Introduction of electrical power under orders of Board of Trade.

1.—(1) With the object of facilitating the introduction and use of electrical power on railways the Board of Trade may, upon the application of a railway company, make orders for all or any of the following purposes, namely:—

(a) authorising a railway company to use electricity in addition to or in substitution for any other motive power, and for any other purpose;

(b) authorising the company to construct and maintain generating stations or other electrical works on any land belonging to the company;

(c) authorising agreements between the company and any body corporate or other person for the supply to the company of electrical power or the supply to or use by the company of any electrical plant or equipment;

(d) sanctioning any modification of any working agreement so far as the modification is agreed to between the parties thereto, and is consequential on the introduction or use of electrical power;

(e) authorising the company to subscribe to any electrical undertaking which will facilitate the supply of electricity to the company;

(f) securing the safety of the public;

A.D. 1903.

(g) authorising the issue of new capital by the company for any of the purposes of this Act;

(h) any other matters, whether similar to the above or not, which may be considered ancillary to the objects of the order, or expedient for carrying those objects into effect.

(2) An order made by the Board of Trade under this Act shall, on coming into operation, have effect as if enacted by Parliament.

Acquisition of land for electrical works.

2.—(1) An order under this Act may contain provisions authorising the acquisition of land by any railway company for the purpose of constructing generating stations or other electrical works, but if power is given by order to acquire the land otherwise than by agreement, the order shall not come into operation, so far as it gives that power, unless confirmed by Parliament, and the Board of Trade may bring in a Bill for confirming the order.

(2) If while a Bill confirming any such order is pending in either House of Parliament a petition is presented against the order, the Bill, so far as it relates to the order, may be referred to a Select Committee, or, if the two Houses of Parliament think fit so to order, to a Joint Committee of those Houses, and the petitioner shall be allowed to appear and oppose as in the case of Private Bills.

Board of Trade inquiries.

3.—(1) Before making an order under this Act the Board of Trade shall be satisfied that the public notice required by rules made under this Act of the application for the order has been given, and shall consider any objections made by the council of any county, any local authority, or other person to the application in accordance with those rules, and give to those by whom the objection is made an opportunity of being heard, and if after consideration the Board decide that the objection should be upheld, the Board shall not make the order or shall modify the order so as to remove the objection.

(2) The Board of Trade may, if they think fit, hold a local inquiry for the purpose of considering any application for an order under this Act, and the Board of Trade Arbitrations, &c. Act, 1874, shall apply to any inquiry so held as if—

37 & 38 Vict. c. 40.

[Cf. 59 & 60 Vict. c. 48. s. 15.]

(a) the inquiry was held on an application made in pursuance of the special Act; and

(b) the parties making the application for the order and any person objecting to any such application were parties to the application within the meaning of section three of that Act.

Expenses and fees.

4.—(1) The Board of Trade may (with the concurrence of the Treasury as to number and remuneration) appoint or employ such persons as appear to them to be required for carrying this Act into effect, and the remuneration of such persons, and any other expenses of the Board of Trade under this Act, shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament.

(2) There shall be charged in respect of proceedings under this Act before the Board of Trade such fees as may be fixed by the Treasury on the recommendation of the Board of Trade.

Power to Board of Trade to make rules.

5. The Board of Trade may make such rules as they think necessary for regulating the notices and advertisements to be given of any application for an order under this Act or otherwise for the purposes of this Act, and any other matter which they think expedient to regulate by rule for the purpose of carrying this Act into effect.

Interpretation, saving, short title, and commencement.

6.—(1) In this Act the expression "railway company" includes a company or person working a railway under lease or otherwise.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall affect any powers which a railway company may have independently of this Act.

(3) This Act may be cited as the Railways (Electrical Power) Act, 1903.

(4) This Act shall come into operation on the first day of January nineteen hundred and four.

Royal Declaration Bill. [H.L.]

MEMORANDUM.

The Declaration.

1. The Declaration against Transubstantiation was a Declaration which had been required from holders of civil and military offices by the Test Act, and which members of both Houses of Parliament were, by 30 Car. 2. Stat. II., required to make before voting or taking their seats. By the Bill of Rights (1688) every king or queen succeeding to the Crown was required to make the Declaration, either on the first day of the meeting of the first Parliament after his or her accession, or at his or her coronation, whichever should first happen. The Act of Settlement (1701), which created a fresh limitation of the Crown, provided that every person who should succeed to the Crown under the limitation so created should make the Declaration in the manner prescribed by the Bill of Rights. These are the only statutes that require the Sovereign to make the Declaration.

The Coronation Oath.

2. The Coronation Oath was established in 1688 by 1 W. & M. c. 6. It provided that the Oath should be administered to every king or queen succeeding to the Crown at their respective coronations, and included a promise to maintain to the utmost of their power the laws of God, the true profession of the Gospel and the Protestant reformed religion as established by law, and to preserve unto the bishops and clergy of this realm and to the churches committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law appertained to them. The Act of Settlement required the Oath to be administered to persons succeeding to the Crown under the limitation created thereby. The Act of Union with Scotland (1706) made strict provisions for securing the establishment of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, and, by way of a quid pro quo, also provided for securing the establishment of the English Church, and to that end incorporated an Act which had been passed in the same session, and which provided, among other things, that every king or queen succeeding to the Crown of Great Britain should at his or her coronation take an oath to maintain and inviolably preserve the settlement of the Church of England and the doctrine, worship, discipline, and government thereof as by law established within the kingdoms of England and Ireland, the dominion of Wales, and the town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and the territories thereunto belonging. The Act of Union with Ireland (1800) provided that the Churches of England and Ireland as then by law established should be united into one Protestant Episcopal Church to be called the United Church of England and Ireland, and that the doctrine, worship, discipline, and government of the said United Church should remain in full force for ever, as the same were then by law established for the Church of England, and that the continuance and preservation of the said United Church, as the established Church of England and Ireland, should be deemed and taken to be an essential and fundamental part of the Union. The Coronation Oath was from time to time modified so as to comply with these provisions, and was again modified on the occasion of the King's Coronation in consequence of the disestablishment of the Irish Church. The words quoted in the Bill have, however, remained untouched.

Sec. 5.

Other Provisions for securing the Protestant Succession.

3. The Bill of Rights provided that persons being or becoming papists or marrying papists should be incapable of inheriting or possessing the Crown, and that in every such case the people should be absolved from their allegiance, and the Crown should pass to the next Protestant in the line of succession. The Act of Settlement applied these provisions to persons succeeding to the Crown under the limitation created by that Act, and the same provisions were applied by the two Acts of Union to persons succeeding to the Crown of the Kingdom of Great Britain and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland (see Art. 2 of the two Acts of Union). The Act of Settlement, moreover, in express terms limited the Crown to the Electress Sophia and the heirs of her body being Protestants, and this limitation also was by the two Acts of Union applied to the Crown of the Kingdom of Great Britain and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

4. As one of a series of further provisions for securing the religion, laws, and liberties of the people the Act of Settlement required every person who should thereafter come to the Crown to join in communion with the Church of England as by law established.

An Act to abolish the Declaration required to be made by the Sovereign on his Accession. A.D. 1903.

WHEREAS by the Bill of Rights and the Act of Settlement it is enacted that all and every person and persons who shall be reconciled to or shall hold communion with the See or Church of Rome, or shall profess the Popish religion, or shall marry a papist, shall be excluded and be for ever incapable of inheriting or possessing the Crown, and that in every such case the people shall be absolved from their allegiance, and the Crown shall pass to and be enjoyed by such person, being Protestant, as should have inherited and enjoyed the same in case the person so reconciled, holding communion, or professing or marrying as aforesaid, were naturally dead : 1 Will. & Mary, sess. 2, c. 2. 12 & 13 Will. 3. c. 2.

And whereas by the Act of Settlement the Crown was limited, to Sophia, Electress of Hanover, and the heirs of her body being Protestants, and it was further enacted that whosoever should thereafter come to the possession of the Crown shall join in communion with the Church of England as by law established :

And whereas by virtue of an Act made in the first year of the reign of King William and Queen Mary, intituled "An Act for establishing the Coronation Oath," every king or queen succeeding to the Crown of this Kingdom is required, at his or her coronation, to take the oath in such last-mentioned Act prescribed : 1 Will. & Mary, c. 6.

And whereas the person taking such oath doth, among other things, promise to the utmost of his or her power to maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the Gospel and the Protestant reformed religion established by law :

And whereas by the Union with Scotland Act, 1706, and the Union with Ireland Act, 1800, the provisions of the Bill of Rights and the Act of Settlement relating to the succession to the Crown and the exclusion therefrom of papists were made applicable to the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland : 6 Anne, c. 11. 39 & 40 Geo. 3. c. 67.

A.D. 1903.

And whereas the objects intended to be secured by the enactments herein-before referred to are sufficiently secured by such enactments:

And whereas by the Bill of Rights and the Act of Settlement every king and queen succeeding to the Crown of this Kingdom is required, at the time and place and in the manner in the Bill of Rights prescribed, to make, subscribe, and audibly repeat a certain Declaration which is set forth in the First Schedule to this Act annexed, being a Declaration which members of both Houses of Parliament were by an Act made in the thirtieth year of King Charles the Second required to make before voting or sitting therein:

30 Car. 2. Stat. II.

And whereas in the case of members of Parliament the liability to make the said Declaration was removed by the Roman Catholic Relief Act, 1829:

10 Geo. 4. c. 7.

And whereas the making of the said Declaration by the Sovereign is unnecessary and is, moreover, painful to the feelings of a large number of His Majesty's faithful subjects, and it is expedient that the said enactments requiring the same to be made should be repealed:

Be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. From and after the passing of this Act no king or queen succeeding to the Crown of this Kingdom shall be required at any time to make, subscribe, or repeat the said Declaration or any part thereof.

2. The Acts specified in the Second Schedule to this Act annexed are hereby repealed to the extent in the third column of that schedule mentioned.

3. This Act may be cited as the Royal Declaration Act, 1903.

SCHEDULE.

SCOTTISH EPISCOPAL CLERGY WIDOWS' AND ORPHANS' FUND.

Provisional Order to establish a Fund for providing Annuities for the Widows and Orphan Children of the Bishops and Clergy of the Episcopal Church in Scotland; and for other purposes.

WHEREAS the bishops and clergy commonly known as the bishops and clergy of the Episcopal Church in Scotland (hereinafter called "the Church") did upon the 13th day of November 1793 by virtue and in terms of the Act of Parliament 33 George III. cap. 54 entitled "An Act for the relief and encouragement of "Friendly Societies within Great Britain" form themselves into a friendly society under the name of "the Scotch Episcopal Friendly Society" (hereinafter called "the Society") for the purpose of raising and establishing a fund called in the rules of the Society "the General Fund" for the relief of widows and orphan children of the original members of the Society and of those of members afterwards to be admitted and for the relief under specified circumstances of such of the members themselves as should be in indigent circumstances:

And whereas the Society raised the general fund and has administered the same under its articles or rules as originally framed or as from time to time revised altered or amended under the laws for the time being regulating friendly societies:

And whereas for more than half a century the Society has taken no action for carrying into effect the relief of its members in indigent circumstances and under its present rules uses the general fund solely for the relief of the widows and children of its members:

And whereas many of the bishops and clergy of the Church are not members of the Society and in the event of their leaving widows and children such widows and children would not be entitled to relief from its funds:

And whereas there was formed in the year 1876 a representative body of the Church called "the Representative Church Council" (hereinafter called "the Church Council") which is recognised by the canons of the Church as the organ of the Church in matters of finance:

And whereas one of the objects of the Church Council as defined in the constitution thereof is the raising of a fund for the widows and children of the clergy of the church:

And whereas the Church Council annually raises inter alia certain funds viz.—(1) a clergy sustentation fund (2) a home mission fund and (3) an aged and infirm clergy fund which are administered by it in making additions to the incomes of the bishops and clergy of the Church including special provision for clergy with smaller stipends and in making provision for the bishops and clergy of the Church who through age or infirmity are incapacitated for the discharge of their sacred duties and thereby fulfils the object of the Society not now discharged by it of relieving such of its members as may be in indigent circumstances:

And whereas it is expedient that the work of the Society for the relief of the widows and children of the clergy should be extended and placed on a wider basis and such object can best be secured by transferring the property and liabilities of the Society to a body in the management of which the Church Council shall be represented so that the work may be carried on in alliance with the Church Council:

And whereas it has been agreed between the Society and the Church Council that a body shall be incorporated to be called "the "Corporation of the Scottish Episcopal Clergy Widows' and Orphans' "Fund" (hereinafter called "the Corporation") to which the general fund of the Society shall be transferred for the purpose of continuing the annuities at present paid by the Society to the widows and children of now deceased members of the Society and for the purpose of paying the annuities to the widows and children of present members of the Society for which the Society is liable on the decease of such members and for the further purpose of providing annuities to the widows and children of all bishops and clergy of the Church whether at present members of the Society or not who may in terms of this Order become members of the Corporation and conform to the regulations thereof and that the Society shall be dissolved:

thereon (all of which if not paid to the Corporation shall be burdens upon and deductible from the annuities to which the widows and children of such members would be entitled in respect of their being widows and children of members of the Society) no contributions shall be payable by members of the Society as such to the Corporation in respect of the annuities secured to their widows and children in terms of the rules of the Society and that such other modifications in reference to the contributions of such members as are hereinafter provided shall be made:

And whereas it has been agreed between the Society and the Church Council that the provision in the rules of the Society that any member thereof who should leave Scotland to exercise his ministry in any Church in communion with the Church should ipso facto forfeit his membership in the Society but be entitled on granting a discharge on behalf of himself his wife and children of all claims against the Society to receive back a certain part of the payments which had been made by him to the Society shall be cancelled and that no member of the Society so leaving Scotland and so exercising his ministry shall be held as having thereby forfeited all or any of his rights as a member of the Society so far as his widow and children are concerned and that he shall have no right to receive back any part of the payments made by him to the Society:

And whereas it has been agreed between the Society and the Church Council that the present members of the Society shall be members of the Corporation in respect of their membership of the Society and that it shall be optional to all members of the Society to become also ordinary members of the Corporation or not as they may elect and that whether they continue in or change their present spheres of duty and that it shall be optional to all other bishops and clergy of the Church except as hereinafter provided to become ordinary members of the Corporation:

And whereas it has been agreed between the Society and the Church Council that in the case of all bishops and clergy receiving part of their incomes from the Church Council and becoming ordinary members of the Corporation their contributions to the Corporation if not punctually paid by them shall be paid for them by the Church Council in so far as their incomes derived from the Church Council are sufficient to meet the same and that the amount so paid for them shall be deducted by the Church Council from the part of their incomes payable to them by the Church Council:

A.D. 1903.

And whereas the Church Council has agreed on the commencement of this Order to pay to the Corporation the sum of 2,500*l.*:

And whereas it is expedient that effect should be given in this Order to the various matters so agreed between the Society and the Church Council:

And whereas certain funds have been from time to time entrusted to the Society or its committee of management office-bearers or trustees for special purposes not connected with the relief of the widows and children of its members which funds are administered by it in terms of the particular trusts on which it holds the same and certain funds have been from time to time deposited with the Society for special purposes not connected with the relief of the widows and children of its members all which funds are called in its rules and accounts "special funds":

And whereas the Church Council under its constitution has power to act as trustee of funds entrusted to its charge for special purposes and subject to special conditions and administers trust funds entrusted to its charge in terms of the trusts affecting the same:

And whereas it is expedient and has been agreed between the Society and the Church Council that the special funds of the Society shall on the commencement of this Order be transferred to the trustees of the Church Council and that the same shall thereupon be held by such trustees and their successors in office and administered by the Church Council on the same trusts and for the same purposes on and for which the same are held by the Society:

And whereas it is expedient that the other provisions contained in this Order and in the First Schedule hereto should be made:

And whereas the assets now constituting the general fund and the special funds of the Society embrace the assets set out in the Second and Third Schedules to this Order the values thereof as appearing in the accounts of the Society being also set out in the said schedules:

And whereas the assets representing the general fund and special funds respectively have become intermixed and it is expedient for the purposes of this Order that the same should be divided and that the assets contained in the Second Schedule should be declared to belong to the general fund and the assets contained in the Third Schedule should be declared to belong to the special funds:

And whereas by special resolution passed by the Society at a special general meeting thereof held on 14th October 1902 and confirmed at a special general meeting thereof held on 13th November 1902 the Society has approved of and consented to the draft of this Order subject to such additions alterations and variations as may be made thereon during the progress thereof:

Shops (Early Closing) Bill. [H.L.]

MEMORANDUM.

During the last 30 years the early closing of shops has been frequently before the House of Commons, and in 1886 the Shop Hours' Regulation Bill, which deals with young persons under 18, became law. That Bill was referred by the House of Commons to a Select Committee which took a great deal of evidence, and so impressed were they with the magnitude and gravity of the evil, that besides passing the Bill they presented to the House a Special Report suggesting legislation on the lines of the present Early Closing Bill.

The report which was adopted unanimously, called attention to the fact that "the practice of keeping open shops until a late "hour of the evening prevails extensively"; "that the hours of "shop assistants range, in many places, as high as 84 per week, "that such hours must be generally injurious, and often ruinous, "to health"; "That the great majority of witnesses expressed "their opinion that little could be expected from voluntary "action in the poorer neighbourhoods, and that nothing short "of legislation would be effective"; and the Committee ended by expressing their opinion that "employers are not indisposed to "such limitation provided it takes the form of a general early "closing of shops."

This report was brought to the attention of the Presidents of the two great Colleges—the College of Physicians and the College of Surgeons—and in conjunction with Sir James Paget, Sir W. Priestley, Sir S. Wilks, Sir R. Quain, Sir A. Clark, and Dr. Playfair, they issued a circular inviting the opinion of London medical men to the subject, and the result was a memorial—technically, a petition—signed by over 300 of the London doctors, stating that "having had our attention called to the very late "hours to which shops are open, and being satisfied that such "prolonged hours of labour are grievously injurious to health, "especially in the case of women, pray your Honourable House "to enact the Early Closing Bill introduced by Sir J. Lubbock."

The Presidents of both the College of Physicians and the College of Surgeons gave similar evidence before the House of Lords Committee of last year.

from a moral and religious point of view, and a petition in support of the Bill was presented by a large majority of the clergy of London.

No doubt the injury is greatest in the case of women, and a similar memorial was presented, signed by some 400 of the nurses in our great metropolitan hospitals.

A great deal has been done of late to improve the moral and intellectual condition of our London people, but what use are evening schools, or polytechnics, or public libraries, to shop-keeper and assistants who are at work till, 9, 10, or 11 o'clock at night.

The House of Commons Committee reported that in many places the hours of labour in shops amount to 84 in the week, or about 30 hours a week more than artisans. Eighty-four hours a week is 14 hours a day; if we allow eight for sleep—little enough under such circumstances—there remain two hours out of the 24 for dressing and undressing, for going to and from the work, for breakfast and supper. Not an hour, not a moment, is left for amusement, for fresh air, for self-improvement or family intercourse. No wonder their health breaks down, no wonder our medical men made their solemn protest.

> In March 1893, the House of Commons unanimously resolved "That in the opinion of this House, the excessive "and unnecessarily long hours of labour in shops are "injurious to the comfort, health, and well-being of all "concerned; and that it is desirable to give to local "authorities such powers as may be necessary to enable "them to carry out the general wishes of the shop-keeping "community with reference to the hours of closing."

In pursuance of this resolution the present Bill was introduced. It is proposed that the shopkeepers in any locality should be authorised to memorialise the local authority and that the local authority should then be empowered to close the shops (with one or two specified exceptions) at the hour named; and that with the same safeguards the local authority should be empowered to enact a half-holiday. It has twice passed through second reading in the House of Commons without opposition. The provisions have been approved by two House of Commons' Committees, and all the amendments suggested by the Home Office have been introduced. The promoters, however, owing to the House of Commons rules, were never able to get a day for the third reading.

the House of Commons rules, were never able to get a day for the third reading.

The classes primarily affected by the Bill are the assistants, the customers, and the shopkeepers, and the Bill has the support of all three.

In almost every great city one or more public meetings, with the Mayor in the Chair—Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Bristol, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and many more—have been held in support of the Bill, and it is not known that there has ever been one against it. Again, petitions with thousands of signatures have been presented for the Bill, and scarcely any against it. The Trades Councils of London, Manchester, Liverpool, Bristol, Hull, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dublin, and other places, may fairly be taken to represent the views of working men and they have passed unanimous resolutions in favour of the Bill.

The shopkeepers are warm supporters of the Bill. The Committee of last year reported that by evidence, petition, or resolution, they had ascertained the views of 300 tradesmen's associations in all parts of the country, that over 290 supported, and only two opposed the Bill. It is, in fact, the Shopkeepers' Bill. They only ask Parliament to grant them the power and they will shorten the hours. The petitions in favour of the Bill were to a great extent signed by shopkeepers. As regards London a petition in its favour has been signed by more than half the shopkeepers affected. The Bill has also been considered clause by clause, and line by line, and approved by two important Congresses of shopkeepers, one held at Nottingham and one at Glasgow.

The House of Lords Committee of 1901 reported unanimously that "the evidence has convinced us that earlier closing would be "an immense boon to the shopkeeping community, to shopkeepers "and shop assistants alike; . . . that the present hours are "grievously injurious to health, especially in the case of women"; "and that "the subject is one of urgent importance," . . . "as "such serious warnings from the heads of the medical "profession cannot, in our judgment, safely be disregarded."

INTITULED

An Act to provide for the earlier closing of Shops. A.D. 1903.

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Application to local authority, and draft order for closing of shops.

1.—(1) If an application be made to the council of any county or borough, praying them to make a draft order for the closing throughout the county or borough or any specified part thereof of any class or classes of shops on such days and at such hours as may be specified in the application, and if the council are satisfied that at least two-thirds of the occupiers of the shops affected approve the application, then the council shall give public notice of the receipt of such application and of the period within which objections may be made thereto.

(2) The council, after due consideration of any objections received and of the area and classes affected by the application and of any other matters affecting the question, may submit to the central authority a draft order for the closing of any class of shops specified in the application on such days and at such hours not being earlier than the hours hereafter mentioned as the council may think fit.

(3) The hour fixed by the draft order for the closing of shops may on any one specified day of the week be any hour not earlier than one o'clock in the afternoon, but save as aforesaid shall not on any day be earlier than seven o'clock in the evening, and in neither case shall be earlier than any hour named in the application.

(4) For the purposes of this section, the council shall have power to frame such classification of shops, according to trades, as they may deem necessary, having regard to the circumstances of the locality.

A.D. 1903.

2. Where any shop is carried on by two or more persons in partnership, they shall be counted for the purposes of this section and of section three as a single occupier.

Provisional orders giving effect to draft orders.

3.—(1) The central authority shall not take any action on a draft order submitted to it under the preceding section until at least one month after the council have published it in such manner as the central authority may direct.

(2) The central authority shall consider any objections to the draft order that may be addressed to it by persons affected, or likely to be affected thereby; and may, if it thinks fit, order that a local inquiry be held with respect to the draft order, or with respect to any objections thereto. The person holding any such inquiry shall receive such remuneration as the central authority may determine, and that remuneration and the expenses of the local inquiry shall be paid by the council.

(3) After such consideration as aforesaid, the central authority may lay the draft order, either without modification or with such modifications as it may think fit, before Parliament for a period of not less than forty days during the Session of Parliament, and if either House before the expiration of that period presents an address to His Majesty against the draft order, or any part thereof, no further proceedings shall be taken thereon, but without prejudice to the making of any new draft order.

(4) At the expiration of the period of forty days, if no such address has been presented to His Majesty, the central authority may make an order in the terms of the draft order.

Revocation of order.

4. If at any time it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the council that the occupiers of more than one-third in number of any class of shops to which an order for the time being in force under this Act relates are opposed to the continuance of the order, the council shall make a report accordingly to the central authority, who may thereupon revoke the order in so far as it affects such class of shops.

Closing of shop where two or more trades carried on.

5.—(1) Nothing in this Act or in any order made thereunder shall apply to any shop in which the only trade carried on is one of the trades specified in the schedule.

(2) A shop in which two or more trades are carried on shall be closed for the purpose of all such trades at the hour at which it is by any order under this Act required to be closed for the purpose of any of them. Provided that if any such trade is carried on solely in a part of the shop structually separate from the rest of the shop, it shall be deemed to be carried on in a separate shop.

A.D. 1903.

Fine for contravention of order.

6. The occupier of any shop contravening any provision of an order made under this Act shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five shillings, and in case of a second conviction not exceeding twenty shillings, and in case of a third or subsequent conviction not exceeding five pounds.

Provision in case of offence committed by agent or servant.

7.—(1) Where an offence for which the occupier of a shop is liable under this Act to a fine has in fact been committed by some agent or servant of such occupier, such agent or servant shall be liable to the same fine as if he were the occupier.

Shops (Hours of Closing) Bill. [H.L.]

MEMORANDUM.

A Select Committee of the House of Lords was appointed in 1901 to inquire into the length of the hours of labour in shops, and whether any, and if so, what steps should be taken to reduce them. The Committee reported unanimously that earlier closing would be an immense boon to the shopkeeping community, to shopkeepers, and shop assistants alike, and that the present hours are grievously injurious to health, especially in the case of women. The Committee recommended unanimously that town councils should be authorised to pass Provisional Orders, making such regulations in respect to the closing of shops as may seem to them to be necessary for the areas under their jurisdiction, and that these Provisional Orders should be submitted to Parliament in the usual manner before acquiring the force of law. This Bill is introduced for the purpose of carrying out the recommendation of the Committee.

(2) While a prohibition order is in force the laws relating to Customs shall apply as if the sugar in respect of which the Order is made were specified in the table of prohibitions and restrictions inwards contained in section forty-two of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876.

(4) An Order made under this section shall not apply to molasses nor, except as expressly mentioned in this section, to sugar in transit.

(5) Any share of the expenses on account of the organisation and working of the Permanent Commission as determined in pursuance of the Convention, and any expenses incurred in connection with the attendance of delegates at the Commission, shall be paid out of moneys provided by Parliament.

Regulations as to sugar refineries and factories.

2. His Majesty may, by Order in Council, declare that every sugar factory and sugar refinery and factory for the extraction of sugar from molasses in the United Kingdom shall be subject to the supervision either of the Commissioners of Customs or of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue; and those Commissioners may respectively make regulations—

(a) for prohibiting the carrying on of any such factory or refinery otherwise than by persons authorised, and in premises approved, by the Commissioners and, if required, entered for the purpose; and for giving officers of the Commissioners powers of entry into any part of the premises at any time; and

(b) for securing the payment of duty (including any charge which there is power to make under the law for the time being in force, on the delivery of goods for home consumption), and regulating the time and mode of, and the general arrangements to be made for, that payment, and for preventing any claim to drawback where duty has not been paid, and for regulating the removal of any sugar to or from the premises, the storage of finished sugar, and the return of sugar for the purpose of further refinement; and

(c) for making such entries in relation to the various processes in the manufacture of sugar as may be required by the Commissioners, and for enabling the officers of the Commissioners to inspect those entries; and

An Act to amend the Acts relating to Electric Lighting. A.D. 1903.

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Compulsory acquisition of land for generating stations.

1. The Board of Trade may by Provisional Order—

(a) authorise any local authority, company, or person, who are authorised by the same or any previous Provisional Order or by Act of Parliament to supply electricity in any area, to acquire compulsorily for the purpose of a generating station any land specified in the Order, whether situated within or without the area of supply, and in the case of a local authority, whether situated within or without their district; and

(b) for the purpose of enabling electricity to be brought into an area of supply from a generating station situated outside that area, apply to any roads, railways, or tramways situated outside that area, the provisions of the Electric Lighting Acts which authorise, or enable the Board of Trade to authorise, the breaking up of any road, railway, or tramway so far as those provisions do not already so apply.

Supply in bulk.

2. The Board of Trade may by Provisional Order—

(a) authorise any company or person to supply electricity in bulk within any area for the purpose of distribution in that area by any local authority, company, or person authorised to supply electricity in the area; and

A.D. 1903.

(b) provide for the compulsory supply of electricity by any company or person so supplying electricity in bulk in any area to any local authority, company, or person authorised to supply electricity in the area; and

(c) define what are to be the limits of supply for the purpose of the provisions of the Gasworks Clauses Act, 1847, incorporated in the Electric Lighting Act, 1882, in the case of a company or person so supplying electricity in bulk; and

(d) make such other provisions as appear to them necessary for adapting the Electric Lighting Acts to any case where a company or person are authorised to supply electricity only in bulk in any area.

Provisions as to right of local authority to purchase.

3.—(1) The Board of Trade may by Provisional Order exclude the application of the power of purchase given by section two of the Electric Lighting Act, 1888, in the case of any undertaking to which they consider it is inapplicable, either by reason of the undertaking being situate in a large number of districts, or by reason of the objects of the undertaking not being such as can be properly carried out by local authorities, or by reason of any other special circumstances affecting the undertaking, but before doing so shall cause notice to be given to any local authorities who would have the right to purchase under the said section, and shall consider any objection made by any of those authorities.

(2) The power of the local authority to purchase an undertaking under section two of the Electric Lighting Act, 1888, both as respects undertakings authorised before the passing of this Act, and as respects undertakings authorised after the passing of this Act—

(a) shall extend so as to authorise the purchase of any generating station, mains, or other works used solely for supplying electricity for the purpose of the undertaking, notwithstanding that the station, mains, or works are situated outside the area of supply, or outside the district of the local authority; but

(b) shall not extend so as to authorise the purchase by a local authority of any generating station situated in their district, which is not used for the supply of electricity within some part of the district.

Incorporation of provisions of Lands

4.—(1) For the purpose of the acquisition of land authorised to be taken compulsorily under a Provisional Order made in pursuance of this Act, the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act which relate to the purchase and taking of lands otherwise than by agreement, and to the entry upon lands by the promoters of the undertaking, are, subject to the modifications set out in the Schedule to this Act, incorporated with the Electric Lighting Acts, as well as the provisions of those Acts already so incorporated by the Electric Lighting Act, 1882. A.D. 1903. Clauses Act for taking land otherwise than by agreement.

(2) Rules made by the Board of Trade under section five of the Electric Lighting Act, 1882, shall provide for proper notice being given of an application for a Provisional Order by which it is proposed to take land compulsorily, to owners, lessees, and occupiers of land, and also for public notice being given of the proposal by advertisement.

5. The Board of Trade may, with the concurrence of the Local Government Board, by Provisional Order make such provisions as appear to them necessary or expedient, by the constitution of a joint committee or joint board or otherwise, for the joint exercise of the powers under the Electric Lighting Acts by two or more local authorities as respects any area of supply consisting of the whole or parts of the districts of those authorities, in any case where it appears to them that the joint exercise of those powers would be expedient. Exercise of electric lighting by authorities jointly.

6.—(1) The Board of Trade shall, on considering whether any Provisional Order should or should not be granted, take into consideration the views of the local authorities affected on the subject, but in cases where the consent of the local authority is not given, may grant the Order or not at their discretion. Provision as to consents of local authorities to grant of Provisional Order.

(3) The notice required by section four of the Electric Lighting Act, 1882, to be given to a local authority on or before the first day of July, need not be given to the local authority of a district in which it is not intended to take power to distribute electricity.

7. With a view to making five years the ordinary period of revision of maximum price and allowing representations as to revision to be made by consumers, sub-section two of section thirty-two of the Schedule to the Electric Lighting (Clauses) Act, 1899, shall, for the purpose of incorporation with any Act or Order passed or confirmed after the commencement of this Act, be read as if the words "five years" were substituted for the words "seven years," and the words "or twenty consumers" were inserted after the words "either the local authority or the undertakers." Amendment of 62 & 63 Vict. c. 19. as to revision of maximum price.

A.D. 1903.

Revision of price in case of existing companies.

8. Where any Act or Provisional Order passed or confirmed before the commencement of this Act enables the Board of Trade to revise or vary any maximum prices to be charged for electricity, that Act or Order shall be construed—

(a) So as to enable the revision or variation to take place at an interval of five years after the commencement of the Act or Order, or the last revision, in cases where a longer interval is fixed by the Act or Order; and

(b) So as to enable the power of revision or variation to be exercised on the representation of twenty consumers, in cases where the power cannot under the Act or Order be exercised on such a representation or the representation of a less number of consumers.

Electric light accounts.

9. For the purposes of section nine of the Electric Lighting Act, 1882, the accounts of any undertakers being a local authority shall be made up to the thirty-first day of March in each year, and accordingly as respects those accounts the thirtieth day of June shall be substituted in that section for the twenty-fifth day of March, and the thirty-first day of March for the thirty-first day of December: Provided that if any such undertakers show to the Board of Trade that some other dates are, owing to special circumstances, more convenient in their case than the thirty-first day of March and the thirtieth day of June, the Board of Trade may substitute such other dates for the said thirty-first day of March and thirtieth day of June, and this section shall as respects those undertakers be construed with the substituted dates.

Supply of electricity to premises having separate supply.

10. Notwithstanding anything in the Electric Lighting Acts or in any Act of Parliament or Provisional Order authorising an undertaking, a person shall not be entitled to demand from undertakers authorised to supply electricity in any area a supply of electricity for any premises having a separate supply, unless he has agreed with the undertakers to pay to them such minimum annual sum as will give them a reasonable return on the capital expenditure, and will cover other standing charges, incurred by them, in order to meet the possible maximum demand for those premises; the sum to be so paid shall be determined in default of agreement by arbitration under the Electric Lighting Act, 1882.

Extension of 23 & 24 Vict. c. 142. to benefices outside London.

1. The Union of Benefices Act, 1860 (herein-after referred to as "the principal Act"), shall extend to the whole of England and Wales and to the Isle of Man and Channel Islands, but in its application to the union of benefices outside the metropolis shall be subject to the following modifications, namely: —

(1) References to the Bishop of the Diocese of London or of Winchester shall be construed as references to the bishop of the diocese in which the benefices are situate, and references to the metropolis or the vicinity thereof shall be construed as references to that diocese.

(2) The Commissioners for inquiring into and reporting upon the expediency of any proposed union of benefices shall be members of the Church of England, of whom two, one being a layman, shall be nominated by the bishop, one by the patron of each of the benefices, one by the vestry of each of the ecclesiastical parishes to be united, and a magistrate, being a layman nominated by the person who has presided as chairman of the last preceding quarter sessions for the county or division of the county, or if there be no such person then by the lord lieutenant of the county: Provided that if the same person is patron of more than one of the benefices he shall not nominate more than one commissioner, and if any person other than the bishop entitled to nominate a commissioner fails to do so within one month after notice from the bishop requiring any such nomination to be made, the right to nominate shall be transferred to the bishop.

(3) Four of the commissioners, of whom one shall be a lay commissioner, shall constitute a quorum.

(4) Where the bishop on the recommendation of the commissioners causes proposals for a scheme of union to be prepared, he shall send the proposals in the first instance to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners shall prepare a scheme and shall send the draft thereof to the patrons of the benefices affected thereby, and to the churchwardens of the parishes, to be considered by the parishioners in vestry assembled, and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, after considering any objections which may be urged within two months by the patrons or vestries, may submit the scheme with or without modifications to His Majesty in Council, and thereupon the provisions of section eight of the principal Act, relating to the making of Orders in Council and proceedings consequent thereon, shall apply, and save as aforesaid, the procedure under sections seven and eight of the principal Act shall not apply.

(5) The seven years referred to in the proviso to section eleven of the principal Act shall be the seven years immediately preceding a date to be fixed by a scheme under this Act.

(6) The costs of and incidental to any union of benefices shall be defrayed out of the proceeds of any property dealt with by the scheme or otherwise provided as the scheme may direct.

(7) Any surplus arising from a sale of any property or materials belonging to a benefice and sold in pursuance of any scheme or Order under the principal Act shall be applicable by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, with the consent in writing of the bishop, towards the stipend of an assistant curate or curates for the united parish, or for the benefit of the same or any other benefice in the same diocese, notwithstanding the provisions of section fourteen of the principal Act.

Disposal of unnecessary chapels of ease.

2. If it appears to the bishop that any consecrated chapel of ease within his diocese is unnecessary, and that it is expedient that it should be sold or otherwise disposed of, the bishop may, with the consent of the incumbent and vestry of the ecclesiastical parish within which the chapel of ease is situate, and of the patron of the chapel, cause proposals for a scheme for the sale of the chapel, or for its appropriation to other purposes, to be prepared and transmitted to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners may prepare a scheme for effecting the sale or other disposal of the chapel and for providing for the application of the proceeds of any sale, and for any other matters incidental to the sale or disposal, and thereupon the like provisions shall apply as in the case of a scheme for the union of benefices prepared under section one of this Act.

Extent of Act.

3. This Act shall extend to the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands, and the Royal Courts of the Channel Islands shall register this Act accordingly.

INTITULED

An Act to confirm a Provisional Order under the Private Legislation Procedure (Scotland) Act 1899 relating to Wick and Pulteney Harbours. A.D. 1903.

WHEREAS His Majesty's Secretary for Scotland has made the Provisional Order set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed under the provisions of the Private Legislation Procedure (Scotland) Act 1899 and it is requisite that the said Order should be confirmed by Parliament: 62 & 63 Vict. c. 47.

Be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons in this present Parliament assembled and by the authority of the same as follows:

1. The Provisional Order contained in the schedule hereunto annexed shall be and the same is hereby confirmed. Confirmation of Order in schedule.

2. This Act may be cited as the Wick and Pulteney Harbours Order Confirmation Act 1903. Short title.

A.D. 1903.

SCHEDULE.

WICK AND PULTENEY HARBOURS.

Provisional Order to authorise the Wick and Pulteney Harbours Trustees to construct additional works to amend the Wick and Pulteney Harbours Acts 1879 to 1899 to confer borrowing powers and for other purposes.

WHEREAS by the Pulteney Harbour Act 1879 (herein-after called "the Act of 1879") the harbour of Pulteneytown as therein defined (herein-after called "the harbour") was subject to the existing liabilities and encumbrances affecting the same transferred to and vested in certain Trustees appointed to be elected in manner therein provided and thereby incorporated under the name and style of the Pulteney Harbour Trustees (herein-after called "the Trustees") and powers were conferred upon the Trustees to maintain and improve the harbour to levy and demand certain rates and duties and to borrow money on the security thereof and of the other revenues of the Trustees:

And whereas by the Pier and Harbour Orders Confirmation (No. 1) Act 1883 a Provisional Order made by the Board of Trade (herein-after called "the Order of 1883") was confirmed under which the name and style of the Trustees was changed to "The Wick and Pulteney Harbours Trustees" and further powers were conferred upon the Trustees for the construction of certain works for the improvement of the harbour and for raising money for the execution of such works and for certain other purposes:

And whereas by the Wick and Pulteney Harbours Act 1899 certain amendments were made on the Act of 1879 and the Order of 1883 with respect to the qualification registration and election of the Trustees and further powers were conferred upon the Trustees to construct a tidal basin for fishing boats and other works and to borrow money for the purposes of the said works:

And whereas since the passing of the Act of 1899 the introduction of steam vessels in the prosecution of the herring fishing on the north-east coast of Scotland of greater size than the ordinary sailing fishing craft has rendered the accommodation afforded at the harbour totally inadequate for the existing requirements and the works authorised by the Act of 1899 would if executed prove insufficient to meet the traffic of the harbour and to afford a safe shelter to the fleet of fishing vessels now frequenting the harbour : A.D. 1903.

And whereas it is expedient that new and additional accommodation and shelter for the fishing fleet on the north and north-east coast of Scotland should be provided at the harbour and that the Trustees should be authorised to construct the works herein-after mentioned :

And whereas in consequence of the altered conditions of the fishing industry and especially of the introduction of steam propulsion in fishing vessels the works authorised by the Act of 1899 have not been proceeded with by the Trustees except to a small extent and the borrowing powers conferred on them by that Act have not been exercised :

And whereas it is expedient to amend the provisions of the said recited Acts and Order with respect to the qualification disqualification and registration of electors for the election of elected Trustees in the classes of shipowners of the burgh and ratepayers of the harbour and to provide for the qualification of females to vote in the election of elected Trustees :

And whereas it is expedient that after a certain portion of the works authorised by this Order sufficient to give substantial refuge to the fishing fleet is constructed the Trustees should have powers to revise and increase the rates and duties leviable at the harbour under the Act of 1899 :

And whereas it is expedient to authorise the Trustees to apply their funds to and to borrow money for the purposes of this Order and that the powers herein-after contained with respect thereto should be conferred on the Trustees :

And whereas it is expedient that the town council of the royal burgh of Wick being a rating authority within the meaning of section 7 of the Public Works Loans Act 1882 should be authorised to guarantee as and by way of collateral security as herein-after provided such sum or sums for such period and on such conditions as are herein-after prescribed towards the payment of the annual interest and principal and instalments of principal of the moneys to be borrowed for the purposes of this Order or under the powers of this Order :

And whereas it is reasonable and proper that in the event of the town council of the royal burgh of Wick advancing or paying any moneys in respect of such guarantee under the powers conferred by this Order the assessments on the harbour and property of the Trustees within the harbour area for all municipal purposes leviable by the said town council should be imposed on the full annual value of the harbour as entered in the valuation roll of the said burgh for the time being when and so long as any moneys so paid or advanced as aforesaid shall remain unpaid by the Trustees:

And whereas it is expedient to confer on the Trustees the other powers in this Order mentioned:

And whereas plans and sections showing the lines situation and levels of the works authorised by this Order and the lands and property that may be acquired therefor and also a book of reference containing the names of the owners and lessees or the reputed owners or reputed lessees and of the occupiers of such lands and property were duly deposited with the principal sheriff clerk of the county of Caithness at his office in Wick and with the clerk of the parish council of the parish of Wick at his office in Wick and with the town clerk of the royal burgh of Wick at his office there which plans sections and book of reference are herein-after respectively referred to as the deposited plans sections and book of reference:

And whereas the purposes aforesaid cannot be effected without an Order of the Secretary for Scotland confirmed by Parliament under the provisions of the Private Legislation Procedure (Scotland) Act 1899:

Now therefore in pursuance of the powers contained in the last-mentioned Act the Secretary for Scotland orders as follows:—
