amulphus in the Kingdom of Naples.

Pelethronians, a certain People of Thessaly, whom Virgil notes to have been the first that used Bridles and Saddles in the Riding of Horses, Elio.

and Pliny takes Notice of them as the first that taught the way of shoeing Horses: And hereupon they are ranked among those that stand for the first Invention of Horsemanship.

Penthesilea, a Queen of a certain Nation of Women inhabiting that part of Scythia which lies upon the River Tanais and Thermodon: She leading an Army of Women to the Aid of the Trojans, was slain by Achilles in a single Combat: She is famed for the first Invention that used in War, or the Battle Ax.

Phæbus. See Apollo.
Phæmonoe, the Daughter of Phæbus, she was famed for a very great Prophetess, and the first that invented Hexameter or Heroick Verse.

Phœnicians, a People of Syria, bordering upon Judea; and so denominated from Phœnix the Son of Neptune and Lilya; supposed to be the Founder of that Nation, or else from Phœnix the Son of Agenor, who first taught them Letters: They have been a People famous for the Invention of several Arts, as Arithmetick, the Knowledge of the Stars, (wherein nevertheless the Egyptians, Chaldeans, and Hebrews are Competitors with them) the Use of Letters, Military Discipline, especially the Use of the Balista, Cross-Bow, and Sling in War; the Arts of Hunting, Fowling, and Fishing, (yet Hunting is most peculiarly, referred to Diana) as also Navigation, and Perdix, the Nephew or Sister's Son of Dadalus: He was, as Ovid takes Notice in the eighth Book of his Metamorphosis, the Inventor of the Circinus or Compasses.

Perseus, the Son of Jupiter and Danae; he is imagined by some to have been the Inventor of Darts and Arrows, though the Invention of Bows and Arrows is more probably ascribed to Apollo, but by some to Scythes the Son of Jupiter.

Petefucus, an ancient King of Egypt, famed by the story of Labyrinth he there built, and reckoned among the Builders of Labyrinths in that Kingdom.

Phidos, a Native of Arno as also Navigation, and Merchandize, whereof nevertheless Pliny gives the Original Practice to the Pæni or Carthaginians, Diodorus Siculus to Mercury.

Phoroneus the Son of Inachus, a King of the Argives, he is said to be the first that gave Laws to that Nation.

Phrygians, a certain People in Asia the less, so denominated either from the River Phrygius, or from Phrygia, the Daughter of Cecrops: They are believed by Pliny to have been the first Inventors of those sorts of Chariots called Bigæ and Quadrigæ: They are also concluded the first Inventors of all sorts of curious Needle-work: Whence Garments and Clothes so wrought are called Vestes Phrygiana.

Pilumnus, the first Inventor of grinding in a Mill, baking, and all the several ways of ordering of Corn for the making of Bread.

Pisus the Tyrrenian, the first, as Pliny testifieth, that found out the Use of the Brazen Trumper.

Pisistratus, the Son of Hippocrates an Athenian, who by Stratagem made himself Tyrant of the City, but was slain by the Conspiracy of Harmodius and Aristogeiton: He and Anaxagoras were the first that took Care for the publishing of Books: He also is delivered by Aulus Gellius to have been the first Inceptor of publick Lectures, and Erector of publick Libraries.

Pitumnus, the Brother of Pilumnus, he is otherwise called Sterquilinus, as being the first, as Servius upon Virgil observes, that shewed the way of dunging and manuring the Earth.

The Plastick Art, by whom invented. See Corabus.

Pluto, the Son of Saturn and Ops, between whom and his two Brothers Jupiter and Neptune, the Empire of the Universe being divided, there tell to Pluto's share the Kingdom of the Shades, or the World below, as to Jupiter's Lot Heaven, and to Neptune's the Sea: The Story of his carrying away Proserpina the Daughter of Ceres is both generally famous among Poets, and particularly set forth in a Poem by Claudian.

Poetry, who the first Author thereof. See Apollo and Muses.

Polygnotus, an Athenian whom Theophrastus thinks to have been the first Inventor of Painting or Picture-drawing in Greece, though Aristotle saith, it was Pyrrhus the Kinsman of Dadalus: And Pliny mentions not as an Inventor, but a great Improver of this Art, one Polygnotus a Thracian.

Porfenna, an ancient King of the Hetrurians, who caused a very stately Labyrinth to be built for his Sepulchre. This is thought to have been the first Labyrinth that was known in Italy: But the first Original of this kind of Structure is concluded to have been in Egypt, the most memorable whereof were built by Metherudes, Merides, Petesufucus, and Tithoes: As likewise of Pyramids; among the first and most famous Builders whereof were Chemus, otherwise called Cheops, Chambreas, Cephrenes and Mycerinus, very ancient Kings of that Nation.

Poffown, a sort of Beast in Virginia, the Female whereof hath a Bag under her Chin, into which she receiveth her Young Ones, and letteth them forth at Pleasure.

The Potter's Art, by whom found out. See Choræbus, Dibutades and Lysistratus.

Praxiteles, a very famous ancient Statuary of Italy, thought to be the first that carved in Marble: Also he is imagined by Pliny to have been the Inventor of Looking glasses, which he made first of Silver.

The Art of Printing, by whom invented. See Joannes Guttenburgus and Simon Islip.

Prætus and Acrisius, the Sons of Abas King of the Argives; they are the first taken Notice of for the fighting of a Duel together, and the first that invented the Shield and Buckler.

Prometheus, the Son of Jupiter, and the Nymph Asia; and the Father of Deucalion: He is reported by Leſtantis to have been the first Instructor of Sacrifices, or at least the first that slew Oxen for Sacrifice: Whereas Hyperbius (the Son of Mars) whom some think to have been the first Sacrificer, happily flew only the smaller sort of Cattle: He is likewise said to have been the first Erector of Images, which probably gave Occasion to the Fable of his framing the shape of a Man in Mud, and animating it with cœlestial Fire: As from his being a careful Observer of the Motions of the Stars from the Mountain Caucasus (whereupon Servius in his Comment upon Virgil concludes him the Inventor of Astrology) the Fable of his being, by Jupiter's Command, chained to Caucasus, where he was exposed to have his Liver continually pecked upon by a Vulture for stealing Fire from Heaven, is likely to have sprung: But that which seems most fabulous of all is, that his wearing a Ring of Iron made of the Chain wherewith he had been bound, with a Piece of the Rock to which he had been chained fixed to it, about the Ring finger of his left Hand, for a Memorial, was the Original of Rings with Stones set in them.

Pseusippus, or Spensippus, an Athenian Philosopher, Plato's Sisters Son, who, as Diogenes Laertius writes, was the first that devised the way of making Vessels more than ordinary capacious, by framing them Gibbous, as Tubs, Jars, and the like.

The Purple Dye, by whom first found out. See Hercules.

Pyramids, by whom first erected. See Personna.

Pyrodes, the Son of Cilix: He is said to have been the first first that found out the way to the Greeks; and Vitruvius of striking Fire out of a Flint, fathers upon him the Invention of the Norma, or measuring Ruler.

Aeneas.

The Pyrrhichian Dance, by whom first invented. See Pyrrhus.

Pyrrhus, the Son of Dadatus, whom Aristotle judgeth to have been the first that exercised Painting or Picture-drawing in Greece, as Gyges in Lydia. Pyrrhus likewise, but more probably another Pyrrhus, haply the Son of Achilles, is related by Pliny to be the first Deviser of the Pyrrhichian or armed Dance, though Solinus saith, it was invented by Pyrrhicus one of the Cretans, or Idai Dactyli; Dionysius Halicarnassensis saith by Pallas; but Pliny alledgeth that the Pyrrhichian and the armed Dance, were two distinct Things; and that this was invented by the Cretans, that by Pyrrhus.

Pythagoras, a most eminent Philosopher of the Isle of Samos, the Son of Menesarchus, a Jeweller and Disciple of Pherecides Syrus; the Fame of his Wisdom and great Knowledge in Philosophy, drew many considerable Auditors to him: But that which made the greatest Noise in the World, was his Opinion concerning the Transmigration of Souls: Some ascribe to him the first Invention of Arithmetick, and the Art of Numbers: Diogenes Laertius thinks him to have been the first that made known the Use of Weights and Measures Pythian Games, by whom instituted. See Python.

Pythius, a famous Architect of Priene, who built a Temple there to Minerva, which Vitruvius makes Account was the first Temple ever built; and it might have passed for current, had not the Antiquity of Solomon's Temple contradicted it.

Python, a Serpent or Dragon of a monstrous shape and vast Bigness, feigned to be sprung out of the Slime of the Earth after Deucalion's Flood: This Serpent was sent by Juno to molest Latona when she went great with Apollo and Diana; which Apollo, when he grew up, resolving to revenge, slew the Serpent with his Bow and Arrows; and being thence surnamed Pythius, instituted in Memory of the Action certain Games, called Pythian Games.

Pythius, the first Inventor (I will not say of Goff, Tennis or Paille Maille but) of several active Games, and Exercises at Ball.

Pyxidorus, the first supposed Discoverer of the use of Marble.

Q.

Quadragesima, or Lent-time, the Observation thereof by whom first instituted. See Telephorus.

R.

R Hadamantlus, one of the Three Infernal Judges. He is thought by some to have been the first that taught the Assyrians Letters.

Resurrection Tree, a certain Tree in Manica, which tho' appearing dry and leafless most part of the Year, yet if a Branch be cut off, and put into Water for the space of ten Hours, it puts forth green Leaves, but as soon as it is taken out, it presently withers, and grows dry again.

Rhetorick, by whom first professed. See Mercury and Empedocles.

Rhæcus and Theodorus, two notable Artists of the Isle of Samos, whom some suppose to have been the Inventors of Plastick, or the Potter's Art, and who accompanied Demaratus, the Father of Tarquinius Priscus into Italy, where they propagated their Art.

Romulus, the first King, Founder, and Law giver of the City of Rome, and generally believed to be the Son of Mars and Ilia, a Vestal Nun, who being the Daughter of Numitor, King of the Latines, brought forth him and Rhemus at one Birth; some think him to have been the first that triumphed; that is to say, over Acron, King of the Caninenses, whom he conquered; but others say, it was but an Ovation (for so they call that smaller kind of Solemnity, which makes not up a perfect Triumph) and that Tarquinius Priscus was the first Beginner of Triumphs in Rome; yet not he, but Dionysius or Bacchus, otherwise called Liber Pater, is concluded by Diodorus Siculus, Pliny and Solinus, to have been the first Triumpher, when he returned from Battle laden with the Spoils of several Nations.

S.

S Sacrifices from whom they took Beginning. See Prometheus.

Saturn, the Son of Cœlum and Vesta, he, being banished his Kingdom by his eldest Son Jupiter, fled to Janus King of Italy, with whom he is said to have jointly reigned, and is supposed to have been the first that taught Husbandry to the People of Italy. Some refer the Invention of Astrology to him, whence haply one of the seven Planets came to be called by his Name; the Story of his cutting off the Genitals of his Father Cœlum, and his going about to devour all his Male-Children, are Morally and Physically interpreted, and allegorized by Commentators, especially the Scholiast upon Hesiod's Theogonie.

Scipio Nasica, an eminent Roman, who is recorded to have been the first (at least among the Romans) that deviated the Clepsydra, or Water-hour-glass; but the Testimony of Vitruvius is authentick for Ctesibius of Alexandria dria his being the first in this Watches, and Church Dials.

Syrians, a People of Asia, heretofore very considerable; and by Pliny believed to have been the first Devisers of a certain warlike Engine called Catapulta.

Syrinx, a Nymph of Arcadia, one of the Naiades; she was courted, but upon Denial pursued by Pan, the God of Shepherds, from whom flying, she upon her Prayer to the Nymphs, was turned into a Reed, of which Pan making a Musical Pipe, had thereby the means at length of playing upon his Mistle.

Taddy, a sweet and pleasant Liquor, which they drink instead of Wine, issuing from a certain spongy Tree growing in the Country of Indostan, tall, streight, and without Branches, excepting at the Top, where there groweth a large spreading Tuft; which Liquor, Incision being made into the Tree, drops down into Vessels, which are set under to receive it.

Talaus, the Nephew of Dardalus, he was the first Finder out, as Diodorus testifieth, of the Potter's Wheel, as also of the Saw.

Tamandua, a sort of Beast in Brazil, somewhat thick and round, and having a Tail twice as long as the Body, and a Tongue three Quarters of a Yard long, which thrusting into an Ant-hill, when as many Ants are run upon it as it can contain, he licks them all in, they being altogether his Food; whence this Beast is otherwise called the Ant-bear.

Turquinus Priscus, otherwise called Lucumo, the Son of Demaratus a Corinthian; he, by the Assistance and Advice of his Wife Tanaquil, obtained so far as to succeed Ancus Marcius in the Kingdom of Rome, and was the first among the Romans, as Entropius affirms, that made a perfect Triumph, viz. over the Sabines. See Romulus.

Telchines, a certain People who anciently inhabited the Island of Ophiusa, or Rhodes, which from thence was called Telchins: Some suppose them to have been the Children of Sol and Minerva, others of Saturn and Alcipe; haply the same with the Curetes, or Idai Dactyli; for they are said to have transplanted themselves afterwards into Creta: They were accounted a sort of Demons, or Evil Genii, at least a People that had Fascination in their Looks, and were addicted to Charms and Incantations; and are delivered by Strabo to have been the first Workers in Brass and Iron, and to have been the Persons that made Saturn's Sitch.

Telephorus, an ancient Bishop, who is thought by some to have been the first Instructor.

T H

tutor of the Quadregismal, or Forty-days Fast, commonly among us called Lent.

Terpander, a famous Lyrick Poet of Methymna in the Isle of Lesbos, celebrated by Virgil for his great improvement of Musick by his Invention of the Heptachord, or Seven-stringed Lyre, it being at first only a Monochord, as it was invented by Apollo; though some say he added only Three Strings to the Tetrachorda, or Four-stringed Lyre. To this Heptachorda Simonides is said to have added an Eighth String, and Timotheus a Ninth.

Thales Milesius, an eminent Ancient Philosopher, and in so high an Esteem for his Wisdom, that he was ranked among the Seven that had the repute to be the wisest Men in the World: He is particularly famed for the first that taught Greece Geometry and Astronomy, and that observed and found out the reason of the Eclipses of the Sun and Moon, and, as saith Diogenes Laertius, the first that divided the Year into 365 Days.

Thamyras, an old Thracian Poet, of whom it is fabled, that contending with the Muses for the Mastery in Musick, and being overcome, he was by them stricken blind. Pliny reports him to have been the first that played magisterially upon the Harp without singing, whereas Amphion and Linus were the first that played to singing.

T H

Theodorus of Samos, the first Inventor, as some affirm, of the Norma or Ruler, the Key and Lock, and the Turners Wheel (though the Norma others attribute to Pythagoras) as also of the Pottery Wheel. See Rachus.

Theseus, the Son of Ageus, King of Athens, and Echea the Daughter of Pitheus: He is famous in Story for overcoming the Amazons, slaying Creon King of Thebes, as also the Monster Minotaurus in Crete, his accompanying his Friend Pirithous to Hell, whence he was delivered at length by Hercules. He among the Greeks (for Lycaon is agreed to be the first of all) is mentioned by Pliny as the first Concluder of Leagues and Truces in War: but Diodorus Siculus attributeth the same to Mercury.

Thessalians, a People of that part of Greece anciently called Pyrrhaa, from Pyrrha the Wife of Deucalion: they are noted by Pliny, Virgil, and others, (at least some certain People of Thessaly, as the Pelithronian Lapitha and Centaures) to have been the first that addicted themselves to Horsemanship and Riding, that brought in the use of the Bridle and Saddle, and the custom of Fighting on Horseback.

Thracians, a People of Greece so denominated from Thrax, the Son of Mars. Clemens Alexandrinus imagines them to have been the first Inventors of the Scithe.

Thoas, and Eac'h, the first Discoverers, as Pliny testifieth, of Gold Mines in the Mountain Panchis: others say Sol the Son of Oceanus.

Tinder-boxes, the use of them, whence first invented. See Achates and Pyraodes.

Triptolemus, the Son of Colchus King of Eloussa, as Pausanias writes, he is said to have been sent by Ceres in a Chariot drawn with winged Dragons, through the World to teach Men the use of Corn: Whence he hath been reputed by some the first Inventor of Husbandry among the Greeks.

Triumphs, by whom first instituted. See Romulus and Tarquinius Priscus.

Trazenius the Dardan, an Ancient Musician, who is said to have first framed the slender sort of musical Pipe of a Reed, Oaten Stalk, or the like Tunals, a sort of Tree growing in Nova Hispania, in the Leaves whereof there breeds a certain small Worm finely wrapped up in a subtile Web, which Worm, as soon as it is dryed, becomes that Coche-neal, which is so costly and highly prized among us.

Tyrians, the Inhabitants of Tyros, an Island belonging to Phœnicia, and so denominated from Tyros the Son of Phœnix: It was anciently called Sarra; and the Tyrian or Purple Dye, the use and knowledge whereof had thence its original, was called Sarraparrum Oorum: The Tyrians as also the rest of the Phœnicians, have been counted a

People from the beginning much addicted to Navigation, Traffick and Merchandize, and (but for the Pœni, or Cathaginians, to whom Pliny gives the Primacy in Merchandize and Navigation) might have passed for the original Undertakers in these Arts.

Tyrhenus, the Son of Atys King of Lydia; he was sent by his Father with a Colony to seek out new Habitations, and at length planted himself in that part of Italy, from thence called Tyrhenia, now Tuscany: to him Clemens Alexandrinus ascribes the Invention of the Javelin and Dart: and the Tyrhenians challenge to themselves the first use of the brazen Trumpet.

V.

Venus, the Daughter (some say of Jupiter and Diana, others of Cælum and Dies) but most generally concluded to have sprung from the Foam of the Sea, after the Genitals of Cælum were cut off and thrown into the Sea by Saturn, (if they were not distinct Persons,) for Cicero in his Book de Natura Deorum, reckons up four several Venus's: She derives from Ancient Mythology and Poetry the Title of the Goddess of Love, of Pleasures and Delights, of Beauty, Attraction, and Elegance, the Mother of Cupid and the Graces, and is accounted the first that shewed the way of Amorous Courtship, from

the Stories of her Familiarity with Mars, and her Allurements to Adonis and Anchises: Among the Greeks, she was called Aphrodite, from ἀφρο, Froth or Foam: Also Cypris, Citherea, the Cyprian and Paphian Queen, in respect of her being principally worship'd in the Isle of Cyprus, the chief Towns whereof were anciently called Citherea and Paphos; she also gives name to one of the seven Planets, and the Morning Star, which is also called Lucifer, the same being also the Evening Star, and Hesperus, Vesper, and Vesperugo; though some deduce Hesperus from that Hesperus who was the Son of Japetus, and Brother of Atlas.

Viemalino, a sort of Bird in America, very small, having a long slender Bill, and feeding like a Bee upon Dew and the Juice of Flowers; it sleeps from October to April, the time that the Flowers are well sprouted up again; the Feathers are of very various and delightful Colours.

Vulcan, the Son of Jupiter and Juno, feigned to have been thrown down out of Heaven, for his Deformity, into the Isle of Lemnos, and there to have been brought up by Eurynome the Daughter of Oceanus. He is generally celebrated in Poetry for the God of Fire, and the first Discoverer of the use of all sorts of Metals, and the Inventor of all manner of Smiths Work, and the Artificer of Jupiter's Thunderbolts, and of the Arms of the Gods; which they used in their War against the Giants and the Sons of the Earth; yet there are who refer to several Persons the several Metals, as Pliny, the first Gold Mines to Cadmus the Phœnician in the Mountain Pangæus, others to Thaas and Eaclis in Panchaia, others to Sol the Son of Oceanus: The Discovery of Silver some impute to Mercurius Quintus, some to Erichthonius the Athenian, others to Caacus; Iron to the Idai Dactyli in Crete, Clemens Alexandrinus to Selmentes and Damnamenteus Jews in the Isle of Cyprus; Strabo both Iron and Brass, as also the making of Saturn's Scythe, to the Telchines, a People that anciently inhabited Rhodes; Lead to Midaoritus in the Islands called Cassiterides: Pliny ascribes the discovery of Brass to Cyniras Son of Agriopus in the Isle of Cyprus (as also the use of Tongs, Bolt, Mallet and Anvil;) Clemens Alexandrinus to the Pannonians, Aristotle to Lydus the Scythian; Theophrastus to Dela the Phrygian; others to the Chalybes, others to the Cyclops, who more especially have been reputed the Inventors of the Forge, and all sort of Smiths Work both in Brass and Iron, though this kind of Manufacture seems most probably to belong to Vulcan, whose Servants and Assistants they are reported to have been in the making of Jupiter's Thunderbolts, and the the Arms of the Gods, in their War against the Giants and Sons of the Earth.

X

X Enophon, the Son of Gryllus, an eminent, both Philosopher and Captain among the Athenians; he was the first of the Greek Philosophers that ever composed any thing of History, and that wrote the Life and Expedition of Cyrus, in whose Army, he himself being a Soldier, shewed admirable Conduct in bringing home his Countrymen through so many Difficulties of the Enemies Countries: But the very first Compiler of History reputed among the Greeks (for to them Moses was hardly known) was Pherecides Syrus, as Strabo is of opinion, who nevertheless ranks with him Cadmus and Hecataeus.

Xerxes, the name not only of that mighty King, who nevertheless was overcome by Alexander the Great; or of that famous Painter of Heraclea so much admired for the Picture which he drew of Venus; but also of a certain witty and sagacious Person, who contrived that serious Game, commonly called the Game at Chess.

T H E Year, by whom first reduced into 365 Days. See Thales Milesius.

Z.

Z Aleucus, an Eminent Person of Locris, and as Aelian testifieth, the first Legislator or Law giver to the People of that Country.

Zamolxis, a Thracian Philosopher, and reputed the first who, together with Orpheus, made known Philosophy to that People.

Zethus, the Son of Jupiter and Antiope; both he and his Twin-Brother Amphion, are ranked among those that stand Competitors for the first Invention of the Art of Musick.

Zoroaster, the first King of the Bactrians, who, as Pliny testifieth, was the first that made known the Skill of Magick to the Persians.
